Employees Vote to Petition Union Management

FORTY STUDENT EMPLOYEES of the Iowa Union signified their desire for better meals and increased wages at a meeting held in Schaeffer hall Tuesday night.

Iowa Union Student Waiters Ask Better Work Conditions

Demands for better meals and increased wages were presented to the Iowa Union management by representatives of the Union student waiters at a meeting held in the union Wednesday.

Presented at the meeting was an eight-point petition containing the signatures of 51 out of the 62 student men employed at the union.

Representing Iowa Union management were Frank Burge, assistant director; Mrs. Nell Alderman, manager of dining services; Mrs. Grace Brobeck, supervisor of soda fountain; George Stevens, headwaiter; and Mrs. Beverly Stager, cafeteria supervisor.

Erwin L. Brewer, C4, Black River Falls, Wis., presented the petition to the management. Others included in the meeting representing the student employees were William L. Pinkston, G, Council Bluffs; Robert McKone, C3, New Hampton, and James Nettleton, L3, Sioux City.

The petition said the demands made were "the minimum acceptable by the majority of the student employees" and that "appropriate action" would be taken unless agreement was reached on its contents by 1 p.m. today.

The heaviest demand made was a 10-cent per-hour wage increase. At present, the student employees receive a meal for every hour they work.

However, if a student does not eat all the meals he works for, he is paid at the rate of 50 or 55 cents per hour for the extra hours worked.

The petition asked that "each student employee should receive a five cent an hour increase" for every year he is at the union and that in the future "the starting rate for overtime pay should be 60 cents per hour."

The petition asked that the students be given an "adequate meat serving at least once a day."

Paris Talk Brings Soviet Concession

(From the Wire Services)

PARIS — Russia Wednesday offered new proposals for a Big Four conference program which were expected to bring East and West a step nearer agreement on a framework for top-level talks.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, apparently acting on new instructions from Moscow, offered Western deputies a compromise agenda which yielded to Western demands on two issues but fell short of minimum Western requirements on two other major points.

The chief concession was a left-handed agreement to discuss treaty obligations in general, which might open the way for a "war of words" over alleged peace treaty violations by Italy and Russia's satellites.

Russia previously had insisted on limiting treaty discussions to agreements among the Big Four powers.

Meanwhile in Washington — The United States charged Wednesday that Russia's real aim in the Paris Big Four talks is to destroy West German participation in the defense system being built by the Western powers against "the threat of Soviet Communist aggression."

UN Forces Strike For Red Stronghold In 3 New Crossings

CHUNGCHON, KOREA (AP) — United Nations troops crossed the 38th parallel in force in central Korea Wednesday north of Chunchon.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Eighth army commander, crossed the parallel shortly afterward to visit the advancing troops.

"Things are progressing very smoothly," the general said.

The new crossing by the Allies is aimed at the heart of the massive Communist build-up behind the west-central front, Chinese and Korean Red armies — an estimated 500,000 men — are believed coiling above Chunchon for a great spring offensive aimed at sweeping United Nations forces into the sea.

Allied forces also punched across parallel 38 in two other places in North Korea Wednesday against bristling Red resistances.

On the eastern front a tank-infantry task force plunged four miles into the Communist north in the Topyong area. This right flank column met heavy Red artillery and mortar fire.

The final crossing was made northeast of Seoul where other segments of the Eighth army pushed two miles north of the border trying to meet their buddies fighting above Chunchon. The pincers movement may either trap the Reds or force them back on the whole central front.

For Insults — Truman Plans Punches

NEW YORK (AP) — A prominent author quotes President Truman as saying he is "saving up four or five good, hard punches on nose" for persons who have written "lies" about his family.

"And when I'm out of this job," the President was said to have added, "I'm going to run around and deliver them personally."

Author John Hershey says the President made the comment to him in a conversation late last year. Hershey tells the story in the first of a series of articles on Mr. Truman appearing in the New Yorker magazine.

Names of the persons on the president's list were not revealed. Hershey wrote that he accompanied the President on one of his early morning strolls and said Mr. Truman also told him:

"When you come down to it, there's just one thing I draw the line at, and that's any kind of attack on my family. I don't care what they say about me. I'm human. I can make mistakes, even if he's trying with all his heart and mind to do the best thing for his country."

"But a man's family ought to be sacred. There was one columnist who wrote some lie about my family when I was in the senate, and instead of writing him a letter I called him on the phone, and I said, 'you so-and-so, if you say another word about my family, I'll come down to your office and shoot you.' He hasn't printed a whisper about them since."

Hancher Answers Petition Groups

President Virgil M. Hancher Wednesday sent a written reply to three student groups who had asked to discuss with him the removal of certain questions from SUI admission and housing applications.

Mr. Hancher said the contents of the letter could not be made public until it was received by a "coordinating committee on applications" for the three organizations.

The groups, Young Men's Christian association (YMCA), Young Progressives and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), circulated a petition on campus last month seeking the removal from the applications questions which they regarded as "discriminatory."

13-Year-Old Unconscious After Fall from Bicycle

Billy Webster, 13, was still unconscious in University hospitals late Wednesday after he was injured when the front axle of his bicycle broke, throwing him to the pavement.

The accident occurred at about 5 p.m. at the intersection of Burlington and Summit streets. Billy is the son of former city councilman and Mrs. Gordon Webster, 502 Clark street.

Inspectors Due To Probe Theft Of Local Mail

Two federal postal inspectors are scheduled to arrive in Iowa City this morning to begin investigation into the theft of a mail pouch from the Rock Island depot early Wednesday.

The pouch, containing an estimated 2,000 letters, was found Wednesday morning on Lower Muscatine road about one-half mile south of Iowa City.

Postal authorities said most of the letters were found intact but many of them had been ripped open, apparently in search of money.

Police said the pouch was taken off a baggage truck at the depot about 1:15 a.m. William Schindhelm, night baggage man at the station, said the mail had arrived here on an east bound train at 10:45 p.m. and was loaded on a westbound train at 4 a.m.

Assistant Postmaster J. P. Soucek said the mail was destined for Grinnell and vicinity. A brown suitcase, checked for shipment by a North Dakota woman, was also stolen. Police had not recovered it Wednesday night.

Schindhelm told police he noticed a man loitering around the depot shortly before the theft occurred. He described him as about six feet tall, wearing brown shell rim glasses, tan hat and coat.

The broken mail pouch was found Wednesday after a county road grader ran over it and scattered letters over a wide area. Mrs. John Elisma, route 6, driving behind the grader, noticed the pile of letters and called police.

Postal officials, police, highway patrolmen and farmers helped to gather up the letters.

Iowa High Court Upholds Conviction Of Dr. Rutledge

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa supreme court Wednesday rejected the appeal of Dr. Robert C. Rutledge, handsome baby doctor who was convicted in 1949 of stalking the alleged seducer of his six-foot, honey-blond wife and killing him in a hotel room.

The high court upheld Rutledge's second degree murder conviction under which he was given a 70-year prison sentence.

The victim was Byron Hattman, debonair St. Louis engineer who was found stabbed to death in a Cedar Rapids hotel room Dec. 13, 1948.

In a sensational "love triangle" trial at Cedar Rapids in May, 1949, blonde Sydney Rutledge testified that Hattman wooed her in St. Louis, where she and her husband were living, with flattering attentions and sail boat rides.

Then one night, she said, Hattman "drugged" her with potent cocktails, took her to the Rutledge apartment and seduced her.

The state contended that Rutledge "in revenge" trailed Hattman to Cedar Rapids and stabbed him to death in a violent fight which left the hotel room a blood-spattered shambles.

Rutledge, however, testified that Hattman has pulled the knife and was stabbed accidentally in the struggle.

One by one the court rejected defense contentions in the appeal. It said there were no reversible errors in the 1949 trial and that the defense theory of accidental death was "contrary to the evidence."

Pay Index for Teachers

IOWA FALLS, (AP) — Teachers in the Iowa Falls public schools and Ellsworth college have been granted a $360 cost-of-living increase in pay for next year.

President's Biographer Says — Truman Favors Congressional Tenure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House Wednesday rapped the knuckles of President Truman's old friend and biographer Jonathan Daniels for saying in print the President doesn't think senators and house members should serve more than 12 years.

A sharply-worded White House statement said Daniel's article, to appear next Friday in Colliers magazine, was "an entirely misleading distortion of a private, confidential conversation between the President and Mr. Daniels."

"The President never has considered the subject seriously and certainly has no intention of making any such proposal now or later," Presidential Press Secretary Joseph Short said, adding:

"The President wishes it understood that Mr. Daniels had no authority to speak for him as was indicated by the magazine in a note accompanying the article."

Daniels, editor of the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer, denied in effect that he had been guilty of a breach of confidence in the magazine article.

Daniels issued a statement at Raleigh in which he said: "I am very sorry that publication of this article came at a time when it embarrassed the President in connection with the congressional situation. I am heartily with him in the great fight going on in congress."

A onetime White House press secretary himself, Daniels staunchly supported Mr. Truman during the states-righters' revolt against him in the presidential campaign in 1948, and helped write some of the President's speeches. He is the author of "The Man of Independence," a biography of the President, written after many conversations with the President, his family and friends.

Rayburn Hints Russian Troops Massing In N. Korea, Manchuria

Sunshine Brings Sun Suits, Hope of Suntan

MIAMI BEACH ISN'T THE ONLY PLACE to get suntan. These SUI coeds found that a Currier rooftop was a nice, warm place to enjoy Wednesday's balmy spring weather.

The SUI student council Wednesday petitioned the Iowa legislature to approve amendments which would boost the proposed SUI operating budget by more than one million dollars for each of the next two years.

Two members of the legislature, Sen. LeRoy Mercer (D-Iowa City) and Rep. Fred Schwengel (R-Davenport) have introduced amendments to increase the appropriation to $6.7-million. The senate appropriations committee had recommended $5.7-million.

The student council also asked that amendments to increase budgets of other educational institutions be approved.

Letters of the council's endorsement were sent to Mercer; Schwengel; Sen. J. C. Colburn (R-Harlan), chairman of the senate appropriations committee; Rep. Gus Kuester (R-Griswold), chairman of the house appropriations committee; Rep. G. M. Ludwig (R-Tiffin), and Sen. E. K. Bekman (R-Ottumwa).

The council wrote the legislators that there is strong student sentiment at SUI favoring the proposed increases.

"... We have regretfully watched Iowa fall behind in the unceasing struggle to maintain and improve its academic standards," the council wrote.

"The departure from these classrooms of men of ability and academic renown is not a new experience to students here.

"It is our opinion that the maintenance and improvement of the academic standing of this state will ultimately reflect upon the welfare of all the people of Iowa..."

Two other SUI organizations, the chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) and Omicron Delta Kappa, upperclassmen's leadership fraternity, have urged the legislature to approve President Virgil M. Hancher's annual budget request of $8,053,310.

Iowa Senate May Vote Today on SUI Appropriation Hike

The Iowa senate may decide today whether SUI and Iowa State college will get million-dollar-a-year budget increases over recommended allotments.

The senate appropriations committee, which has voted to hold SUI and ISC to appropriations of $5.7 million and $5.66 million respectively, had a new discussion on the figures Wednesday, according to The Associated Press.

Later a subcommittee of the appropriations group conferred with Gov. William S. Beardsley. One amendment already filed by 30 senate sponsors would boost the two budgets to $6.7 million a year.

Beardsley had recommended $5.8 million a year for SUI and $5.85 for ISC. The appropriations committee then cut $100,000 and $250,000 respectively off the two budgets.

Meanwhile the Iowa house is still debating the board of education's budget requests. Amendment have also been introduced to raise the $5.7 million proposal by more than a million dollars.

President Virgil M. Hancher had requested an annual budget of $8,053,310, which is about $3-million more than the present budget.

Sees Danger Of Beginning Of War III

(From the Wire Services)

WASHINGTON — Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) interrupted bitter house debate on the administration's draft bill Wednesday to warn that the United States now is in greater danger of World War III than at any time since 1945.

He hinted that Russian troops are massing in Manchuria.

Rayburn, fresh from a White House military briefing, issued the warning as Chairman Carl Vinson, (D-Ga.) disclosed that his house armed services committee will start hearings soon on a bill to double the size of the marine corps — giving it nearly as many men as it had in World War II.

He did not give backing in so many words to the UMT section of the measure but warned against "complacency" over the future. He promised to speak again later and give some more information he believes his colleagues lack.

RAYBURN

Rayburn told the house that Communist troops other than Chinese — obviously Russian — are massing in Korea and Manchuria across the border. He also hinted that UN troops in Korea may be in for some real opposition in the air.

"I think we stand in the face of terrible danger and that this may be the beginning of World War III," he said in a rare floor speech. "It is my own belief that we are in greater danger of expanded war today than at any time since the close of war in 1945."

(While Rayburn's reference to non-Chinese seemed obviously to mean Russians, he refused to elaborate to reporters. He merely said he would stand on his remarks made from the house floor.)

The White House and defense department refused to comment on Rayburn's statement. But military officials noted that they have said previously that some Russian officers are with Communist forces in Korea as observers.

Rayburn, who said earlier he expected a stiff fight over the draft bill, made the statement after Chairman Graham A. Barden (D-N.C.) of the house education and labor committee charged that the defense department deliberately rejected a lot of draftees to build up a case for universal military training.

WASHINGTON — The senate ended its "great debate" on foreign policy Wednesday by endorsing President Truman's plan to dispatch four U.S. divisions to Europe but insisting that he obtain advance congressional approval before sending any more.

The senate adopted two almost identical resolutions which did not completely satisfy either the administration or GOP leaders who challenged the troop transfer.

Neither resolution has the force of law.

The first, adopted 69 to 21, simply records the senate's views.

The other is a "concurrent" resolution which invites the house to act on the troop issue. If the house accepts the invitation — and its Democratic leaders will try to prevent it — the effect will be to put the entire moral force of congress behind the senate stand.

The concurrent resolution was approved 45 to 41.

Just before voting on the first resolution, the lawmakers adopted a GOP amendment recommending that Spain and Western Germany be brought into the Atlantic pact defense system "as soon as possible."

Flood Threat Eases; Highway 218 Open

Flood waters of the Iowa River continued to recede and the weatherman's prediction of fair and mild weather through Friday should take care of the overflow which caused trouble just north of Iowa City earlier this week.

The United States geological survey office reported the river level at 12.7 feet Tuesday evening. It predicted that the level would fall approximately a foot a day barring rain.

Highway 218, temporarily closed by the flooding river Tuesday and Wednesday will be reopened this morning according to the Highway commission. Some motorists shunned the detour Wednesday and drove through the high waters over the highway.

The crest of this week's flood was reached at 13.7, six feet over the record height which was recorded in June 1918.

World Situation at a Glance

WASHINGTON — Speaker Sam Rayburn tells house of representatives there is massing of troops in Manchuria, and not all of them Chinese Communists by any great extent. Speaker says U.S. faces "terrible danger that may be the beginning of World War III."

KOREAN FRONT — Allies punch across 38th parallel in three new places against considerable Red resistance. Estimated 500,000 Chinese and North Korean Communists believed coiling for big spring offensive. U.S. Eighth army is active in face of threat, reporting limited advances at several points on western and central fronts. Allied fighters and bombers range throughout North Korea with little opposition, taking steady toll of Red troops and equipment. American F-86 Sabrejet down one Russian-made Mig-15 and damage two others in far northwestern Korea.

WASHINGTON — The senate gives full endorsement to sending 100,000 American soldiers — four combat divisions and their supporting troops — to the defense of Western Europe but called on President Truman to obtain the approval of congress before ordering any more ground troops into the international army command led by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

WASHINGTON — Informed military sources say Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been authorized to open all-out air attacks against Red airbases in Manchuria if the Chinese Communists send their full air power into the Korean war.

PARIS — Russia offers new proposals for a Big Four agenda which were expected to bring Russia and the Western powers closer together.

Motorists' Thoughtless Habits Agrivate Parking Problem

(An Editorial)

Babes in arms and pedestrians needn't bother with this editorial. In fact, it probably doesn't apply to anyone. Funny how the gripes always go to "that other guy."

This is about that old saw, "The Parking Problem." But this time it isn't about the lack of space—it concerns its misuse.

How can parking a little old car require the same space as docking the liner Queen Mary? So help us, we can't answer that one. But there seems to be some drivers loose in this city who could!

Sure, we're all space hogs now and then. We don't carry a pocket rule to measure off our just and fair share of curbstone.

But why, for the love of Iowa, can't a few of us waken up to those few thousand other citizens who ask no more than three squares a day, a good natured wife and a place to park the wheels. This applies particularly in over-crowded Iowa City.

The question isn't to drive or not to drive, because the only offenders in this fray are drivers themselves. The chances are pretty good that one driver has little more right to be out on the street than another.

And just to keep the record un-kinked we'll note that the students aren't any worse as offenders than the faculty, staff and townspeople. The police are pretty well convinced that a drawerful of degrees doesn't insure good driving habits in anyone.

We sent a photographer out to find some graphic examples of sloppy parking. He wasn't gone five minutes before he had more evidence than he could squeeze into the camera.

Several solutions to this mess occur to us. The city might ban all automobiles, unless in transit. We could all revert to the good old days when a man didn't take up any more parking space than the reach of his horse's hind legs.

We agree that this whole affair isn't 100 percent the fault of the little monster behind the wheel. But it's a cracking good 95 percent.

The curbs certainly should be marked off with good-sized yellow stripes so that a driver, if he bothers to look, will have some idea of where he's supposed to stack his hack. There are some markings in existence now and with the eventual return of good weather we see no reason why either SUI or Iowa City shouldn't be about getting proper parking spaces marked off.

In the meantime, we think it's quite possible for some of this city's more myopic motorists to start "stepping to the rear of the car, please."

Maybe all this grueling, gear-stripping attention to one's proper parking place in life will net only two extra spaces on the block—maybe less. So what!

So two places would usually be enough (the police say) to accommodate those few frantic shut-outs who, in a moment of exasperation, sneak in next to a fire plug or abandon ship in the middle of someone's driveway. Most of these individuals aren't any bigger blockheads than the parkers who tantalize them with 10 feet or so of wasted space.

Still skeptical? We've held back on one other consequence of bad parking. It occurs when one or two drivers have left almost, but not quite enough, space between them for "that other guy."

That provoked third party, by judicious mashing of fenders, poking out of fog lights and bumper bashing may or may not manage to squeeze in — but he makes a darned good try.

If it weren't known as "willful destruction of property" it could almost be called poetic justice.

We aren't concerned here with the amount of parking space that Iowa City needs. We know that there isn't enough, but that problem is being worked on.

And if someone thinks it couldn't be worse let him motor to Iowa State college. They've got troubles we haven't even thought of.

We are only interested now in seeing that the available space is used fairly. Reserve parking lots are open for every one every day after 4 p.m., after noon on Saturday and all day Sunday.

If someone thinks he is being robbed of his birthright, i.e. a parking space, he might drop around to the physical plant office, old dental building, for a briefing on what space is available where and at what times. The office staff doesn't bite.

All these things, of course, only apply to "that other guy."

10 Wms Bakes a Sunshine Cake —

"I think I will bake a cake," said 10 Wms to himself one day after an extended vacation from his kitchen.

10, who was famous for his dark spice cake, decided he would try the same recipe with a different frosting. But when he peered into his celebrated cupboard, he discovered he was short some ingredients and missing others altogether.

So he rounded up all those which were on hand and set to work. He mixed the shortening with the sugar and, seeing that he was out of baking powder, added some more sugar for good measure. He substituted white wine for milk and bread flour for cake flour.

Then, delving through tins of spices, he spied some Italian olives. Now 10 loved Italian olives, as he loved all things Italian, so he couldn't resist dropping a few of them into his batter.

Working at fever pitch, he added some vanilla along with the required eggs and next, some tamale sauce, sliced lemon, half a box of corn meal, and an embroidered hot-panholder.

And then, without bothering to mix them very thoroughly, he poured them into three highly greased cake tins and tossed them into the oven. He set the gas on extra high, then lay down with a copy of Flair to read while waiting.

But 10 Wms was an impatient young gourmet. Before long he rushed back to the kitchen and took his cake out before it really had a chance to be completely done. He could hardly wait to hear what the experts would say!

Pronto, 10 notified the public that he was going to let his cake be sampled that night. Crowds turned out eagerly, remembering the goodness of his dark spice cake. With experts in close attendance, he cut the first slices and distributed them.

"What an unusually fine sunshine cake!" one expert said.

"Yes!" said another.

"Up!" asserted another.

Still another choked. One of those olives.

10 beamed. So it was a sunshine cake he had baked! He was very pleased, even though he noted other experts weren't so praising.

The next day the cookery columns of all leading papers talked about 10's new sunshine cake. Snooks Atchison reported that, while it was not sufficiently baked, 10 Wms had tried something altogether different for a change and it was well-come. Cottoncort Glibbs declared that large portions were unpalatable, but that one layer was exceptionally tasty. Surely this was the finest cake of the season! Willie Windshield was also rhapsodic, although he did say that the consistency wasn't very consistent and was frequently heavy.

Yet two or three experts criticized the new cake, among them George Mason Dixon, who declared: "Shut mah mouth, an' ah wishes ah could have!" He also had some other highly descriptive comments, but their nature restricted their publication in Du-buque.

Many other cooks and mere broths of kitchen columnists added to the negative criticism, but this time the news that 10 Wms had concocted something new had so spread that the public demand for his sunshine cake was tremendous, and it won the Ezra Pound Cake award for the Best Three-Layer Cake of the Year.

And so, in allegory no more awkward than the florid symbolism of the play, I give you "The Rose Tattoo." 10 Wms is none other than New Directions spelling for Tennessee Williams, whose new play of that title is somehow a current Broadway success.

From the account above you may have assumed that I am among the dissenters for Williams' 10's sunshine cake. That he has written an unsatisfactory tragedy-comedy instead of a sound drama I do not find sufficient grounds for panegyrics.

"The Rose Tattoo" suggests no more than the effort of an immature playwright with promise which has yet to crystallize.

With magnificent succinctness Time magazine has called the play "A Banana Truck Named Desire." You have to see the play to appreciate its aptness; the remark gave me one of the best laughs I've had this year, which is, I'm sure, what Time's reviewer intended.

But I've strong doubts about many of the laughs 10 Wms gets in his new play: "The Rose Tattoo" is just a sunshine cake that fell, and I'm afraid no amount of re-baking could improve upon its crudities.

Jeebers, Creepers . . .

TO THE EDITOR:

I wish to commend The Daily Iowan for carrying the comic strip, Etta Kett. In Etta Kett we have the epitome of collegiate humor, pathos, manners, and general depth of thought. The characters involved, on one side, are always the clean-cut American college boy, the cute, pert, and alert college girl, and the sound, civic-minded, pillar-of-society business man and his wife. On the other side of the oh-so-sharp dichotomy we find the villainous schemers and unprincipled fixers, the very antithesis of all that for which higher education (and Etta Kett, I'm sure) stands.

Take the humor of the strip now. One of the best devices for laughs is the love life of Etta. Right now Etta is in the throes of an engagement. I just laugh and laugh because I know that good old handsome BMOOC Vie doesn't stand a ghost of a chance to marry her. The author (what else can I call him) relies on this little expedient at least three times a year, and I just about die with fits each time.

Then there are Ma and Pa Kett. Two lovable old creatures if there ever were two. They are naturals, right out of a comic strip. The consternation manifested by them for the sake of their daughter is the highlight of the strip; and it is also an outstanding appraisal (should I say indictment) of U.S. homelife. Just this morning the dialogue, which, incidentally, just sparkles, went like this:

MA: Etta went over to meet Vie's folks! I wonder if they have money? (Just like ol' Ma.)

PA: I've been kinda inquiring around and everybody says they're well fixed. (A practical inquiry and very pertinent point.)

ETTA: Hi! I'm home. (A master's touch for realism.)

MA: How was their home furnished? (A mother's prerogative.)

PA: How many cars have they got? (Pa sells Fords, you know.)

ETTA: Gee, Dad! How should I know? . . . But they treated me grand. (Don't be so damn naive, Etta, you knew what was what when the butler answered the door.)

PA, showing much patience and finesse: Well . . . couldn't you find out. What'd you talk about?

ETTA, with the clincher: Oh, nothing spesh. (How spontaneous.) They wanted to know if we belonged to the golf club!

. . . How your business was 'n' stuff.

This, without a doubt, is a classic piece of writing. It should be, and probably is read by young, old, and inbetween. Well, at least they should look at the pictures.

All right, so I could skip the strip every morning. You will have to admit that the absurd catches the eye. And besides, do the doctors overlook a cancer? No, they take it out. For the sake of my breakfast, which I lose every morning after reading the strip, please take it out!

Robert W. Eckert, G 233 Stadium park

EDITOR'S COMMENT: How Mr. Eckert can say such ugly things about Etta is beyond us. Etta is a "real dream boat" and Vie is a "mellow man." Furthermore, Mr. Eckert's remarks are just "utterly ridiculous."

Ooops! Our breakfast . . .

Bigotry? . . .

TO THE EDITOR:

At a time when enlightened America is striving for equal recognition of all Americans, The Daily Iowan inadvertently and consistently chooses another route. The current exhibit in the Iowa Union, "Theater — From Ritual to Broadway" contains 25 panels. One wonders what motivated the selection of the particular panel published in The Daily Iowan.

The panel when viewed as a part of the whole carries different implications than when presented in an isolated fashion.

The black-faced comedian has created a stereotype of the Negro as an incompetent, illiterate clown. Intelligent persons recognize the "interlocutor-end man" pattern as a portrayal of white-Negro superiority-inferiority relationships. Admittedly, The Daily Iowan occasionally indulges in an editorial showing what is being done in race relations elsewhere. At the same time it seemed less interested in favorable attitudes at home. Certainly the staff recognizes that this

5" by 6" picture is more impressive in a negative fashion than the patronizing "straddle-the-fence" editorials sometimes published. One wonders whether the panel selected for publication represents some Freudian wish of the editors.

It is obvious that Talmadge of Georgia and Byrnes of South Carolina are attempting to impede progress in the area of race relations. Sometimes one is forced to ask of The Daily Iowan, "Et tu, Brutus?"

G. R. Ragland Jr., 603 S. Capitol Street

EDITOR'S COMMENT: The panel referred to by Mr. Ragland, an instructor in the sociology department, was selected by the sponsors of the exhibit at the Union — not by the Iowan. And we're informed that this panel was the only one received by the sponsors for publication.

Concerning the "patronizing" editorials, we find a rather peculiar situation.

When one completely ignores the plight of the Negro, he frequently is considered ignorant and aloof to facts, unconcerned and guilty of white superiority thinking.

When one dares to commend the Negro, regardless of how great the achievement, or to cite some movement or act designed to improve race relations, he frequently is considered patronizing.

And when one criticizes openly a Negro INDIVIDUAL, regardless of how wrong the act for which the criticism is intended, he is labeled a bigot, a backward monster persecuting other human beings and the ultimate in everything bad and evil.

Patronizing as it might sound, we hope our "patronizing" editorials haven't offended our Negro friends. The editorials were written with a sincere hope that sometime within our lifetime we may see a United States in which "Brotherhood" weeks will be about as necessary as irrigation is today on the Iowa river banks.

Perhaps Mr. Ragland would prefer that hereafter we refer all race relations editorials to the sociology department where they may be analyzed, and where we can learn whether we're really sincere or just being motivated by some "Freudian wish."

Salute to Fisiz . . .

An Open Letter to the Editors of Fisiz Magazine:

While I understand that your magazine is no longer being published, I should like to commend you for having so potent an influence upon the current editorial policy of FRIVOL magazine.

The influence is apparent in many forms: the advertisement on page 15 of the April issue of the "magazine of collegiate life," the tendency to imitate or parody the magazine as it appeared during my editorship, "finding" the beauty in the March issue who was "found" in the January FRIVOL, printing cartoons which I had rejected and placed on file, etc.

But in considering that the size of the FRIVOL staff has diminished to twenty persons indicates that there may be some question regarding whether the present magazine is "by and for" the university student body of 8,000 or more.

As I am no longer a student at the University of Iowa, I feel that you are quite right in assuming that you have accomplished your aims. In addition, you deserve the credit which may now be paid the present editions of FRIVOL.

It is interesting to note, in passing, that the present editor of FRIVOL is also editorial assistant on the Hawkeye yearbook, and that the editor of the HAWKEYE is consultant editor of FRIVOL. This must indicate the close and intimate fellowship which apparently accompanies the production of the new FRIVOL.

I must agree with a recent editorial in this newspaper that probably the revised FRIVOL is more representative of what a majority of the SUI students like to see printed, and I pay tribute to FISZ for having made this condition possible and for having rather indirectly prompted me to transfer to a more appropriate college.

It would, of course, have been to no avail to continue printing FISZ now that FRIVOL has adopted that magazine's methods, and, while the distinction is often difficult to make, I wish those who produced FISZ and are currently preparing FRIVOL the success they surely deserve.

Postman Ambassador Prefers Capitalism

VANDALIA, MO. — Lincoln Kilby, Vandalia's "first ambassador to Great Britain," said Wednesday night he found in England many people in sympathy with their social welfare program under the Labor government, but he saw no good in nationalization of industry.

"I have seen and heard enough about nationalization that I hope we will never have government managing business in any manner, shape or form," the 58-year-old retired letter carrier reported formally to his community.

Kilby said it seemed to him almost as if the Labor government was using social welfare "as a bribe" to accomplish nationalization.

Kilby flew home from his 60-day tour of socialized England March 15. Wednesday he told his story to the business and professional men's club, sponsor of his unique journey, and several hundred of his friends.

Selections from Beethoven, Stravinsky and Sibelius will be included in the orchestra's first concert Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. The orchestra will also play a matinee at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon and the final concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday night.

Dorati is Conductor

Dorati, fifth permanent conductor of the 48 year old symphony orchestra, builds his programs for all schools and ages of music audiences.

Appointed director of the orchestra after the resignation of Dimitri Mitropoulos, Dorati came to Minneapolis from Dallas, where he had reorganized and conducted the city's symphony orchestra since 1945.

The conductor, now only 40 years old, was born in Budapest and became the youngest person ever to receive a degree from the Budapest Academy of Music.

At 18 he was appointed conductor of the Royal Opera House in Budapest. Since that time he has conducted symphonic orchestras in the United States, Europe, England, Mexico, South America and Australia.

On Tour of U.S.

Appearing at SUI while on tour over much of the United States, the Minneapolis orchestra will appear in 50 towns and cities and play before 150,000 persons.

Tickets for one performance only are available beginning today at the Iowa Union to students with ID cards. Faculty and staff members may buy tickets beginning Friday at the union. General public tickets will not be on sale until Saturday. Children under six will not be admitted.

Rabies Threat May Be Greater This Spring

By ARLO WAGNER

The threat of rabies to Iowans may be greater than usual this spring, judging from the number of cases already reported, Dr. Stanley L. Hendricks, public health veterinarian of the Iowa state department of health, said Wednesday.

In January and February, 91 cases were reported, 59 more cases than were reported in the same interval last year. The number of cases in 1950 increased 48 percent over those reported in 1949, Hendricks reported.

Johnson county reflected this increase. In 1949, 11 cases were reported. In 1950, the county ranked fourth in the state with 14 reported cases.

THIS CAGED DOG—emaciated and drooping at the mouth is infected with the fatal disease, rabies. It is not always so easy to recognize rabies since the animal may just act strangely. They are not usually caged. Many other animals other than dogs are carriers of this disease. Death is the only result when animals are infected with rabies.

Rabies Mostly in Spring

Rabies is widely scattered throughout Iowa and, contrary to popular opinion, infections appear every month and not just during late winter and early spring. However, most cases are reported during early spring months.

Dogs are the most common carriers of the disease, but almost every kind of animal has been reported as a carrier.

Humans, Cattle Threatened

Cattle owners are affected most by the spread of rabies. Animals contracting the disease are incurable and either die or must be destroyed.

Although most cases appear in animals, rabies continues to threaten human life. The disease is usually spread through the bite from an infected animal. Once the symptoms of the disease appear, death is always the result, Hendricks said.

It is always difficult to recognize a rabid animal. The first indication may be a change in behavior. A dog often becomes unusually affectionate and later, very vicious. An examination of the animal by a veterinarian is the only definite way to determine rabies.

Hendricks proposed a three-point program to control rabies: (1) collection and disposal of all stray and ownerless dogs, (2) annual anti-rabies vaccination of dogs and (3) enforcing the licensing of all dogs.

Iowa Citizen Elected To Historical Society

James L. Lambert, attendant in the SUI geology department, 4 Melrose circle, was the only Iowa citizen elected to membership in the State Historical Society of Iowa during March.

Prof. William J. Petersen, superintendent of the historical society, said that 55 of the 62 new members were from Iowa, five were from five different states and two were from Germany; one each from the American and the British zones.

FIRE CAUSES SLIGHT DAMAGE

A fire on the roof of a house occupied by Mrs. Joanna Smith, 15 N. Johnson street, caused only minor damage Wednesday morning. Firemen said sparks coming from the chimney apparently caused the fire. Two holes were burned in the roof and plaster in an upper room was damaged by water.

Betty Everett, instructor, and Prof. Margaret G. Fox will present papers at the research section meeting on Thursday morning.

Miss Fox will also participate in a panel discussion concerning the use of heavy resistance exercises in conditioning and reconditioning at the therapeutic section Friday afternoon.

Serving as summarizers of various sections are Prof. Louise L. Roloff for women's athletics and Miss Fox for research.

Grand Jury Gets Local OMVI Case

Clarence M. Kelly, 220 S. Linn street, waived preliminary hearing in Iowa City police court Wednesday on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Judge Emil G. Trott bound Kelly over to the grand jury and he was freed under $500 bond. He was arrested by police Friday after his car was involved in an accident with another vehicle.

Three persons were fined a total of $30 for operating motor vehicles with defective equipment. Dan Roth, E1, Davenport, and Richard McCrary, Iowa City, were fined $12.50. David Rose, A3, Marion, was fined $5 for driving with a defective muffler.

Fred Huebsch, C3, McGregor, paid a $12.50 fine for driving through a red light and Frank E. Anderson, G, Columbia, S. C., was fined $5 for operating a motor vehicle without valid registration plates.

Mountaineers Plan Annual Spring Hike

The Iowa Mountaineers will hold their annual spring hike Sunday afternoon. It was scheduled for a month ago, but bad weather forced the postponement.

The hikers will meet at 2 p.m. at the Mountaineers' clubhouse, just behind the South Quad, and transportation will be provided to within approximately eight miles of Amana.

They will leave their cars and hike to an inn where dinner will be served. A movie program will follow the dinner.

Registrants and other members who wish to take part are asked to contact the club's leader, John Ebert, before 8 p.m. today. The fee is $2.25, payable in advance.

3 Thefts from Cars Reported to Police

A metal camera tripod was stolen from a car owned by Oscar H. Wiese, Lone Tree, Saturday. Wiese told police the tripod was valued at $17.50 and was stolen from his car while it was parked at the fieldhouse.

Two other thefts from parked cars were reported to police Wednesday. Dave Bane, 822 Rider street, told police a tail light was stolen from his car while it was parked at the Rollercoaster in Coralville Tuesday.

Frank H. Roberts, Des Moines, reported to police the theft of a rear view mirror from his car while it was parked in the College street parking lot.

Rollie Williams Pitches In

Iowa Baseball Team Faces Weekend Games with Luther

A big effort to open the home baseball season will be made by the Iowa team Friday with Luther as the scheduled opponent.

Coach Otto Vogel was optimistic about the chances of playing that game as well as the Saturday contest. He said that the outfield now is playable and that a couple of days of sunshine, plus concentrated work by the grounds-keepers, would condition the infield, barring, of course, more rain or snow.

The coach said that it has been possible to accomplish little since the squad returned from the southern trip. No outdoor work could be done and the indoor work was limited because of the state basketball tournament.

Last weekend two games with Bradley at Peoria, Ill. were canceled because of wet grounds. The Hawkeyes were able to play six games in Louisiana and Arkansas between March 19 and 24 but had one contest in St. Louis canceled because of weather conditions. So the score to date is: won 4, lost 2, canceled 3.

Iowans are anxious to get in both games with Luther to prepare the team for the opening of the Big Ten race with Illinois here April 13 and 14.

The squad had a batting average of .321 in the south and the pitching was good for the most part.

Reds 3, Nats 0

ORLANDO, FLA. (AP) — Ken Raffensberger, 34-year-old left-hander, became the first Cincinnati pitcher to go nine innings Wednesday as he pitched the Reds to a 3 to 0 victory over the Washington Senators, who were making their final spring door drills Wednesday.

Mantle's 4-F Status May Be Changed By Draft Board

MIAMI, OKLA. (AP) — Mickey Mantle, a 4-F with a bright baseball future, isn't completely draft-proof yet.

Selective service disclosed Wednesday that, prompted by numerous inquiries about the New York Yankee rookie's physical status, it would take a good look at the faulty leg bone that heretofore has disqualified him from military duty.

Mantle's ailment has been described as chronic osteomyelitis, a condition that hasn't hampered his diamond feats.

The 19-year-old Mickey was among a dozen youths ordered by the Ottawa county draft board to report for pre-induction physical examination April 11. His home is at Commerce, four miles from here.

The fleet youngster has been called one of the greatest baseball discoveries of all time.

Mantle, who as a shortstop hit .383 for Joplin to lead the Western Association in batting last season.

BADGERS DRILL
MADISON, WIS. (AP) — Weather conditions still are far from ideal, but Wisconsin Football Coach Ivy Williamson ordered his candidates to report for outdoor drills Wednesday.

82 Hawkeye Athletes Get Letters, Numerals

Iowa athletics in winter sports received 43 major letters, 10 minor awards, and 29 freshman numerals, Athletic Director Paul Brechler has announced.

The awards were presented to participants in basketball, wrestling, swimming, and fencing. Gymnastic lettermen and numeral winners in freshmen wrestling will receive their awards at a later date.

Swimmers topped the list of major letter winners with 16, followed by 11 in basketball, 10 in wrestling and six in fencing.

The board in control of athletics made the awards.

Ben Hogan Favored To Win Masters Golf Tournament

AUGUSTA, GA. — A hale and hearty Ben Hogan, who made a heroic but hopeless effort to start his comeback here a year ago, was practically everybody's choice Wednesday night to capture the 15th Masters golf tournament starting Thursday.

Little Ben, his limbs functioning once more like they did before his near-fatal auto smashup in 1949, has averaged 72 in practice rounds over the famed Augusta national course that Bobby Jones laid out for his own tournament.

That kind of shooting, if maintained for four rounds, could come close to winning the tournament. In 14 previous masters events, a 72 hole score of 280 has been broken only twice — by Ralph Guldahl in 1939 and Claude Harmon in 1948. Both shot 279.

The first twosome will tee off at 10 a.m. in this glamorous battle of links titans staged in the picturesque setting of the Augusta course, heven through a broad stretch of Georgia pines.

Other principal characters are Jim Ferrier, a lanky Australian with a masterful putting touch; defending champion Jimmy Demaret, and Byron Nelson.

There are only 25 traps on the layout.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Chicago White Sox tied the game on rookie Jim Busby's ninth-inning homer and pushed across the clincher in the 10th for a 9-8 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday.

Al Simmons Quits Big League Baseball

TUCSON, ARIZ. (AP) — Al Simmons tearfully told Cleveland Manager Al Lopez Wednesday "I can't help you any longer," and quit major league baseball for the first time in 26 years.

In his time one of baseball's greatest hitters—he has a lifetime batting average of .334—Simmons resigned as he Indians' third base coach because of poor health.

"I'm going home to see my doctor in Milwaukee and find out what's wrong with me," said the 47-year-old usually jolly Pole, who was born Al Szymanski in that town. "I'm finished for this year."

It is believed fairly certain that Charles (Red) Ruffing, ex-Yankee pitching star and now roving coach for Cleveland, will be appointed to fill the vacancy left by Simmons.

For the present, Jack Flowers will coach third base and Mel Harder will take over at first.

Tutors Again Host For Mat Tourney

CEDAR FALLS (AP) — Iowa Teachers college, academic home of a number of national wrestling champions, will host this weekend for the National AAU wrestling tournament.

It will be the second such national meet for the college in two years. The NCAA was held here last year.

More than 175 wrestlers, including 23 who have won places in either NCAA or NAAU meets over the last few years, had filed entries early this week.

Louis Ranked First by NBA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Boxing association said Wednesday former champion Joe Louis is the only logical contender for Ezzard Charles' heavyweight title.

In releasing its quarterly rating, the 47-state body gave Detroit's Brown Bomber the nod over Lee Savold, Jersey Joe Walcott and Rex Layne, the young heavyweight from Utah.

The rating continued to extend recognition to Joe Maxim as lightweight champion and to Ike Williams as lightweight champion. But the NBA made it clear that the ratings were "conditional."

The NBA said its executive committee will announce shortly, probably next week, whether the two champs will be stripped of their crowns for failure to defend them within the time specified by the group, which exercises control over professional boxing in all states except New York.

Maxim, who reportedly will fight today for a heavyweight title go against Charles in Chicago May 30, and Williams, who agreed to lay his title on the line May 11 in New York's Madison Square Garden against Jimmy Carter of New York, were given ultimatums last February by the NBA. They were both ordered to defend their titles by March 31, 1951, or face possible dethroning.

In an attempt to placate the NBA, Maxim has notified it he will defend his crown against Chicago's Bob Satterfield, an NBA-ranked logical contender, June 27 at the stadium.

U.S. in Peril Due to Bungling Out of Ignorance of Times: Buck

America is in its perilous situation today because it has bungled things out of sheer ignorance of the times, Pearl S. Buck told a capacity crowd of 1,800 persons at the Iowa Union Wednesday night.

"We have been taking advice from people trained only in military work and not from those who have an understanding of the Asian people and their history," the Nobel and Pulitzer prize winning authoress said.

Miss Buck pointed out that the Korean war might have been ended by now if General MacArthur had not used the wrong approach in his peace attempts. "He used no common sense in the wording of a peace offer," she said. "We wouldn't have answered either if we were sent a message such as that."

America has also lost the faith of the Asian people because it has supported men that have been rejected by them, she emphasized. She cited as examples our aid to Chiang Kai-Shek in China and Bao Dai in Indo-China.

"We naturally should be for countries seeking independence, but we are opposing them because we are against communism."

Instead of assisting a man already rejected as Chiang is, we should find another leader who has the loyalty of the people and get behind him, she advised.

Miss Buck said the United States has had several chances to keep the good will of the Orient but has failed to make the most of these opportunities. She gave as an example the period immediately following World War II when the U.S. refused to send food to Asia.

"We used food as a political weapon and gave it only to the ones already favorable to us."

After we turned them down, the Asian people turned to Russia for help and got it, she said.

The author of "The Good Earth" also criticized the conduct of American occupation troops. The corruption of our forces abroad has destroyed Asia's faith in America, she said. "Our boys have actually betrayed this country."

"The Asian people expect so much of us," she added. "That's one of our troubles. The Chinese imagined all Americans to be like the missionaries."

Our only excuse for our present state, she said, is that we are not experienced enough in world affairs, living 2,500 years of normal development in only 250. "We were forced into the world leadership before we had time to become international. We hardly think in terms of nationalism."

For Handicapped Children — U.S. Needs More Institutions

By MARTHA OVERHOLSER

The need for more and better private and public institutions dedicated to the care of handicapped children must be met through the leadership of parents of handicapped children, Pearl Buck, Nobel prize-winning novelist, said Wednesday afternoon.

Own Child Retarded

Miss Buck, author of "The Child Who Never Grew," the story of her own mentally retarded daughter, spoke to the forum on exceptional children in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Private institutions with a continuity of staff must be encouraged; states should be made responsible for the education of any educable child, she said.

Mentally retarded and deficient children, the most neglected group in our society, can be educated to perform useful tasks in the community and make good citizens, she said. They should not be judged by ability to learn academically.

There are at least 20 kinds of work which a mentally retarded person can do in our society. Locking them up is a waste of money, doing nothing beneficial, she said.

The retarded child is nearly always a good child—affectionate and easy to please, "like the angels in heaven," she added.

Due to Insecurity

She traced the problem of inadequate treatment and facilities for handicapped children to an insecurity in our society.

In China, a handicapped child would be accepted in the big family system and find security. "No one was lost and frightened beyond his endurance to bear."

Families suffer from bad temper and selfish wishes of individuals, but it is not as crushing to the child as it is in the small families in the United States, she said.

Pearl Buck Says —

Criticism Good in U.S.

— Keeps Writers on Toes

By MINOR BARNES

"As a writer, I like the American atmosphere," said Pearl S. Buck, Pulitzer and Nobel prize winner who has lived the majority of her life in China. "The criticism keeps you on your toes."

Miss Buck, speaking at a press conference Wednesday morning, pointed out that some criticism is stupid, however. She explained that if an author writes one good work the American critics expect the next one to be similar.

If it is, they say that's all you can write, and if it isn't the same, they say you are slipping.

She said the late Sinclair Lewis was "rather" destroyed by such criticism. "He told me he wished he'd never heard of 'Main Street,' 'Arrowsmith,' which I believe was Lewis' best work, did not get nearly as good reviews."

Miss Buck said America has great literary talent but a great deal of it is not used to its fullest extent. "It flashes and bubbles up, but doesn't flower long or come to a maturity or ripeness."

Possibly the brilliance of American authors is cut-off because we give them encouragement too soon, she said. She mentioned Hollywood as another factor. This is the excuse most commonly given by authors, she mused.

The noted authoress said "From Here to Eternity," by the new author James Jones, showed signs of brilliance. She hoped he would continue his work.

Miss Buck also praised another author, Ernest Hemingway, for bringing realism into his work. "He has released certain bonds that have held authors back," she said.

Turning to education in America, Miss Buck said that more practical subjects should be taught in the schools. "By this I don't mean trade schools, but courses more applicable to human life."

She said American young people are kept "children" too long. They should learn responsibilities while they are young so as to help them be better citizens when they are older.

"The three separate worlds, child, adolescent and adult, should mix, but they don't. Possibly this is a reason for the faults in American authors and statesmen today." Eighteen-year-olds should be able to vote, she said, but because of our present system they are not qualified. Even the 21-year-olds are puzzled when suddenly given responsibilities as citizens.

Lund to Leave For U.S. Post

Prof. John V. Lund, head of the advertising sequence of the school of journalism has been granted a leave of absence to work as an information officer with the U.S. state department at Helsinki, Finland, President Virgil M. Hancher said Wednesday.

Lund will be assigned to the information and educational exchange office of the American legation in Helsinki.

He will attend a six-weeks course at the Foreign Service institute in Washington, D.C., before leaving for Finland. His leave of absence from the university is effective April 10.

Lund came to the University of Iowa in 1949 from the University of California at Berkeley, where he had taught for eight years. Prior to that he was publisher of the Camas, Wash. Post-Record. He is the author of a widely-used textbook, Newspaper Advertising.

Iowa City May Become Cerebral Palsy Center

By JIM MARCH

Iowa City may soon become a fountainhead of information for aiding cerebral palsy cases, Dr. Meyer A. Perlestein, Chicago pediatrician and national authority on cerebral palsy, told a joint luncheon meeting of five Iowa City service clubs Wednesday.

He pointed out that Iowa City is unique in that it has a large number of facilities readily available for work with crippled children.

New School Helps

The proposed new hospital school for handicapped children, Perlestein said, will put Iowa City far ahead of other cities in training personnel for this field.

He also cited the university's medical college as a potential source of trained personnel.

Perlestein said he hoped that, "Someday we will think as much of salvaging humans as we thought of salvaging waste paper during the last war."

60% Are Normal

Between 65 and 75 percent of all cerebral palsy cases can be rehabilitated, Perlestein said. About 60 percent of those persons affected with cerebral palsy are of normal intelligence, he said.

Service clubs attending the meeting were the Lions, Kiwanians, Optimists, Rotarians, and the Masonic "32" club.

Dr. Perlestein was introduced by Dr. Arthur Steindler, Bill Olson, president of the Optimists club, presided over the meeting.

Concluded Forum

Perlestein conducted a two-day forum on exceptional children here Tuesday and Wednesday. As part of the forum, Perlestein examined patients from University hospitals and the Iowa Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children.

He also discussed diagnoses and possible treatment for these patients.

The forum was sponsored by the Johnson County Society for Crippled Children, the State Services for Crippled Children, the Iowa City chapter of the International Council for Exceptional Children, the Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children, and the Iowa City Club for Parents of Handicapped Children.

House Votes to Raise State Agency Funds

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa house Wednesday added $433,196 a year to Gov. William S. Beardsley's recommendations for support of state departments in the next biennium. It then sent the $8,984,517 bill to the senate by a vote of 100 to 2.

The house spent a large portion of the day in going over the voluminous bill, which would give the 50-odd departments and agencies $717,174 more annually than they have been getting in the current biennium.

The appropriation for the state fair board brought the greatest amount of debate. After vigorous arguments, the house defeated a limiting amendment, 54-50. The amendment would have made the $50,000 a year proposed available only in case of a fair board deficit, in that case, the state comptroller could have released to the fair board only the portion of the $50,000 needed to meet the deficit.

Generally the bill remained the same as the one proposed by a joint senate-house sub-committee, whose recommendation was approved by the full house appropriations committee. The sub-committee had boosted the total $430,296 over the governor's recommendation.

The items raised by amendments adopted during debate would: keep the salaries of the state liquor control commission members at the present $5,300 a year; increase the appropriation for bee inspection by the department of agriculture by $2,000 to a total of $12,000 a year.

Among the items in the bill as it went to the senate was an item of $20,000 a year for civilian defense. Another would give the state executive council secretary salary increase of from $3,600 to $5,400 a year.

Driving Licenses

The house defeated a move to reconsider a bill to increase the cost of a two-year drivers' license from 50 cents to $1.50. Those seeking reconsideration said they felt the new fee should be only $1.

The senate passed a revised house bill to require state agencies to submit rules and regulations to the attorney general for approval. The measure was returned to the house for concurrence in amendments.

Senators confirmed the appointment of Charles Fischer, Onawa, as Iowa insurance commissioner. Fischer at one time was a campaign manager for the governor.

Liquor Investigation

A new resolution asking for a full scale investigation of the Iowa liquor control commission was filed in the legislature Wednesday by Sen. Thomas Dailey (D-Burlington).

It would provide for an investigating group composed of five senators and five members of the house. This committee would have power to subpoena witnesses and delve into liquor commission affairs.

Rent Control

The sifting committee of the Iowa house of representatives brought out a concurrent resolution Wednesday to end rent control in Iowa.

The resolution would direct Gov. William S. Beardsley to inform federal housing expedite-Tighe Woods that rent controls were no longer necessary in Iowa.

The resolution was placed on the house calendar.

House Group Calls Jose Ferrer 'Red'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Academy award winners Jose Ferrer and Judy Holliday, and two prominent university scientists, were listed Wednesday by the house un-American committee among those whose names have been associated with the current Communist "peace offensive."

Their names, with scores of others, appeared in a 166-page report just issued by the committee analyzing the peace offensive, which it called "the most dangerous hoax ever devised by the international Communist conspiracy."

Ferrer, who won the coveted Academy award for his role in "Cyrano De Bergerac," is under subpoena for appearance soon in the committee's investigating of communism in Hollywood. He has denied any Red learnings.

SURPLUS PROFITS — A Chicago truck dealer testified he cleared a $425,000 profit on some 1,000 surplus American trucks bought from the Philippine government and re-sold in this country, more than one third of them to the Atomic energy commission.

Morris Green, of the Green Bros. Truck Sales company of Chicago said he and four others made the six-figured profit in 1948 after paying various persons $326,000 to expedite the deal, "set up" the sale to the commission and spur the commerce department in lifting a ban on surplus material imports.

RFC 'WEB' — Senate investigators agreed to make a new attempt to get White House aide Donald S. Dawson to answer questions about his alleged part in a Reconstruction Finance corporation "influence web."

AUTOMOBILE FREEZE — A government freeze restricting automobile production to present models was proposed by Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.). He said new models would "feed the fires of inflation."

In a letter to Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson, Humphrey also urged that additional steps be taken to keep manufacturers from abandoning output of lower priced commodities.

Cedar Rapids Firm Bids Lowest on SUI Journalism Building

Morehead Construction company of Cedar Rapids, Wednesday submitted the lowest bid for the general construction of SUI's proposed communications center.

Lowest bids submitted were: general construction, $337,707; heating and plumbing, Carstens Bros., Ackley, $98,450; electrical facilities, Robbins Electric Co., Moline, Ill., $44,700, and temperature control, Minneapolis-Honeywell, Des Moines, $5,283, according to George Horner, SUI architect.

Construction may begin late this spring on the first unit which will have frontage of 140 feet on Madison street and 80 feet on College. Completion of the first unit is slated for fall of 1952.

A total of $525,200 is available for constructing the new building and moving departments to the center. Further units will be constructed east of the first unit. The state board of education will meet next week to consider bids.
