Truman Boosts Goal To 3.5-Million Army

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman Friday sharply increased the armed forces' manpower goal to 3,462,205 by June 30, and called for a 4-million increase in the number of workers producing weapons and other defense needs.

On Capitol hill, however, congress members questioned whether a draft of 18-year-olds is necessary to reach the armed forces manpower objective. They asked whether taking 18 1/2-year-olds would supply men fast enough.

There was talk, though, of extending service of draftees to 30 months instead of the present 21. And defense officials said congress will be asked to take the limit off the number of women in the armed forces—now two percent of the total. But they aren't seeking to draft women.

At the same time, the marine corps called up 4,750 more reserve officers and non-coms. About 2,000 of the officers—mostly first lieutenants with combat specialties—will be for the ground forces and the other 250 for aviation.

Mobilization of 2,500 sergeants and corporals will exhaust marine reserves in those ranks. The men will get only 30 days' delay in reporting, the corps said, because it is "no longer possible under present emergency conditions" to give the previous four-months notice.

130 Johnson County Medical Personnel To Register for Draft

At least 130 Johnson county doctors, dentists, and veterinarians will be required to register Monday in the final special registration for medical personnel under the medical draft law.

Dr. E. J. Boyd, secretary of the county medical association, said the association has 218 members, but he doubted if much over half would be required to register.

Dr. Francis Fleege, county dental association secretary, estimated about one-third of his group's members would register.

Of the county's four veterinarians, two registered last Oct. 16. Both secretaries pointed out that many of their members are in the reserve units of the armed forces or are over the age limit of 50.

Registration points, open Monday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., are the University veterans' service, 110 Iowa avenue; room 106, Medical laboratories; and the draft board in the county courthouse.

The registration is for medical personnel under 50 and not in any reserve component of the armed forces who have one of the following degrees: bachelor of medicine, doctor of medicine, dental surgery, veterinary medicine, or veterinary surgery.

Wesse's Given Leave, Two Appointed by SUI To Dentistry College

Two appointments to the faculty of SUI college of dentistry, and a military leave of absence to a dentistry faculty member were announced Friday by President Virgil M. Hancher.

The state board of education granted a military leave of absence to Dr. Kenneth E. Wessels, associate professor and head of the department of preventive dentistry and pedodontics.

Dr. Wessels was called to active duty as a captain in the air force dental corps on Jan. 8, and since has been assigned to Lowry air force base, Denver.

He had been an SUI faculty member and head of the department since last fall.

Dr. Robert E. Leighton, an SUI graduate, has been appointed assistant professor and acting head of the preventive dentistry department, effective Feb. 1.

Also approved by the board of education was the appointment of Dr. Oliver E. Wilson as instructor in the department of orthodontics, effective Jan. 2.

Dr. Wilson attended Augustana college, Rock Island, and graduated from SUI in 1931.

Man Who Based Success On Hamburger Killed

PARIS (AP)—William S. Medart, 46, St. Louis restaurateur who based his success on the hamburger, was killed early Friday in a plunge from a fourth-floor window of the hotel Continental.

Police entered a customary verdict of suicide.

Medart's daughter, 17-year-old Mimi, told newsmen her father leaped to his death after a family quarrel on whether they should remain in Europe or return to St. Louis.

Hoover Claims 'Hinterland' Backing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover claimed Friday that favorable newspaper editorials prove "hinterland America" backs his foreign policy proposals despite what he called distortion by his critics.

In a letter to Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.), Mr. Hoover hit back at the unidentified persons he said are waging a "campaign of name calling and misrepresentation" against his ideas.

The GOP leader recommended recently that America cut off military aid to Europe until democracy there safeguard themselves against communism.

He said that editorials from newspapers with a total circulation of 46,228,000—the nation's total population is 152-million—indicate 68 percent support his viewpoint entirely, eight percent give them partial support, and 24 percent oppose them.

MARGARET SIGNS WITH NBC NEW YORK (AP)—Margaret Truman has made a deal with the National Broadcasting company, to appear on 12 radio and television shows in the next 17 months at a salary of $2,000 to $3,000 for each performance, it was learned Friday.

Coeds Turn Puddle-Jumpers

WINTER SUDDENLY CHANGED TO SPRING Friday as warm temperatures melted snow and ice, making gutters and low spots streams of water. Those who failed to wear overshoes were gently stepping through water puddles like Jackie Swaney, Al Grinnell, (left) and Joyce Frymire, A3, Davenport, are doing.

Non-Communist Bloc Endorses Cease-Fire

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—Non-Communist UN delegations overwhelmingly favored Friday making a last appeal to Red China to cease fire in Korea in exchange for a four-power conference on Far Eastern problems.

The plan, put forward Thursday by the UN's three-man cease-fire committee, thus was assured of receiving the endorsement of the assembly's political committee when it comes to a vote, perhaps today.

The five-point proposal calls for the United States to sit down with Red China, Russia and Britain in an attempt to settle not only the Korean war, but the problems of Formosa and Red Chinese participation in the UN.

Chief U.S. Delegate Warren R. Austin accepted the proposal Thursday. It received endorsement after endorsement when debate was resumed in the political committee Friday afternoon.

Russia and Poland threw cold water on it Thursday, but their final stand was still to be made known. Most delegates expected the Soviet bloc to reject the plan.

There has been no reaction, official or unofficial, from the Chinese Communists who sometimes air their views on the Peiping radio while debates are still in progress at Lake Success.

Kriz Fails in Legal Bid for Freedom

A prisoner who twice tried to escape from custody lost a legal bid for freedom Friday when his habeas corpus action was tossed out of court.

District Judge Harold Evans overruled the petition of Clarence Kriz, 26, Cedar Rapids, who sought freedom from the rest of a six-months sentence on a bad check conviction.

Kriz maintained he spent three months in jail before sentencing and the time should count on his term. Evans ruled otherwise.

Kriz broke away from Sheriff Pat Murphy Thursday while en route to the courthouse for the hearing. Murphy recaptured him after a short chase. Kriz will be charged with jailbreak in Thursday's freedom bid, Murphy said.

Kriz already faced one jailbreak charge in connection with his escape during church services for prisoners Dec. 17. He was captured shortly afterward.

Britain Prepares Hong Kong Defense

HONG KONG (AP)—British authorities Friday acknowledged they were "preparing for all possible eventualities" in this jittery crown colony under the shadow of Red China's armed might.

All British subjects above the age of 17—including Eurasians and Chinese as well as Europeans born in Hong Kong—were liable for military service.

The emergency ordinance requires women as well as men to register for service by Feb. 1.

199 Veterans Indicted For GI Bill Fraud

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury Friday indicted 199 veterans and five other persons on charges they conspired to defraud the government of nearly $300,000 for training at a school of beauty culture.

The U.S. attorney's office said it was the biggest mass indictment ever returned in New York City and possibly the biggest in the nation's history.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Louis I. Kaplan charged that 90 percent of the veterans never attended the beauty school at all.

$25,000 Damage Suit Involving Student To Open Monday

A $25,000 damage suit involving an SUI student and two former students will go to trial Monday in Johnson county district court.

The case is Clark Sexton, Oakville, vs. James Lauman, A4, Sioux Rapids, and Glenn and Nelle Cullen, former SUI students.

The suit results from an accident in January, 1947, on highway 218 south of Iowa City. Sexton claims he received a brain concussion when the Cullen car being driven by Lauman collided on an icy hill with a car in which Sexton was riding.

Judge Harold D. Evans denied the petition of Defense Attorneys J. D. Randall and R. F. Nazette that the case be removed from the court assignment.

Judge Evans said the attorneys had more than two years to prepare a case since the petition was filed Jan. 4, 1949.

Truman Calls for $140-Billion Defense Program, Tax Hike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman Friday asked congress to raise taxes by "very much more" than $8-billion a year and outlined a lending-spending defense program totalling $140-billion.

He also called for broader wage-price controls, a million more men and women in the armed forces within a few months, and four million more in defense production by the end of this year.

In a sweeping message that drew gasps from Wall street and some criticism on Capitol hill, the President laid down a program of tremendous scope and sacrifice foreshadowing an era of austerity for the American people.

The chief executive made it clear that the stiff new taxes he wants will hit every pocketbook from top to bottom of the income ladder. But the brunt of the income tax increases at least, would fall on the middle-to-lower income taxpayer.

Mr. Truman gave no hint at the size of the budget he will present to congress on Monday—generally expected to be in the neighborhood of $70-billion for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1951.

All told he called for $140-billion in "obligational authority" in the present fiscal year and the next, ending June 30, 1952.

The total would go for actual military and foreign aid spending, plus contracting, lending and loan-guarantee authority. Other government expenses would be over and above that.

Record Crowd Views $500,000 Chicago Fire

CHICAGO—A $500,000 fire and explosion billowed and roared through a five-story downtown building Friday, killing three firemen.

More persons watched the blaze than any other fire in history. Thousands were on the scene, and three television networks carried live telecasts of the fire. A fourth made newsreel pictures for later transmission.

An NBC spokesman estimated some 5-million persons over a wide area of the nation watched firemen battle the blaze.

Five other firemen and one civilian were injured. Anthony J. Mullaney, chief fire marshal, said other persons may have been trapped in the office and warehouse building, but there were no early reports of anyone missing.

Because of the intense heat, no search of the ruins was planned before today.

TOKYO (SATURDAY) (AP)—Screaming Korean Reds, 8,000 to 10,000 strong, today threatened the entire U.S. Second division and its 15-mile front with entrapment east and southeast of Wonju.

American, French and Dutch troops stood firm in the deep snow and biting cold of the central front. Temperatures sagged to possibly 30 below.

The Communists in wave attacks were pounding the center and both flanks of the division's front along a 15-mile stretch of the rugged Soback mountain range which cuts across the peninsula around rumbled Wonju.

Battle increasing. The U.S. Eighth army in a communique said the battle for the mountain passes was increasing in scope. Enemy troops were on the move eastward from the Seoul sector in the west, possibly to reinforce the Wonju assault.

The onslaught began with two small banzai charges against the middle of the Second division front before dawn.

By mid-morning the enemy was hitting the center and both flanks in the battle south of burned-out Wonju.

The Second division had given no ground by mid-day, AP correspondent William Barnard reported.

Assault slackens. Only once after the first two banzai attacks were repulsed did the intensity of the Red assault slacken. That was when Allied aircraft roared into the battle about mid-morning.

A U.S. Eighth army communique said: "The issue is whether the enemy can force the passes of the mountain range."

Maj. Gen. Robert B. McClure, the Second's commander, told a news conference of the difficulties of fighting the "goal-like enemy" in the mountainous Wonju area.

All I want is a chance to do a little fighting on a piece of wide ground," he said. "If we could have a good light perimeter on flat ground, the enemy could come on by the thousands and we could plow them up."

Terrain reduces mobility. The terrain has reduced Allied mobility, McClure said, and "we are brought down to the level of a man on foot with a rifle—and the enemy has more of those than we have."

McClure's command called in planes in an attempt to stem the Red tide. Fighter-bombers and light bombers came in and plastered the enemy with machinegun fire and bombs.

Airforce and navy aircraft claimed a total of 1,300 Communists killed in Korean operations Friday. Wonju itself was heavily hit by bombers and a Second division spokesman said today the transport hub was 80 percent destroyed.

MacArthur Denies He Favors Evacuation

TOKYO (AP)—Reliable sources reported Friday that Gen. Douglas MacArthur does not want to pull out of Korea and is waiting for orders on the next major move.

MacArthur was said to feel that United States and UN prestige would sink too low if the Allied forces were pulled out of Korea. Should they be thrown out, informants said, the supreme commander would favor continuing the air and naval war against the Chinese.

The reliable sources emphasized that MacArthur considered his forces in Korea far from defeated, and was worried about what was called a wave of "defeatism" that has spread since the Chinese entered the war.

He was said to feel that plenty still can be done to halt aggression in Korea if the UN decides to do it.

GROSS ASKS EVACUATION WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) said Friday he has asked President Truman to evacuate U. S. ground forces from Korea.

United Press Survey of SUI Instructors Shows — 75 Percent of Enlistees Rank in Lower Third

Instructors said that 75 percent of 314 students now headed for military service ranked in the lower third of their classes scholastically.

Many of them, faculty men added, were in danger of "flunking out" at the end of the current semester. Records showed that several were failing one or more courses.

A general exodus from the campus to military posts has been observed here for several days, along with reports that college men were crowding recruiting stations

Registrar Doubts United Press Report

Ted McCarrel, SUI Registrar, Friday night expressed doubts about the United Press report that 75 percent of SUI students dropping to enlist were in "scholastic difficulty."

"As far as I'm concerned," McCarrel said, "I think the figure is erroneous. It's reasonable to assume that the men who have dropped are a representative cross-section of the university as a whole."

McCarrel explained that, to his knowledge, there have never been more than 10 to 15 percent of students in "scholastic difficulty" at any time.

At the end of one year, McCarrel said, only 200 to 300 students were "asked not to return." With an enrollment of approximately 10,000, this amounts to two to three percent.

McCarrel said he had no idea what "faculty men" had given such figures to the United Press.

A Worthy Cause —

Monday is the first day of the March of Dimes drive. Last year the local polio chapter fell about $2,000 short of its goal; however the goal for 1950 had been raised $5,000 above its 1949 figure.

There are a number of facts Iowa Citizens and SUI students should know as we approach this year's drive.

The need for funds is expected to increase this year, rather than diminish. Thousands of residual cases will remain on chapter rolls. Should polio continue at its present rate, the national foundation will face a continuing financial crisis, unless a larger sum of money is raised through this year's drive.

Iowa City heard much of polio in 1950. Stories of Iowans suffering from the disease made the front pages of papers many times during the year. Our University hospitals treated patients from all over the state.

But Iowa wasn't alone. Last year was the third straight year of high polio incidence. There is now a tremendous backlog of 30,000 cases from other years still needing care. And the national foundation says there is no way of preventing new epidemics in 1951.

The local chapter will retain half of the receipts this year for care of local patients or, in emergencies, to supplement the national epidemic aid fund. National headquarters receives the other half to finance a broad program of scientific research that seeks a solution to infantile paralysis and now gives signs of success in the not too distant future, to train professional workers and to give epidemic aid to chapters.

SUI students and Iowa Citizens would have to search a long time for a cause more worthy of their money than the March of Dimes drive which begins here Monday.

Medicine Man in Town

Hollywood Stars Jump on Hadacol Wagon As LeBlanc 'Bottles Up' Nation

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD — A modern $10-million "country boy" medicine man took over Hollywood today, to "show these city slicker press agents a trick or two."

State Sen. Dudley LeBlanc of Louisiana blew into filmville in his private railway car with 24 press agents and flunkies and crates of the patent medicine he high-powered from a $2,500 investment into a $20-million-a-year business and thus became a national phenomenon.

The 56-year-old senator immediately tossed a cocktail party for movie stars and a few thousand free loaders; hired a battery of movie press agents and Dorothy Lamour's advertising mogul husband, Bill Howard, and lined up Judy Garland, Vic Damone and other stars for a hoop-la radio show Friday night.

He then announced he's invading filmland to build a branch factory and, incidentally, sink his medicine millions into a movie production.

Hollywood's high-powered "prize agents," he said, can pick up a few pointers from him.

"Ah don't think there's anything they can teach me," boomed the senator at his party while a Dixieland band clanged in the background.

"Ah'm a country boy come to town to tell the city slickers."

"They go up too high above people's heads. In promotin' pictures they use language people don't know anything about. They have to read the dictionary.

"As you-all can see, lady, ah talk with undecorated and unflowered phrases."

While old-style medicine men hired cowboys and Indians to help hawk their wares, the 1951 version hires movie stars. Last year his medicine show starring Carmen Miranda, Mickey Rooney, Jimmy Durante, Burns and Allen and a bevy of chorus girls toured 22 southern cities.

"The show cost me half a million but we got $3-million worth of business out of it," the apple-cheeked medicine man said.

"That's because the only admission was our box-tops."

LeBlanc was a politician for 24 years and also sold Happy Day headache pills before launching Hadacol two years ago. Last year he pocketed $5-million.

"One magazine said ah turned in my Cadillac for a new one because the ash tray was full," he said. "That isn't true. The tires wore out."

A notion is harbored in some quarters that LeBlanc hopes his medicine man campaign will sweep him into the governorship of Louisiana. He was defeated for governor once by the late Huey Long.

"Ah pushes Hadacol and it pushes me," LeBlanc smiled.

Congress Requested To Equalize 435 Election Districts

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON — President Truman asked congress recently to put pressure on the states to make the 435 congressional election districts more nearly equal in population.

In his first special message to the new legislature, he said the present wide difference in sizes of election districts "obstructs the fundamental operation" of the American democratic principle.

Asserting it is "fundamental to have equal representation," he urged legislation setting up clear federal standards for more nearly equal districts. While he did not call for enforcement provisions outright, he said congress has constitutional power to "take the matter in its own hands" if there are "flagrant violations."

He suggested that the proposed law also reinstate the former federal policy against the election of congressmen-at-large from any state and against the practice of "gerrymandering."

Mr. Truman's plan accompanied his formal report to congress on the reapportionment of house seats required as a result of the 1950 census. Seven states will gain members and nine will lose seats unless congress passes a law increasing the total house membership.

Rep. Frank L. Chelf (D - Ky.) has introduced a bill to increase the membership, but Speaker Sam Rayburn and other house leaders are said to oppose this on grounds a larger body would be too unwieldy. The states have until 1952 to reapportion their congressmen.

Mr. Truman's redistricting proposals are almost identical with those made public last month by the American Political Science association.

On the basis of population changes in the last few decades, the plan would have the general effect of increasing the number of congressmen from urban and industrial areas and cutting down the "farm bloc" in the house. This would depend, however, partly on how the states equalized their districts.

The President said districts in the various states now are a hodge-podge in size. About half are between 300,000 and 400,000 in population. Some 50 have fewer than 250,000. Another 50 or so have more than 450,000.

Mr. Truman cited one state, without naming it, in which the smallest district has a population of 175,000 and the largest about 900,000. This is Ohio. The largest district is the 22nd, in Cleveland, which recently reelected Rep. Frances P. Bolton, a Republican.

Some Top Leaders Feel Soldiers Have Too Many Luxuries

WASHINGTON — Some of the nation's top military leaders apparently are beginning to believe the United States no longer can afford to keep its soldiers in the style to which they have become accustomed.

The American GI is the most expensive soldier in the world to keep. He is the best paid, best fed, best equipped and best cared for generally. It costs 150 times as much to keep a U.S. soldier in the field as a Chinese. The Russian soldier lives above the Chinese scale but below the American.

Defense Secretary George C. Marshall told the senate military preparedness committee Thursday that "I sometimes think our standards are too luxurious in what we provide — I sometimes think we provide more than is advisable."

Much the same sentiments were voiced last month by Gen. Mark W. Clark, chief of the army's ground forces. He said the "standard of luxuries" must be reduced if the United States is going to fight Chinese and Russian soldiers. Clark said money could be saved by eliminating some recreational activities, transportation facilities and non-essentials.

The growth of the frozen foods industry definitely will ease the tin problem.

One small business man who should find business good in the mobilization period is the rag man, chief supplier of the used wool blended with new wool to make less expensive clothing.

Commerce department experts say the rag man's operations have picked up sharply and should continue up with new wool scarce and soaring in price.

With copper becoming increasingly scarce, the U.S. mint is thinking of asking congress to authorize zinc coated steel pennies as it did in 1943.

Mint officials hope they won't actually have to use that authority, however. They contend coins have a better claim to copper than many other goods to which it is allocated.

Increased Steel Output Answers Stalin

By T. W. KIENLEN

WASHINGTON — The steel industry's answer to Stalin will be a resounding 15-million ton production increase within 30 months after the first Communist shot was fired in Korea.

Completion of the expansion program by the end of next year at an estimated cost of $2-billion will bring American steel making capacity to about 115-million tons yearly. Last June, the annual capacity was 100,568,000 tons, although actual production fell somewhat lower.

An idea of the immensity of the expansion can be gained from the fact that Russia's steel production for 1950 was placed by western experts at 26.5-million tons. Total world production was 194,154,000 tons.

Soon after the Communist Korean venture opened in June, Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer announced a program to raise output of U.S. mills to 109,963,000 tons. But later plans to further flex Uncle Sam's muscles indicate a capacity of at least 111-million tons by the end of 1952, with many industry sources anticipating 115-million tons.

Production in 1951 is expected to come close to or exceed 100-million tons. For 1950 it was a record — smashing 96.9-million tons.

Almost daily announcements are being made of expansion plans. More may be expected before the 1952 target date if the nation moves into a shooting war.

The rush to give America greater steel — making strength includes not only construction of mills but the building of ships to carry more ore to the plants and the expansion of iron ore output.

Although Minnesota's great Mesabi range still is the primary U.S. source of ore, new fields have been developed at high cost in Venezuela, Labrador, Liberia and in the Adirondacks. Shipments from these new fields have not yet begun, but under impetus of a war they might well supply a substantial tonnage.

Ships to carry the ore are a top item. This is reason for such recent announcements as that of National Steel corporation, which said it plans a 21,000-ton ore carrier for the Great Lakes — largest ever to sail America's "inland sea."

Biggest of the plant expansions is the $400-million Fairless works, to be built by United States Steel corporation at Morrisville, Pa., on a 3,900-acre tract across the Delaware river from Trenton, N.J.

It will have annual capacity of 1-million ingot tons.

Another major project is National Steel's Paulsboro, N.J., plant. Cost has not been revealed, but production will be 1-million tons. Both these mills have received government certificates of necessity, authorizing the firms to speed up the write-off of construction costs in tax returns.

One plan still hanging fire is for the long-debated $225-million New England mill. Tentatively, it would be located near New London, Conn., and have a yearly capacity of close to 1-million tons.

The government has not yet issued the go-ahead certificate, despite urgent pleas from the New England congressional delegation. A decision is expected soon, however.

President Truman's New Tax Program To Get Started in About Three Weeks

By REX CHANEY

WASHINGTON — President Truman's new program for taxing Americans "until it hurts" will be started through congress in about three weeks, Rep. Robert L. Doughton (D-N.C.) has disclosed.

Doughton, chairman of the tax-writing house ways and means committee, announced the timetable following a meeting between Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder and congressional tax leaders.

While the scope of the new program was not revealed, Mr. Truman said earlier in a letter to Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) that taxes must be raised "until it hurts" to pay for his sweeping new rearmament program to guard against war.

The President has said he wants to finance the defense program on a pay-as-we-go basis as nearly as possible and it has been estimated he will ask for $6-billion to $10-billion in new levies.

Even this would not close the gap between government income and increasingly heavy outlays to put 3.5-million men under arms and equip them with the most modern planes, guns and tanks. Mr. Truman's fiscal 1952 budget is expected to top $75-billion.

The additional revenues will come from new personal and business taxes and may include higher federal excise taxes. Individual and corporation taxes already have been increased some $8-billion since the start of the Korean war.

After the meeting with Snyder, which also was attended by chairman Walter F. George (D - Ga.) of the senate finance committee, Doughton said his house group will start work on the President's new tax proposals about Feb. 1.

The delay is necessary, he hopes to act first on bills to be passed, because the committee must first renegotiate of war contracts and to renew the reciprocal trade agreements act. The latter expires June 12.

George expressed some concern that the delay might mean the senate could not act on the tax program until fall. He said the house committee apparently will have to hold extensive hearings before it can write a new tax bill.

Red China Will Refuse UN Cease-Fire Proposal

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The New United Nations proposals for a cease-fire in Korea represent more "diplomacy for the record," with overtones of stalling.

The motions for a new approach to Peiping go forward in the face of what amounts to a virtual Communist turn-down already.

The cease-fire commission proposal was only hours old, and the United States had just announced her willingness to proceed with it, when Jacob Malik said it could not serve as a basis for peace. UN observers declined to take this as the final Russian stand, saying Malik left himself some loopholes pending instructions from Moscow.

But Malik moved so fast, compared with his usual waits for instructions, as to cause speculation on other grounds also. It may have been that the Russians knew pretty well what to expect and were prepared. Or it might even have been that they were rushing in to make sure that Peiping would not fall for the apparently reasonable suggestions.

The proposal calls for cease-fire with no cloak for new military preparations, interim arrangements for administration of Korea under UN principles, and an ultimate far eastern settlement by Russia, Communist China, Britain and the U.S. after gradual withdrawal of all foreign troops.

From the standpoint of China and Russia, which make war for the purposes of territorial and political aggrandizement, and who are winning, there seems little reason why the suggestions should be entertained. They aren't concerned about loss of life, or about peace.

On the Allied side, nobody is fooled by the prospects for an ultimate settlement by the big powers. China is reported ready to negotiate if the Allies will virtually promise them a UN seat and Formosa in advance. That would be payment of a reward for aggression, on which the U.S. already has put down its foot.

And there are indications that Russia, who really runs the Communist show, doesn't really want Peiping in the UN anyway.

The practical effect of the cease-fire proposal, then, is merely to delay the American proposal that the UN formally classify China as an aggressor, following up with political, military and economic sanctions.

Britain, with large commercial interests in China, has tried to avoid this. In spite of advice from Washington that the U.S. intends to hold a beachhead in Korea, London thinks Korea will soon be written off, and the embarrassing question of sanctions avoided. She is joined by many other UN delegations who would rather avoid a formal break now, as the world did when Mussolini invaded Ethiopia. This really means Sawyer, without mentioning any names, said in a speech prepared for the New England shoe and leather association there has been "complete misrepresentation or falsification of facts" regarding exports to China.

He ticked off figures to show how shipments of aviation and auto fuel, kerosene, diesel oil and their fuels had been cut to "nearly all since January 1950" although China had gotten substantial amounts in 1948 and small quantities in 1949.

He blasted "stories about exports of copper" when, he said, "there were no exports of copper during the year 1950 from the United States." He added that the commerce department had arranged "with Gen. MacArthur personally" to prevent copper from Japan from getting to China, after one Japanese shipmet had gotten there — via New York — last February.

"No matter what you may see or hear, there has been no copper shipped, even by this (roundabout) method, from Japan to China since that date," Sawyer said.

No Salvage Drives Seen in Future Months

WASHINGTON (P) — We're still many months away from the fat-saving, puff-cutting, victory-gardening, cents-patching kind of living most of us remember so well in World War II.

Nevertheless, mobilization officials are starting to think about how to conserve materials "at the consumer level."

Aside from the obvious need to make every scrap of material go as far as possible, one reason for thinking about it so early is to try to avoid some of the ludicrous and irksome situations that arose during the war.

It's already certain for example, that there won't be any campaign to collect aluminum pots and pans, or old doormats and hot water bottles. World War II's misguided salvage efforts produced little if any reusable rubber or aluminum.

Also, they caused many a housewife to go out and buy new utensils to replace those patriotically discarded. The National Production Authority (NPA) has just set up a conservation section to plan ahead for salvage and conservation measures. It is headed by Allan Pierce, who isn't talking to the press yet.

NPA's information staff expects it will some day be waging a big publicity campaign urging consumers to buy sparingly and wear things out.

Beer cans, shaving cream tubes and other familiar items will be hit by curtailments of tin, aluminum and zinc.

Official talks haven't even mentioned the wartime gimmick under which a toothpaste purchaser turned in an empty tube when he got a new one. But plastic tubes are being discussed. Unhappily, the plastics are scarce too.

Acceptance of detergents by housewives may relieve pressure on soap supplies — unless the

Triangle Club Offers Faculty Fun, Frolics

A group of SUI instructors and administrative officials have the answer to a problem which faces many men in their positions—a place to go and "let their hair down."

It is the Triangle club, an organization with rooms on the second floor of the Iowa Union. Members have a game room with facilities for ping pong, pool and billiards; a dining room; ball room and a lounge or reading room where they may relax.

Potluck Feared
An unusual aspect of the club is its potluck supper.

A faculty-wife chairman and her hostesses for each of six dinners a year are selected to plan the menu. Each hostess is in charge of one table of 30 persons. She tells them what to bring and makes decorations and placecards for her table.

Bachelors or others who are unable to cook pay a small fee to cover costs of coffee, sugar, cream, rolls and other incidentals. Food is brought to the diners ready-cooked because the clubrooms do not have kitchen facilities.

Typical Menu
Last week's potluck menu included scalloped potatoes and pork chops, apple sauce, peas and pie.

The club also gives annual banquets, which began in 1901. First suggestions for a dance was opposed by older members, but since then dances have become regular attractions.

Membership in this club is limited to instructional and administrative staff members at SUI.

When the club was founded in 1899, professors were excluded from membership but two months later, they were allowed to join.

(Daily Iowan Photos)

Shown at one of their potluck dinners last week are these members of the Triangle club and their wives. The club holds six potluck dinners a year in their clubrooms over the Iowa Union, where facilities for ping pong, pool, billiards and relaxation are provided for SUI faculty and administrative personnel. At the left, front, is Prof. B. V. Crawford. Across the table from him is Mrs. Hugh Seabury, and next to her is Mrs. R. E. Kallio. Pouring at the table is Dr. Alton K. Fisher, head of oral pathology in the college of dentistry.

Consequently one of the rules of the club was that all titles be dropped and members be referred to by last names. The rule has deviated somewhat today as the members are known by first name.

The club was founded to create more intimate acquaintances and good fellowship among the instructors and no "scandal or rumor" stories were to be told within the clubrooms. The club originally had one room above Epel's clothing store, 28 and one-half Dubuque street. It moved to the present location in the Union in 1927 when the club paid $50,000 for the construction of its quarters and received a 50 year lease on the rooms.

The hero of her novel was a fabulous gentleman called Prince Genji. The story is set against a background of elaborate ceremony and court intrigue.

Wayzgoose Banquet Is Printers' Feast

An old journalistic tradition, originating in England in the early 16th century, will be revived tonight at the annual Sigma Delta Chi Wayzgoose banquet at the Iowa Union River room at 6:15 p.m.

The master printer of old England gave an annual banquet for the journey printers on the eve of Bartholomew tide, in September.

At this time of year, the journey printers made paper windows to place in the openings of the shops to keep the winter cold out. As soon as the windows were in, the master printer gave the feast.

He "not only entertains at his own house, but gives them (journey printers) money to spend at the ale house or tavern at night."

A collection was taken among the founders, paper makers and ink makers, to finance the feast. It was the custom of the journey-men to use the money to buy a way goose.

The way goose, commonly referred to as a stubble goose, was called a stubble goose since it is the main course of the meal. It is turned loose in a stubble field after the grain is cut to feed on the leftover grain.

Joseph Moxom, a printer of the 17th century, said of the Wayzgoose, "and till the Master Printer have given this Way-goose, the Journey-men do not use to Work by Candle Light."

This custom is still followed in England and is celebrated in this country in a few localities.

TO GIVE DANCE
Kappa Kappa Gamma, social sorority, will give a formal dance tonight at the chapter house. Chaperons will be Mrs. Eleanor Mitchell, housemother; Mrs. Ralph Overholser, Delta Gamma housemother, and Dr. Mrs. P. J. Leinfelder.

Three women will speak on the panel with Louise Bekman, A3, Ottumwa, as moderator. Helen Reich, SUI counsel for women, will speak on volunteer work for women; Helen Barnes, director of the business and industrial placement office, will speak on job possibilities for girls, and Jean Baer, associate and counsel in nursing and a former WAVE, will speak on women in the services.

The panel is open to all women interested.

Town 'n' Campus
The bureau also makes available the facilities of its motion picture production and graphic sections.

In the audio-visual library are 16-millimeter sound and silent motion picture films, lantern slides, film strips and recordings, all of which are available on the campus for regularly scheduled classroom and research studies.

SUI students and professors may borrow motion picture projectors, lantern slides, film strips, opaque and micro projectors, record and transcription playback, wire and tape magnetic recorders and projection screens.

Photographic service sections of the bureau are available to all university departments, including approved student projects such as theses and research projects.

The bureau's graphic section is designed to assist staff members in the production of effective teaching aids, publications and exhibits. It is prepared to assist in production of many different materials including graphs, charts, maps, layouts, drafting, posters, exhibits and illustrations.

Malone Says Truman Costs 5-Million Yearly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George Malone (R-Nev.) told the senate Thursday it costs $5-million a year to maintain President Truman in the White House. He suggested that the President pay taxes on some of this. Malone's comments came during a speech on foreign policy. "The cost of maintaining him in the White House with cars, private airplanes, private yachts, and so on, burdens the taxpayer with nearly $5-million a year. "It would seem that when all of us are paying terrifying taxes, the President might become unified with the rest of the country by paying full taxes."

Clear Burlington Duo Of Theft Charges

Charges of grand larceny filed in Johnson county against two Burlington men were dismissed Friday at the recommendation of County Attorney William L. Meardon. Meardon made the recommendation after the men were sentenced in Burlington for 10 years each in the penitentiary for Burlington thefts, and restitution had been made for property stolen in Iowa City. The two men, Clifton L. Furney, and Warren G. Wickhart, both of Burlington, were picked up in Burlington last November shortly after 40 old storage batteries had been stolen from Hock and Joes, 273 E. College street, Iowa City.

Grants Given for Study in England

Two research scholarships in economics are now available to qualified American students to study at Cambridge university, England, according to Richard E. Sweitzer of the office of student affairs. Accepted candidates will be eligible to hold the awards for three years starting Oct. 1, 1951. The grants range from 150 to 400 pounds a year, depending upon the needs of the student. A pound is equal to approximately $2.86. Those who apply must be under 27 years old and declare an intention of becoming candidates for Ph.D. degrees at Cambridge. Applications must reach Cambridge not later than April 15, Sweitzer said.

Polk Indictment Dropped Against Ex-Supervisor

DES MOINES (AP) — A 1946 indictment for obtaining money by false pretense against William Cotton, a former chairman of the Polk county board of supervisors, was dismissed Friday by District Judge Tom K. Murrow. The dismissal was ordered on motion of defense attorneys, with County Atty. Clyde E. Herring making his written recommendation for dismissal. Cotton, one of several county officials indicted in connection with the 1946-1947 county fraud investigation, was convicted on the indictment in April, 1947. The conviction was reversed by the supreme court in September, 1948, in ordering the case remanded to district court for retrial.

Truman Signs $3-Billion Civil Defense Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman signed a $3.1-billion civil defense bill Friday and called on all Americans to pitch in and help with the gigantic job of readying the home front for possible enemy attack. The sweeping measure, rushed through the recent lame duck session of the 81st congress, authorizes a three-year program to prepare major cities and industrial centers to cope with the hazards of attack by atomic, germ or gas weapons. It provides for extensive bomb-shelter construction, with the cost split between the federal and state governments; establishment of a nationwide air raid warning network; stockpiling of medical supplies; and training a volunteer corps of 15-million civil defense workers. Mr. Truman signed the unprecedented legislation at a White House ceremony attended by congressional leaders and Civil Defense Administrator Millard F. Caldwell.

He said it provides a "basic framework for preparations to minimize the effects of an attack on our civilian population, and to deal with the immediate emergency conditions which such an attack would create." Calling on "all citizens" to support civil defense work in their individual communities, the President said: "Much has been done but much remains to be done. It will require the best efforts of all of us to get ready and to stay ready to defend our homes." The legislation gives full legal status to Caldwell's agency, which Mr. Truman set up several weeks ago by executive order. "One of the most important sections of the new law — and the one which caused most debate in congress — is a far-reaching grant of stand-by powers which can be invoked only if the President proclaims a "civil defense emergency." Under such a proclamation, Caldwell's agency would have authority to mobilize all federal agencies to aid strikers or threatened areas, to requisition private property, and to spend public funds without regard to congressional appropriations.

Thompson Predicts Power Expansion

Electric power companies will continue to spend tremendous sums for expansion of facilities in the near future, according to Prof. C. Woody Thompson, director of the SUI bureau of business and economic research. Writing in the January-Iowa Business Digest, a bureau publication, Thompson says the electric power industry will have to increase output by about 50 percent in the next five years. Funds for the improvements necessary to expand their service will come from the federal government. In the past, electric utilities have not placed enough dependence on preferred and common stock issues, Thompson says. Now government funds are going to be needed to raise the money necessary for expansion.

Panacea Treasure Hunt

Prop Men for Musical Show Collect 100 Items, Learn to Differentiate Petticoats and Slips

By WAYNE DANIELSON
Anybody have a spare cash register lying around the house, or a satin pillow with MOTHER written on it?

The two prop men for the Panacea show are in desperate need of the two articles to finish a treasure hunt that lasted for several weeks and netted them more than 100 gadgets for the show.

Gaylord Staveley, A2, Traer, and Dean Kenny, A2, Ridgewood N.J., have had to dig up everything from a yellow petticoat with blue butterflies to a pair of black lace nylons.

The petticoat was a tough problem. It was made worse because they were not sure what a petticoat was. As a result, they came back from an Iowa City store with a size 40 slip.

Difference Explained
After women cast members explained the fundamental difference between a slip and a petticoat, Staveley and Kenny went out to try again.

This time they found that Iowa City petticoat stocks were limited and they eventually had to sew the garment by hand, blue butterflies and all. The black lace nylons caused the two men the most embarrassment.

At a department store the saleslady asked what size stockings they wanted. With a red face, Staveley replied:

Not for Wear
"Oh, any size will do — she doesn't get to wear them anyhow."

The saleslady wrapped up a pair of size 10 stockings and hustled the men out of the store. She may be still wondering just what they were up to.

Japanese lanterns were needed for one South Pacific island scene. The prop men thought they were faced with another poser.

But almost at once, a sorority came through with 30 lanterns used as party decorations. Staveley and Kenny were grateful — but they only wanted six.

Empty bottles to be used in a tavern scene gave the men a few bad moments, but they finally found all they wanted in the Iowa City dump.

Ike Finds Lots Of Spirit, But Little Strength

OSLO, NORWAY (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told West Europeans Friday night that they must sacrifice comforts until a "shield of security" is built against threats of Russian aggression.

Eisenhower arrived in Oslo after an inspection tour of France, Belgium, Holland and Denmark in which he found lot of spirit but very little military power for his Atlantic pact army.

"I have no brilliant array of accomplishments to report," he said. "But I can report spirit and the aspirations of 12 nations to sustain peace."

He said free nations could spend more of their resources for cultural aims behind the "shield of security" after it is erected. But that "until then this must be held within reasonable limits... Everything must take a secondary position."

Before boarding his plane at Copenhagen, Eisenhower said that in Denmark he had found "the determination to win in the effort to preserve peace and to sacrifice to do it, and the readiness to stand up and defend freedom."

Eisenhower said the Atlantic pact nations were "associated together to preserve peace, to preserve the culture we have developed over the centuries—and to preserve it by confronting any would-be attacker with strength."

Norway's King Haakon set the stage for Eisenhower's arrival in a speech from the throne Friday opening parliament. He proposed more defense spending and a longer period of compulsory military service.

The king said Norway would do its part in the continued strengthening of the North Atlantic pact.

Hunt Killer of 8 in Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Heavily-armed law officers scoured southern Minnesota Friday night in search of Bill Cook, 22, suspected killer of eight persons who was reported seen by several persons during the day.

The search concentrated around Springfield where a man believed to be Cook ate lunch and then eluded a police chief who chased him east of the city.

Abrupt Switch
If the fugitive were Cook it was an abrupt switch of the search scene from the Mexican desert south of El Centro, Calif., to the midwest. Western officers still believed their man was there.

The grey Plymouth, bearing Ohio license plates beginning with the letters "MT," also figured in reports of Cook in South Dakota and Nebraska. Reports from Nebraska said the license was MT-152.

The chase in the midwest began when a man said to answer Cook's description spent the night in a hotel at Worthington, Minn.

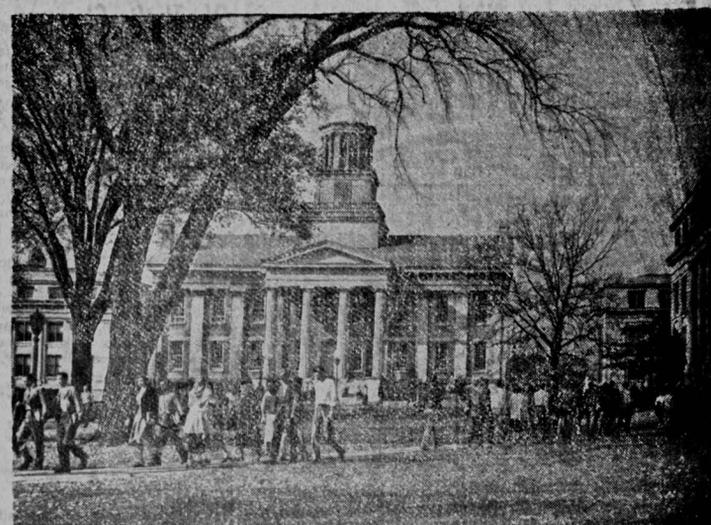

Cook, an ex-Missouri convict wanted for the murder of five members of one family and three other persons, was sought also in the area around Sioux Falls, S.D., about 20 miles beyond the Minnesota border, Cook earlier Friday was reported seen in the Sioux Falls area.

Suspect in Cafe
Ervin Rambow, Springfield police chief, said the man he chased was identified as Cook by Barber Gil Iverson who saw the suspect enter the restaurant and

Much Married Manville To Divorce 8th Wife

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time in his harried married career, asbestos heir Tommy Manville is going to do the divorcing. SUI Scene Part of National Campus Exhibit

INCLUDED IN THE PICTURE EXHIBIT at the Iowa Union starting today will be this picture of SUI students between classes. Forty pictures are in the display which will be up until Jan. 26. Mrs. Koch Silent As Trial Concludes; Verdict Monday

AUGSBURG, GERMANY (AP) — The six-week trial of Ilse Koch for concentration camp atrocities ended Friday with the "Red Witch of Buchenwald" refusing to utter a word in her own defense.

The German court's verdict will be handed down Monday.

When Presiding Judge George Magnot invited Mrs. Koch to make her own plea to the court, she sat mute, her face immobile.

Then, when the court session ended, Mrs. Koch, who admittedly "played her little comedy" of collapsing several times during her trial, refused to walk. She was carried from the courtroom for the third time in three days.

Prosecutor Hans Ilkow demanded life imprisonment for the plump, red-haired widow of a former commander of Buchenwald concentration camp. The death penalty was abolished in Germany in 1949.

He asked conviction on three charges of complicity in murder, one charge of complicity in attempted murder, 16 charges of inciting murder and three counts of inciting attempted murder of Germans and Austrians.

40 Campus Scenes On Display in Union

An exhibit of 40 outstanding pictures of campus scenes of American colleges and universities, including several of SUI, will be on display at the Iowa Union today through Jan. 26.

The pictures were selected from hundreds taken by Andrew Pavlin, photographer for the "Youth on the Campus" feature of the Chicago Sunday Tribune.

Pavlin has visited more than 175 colleges and universities and has been "pledged" by sororities at Michigan State college and the University of Wisconsin. He wears the pins on his suspenders to prove it.

Pictures from Northwestern university opened the "Youth on the Campus" series after which scenes from Wisconsin and SUI were featured.
