See Price-Wage Controls Inevitable, Set No Date

WASHINGTON (AP) — Influential White House officials said Thursday night that eventual price and wage controls are inevitable.

The date of their imposition, they said, depends primarily on the time required to set up the necessary administrative machinery.

These reliable sources said drastic steps will have to be taken to meet the new crisis arising out of the Chinese Communist invasion of Korea and its threat of a possible third World War.

White House officials said they did not expect action quickly because of the immensity of the problem of enforcement.

"It will take a small army of men to enforce price controls," one of them said. "It is a step that no one likes to take."

Meantime, the government took two moves Thursday to hold down prices:

1. The economic stabilization administration asked General Motors and Ford to suspend auto price increases announced this week, and requested other motor car makers to withhold any contemplated price boosts.

2. The senate and house passed bills to prolong rent controls. The senate bill would extend them for 60 days beyond Dec. 31, the house bill for 90 days. Differences will be ironed out in conference.

In Detroit, General Motors and Ford said the government's hold-the-line request had not yet been received. Both declined comment.

Whatever wage controls are agreed upon will be wage "stabilization," informants said. They did not define the term.

All-out economic mobilization could include such steps as wage-price ceilings, deep cuts in consumer goods production, in order to channel men and materials into defense output, allocations of materials, etc.

Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath said Thursday night the government must strike a fine balance between too many and too few economic controls in the current period of military preparedness.

At the same time he recommended that the production of materials for both military and civilian needs be spread out to include both large and small business.

McGrath asserted:

"The entire mobilization program should be so administered as to:

(1) Provide for adequate military programs and at the same time equitably distribute the diminished balance of materials within the civilian economy;

(2) Expand our capacity of scarce materials to a degree sufficient to handle the requirements of military and civilian demand;

(3) Preserve the free enterprise system with due regard to the special problems of small business."

Panacea Loses Cast Member

Panacea's 1951 production, "In the Pink," lost one of its actresses the week when Judie Sloan resigned from her part as Mama Tody.

She was to portray a feminine saloon-keeper on the "Isle of Wan-noku."

Miss Sloan, A4, New York City, Thursday declined to comment on why she quit the cast Wednesday evening, just two days after receiving her copy of the play's script.

Ronald Butler, A2, Newton, director of the play, said Miss Sloan came to him just before rehearsal Wednesday and said she wished to quit.

"I was particularly unhappy about losing her," Butler said, "because we had the cast settled and were ready to do some hard work on polishing the play."

"She came up to me just as the rest of the staff was coming in," Butler said, "and asked to be removed from the cast. She said she had shown the script to some of her friends and they had advised her to get out of it."

Maytags Newton Firm To Make Bomb Plugs

NEWTON (AP) — Officials of the Maytag company said Thursday the firm had received a sub-contract to manufacture base nose plugs for demolition bombs.

The company, which manufactures washing machines and other appliances, will turn out the bomb nose plugs in its plant here.

Gone the Way of 5-Cent Coffee

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The price of Coca-Cola was upped to six cents a bottle here Thursday.

A spokesman for the Coca-Cola Bottling company of St. Louis said the increase is a direct result of a hike in the wholesale price from 80 to 96 cents a case.

He said that coin-operated vending machines owned by the company would be altered to require an extra penny for a "coke" in the future.

Truman, Attlee to End Talks on Korea Today

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Truman and British Prime Minister Clement Attlee met again Thursday and announced they would tell the results of their conferences in a joint communiqué.

Meantime, the government took two moves Thursday to hold down prices:

1. The economic stabilization administration asked General Motors and Ford to suspend auto price increases announced this week, and requested other motor car makers to withhold any contemplated price boosts.

2. The senate and house passed bills to prolong rent controls. The senate bill would extend them for 60 days beyond Dec. 31, the house bill for 90 days. Differences will be ironed out in conference.

Campus Leaders Discuss Petition, Cry 'Appeasement'

Cries of "appeasement" and "international blackmail" sparked the discussion Thursday night of the Young Progressives' peace petition.

The petition has three points: (1) an immediate cease fire order in Korea, (2) recognition of Communist China by the UN and (3) negotiations within and outside the UN to prevent World War III.

David Stanley, L1, Iowa City, representative of the United World Federalists, attacked the Progressives' proposal to recognize China.

"It would be nothing short of international blackmail to recognize China after it has made us do so by force of arms," Stanley said.

Frivol Editor Ted Leighton Thursday announced that the December issue of the magazine will be distributed Saturday and Sunday.

The petition was comprised of residents from Hillcrest, Quadrangle and South Quadrangle men's dormitories.

The committee members said the letter has been sent to the individual dormitories for their approval before being forwarded to the board of student publications.

China: Place of Mystery, Survey Shows

The Far East is indeed a mysterious place as far as most Iowa Citians are concerned. A Daily Iowan survey showed this week.

Ninety-five SUI students and Iowa Citians were asked to estimate the population and area of China, and the results showed that most local people have been letting dust gather on the covers of their geography books.

Guesses on the population of China ranged all the way from 10-million to 800-million and estimates on the size of the country were from "the size of California" to "three and one-half times the size of the U.S."

Since there never has been an accurate census of the Chinese, geographers are forced to estimate the nation's population and The Daily Iowan counted all estimates within 25-million above or below the estimate used in "Goode's School Atlas" as correct.

Twenty-three respondents estimated the population within the margin of error allowed. This was only 25 percent of the people polled.

Larger than U.S.

Twenty Iowa Citians thought the area of China was larger than the U.S. and 19 thought it was the same size. But 31 people in the survey thought China was "much larger than this country" and 16 thought that it was smaller.

Only six people answered "much smaller."

There were three people who said they didn't know the area of China and four who said they had no idea how many people live in the country.

One of the 19 persons who thought China was the same size as the U.S. added that it was "the same size as India." India has almost one-third less area than the U.S.

Another woman answered, "It's a lot larger than Iowa, but I wouldn't know how large or how many people."

A student who guessed the population at 300-million said he remembered a quote, "They have more men than we can make bullets."

And a local woman who estimated the population at 400-million said she remembered a picture story by Robert Ripley which said that if the Chinese army marched by a given spot four abreast they would march for eternity.

Now, not because we think that YOU didn't know, but just for the record, according to Goode's Atlas the population of China is 469,257,000 and its area is 3,421,759 square miles, 13 percent larger than the U.S.

Generous Estimates

Population estimates of between 700- and 800-million came from three people.

A local housewife told the interviewer, "There are a lot of Chi-

Two SUI Chinese Students Present Views on Homeland

By JOHN BICKERS

Behind the army of Chinese Communists which face the United Nations troops in Korea is a country of 470-million people — people who speak three different languages and have thousands of different dialects; people who have five major religions.

Two Chinese students at SUI were interviewed to get some of the facts about the country and the background of the Communists in China. The names of the students cannot be released because they have friends and relatives in China.

China is divided into five parts:

The Han and Manchurian sections along the sea coast extend inland about 1,500 miles. In this area, the major portion of the Chinese population lives. Mongolia and Mohammed are in Western China; Tibet, commonly considered a part of China by the Chinese people, is to the southwest.

Old Philosophies

People of Mongolia, Mohammed and Tibet hold to old time philosophies. The region is sparsely populated and is a high desert plateau.

"Nearly all the natural resources of the country are in Manchuria — and Manchuria is controlled by the Russians," said the students. "Manchuria has nearly all the lumber, nearly all the coal and most of China's meager oil supply."

Rice is the chief crop and the chief food of the southern part of China. In the northern part, the region north of the Yellow river, the principal crops are wheat and corn. These two crops are the major foods in the northern area, they said.

Nearly 9,000 miles of major railroads serve the country which has more square miles of territory than the United States. All of the railroad service is along the coast, going inland no more than 500 miles at only one point, the lumber and coal regions of Manchuria, the students said.

The move by the veterans to strengthen MacArthur's hand came amid some criticism that the general exceeded his authority and erred in ordering the abortive UN offensive just as the overwhelming Chinese Communists armies launched theirs.

Immediate Action

The veterans called for immediate action by the "constituted authorities of the free world through the United Nations."

"We urge them to make available every means to save our men, including an authorization to send aircraft across the Manchurian border to bomb vital military targets," they wrote.

"We urge that the President through the United Nations, give General MacArthur full authority to employ such means as may be necessary to save our troops from disaster."

The Chinese soldier is poorly paid, poorly clothed, poorly equipped, and poorly fed. "Most of what he eats and wears he steals from the countryside as he passes through," said one Chinese student.

"With all the conditions the Chinese soldier has against him, he has one physical advantage. Since he has endured hardship, hunger and poverty all his life, he can

BROOKLYN'S JACKIE ROBINSON looked proudly at the dolphin he caught Thursday while on a fishing trip off San Juan, Puerto Rico. Skipper Roy Bosche held up the fish for inspection. Baseball May Have to Close in Event of War

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler said Thursday baseball may have to close down in the event of war — or total mobilization for war.

Chandler said he told this to President Truman recently and the President said every effort would be made to keep baseball in business — just as it stayed in business during World War II.

Couldn't Operate

But Chandler said, "I don't see how we could be able to operate under circumstances of total mobilization."

The Chandler statement was the second of the day in which American sport showed fears of a shutdown in the event of war. In New York, the Thoroughbred Racing associations, at their annual convention, stated they were ready to go all-out in any war effort, but didn't want to be a "whipping boy this time."

(During World War II baseball operated without government restriction, but race tracks were closed after the battle of the bulge.)

Chandler made his statement Thursday during the convention of minor leagues, which already are in serious jeopardy due to the military draft.

"This time it could be different

Wilkinson Rejects Offer to Coach Gophers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bud Wilkinson, football coach at the University of Oklahoma, Thursday turned down a similar post at the University of Minnesota.

Ike Armstrong, athletic director, said Wilkinson had told him in person he was not in a position to accept the head grid coaching job, from which Bernie Bierman resigned last month.

"President James L. Morrell, at my request, also telephoned Wilkinson at Norman, Okla." Armstrong reported. He said Dr. Morrell had talked also with President Cross of Oklahoma.

"Armstrong quoted Wilkinson as saying he appreciated the chance to return to Minnesota, his alma mater, but that his contract had three more years to run at Oklahoma and carried a no release clause.

"Under those circumstances," Armstrong said Wilkinson told him, "I could not even consider a job at any other school."

that it was in World War II," he said.

"We would have to be prepared to give everything to the emergency."

Ready to Make Contribution

"I went to the President and told him that everything we had would be available to the nation," Chandler said. "We stand ready to make our contribution."

He said he had been warmly received by Mr. Truman and was assured that every effort would be made to keep baseball going because of its morale value.

Home Court Advantage

Two factors favor Western Michigan Saturday. One is the home court advantage so important in basketball. Iowa plainly showed the effects of no game competition in its opener Monday with DePauw.

The traveling squad named by Williams is: Frank Calsbeck, Eddie Colbert, Whitey Diehl, Leland Esckilsen, Herb Thompson and Wayne Ryan, forwards; Chuck Darling and Jim Scroggs, centers, and Bob "Pinky" Clifton, "Skip" Green, Ev Cochran, Murray Root,

An injunction petition filed by Howard E. Carroll, to prevent Mr. and Mrs. Nate Whiting from blocking a driveway, was settled out of court Thursday.

Carroll, who lives at 25 E. Burlington street, claimed he had an easement for a ten-foot right-of-way behind the property of Whiting who lives next door.

Whiting agreed that Carroll, his tenants, and anyone connected with them would have the use of the right-of-way, but that it would not be open to the public.

Whiting also agreed to take down a sign marked "private drive" and not to block the driveway. Carroll agreed to allow Whiting to place a barrel in the drive when burning trash.

The agreement is to stand as long as Carroll lives at his present address. The suit was dismissed without prejudice.
