Three Killed As B-25 Crashes Near Lone Tree

(AP Wirephoto)

ONLY THE TAIL SECTION REMAINS of the twin-engined B-25 bomber which crashed four miles southwest of Lone Tree Saturday. Three servicemen were killed and three parachuted to safety.

WRECKAGE OF THE B-25 bomber was scattered over a 300-yard area Saturday and turned a snow-white farm field into a blackened stage for hundreds of onlookers. Arrows point out the remnants of the plane and where it hit.

Three Survivors Parachute Safely; One Hospitalized

By MARVIN BRAVERMAN

Two crew members and a military passenger were killed Saturday when an airforce B-25 on a routine flight crashed and exploded on a farm four miles southwest of Lone Tree.

Officers at Hill airforce base, Ogden, Utah, identified two of the dead as Capt. Kenneth A. Smith, 28, the pilot, Howell, Mich., and 2nd Lt. Paul E. Ehlen, 26, bombardier, Detroit, Mich.

The third man killed was an unidentified sailor who was hitchhiking a ride west. Two of the four crewmen and another "hitchhiker" parachuted to safety just before the plane plummeted to the ground.

One member of the crew, T-Sgt. J. R. Wall, Hill airforce base, suffered a fractured knee cap when he jumped. He was taken to Mercy hospital here, where he was listed in "good" condition Saturday night.

One Leaps Too Late
The two other survivors were the co-pilot, Lt. Paul Kolesar, Ironwood, Mich., and a second military passenger, T-Sgt. C. Knight, Davis-Monthan airforce base, Tucson, Ariz. They received only minor injuries.

One of the three dead leaped from the plane when it was only a few feet above the ground. His body, shrouded in a parachute, was found on a hilltop near the scene of the crash.

The crash occurred about 11:05 a.m. about 900 feet from the Ray Swanson farmhouse. Only the wheels and a section of the tail remained recognizable in the wreckage scattered over a 300-yard area.

Witnesses to the accident said the twin-engined bomber, reportedly enroute from Selfridge airforce base, Mt. Clemens, Mich., to a Wyoming or Utah airbase, began to circle before it crashed.

They said fire from the plane's left engine spread to the left side of the bomber. The three survivors bailed out when the plane was about 400 feet from the ground, they added.

Fire Department Called
The Lone Tree fire department was called. Harry Sievers, a volunteer fireman, said the explosion could be heard in Lone Tree.

The plane passed over Moline, Ill., at 10:57 a.m. and civil aeronautics administration officials there said the plane radioed that everything was normal at that time. The crash occurred about 10 minutes later.

Iowa highway patrolmen and Johnson county authorities threw a guard around the smoldering wreckage, but time and again hundreds of onlookers swarmed onto the field.

Finally, a section of the Iowa City national guard, the 34th reconnaissance company, was called. They spent Saturday night guarding the area.

Investigation Underway
A public information officer from Chanute airforce base, Rantoul, Ill., arrived in Iowa City about 5 p.m. Saturday, to conduct a full-scale investigation.

An associate close to the information officer said Saturday night all official statements concerning the crash would be sent from Chanute.

He said the officer was scheduled to return to the Illinois base Saturday night and would be back today. It was not known when the investigation would be completed.

Patrol Enters Seoul

TOKYO (SUNDAY) (AP) — Allied artillery set huge fires in Seoul Saturday and early today in a furious artillery barrage across the Han river while a South Korean patrol felt out Red resistance inside the old Korean capital.

American, Turkish and South Korean troops of the U.S. Third and 25th divisions on the snowy south banks of the Han awaited orders they expect would send them to attack the city they abandoned to the Chinese, Communists Jan. 4.

In three swift, sure blows Saturday, these weary, dirt-caked veterans of the U.S. Eighth army had captured Seoul's industrial suburb of Yongdungpo, Kimpo airfield 15 miles northwest of the capital, and Inchon port, 22 miles southwest of Seoul.

A South Korean republican patrol of the 25th division entered Seoul itself late Saturday and remained through the night, but the announced Allied objective still was not the capture of Seoul or any other point. Instead, it was the slaughter of Chinese and North Korean troops.

This was being accomplished. The official estimate of Red dead and wounded was above 65,000 from the start of the Allied offensive Jan. 25 through Friday. Saturday's toll was still to be added.

Labor Executive Named As Johnston's Assistant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor unions got more voice in the nation's economic high command Saturday. Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston, a businessman, appointed George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, as his principal assistant.

This conceivably could help ease Johnston's problems in winning labor-management cooperation.

Eyewitnesses Tell of Crash

Several Lone Tree farmers and their families Saturday witnessed the flaming plane crash which took three lives in their own backyards.

Homer Eden, 57, route 2, Lone Tree, said he was fishing with James Eden, his cousin, route 2; Leo Jarrard, route 2; B. Westfall, route 1, and Wilbur Forbes, route 2, about one-quarter of a mile from the crash scene.

"We knew something was wrong when we heard the plane roar over us," Eden declared. "We looked up and saw the left motor of the plane on fire. The plane was going east and in about a three mile circle. It was about 400 feet above us.

"When the plane passed over a timber, two men jumped and landed in a field. We didn't see the other man jump. He must have bailed out before the others.

"When the men jumped, burning parts from the plane were falling on the ground. As soon as we saw the crash, we immediately ran to the boys who had bailed out.

"What saved those three boys was that they landed in deep snow.

"When we reached two of the men who had parachuted, we ran to the plane. When we got there the fire was almost out and we saw three bodies scattered on the field. We stayed there until the highway patrolmen came."

Alvin Pearson, route 2, Lone Tree, said he was in his car when he saw a man parachuting to the ground. The man was later identified as T-Sgt. J. R. Wall, Hill airforce base, Ogden, Utah.

Pearson said he ran to Wall to help him. Wall was later taken to Mercy hospital, suffering from a fractured knee cap.

Thirteen-year-old Ernie Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Hall whose farm is adjacent to the crash scene, said he saw the plane just before it crashed.

"Before the crash all the underneath of it was on fire. I saw one parachute come down and then I saw two others. Then a fourth man dropped out just before the plane hit. His chute had just opened about the time the plane crashed.

"All of a sudden there was a big puff which shot flames more than 100 feet in the air," the boy said.

Mrs. Ray Swanson, route 2, Lone Tree, said she saw the plane come in very low. "I thought it would hit our barn but then it turned. It was about six barns high at the time."

Codes from a dozen other cities approximately the size of Iowa City have been studied in preparing the code," Borchart declared.

Classifying information from city council ordinances since the last revision has taken 22 months. Mayor Preston Koser said Saturday that the council will meet Wednesday since Monday, the regular meeting night, is a legal holiday. The council will meet briefly but will adjourn till Wednesday night for its business session.

Koser said fire protection for persons living outside city limits and discussion on a proposed aerial survey picture of Iowa City will probably come before the council Wednesday night.

Experts Consider Yugoslavia 'the Peril Point' — Believe War Won't Break Out This Spring

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survey of top-level estimates on the danger of a new outbreak of war this spring disclosed Saturday the following highly authoritative conclusions:

1. Yugoslavia is the peril point. A Soviet-Communist attack there would set off spreading hostilities that would almost certainly engulf other nations in another war.

2. The U.S. should do what it properly can to strengthen Yugoslavia and discourage an attack either this spring or later. The problem of what to do is now under pressing consideration here and in consultation with Britain, France and Marshall Tito's government at Belgrade. One good bet is that Tito eventually will get military supplies from the western powers.

3. The chances are that despite the dangers in the Yugoslav situation general war will not break out this spring because Russia is not ready. Some high officials here believe Russia will not take a serious risk of war even during 1952.

4. Though the odds are in favor of maintaining the present half-peace, there is still a danger of war-by-incident. The Soviet bloc countries have been stepping up their propaganda against Yugoslavia; evidently a new period of nerve war is opening. Tensions and tempers grow and these, with the coming of spring, create an explosive situation.

5. On the peace side of the ledger are two developments. One is the prospect for a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting this spring, create an explosive situation will fight on the diplomatic rather than military front. The other is growing hope for a settlement in Korea now that the Chinese Communists have found out they probably can't win.

Tuition Payments For Second Semester Due This Week

All fees for the second semester must be paid in full at the treasurer's office, room 2, University hall, between Wednesday morning and noon Saturday, SUI Treasurer F. L. Hamburg said Saturday.

Students who fail to pay their fees within those dates will be assessed $2 for the first day they are late and $1 for every day thereafter.

Veterans, as well as all holders of assistantships, scholarships and appointments, graduate or undergraduate, must pay their fees at the treasurer's office before their registration will be completed.

Students should adhere to the following schedule, as nearly as possible, to make their payments:

A-G — Wednesday, H-M — Thursday, N-S — Friday and T-Z — Saturday.

The treasurer's office will be open from 8-12 noon and 1-5 p.m. except Saturday when the office closes at noon.

'Great Debate' on Troop Issue Rages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "great debate" raged on Saturday night as:

1. Sen. Robert Taft (R - Ohio) called President Truman too "reckless" to be entrusted with uncaptured powers to send U.S. troops to Europe.

2. Administration men struck out at Herbert Hoover's air - sea defense plan. Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, administration foreign policy leader in the senate, said the Hoover plan would leave Europe at the mercy of Communist conquest.

Between Halves of Iowa-Indiana Basketball Game —

New Fight Song to Get Introduction Monday

SUI's new "Iowa Fight Song," composed by Meredith Willson, will receive its local premiere Monday night between halves of the Indiana-Iowa basketball game in the Iowa fieldhouse.

Willson, a native of Mason City, is musical director of the National Broadcasting company's program, "The Big Show."

The new song will be introduced by Loren Hickerson, director of the alumni service; Prof.

Herald Stark, head of vocal music and the university band under the direction of Prof. C. B. Righter. Stark will lead the crowd in singing the new song. Words and music will be printed on the basketball programs.

Willson first became interested in composing a new fight song for SUI about a year ago. Last fall Les Zacheis, record reviewer for the Cedar Rapids Gazette, expressed dissatisfaction in his column with the use of the "Iowa Corn Song" in connection with SUI.

Zacheis sent his column, together with a Gazette editorial expressing a similar opinion, in a letter to Willson.

Willson then wrote the "Iowa Fight Song" which was played for the first time publicly on "The Big Show" program Dec. 31.

Predict Few 18 Year Olds Will Be Drafted First Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some legislators forecast Saturday that few, if any, 18-year-olds will be drafted the first year even if congress authorizes it.

They based their views on the numerous restrictions and additional manpower sources provided in a broad universal military training and service bill approved 7-1 by the senate preparatory subcommittee. The house armed services committee also is at work on a new draft bill.

Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall and top military leaders had asked congress to lower the present draft age minimum from 19 to 18, without restrictions, and extend the length of active service for draftees from the present 21 months to 27.

Instead, the senate subcommittee under Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D-Texas) approved drafting 18-year-olds only if older men from 19 through 25 years do not fill manpower needs, and then by taking those 18-year-olds who are nearest 19.

They also tightened required service to 24 months without leave. This amounts to a little

75 Accepted for New ROTC Program

About 75 applicants have been tentatively accepted for the new airforce ROTC program and have been told to attend regular advanced classes, the SUI military department said Saturday.

Complete tabulation is still underway, but seniors and second semester juniors who were permitted to register under the new ruling have been attending military classes.

Full information concerning the new program and SUI's quota is not yet known.

Col. George A. Bosch, professor of air science and tactics, was expected back late Saturday from 10th airforce headquarters where he went Tuesday to obtain more information.

Justice in the Martinsville Case —

The concepts of American democracy and justice took what we feel was an undeserved beating recently. A number of groups, including the Civil Rights congress, the Progressive party and the American Civil Liberties union, have been yelling to high heaven about what they term "a complete mockery of justice" in the "Martinsville Seven" case.

The case was one in which seven Negro men died in the electric chair for the rape of a white woman in Martinsville, Va.

William L. Peterson, executive secretary of the Civil Rights congress, will speak here in Old Capitol Monday night. The subject of his speech will be "Civil Rights in the United States."

We're told his speech will deal primarily with the Martinsville case.

In view of this and in view of the numerous letters concerning the case received by The Daily Iowan, we feel a few facts regarding the case should be presented.

The seven Negro men were convicted of the rape in the circuit court of Martinsville, Va. The supreme court of appeals in Virginia, in an unanimous opinion, confirmed the judgments of the Martinsville court. The supreme court of the United States failed to find any merit in an appeal to that court.

Judge M. Ray Doubles of Hustling court, part II, of the city of Richmond, after an appeal to him by counsel for the accused, ordered a stay of execution. After having heard the matter fully, he rendered an opinion dismissing their contentions as being without merit.

Virginia Governor John Battle then ordered another stay of execution "in order to afford ample opportunity for these men to exhaust all of their legal remedies before the courts."

The cases were again carried to the supreme court of appeals of Virginia—again without ending with a finding in favor of the accused.

And again the supreme court of the United States declined to intervene in the matter.

At least three other judges dismissed proceedings on the cases, which were carried to the judges on grounds of racial discrimination.

When requested the last time by the counsel for the defense to commute the sentences, the governor, in a statement for publication, said:

"... convinced as I am of the soundness of the opinion expressed by Judge Doubles that no one can read the records and come to any other conclusion than a jury would have been remiss in its duty if it had failed to fix the maximum lawful penalty, I can find no justification for granting this request."

Many of the groups and persons attacking the courts contend that the woman in the case fled the state and that her whereabouts is unknown.

The Richmond News Leader, a newspaper in Richmond, Va., stated:

"She (the victim) still is under medical care in a neighboring state."

The same article stated: "The evidence in the case was that she (the woman) was seized and raped by four Negroes, who called three others into the affair. Each of the seven raped her, some more than once, and she was bitten, scratched, and seriously injured internally."

The chief editorial writer of the Leader, in a personal letter to an SUI student said:

"The bestiality was animal in its character. One of our handicaps in the case has been that we could not report the frightful details in the assaults; no family newspaper could report them."

Many emotion-arousing cries have been made by the organizations trying to save the condemned man.

We feel that the material quoted from the Leader and from the letter to the SUI student can match, for real emotion, any cries we've heard from those organizations.

In his final denial that there had been any evidence of race prejudice at the trial, the governor pointed out that all seven of the men confessed and four of them repeated details of these confessions on the witness stand.

The crime was committed in January, 1949. The trials were not held until the third and fourth month after the crime. This was a deliberate effort to let any community passion die down.

In view of all this, it appears absurd to us to call the legal procedures in the case "a complete mockery of justice."

If the evidence presented in the case was true, it is not difficult to understand why the jury gave the maximum penalty.

Services Stockpile Two Plasma Substitutes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The armed forces are planning to stockpile two blood plasma substitutes—one made from sugar, another from cattle bone—but "blood donors are needed as urgently as ever."

This has been announced by the National Research Council (NRC) which said it had recommended the stockpiling "for emergency use only" to supplement supplies of whole blood and plasma.

But the NRC strongly urged the public not to relax in making blood donations to the Red Cross, asserting that there is "no real substitute for whole blood" and that plasma derivable from it is also essential for military and civil defense needs.

The council said the two plasma substitutes recommended are still open to improvement, but offer a "stop-gap measure" to allow conservation of whole blood and plasma in certain military cases and also offer possibilities for emergency use in the event of atomic attack on cities where there might be "hundreds of thousands" injured.

The two substitutes recommended for stockpiling are (1) a form of "dextran" which is produced by the fermenting action of certain bacteria on sucrose, a close relative of table sugar; and (2) a gelatinous substance made from the bones of cattle.

Dextran was first noted as a contaminant in connection with the fermentation process of making beer. Swiss investigators later demonstrated its present possibilities.

Dr. F. D. Lawerson of the National Research Council told a news conference that production of both these substances is still small in this country but that "within a few months it will be larger."

Russia's Mystery Class Battleship as Sketched by Artist

WHILE THE KREMLIN guards the secret of whether Russia is the only major naval power increasing its battleship strength, a London artist presents his impression of the Soviets' Soyuz's probable appearance. He pieced-together bits of European intelligence to project the supposed battleship of 860 feet overall length, 45,000 tons displacement and 260,000 shaft horse power. With a reputed speed of 33-35 knots, it would be faster than the U.S.S. Iowa class. It is believed to be of 130-foot beam but its comparatively shallow draft of 29 feet would facilitate navigation in the Baltic and Black seas. Armament is estimated to be 15 or 16-inch guns, in either two or three triple turrets, and twenty secondary guns of about 5-inch caliber. A pair of domed towers (fore and aft) are understood to be for launching guided missiles. Reports say that German experts have been "co-opted" to assist in modernizing the design. It is pointed out that if and when ships of the Soviets' Soyuz class are completed, they will make a menacing addition to the Russian battleship strength, which now consists of three launched in 1911. It is rumored that there are at least three in the new class. The sketch is from Illustrated London News.

Lincoln One-Cent Piece Commemorated Birthday

By HENRY C. NICHOLAS
SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (CP)

"The next time you handle the Lincoln penny," said a mint official the other day, "examine it closely and think of its history. This penny reveals, as does no other coin, how sentiment can influence the big politician, the federal government and the American people."

It was originally planned to issue a memorial 50-cent piece in 1909 to commemorate the one hundredth birthday of Lincoln. Only a relatively small number would be issued and it was thought they would soon become a choice collectors' item.

When Jerome Sivia, clerk at Bolles drug store in Springfield and now a Chicagoan, heard that the new Lincoln coin was to be a 50-cent piece the idea did not appeal to him.

He felt that a Lincoln penny would be more in keeping with the Lincoln centennial—much more than the proposed half-dollar which would soon disappear from circulation and could be seen only as a collectors' or museum piece.

Sivia wrote a letter to President Theodore Roosevelt, a letter which is now historic. It seems logical and appropriate that this letter should have been written by a citizen of Springfield, the city where Lincoln lived for so many years.

Abraham Lincoln, wrote Sivia, was the friend of the common man and should be honored by a coin which would be in the pocket of everyone. No one need be without this coin if it were a penny. Then, too, cent is part of the word centennial and also appropriately would be a one-100th part of a dollar.

In his letter Sivia sent along an old pocket-piece he carried to illustrate his point. This piece had a Lincoln head on one side and that of his vice-president, Andrew Johnson, on the other side. It was the exact size of our penny and is believed to have been given away by Lincoln when he ran for President the second time.

President Roosevelt acknowledged the letter, saying he was pleased with the idea, and that Sivia's suggestion had been forwarded to the mint authorities.

The mint authorities promptly started working on the suggestion, discarding the idea of the 50-cent coin.

The Lincoln penny was first issued in the summer of 1909. No other of our coins ever aroused so much criticism and praise.

Abraham Lincoln was the first public figure to have his portrait appear on a coin of the United States.

The Lincoln penny was the first on which the motto "In God We Trust" appeared. The use of this motto had been a controversial issue for some years, and after much debate the phrase was made legal by congressional action on March 3, 1865. The phrase was first used in the minting of the Lincoln penny in 1909.

The Lincoln penny was also the first of our coins on which the initials of the sculptor appeared. The first coins carried the initials V.D.B. (Victor D. Brenner, the sculptor chosen by President Roosevelt, who had copied the portrait of Lincoln from the famous Civil War photograph by

BRADY PORTRAIT of Lincoln from which the image on the Lincoln penny was designed.

Matthew Brady in 1864.

The use of these initials caused so much criticism that before 1909 was over new dies were prepared in which the controversial initials did not appear. As only a limited number of these coins were issued they soon disappeared into the hands of coin collectors.

The criticism soon died down and the initials of the sculptor were returned to the coin nine years later in 1918.

Among the people generally, however, the Lincoln penny proved to be more popular than any coin ever issued by the U.S. When first issued, the demand for the new penny was so large that banks opened new windows to furnish enough of them to the people lined up to obtain them.

The unprecedented action was then taken of rationing the first issues of the penny. Black markets then sprang up where the coin was sold to eager buyers at the rate of two for a nickel.

Setting Changes for Sherwood Play Reflect Complete Political Cycle of Past 10 Years

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (AP)—A recent radio version of Robert E. Sherwood's "There Shall Be No Night," which won the 1941 Pulitzer prize for plays, underscored the changes that a decade has brought in international relations. Russia had been reinstated as the "villain" of the piece.

That was the original design of drama which Sherwood wrote against the background of the Soviet Union's invasion of Finland and that was the way it was played in this country with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne as the stars.

But early in 1943, when Sherwood stopped in London while going about his government job, Russia was an ally of the Western powers. Hugh Beaumont, a British producer, told Sherwood he would like to present the Lunts in "There Shall Be No Night" in London.

"I told him the play could not be done without giving offense to the Russians," Sherwood recalled. "He suggested that I change the locale—to Norway, for instance. I said I would think about it."

"After I got back to the United States from North Africa I did think about it, but the chronology of the play did not fit into the pattern of the conquest of Norway which was accomplished so quickly. The same was true of Holland, Belgium, Poland, even France. But then I thought of Greece, and the course of events there fitted perfectly." So the victim of aggression became Greece and the aggressor became Germany.

"Actually, the work of transposing the play was so easy that it took only a couple of days," Sherwood said. "It considered principally of changing the names of characters and locations mentioned."

The Lunts and the revised play had a tremendous success in London until a German buzz-bomb wrecked the scenery one night. After new scenery was made, the stars played it on tour in England and Scotland.

Charles Scribner's Sons, which publishes Sherwood's plays, put out only the original "Russian version." The "German version" later was made available in this country by the Dramatists' Play service which publishes acting versions of plays for the use of stock companies and amateurs.

Barrett H. Clark, head of Dramatists' Play service, said that the revised text had been out of print for some time but that his firm was re-issuing "There Shall Be No Night" shortly in the original version this time.

"Actually," Sherwood commented, "the identification of the country in this play did not really make much difference as long as it was a small, democratic country attacked by a powerful totalitarian aggressor."

For The Record

An Open Letter to John and Marsha —

By JOHN VOORHESS
Lately I've been hearing a lot about you two from Stan Freberg, and I want to tell you I think it's a shame!

They are saying that you've taken to just sitting around calling out each other's name, and I thought maybe I could do something to stop this kind of talk.

It's obvious you can't find anything to talk about — it happens in the best of marriages — and the thought of you two spending these long winter evenings just calling "John" and "Marsha" (or "John! John" and "Marsha! Marsha!") back and forth at each other frankly appalls me.

I thought, since you can't afford to take one of those "Improve Your Conversation" correspondence courses, that I might help you find something to talk about.

So I've made a short list of some records which I felt were complementary to your mental and intellectual capacities. They are currently available in the record stores and possibly an evening of music may be a pleasant change for you and just what you both need.

Marsha will probably die laughing at Mel Blanc's Capitol record, "I Taut I Taw A Putty Tat," and you won't even have to listen to the words very closely, for that one line is about the only one.

John, I'll bet you'd be crazy about Tiny Hill's "Hot Rod Race." It's certainly a dramatic disc — while the reserve, "The Lovebug Itch" — say! that one really ought to be quarantined, it's so catchy. Both are played in that fascinating shuffle rhythm I'm sure you both like so much.

Or perhaps "The Chicken Song" by Guy Lombardo, played as only Guy can play it, would be more your style. The clever nursery rhyme lyrics will have you two laughing for days.

But if you like vocal records, maybe the rasping of Jerry Lewis on "The Navy Gets The Gravy But The Army Gets Beans" would be to your taste. His phrasing is — well, it's unusual.

Speaking of food, how about "When Bananas Skins Are Falling (I'll Come Sliding Home to You)" as done by your favorite polka band, Frankie Yankovic and his Yanks? I'm sure the romantic lyrics will appeal to the tender nature of both of you.

Marsha, didn't John tell me that Eddy Howard was your favorite band leader? His new Mercury disc of that wonderful song, "A Penny a Kiss, a Penny a Hug," is done in his usual fine dragging style.

The other side, "I Don't Know How It Happened," is even better. The lyrics are positively lyrical. One line I especially remember: "I still feel the same about you." It struck me as being particularly original.

Of course, the record may annoy you in one spot where Eddy tends to swing it a little bit. It's really awfully fast and sounds quite a bit like a Stan Kenton 78 record played at 33 1/3 rpm.

You both probably have heard a lot about Gordon Macrae who sings for Capitol. You might like to get Marsha his latest record, John, for the lyrics are not only touching but sage as well.

He says that "Love Means Love" which is a very true statement. Not only that, but you can play the records backward like they do on that radio show and, with a title like that, it still is the same song.

Maybe what you'd really like is some quiet listening music while you're at home reading your comic books. Why not get Mickey Katz' liltin' "The Pafnik Polka," which is backed by "There's A Hole In The Iron Curtain." The latter is a sentimental ballad with just a touch of Spike Jones in it.

Well, you two, I hope this list will please you and that these records will provide food for conversation for days to come, so you can say something besides "John" and "Marsha" — because if you two don't SHUT UP with that noise, I'm going to play Freddy Martin's "Hullabaloo" so loudly you won't be able to hear yourselves think!

SQUAD CARS?

NEW HAVEN (AP)—The police in Stratford, Conn., may be driving about like country squires if the local civil defense director has his way. He says the department ought to get rid of the sedans it uses for squad cars and substitute station wagons. The latter type of vehicle could be converted more readily into an ambulance in the event of an emergency.

People Can Make Money Contributing to Optimists

A stitch in time may mean extra pin money for the lucky seamstress who takes advantage of the Optimist's hobby sale.

The sale takes place the third Thursday of every month under the sponsorship of the Women's Optimist club. The club keeps 20 percent of the sale price and pays the contributor 80 percent, according to Mrs. Stanley Davis, president of the Optimist club.

Women who know how to use knitting needles still have time to whip up a few items for this month's sale, Mrs. Davis said. It will be held Feb. 15 in the Louis Drug store from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Aprons, pot holders, knit scarves and mittens, dollies, and any type of baby clothes are always welcome, Mrs. Davis said. The handwork is especially in demand and always sells well, Mrs. Davis added.

"We are anxious to have a variety of articles to sell," Mrs. Davis said, "and will accept contributions from anyone."

Mrs. Davis explained that SUI coeds or student wives can use this opportunity to put their talents to use. Iowa City Craft guild members are also welcome contributors, she said.

Candles, leather items, paintings, metalwork, luncheon sets and wooden articles are only a few of the items which can be sold through the hobby sale according to Mrs. Davis.

Contributors may take their articles to the Louis Drug store the days of the sales, Mrs. Davis said. Other hobby sales will be held March 15 and April 19.

Good Cooks Make Good Engineers

A woman who is a good cook can make the grade as a good engineer, according to Prof. Karl Kammermeyer, head of the SUI chemical engineering department.

Writing in the February issue of the Iowa Transit, he suggests that it might be a good thing to encourage women to take engineering training. It would help plug the manpower gaps which will be created by mobilization.

Women Got Jobs
Basis for this stand, that women are equipped to master the problems of engineering, is his experience as research director for Publicker industries during the war. Kammermeyer accepted many women job applicants if they knew their way around a stove.

"Personally, I am convinced that excellent performances would be rendered by women in such engineering fields as design, research, sales and service and many related activities."

Kammermeyer also stated that many women are inclined to have the natural ability to combine utility and style and to be good designers.

"The fact that today there is only a limited number of women engineers is simply a stranglehold of tradition which should have been thrown off long before this time," his article said.

One Student Here
Only one woman is doing graduate work in engineering at SUI at present. Another has been accepted and will begin undergraduate work in June.

Two recent women graduates of SUI's school of engineering are now holding important jobs at the Vicksburg, Miss., research station of the army engineers.

Need More Engineers
The American Society for Engineering Education stated in a recent estimate that in the following years industry and the armed forces will need twice the number of engineers being turned out by colleges.

For these reasons Kammermeyer insists that women must be regarded in their true light as fine engineering prospects.

Corsairs Hit Enemy Positions; Cavalry Races Forward

BOMBS FROM NAVY CORSAIRS hit enemy positions as men of the First cavalry division raced forward in Korea. A special army announcement said that destruction of the Communists below the Han river was the "objective of the current phases of the limited offensive now in its third week."

Allies Await Orders to Enter Seoul

CHINESE RESISTANCE COLLAPSED IN THE WEST but strengthened on the east-central front as shown by the open arrows. An allied patrol probed into Seoul (A) following the capture of Inchon, Kimp'o and Yongdungpo to the west while two columns reached the Han river southeast of the city. North of Chip'yong (B) a Red Chinese assembly area was spotted as the Red forces moved back slowly on the east-central front. The Communists fought bitter delaying actions (black arrows) east of Chip'yong and south of Honchon.

Chinese Say UN Blocked Peace Path

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China charged Saturday that the United Nations general assembly resolution branding Red China an aggressor had "blocked the path to a peaceful settlement" in Korea.

Peiping radio, heard here, broadcast a statement by Chou En-Lai, Chinese Communist premier and foreign minister, denouncing the assembly action on Thursday as "null and void" because the Peoples Republic of China was not represented in the deliberations.

Chou said the United States dominated the UN and coerced it into adopting the resolution that branded Red China an aggressor.

Peiping radio broadcast a statement by Chou En-Lai, Chinese Communist premier and foreign minister, denouncing the resolution adopted by the UN general assembly on Thursday. Chou said the general assembly ignored the "desire of the peace-loving people of the world" when it rejected on Jan. 13 a 12-nation resolution and amendments submitted by the Soviet Union.

Instead, he said, "The UN adopted the U.S. resolution which slanders China as an aggressor in Korea in order that the U.S. may further extend her aggressive war."

Chou said the assembly action, "in a most naked way, proves to the peace-loving people and nations of the world that the U.S. government and its accomplices want, not peace, but war and that they have blocked the path to a peaceful settlement."

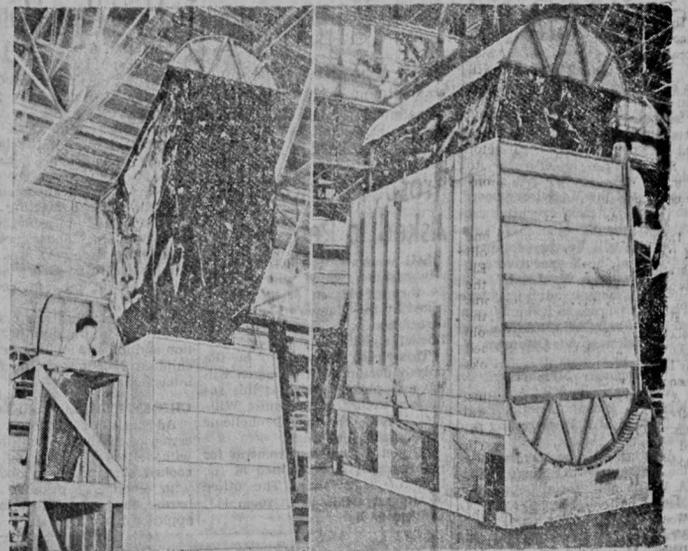

Earlier the Peiping radio broadcast an editorial in the Peiping Peoples Daily, organ of the Chinese Red government, proclaiming the rejection and angrily condemning both the U.S. and the UN.

Ex-WAVE Chief Asks Women Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton, wartime commander of the WAVES, Saturday suggested drafting women for non-combat service.

She said it is part of the obligations of citizenship for women to serve in the armed services. At a luncheon of the Radcliffe club of New York, she assailed the national manpower policy which, she said, "implies a fundamental dissimilarity between manpower and womenpower which tends to put all women in the category of a national luxury instead of an available asset."

SUI Survey Results Reported in Article By Scholastic Editor

Bernard Stern, SUI journalism instructor, is the author of an article published in the February 1951, issue of Scholastic Editor, national publication of the National Scholastic Press association.

In the article, "Tracking Down That Pot of Gold," Stern advises student publications to convince advertisers of student buying power when they try to sell newspaper advertising.

He based his article on the results of a recent survey conducted by an SUI commerce marketing class, directed by Prof. John Lund and Wendell R. Smith.

"One of the eye-opening facts disclosed by the survey," the article stresses, "was that SUI students spent a whopping $10,444,060 during the school year, exclusive of tuition and university fees."

The survey also disclosed that the student-operated newspaper, The Daily Iowan, had a readership of 97.9 percent among SUI students.

Robert Gillespie, faculty adviser to student publications at the University of New Mexico, who recently received his M.A. degree from SUI's school of journalism, has also written an article appearing in the February Scholastic Editor.

His "Hold Your Hat . . . We're Going Daily!" tells how the New Mexico student newspaper shifted from a semi-weekly to a four-times-a-week publication in three weeks' time.

Connally Hits Hoover Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Tom Connally of the senate foreign relations committee, said Saturday that former President Herbert Hoover's idea of defending the West is to withhold American troops until free Europe is over-run and the fighting "is all over."

At the same time, Sen. Alexander Wiley, Wis., second-ranking Republican on Connally's committee, asked that Mr. Hoover be invited to testify before the foreign relations and armed service committees which next Thursday begin consideration of the troops-for-Europe question.

Mr. Hoover stirred up a new hornet's nest Friday night with his speech against sending American ground divisions into the "quicksands of Europe or Asia."

Connally maintained that Mr. Hoover's opposition to a big ground troop buildup meant that "He doesn't want to use them until they (western European countries) are attacked and it is all over."

"If we're attacked, it will all be over before we can get Mr. Hoover over there," Connally added facetiously.

He also wasn't enthusiastic about asking for Mr. Hoover's personal testimony on the hotly debated troop issue.

"I don't desire to use Mr. Hoover," the chairman said. "If he wants to come we'll hear him, but not as our witness." Connally added that the former president might be heard if it is desired by those backing the Wherry resolution which seeks to block use of U.S. divisions in the Atlantic pact army until congress writes a definite policy. Wiley, while not entirely agreeing with Mr. Hoover's thesis that the United States should concentrate on air-sea strength, said Mr. Hoover should be invited to present his views when the committees go into the broad question of what type of defense policy should be undertaken.

YMCA to Present Brotherhood Caravan

The Brotherhood Caravan will be featured in a program by the YMCA in the house chamber of Old Capitol Tuesday at 8 p.m.

The caravan is made up of four persons who are traveling through Iowa giving programs concerning the racial problem. They will be at SUI in connection with Negro History week, Feb. 12 to 17.

A Walt Disney color cartoon, "Brotherhood of Man," will also be a part of the program. The program is planned by the racial equality committee of the YMCA.

Silvana is fascinated when she hears Francesca's stories of her life as a personal maid and her adventures with her lover. Walter, though a thief, appears glamorous.

When Walter comes to the field, Francesca realizes she no longer loves him. Silvana becomes infatuated with the crook, agrees to help him flood the field and steal the crop.

Marco, a sergeant, and Francesca who's fallen for him, catch Walter and Silvana in nefarious activities. The couples have a fight and as a result both the men are wounded.

Silvana, remorseful at having flooded rice fields, and disillusioned in Walter who's given her a fake necklace, kills her lover and then herself in dramatic suicidal leap.

WSUI to Broadcast Dedication of New Lincoln Library

The 4,000 volume Bollinger-Lincoln library, a gift to the SUI library from the late Judge James W. Bollinger of Davenport, will be dedicated in a 4 p.m. broadcast over station WSUI Monday.

Bollinger willed the $50,000 library to SUI eight years ago, and Ralph E. Ellsworth, director of SUI libraries. According to terms of the will, SUI will continue to add to the collection.

One of Best

The collection is considered one of the four best private Lincoln libraries in the United States, Ellsworth said, and is one of the few remaining private collections.

Ellsworth explained that the collection is composed of Lincoln manuscripts, books autographed by Lincoln, or his wife, and books associated with Lincoln.

A number of medallions, coins, other mementos, and several busts of Lincoln are also contained in the collection, Ellsworth added.

In New Library

The entire collection will be set up in the Iowa room of the new library when it is ready for occupancy, in March, Ellsworth said.

The dedication program is under the supervision of Prof. A. Craig Baird, acting chairman of the speech department.

President Virgil M. Hancher, Prof. Paul Engle, English department, Ellsworth, and Harry Lytle, Davenport, a friend of Bollinger and also a Lincoln collector, will take part in the Lincoln birthday program.

Judge Bollinger, 83, an SUI alumnus, was a member of the American, Iowa State, and Scott county bar associations. The former Scott county district judge was a member of several Lincoln associations and spent a great part of his life building up his Lincoln collection.

ADMIRING ONE OF THE MANY RARE BOOKS included in the library of the late Judge James Bollinger of Davenport is Prof. Ralph Ellsworth (left), director of SUI libraries, and Clyde Walton, of the library staff. The 4,000-volume library, which was willed to SUI upon Bollinger's death Jan. 30, includes a valuable collection on Abraham Lincoln. Walton will be in charge of rare books in the new library which will open sometime in March.

1950 Total Output Rises To All-Time Record

The value of the nation's total output of goods and services in 1950 hit a record-shattering $27-billion, an increase of $23-billion over 1949.

This was reported in an article by SUI Prof. Robert H. Johnson of the economics department which appeared in the February issue of the Iowa Business Digest, a monthly publication of SUI's bureau of business and economic research.

The article also probes some of the causes of last year's prosperity and inflation.

Inflation Price Rises

Of the $23-billion increase in 1950, $4-billion were inflationary price rises and the rest represented real gains in output, Johnson said.

For the first half of the year, government spending and investment abroad was declining and consumer spending was rising only slightly, Johnson said.

With the outbreak of the Korean war, consumers panicked and set off a scare-buying wave.

At the same time, he said, government spending and investment was rising slightly and investment in foreign nations dropped.

Fears, Hopes

"The sharp increases in output, incomes and prices which marked the second half of 1950 were occasioned by fears, hopes and uncertainties—not by actual increases in government demands upon the economy," Johnson said.

Production can be stepped up this year only if the work week is lengthened and persons not normally considered in the labor force are put to work, Johnson said.

More persons working longer hours will increase incomes as well as production. However, this will lead to new inflationary demands for consumer goods, he said.

Rites Set Monday For J. F. Warriner

Funeral services for John Frank Warriner, 88, former Iowa City resident, will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at Beckman funeral home.

Mr. Warriner died at 10:15 a.m. Friday at his home in Fayetteville, Ark., where he had been living for the past two and one-half years.

He is survived by a son, Clell Warriner, Okmulgee, Okla., and two daughters, Mrs. Freda Bridenstine, Fayetteville, Ark., and Mrs. Mahree Boerner, Iowa City.

The Rev. Leon C. England, pastor of the First Christian church, will officiate at the services. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Catholic Chaplain At Minnesota U. Speaks Here Tonight

The Rev. Leonard P. Cowley, Religion-in-Life speaker sponsored by Catholic students, will speak at University vespers in the senate chamber of Old Capitol at 4 p.m. tonight.

Father Cowley is the Catholic student chaplain at the University of Minnesota and also pastor of the St. Olaf Catholic church in St. Paul, Minn.

He will speak at the 7:30 p.m. sessions of the annual retreat for Catholic students on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the student center. He also will speak at the 8:45 a.m. sessions on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Masses will take place at 6:15, 7 and 7:30 a.m.

Students, faculty and townsmen are invited to attend University vespers.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Two marriage licenses were issued Saturday in Johnson county courthouse.

William L. Clark, 30, and Margaret Morris, 26, both from Davenport, and a Cedar Rapids couple, Thomas Rowell and Daisy I. Puckhaber obtained the licenses.

Guard Would Go Abroad as Noncombatants

WASHINGTON (AP) — If developments overseas compel the army to send national guard divisions abroad now they probably will get non-combat assignments.

They aren't ready yet for fighting and may not be before spring or early summer. This includes the four divisions brought into federal service last September as well as the two additional divisions only recently federalized.

The reason is that it takes time to train and equip a division to operate as a complete, coordinated military entity. In answer to a reporter's question Saturday about the degree of training the guard divisions had when brought into federal service, the army said:

"Training on induction was estimated to be about 30 percent of that of a regular army unit of comparable size trained for combat."

This doesn't mean that the guardsmen were by any means raw recruits. On the contrary, they were entirely familiar with their weapons and other equipment and, as individuals, well trained soldiers. But they had worked only in small units. They were far from ready to go into the field to operate in corps or armies.

By last September, the army said, the guard divisions had completed the second of a three-year training program. That brought them up to the point of operating as companies and battalions, but not as regiments or divisions. And that, by the requirements of intricate modern warfare, takes months of training under field conditions.

"Training has progressed very satisfactorily and equipment has been adequate for training," said an army spokesman.

U.S. Denies 'Red' Newsmen Passports; Editor Plans Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department said Friday it has refused passports to two correspondents employed by The Daily Worker, New York, and The Daily People's World, San Francisco.

The correspondents are Joseph North of The Daily Worker and Adam Lapin, associate editor of The Daily People's World. Lapin formerly was a Washington correspondent of The Daily Worker.

The passports were refused under the internal security act of 1950. A department spokesman said the refusals apparently were based on a section of the act entitled "denial of passports to members of Communist organizations."

The department did not disclose where North wanted to travel.

Al Richmond, executive editor of The Daily People's World, issued a statement angrily denouncing the state department action.

"This is a flagrant violation of freedom of the press," Richmond said. "We intend to fight it every way we know how. This is the first case of this kind we have heard of, and it could set a most dangerous precedent if the state department were permitted to deny passports to newspapermen on the basis of its own whims, fancies, or prejudices."

Family of Seven Symbol of Desire for Home

By WILLIAM CHAPMAN

CENTRAL FRONT, KOREA (AP) — A family of seven plodded along the dusty road—a symbol of the universal desire to return home.

The head of the family walked in front of the procession, bent under the weight of a frame-load of small furniture, elaborate enamelware and other family treasures. Keeping to the side of the road, he put one rubber-shod foot ahead of the other methodically, keeping his eyes always on the dusty trail ahead and ignoring the roar of the trucks which pushed past.

Mama came second, carrying a huge earthenware urn balanced delicately on her head. Bundles of clothing filled with the powdery, clinging dust of Korea peeped over the rim of the urn.

On Mother's Back

A passenger with wide, staring brown eyes rode in a blanket tied around Mama's middle.

Another very young one rode "piggyback" on a seven-year-old boy, and two smaller children trod listlessly along in the wake of the pathetic column.

This family was among the refugees headed north—returning to whatever was left of their homes in this merry-go-round war.

On the northern outskirts of the shattered town of Chungju, the family halted. Loads were deposited in the dust.

The family had stopped before the ruins of a Korean farmhouse. The mud wall was breached in a dozen places, and crumbling baked earth lay on the ground like spilled gunshot.

Home a Shambles

Inside the fence only an ancient well remained intact. The straw-thatched mud and wood house which once apparently had been their comfortable home was littered with ashes, empty C ration tins and American candy bar wrappers.

Mama and Papa went through the sagging gate. Half-heartedly they poked among the ashes of their house. They kicked a few tin cans and ground candy wrappers into the debris.

Their faces never broke the impassive oriental masks molded by generations. There were no tears of despair.

Headed South Again

Mama and Papa faced each other across a patch of roofing straw which had been too wet to burn and talked quietly for a few minutes.

Then they came back through the gate, gathered up their burdens and fell into single file formation heading south again.

Where they would put the children to bed, feed them and start life anew was anybody's guess.

But with typical oriental faith, they walked as if they believed that any progress—no matter how slow—would take them to the end of their journey.

Police Nab Thieves Who Stole Gasoline

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — City detectives said Saturday they had broken up a gang of thieves who for the past two years stole gasoline from an oil refinery and sold it on the black market at about half price.

Four men have been arrested in connection with the thefts and additional arrests were expected, police disclosed.

Police said the gang stole 2-million gallons of gasoline from a Gulf Oil corporation refinery and then peddled it by the truckload to retail dealers.

The company employed private detectives for the past 18 months to locate the "leak," but had no success until city detectives took up the case after learning that some service stations were buying gasoline at nearly half price.

Detective Lt. Ervin C. Mock said five of his men, dressed in old clothes and driving jalopies, trailed trucks operated by the gang for six weeks.

Those arrested were Charles Dukes, 63, a platform worker at the refinery; William Leitch, 52; Charles Mitchell, 37, and George Phillips, 33.

Police estimated the theft ring netted more than $300,000 during its two years of operation.

Hospital Laundry Course First Ever Offered

The hospital laundry management course which begins Monday, is the first such course ever devoted exclusively to the laundry department of a hospital.

Employees from laundry departments of hospitals in 17 states and Canada are spending the rest of February and all of March studying all aspects of hospital laundries.

Prepared to Manage Laundry

When they have completed the course, they will be prepared to set up, operate and maintain an efficient laundry.

Everything connected with laundering will be covered. The course includes chemistry of laundering solutions, laying out the plant and operating at its maximum efficiency, and personnel relations.

Ten lines of study will be followed during 214 hours of actual classroom work. Only 32 of those hours will be directly concerned with the actual washing of hospital linens.

Some of the courses will be conducted in the McChesney house, recently ordered vacated by the university. These courses were to have been conducted in a barracks.

Guest Speakers

Three guest speakers are scheduled for the course. P. J. Deegan, H. Kohnstamm company in Chicago, will lecture on the chemical aspects of bleaches, starches and other laundering solvents.

Donald E. Tuttle, Proctor and Gamble, Cincinnati, is to speak on various soaps. J. L. Shoemaker of the American Laundry Machinery company, Chicago, is to lecture on the installation and operation of plant machinery and the layout of the plant.

Charles Ingersoll, hospital administrative associate, said the course was constructed "to improve the efficiency, reduce costs and improve personnel relations."

The hospitals must launder a terrific amount of linens each year. At least four changes per bed per week are expected and possibly five changes. Also uniforms, towels, napkins, and many other kinds of linens must be cleaned regularly.

$7,000 a Year Savings

Over $7,000 a year could be saved in a 300 bed hospital if only one-half a cent is saved by greater efficiency in processing one pound of laundry.

After three weeks, members of the course will launder their own clothes on Saturday, using the techniques and processes taught in the course. The students are actually employees of hospital laundries. They come from hospitals ranging in size from 48 beds to 2,444 beds.

Photographic VIEWS and NEWS

by "Dutch" Louis

Well here is the first thing of its kind that I have heard of for some time . . . a new product that sells LESS—The Kodaslide Merit Projector, only $24.50—It uses all types of standard 2 x 2 slides—The efficient, new type lamp house results in slide temperatures considerably lower than previously experienced, consequently slide transparencies will stay flat—A 5 inch, f3.5, lumenized, 3 element Ektanon Lens with spiral focusing assures sharp, brilliant pictures—An important feature is the unique, vertically operated slide track—Just insert slide in top and remove it from the side.

A new book . . . "The Complete Book of Lighting"—This is a MUST for every serious amateur . . . and there is a lot for professional too—Light's really everything in photography and everything about lighting is covered in this book—It's all valuable information presented in an easy-to-understand way . . . $2.95.

A new Kodaguide . . . "Snapshot and Flash"—This pocket-size, dial-type guide gives camera settings for black-and-white and color films—One dial is for outdoor pictures . . . a second dial for pictures with flash lamps—Many tips on obtaining best results are included—This replaces the present Flash and Snapshot Kodaguides.

Everybody asks, "Are Films Rationed?"—With the exception of Professional sheet film . . . THEY ARE NOT AS YET—Films do not always come as we order them—The "backorders" are increasing all the time, but film is still not rationed.

Every mail brings us notices that this camera or that piece of equipment is no longer available—If you are planning to purchase soon, and I hate to say "Wolf," better do it sooner than soon.

We now have the Kodacraft Roll-Film tanks in stock—This tank is designed for use with 620, 616 and 127 roll films—Acetate aprons of different widths are provided with each tank—Once the film is loaded in the tank the complete process of developing and fixing can be performed in daylight—Price $2.95.

Hawkeyes' Fast Break Submerges Ohio State, 83-71

Chuck Darling Scores 19, Calsbeek Hits 18

By HOBERT DUNCAN
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Fans in the Iowa fieldhouse were disappointed twice and encouraged once Saturday night as the Hawkeyes whipped Ohio State, 83-71.

One of the disappointments was that Wes Fesler, coach of the Ohio State football team which butchered Iowa 83-21 this fall, wasn't coaching the basketball team which took its lumps for all but the last 10 minutes.

The second disappointment for most of the reverential fans was that Iowa failed to hold a 30-point lead at one stage of the game. Coach Rollie Williams substituted that Wes Fesler, coach of the Ohio State football team

Last Minute Basket Lets Ft. Madison by Little Hawks, 43-41

Ft. Madison starved off a torrid Iowa City fourth period rally, winning 43-41, on a basket in the closing 16 seconds of the non-conference game in the field house Saturday night.

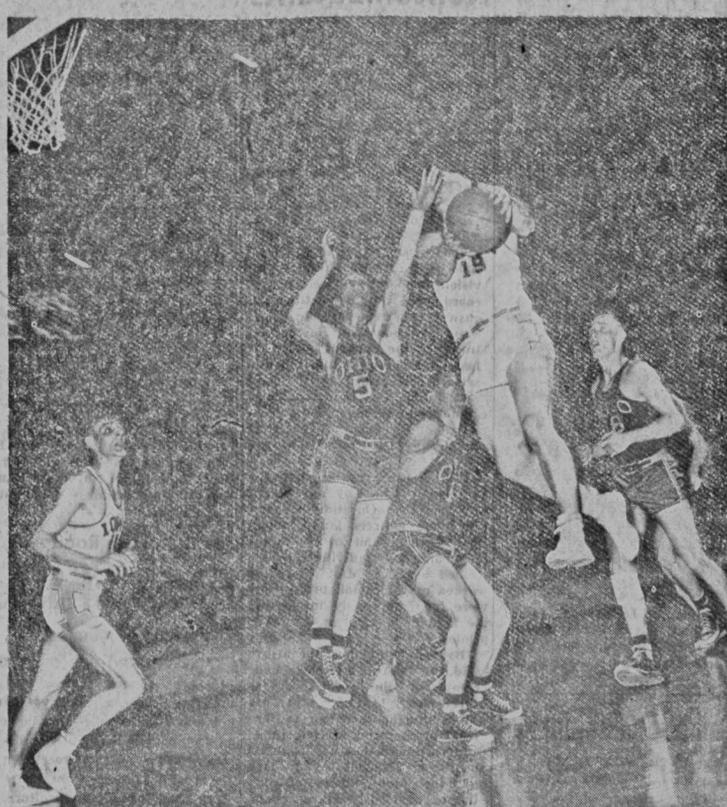

Forward Bill Tyler scored his only field goal of the game to break a 41-41 tie.
Iowa City went into the fourth quarter trailing 37-25. The Little Hawks hacked down the Ft. Madison lead to 40-35 with three minutes, 37 seconds left.

Two Point Margin
Jerry Platt, transfer student from Oelwein, playing his first game for the Little Hawks dropped in his second bucket of the quarter. Jim Freeman narrowed the Ft. Madison lead to 40-39 before a free throw gave the Bloodhounds a two point margin, 41-39.
Iowa City tied the score, 41-41, with 46 seconds remaining, before Tyler scored on a follow-up.

The loss gave Iowa City a 10-6 season's record and boosted Ft. Madison to 9-8 for the year.
The first quarter ended in an 11-11 tie with Iowa City being forced to rely on long shots over the tight Ft. Madison zone.

Lausche Loused Up Games When He Played

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Baseball's next commissioner may be a man who loused up the playing fields of Dillonvale, Ohio, so badly 28 years ago that he left hurriedly ahead of irate townspeople.

That would be Frank John Lausche, the Slovenian immigrant's son who is a three-time governor of Ohio.
Reports to the effect Governor Lausche may take over baseball's top spot are buzzing like bees around the silo-like dome of Ohio's capital.

Chandler.
A lot of time has ticked off Lausche, left fielder and manager of a Cleveland semi-pro baseball team, made tracks out of Dillonvale, Ohio.
That time, Lausche was 27 years old. He took his Cleveland team to Dillonvale for a morning-afternoon doubleheader. The Cleveland team lost both ends of the double bill by scores that Lausche said recently "must have been 50-5."

"I got a sunburned tongue chasing flies that day," said Ohio's governor.
Didn't want to pay
John Olzszeski, who managed the Dillonvale team, didn't want to pay the Clevelanders because they were so bad. Finally he agreed, saying: "Get out of town and never come back."
The other day, the mayor of Dillonvale visited the governor of Ohio to talk over old times.

Olzszeski found a husky 55-year-old with a trim waist-line, gray-speckled black curly hair, a broad face with an Indian cast and a loose-fitting costume perked up only slightly by a loosely tied bow tie.

Hoosiers Upset; Illini in First

Gophers 61, Hoosiers 54
MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota got red-hot Saturday night and upset Indiana, 61-54, giving the Hoosiers their first Big Ten basketball defeat of the year and dropping them to second place in the standings.

Indiana never was in the game, Minnesota, breaking a four-game losing streak, outshot, out-fought, and out-rebounded the Hoosiers.
Capt. Myer Skoog scored 17 points to lead Minnesota to victory. He made eight points in the first seven minutes to put Minnesota in the lead, and whenever Indiana threatened the rest of the way Skoog was on hand with a needed basket.

Indiana led only briefly in the game — the first few minutes. Unable to hit from the far court and stymied by the Minnesota zone defense, Indiana looked nothing like the team which had won its first six conference games and a high national ranking.

After leading 32-25 at the half, Minnesota steadily pulled away. At one time Minnesota enjoyed leads as big as 16 points.
Skoog was ably assisted by forwards Virgil Miller and Bob Gelle who scored 14 points apiece, and by substitute Richard Means, another forward, who scored nine points and was a demon on the backboards.

Bill Tosheff scored 14 points for Indiana and Center Bill Garrett scored 11.

Illini 63, Badgers 52
CHAMPAIGN (AP)—Illinois spilled Wisconsin, 63-52, and moved into the Big Ten basketball race lead Saturday night as Indiana stumbled and lost at Minnesota, 61-54. Illinois and Wisconsin had been tied for second place.

The Illini now top the conference standings with a 7-1 record, while Indiana, suffering its first defeat, is second with 6-1, and Wisconsin dropped to third with 6-2.
Trailing 19-9 after eight minutes of play, Illinois started to hit and tied the count at 27-27 at the 15-minute mark. The Illini took a 31-28 halftime advantage.

Wisconsin battled back to a 33-33 tie, but the Illini turned on the steam again and with four minutes of the game left had a 12-point bulge, 58-46.
The Badgers did well with their zone defense the first half but an over-all shooting average of 33 percent paid off for the Illini, who were paced by Ted Beach with 14 points.

Wildcats 60, Wolves 56
EVANSTON (AP)—In a Big Ten basketball game marred by 51 fouls, Northwestern Saturday night came from behind in the second half to defeat Michigan, 60-56.

Northwestern, which had been the highest scoring team in the conference up to Saturday night's game, produced only 19 points in the first half when Michigan left the floor with a 26-19 advantage.
The Wildcats roared out in the second half to score eight points in 31 seconds and pulled to within one point of the Wolverines, 28-27. It took Northwestern until mid-period, however, to knot the count at 43-43.

Michigan's Bob Olson dropped in a free throw to go ahead again before Northwestern went on a 50-44 basket splurge to gain a 54-44 lead the winners never gave up.

Hoosiers Rate Slight Favorites over Iowa In Monday Game

Iowa's Hawkeyes will have a chance to demonstrate to some 15,000 fans Monday night in the fieldhouse just how much they have improved in recent games when they play league-leading Indiana.

The Hoosiers are in second place following their loss to Minnesota Saturday night while the Hawkeys, underdogs in the game despite home surroundings, have a 5-3 mark following Saturday night's win over Ohio State.

A capacity crowd is forecast by the ticket department for this biggest attraction of the 13 game home schedule.

Indiana will rate as the favorite mostly on the strength of its impressive march through the conference so far this season up to Saturday night. Iowa fell flat on its face in the opening stages of the Big Ten season and only recently started playing the type of ball forecast for it before play started.

There are many who feel that the Hawkeys have improved enough to cope with the fast running, sharp breaking Hoosiers. The result of the game seems to depend principally on Iowa's ability to score against Indiana who owns the finest defensive record in the league.

The Hoosiers have yielded an average of only 48.8 points per game. This average was helped because Minnesota made only 26 points in the first game and Michigan State hit 37 against them.

Archie Bill Garrett, the Negro center who twists away from the defense for quick short shots, is the top Indiana scorer with an average of about 14 points per game.

Indiana leads in the all-time record, 36-22, but the Hawkeys beat the Hoosiers twice last year.

The probable lineups:

Iowa
C. T. Tosteff (6-4)
F. Brown (6-4)
C. Garrett (6-4)
C. King (6-4)
G. Masters (6-3)
Average height: Iowa 6-4 1/2, Indiana 6-2 1/2.

Local Scouts' 'Block of Dimes' Drive Nets $846.50

Iowa City's "Block of Dimes" was completed Saturday for the first time since the drive originated two years ago.

When the first block of dimes was nearly finished Saturday afternoon, the Boy Scouts, who directed the drive, started a new "block" on the south side of the street. When the drive closed at 5:30 p.m. this block of dimes was almost completed.

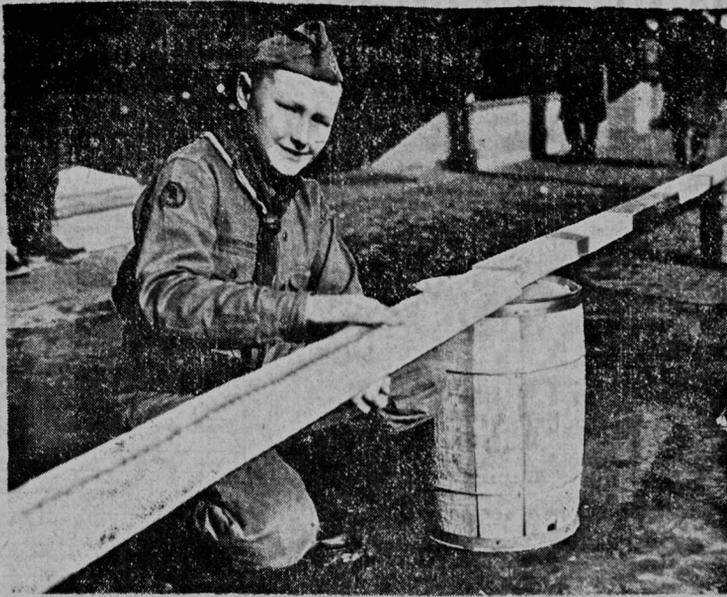

The "Block of Dimes" drive this year netted $846.50, while in 1949 only $174.80 was collected and in 1950, $380.

As in the past, the "block" was started on the north side of Washington street between Clinton and Dubuque streets. The second "block" was begun across the street.

Some dimes were taken from the collection on the north side of the street and transferred to the south side to keep a gap in the line of dimes so contributors wouldn't have to cross the street to put their dimes "on the board."

This year's "Block of Dimes" boosted total contributions to Johnson county's March of Dimes campaign to $4,448.76, which is still over $5,000 short of the county goal of $10,000.

Contributions to the March of Dimes may still be mailed to the Johnson county police chapter, box 223, Iowa City, until March 31, when this year's drive closes.

SCRAPING OFF SOME OF THE 8,465 dimes contributed to the "Block of Dimes" Saturday is Jim Netolicky, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Netolicky, 919 E. Washington. Jim was helping to transfer some of the dimes from the north side of the street where the first block of dimes was completed to the south side where the second block was in the process of being formed.

Pfc. Harold W. Glick Home on Medical Leave

Pfc. Harold W. Glick, 33, arrived home Friday on a 20 day leave following treatment at the Brooke army medical center, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, for wounds received in Korea.

He will report for duty at Camp McCoy, Wis., following his leave. Glick's wife, Florence, and son, Tommy, 8, live at 18 S. Van Buren street. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. George W. Glick, 223 E. Benton street.

Patrol Gives Water From Han River to Battalion Commander

By STAN SWINTON

WITH U.S. THIRD DIVISION, KOREA (AP) — The doughboys had been climbing hills for 17 days of offensive battle. They snaked up the last crest and below was the Han river.

Once it was an obscure name in the strange geography of Asia. Now, its banks four times a battlefield, the word rolled off western tongues as easily as Mississippi or Columbia.

If you had gone to the Han with Sgt. Frank Trochinsky of Scranton, Pa., and his patrol Saturday, this is what you would have seen.

They walked down a brown dirt road past a white statue of Confucius which stood outside the little stone walled village of Karang. A timid group of round-faced Korean children waved hello. To the right were the ashes of homes.

The men walked for five minutes and there in front of them was the river, icy blue-green in the sun.

The sergeant filled his canteen.

"That's the reason for this patrol," he explained. "The battalion wants to give the battalion commander a present of a canteen full of Han river water."

The sergeant did not see anything strange in a patrol risking danger for such a souvenir.

Faint in the distance were the sights and sounds of war —barking tank guns, the mighty woom of rockets, and mountainous columns of smoke.

But the sum of sensual impressions on the Han Saturday was paradoxical — a peaceful valley with war so close it seemed an unreal stage background.

Deep Freeze Woman Moves Fingers, Toes

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago's "deep freeze" woman made medical history Saturday by wiggling her fingers and toes.

That simple act raised the hopes of doctors, already amazed by her remarkable improvement, that they might be able to save her arms and legs.

Doctors at Michael Reese hospital said that for the first time they "dare to hope" that Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens, 23, will recover.

When she was found in an alley Thursday morning, frozen into a condition "similar to rigor mortis," her temperature was 64 degrees, lowest in medical annals.

Saturday, her temperature had risen to 100.8, slightly above normal. Her pulse was 100, respiration 24 and blood pressure 132-80 all "just about within the normal range," doctors said.

Since regaining consciousness she has been fed broth and other liquids, but Saturday specialists put her on a soft but high-calorie diet.

Boy Aldermen Vote To Make City Iowa's Safest

Iowa City's seven scout aldermen passed a resolution to help make this the safest city in Iowa in a "let's pretend" city council meeting Saturday morning, Scout Citizen day.

"We could keep troop 3's safety campaign going," Melvin Masbruch, 14, said. People who passed along Iowa City's downtown streets Saturday were handed safety check lists by members of troop 3.

Pat Boyd, 11, offered the first resolution, "Be it resolved that a bypass for trucks be constructed so that heavy trucks could go around Iowa City." It was passed too.

Russell Bell, 12, ran into trouble with a resolution to sell season swimming tickets to those aged 10 to 18 and to open the pool this summer at 9 a.m.

Masbruch said the water would be too cool so early in the morning and when discussion ended, Mayor Eugene Haman, 13, said the motion was lost because no one had seconded it.

"An effort should be made to make Iowa City buses safer and to change their routes," James Schaaf, 11, said in a resolution.

Joe Pusateri, 11, talked the council into passing a resolution to survey and straighten Ralston creek.

Pat Boyd expressed thanks to city officials for helping make Scout Citizen day a success. Joe Pusateri made a motion to adjourn, and the young aldermen hurried down city hall steps to check on their "Block of Dimes" campaign on a busy Iowa City street.

U-High Ties for 6th In Forensics Meet

University High of Iowa City tied for sixth place in a forensics contest at Coe college Saturday.

The U-High A team finished with six wins and four losses, while the B team tied with Burlington, winning five and losing the same number of debates, for tenth place. Davenport won the tourney with eight wins and two losses.

In debate speaking, Sidney Winter and Howard Berg received excellent ratings. Robert Rehder won a superior award.

John Randall and Louis Maher received excellent ratings in discussion, while Joe Howe, Howard Berg and Sidney Winter were rated superior.

No Campaigns for This Caesar

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Julius Caesar won't be a great soldier for at least six months.

That was the sentence he got Saturday when arraigned before City Judge Jacob A. Latona on a non-support charge. A probation officer said Caesar was two days late in appearing in court because he "had to have his draft board physical."

Commented Latona: "If the army wants him, it knows where it can find him."

Playground Group Waits For More Applications

The Iowa City Playgrounds commission is waiting for more applications for the post J. Edgar Frame resigned as city recreation director before naming a successor, Chairman Cliff Kritt said Saturday.

"Naturally we are interested in getting a man with experience if possible," Kritt said. "In Mr. Frame we had a man who had a very thorough knowledge of the work."

Kritt said the commission had received two applications, but had decided that opportunity to apply for the position should be given others interested in the job.

No one employed as a recreational assistant could at the time be moved up to director, Kritt explained.

A recreational director in Iowa City, Kritt said, must be able to oversee a swimming pool and direct the three city playgrounds which will be in operation in the summer.

"A major or at least courses in physical education are almost a necessity," Kritt said. While the commission has not specified a college education as necessary, he listed it as a qualification for the job.

Iowa City's recreational program includes activities of the recreational center in the community building. During the Condition of Billy Reported 'Very Good'

Mercy hospital authorities reported that Billy O'Rear, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle O'Rear, 534 S. Dodge street, was in "very good condition" Saturday evening.

Billy was injured when struck by a car driven by William F. Schmidt, 1219 Ginter avenue, Friday at 5:50 p.m. on S. Dodge street. He was on his way to the grocery store across the street when struck, according to his mother.

Las Vegas Citizens —

Fear Atom Bomb?

— They 'Loved It'

LAS VEGAS, NEV. (AP) — Take a town of 24,000 souls, shake it up with a few atomic explosions and what do you get—hysteria, resentment, fear? Not in Las Vegas. The people loved it.

An opinion sampling of gamblers, shills, businessmen, professional people and the man in the street brought this reaction.

They reason that the series of five atomic tests, concluded Tuesday, has put Las Vegas on the map in a big way.

Almost everyone you talk to shows this craving for publicity—any kind of publicity. The people of this southern Nevada town are firmly convinced that publicity is the lifeblood of a tourist center, where the gambling halls and wedding chapel are on a 24-hour basis.

As Charles B. (Bert) Smith, a dealer at one of the plush casinos, summed it up, "Commercially it's the largest advertising feat that any city of this size would hope for. Money couldn't buy the advertising we've realized."

There are a few dissenters and occasionally you find a hint of worry. Patty Rose, a blond cigarette girl at one of the clubs, sighed and admitted, "I'm glad they're over. I was getting nervous."

On a downtown street a picturesque white-haired prospector, Patrick H. Williams, 69, gave this view: "As far as the atom bomb is concerned I think it would be a darned good thing if it hadn't been invented." Then he paused, scratched his beard, and added, "It's only a matter of time until we have a first class means of destruction."

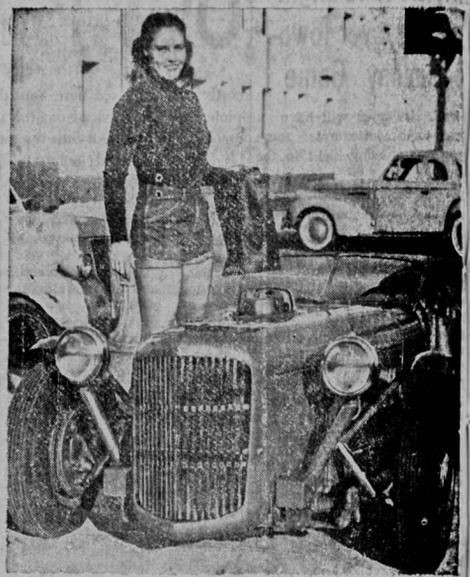

But most of the views were optimistic. Even the chamber of commerce takes a positive position. "These tests certainly haven't hurt Las Vegas," said J.R. McQuilkin, managing director of the Las Vegas chamber of commerce. "We're just doggone grateful Nevada is able to provide the facilities for these tests. We want to lend our support to national defense."

He said that during the first part of the week there were more people in town than usual on weekdays. Hotel men reported better business than normal. One downtown hotel said its business was six percent above normal in January and has continued just as strong in February.

The town, of course, is full of people with "information" on what took place on the range. For example some claim the government was testing atomic guided missiles and artillery shells, or that it was dropping small bombs from airplanes, setting off big charges from steel towers.

Back on Job Before Deadline

The army's "work or be fired" deadline arrived Saturday but striking switchmen already were back on the job.

However, some industry still was feeling the pinch of strike-caused shortages. Rail spokesmen said it would take from two to three weeks to clear away the backlog of freight on sidings and in yards.

The waning "sick call" strike collapsed Thursday when the army announced that switchmen who failed to report by 3 p.m. Iowa time Saturday would be discharged and lose their seniority unless they could prove they were ill.

The bulk of the striking crews reported on the Thursday night shift in Chicago—the most vital rail hub still affected—and by Friday conditions were virtually normal throughout the country.

At the height of the 10-day strike, some 12,000 switchmen were out, 700,000 of the nation's 2-million freight cars were tied up and 250,000 workers were laid off in mines and industry. Some 120,000 automobile workers, most of them in Michigan, still are idle. With the strike ended, many industrial layoffs scheduled for Monday were called off and a return to normal was moving ahead.

The Pennsylvania railroad ordered its freight embargo at Chicago lifted at Saturday midnight.

The strikers, since their return, have received a pay boost on orders of the army. The army has been in technical control of the carriers since the government seized them Aug. 27 to halt a threatened strike.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, one of four striking rail unions, was fined $25,000 Friday.

Thomas A. Edison

BORN FEBRUARY 11, 1847

IN THOSE WORDS, Thomas A. Edison expressed a philosophy to which he adhered throughout his long and fruitful life.

Working at a pace which would kill the ordinary man, at times against great odds, he gave to the world more than 1100 inventions which opened the way to an entirely new concept of comfortable, convenient living.

Among the greatest and best known are the first practical electric light, the dynamo to supply electricity on a commercial basis, and many additional developments in the electrical field.

Others include the phonograph, the movie camera, the dictating machine, the storage battery, the Universal stock ticker, a safety lamp for miners, and the magnetic ore separator — to name but a few.

Although essentially a man of peace, Edison put his genius actively to work during World War I. His experiments in electronics as well as many of his inventions also led to the development of equipment of vital importance in winning World War II and conducting the present Korean struggle.

It is indeed fitting that tribute be paid to this great American on the anniversary of his birth.
