GOP to Campaign On Foreign Policy, National Defense

By JOHN L. CUTLER
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O.) has invited the Republican party to fight out the 1952 political campaign on issues of national defense and foreign policy.

He made the suggestions in a speech to a big "call to arms" rally staged by local Republicans to welcome new GOP members of congress and get a running start on the 1952 campaign.

Taft, a possible presidential candidate in 1952, said it is time to start planning now for the next campaign. He recalled the issues in the 1950 election in which the Republicans gained strength in both houses and congress.

"The interest of this congress, and very likely that of the people in 1952, is centered on this problem of meeting the threat of Communist aggression," Taft said.

"In the last campaign, the Republicans for the first time attacked directly the past foreign policy of the administration. We pointed out that the present power of Russia and its ability to threaten the security of the United States arose out of that policy."

Taft called it a "great Republican year" and approved the campaign formula. He said the result was a "victory of principles."

Other Republican speakers blamed "confusion" in the Truman administration for public unrest over such matters as foreign policy, wage-price controls and the drafting of 18-year-olds.

Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (R-Neb.) protested that instead of global defense "we have a department store policy—many items, unrelated, except you taxpayers bear the whole load."

He complained that wages and prices were frozen "after months of dillydallying." He called the enforcement organization a "make-shift hodge-podge" and said it is "honeycombed by resurrected but-terflyers of the notorious OPA and fair deal agencies."

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass.) said the Korean crisis finally has produced evidence that "the princes of planning who infest our government," have "no plants at all."

Asserting that the "fundamental wrongness" of administration policies has confronted the U.S. with the "terrible prospect of becoming a garrison state," Martin declared:

"This is the price America is paying for 13 years of lockstep marching toward Socialism." He referred to the Democratic administration since 1932.

Republican National Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson hailed last November's election result as "the start of a political revolution."

"It was fired by unkept promises, crisis government, war and threat of war," Gabrielson said. "A fighting, determined Republican party, building its strength in 1951, will complete that revolution next year with the election of a Republican congress and a Republican president," he said.

U.S. Hits Newspaper Concentration

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The government has announced it seeks "to call a halt" to an accelerated "tendency toward" concentration of ownership in the newspaper industry through business failures and mergers.

The government said its actions would be "in the interest of greater, not less, freedom" of the press.

The declarations were contained in a brief filed in U.S. district court asking a speedy partial judgment in the government's civil anti-trust suit against the Times-Picayune Publishing company.

The government argued that the effect of continuation of the company's forced combination advertising rate structure for the morning Times-Picayune and the afternoon New Orleans States "may be to put the item out of business and thus destroy its entire interstate circulation."

The item is a competing afternoon daily with a Sunday edition that appears on the streets on Saturday.

"This is the first case in civil anti-trust law history in which the government has filed a suit against one newspaper organization alleging its business practices are injurious to a competing newspaper."

The government is asking that the Times-Picayune company's advertising contracts be cancelled on the grounds they violate the anti-trust law. The contracts require advertisers to use both the Times-Picayune and the States.

"In recent years," the brief said, "the tendency toward concentration in the newspaper industry has been accelerated. This case seeks to call a halt to that trend."

"So far as the concept of freedom of the press is at all relevant here, it may fairly be said that the relief sought is in the interest of greater, not less, freedom," it continued.

The government reported that from 1918 to 1944 the number of all daily newspapers in the nation declined 19.4 percent and the number of Sunday newspapers dropped 4.5 percent.

From 1930 to 1950, it continued, 747 daily newspapers suspended publications or merged with other newspapers and were dropped.

Today, the brief said, there are 830 fewer newspapers in the U.S. than in the peak year 1909, when there were 2,600.

"Along with suspensions and mergers, the number of competing newspapers which consolidated into local combinations, continuing under a single owner, also increased. In 1930, there were 89 single-owner cities with such combinations, and on March 1, 1945, there were 161.

"In addition," the government continued, "there are 13 other cities, having two or more newspapers, where the two existing dailies have entered into partial combinations which place their business offices on a non-competitive basis. Thus there are 174 cities which have two or more newspapers either jointly owned or managed."

The brief said that "as a result of this concentration, in 1945, out of 1,394 cities having daily newspapers, only 117 had daily newspaper competition and 10 entire states had no local competition whatever. Only 37 of the nation's 413 Sunday newspaper cities had local competition while 22 entire states had no competitive Sunday paper."

Interpreting the News—

China 'Aggression' Label Important for UN Unity

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

All this talk about "closing the door" to peace by branding Communist China as an aggressor is so much poppycock. A door has to have been open before you can close it.

There will be those who continue to argue that, if China was willing to agree to a cease-fire at the first session of a peace conference, the U.S. should have agreed to talk.

This overlooks one salient fact, however. There has been too much talk already, and the result has been just that the Communists desired—a split in non-Communist ranks.

A "peace conference" in which the United States is badly outvoted, as she would have been under the Arab-Asian appeasement proposals, could have but two results. One would be concessions to China—"payment for aggression"—which are impossible. The other would be a U.S. holdout in a meeting sponsored by the UN, creating more disunity such as has split Lake Success in recent weeks.

As it is, the labeling of China as an aggressor seems likely to end the major debate which has created so much acrimony. The whole thing is set up so that sanctions can politely become a dead issue, as predicted in this column some time ago.

The aggression resolution is important because of countries like India which profess to doubt China's aggressive intentions.

I don't see how anyone could believe the Indian thesis that China acted in Korea because hostile forces were approaching her borders and she feared invasion.

The "hostile" forces consisted of units representing the UN whose objective, to end North Korean aggression, was made clear to everyone. The major participant, the United States, had especially tried by every means to confine the Korean war to Korea.

Every subsequent act, even to the acceptance of Chinese invasion without retaliation in China, attested this desire.

And aside from all this, no one in his right mind could have believed that the Allies planned to attack a Chinese army of millions with 200,000 men.

China and Russia made war according to plan. They didn't undertake it merely for acquisition of South Korea. They undertook it to keep the Allies off balance, and as part of a consistent and world-wide plan to expand whenever and wherever the expanding is good.

DES MOINES (AP)—The long, dry spell of the 1930's is not returning to Iowa, according to C. E. Lamoureux, section director of the U.S. weather bureau in Des Moines.

He said that, despite serious water shortages in parts of Iowa, rainfall has increased in the last ten years.

"The current shortage is not a part of the general trend," Lamoureux said. "It is local and temporary."

Lamoureux said that serious shortages do exist in south-central Iowa, and, to a lesser degree, in north-central Iowa. About 20 counties are affected.

He explained, however, that these shortages are exceptions to the rainfall trend.

Only in south-central portions, he said, have farmers been forced to haul water for livestock and domestic purposes from nearby towns.

Using Marshalltown for an example, he said, "During December, Marshalltown sold 65,000 gallons of water. Some farmers hauled it as far as 22 miles."

He added that during January the shortage was so serious there, that they no longer could supply the farmers from the town wells and only pumped intermittently for their own purposes.

"The climate in Iowa may experience a great change in future generations. But in our generation, the changes are slight and insignificant."

The Fesler 'Bolt'—

Reprinted from the Ohio State Lantern

The bolt from the blue about Wes Fesler signing a three-year contract at the University of Minnesota as head football coach left us flabbergasted.

Now that we've regained our breath, it looks something like this to us:

Here's a guy who's been closely associated with the game he loves for more than 20 years, first as an All-American college star, then as a coach.

He abruptly decides to quit his job at Ohio State because of the "pressure and his health." He accepts a fine job offer selling real estate. Ah, but it's a sedentary life, and perhaps something of a dull one.

Then, just when he's resigned himself to a Babbit-like existence, he's offered the head coaching job, by phone, at one of the top universities in the land.

What would you do? He's a chance to go back to the sport you love. You'll be in new, but friendly surroundings. The pressure will be considerably less than in Columbus—you'll have a chance to begin anew. The sports writers up there are behind you...

What would you do? Just what Wes Fesler did. Sign up, even at a cut in salary from your previous job.

There'll be a lot of talk about what a pious hypocrite Wes Fesler was, but we feel he was honestly sincere when he resigned from his coaching post here. And we think he's sincere now.

The regrettable part about the whole affair is the futher black eye, or increase in intensity of the color of black, that it gives to the Ohio State and Columbus football picture.

"The guy must be a good coach, Minnesota's taking him. It's those Columbus wolves that drove him out."

"I wouldn't be head coach at Ohio State for all the money in the world"... and similar comments will be forthcoming throughout the state.

'Artificial' Dispute Closes Argentine Newspaper

BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA (UP)—Alberto Gainza Paz, publisher of the newspaper La Prensa, recently said that the dispute which has forced the newspaper to suspend publication is "artificial... a new episode in our years-long battle to remain independent."

La Prensa, Argentina's largest newspaper, has been unable to publish since Thursday as the result of a dispute with the News vendors' union.

"No one, on the newspaper, in this country or abroad, believes for a moment that... (this) is a labor dispute," Gainza Paz said. "It is an artificial conflict, whose true character has been misrepresented..."

"La Prensa faces a new episode in our years-long battle to remain an independent newspaper..." the publisher added. "It is necessary to judge recent events in terms of all that has happened to La Prensa during the past several years."

The newspaper's entire staff, including editorial, business, printing and delivery employees, voted at a meeting Tuesday night to support the newspaper's stand in the present dispute.

Gainza Paz said that no dispute exists between La Prensa and its workers.

"Employees have unanimously declared their wish to continue working," he said. "If we are granted the fundamental rights of freedom of labor and the press, the newspaper will be made up and printed."

This was an apparent reference to the newspaper's two requests for police protection for personnel who wished to continue working. The requests have been ignored by federal police officials.

There has been no official comment on the forced suspension of La Prensa, but pro-government newspapers here are editorially endorsing the union.

La Prensa insists that the action is an illegal boycott by persons not employed by the newspaper, accompanied by threats and violence.

The News vendors' union asserted that Argentine government authorities must decide the merits of the union's demands on La Prensa.

In the past, thousands and tens of thousands of letters and telegrams have reached Battles asking that he grant executive clemency. It was this that was maintained responsible for gaining the two previous delays in sentence. If you feel that these men should at least be allowed a fair trial before a mixed jury of people who have not made up their minds about the case before it even begins, and if you feel that the double standard of justice should be done away with, then you can take a decisive step in this direction by immediately wiring or writing to Gov. John Batters, State Capitol, Richmond, Va., and asking him to grant executive clemency to the Martinsville Va., men.

Bill Proposed to Allow Mrs. Kasenkina to Stay

Letters to the Editor

Martinsville Seven—

TO THE EDITOR:

This Saturday marks the end of exam week and if another semester in school, for some 9,000 Iowa students it means a few days break before beginning the new semester. It also means the continuation of some of the best years of our lives. But possibly we can pause for a moment to consider the case of seven men, aged 19 to 21, who are due to be executed within the next week.

These men are the Martinsville Seven, seven Negro men facing the electric chair on the charge of raping a white woman, the trial itself was held right in the town of Martinsville, Va. The jury was all-white and the defense attorneys were court-appointed. The alleged victim testified. There was no cross examination. No witnesses were brought forward by the defense. Before a day was up, the verdict of guilty had been brought in for the first of these young men. The six succeeding days saw an exact replica of the first day. On the eighth day, the judge pronounced the death sentence.

Since then the woman in the case has fled the state and her whereabouts at this time is entirely unknown.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People took up the case and found the official records reveal that in the history of the state of Virginia, no white man has ever been sentenced to death for the crime of rape. Within the past five years two white men have been sentenced to jail for this crime, one for seven years and the other for 15.

The former raped a Negro woman. Thus we see the double standard of justice in action.

A mobilization to Richmond, Va., in an effort to see Governor Batters is on its way. Besides NAACP the following organizations have officially joined the

Bill Proposed to Allow Mrs. Kasenkina to Stay

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to permit Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina, who leaped to freedom from the Russian consulate in New York to remain in the United States has been approved by the house immigration subcommittee.

The measure now goes to the house judiciary committee. It would extend her period of residence in this country to permit her to qualify for American citizenship.

Mrs. Kasenkina touched off a diplomatic furore when she leaped from the consulate window to keep from being returned behind the Iron Curtain. She claimed she had been forcefully returned to the consulate after seeking refuge with a group of White Russians.

Canteen Draws Fire

WITH THE FIRST MARINE DIVISION IN KOREA (AP)—Marine Pfc. Robert Dale Savage, 21, Deerfield, Ill., says he felt like a walking shooting gallery during recent action against Chinese Communists in Korea.

In this case the clay pigeon was the cap of Savage's canteen which was shot off not once, but four times. First it was the regular black plastic cap; the other three Savage had fashioned from pieces of wood. All were shot off by enemy riflemen during a two-week period.

Burmese Ask Controls

RANGOON (AP)—Burmese weavers want the importation of textiles to be controlled, charging unrestricted importation is a threat to the handloom weaving industry.

The Burmese government decontrolled textile imports last August to stockpile cloth, fearing a cloth famine in the event of war. A weavers' union now complains Burmese products have become unmarketable since they cannot compete with foreign textiles.

Electronic Toy Outdoes Son, Dr. Finds

LONDON (AP) — Dr. William Grey Walter, Missouri-born brain specialist, said Tuesday that his new mechanical tortoise Cora is smarter than his baby son Timothy who was at nine months of age. Cora learned to feed herself (recharge the batteries which operate her) and to avoid obstacles while Timothy was still being fed from a bottle and colliding with chairs as he crawled about the floor, Walter said.

But now, Timothy at the age of 16 months is smarter than Cora and will continue drawing away. Cora is about 18 inches long and one foot high and looks something like a tortoise. Walter's first two mechanical tortoises, Elmer and Elsie, "fell in love" last summer and started chasing each other around when they sensed each other by means of their electronic brains.

Walter built the tortoises at the Burden Neurological Institute at Bristol for studies of brain reaction at their simplest level — stimulus and response.

Cora, Elmer, and Elsie "feed" themselves automatically by running into a little "house" and recharging their batteries when their current runs low. Their electronic brains steer them around obstacles. But Cora, Walter said, is the smartest of the three because she can "learn."

"Cora starts toward an object," Walter said. "Then if you blow a whistle just before she runs into it, she will begin to avoid it and run around it when she hears the whistle. After she has heard the whistle 10 or 15 times she avoids the object every time."

Elmer and Elsie would keep on banging into the obstacle, turning around it only after colliding with it. Explaining how Cora was smarter than his son Timothy at first, Walter said,

"It was perfectly logical. Cora learns some things very quickly while children don't really start learning quickly until they are about nine months old."

Changes Listed for Linn County Jail

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — Three major changes in the Linn county jail setup are being recommended by a federal prison inspector, Sheriff James H. Smith said Tuesday.

The changes are: 1. Checks on jail prisoners three times in each 24-hour period. 2. Make all money contraband. 3. Increase the number of day jailers from one to two.

The changes were recommended by Capt. H. R. Swenson of the federal bureau of prisons.

Swenson made an inspection of the jail Monday and Tuesday. Kenneth Kitts, 33, Omaha, who was being held for trial on federal charges of looting the Laurens bank last December, escaped from the Linn county jail at a time fixed by the FBI as between 7 and 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 22. The escape was not discovered until 1 p.m. Jan. 23.

Family Pawned Girl For $5, Tank of Gas

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pig-tailed Shirley Ann O'Brien, 11, left as a "marker" for $5 and a tank of gasoline by her penniless family, wept Tuesday in juvenile hall because she was taken from the family of the service station operator who received her as a pawn.

At the same time authorities learned her family had gotten into a similar plight in New York last year but that time left no "Little Miss Marker" behind because the big city took them to its heart.

While Shirley Ann stayed in juvenile hall, a statewide search was started for William O'Brien, 57, his pregnant wife and their remaining four children. Police wanted to question them on the abandonment of the girl.

The O'Briens last were reported hitchhiking toward San Francisco after abandoning the car, which had been patched up by service station operator Cecil Glover in nearby San Fernando valley.

Glover informed juvenile department officers the O'Briens had offered to sell Shirley Ann to him for $10 but he refused. So instead they left the child with him and he gave them $5 and filled their gas tank.

Jeff Hill New Football Coach At USC

Former Major Leaguer Track Coach at School

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Jess T. Hill, track coach at University of Southern California the last two years, was appointed the school's head football coach Tuesday succeeding Jeff Cravath.

President Fred D. Fagg said Hill will also remain as track coach, but will have an assistant in that sport. He will name his own assistants in football.

Indefinite Period
Hill's appointment as head coach was for an indefinite period. The 44-year-old Hill was appointed after a number of candidates announced they would remain in their present coaching jobs.

Referee Answers LIU Coach's Charge Of Bad Officiating
TUCSON (AP)—Referee W. H. Kisner Tuesday answered Coach Clair Bee's blistering charge of "homer" which followed Arizona's stunning 62 to 61 victory over Long Island University by labelling the Blackbirds and their coaches "poor sports—the world's worst."

"In my 23 years of officiating I've never before been accused of throwing a game," Kisner said. "It is unjust criticism but my shoulders are broad and I can take it."

Bee described Kisner's officiating Monday night as a "very deliberate attempt to see that my boys did not win this game" and added "it almost seemed he had a job to do and he did it."

Willard Taylor, the other referee whom Bee exonerated of all blame, said "We call 'em tighter here than they do in New York."

"This was explained to the LIU team and coaches prior to the game," he added. "However, they began grousing with the first foul and never let up."

Taylor also said Bee's charge was obviously inaccurate. Bee charged Kisner with calling three fouls on Sherman White, LIU's 6-foot, 7-inch star scorer, "in no time at all" and also with calling "four amazing technical fouls — one because a player didn't raise his hand high enough when he was charged with a personal foul — against us."

But Taylor insisted he — not Kisner — had called two of the first three fouls on White and three of the four technical fouls.

Justice Named Coach At North Carolina
CHAPEL HILL (AP)—Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice Tuesday was named assistant football backfield coach at the University of North Carolina, his alma mater, thus putting to an end the long speculation over the future plans of the celebrated former all-America star.

The announcement was made by Director of Athletics R. A. Fetzer.

Justice, who led the Tar Heels to two Southern conference championships and three Bowl bids during his four years of college play, which ended with the 1949 season, said he had been given his release by the Washington Redskins of the national professional league in order that he might accept the appointment.

The former triple-threat backfield ace joined the Redskins during the 1950 season.

Lawrence Tech Loses; Snaps 13-Game Streak
DETROIT (AP)—Washington and Jefferson snapped Lawrence Tech's basketball victory string at 13 Tuesday night, winning a 67-65 overtime decision.

Tech could not hold in the late stages a lead it had held most of the game. The Blue Devils had a 28-17 advantage at the half and their long lead lasted until midway in the fourth period.

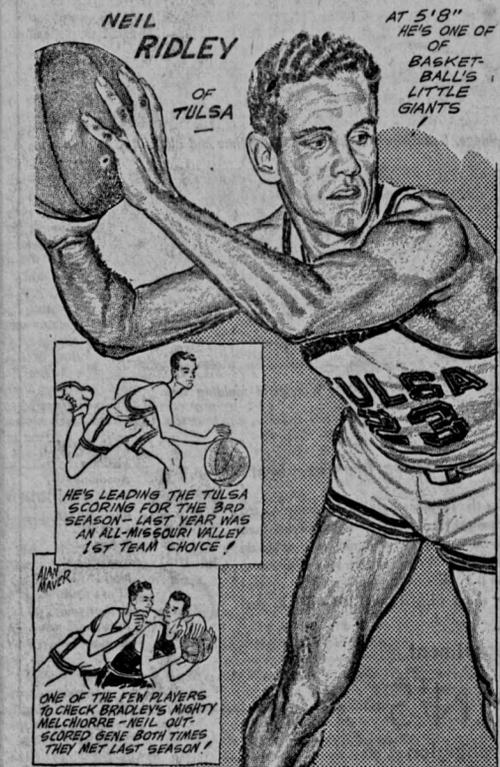

A long shot by Washington and Jefferson's Frank Chan just as the whistle blew at the end of regulation play knotted the score at 61-61.

Wartburg Wins
STORM LAKE (AP)—Wartburg held off a closing rally to whip Buena Vista 64-60 here Tuesday night in an Iowa conference basketball game.

Jack Bostrock, who counted 21 points for Wartburg, helped fire the winners to a 10-point lead with only four minutes remaining. Then Buena Vista pulled to 60-62 with less than a minute to go, only to falter.

LITTLE GIANT By Alan Maver

It's Cold Everywhere

SOME PEOPLE WILL GO to almost any lengths for publicity and Al Zarilla of the Chicago White Sox is no exception. Zarilla signed his 1951 contract at the Sox office Tuesday while wearing heavy gloves and a storm coat. The former Boston Red Sox player was sold to Chicago in one of the winter's biggest deals. Frank Lane (left), general manager, and Charles Comiskey, the club's vice-president watch the signing ceremonies.

Middleweight Champ LaMotta Boasts He'll Beat Sugar Ray

NEW YORK (AP)—Down to 160 pounds "believe it or not," Jake LaMotta snorted Tuesday at reported 3-1 odds favoring Sugar Ray Robinson for their Feb. 14 middleweight title bout at Chicago.

Nobody knows how much LaMotta weighs. Nobody outside his cozy family circle in the Bronx. All you have is Jake's word "160, on or about."

He is more positive about his chances of whipping Robinson, the welter king, in this sixth renewal of a series.

"I Beat Him 3 Times"
"I figure I beat him three times," he said after boxing four rounds at Bobby Gleason's gym. "I give him the two New York fights — he won them. That was added with an air of generosity."

"This time there will be no question about it," he said. "I'm going to try to make it decisive."

Asked to compare the Robinson of their previous fights (1942-45) with the present day Robinson, Jake said, "He's just as good as always. Maybe slowed down a little bit. Just enough for me to catch him."

Hadn't LaMotta slowed down too? Jake admitted he had. "But I'm smarter and stronger," he added. "It helps me punch harder. It didn't help him any to lose speed. That's what he depends on."

Somebody nicked LaMotta's pride by asking if Robinson ever knocked him down. "Now you know better than that," he said with indignation. "Nobody ever had me on the floor. Never. I had him down three times. In the fourth fight in New York I had him out against the ropes. But I didn't know enough to finish him. In the fifth I gave him the worst beating he ever got."

Return Bout
LaMotta said contracts include provisions for a return bout at New York's Yankee stadium or Polo Grounds if Robinson wins. The Chicago split is 45-15 with Champion Jake getting the big share. For a return it would be 30-30.

"Why should I fear him," he said. "I never ducked him. Everyone of our fights he got hurt not me. Never a scratch. No black eyes. This time I'm the champ. Let him come to me. What's that Joe Louis said about 'He can run but he can't hide.' When he trains for me he does his roadwork backwards."

Notre Dame Repulses Butler Rally, 75-65

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Notre Dame beat back a persistent Butler basketball attack in the second half Tuesday night to win 75-65 and snap a three game Irish losing streak.

Dan Bagley, big Notre Dame forward, squelched a Butler rally in the last six minutes by driving under a basket as he was fouled. He hit the free throw, giving Notre Dame a nine-point working margin.

Notre Dame led at the half, 32-24, in winning its ninth victory of 15 starts. The defeat was Butler's 13th in 17 games.

Sixty-two fouls were called, Notre Dame losing Bagley, Bob Wray and Jim Gibbons. Butler's Orvis Burdall and Art Fougere-ousse also fouled out.

Leroy Leslie, recovered from a recently sprained ankle, topped Notre Dame scoring with 16 points but John Hall hit 20 for Butler.

Williams Fights Cardell
DETROIT (AP)—Lightweight Champion Ike Williams, under fire from the National Boxing association for failure to defend his 135-pound title, takes on Vic Cardell of Hartford, Conn., here tonight in a 10-round non-title fight.

Williams, an overwhelming 3 to 1 favorite, expects to weigh 142 pounds. Cardell, a full grown welterweight, probably will be five pounds heavier — his only tangible advantage.

St. John's Victor
NEW YORK (AP)—St. John's of Brooklyn, ninth ranked in The Associated Press basketball poll, had to go all out Tuesday night to score a 46-39 victory over its intracity rival, Manhattan college, before 3,000 in New York's 69th regiment armory. The Brooklyn Redmen gained their victory with a second half drive after leading by only four points, 20-16, at halftime.

ST. AMBROSE WINS

Lowden Nips U-High, 46-45 As Stall Fails

By KEN CESSNA
A basket in the last three seconds by Forward Bob Weidenhopf gave the Lowden Go-Hawks a 46-45 win over University high school of Iowa City here Tuesday night.

Lowden had rallied to tie the score 40-40 early in the fourth quarter but Iowa City went ahead 44-40.

With the score at 45-42, Weidenhopf dropped in a bucket with one minute remaining and Iowa City then attempted to stall out the remaining time.

Rebounding an Iowa City shot with 15 seconds remaining Lowden worked the ball to Weidenhopf who hooked home the winning basket.

Lowden had never led in the game since the end of the first quarter when they held a 16-14 margin.

U-High's Gardner Van Dyke and Weidenhopf carried on a personal scoring battle in the opening period.

Van Dyke hit four of his first five shots and Weidenhopf tallied 10 points.

The Blue Hawks started fast going ahead 4-1. Lowden went ahead 8-4 and led 16-14 at the first quarter mark.

Turning to the fast break U-High took a lead in the second quarter that they never lost until the closing seconds of the game.

Iowa City led at halftime 26-25 and built their biggest margin of the game immediately after. It took Lowden four minutes to score as U-High went ahead 33-25.

Lowden clipped the Iowa City lead to 35-34 before trailing 38-34 at the third quarter.

Scoring honors went to Weidenhopf with 21 points. Guard Bob Ewalt led U-High with 14 and Van Dyke added 13.

Minnesota Too Rough 'Phog' Allen Complains

CHICAGO (UP)—Eminent Dr. Forrest C. "Phog" Allen brings another cage oddity to the Chicago stadium Saturday, his 1951 basketball team which not never but hardly ever shoots a free throw.

"Any time a team can hit 40 percent of its shots from the floor," Allen told Chicago basketball writers on the phone Tuesday, "why shoot free throws?"

His club, which has won 11 and lost 3 this season, follows this precept. When a single gift, toss is granted the Jayhawkers, under Allen's explicit instructions, they take the ball out of bounds.

At times, of course, Kansas gets a double free throw, and then one of his lads steps up and tries the first shot and the team takes the second out of bounds.

Usual Complains
Allen has his usual complains about the current basketball rules. "Some of these coaches are using the patoon system now," he said, "and they spread the fouls around. They don't worry about fouling, just give instructions to foul far enough out so they don't get two shots."

"The only way to cure this is to give a shot and let the team keep possession of the ball out of bounds."

Allen was particularly upset about one of his team's three defeats, to Minnesota in the Christmas holiday Big Seven tournament.

"They murdered us," he said. "Kentucky and Kansas State, they just beat us. But Minnesota had this boy (Myer) Skoog would cut around and just about take (Clyde) Lavellette's arms off."

Lavellette, a 6 foot, 8 3-4 inch center from Terre Haute, Ind., has been one of Allen's mainstays this season.

"It isn't how much he scores," Allen said. "But he's a good boy and he going to be a good basketball player."

Plays Northwestern
Allen's team meets Northwestern a fast breaking outfit now in fourth place in the Big Ten, Saturday.

"We'll play a fast break when outnumbered," Allen said. "And when they put three men on Lavellette we're going to hit out, and we've got men who can hit out."

"We've been expecting a zone. They all play a zone on us or an all court press."

'Gabby' Street Seriously Ill
JOPLIN, MO. (AP)—Charles E. (Gabby) Street, one of baseball's oldtime greats, was in grave condition Tuesday night at St. John's hospital.

Street, 68, entered the hospital last Wednesday after he became ill while en route to his home in Joplin from Peoria, Ill., where he had addressed an "oldtimers" meeting Jan. 20.

The former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and St. Louis Browns was in an oxygen tent. His family was at the bedside.

Mrs. Street said her husband has been "sinking rather fast" in the last 12 hours. His son, Lt. Charles E. Street of the marine air corps and his daughter, Mrs. Owen Hull of Weston, Mo., also were at the hospital.

In poor health for several months, Street has been ill frequently since undergoing an abdominal operation two years ago, his wife said.

"He is completely exhausted and has developed heart trouble," Mrs. Street said.

Since entering the hospital, Street has been given several blood transfusions.

LIU Finding Things Rough in Road Games

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Travel, travel little star, you'll find things tougher than where you are.

The inspiration for the above little travesty on poetry is the current tour of the supposedly invincible Long Island university basketball team. To date the Blackbirds have lost two games, with the road ahead sprinkled with tacks.

Tonight they will be at Manhattan, but possibly unfortunately for them it will be Manhattan, Kan., and not the Manhattan of Madison Square Garden, which is home, sweet home, to them.

Every Echo by Name
We hastily explain that we aren't belittling the prowess of the LIU players. We're just pointing out what fans all over the country undoubtedly maintains. That is, in figuring the merits of some of the New York teams it must be considered that many of their games are played at the Garden, where they know every echo by name.

The advantage of a home court has been variously estimated, at from six to 10 points, and in the case of the Garden we think the latter figure would be closest to correct. The very vastness of the place and the general seating are so different from the fieldhouses in which visiting teams play most of their games that they are awed.

There are many angles which must be considered in figuring a home team's advantage.

There is the size of the court. Most of the courts nowadays, at least those on which college teams play, are fairly standardized, but a foot or so could make quite a difference.

Lighting A Factor
Then there is the lighting. No two courts have exactly the same lighting, and the shadows, combined with an unfamiliar background, could be a decided handicap to a team not used to them.

Not usually figured is the variance in the resiliency of the court itself. Some surfaces are firm, others springy. Some, taken up and put down often, develop dead spots.

Firmness of the basket and backboard also must be considered, as well as the attitude of the crowd.

Particularly the crowd, as there is nothing that spurs a home team more than having the whole-hearted backing of the gallery.

As to officiating, personally we believe that, except in rare instances possibly, officials try to be fair. After all, no official has our knowledge has been involved in scandals.

Farm Prices Rise 5 Percent In 30 Days

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm prices rose five percent from mid-December to mid-January but not enough to bring any more commodities under the new price freeze, the agriculture department announced Tuesday.

The department used its Jan. 15 list of prices farmers get for their produce, and the comparable "parity" prices that show how much they would get on the basis of the government's fair-return yardstick.

The government is prohibited by law from imposing had-and-fast ceilings on foods as long as the farmer is receiving less than parity for his product. Because of this, price Chief Michael V. DiSalle has reported food prices may rise another five percent even with controls.

The new report showed that average on-the-farm prices rose five percent between Dec. 15 and Jan. 15 to a level 29 percent higher than they were a year ago this month.

During the same period, prices farmers paid for what they bought went up only three percent in January, and 10 percent for the year. This means the farmer came out well ahead in the price race.

Pork Prices Dip

However no additional farm prices reached the parity level. In fact pork prices dipped below parity. But economic stabilizers have frozen pork prices on grounds they had passed the "magic figure" when the wage-price freeze was announced last Friday.

The only other major products now selling above parity are beef, veal, lamb, cotton, rice and wool. The price freeze applies to these items at processor, wholesale and retail levels but not at the farm levels.

The overall level of farm prices on Jan. 15 was 10 percent above parity, but most farm commodities still were selling below that yardstick level. The average was boosted by beef, wool, cotton and lamb prices, now highest point in history.

Agriculture marketing specialists estimate that overall farm prices can advance another five to eight percent before all items are eligible for price control. President Truman is reported ready to ask congress to change the control law to permit ceilings on all food prices at current levels.

First Since Freeze

Tuesday's farm prices report is the first since the wage-price freeze order. The agriculture department will certify its figures to the economic stabilization agency this month and for successive farm price reports as the basis for determining which items are to be controlled.

The report showed that the farmer received $2.09 a bushel for wheat in mid-January compared with $2.03 a month before and a parity price of $2.35. He received 98.6 cents a bushel for potatoes, compared with 88.9 cents the previous month and parity of $1.76.

Ambassador's Letter Denies Knowledge That Remington Red

NEW YORK (AP)—A deposition from David K. Bruce, U.S. ambassador to France, denying any knowledge that William W. Remington ever was a Communist, was read Tuesday in Remington's perjury trial.

Then the defense rested. Remington, former $10,000-a-year government economist, was charged with perjury for denying before a grand jury last year that he ever had been a Communist.

This was the 26th day of the federal court trial. U.S. Atty. Irving H. Saypol said he intended to call rebuttal witnesses, indicating the trial would not be concluded before next week.

Favored Curbs
Bruce said in his deposition that he saw Remington "occasionally" when Bruce was acting as assistant secretary of commerce between July, 1947, and May 15, 1948.

The ambassador said Remington "favored very strong curbs on exports from the United States to Russia" at a time when the United States wanted chrome and manganese from Russia.

To the question of whether Remington had Communist connections, Bruce said, "I have no knowledge in this regard."

Read over Objections
Bruce's deposition was made in Paris last Sept. 7. He presently is in Washington in connection with defense talks between French Premier Rene Pleven and U.S. government officials.

Bruce's deposition was read over objections by Saypol, who contended that it concerned a period much later than that specified in the indictment. The indictment covered the period of 1933 and 1944.

Twice-Condemned Man —

SUI Professor Still Sought by Franco Spain

By CHUCK McLAUGHLIN

A twice-condemned man is on the faculty at SUI in the romance language department.

He is Prof. Jeronimo Mallo, Spanish instructor and exile from Franco Spain, who was sentenced to death twice after the Spanish civil war.

At the close of the war, Mallo fled to France with a half million other Spanish loyalists, where he was housed in a hotel furnished by the French government.

"I was listening to the radio in the hotel one day when I heard the announcer say several men were sentenced to death by government officials. My name was on the list," he said.

At the outbreak of the civil war, Mallo was a magistrate in Barcelona and also a practicing lawyer.

He was also an instructor of law at the University of Madrid where he received his law degree and Ph.D.

While enroute to France for the first stage of his exile, Mallo was forced to leave his possessions in Barcelona since he, his wife and daughter had to travel with just a few suit cases.

Conditions Terrible
He said conditions during the war were terrible and life at the hotel furnished by the French government wasn't much better. "I had some friends in France who helped out with various gifts."

Mallo recalled the French were split in their sympathies toward the revolution at the time. "Their economic condition did not permit an overflow of immigrants," he said.

He thinks they are more sympathetic toward the loyalists today, however.

From France, Mallo went to Mexico at the expense of the exile government, where he worked as an editorialist for the Novedades, Mexico City newspaper. He is still an active journalist, sending articles to several Latin American publications.

U.S. Agriculture Ready for Crisis, Brannan Declares

CLEVELAND (AP)—American agriculture "is in a far sounder position" to meet the present mobilization than it was for any previous emergency, secretary of agriculture Charles F. Brannan declared Tuesday.

The secretary spoke at the annual meeting of the national rural electric cooperative association. "Total food production is running about 40 percent above the years just before World War II," he explained. "Our field crop production in 1950 was bigger than in any year before 1948."

"Agriculture as a whole is in a relatively good financial position. Farmers have plowed back a lot of their earnings into up-to-date machinery and equipment."

"There are more than twice as many tractors on American farms now as there were in 1941, before Pearl Harbor. There are twice as many trucks on farms, nearly three times as many combines, and more than three times as many milking machines and mechanical corn pickers."

"The result of all these advances," the secretary asserted, "is that farm output per man-hour has risen about 50 percent above the 1935-39 average."

1941 and taught Spanish at Florida Southern college. Up to this time, Mallo's experience in the English language was centered around the ability to read. He developed his speaking knowledge after his arrival in the U.S.

Mallo came in SUI in 1943 and his daughter, Marisol, 17 year-old freshman at SUI, is majoring in romance languages and is assisting in the romance language department.

Mallo says he does not intend to return to his native Spain as long as Franco is in power. "I'm a condemned man and it wouldn't be safe," he remarked.

Mallo doubts that Franco's government could be overthrown by another revolution. "Although his army is unable to fight Russia, it isn't too small to put down a revolt by poorly equipped civilians," he said.

As for his family, he thinks they may be able to return to Spain someday. At least he knows of families who had been in exile returning safely to Spain.

Flash Fire Kills 18 Aged Persons in Rest Home

HOQUIAM, WASH. — A flash fire swept through a home for patients.

The blaze flared from the furnace room spreading with sickening speed through rooms in which many patients lay too ill or feeble to move.

Four of the dead were trapped in their beds in one room of the McClary convalescent home and others died as they fought to escape from an inside stairway, the only means of escape from the second floor.

14 Removed From Ruins
Fourteen bodies were removed from the ruins. Two patients died of burns and nine others were hospitalized, six in critical condition.

Five of the patients were unaccounted for two hours after the blaze started, but at least two were believed to have walked out safely.

The home was a privately operated establishment for the aged and infirm, mostly welfare cases.

Operator's Story
Mrs. Harriet McClary, operator of the rest home, said she was sitting in the front room "when all of a sudden it sounded like an explosion at the rear of the building and the whole back end was enveloped in black smoke."

"The smoke came to the front of the house," she related. "I immediately rushed to the phone and called the fire department."

"I heard people upstairs coughing and a number of them calling for help. There were stretchers and fire extinguishers in the house, but the fire broke out so quickly there wasn't much I could do."

"Probably the furnace blew up. I don't know."

Aberdeen and Hoquiam fire departments answered the first alarm, turned in at 12:10 p.m. The firemen were hampered in their efforts to quell the blaze by intense cold, which froze the water as it came from the hoses.

Building Fire Inspected
A police sergeant said a new fire-proof roof had been put on the building only last summer and the building had been recently inspected by the fire marshal.

All available ambulances were summoned. The dead and injured were taken to four Grays Harbor area hospitals. It was not immediately determined how many were injured in the blaze.

Survivors said there was little confusion. Those who escaped were the ones who could walk. Smoke and flame killed the bed-ridden before they could be moved. Average age of the patients was 65 to 70. The oldest was Mrs. Adie Dean, 89, who died of a heart attack at a neighbor's home.

Senate Joins House; Votes to Junk Money-Bill System

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of the senate appropriations committee joined their house colleagues Tuesday in voting to shelve the system of putting all the government's spending into a single-package money bill.

Advocates of the single-package system immediately protested the change will make it harder for congress to cut President Truman's $71,594,000,000 budget this year. Some lawmakers want to trim it by as much as $7-billion.

System Too Slow
Chairman Kenneth D. McKellar (D-Tenn.) of the senate appropriations committee insisted that the return to the old system of 10 or more separate money bills will permit congress to act more "efficiently and economically."

He said one of the big "defects" of the single-package system was that congress couldn't possibly finish it before the start of the new fiscal year July 1.

Congress tried the single-package system last year, lumping more than $36-billion into a single measure. It didn't get through congress until late August and wasn't signed by the President until Sept. 6.

House Action
The single-package experiment was recommended on the theory that it would put all the government spending in one basket and tend to hold down non-essential proposals.

The house appropriations committee voted to overthrow the experiment Monday and at the same time trimmed back some of Chairman Clarence Cannon's other powers regarding the appointment of subcommittees.

High Speed Blamed As Principal Cause Of Auto Accidents

Speed was the principal cause of 148 of the 505 fatal accidents in the state of Iowa in 1950, according to the annual report of the Iowa Department of Public Safety.

Eighty-three of the fatal accidents were attributed to carelessness and inattention, while impaired ability caused by drinking was listed as the cause of 65 more.

The report indicated that drivers between the ages of 25 and 64 were involved in more fatal accidents than all other age groups combined.

The greatest number of accidents happened on straight, level roads in good condition.

The report showed that trees, crops, and bushes were attributed as the principal cause of obscurement in the 74 fatal accidents which occurred as a result of obstructed vision on the highways. Rain, snow and sleet on windshields and blinding headlights caused 32 of the 37 accidents blame to vehicular obscured vision.

Davenport Girl Rescues Bovenport From Flames

DAVENPORT (AP)—An 11-year-old crippled boy was saved from death early Tuesday when his 15-year-old sister, barefoot and clad only in a nightgown, carried him from their flaming home in 14 degree below zero temperature.

Their mother, Mrs. Esther Weber, a widow, and two other children also are left homeless as a result of the blaze which destroyed their home.

Carried from the house by his sister, Billie Jean, was Louis Weber, who has been confined to a wheel chair since he fell from a loft two years ago.

Says No Rationing in Sight

EXPLAINING THERE IS NO SHORTAGE of consumer goods in the nation. Price Administrator Michael DiSalle (arm extended) tells Washington newsmen no immediate rationing of consumer goods is being considered. The announcement was made as economic stabilizers moved to halt inflation by freezing wages and prices temporarily at their Jan. 25 levels. There are no roll-backs but wages may be adjusted under a policy still to be worked out. Cyrus Ching, wage board chairman, is shown seated (right).

17 Claim Relationship With Late Millionaire

MASON CITY (AP)—Seventeen persons claiming to be cousins in first to third degree of the late millionaire William E. Brice entered the contest for his estate Tuesday.

A petition by Atty. Gates W. Clancy, of Geneva, Ill., representing the 17, asked that one of their number, Mrs. Anna E. Swanstrom claim to be a first cousin of the railroad builder and utility magnate.

The petitions named the other claimants, seeking shares of the estate along with Mrs. Swanstrom, together with their claimed cousinship to Brice.

Ernest Putnam, 82, Dies After 55-Year Career as Mechanic

Ernest A. Putnam, 82, a mechanic for SUI's mechanical engineering department, died at 12:05 a.m. Tuesday at Mercy hospital after a short illness.

A resident of Iowa City for the past 55 years, he was also president of Putnam Products, Inc. He lived at 1822 Friendship street.

He was born in Sunfield, Mich. As a young man he was a machinist and cowboy in Idaho. After coming to Iowa City, Mr. Putnam did electrical work and inventing, and was granted several patents in the mechanical engineering field.

He joined the mechanical engineering department in 1918, after working for the university's building and grounds department. At the time of his death, he was serving as mechanic on a retired basis.

Mr. Putnam was a lifelong member of the Methodist church, and a member of the Iowa City Moose lodge and the Modern Woodmen of America.

He is survived by his widow, Stella; three sons, Wayne S. Russell, and Vernon, all of Iowa City; a sister, Mrs. Nellie Howick of Manchester and nine grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Thursday at Beckman's, Dr. L. L. Dunnington, pastor of the Methodist church, will officiate. Burial will be in the Oakland cemetery.

Worcester, Mass. Gets Caught in Own Net

WORCESTER, MASS. (AP)—The city of Worcester got caught in its own crackdown Tuesday.

Police have been summoning property owners into court by the dozens in recent weeks for failure to shovel their sidewalks. Maximum fine is $50.

Tuesday, George J. Fox, custodian of all land taken by the city for unpaid taxes, got a call from the police himself. One of his lots wasn't shoveled, said the officer. Fox arranged with the city's street department to clear the walk.

Go to School Via TV During Janitor Strike

MINNEAPOLIS GRADE SCHOOL pupils are getting their larnin' via television during strike of school janitors. Teachers go to station WTCN and give 15 minute lessons in a wide variety of subjects for a two-hour period each morning. Above (left) lessons are given while a few pupils sit by to provide atmosphere. Right, two pupils sit by TV receiver for geography lesson.

Hydrogen Bomb One Year Old; Will It Work?

WASHINGTON — Secrecy-shrouded hydrogen bomb project reached its first anniversary Tuesday with two big questions still unanswered:

1. Will the H-bomb work?
2. If so, will it be militarily worthwhile?

The same questions were hotly debated one year ago when President Truman ordered the atomic energy commission to try to develop a superbomb that could wipe out entire cities in one blinding flash.

His attitude, shared by most members of congress, was that this country has no choice but to find out if such a weapon is feasible. They thought Russia undoubtedly was working on it too.

Twelve months later, the AEC is building a huge plant in South Carolina to produce the H-bomb explosive tritium (triple-weight hydrogen).

But officials have emphasized that the decision to build the plant does not mean that the H-bomb's success is assured. They have said repeatedly that the plant also will be capable of turning out the regular A-bomb explosive plutonium if the H-bomb doesn't work.

For security reasons, the AEC has refused to issue any progress reports on superbomb research. Chairman Gordon Dean said last month that "feasibility" of the weapon still is in doubt.

Other well-informed quarters, in and out of the commission, have emphasized that the H-bomb won't be answered even if a trial bomb is built and successfully tested.

The hard fact that H-bombs can be produced only at the sacrifice of regular A-bombs, since each requires that same scarce raw material—uranium. Some qualified sources have estimated that 25 plutonium bombs might be built with what it takes to produce the tritium for a single H-bomb.

Military leaders are not convinced that a bigger blast necessarily means a better weapon.

There is a question whether wiping out Moscow with an H-bomb would do much to halt a Russian sweep over Europe and Asia.

Also, military and atomic officials seem less excited about the H-bomb project than about the secret atomic tests under way in Nevada.

Observers here believe that the tests involve something new and important in atomic weapons developments.

The new hints that have emerged indicate that the tests may involve new varieties of A-bombs that the military has long coveted—the kind that can be used tactically against an enemy's armies in the field rather than strategically against cities.

Five persons were fined a total of $53 in Iowa City police court Tuesday.

Parmalee M. Brown, Des Moines, paid $12.50 with $5 suspended on a charge of stop light violation. Schyler D. Hales, 810 N. Linn street, paid $3 on a charge of blocking a driveway.

Lloyd F. Martin, G. Asbury Park, N.J., was fined $12.50 on a charge of failing to observe a stop light. George Louvar, Cedar Rapids, was assessed $12.50 for failing to stop before entering a highway.

Kenneth Mahoney, 933 N. Dodge street, was fined $12.50 on a charge of intoxication.

Home Ec Helps Coeds

SUI Department Offers Homemaking Courses In Foods, Fabrics, Home Management

The two courses, Textiles and Clothing, although primarily concerned with fabric qualities, also teach garment construction. A course in Advanced Construction is open to students who complete Beginning Clothing.

Many of the projects undertaken by the Textiles class last semester are now on display in room 119 Macbride hall. Place mats, luncheon cloths and napkins are only a few of the finished articles.

Psychology majors and social welfare students, as well as future homemakers, may profit from a course in Child Care. Students study the child's physical and mental growth in relation to hereditary and environmental factors.

The practical clothing needs of a child, his food requirements and essential play equipment are also considered.

The courses are designed to provide the answers to questions which will confront SUI coeds after they take on a role as housewife.

Three courses — Economic Problems of the Family, Personal and Family Buying, and Home Management—deal with the management of family income and equipping the work centers of the home for maximum efficiency.

They are restricted to juniors and seniors because of the advanced nature of the class, Prof. Lula E. Smith said. Miss Smith said the courses emphasize budget counseling for proper use of the family income.

For the woman—or man—who likes to be in the kitchen, there are three beginning foods courses; Instruction in Foods, Meal Management, and Elementary Nutrition.

To brighten up the classes, the department has a completely redecorated foods laboratory done in bright yellows and blues with grey and salmon accents.

Several new sleeves with all the automatic gadgets may reduce the likelihood of a failure in beginner's first cooking assignment.

Two of the non-prerequisite courses offer a chance for coeds to replenish their wardrobes and stock up their hope chests.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Federal authorities said Tuesday that Dr. Richard N. Lewis, University of Delaware chemistry professor, has refused to answer "certain questions" about a Chinese scientist involved in a deportation proceedings.

Dr. Lewis was called before the U.S. immigration service to testify in the proceedings against Dr. Haue-Shen Tsien, Chinese jet propulsion expert. Dr. Tsien has been accused of having at one time been a member of the Communist party.

The nature of the questions Dr. Lewis refused to answer were not disclosed by immigration authorities or the professor.

Dr. Lewis said he told examiner Willard S. Layton that he had known Dr. Tsien when he (Lewis) was a student at California Institute of Technology but he neither had seen or corresponded with him since 1942.

Federal authorities said they were studying the case to determine what legal action, if any, is to be taken against Dr. Lewis.

The Associated Press reported erroneously Tuesday that Dr. Lewis refused to testify before the examiner and that Dr. Tsien was accused of being a Communist.

Five Girls Complain Of Week's Vacation Caused by Janitors

MINNEAPOLIS — Five indignant high school girls Tuesday led a growing volume of public protest against a week-old janitors' strike which has idled some 63,000 public school pupils.

In a letter to the Minneapolis Star, the girls said "Janitors, clerks and teachers have no moral right to keep us out of school now and then force us to attend school in the summer."

Another citizen wrote that all men strikers should be sent to Korea, all women to defense plants, and "let the kids run wild."

AFL janitors went on strike last Tuesday for higher wages. A union spokesman said a conciliation meeting was held Tuesday but "no settlement is in sight."

School officials announced at the start of the strike that all time lost by students would have to be made up during vacations. After the janitors walked out, AFL men and women teachers announced that they too were on strike for higher pay.

A clerical workers' union said it would stand by until the janitors' issue is settled before taking action on its own wage demands.

DES MOINES (AP) — Two young attorneys, serving first terms in the Iowa house, tangled sharply Tuesday on a bill, which later was killed on a standing vote.

The measure was designed to prevent a county attorney from commenting before a jury on the fact the defendant in a criminal case did not stand the witness stand.

The measure was introduced by Rep. Paul J. Cooksey (R - Spencer). Rep. Harvey Uhlenhopp (R-Hampton), successfully opposed it.

Cooksey described the measure as an effort "to put human rights back where they ought to be." He said that if a county attorney, which he never has been, can't convict a defendant without making such reference, there is doubt of the defendant's guilt.

Uhlenhopp, a former county attorney, declared the measure would "seriously hamstring the prosecution." He said the bill would take the prosecutor back 27 years to the time when county attorneys were prohibited from making such references. Uhlenhopp added that "at the outset the cards are all stacked against the prosecutor."

Rep. Jacob Van Zwol (R-Paulina) moved that the measure be killed.

West Germans Asking for Civil War: Grotewohl

BERLIN — East German Premier Otto Grotewohl compared Germany to Korea Tuesday and declared West Germany's refusal to negotiate unity with the Communists will lead "to civil war."

As an inducement to enter negotiations, the Communists offered to cut the strength of their 200,000-man police force if West Germany would follow suit.

"Germany's split will lead to war. Germany's unification will secure peace. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's attitude will lead to chauvinism and finally to civil war," Grotewohl said in a speech before the lower chamber of the East German parliament.

The broadcast speech was punctuated with so many shouts it caused radio receivers to vibrate.

When Grotewohl concluded, the house adopted a resolution specifying conditions for establishment of a united government. With the exception of the possible reduction of the police army, it contained nothing new. But it was the first hint the Reds might even consider decreasing their semi-military force.

West German Chancellor Adenauer recently rejected Grotewohl's proposal to discuss unification of Germany until such time as the Communists set their people free from the bonds of Red dictatorship.

Grotewohl indicated, as Western observers already have said, that the proposal for unification negotiations was made to delay the rearmament of Western Germany within the Atlantic pact.

"Korea Horrifying" "With horror, the German people have the developments in Korea before their eyes," the fiery Communist leader said. "It is, therefore, no wonder that the resistance against remilitarization in West Germany is increasing."

U.S. Considers Auto Production Limits To Conserve Metals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is considering an order which would conserve scarce defense metals by limiting production of new automobiles and other consumer goods during the second quarter of the year, it was revealed Tuesday.

The action — if it comes — may strike hardest at higher priced goods out of reach of the average consumer.

The disclosure coincided with an agriculture department report showing that farm prices rose five percent in the month ended Jan. 15 — enough to dent the consumer's pocketbook but not enough to bring any additional foods under the new price control order.

Price Administrator Michael V. Disalle already has warned that retail food prices may jump another five percent because of a proviso in the controls law which bars firm ceilings on food as long as the farmer's price is under parity.

Violators Prosecuted

Simultaneously, Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath issued a stern warning that price-wage control violators will be "vigorously and promptly prosecuted." He ordered all U.S. attorneys and marshals to cooperate in "every way" in enforcing the curbs.

Word that the government is considering civilian production cut-backs to save scarce metals needed for guns, tanks and planes came from an official of the national production authority.

He said the plan under consideration would limit the number of new automobiles which could be built in the three months starting April 1, for example, or limit the amount of steel and other scarce metals which could be used for consumer goods industries.

In addition to new cars, the suggested order would affect the output of durable goods such as refrigerators, stoves, washing machines, home appliances and host of other items which see everyday use in the average household.

Airforce Establishes Central Defense Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The air force Tuesday announced plans to establish a central air defense force with temporary headquarters at Kansas City, Mo.

The new force would be part of the air defense command and would operate in conjunction with the previously established eastern and western air defense forces.

The temporary headquarters are to be established by early March, the air force said. It is planned eventually to locate the headquarters at Grandview, Mo.

Present plans would give the central air defense force responsibility for the area bounded by the 89th and 103rd meridians, including southeastern United States.

This would be a line drawn roughly north-south from the Canadian border and running through the eastern areas of Wisconsin and Illinois. The western boundary similarly would be a line through the western areas of North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Texas.

The air defense command is responsible for the air defense of the United States.

Headquarters of the eastern air defense force is Stesart air base, Newburgh, N.Y. Western air defense force has headquarters at Hamilton airbase, San Rafael, Calif.

The central air defense force formerly was part of the eastern air defense force. No commanding officer has been named to take over the newly established central air defense force.

Mrs. McKray Dies After Long Illness

Mrs. Goldie McKray, 63, died Tuesday at Mercy hospital after an illness of several months. A lifelong resident of Johnson county, Mrs. McKray lived at 1128 Rochester avenue.

U.S. Plans 'Small' Air-Raid Shelters

HULL, QUE. (AP)—A top American civil defense official said Tuesday the U.S. is switching away from a construction program of large air-raid shelters because Washington "doesn't think we'll have time" to finish them.

James J. Wadsworth, assistant administrator of civil defense, told Canada's first civil defense forum that American military planning has taken on a "tremendous urgency" based on belief Russia might attack at any moment.

He said the U.S. had under study a program of large scale, single-purpose shelters, but is switching to family shelters and, to use of other potential refuge, such as basements, which could be strengthened.

Polio Poster Boy Pays Tribute to FDR

A FLORAL WREATH TRIBUTE to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt is placed on his grave by Lawrence McKenzie, 12-year-old March of Dimes poster boy for 1951. Standing beside him is Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, as the Kuckville, N.Y., polio victim pays his tribute on the late president's 69th birthday. Lawrence's sister, Patricia, and two representatives of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis accompanied him to Hyde Park.

Frozen Foam Now 15 Feet High

THIS GIGANTIC HEAD ISN'T ON A MUG OF BEER. It was found in the tunnel underneath the SUI Hydraulics laboratory Tuesday afternoon. The river water comes into the tunnel so fast it causes foam to form under the ice. The foam keeps a tiny air-hole open in the ice and forces itself through, building this pillar of frozen foam.

14-Year-Old Youth Killed for Shouting 'Heil Hitler!' at Man

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP)—A German World War I veteran induced a friend to kill 14-year-old Robert Leonard because the youth teased him by shouting "Heil Hitler!" Sheriff C. Fred Close said Tuesday.

Close said Joseph Paonessa, 40-year-old auto mechanic, said in a confession that he killed the boy 15 weeks ago at the insistence of Alfred Von Wolfersdorf, 36-year-old landlord, who had him completely in his power.

District Atty. W. Vincent Grady said Paonessa told him he belonged to a secret organization known as the "Civil and Political Corrective Service," of which Von Wolfersdorf was the leader, and that he was bound to do anything Von Wolfersdorf ordered.

Grady said Paonessa quoted his friend as saying the youth "had to die" because he ran up and down stairs in the apartment house the German owned, slammed doors, and yelled "Heil Hitler!" every time he met his landlord.

Grady said he would seek first degree murder charges against the two men immediately. Von Wolfersdorf, who has been held in jail as a material witness in the case for more than a month, has denied all of Paonessa's charges.

Committee to Determine Legislature Liquor Probe

DES MOINES (AP)—A 16-member legislative committee was appointed Tuesday to study records of an interim committee hearing on the state liquor control commission and determine if the legislature should continue the action.

The eight senators and eight representatives will study the report of the interim committee hearing and will file a report with the two houses of legislature on their findings concerning the need for further investigation of policies and "political dictation" in the commission.

Six Republicans and two Democrats were named from each house.

Iowa Senate Delays Action On Larson's Gambling Law

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa senate delayed final action on its proposed new anti-gambling law Tuesday after voting down an amendment which would have legalized bingo games operated by church, fraternal and similar groups.

The anti-gambling bill, drawn up by Atty. Gen. Robert L. Larson and endorsed by Gov. William S. Beardsley, is similar to one now in effect in Minnesota. Sen. Paul McCarville (R-Ft. Dodge), said that Minnesota, however, has permitted church bingo, which he described as an "innocent corn game."

Sponsors of the proposed bill, following a full date of debate, appeared to have sufficient votes to pass the measure when consideration is resumed today.

The bill would revoke all business licenses of any tavern, business, or store where any slot machines or any other type of gambling devices were found.

The revocation would be for one year and the building could be padlocked for that period if the owner had knowledge of possession of the gambling devices.

All major amendments to the bill, including bingo legalization and a proposal to exempt private clubs from the revocation provisions, had been voted down when the senate adjourned at 3:10 p.m.

The bingo amendment, offered by McCarville, was defeated 32 to 17. The proposal to exempt country clubs and similar private organizations, introduced by Sen. De Vere Watson (R - Council Bluffs) was rejected 36 to 11.

Still pending are several amendments by Sen. Thomas Dailey (D-Burlington) which would grant the right of appeal to the courts to the owner of any building involved in the license revocation proceedings. Dailey said he wanted to protect innocent owners from being penalized by anything their tenants might have done.

Firemen Banquet; Merchants Pay Bill

Iowa City firemen held their annual banquet Tuesday night in the council chambers of city hall.

Forty-nine persons, consisting of firemen, retired firemen and their wives attended the banquet.

Food for the dinner was donated by Iowa City merchants at Christmas. Firemen explained that the banquet is not held at Christmas because many would not be able to attend.

Two films, "A Trip to Ireland" and "A Trip to Mexico," were shown after the dinner. The films were furnished by the SUI audiovisual extension division.

Iowa Man Sues In Midwest Car Theft Ring

MADISON, WIS. (AP)—John Sedorchuk, 28, Chicago, one of three men arrested here early this month as suspects in a midwest car theft ring, was named in a $90,000 damage suit here Tuesday.

The papers were served on Sedorchuk, held in Dane county jail, by an attorney representing George N. Coulter, Coon Rapids, Iowa.

Many Say Bill Would Drive Street Busses From Iowa Cities

DES MOINES (AP)—Many cities of the state would lose their street bus service if a bill now pending in the house of representatives should pass, a long list of persons declared Tuesday.

They made their statements at a public hearing conducted by the house cities and towns committee. They were concerned about a measure which would permit municipalities wide authority over buses, trucks and railroads.

Also speaking in opposition to the measure were spokesmen for railroads, truckers, transfer companies, food wholesalers and baking companies.

Only one person supported the measure. He is Leonard Able, Des Moines attorney who drafted the bill for the municipal code study committee. He pointed out that municipalities need not assume all of the powers the measure would confer.

Robert Walker, Keokuk, said the bus tax bill, if imposed, would make it impossible for many street bus companies to operate. He objected also to what he said were unlimited powers the bill would give cities.

Walker suggested that if the cities want more revenue they should seek all of the state gasoline tax now paid by the street bus companies. That revenue now goes mostly for highway improvements.

Post Office Losing Despite Economies, Donaldson Declares

WASHINGTON (AP)—Postmaster Gen. Jesse M. Donaldson said Tuesday the post office department will operate at a $530-million loss this fiscal year despite his sharp economy cuts in mail service.

He renewed his appeal to congress to raise rates on newspapers, magazines, parcel post, and special services such as insurance and postal savings. Donaldson testified at a closed-door session of the house post office committee. Members said he reported that mail handling costs have risen 14 percent because of pay raises for employees and increases in business.

At Donaldson's urging, the house passed a bill last year raising second and third class rates by about $130-million a year, but the bill died in the senate. He urged Tuesday that even higher rate increases be authorized.

Committee said Donaldson vigorously defended the cuts in mail service ordered last summer, under which home deliveries were reduced to one a day, and most post offices were put on a shorter work day.

He said he had received few complaints about service, and that most of those he has received "apparently" were the result of "organized pressure campaigns."

Marriage Costs Up

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee county board recommended Tuesday the state legislature increase marriage license fees from $1.50 to $3.50.

Wisconsin has the fourth lowest license fee in the country, Deputy County Clerk Fred John said. He said, "We're just about breaking even on costs."

Laud Rayburn For Record As Speaker

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman joined leaders of congress and the supreme court Tuesday in honoring Sam Rayburn, the modest Texan who has been speaker of the house longer than anyone in history.

At noon, Rayburn completed his 3,057th day as speaker, surpassing the record of 3,056½ days set more than a century ago by Henry Clay.

Truman Presents Gavel At a White House ceremony attended by Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, and congressional leaders of both parties, Mr. Truman presented Rayburn with a gavel made from timber put into the White House in 1817.

It was inscribed: "Sam Rayburn, who has served as speaker of the house of representatives longer than any man in the history of the republic—with honor and devotion to his country, Harry S. Truman, Jan. 30, 1951."

Another "Rayburn Day" ceremony will be held on the floor of the house today. It was scheduled for Tuesday, but was postponed when the house recessed because of the death of Rep. John B. Sullivan, (D-Mo.).

Rayburn became speaker Sept. 16, 1940, succeeding the late William B. Bankhead of Alabama. He has served continuously since then, except for 1947-48 when the Republicans controlled congress and the speaker was Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts.

Martin Attends Ceremony Martin attended the ceremony in Mr. Truman's office Tuesday and remarked with a grin that it would have taken place two years sooner but for him.

Mr. Truman said that he "tried to get out of the way" in 1944 and "let Sam Rayburn be nominated for vice-president." If he had been, Rayburn would have become president in 1945 instead of Mr. Truman.

The bald, 69-year-old Texan listened bashfully to the tributes. He was accompanied by his sister, Miss Lucinda Rayburn of Bonham, Tex.

Rayburn thanked everyone for their "kind words." But he said his warmest thanks must go to the Texas constituents who elected him to the house in 1913 and kept him there ever since.

Flowers and messages of congratulations poured into Rayburn's office at the capitol.

Reorganization Bill Before Iowa Senate

DES MOINES (AP)—Another state reorganization bill, recommended by the little Hoover commission, was reported to the Iowa senate for passage Tuesday.

It is the bill which makes the comptroller responsible for auditing all the state department finances, a function now held by the state auditor. The measure was placed on the senate calendar by its committee on governmental affairs. It is a companion bill to one previously reported for passage, establishing a new legislative budget and finance control committee to keep a check on state finances between legislative sessions.

Chairman X. T. Prentiss (R-Mount Ayr) of the governmental affairs committee said he might call up both bills for consideration later this week.

Civil War Vet Celebrates 107th Birthday

UNCLE JOE CLOVESE, one of eight surviving veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic which fought the Civil War for the North, celebrated his 107th birthday Sunday and received congratulations from Maj. Gen. Stanley E. Reinhart, US army retired. Uncle Joe, who is Michigan's only surviving veteran of the Civil War, lives in Pontiac. A slave, he ran away at the age of 17 and joined the Northern army.

Jury Finds No Facts on 'Non-Virgin' Club

CHARLESTON, ILL. (AP)—A special grand jury reported Tuesday it found no evidence of the alleged teen-age "non-virgin" club turned up no evidence of its existence at this time.

Further, the report said, "We feel that the problem must be faced and met primarily in the home," and urged "the concerted effort of the churches, schools, civic groups, and all youth-serving organizations to provide intelligent supervision, care, and guidance of the young people."

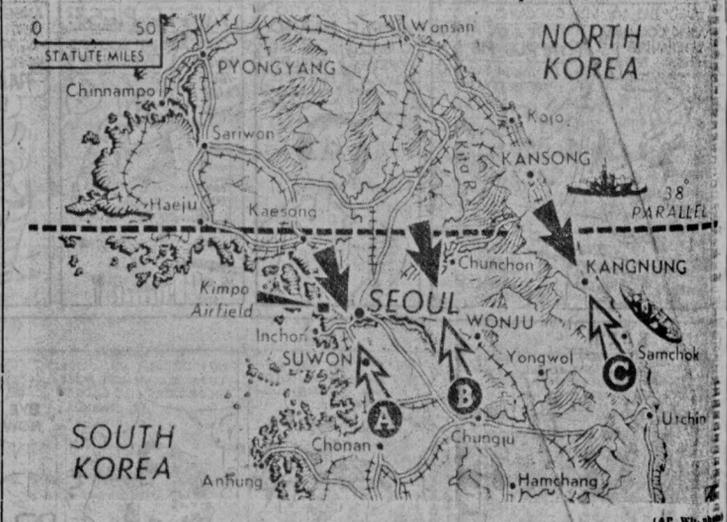

The father, who testified before the special Coles county grand jury here, said he learned of the club when his daughter told him she had been asked to join.

The investigation might be reopened later. About 20 witnesses testified before the grand jury, including one minister who said previously he had been approached on the street by a young and pretty girl with an indecent proposal, and another minister who said a young girl member of his congregation was "in trouble" because of the club activities.

Another witness was Police Chief Larkin J. Jones, who said his investigation "convicted" him the club exists among high school boys and girls, although he had not been able to find "concrete" evidence.

Authorities indicated evidence presented to the grand jury had been too "hezy" to implicate any individuals in the case, and that

UN Forces Reach Main Enemy Line

THE ALLIED DRIVE in western Korea (A) appeared to have reached the main enemy line Tuesday. Stiffest resistance to the advance was about nine miles northwest of Suwon. Relief column (B) returned a trapped 45-man patrol 18 miles northwest of Wonju after the patrol had fought for 15 hours. On the east coast a South Korean division (C) drove into Kangnung under air and naval support. Kangnung is 20 miles south of the 38th parallel. An Allied naval task force continued its day-long shelling of Kansong, 25 miles north of the parallel.

Cruiser Rochester, 1700, Home from Korea

FAMILIES AND FRIENDS of the 1,700 man crew aboard the Cruiser Rochester watch on the pier at Long Beach, Cal., as the boat pulls into dock from the Korean battle area. The ship steamed some 25,000 miles in nine months of operations against North Korean Communists. The ship came back to the United States to undergo major repairs at Mare Island.
