Chorus Line Practices for 'Cabaret' Dance

REHEARSING THE DANCE they will present during intermission at the all-campus 'Club Cabaret' dance March 9, five SUI queens smiled and kicked prettily. Tickets for the informal party are now on sale at the main desk of the Iowan Union.

14 Students File Petitions For Council

Fourteen SUI students, including five women, filed petitions for student council candidacy in the all-campus election, March 14. Two of the petitions were filed two minutes before the 3:30 deadline Thursday.

Active campaigning will begin at noon today. The final list of candidates for delegates-at-large includes:

Tom Olson, A3, Red Oak; Joyce Horton, A3, Osage; Marion Guy, A3, Aledo, Ill.; Bill Ayers, A3, Lombard, Ill.; Richard Lawer, E2, Iowa City; George Lawton, A4, Fort Dodge; Marilyn McMullen, A2, Dubuque; Eugene Saucke, N3, Fort Dodge; Bob Wells, G, Aberdeen, S.D.; Jim Bullard, A2, Jefferson; Bill Skafie, A2, Dubuque; Jim Mergen, A2, Fennimore, Wis.; Shirley Albrecht, P2, Hartley, and Charles Glatty, C3, Sioux Falls, S.D.

Outlines Campaign Rules Ed Diekmann, E4, Ottumwa, outlined the campaign rules for the candidates in a meeting in Old Capitol Thursday. He emphasized that the rule that a candidate may not spend more than $25 on his campaign will be very rigidly enforced.

He also called for candidates to give respect to private property in Iowa City, and to refrain from painting signs of any type on buildings or sidewalks. No campaign literature may be posted on the trees in the square block on which Old Capitol is located, as is the case on university property and the Grand viaducts.

Diekmann also called the candidates' attention to the rule that any candidates whose representatives or friends are caught destroying rival publicity material will have their names stricken from the ballot.

Luciano Demands Chance at Defense

MILAN, ITALY (AP) - Former New York vice king Charles "Lucky" Luciano demanded Thursday that he be allowed to return to the United States to defend himself against charges by the senate crime investigating committee.

Luciano, who was deported from the U.S. in 1947, Wednesday was described by the committee in Washington as the umpire between two major American crime syndicates.

Interviewed at the plush Manin hotel, he challenged Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) the committee's chairman, to produce "specific charges."

"Let them talk about me," Luciano said. "They will always fail to produce evidence against me. If they can, why don't they file proceedings with the U.S. government to obtain my deportation back to America and make a new trial, permitting me to speak and defend myself personally."

Bishop Slaps Doctors' Group

CHICAGO (AP) - Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, who is president of the World Council of Churches let go a blast Thursday night at the "reactionary propaganda of the American Medical Association" against extension of health insurance plans.

"The issue is not socialized medicine or governmental medicine," said Bishop Oxnam.

"Protestants want neither the shackles of the omnipotent state nor the fetters of the incompetent American Medical Association... but they do want good health. They want a way to pay for it."

It Was Nice in Iowa City -

March Roars Across Nation with Snow Wind

March sallied into Iowa City Thursday on a spring breeze, but north, east and west of Iowa winter was roaring out with snow storms and high winds.

The center of a big storm which Wednesday whistled in four feet of snow at 65 miles an hour in Duluth, Minn., was veering into Ontario, Canada, across the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

In the east, a sudden storm dumped six inches of snow on Albany, N.Y., and swept over most of the state accompanied by high winds.

Defense Chief Hits Committee For 'Attitude'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall chided the house armed services committee for a "change of atmosphere" Thursday. He pressed anew for universal military training and a draft of 18-year-olds.

Only two months ago, he told the legislators, the defense department was being criticized for not asking for four or five million men instead of the force of 3 million provided for in the bill now before congress. He said the feeling in the committee then was that the country was not building its defense fast enough.

"Today the atmosphere is quite different," Marshall stated. "We are not asked how much more we need, but why are we asking so much."

Change Came Fast The defense chief said he had experienced switches in sentiment before. But never with the speed with which this present change has come about.

In his appearance Thursday, Marshall emphasized that the U.S. has not yet made good the deficiencies which became apparent at the outset of the Korean crisis.

Unless 18 year olds are inducted, he said, veteran-reservists called to active duty cannot be released now "because we can't spare them."

Opposes Lowering Standards

Marshall said he couldn't view "without concern" changes in the bill suggested by Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.), chairman of the committee. One of these proposed changes in induction at 18 1/2 instead of 18.

He opposed reduction of mental and physical standards for induction to the level existing during the last war and objected to elimination from the number of women who can serve in the armed forces. At present female branches of the services are limited to two percent of the total.

Army Revamping

WASHINGTON (AP) - Gen. Mark Clark said Thursday a broad study is being undertaken to streamline the army so a greater percentage of its men will get frontline combat posts.

Interviewed at Fort Monroe, Va., on "reporters roundup" (MBS), General Clark said: "I am sure that we will find ways and means of squeezing more men out of the rear areas and getting them into front line units with rifles."

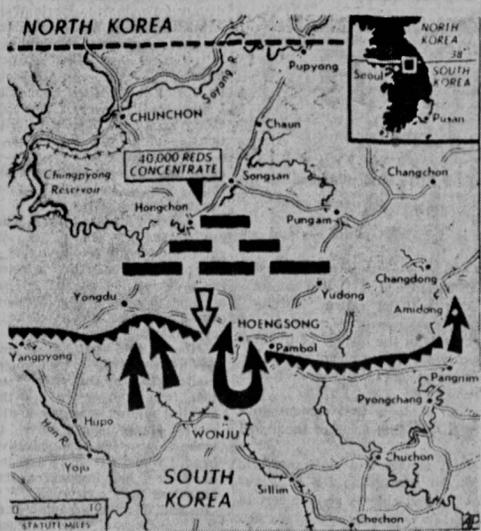

General Clark also disclosed that a partial "rotation plan" involving battle - experienced officers and non-commissioned men in Korea will get underway shortly.

This plan, Clark said, will enable the army to bring home battle-experienced officers to help train new troops.

Larson Reminds Officials Of New Gambling Law

DES MOINES (AP) - Iowa Atty. Gen. Robert Larson Thursday sent 1,300 letters to local officials calling attention to the state's new anti-gambling law.

The law, which went into effect last Saturday, calls for the revocation for one year of the business licenses of any establishment where gambling devices are found.

Marines Flank Hoengsong

ALLIED FORCES THURSDAY kept up their attacks along a 60-mile front in central Korea as shown by the sawtooth line. Solid arrows indicate points along the line where attacks are the heaviest. Double-pronged arrow in center shows where marines and South Koreans attacked east and west of Hoengsong in drive at heart of 40,000-man Communist force. Open arrow indicates direction of Red counter-attack west of Hoengsong. To the west, British and South Korean units pressed forward in Yongdu area. On eastern end of central front, U.S. Seventh division elements captured Amidong.

Marines Strike Resistance On Cold Korean Ridge

TOKYO (FRIDAY) (UP) - Hard-hitting U.S. marines struck north in bitter cold weather early today in the second day of the renewed Allied offensive against a line held by 31 Chinese and North Korean divisions.

The First Marine division jumped off at 8 a.m. from the crest of a ridge west of Hoengsong which they captured Thursday and held through the night against fierce Communist counterattacks in 10-degree cold.

The Reds attacked twice during the night, after lobbing 100 to 120 artillery and mortar shells into marine positions. Each time, they were stopped in their tracks and thrown back down the slope of the half-bald ridge.

The marines punched toward a range of steep peaks in an effort to cut the vital road leading northwest from Hoengsong to Hongschon, the chief Chinese Red headquarters city in central Korea.

The renewed marine attack came after a day of general allied advances in which troops of five nations flanked Hoengsong, seized command of Yongdu, and pressed north on the heels of three shattered Korean Communist corps on the eastern front.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur warned in his communique today, however, that the enemy's ability to hold a defense line "somewhere near the 38th parallel is unimpaired in spite of heavy current losses."

MacArthur's communique reviewed Thursday's fighting in which United Nations troops ground ahead up to three and a half miles all along the 50-mile central front and thrust in from the east coast in a flanking drive.

Officials Doubt Success of Meetings

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States, Britain and France agreed Thursday to meet with Russia in Paris Monday in an effort to arrange a full-scale big four foreign ministers' conference on East-West problems.

State department officials were openly pessimistic, however, about reaching any real basis for fruitful talks with the Soviets.

State Department Press Officer Michael J. McDermott said Moscow's reply Thursday to a joint Western note "does not suggest any real change of attitude on their part which would encourage the hope that the four ministers would be able to reach useful agreements."

Uncertainty on Russian "readiness to discuss general East-West tensions appeared to be the main stumbling-block in the way of the deputies, who are to arrange the agenda for the later meeting.

The Soviets have insisted on confining the conference to problems arising in occupied Germany. The West has been equally insistent on broadening the talks to include other disputed issues, such as an Austrian peace treaty and Russian rearmament.

Jessup Heads Delegation The American delegation to the crucial Paris parley will be headed by Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup. It will leave for the continent today.

The decision to go ahead on the Paris talks followed consultations at the state department by the British and French ambassadors.

McDermott said the poliburo's note constituted "on its face an acceptance of Western demands for a meeting. It thus climaxed four months of diplomatic jockeying to get the Big Four together across a conference table to settle cold war issues.

"This (Western) proposal specifically requires that the agenda be broadened to include the real cause of tension in Europe and cannot be limited to the Soviet table of the so-called 'demilitarization of Germany'," McDermott said.

Puerto Rican Admits Shooting of Guard

WASHINGTON (AP) - Puerto Rican Nationalist Oscar Collazo admitted Thursday that he shot a White House guard last Nov. 1, but said he "never had it in mind" to assassinate President Truman.

His only purpose, he testified at his murder trial, was to wound the guard and "make a demonstration" that would draw American public attention to "the suffering" in his native island.

Collazo is charged with murdering White House guard Leslie Coffelt during a wild shooting affray on the steps of the President's Blair House residence.

With the jury out of the courtroom, defense attorneys placed him on the stand in an effort to stop the prosecution from introducing statements that Collazo allegedly made immediately after his arrest. They admit he came here to shoot the President.

Truman Requests Defense Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Truman asked congress Thursday for $1,454,000,000 more in cash and lending power to help speed up the defense production and civil defense programs.

The money, which is in addition to billions already voted or requested, includes $51-million in appropriations and $1-billion in borrowing authority for defense production, and $403-million in appropriations for civil defense.

Much of the new fund was requested for the remainder of this fiscal year ending June 30, although some of the civil defense money will be carried over through the new year starting July 1, 1951.

U.S. Backs Down; Approves Some Wage, Price Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government Thursday night poked holes in both its wage and price ceilings: It approved some "escalator" wage increases and gave auto manufacturers a 3 1/2 percent price boost.

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston liberalized the wage policy by allowing workers to get full benefit of cost-of-living wage increases up to midyear - but only if their escalator-type contracts were signed before Jan. 25.

He acted on his own, because his wage stabilization board was made nearly useless by the walkout of its three labor members. Organized labor Wednesday pulled all its members out of the mobilization agencies, in protest against alleged "big business" domination.

But Johnston already was making cautious moves to set up a new wage board - with new faces and possibly having 18 instead of nine members - in hopes labor would rejoin industry and public representatives on the rebuilt panel.

The auto price freeze was cracked by Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle. He said the increase would "partially offset increases in production costs."

DiSalle extended for another 60 days the auto price order of Dec. 18, with the price boost tacked on. Dealers may pass on to passenger car buyers only the exact dollars-and-cents amount of the factory rise.

This, DiSalle said, will mean less than a 3 1/2 percent rise at retail. In at least one case it will come to 2.6 percent - or about half the increase which General Motors, Ford and some other companies had planned on their 1951 models before the government froze them. This is a temporary order, DiSalle said. It will be replaced by a general ceiling formula for all manufacturing industry.

Truman Concerned About Troops Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Truman indicated Thursday he wished congress would quickly dispose of the troops-to-Europe issue lest it injure America's relations with her Western allies.

He told his news conference that congress can debate foreign policy or anything else it wants to, but that doesn't mean it helps relations with the rest of the world.

The President declined to discuss the current senate investigations of the RFC, crime, and the 1950 Maryland senatorial campaign.

The remarks on the troops issue came in response to questions about a report on presidential and congressional war powers. The report was prepared by the executive branch at the request of senate committees which have been holding hearings on the administration's plan to send more troops to Europe for the Western allied forces.

U.S. to Use Atomic Artillery in Future

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of Air Thomas K. Finletter announced Thursday there no longer is any question that the United States can produce an atomic-powered plane capable of non-stop flights over now undreamed of distances.

He made the statement in disclosing that the airforce will begin production this year on heavy B-52 turbo jet bombers and has ordered two jet versions of the B-36 with swept-back wings. He also said the airforce has about

Crash Survivor Now In 'Good Condition'

Donald Richardson, 19, Sioux Rapids who received arm and leg fractures in a truck-train collision a week ago, was reported in good condition Thursday.

Richardson, now in Mercy hospital, was injured when a truck he was driving collided with a Rock Island freight train on Highway 218, near Riverside. Myrtle Bennett, 32, Sioux Rapids, was killed in the crash. A cargo of eggs valued at $3,000 was smashed and the locomotive and one car of the train were derailed in the crash.

Local Retailers' Business Increases

Iowa City retailers did 85.5 percent of the business in Johnson county during the second quarter of 1950, a rise of 2.1 percent over the same period in 1949.

Total sales by Iowa City merchants during the second three-month period of 1950 totaled $8,608,600 as compared to $8,129,450 for the same period in 1949, according to the February bulletin from the Iowa City chamber of commerce.

Part of the increase may be due to the increase in the number of retailers who reported sales in 1950 in comparison to 1949. In 1950, 611 retailers reported their sales and only 570 reported in 1949.

Intercollegiate Forensics Meet Opens Here Today

Sixteen colleges and universities will participate in the March intercollegiate forensics conference which starts at SUI today.

About 90 visiting students and 25 students from SUI will take part in debates, discussion, extempore and public speaking.

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher will speak Saturday at the noon luncheon for directors and participants in the River room, Iowan Union.

Military Educational Duties The discussion topic will be "What should be the military and educational responsibilities of American youth in the present emergency?"

The intercollegiate debate question, "Resolved, that the non-Communist nations should form a new International organization," will be debated by the debate teams. Each affirmative and negative team will be represented by two speakers.

Participant Colleges Colleges which will take part are: Coe, Cornell, Grinnell, Simpson, Iowa State, St. Ambrose, Buena Vista, Augustana, Illinois, State Normal, Wheaton and Iowa State Teachers.

Universities represented will be Bradley, Drake, Temple, Texas State University for Negroes and Upper Iowa.

Sioux Falls and Kansas State Teachers colleges which had earlier indicated they would attend cancelled their entries.

Harper Refuses Town Nomination

SUI Prof. Earl E. Harper announced Thursday that he could not accept the nomination for mayor of University Heights.

Harper, director of the Iowa Union and school of fine arts, said, "I am honored and surprised, but because of my previous commitments with the National Council of Churches, I could not possibly take on any added responsibilities at home."

He added that he thought Chan Coulter, the present mayor, was doing a wonderful job. "Even if I were nominated," Harper commented, "I believe I would vote for Chan."

Recreation Leader Choice To Come on Tuesday

Cliff B. Kriteria, chairman of the Playgrounds commission, announced Thursday night that applications for the position of city recreation director have been narrowed from 10 to five.

"In all probability the final choice will come Tuesday," Kriteria said. The commission has scheduled a meeting for 7:30 p.m.

A Letter to Candidates —

An open letter to the candidates for SUI's student council in the March 14 ball-campus elections:

Dear Candidates, This early-spring election time is a hopeful period — and we are hopeful too.

We hope you know what you are getting as political candidates at SUI. At times you will be laughed at, smiled behind and not taken very seriously. You will be called "activity hounds."

We hope you will background yourself in the history of the student council and what it has done and what it was meant to do. We hope you believe in student government and will work for its strengthening and further development.

We hope you can convince enough students that student government is needed and possible at SUI — so that 8,000 of them will vote for you.

We hope you can convince enough faculty and staff members that student government at SUI can be responsible for truly reflecting the opinions of the student body and able to assume certain governing functions.

We hope you understand the need for a reorganized student governing body to overcome many of the difficulties inherent in the present scheme of representation. We hope you will attend the meetings now being held to discuss reorganization.

We hope you understand that student council is only one of several bodies on campus which govern student activities. We hope you will cooperate with the Union board and student board of publications, both of which have been on campus longer than the student council.

And we hope you too are hopeful this early spring.

Hundred Years' Terror Spread by 'Black Hand'

NEW YORK (AP) — The Sicilian underworld society Mafia, described by senate crime investigators as the "adhesive" which holds together two gigantic American crime syndicates was born in violence, murder and widespread terror about 100 years ago.

The Mafia had its origin in the 1850's, when Sicilian landowners, not satisfied with the protection they were receiving from police, paid gangs of tough triggermen to protect them and their large estates.

The leaders of these private police forces soon discovered, however, that there was more money for them if they turned their guns and threats upon the landowners themselves.

The gang leaders soon formed a closely knit society with its own code of tight-lipped conduct to protect members from the law while they went about their terroristic activities. The name "Mafia" was coined shortly after a Joseph Mazzini appeared in Sicily in 1860 and became leader of a large group of these outlaws.

Mazzini formed an inner circle of gang rulers which he called the Mafia — a word, according to one story, taken from the first letters of a phrase which, translated, means, "Mazzini authorizes theft, arson, poisoning."

The Sicilian organization blossomed in New Orleans as early as 1860. The American counterpart, operating under the name "Black Hand," soon became a swaggering underworld organization which thrived on blackmail, terrorism and violence in New Orleans, New York and other large American cities.

In October 1890, David Hennessy, chief of police in New Orleans, was murdered. Investigation proved it to be the work of the Mafia.

It was learned that a gang of Italians had ambushed another

Italian gang called the Stoppa-ghe. Hennessy's work in apprehending the hoodlums brought the vengeance of the Mafia upon him.

Eleven Italians were arrested on suspicion of being involved in the murder. A jury, terrorized by the Black Hand, acquitted six.

On March 14, 1891, a mob led by well-known citizens, broke into the jail where the Italians were held and lynched 11 of them. The lynching climaxed a long-standing diplomatic incident between the U.S. and Italy.

Italy had its own troubles with the Mafia. When Italian dictator Benito Mussolini came to power he proclaimed a virtual warfare on the underworld society.

The dictator put Casare Mori, prefect of Palermo, in charge of wiping out the Mafia. Mori had eradicated most of the Mafia and taken many members prisoner.

But the Italian branch of the Mafia lived longer than Mussolini did. It was not until July 5, 1950, that Italian police killed the celebrated bandit chief, Salvatore Giuliano, almost legendary Mafia chieftain.

The name Mafia has cropped up in senate crime testimony at least once before. In July, 1950, Harry Anslinger, chief of the federal narcotics bureau, said he believed the Mafia was the power behind an 800-member narcotics crime ring.

MALAYAN RED TERRORISM KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — British armed forces are killing an average of two Communist terrorists daily in Malaya. But while the terrorist death toll is rising, so is their activity. In a recent seven-day period, terrorists slashed more than 5,000 rubber trees, destroyed many buses, and murdered seven civilians.

He added "Some 50-million people living in an area of 80,000 square miles (are) potentially the weakest link in the commonwealth chain."

Sixty thousand enumerators will take the new census, first official count, since 1921. By chance, the Republic of Ireland will take its own the same day so figures for the entire British isles — including the Channel islands and tiny lighthouses on remote Scottish islets — will be on hand simultaneously.

The figure for England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland in an unofficial estimate two years ago was 50,519,000 despite the tide of migration to the dominions and colonies.

British to Take Population Count

LONDON (AP) — Overcrowded Britain, recently termed "probably the most vulnerable target in the world" in an atom war, will have its noses counted for the first time in 20 years.

Defence, housing, and emigration men will have a special interest in the total, which unofficial estimates indicate may top 51-million.

Also watching will be empire authorities — especially in Australia and Canada — who long have had a welcome mat out for British skilled labor and technical men.

Because of its chronic over-population problem, Australia's former Immigration Minister Arthur A. Calwell gave Britain the "most vulnerable target" tag.

Hoover Philosophical Regarding Politician's Popularity Rise, Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover Thursday said he was "not fooled" by his vast popularity following the end of World War I and when his public favor began to wane, he was "well fortified to accept it philosophically."

In the fourth installment of his personal memoirs, the only living ex-president revealed himself to have been a tireless worker who sometimes wished he could spend more time fishing or loafing with his boys instead of shouldering immense responsibilities.

Hoover described in Collier's magazine the hectic period immediately following the World War I Armistice during which he directed the relief and rehabilitation activities of the Allied governments.

"During this period, 11 months, I lived mostly in Paris," he said. "Very rarely did I accept invitations to dinners; I did not go to a single theater; except for an occasional Sunday hour at Notre Dame, I saw no cathedrals or 'sights.'"

"I never went into a shop; when my clothes ran short, someone got them for me. I worked 12 to 18 hours daily and Sundays, using breakfast, lunch and dinner as time to do business with my own staff and officials of other governments."

Hoover said that he turned down "regretfully" an offer made in 1920 by Daniel Guggenheim, who then was head of the greatest mining company in the world. Guggenheim's offer to make Hoover his administrative head, would have "exceeded anything I had known," as far as salary was concerned.

Instead, Hoover accepted President Harding's offer to make him secretary of commerce.

Shortly after the war, Hoover said, "I now found myself in a burst of popularity."

"I was not fooled by all this adulation. I knew that if a man engaged in public life he was bound to create opposition every time he took a stand on a public question; that he was fated to accumulate enemies."

"I knew from the bitter experience of all public men from George Washington down that democracies are fickle."

"My period of popularity was to last nearly 12 years, which seems about the average. When the ultimate bump came, I was well fortified to accept it philosophically."

"In the 18 years after the presidency," he said, "my activities fighting the New Deal (and some Republican) attempts to collectivize the country and fighting against our entry into the second crusade to provide freedom in Europe kept me a long way from public favor."

"But after a time," Hoover concluded, "some people began to think I had been right and life was more endurable."

Federal Security . . . TO THE EDITOR: In reply to your editorial (on state insurance payments): I agree with you to some extent, but think it would be much wiser to transfer over to the federal security plan and not give any refunds.

A lot of students may not intend to work later on, but in case they had to, they would have this security building up, from which they would benefit in time. The labor laws should be liberalized some and the 75 cents minimum wage be made a state law — even though it is inadequate now.

It is hard to get legislation in Iowa when the majority are lawyers with a dollar in their pocket and conservative farmers who have the say so in Des Moines.

I am not writing this as a criticism, but merely to express my own opinion.

Moons Seem to Affect Tides

'Pope of Peace' Marks 75th Year

By FRANK BRUTTO ROME (AP) — Pope Pius XII, who today celebrates his seventy-fifth birthday and the twelfth anniversary of his pontificate as the "pope of peace," has established many records.

But the one for which the "modern pope" and the "pope of the assumption" may be most remembered years hence is this:

He met more people than any pontiff thus far in the nearly 2,000 years of the Roman Catholic church.

Pope Pius XII has met millions — rulers and masses — in private and special audiences and in the greatest general audiences ever held by a pontiff. They came from the near and far places of the earth — black and white, red, yellow and brown.

As the human tide surged around him again and again, reaching an all-time high mark in the 1950 holy year, the tall, frail pontiff made it clear that the "encounter," as it is called, was one he sought as eagerly as those who sought to see him.

Nearly all the 4-million holy year pilgrims who came to Rome last year were received in general, special or private audiences. Several times St. Peter's basilica, the world's biggest church, was unable to hold the throngs and the pope, carried on his portable throne, passed through the square to bless them.

Inside the basilica, twice weekly in general audiences throughout the jubilee, he carefully called the home city and town of hundreds of pilgrim groups and then addressed them, usually in six languages — English, Italian, French, German, Spanish and Portuguese.

But even these great audiences were not enough. During August and September at his Castel Gandolfo summer residence an impromptu audience developed into a regular five-days weekly event.

Sometimes the pontiff appeared as much as three times daily on the little Castel Gandolfo balcony, and it was here that his uncommon touch with the common man was most humanly shown.

"Excuse me," he said one day, "if I made you wait a little."

At war's end the pope, in the consistory of February 1946, created 33 cardinals — the largest number in history. Their selection from all six continents emphasized the Catholic church's universality. And gave its 428-million members more equal representation in the church's senate. For the first time in five centuries the Italian cardinals were a minority.

Meanwhile, the fight grew between the church and materialistic communism. The end of the war, leaving 50-million Catholics under Communist influence, emphasized it.

In Italy, as the important 1948 national elections neared, the pope's references to communism became more frequent and more pointed. Finally, on Easter day he reminded Catholics of their duty to vote and of what he described as Christ's "terrible verdict" — "He who is not with me is against me."

The defeat of the Communist-led Popular front was hailed by the pope as "quickenning the confidence of all Europe and the whole world."

In his many speeches to representatives of governments and groups from all walks of life the pontiff, more and more, urged social reforms as a necessary means of turning aside the threat of communism.

The holy year, meanwhile, had progressed to its most important ceremony — the announcement, on Nov. 1, of the dogma of the assumption into heaven, body and soul, of the Virgin Mary. It was the first time that a dogma was proclaimed in St. Peter's square, and the first in nearly 100 years proclaimed by a pontiff. Six hundred bishops from all parts of the world attended. The throng — biggest in the history of Christianity — was estimated by some at 700,000 people.

Today, as he enters the thirteenth year of his pontificate — a lucky number in Italy — the Catholic church in the Communist-dominated East is more assailed than ever. Indicative of the struggle between it and communism are two words in the 1951 pontifical annual after the name of Hungary's Josef Cardinal Mindszenty. They are: "In jail."

Interpreting the News — Debate on Troops May Clear European Doubts

By J.M. ROBERTS JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

As the senate concluded its hearings on the matter of sending additional American troops to Europe, the net result of the "great debate" to date seems to be a deep split in the Republican party which, however, has given Europe a solemn warning against trying for a free defense ride on Uncle Sam's coattails.

Senators Taft, Wherry and former President Hoover set themselves up against the so-called "internationalist" wing of their party, led by Dewey, Stassen, former vice - presidential candidate Warren of California, and Republican state department adviser John Sherman Cooper.

It also wound up with Hoover, Taft and Wherry left to face, almost alone, the military judgments of Generals Marshall, Eisenhower and Clay.

There is still the barrier of senate debate to be hurdled, of course. The committee still has several proposed resolutions to work over, ranging from Wherry's desire for congressional veto to the Connally - Russell validation of the full administration program.

President Truman, following the close of the hearings, was quick to hint that, whatever its value in clearing the domestic atmosphere, the debate was doing the country's foreign relations no good. He didn't go so far as saying that they had actually been damaged, however.

In fact, Europe seems to have preserved a better sense of balance, a greater feeling of confidence in the ultimate American decision, than it has in some past cases while the United States was submitting its policies to her customary democratic processes.

In the long run, the troop debate, by producing a definite answer and a congressional affirmation of policy, may give Europe greater confidence than if the executive department had gone ahead in the face of mutterings without the issue ever becoming clearcut.

ANCESTRAL INDIA'S BIRTH CONTROL COMMENDED WASHINGTON (AP) — India was advised Thursday to return to the wisdom of the ancients for a birth-control system cheaper than the West's.

Rep. Frances P. Bolton (R-Ohio) offered the suggestion as a means of solving the Indian subcontinent's perennial problems of over-population and famine.

Mother of three sons, Mrs. Bolton said thousands of years ago the Hindus developed a sure system of birth control and also "a way of producing leaders — men who might be priests and rule."

The Vedas, ancient Hindu literature, reveal a "complete understanding of the body and the laws of the mind," she said.

She said India should look to its oldtime lore for a way of holding down zooming births without having to complain she cannot afford western birth-control methods.

Sirdar J. J. Singh, president of the India League of America, first brought up the question of India's over-fertile millions at a house foreign affairs committee hearing on the subsequently-approved bill to send $100-million in grain to India to stave off a threatened famine.

He said the problem was tough. First of all, the natives must be taught the methods of birth-control, he explained. Then they must have the "money to buy the doo-dads which are absolutely necessary for the purpose . . ."

"To buy these 'necessarily unmentionable things' would be beyond the means of 80 percent of the population Singh said.

"It's a vicious circle. You cannot have effective birth control unless you have a strong economy, which means money."

Dieting? Don't Miss Your Breakfast

Food Eaten Early Used for Energy Unlike Bedtime Snack

When it's spring a young woman's fancy often turns to thoughts of being lovelier! Sometimes that means dieting. If that's your fancy, then start your reducing diet with breakfast — not without.

Scientific studies have shown that food eaten early in the day is digested and absorbed largely during the most active daytime hours. In contrast, food eaten at night shortly before going to bed is digested and absorbed when the excess is likely to be deposited as fat.

More scientific proof comes from a prominent medical college. During a breakfast study, young women showed little change in weight whether they had no breakfast, only black coffee, or ate breakfast supplying 300, 600 or 1,000 calories along with a free choice of foods at other meals.

Breakfast Important

This proves skipping breakfast isn't the answer. For when we do without this important morning meal, we not only cut our pep, but we become so hungry it's almost impossible to keep from snacking or overeating at other meals. Cutting calories in all meals is the only way to lose weight.

You can plan your reducing breakfast and the rest of the family's meal from a basic breakfast pattern of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter.

Today's basic cereal breakfast suggests fresh orange juice, honey-broiled oatmeal and prune casserole, cocoa cinnamon toast, butter and milk.

For your main dish, place hot oatmeal in a casserole, add cooked and pitted prunes, drizzle with honey, and put under the broiler until the fruit is heated through.

For cocoa cinnamon toast, mix 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon cocoa, and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon; sprinkle on hot buttered toast.

When you serve a basic cereal breakfast of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter, you're giving the budget a break. Such a breakfast supplies most people with from 1/4 to 1/3 of their day's food needs for only 1/7 of the day's total food bill.

Allow Bread to Rise Slowly for Best Results

Rising times are important in making even-grained enriched bread, fluffy yeast coffee cakes and rolls. If the dough has not risen enough before baking, the baked bread may be somewhat small in volume and coarse.

This is because the yeast has not had time to manufacture enough leavening gas to make thousands of tiny gas cells which make the dough rise. If the dough has risen too much the yeast has manufactured too much gas which in turn overstretches the gluten strands.

When the dough is placed in a hot oven, they expand further and break, and the bread falls.

KEEP CHEESE FRESH

Cheese keeps fresh longer if it's wrapped in cloth that has been sprinkled with vinegar, dipped in water and wrung out. When cloth dries out, repeat vinegar and water treatment.

Use Leftovers for Tasty Spreads, Fillings

It's simple magic to turn leftover meat and chicken into tasty tidbit spreads for snacks, hors d'oeuvres or sandwich fillings. Prepare these recipes in advance, sprinkle with ac'cent, pure monosodium glutamate, to hold in flavors over a period of time, and store in refrigerator for future use.

For chicken gibel-egg spread use the following ingredients:

- 1/2 cup minced giblets
- 2 hard cooked eggs, minced
- 2 tablespoons crisp bacon, crumbled
- 1 teaspoon grated onion
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 teaspoon ac'cent
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice or vinegar

Combine ingredients. Mix well and chill.

Fix your leftover pork into minced pork spread which requires the following ingredients:

- 1 1/4 cups minced roast pork
- 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle
- 1/2 cups mayonnaise
- 1/2 teaspoon ac'cent
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine these ingredients, mixing well, and chill.

For leftover chicken, try this minced chicken spread made from the following ingredients:

- 1 1/4 cups canned or home-cooked chicken
- 1/3 cup minced celery
- 1 teaspoon grated onion
- 2 teaspoons peanut butter

Hungry Men Like Pork Balls on Hot Noodles

DAISIES WON'T TELL HOW GOOD THESE juicy pork balls taste. But you can find out for yourself when you try them on a bed of hot noodles mixed with raisins or currants, and topped with rich gravy. Use economical pork shoulder for the meat balls and simmer them in well seasoned gravy. Soak raisins or currants and add to hot noodles before serving.

Macaroni Becomes Food Fashion During Lent

Keep your family keenly interested in meals by trying new fashions in food as you try new fashions in clothes.

Of course, any new fashion may become expensive. To help the homemaker keep the food budget under control and make meals interesting too, macaroni foods star each season.

For the Easter season here are a few new dishes to delight the family and bring them scurrying to the dinner table. They all use one of the wheat foods, spaghetti macaroni or noodles, to make them budget-wise, nourishing and good tasting.

Menu Simple to Prepare

Bunny nests combine the goodness of mushrooms and eggs with spinach and spaghetti to make a fitting main dish for Lenten menus. The following ingredients are used in making bunny nests:

- 4 ounces elbow spaghetti
- 1 1/4 cups condensed mushroom soup (one 10-ounce can)
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- dash pepper
- 4 hard cooked eggs
- 1/2 pound chopped cooked spinach
- 1/4 cup buttered bread crumbs

Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender (about 7 minutes). Drain and rinse. While spaghetti is cooking, combine soup, milk, salt and pepper in saucepan and bring to boiling point. Chop 3 eggs, reserving one for garnish. Add spaghetti, the chopped eggs and spinach to soup mixture and heat thoroughly.

Serve in hot individual ramekins. Garnish with slices of remaining egg and bread crumbs. This will make four servings.

Easter Bunny Casserole

Tender green peas add just the needed color to Easter bunny

Ham Noodle Cus'ard

An exciting new costume for small amounts of ham is ham noodle custard. The ham is joined by noodles, green pepper and onion to make ham noodle cus'ard. It's a good dish to keep in mind for left-over Easter ham. Table-ready meat may be used in place of the ham, if desired.

Ham noodle custard requires the following ingredients:

- 1/2 cup fat
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup cooked ham or table-ready meat, cut in 1/4 inch wide strips
- 4 ounces medium noodles
- 1 cup milk
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Melt fat in skillet. Add green pepper, onion, and ham or table-ready meat. Brown well, about 7 minutes. Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender (about 4 minutes). Drain and rinse. Combine noodles, milk, egg, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce.

Put meat mixture in center of greased casserole. Pour noodle custard mixture around meat mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 30 minutes. This will make four servings.

Fish Can Be Tasty If Properly Cooked When Still Fresh

If you don't like fish, you don't know what you're missing! Contrary to much popular opinion, fish can make delectable eating.

To achieve its peak of flavor, fish should be really fresh when you cook it. Here are a few points to check to make sure it's fresh when you buy it: the eyes should be bright, clear and bulging; the gills reddish pink; the scales tight to the skin and shiny; the flesh firm, with a spring to it when you press it, and of course, the smell should be fresh.

Some people object to serving fish because of the "fishy smell" which clings to hands, dishes or utensils. This can be overcome by rinsing with heavily salted water before using soap.

The single, most important rule in preparing fish is to avoid overcooking, which makes it dry and unpalatable. Cook only until just done, when the flesh is no longer slightly transparent. Use a hot fire for broiling or frying, and a low temperature when cooking other ways.

A topping for fish fillets adds to their flavor. Here is one that is both inexpensive and simple to make. For each serving, cream together a tablespoon of vitaminized margarine, a teaspoon of lemon juice and a little finely minced parsley. Drop on each serving.

The widespread distribution of quick-frozen fish now makes it possible for persons living far from the source of supply to serve fresh fish which retains all its nutrients and fresh flavor.

The various canned fishes available, of which salmon and tuna are the most popular, should also be kept in mind, particularly by the working woman who is often pressed for valuable time when the office day is done.

Fried Onion Rings

French fried onion rings are wonderful with salads, sandwiches or main dishes.

To fry onion rings, heat the fat until your deep fat thermometer registers 380 degrees. Then drop in the onion rings which have been dipped first in milk and then in flour.

Fry until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper and sprinkle with salt.

LAMB CURRY ECONOMICAL

Your family like lamb? An economical way to serve it is in lamb curry. Serve it over egg noodles and a little lamb goes much farther. Also, macaroni foods supply wheat protein at purse-saving prices.

University Concert Band To Give Varied Program

The eighty-piece university concert band under the direction of Prof. C.B. Righter will present a varied program in its second concert of the season, Wednesday, in the Iowa Union.

"Iowa Fight Song" by Meredith Willson will be sung and played by the band in the song's first concert performance. The fight song was well received when it was played by the band at the Iowa-Indiana basketball game Feb. 12.

Numbers by Bach, Handel and Wagner, for the serious part of the program and some works of Jarnafelt, Grainger and Bennett, for entertainment, will add to the variety and colorfulness of the concert, Righter said.

Although the band lost 15 members through enlistments, it will present a complete balance for its second performance, Righter said. Vacancies have been filled from the second band and new members have joined since the last concert.

Free tickets for the concert will be available today at the Iowa union information desk, Whetstones, and the band office in the music studio building.

Co-Pilot Falls from Plane, Dies

DALLAS (P) — The co-pilot of a chartered airliner disappeared in pre-dawn darkness Thursday, 4,000 feet above the Texas panhandle, after he stumbled through a cargo of 20 sleeping soldiers to check an unlatched door.

Seven hours later the crumpled body of Joseph Henry Dowd, 27, of Dallas, was found 30 miles northwest of Amarillo, near the Exell, Texas, helium plant.

The death was startlingly similar to several other incidents in recent years. At least three others plunged to their deaths. A fourth person clung doggedly to his plane until it landed.

Bound for Denver

The plane was a Pioneer airlines craft en route with 20 airmen from Lackland airforce base, San Antonio, Texas, to Lowry field, Denver, Colo. It was chartered by the airforce to transport personnel between the two fields.

The plane's captain, Glenn C. Edds of Dallas, told this story to Pioneer officials here:

Soon after the plane took off from the Amarillo airport in the pre-dawn darkness, Edds noticed a warning light on his instrument panel indicating an unlatched rear door. He set Dowd to investigate.

Dowd failed to return. The pilot awoke one of the soldiers and asked him to look for the co-pilot.

Dowd was not aboard the plane.

Flying at 4,000 Feet

The plane was flying at 4,000 feet and had been in the air 15 minutes.

Edds said he remembered feeling the plane lurch shortly after Dowd went to check the door.

The pilot turned back to Amarillo and landed.

Another plane was flown from Dallas to carry the airmen to Denver. The original plane, a DC-3 twin-engine craft, was being thoroughly checked to find the cause of the mishap.

Dowd was born in Miami, Fla. He was a first lieutenant during World War II with the army airforce for three and a half years. He was employed by Pioneer Oct. 20, 1950.

Survivors include his widow and a three-year-old son.

Red Cross Drive Opens; $310 Given

A total of $310 was collected Thursday in the first day of Johnson county's 1951 Red Cross fund-raising campaign. The goal for the drive, which closes March 10, is $21,074.

The following is the division breakdown of the goal: business, $5,800; residential, $5,000; men's organizations, $100; women's organizations, $315; men's housing units, $250; women's housing units, $350; university hospitals, $1,150, and schools, $270.

Campaign headquarters have been opened at the Red Cross office, 15 1/2 S. Dubuque street, with Mrs. Scott Swisher acting as headquarters chairman. The telephone at the drive headquarters is 8-2331.

Sponsored by the high school music auxiliary for the benefit of the music department of the high school, the program will include barber shop harmony and hymns by the quartet. Miss Krellbill will be vocal soloist on the program.

A Summer Abroad

National Student Association Offers Tours to European Countries

By JACK JORDAN

An opportunity for the American student to learn more of the lives and motivations of other world citizens while spending a summer abroad is being offered by the National Student Association.

The program is based on tours arranged by the NSA, in conjunction with other student organizations around the world. These tours fall into four main categories: study tours, international tours, work camp arrangements, and hospitality tours.

Study tours deal with a particular field, such as agriculture, journalism, and sociology. They provide an opportunity to inspect the levels of achievement in these fields in, normally, four or five countries.

The international tour is more general in nature. In several countries, the student is given an overall picture of the economic, social, and political structure of the various countries.

The work camp arrangements allow for a student to work on harvests and roads. The emphasis in such an arrangement is on companionship with students from many other countries while spending the summer abroad at very low rates.

Hospitality tours are set up for students of limited means and arrangements are made for the students to live in homes of other students in each of the countries visited.

"I urge SUI students to take advantage of this opportunity, for it has been highly recommended by the other students as being both educational and a fine summer vacation," said Louise Bekman, A3, Ottumwa, student council NCA chairman.

Ross Williams, A4, Davenport, president of the Iowa-Nebaska region of the NSA, said that this is the most complete world tour. "The beauty of the program," he added, "is that it's by and for the students all the way. Student leaders in Europe act as guides in the various countries, and the fact that students associate with students tends to make everyone at ease."

Accident Scene Pictures Submitted In Suit Against Miller

Pictures of the accident scene were presented Thursday by both sides as evidence in the combined district court lawsuits brought against Eldon Miller, Inc., Iowa City trucking company.

Simon Mullet, owner of a truck which collided with a Miller gasoline transport last July 3, asks $1,625 for damages to his truck. Isaac D. Yoder, driver of the Mullet truck, wants $7,500 for injuries he claims to have received in the accident.

Eldon Miller, Inc., in a counter claim asks $4,318.68 for damages and loss of use of his transport. Plaintiff's testimony was given by both plaintiffs, Highway Patrolman Joseph Smith and Richard Gingerich, a passenger in the Mullet truck.

Pictures submitted by the defense were admitted as evidence over the objections of the plaintiff's attorney. He objected that the pictures were prejudiced for the defense.

L.J. Burianek, Cedar Rapids commercial photographer, testified that one picture showed skid marks to the left side of the road led to the Mullet truck.

After Burianek testified, District Judge James P. Gaffney adjourned the jury until 10 a.m. Monday morning.

Dimes Drive Gains, Still $3300 Short

Contributions to Johnson county's March of Dimes drive now total $6,392.04, Mrs. J.K. Schaaf, co-chairman of the drive, said Thursday.

This amount is about $3,300 short of the $10,000 goal. Contributions can still be mailed to the March of Dimes, Box 223, Iowa City.

Mrs. Schaaf said over $5,000 was paid out by the county chapter in 1950 for the care of Johnson county polio victims. Half of the money collected in the Johnson county drive will be sent to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the rest will stay in Johnson county, she said.

Art Festival to Have Music, Exhibits, Plays

The program for the annual summer Fine Arts festival which will be held June 11 to Aug. 8 was announced Thursday by Prof. Earl Harper, director of the school of fine arts.

The music program will include concerts, recitals, an opera and other special presentations. A symphony concert has been scheduled July 11 and the opera, "Die Fledermaus" by Johanne Strauss, will be presented July 31 and Aug. 1-2.

Art Exhibits Planned

Three art exhibits are planned for the festival. An exhibition of Renaissance and modern drawings will be shown in the main lounge of the Iowa Union and in the Art building exhibition lounge and auditorium.

An exhibition of paintings in the SUI permanent collection will be held in the union lobby and south lounge.

An exhibition of paintings, sculpture and prints will be displayed in the foyers and halls of the art building.

A series of plays by the dramatic art department will be presented. Names of the plays and the dates of presentation will be announced later.

The university museum will exhibit new additions to their collection.

Special lectures, guided tours of the exhibits and seminar lectures for the public will be presented during the festival.

Scouts Help in Easter Seal Fund Drive

Sing Off-Key But — Scouts Do Community Service

The off-key singing and noisy laughter coming from the girl scout office every afternoon after 3:30 isn't a series of parties the girls are having.

They are performing their community service and enjoying it. Each Iowa City troop is devoting one meeting to help with the Easter seal mailing.

The girls come charging up the stairs to the office after school is out and, once upstairs, the usually serene girl scout office becomes a scene of activity.

Sing While Working

The group leader, who supervises the work, usually plays the piano and the girls sing as they work. Some groups bring potluck suppers and work into the evening.

Mrs. Hugh Carson, girl scout advisor, enjoys it all. The noise doesn't bother her at all, she said, as I can go right on with my work and never notice it.

"The younger girls seem to enjoy it the most," Mrs. Carson added. "The fifth-grade Brownies came up one night and had a wonderful time." Many of them enjoy it enough to offer extra service after school and on Saturday mornings, she said.

Candy Discouraged

Usually the troop leaders reward the girls with some form of refreshments during the afternoon. Candy is discouraged though, Mrs. Carson laughed, because of "too sticky fingers" in handling the envelopes and seals.

The work will be finished in another week but this won't end the girl scouts' services. Mrs. Carson estimated that entire girl scout organization puts in a total of 1,800 hours a year in community service.

Six Students' Wives To Give Style Show

Modeling the latest in suits, afternoon dresses, sports outfits, formals, and lounging apparel at the 8:15 meeting of the Catalyst club tonight are six wives of SUI students.

The models are: Midge Carlson, Marilyn Fuller, Rose Swales, Sonny Emerick, Beverly Donnelly and Beverly Nemmers. Marge O'Byrne will commentate on the outfits which are being supplied by Alden's store for women.

This style show is part of the planned program of the social club made up of wives of men registered in chemistry or chemical engineering at SUI. The club is organized in three groups, the craft group, a sewing section, and a bridge and canasta group which meets at the home of Prof. and Mrs. George Glockler, 621 Hgt. avenue.

Hostesses for tonight's program are Mrs. Joan Nielson, chairman, Mrs. Geneva Pollnow, Mrs. Helen Burkgren, and Mrs. Byllie Frances.

Mrs. Georgia Conant, Mrs. Martha McEldey, Mrs. Joanne Ingegrightson, and Mrs. Jean Speakman will be initiated into the club by Mrs. Hal Ready, chairman of the initiations ceremonies.

Stutterers to Appear On Coast-to-Coast Easter Seal Show

When the SUI stuttering team broadcasts Saturday morning, it will be the first time such a group has appeared on a coast-to-coast hook-up to tell about their speech problems.

A part of the New York Public Affairs program, the broadcast is sponsored by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults. It will be used in connection with the annual nationwide Easter seal campaign for handicapped children.

The aim of the broadcast is to inform the public about needs of the speech handicapped, particularly stutterers.

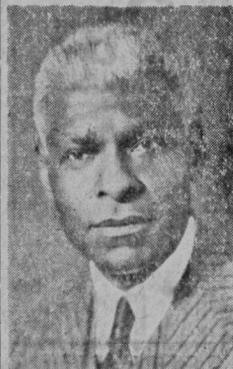

It will be carried Saturday morning by radio stations WHO, Des Moines, at 11:30 (Iowa time), and WOC, Davenport, at 11:15. WMAQ, Chicago, will broadcast the program Sunday at 10:30 p.m.

Appearing on the program will be Ruth "Mickey" Michalko, A1, Chicago; former SUI students Dean Brown and Al Hudson; Prof. Wendell Johnson, director of the SUI speech clinic, and Prof. Harold Westlake of Northwestern university. They recorded the program last month in the NBC studios in Chicago.

Her husband, Oscar Collazo, faces a possible death sentence, if convicted, for the part he played in the November assassination attempt by Puerto Rican nationalists.

RFC Intervention Charged

WASHINGTON (P) — Carl G. Strandlund testified Thursday that RFC Director Walter L. Dunham aided a "small clique of financial wolves" who sought to get control of the Lustron corporation in a "brazen and open conspiracy."

Along with Dunham, Strandlund named the following as leaders in the purported plot: E. Merl Young, husband of a White House stenographer; Pex Jacobs, De. oil manufacturer.

Strandlund, who parlayed $1,000 of his own money into a $27.5-million loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation in setting up the now-bankrupt Lustron corporation, told his story before a senate investigating committee.

The senate group, headed by Sen. William J. Fulbright (Ark.), is looking into charges that RFC directors yielded to "outside influence" in granting big-senior government loans.

In bitter testimony, Strandlund accused RFC Director Dunham of using "dire threats" in an effort to oust him from control of Lustron's huge prefabricated housing plant at Columbus, Ohio.

He said this was done by attempting to make him give up his 86,000 shares of Lustron stock at one cent a share.

Following Strandlund in the witness chair, Jacobs acknowledged he had urged Strandlund to sell his stock for $860.

Jacobs contended, however, that the penny-a-share was "probably too high" because the Lustron plant was worth $15-million and owed the government $37.5-million.

Strandlund told the lawmakers that the RFC instigated "a deliberate and vindictive campaign" to force him out of Lustron.

Specifically, Strandlund accused Young, a one-time RFC examiner who became an $18,000-a-year Lustron official, of working a "doublecross" against him.

Girl Alerts Family In Time to Escape Farm House Fire

Eight-year-old Shirley Attig's sensitive nose may have saved her and three other members of the Harry Attig family from death early Thursday when fire swept through their farm home two miles southeast of Lone Tree.

The family, trapped on the second floor of the burning home, escaped to safety down a ladder. They had been awakened by Shirley's cries after she smelled smoke rising from the first floor fire.

Unable to escape down the flame swept stairway, Shirley's father led the family to a window overlooking the front porch.

Larry, 5, apparently overcome by the smoke, had to be carried from his bed by his father.

Attig succeeded in reaching the ground and placed a ladder against the porch. The rest of the family, clad only in night clothes, descended safely to the ground.

Attig ran to the neighboring farm of Harold Hawthorne and called the Lone Tree fire department. The home was badly gutted, but firemen were able to keep the blaze from spreading to nearby buildings.

Wou'd Rename State Mental Institutions

DES MOINES (P) — Iowa's four state mental institutions would be known as "mental health institutes," if a proposal by the state board of control is adopted.

The institutions at Cherokee, Mt. Pleasant, Clarinda and Independence are now known as state hospitals for the insane.

Henry Burma, chairman of the state board of control which has direction of the hospitals, said Thursday the change was suggested to remove some of the stigma from the present name.

"We are trying to develop mental health in these places," Burma explained, "and we think mental health institute would be a more proper name for them."

He said the board of control and the superintendents of the institutions had discussed and approved the proposal. He said he planned to write the chairmen of the board of control institution committees in each house of the state legislature, asking their opinion about the proposed change.

Fall's a Long Way Off But They're Practicing Football

Flu, Holdouts Trouble Major League Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—The "flu" bug and some 30 persistent holdouts plagued major league baseball teams, which officially opened spring training Thursday in far-flung warm weather resorts stretching from California to Florida.

Manager Billy Southworth of the Boston Braves is the latest to be sent to bed by the mild influenza wave. Brooklyn's peppery new pilot, Charley Dressen, was ordered to a hospital earlier this week.

Southworth became ill at the Braves' camp in Bradenton, Fla. Three other Braves, Coach Jimmy Brown and Catchers Walker Cooper and Walt Linden, have not fully recovered from the ailment that struck them last week-end.

There were two late signings Thursday, reducing to 31 the number of players who had failed to come to terms with their employers.

Jim Hearn, 27-year-old right-hand pitcher of the New York Giants, ended his holdout siege by signing his 1951 contract for a reported $16,000.

Willard Marshall, the Braves' outfielder, signed a contract, making Boston one of four major league clubs without any holdout problems. The others are both Chicago clubs and Cincinnati's Reds.

With the signing of Cleveland's pitcher, Bob Lemon, and the Yankees' Catcher Yogi Berra Wednesday, most of the big money players are now in the fold.

Five of the clubs are beginning their workouts under new managers. They are Al Lopez of Cleveland, Jimmy Dykes of Philadelphia's Athletics and Paul Richards of the Chicago White Sox in the American league; Charley Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Marty Marion of the St. Louis Cardinals in the National league.

Tankers Face Tough Jinx in Michigan Meet Saturday Night

One of the least publicized, but most intriguing jinxes of Iowa teams will be brought up again Saturday night when the Hawkeye swimming squad opposes Michigan at the fieldhouse pool.

The appearance of the Wolverines brings up the distressing fact that Iowa, despite the many outstanding teams it has produced over the years, has almost always found Michigan just a bit stronger.

Only One Victory

In 15 dual meets between the two schools, Iowa has come up with but one victory. That was in 1949, and even then, the Hawks needed more than the usual help from luck.

Even with such stars as Wally Ris, Bowen Stassforth, and Duane Draves on hand, Iowa didn't get the win until the last event when Michigan was disqualified for a quick start in the 400 relay.

Oddly enough, it was Matt Mann, the coach's son, who pulled the boner that cost the Wolves the meet.

Eight National Records

Another memorable meet was in 1935 when no fewer than eight national records were set in the course of the evening.

Nothing like that will happen Saturday night since both teams are in the midst of comparative off years. But judging from their efforts against similar foes, the competition should be as keen as ever.

Both hold victories over Purdue and Minnesota and both were defeated by Ohio State and Michigan State, with the scores on every occasion being very similar.

Advent of Point Spread Gave Basketball Gambling Big Boost

(This is one story in a series on the growth of basketball, and of the basketball "fix." Today's dispatch traces the growth and extent of basketball betting.)

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The advent of the "point-spread" within the past 10 years gave basketball gambling its greatest impetus and left the way open for "dumping" of games and the recent fix-scandals.

A decade ago there was little betting on basketball, chiefly because gamblers were unwilling to wager on an underdog team, no matter what the dollar odds might be.

To stimulate "business," bookmakers devised the plan by which a margin of points was quoted on each game. A gambler then had his choice of betting that the favored team would win by the prescribed number of points, or he could take the underdog with the point-spread.

Whether he bet on the favorite or the underdog, a gambler had to give the bookmaker odds of 11-10 and sometimes 6-5. This assured the bookie of a margin of profit no matter which team won. The plan soon proved popular in betting circles. A recent raid

Monona, Steamboat Rock Deep River, Hansell Win In Girls State Tournament

DES MOINES (UP)—Deep River, a little school from Potoshi county, nosed out Winterset, a tournament favorite, 36-35, Thursday night in a dramatic quarterfinal game in the Iowa high school girls basketball tournament.

Earlier, Monona edged Churdan, 50-49, Steamboat Rock trounced Moravia, 44-34, and Hansell eked past Sperry, 56-55, to qualify for semifinal tilts today in Drake fieldhouse.

Deep River's upset over Winterset, a bigger school with much experience in tournament play, came on a basket by sharpshooting Ruth Badger in the last 22 seconds of a bitterly fought game.

In desperate efforts to capture the victory, Winterset lobbed three shots toward the hoop in a frenzied final 10 seconds, but the ball danced off the backboard each time into a maze of outstretched arms.

Both Winterset and Deep River were unbeaten when they squared off for the quarterfinal duel. It was a close contest from start to finish, with the score knotted 16-16 at the intermission.

Aware of Badger's highly touted abilities, Winterset's Marilyn Stevens guarded her closely until fouling out with two minutes left in the game. Stevens' over-anxious guarding added up to four fouls in the first half alone.

In another nip-and-tuck thriller, Hansell sneaked passed heretofore unbeaten Sperry on Alberta Van Dyke's field goal in the final 10 seconds. Hansell overcame a 10-point deficit to win the game.

In the semifinal round, Monona will meet Steamboat Rock and Hansell will tangle with Deep River.

Hawkeys End Regular Season Play Tonight

Iowa City high school closes its 1950-51 basketball schedule tonight at Oskaloosa.

Game time in the Oskey high school gym is 7:45 p.m.

The Little Hawks swing into tournament play next Thursday, when they meet McKinley of Cedar Rapids, in a Class AA contest at the Iowa fieldhouse.

Oskaloosa, third-place finisher in the Central Iowa conference, will be the Little Hawks' eighth non-league game. The Hawks have won five of seven, so far.

City high rolled over Franklin of Cedar Rapids, 83-28, in the Little Hawks' final Mississippi Valley league game, last Friday. Coach Howard Moffitt's crew finished with a 6-5 conference record.

SUSPEND SPENCER CAGERS

NCAA Won't Permit Competition of 4-Year Varsity Cage Players

CHICAGO (AP)—The policy-making council of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Thursday denied a request of the Southern conference to permit four-year varsity players to compete in NCAA championships.

The action was a blow to North Carolina State, current basketball leader of the Southern conference which has three regulars who are four-year men.

U.C. Willett of Southern California, NCAA president and council chairman, said the group discussed the eastern collegiate gambling scandal and will continue discussions today "when a statement on the subject may be made."

He said the discussions involved all phases of the spreading "fix" case. The NCAA eastern regional cage tourney is scheduled for Madison Square Garden this month.

Explaining action on the Southern conference request, Willett said the council took the position that it lacked the authority to grant such a request.

He pointed out that the present NCAA rule banning four-year players from title meets had been restored effective Sept. 1, 1947, after a war time lapse.

Wrestlers Leave For Big Ten Meet

Seven Sports Teams See Action in March

An injury-jinxed Iowa wrestling team left here Thursday for the two-day Big Ten mat championships at Evanston, Ill. Preliminary matches will be this afternoon and semi-finals tonight. The consolation and final bouts will be held Saturday.

Top Threat

Joe Paulsen, apparently recovered from a shoulder injury rates as the Iowans' top threat. The Hawkeye heavyweight is unbeaten in five outings this season and carries over a mark of four wins from last year.

Ohio State's defending heavyweight title holder, Bill Miller, is the biggest threat to Paulsen's championship notions. Lack of depth and injuries have hampered the Hawks this year. George Tesla and Bob Lage, regulars at 167 and 177 pounds respectively, have been lost for most of the season and definitely won't be able to help the Iowans in the league tournament.

Their replacements, Don Heat-ton and Dean Lansing, have had rugged going, winning only once in eleven matches, between them.

Of the remaining Hawkeye grapplers Manuel Macias, Phil Duggan and Dick Hickenbottom are the most likely to make a strong championship bid.

Beaten Only Once

Macias, a swift-moving 123-pounder, has been beaten only once in eight matches, with one drew also on his record. Larry Nelson of Michigan rates the favorites role in the 123-pound class. He is the only wrestler to have defeated Macias.

A 6-2 record belongs to the Hawks' 130-pounder, Phil Duggan. Hickenbottom in the 147-pound division has a 5-3 mark.

Defending title holder Jack Moreno of Purdue is the favorite in Hickenbottom's weight class.

The remaining Iowa squad includes: Ray Steiger, 137-pounds and Ralph Thomas, 157-pounds.

BRADLEY TOURNAMENT

PEORIA, ILL. (AP) — Bradley University announced Thursday it will sponsor an eight team invitational "campus" college basketball tournament March 27-28-30-31 and that Utah and Toledo have accepted the first bids to compete.

U.S. Scores Grand Slam In Pan-Am

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The United States, trailing Argentina for team honors, roared back strongly Thursday to score a grand slam in the 800 meter run (approximately a half-mile) and win the pole vault with the soaring Bob Richards.

Olympic Champion Mal Whitfield, Bill Brown and Hugh Maiocco finished 1-2-3 in the 800 for the first clean sweep of the hemispheric contests, completing their third day.

Whitfield, the army airforce sergeant on leave from Korea, won in one minute, 53.2 seconds, looking apprehensively over his shoulder at the fast closing Brown.

Richards, the only other man besides Cornelius Warmerdam to clear 15 feet, won the pole vault with a leap of 13 feet, 2 inches. No one else matched the height.

More Impressive Height

The former Illinois star then ordered the bar raised to a more impressive height. He next cleared 13 feet, eight inches to crack the South American record held by Lucie Decastro of Argentina at 13 feet, seven inches.

It was a day of great triumph all around for the red, white and blue forces, who Wednesday suffered their most humiliating international setback in history.

Arthur Bragg of Baltimore and Don Campbell of Sterling, Colo., won preliminary heats that sent them into the semi-finals of the 200 meter sprint. Two U.S. women—Jean Patton of Nashville, Tenn., and Janet Moreau of Pawtucket, R.I.—qualified for the 100 meter finals.

Jim Fuchs Wins

Big Jim Fuchs gave the United States another championship when he won the discus throw with 160 feet and four inches.

The Yale university athlete, who holds the world record in the shot put, beat out a teammate, Dick Doyle from the University of Montana, who threw the plate 155 feet 15 1/2 inches.

The day was bright and sunny in contrast with Wednesday's murky skies and a crowd of nearly 40,000 turned out in the vast River Plate Stadium.

The United States also won its second baseball game when the Wake Forest team blasted Brazil, 23-4.

Iowa sport fans won't like the month of March because only four home athletic events have been scheduled.

Seven Hawkeye teams will be in action during the month, including the baseball squad which will take its annual spring trip during Easter recess.

Championship contests predominate in the 31 scheduled events. The track team has the conference indoor meet at Champaign, Ill. today and Saturday and the Purdue relay March 31 in addition to the Milwaukee Journal meet March 10 and the Chicago relays March 17.

Swimmers will compete in the Big Ten championships at Minneapolis March 8-10 and the NCAA championships at Austin, Tex. March 29-31.

Iowa wrestlers are in the conference meet at Evanston, Ill. today and Saturday and will compete in the NCAA meet at Bethlehem, Pa. March 23-24.

The gymnastic and fencing teams will both participate in the Big Ten and NCAA championships.

The four events scheduled at home during the month are a swimming meet Saturday, gymnastics March 9 and 16 and fencing March 17.

Williams Gives Elbow First Test

SARASOTA, FLA. (AP) — Slugger Ted Williams gave his broken left elbow its first 1951 test in the Boston Red Sox batting cage Thursday and, while not too optimistic, admitted he "felt good and hit some balls real well."

Closely studying the $125,000 "question mark" was club trainer Jack Fadden. "I'm certain it didn't hurt him to swing," Fadden explained. "He hasn't his old power yet but he'll have it within a month."

(Daily Iowan Photo)

India Will Stay Neutral Unless Attacked: Talbot

So long as China does not attack Burma or any territories from which it might jeopardize India's freedom, India will not side with the United States in a war against the Chinese Communists, Phillips Talbot said Thursday.

Talbot, correspondent for the Chicago Daily News foreign service and specialist on Indian affairs, spoke at an Information First session in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Talbot was introduced by SUI President Virgil M. Hancher, who termed the introduction as "one of the pleasantest tasks in my life." Hancher and Talbot traveled through India in the same party in 1949.

"Very much depends on the nature of the start of the war," Talbot said in reply to a question asking if India would join the U.S. against Communist China. As long as the Chinese "revolution" does not threaten Indian independence, he declared, India will try to remain neutral.

However, the Indians do "know the difference between Communist tactics and Communist ideology," he said, and in 1944 defeated the Communist faction, active in their country.

Talbot illustrated this by pointing out that in nations which have achieved self government, the Communists are at odds with the Nationalists, where before they were in close alliance.

"Indians have fundamental ties with the western world and believe in what we call 'democracy.' But the fear of imperialism," he said, "tends to offset these fundamental attitudes."

"The U.S. misunderstands what is happening in Asia. Supporting Chiang Kai-Shek, the U.S. is supporting what is only 'a thorn in the side of the revolutionists.' The revolution in Asia cannot be stopped," but should be guided into constructive channels, Talbot said.

"Indians have gone through two decades of tremendous political upsurge," aimed primarily at putting leadership in Asia into Asiatic hands.

India had recognized Tibet as a sort of Chinese protectorate several years before the Communist upheaval. When the Chinese invaded, India was obliged to respect their agreement, he said.

The difficulty of industrializing India's economy is the deeply rooted agricultural system of the people, Talbot said.

He called Gandhi's policy of strengthening Indian economy through gradual local agrarian reform the best possible. The Indian farmer, he said, could not understand or cope with rapid industrialization.

Two Auto Fender Lights, Bicycle Reported Stolen

The thefts of two fender lights and a bicycle were reported to Iowa City police Thursday.

Harry Friedman, A1, Rock Island, Ill., told police that two fender lights had been removed from his car Feb. 22 near the Iowa fieldhouse.

Frank W. Black, 606 Reno street, reported his black and red bicycle had been stolen.

Student Gets Fellowship To Study Heart at SUI

A fellowship has been awarded Donald MacCanon, G. Des Moines, by the Life Insurance Medical Research fund.

The fellowship enables MacCanon, 26, to continue research of cardiovascular physiology, a study of the heart, under Dr. Steven M. Horvath, associate professor of physiology in the SUI medical college.

Municipal Leaders, 6 Students Enroll In Defense Class

Thirty-four community leaders and six SUI students are enrolled in the civil defense class being offered by SUI, Prof. Richard Holcomb, chief of the bureau of police science in the institute of public affairs and director of the course, said Thursday.

The class members attend meetings of the course, "Civil Defense Problems in Iowa," every Saturday morning for two hours, directed by a staff of SUI experts on defense.

Students enrolled in the course include Frederick M. Evans, E4, Atalissa; Tom Farrell, G, Iowa City; Hubert Gerjuoy, G, Brooklyn, N.Y.; James King, G, Mount Vernon; Kamal Abdel Moncim, G, Cairo, Egypt, and George Pavlik, L3, LeMars.

Community leaders in the course are from Burlington, West Burlington, Cedar Falls, Davenport, Dubuque, Fort Dodge, Keokuk, Marshalltown, Mason City, Ottumwa and Waterloo.

The course is divided into two general sections, radiological safety and civil defense planning. During the first half of the semester the nature of the atom and radioactivity, the use of instruments and the effects of radiation are being discussed.

The second section of the class will include the role of police, fire and rescue techniques, medical services, engineering works, legal aspects, communications, transportation evacuation and administration in a civil defense program.

The class will prepare an outline of a civil defense plan and will conduct a realistic field test similar to the one which was held at the conclusion of the course offered last semester.

Local Pair Elected To State Society

Two Iowa Citizens were among the 57 persons elected to membership in the State Historical Society of Iowa during February.

The Iowa Citizens are Mrs. Walter A. Jessup, 430 N. Clinton street, and Edward L. Sullivan, 435 Rundell street.

Prof. William J. Peterson, superintendent of the society, said that 53 of the new members are Iowans while the remaining four are from Illinois, Ohio, Connecticut, and Oklahoma.

VFW Auxiliary Opens 'Freedom' Contest

The auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars announced Thursday the judges for the essay contest, "Freedom's Open Door," which they are sponsoring for high school students.

The contest is being held on three levels, local, state and national. The essay placing first in the local contest will be entered in the state contest and the state winner will be entered in the national contest.

Those submitting essays must make an original and two carbon copies, with double-space typing, and must accompany it with a declaration of original authorship signed by a high school principal, parent or guardian. The dead line is April 1.

Those selected as judges for the contest are Mrs. Thomas Farrell, Iowa City club woman and civic leader; Prof. Judah Goldin of the SUI school of religion, and Edwin B. Green, managing editor of the Iowa City Press-Citizen.

SUI May Get $5,600,000: Ludwig

SUI will probably get $5.6-million in appropriations from the state legislature as recommended by Gov. William Beardesley, G. M. Ludwig, Johnson county representative in the state legislature, told the SUI Young Republicans Thursday night.

This was the amount originally asked by the state board of education. Later the board asked for $6-million. Tuesday, President Virgil M. Hancher asked for $8,053,000.

"Chances are not very good" that SUI will get more than Beardesley requested, Ludwig said.

Ludwig went on to predict failure of the loyalty code passing the house. The code, if passed, would require all teachers to take an oath of their loyalty to the United States and non-affiliation with the Communist party.

Ludwig appealed for more "young blood" in the Iowa legislature. He stressed a need for a new, constructive, progressive and positive platform for a stronger Republican party.

Yesterday in Washington

HOUSING PROGRESS — Construction activity, especially housing, roared along last month at the fastest pace ever for a February, the commerce and labor departments reported Thursday. That kept up a month-by-month record-smashing performance, which has been going on since before the start of 1950, considering the volume of construction activity in terms of outlays for work performed.

BUTLER-TYDINGS — The campaign manager for Sen. John M. Butler (R-Md.) told senate investigators Thursday that some campaign contributions were hustled to creditors through a bookkeeping "short circuit" which delayed official recording of $27,100.

John M. Jonkel testified he established the hurry-up scheme which bypassed the treasurer when Butler workers were hard up. The witness said he didn't know whether it had broken any laws or not but he didn't think so.

TROOPS-TO-EUROPE — Republican Senators James Kem (Mo.) and John Bricker (Ohio) asserted Thursday the decision on sending more troops to Europe is one for congress—not President Truman. As they spoke out on the senate floor on the bitterly debated issue, Earl Cocker Jr., national commander of the American Legion, gave senate committees a declaration of his support of the proposal that defense of the Allied nations be backed up with soldiers.

LEFT WING CONTEMPT — Julius Emspak, national chairman of the left wing United Electrical workers, was sentenced Thursday to serve six months and pay a fine of $500 for contempt of congress. Emspak refused to tell the house Un-American activities committee whether he had ever been a Communist.
