8 More Jurors Tentatively Seated In Lons Murder Trial

Selection of a 12-member jury for the James Lons murder trial is not expected to be completed before Friday, as eight more jurors were tentatively seated Wednesday.

Lons, 53, operator of the Princess cafe, 114 S. Dubuque street, is accused of fatally stabbing Andrew Davelis, 40, last Oct. 12.

Prospective Jurors At the close of the second day of the trial in Johnson county district court, 14 of 24 persons examined had been chosen as prospective jurors. Those seated Wednesday were:

Harold I. Estes, 47, Coralville, general laborer.

Mrs. Lottie Cook, Oxford, housewife.

Mrs. Esther Bireline, 530 N. Dubuque street, housewife.

Melvin L. Westcott, 1428 E. College street, postoffice employe.

Mrs. Ava Wiese, Lone Tree, housewife.

Clarence J. Koser, 1016 Newton road, custodian in the SUI medical laboratory.

Mrs. Corinne Tester, wife of Prof. Allen C. Tester, SUI geology department.

Mrs. Erma Uodegraff, wife of Prof. Clarence Uodegraff, SUI college of law.

Two more jurors are yet to be accepted today before the state and defense each are permitted to use eight preemptory challenges.

Testimony Indicated Examination of 16 more persons Wednesday strengthened indications that:

1. The prosecution will try to show that Davelis and Lons' wife, were on their way to discuss business with Ermal Loghry, Mrs. Lons' brother, early the morning of the alleged murder.

2. The defense will present testimony to show that Lons' physical, mental and emotional condition at the time of the incident made him incapable of criminal responsibility.

Opinions Expressed They also were asked whether they knew various law enforcement officers, doctors and other witnesses expected to testify.

The first prospective juror to express an opinion against capital punishment was Mrs. Ava Wiese, Lone Tree housewife. She said, however, she had no opinion about the guilt or innocence of Lons and was tentatively seated.

Mrs. Wiese said her only prejudice toward serving on the jury was concerned with religious scruples, which causes her to oppose the death penalty.

Most of the prospective jurors questioned thereafter were asked their views on capital punishment, but only one, Marion Miller, 407 Bowers street, an insurance salesman, spoke against it. None of the others questioned expressed a prejudice about capital punishment.

Miller was later excused from jury duty after he said he had formed an opinion about the case.

Jury Segregation Mrs. Tester, a juror tentatively seated, said her only objection to jury duty would be if the members were segregated. Judge Paul

H. McCoid said Tuesday there was a "strong likelihood" the jury will be segregated when chosen.

In addition to Miller, those excused from serving on the jury after they said they had formed opinions as to the outcome of the case were: Charles Stuart, route 5, farmer; Oliver L. Frei, 1131 St. Clement street, SUI employe; John J. Campion, route 6, farmer.

Lloyd Young, Lone Tree, insurance salesman; William H. Olson, 415 Ronalds street, gas station owner; Mrs. Edna Wagner, 346 Fernon avenue, housewife, and Mrs. Juanita Brees, Coralville Heights, housewife.

That Answers the Question!

For two days now, defense and state attorneys in the murder trial of James Lons have been asking prospective jury members if they knew any of the principles in the case.

Most of the affirmative answers have been "speaking acquaintance only." But Wednesday, they hit the jackpot.

Defense Atty. A. C. Cahill asked Farmer John Campion if he knew County Atty. William Meardon.

Campion replied, "I should, I brought the nurse-maid down the road the night Bill was born."

Campion was later discharged for having a definitive opinion in the case.

Allies Take Big Dam, Hit 18 Miles Past 38th

TOKYO (THURSDAY) (UP) - Allied forces Wednesday captured the mighty Hwachon reservoir dam, a strong point of Communist resistance in North Korea and a threat to Allied positions to the south.

Other forces entered the town of Hwachon, four miles to the west, which had been deserted by the enemy.

Allied troops on each side of the dam had sent armored spearheads far into North Korea, but Communists making a dikehead defense of the dam itself had opened some of the floodgates in an effort to engulf UN troops in the Pukhan river valley.

No Workable Apparatus An American officer who made a preliminary inspection of the dam's machinery said there appeared to be no workable apparatus for raising or lowering the flood gates and he did not know how the Chinese had managed to open eight of the 18 gates.

Two tank-tipped Allied spearheads plunged as much as 18 miles inside North Korea on the Western front Wednesday and blasted the Reds before pulling out.

One force rumbled to the vicinity of Chigoyong, 19 road miles North of the parallel. Another struck within two miles of the big Red road hub of Chorwon, 18 miles above the old north-south Korea boundary.

Keep Reds Off-Balance Behind these powerful hit-run slashes the main UN line moved up nearly two miles south and southeast of Chorwon.

Allied commanders say these tactics, used in concert with tremendous aerial and artillery firepower, are keeping massed Red manpower off-balance.

British Denies Support Of Mac's Bombing Ideas TOKYO (THURSDAY) (UP) - Lt. Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, commander of British Commonwealth troops in Japan, Wednesday denied he had expressed support for Gen. Douglas MacArthur's policy of bombing Chinese bases in Manchuria.

"I have never said one way or the other that the bases be bombed, either on or off the record," he said.

May Draft Quota Cut; Set Date to Begin Releasing Reservists

WASHINGTON (AP) - The army cut its May draft call from 60,000 men to 40,000 Wednesday. At about the same time September was set as a target date to start releasing reserves called involuntarily to army duty.

The draft action follows up a similar move which reduced the April call from 80,000 to 40,000.

In both cases the cut was attributed to an increase in volunteer enlistments. In addition, the army said Wednesday casualties in Korea have been lighter than expected, reducing the need for new men.

In anticipation of a smaller requisition from the army, selective service already had told state directors to hold up on setting local boards' quota for May. The aim was to avoid a repetition of the situation that developed when the April call was reduced.

At that time quotas already assigned had to be revised and some registrants were left twiddling their thumbs after having quit jobs and sold home in expectation of immediate orders.

Mrs. Rosenberg, chief manpower aide to Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall, said reservists in general that they will be "returning to civilian life in substantial numbers by October."

But she emphasized that the whole plan hinges on "there being no deterioration of the international situation."

Hope Dims for Crew Of Trapped U-Boat

PORTSMOUTH, ENG. (AP) - Hope ran out Wednesday night for 75 men entombed on the bottom of the English channel in the British submarine Affray. Presumably even their emergency oxygen supply had dwindled away.

Vessels of four navies redoubled their efforts to reach the stricken craft which dived on maneuvers Monday and mysteriously settled to the bottom in 200 feet of water.

Even assuming the trapped men can get to emergency oxygen supplies, they still cannot stay alive more than 48 hours.

Shortly before that limit was reached, the commander of the Portsmouth navy yard said "hope of survivors being found is much diminished."

The U.S. destroyers Ellison and Perry, seven French ships and a Belgian ship joined British vessels in the search. During the daylight hours, 51 ships in all moved slowly over the disaster area, about 30 miles southwest of the Isle of Wight. Wednesday night 4,000 men in 34 ships continued the search.

Turchen Leading As 'Ugliest Man'

Dick Turchen, A3, Sioux City, was leading Wednesday as voting opened in the Ugliest Man on Campus contest. Turchen, sponsored by Phi Epsilon Pi, had 115 votes.

A total of 315 votes were cast Wednesday. Voting with pennies not ballots for the Ugliest man will continue through Saturday in the Iowa Union.

One winner will be presented a trophy and a surprise gift at the all-university carnival by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, sponsor of the contest.

Contestants and their present totals are Tom Hyde, 64; Jim Osgood, 46; Bob Keefe, 25; Jerry Fellowitz, 18; Dick Pahre, 17; Lou Hurwitz, 11; Charles Brandon, 10; Ron Petersen, 6, and Chuck Wheeler, 3.

Acheson Asks Steadiness in 'Great Debate'

(From the Wire Services)

WASHINGTON - On the eve of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's speech to congress, Secretary of State Dean Acheson Wednesday night called for "steadiness and cool heads" and said an extension of the war beyond Korea would "gravely imperil world peace."

Firing the opening gun in what he predicted will be another "Great Debate" on U.S. foreign policy, Acheson told the Women's National Press club the "greatest disservice" that could be done would be to consciously "confuse, obscure or frustrate" the issue.

"It will be clear to the world that if there is an extension of the conflict in Korea, or if a world conflict should result from it, the responsibility will rest squarely on the Kremlin and its agents in Peiping," he said.

"The American people will never choose this course. They will not fall into the trap of seeming to choose it."

The Soviet rulers, he said, are playing a dangerous and desperate game of power and fear and thus are "subject to becoming rattled." The secretary said this "requires us to make our meaning and our peaceful purposes plain, and to talk and act seriously and deliberately."

He avoided criticism of MacArthur but what he said was in line with President Truman's statements that he removed the Far East commander for advocating policies which ran "the very great risk of starting a general war."

The secretary of state appealed to the nation to conduct its "Great Debate on Far Eastern policy in a 'constructive' way and remember that the Cominform is listening."

Acheson advised friends of the United States abroad not to be dismayed by the wide divergence of views expressed. He termed these debates "a national thinking aloud."

Student's Condition Called 'Very Serious'

Bud Kudart, A3, Mount Vernon, was reported in "very serious" condition at University hospitals Wednesday night after being admitted with spinal meningitis.

(Spinal meningitis is an inflammation of tissues surrounding the spinal cord.)

Kudart, a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity, first complained of feeling ill Tuesday noon, Mike Trueblood, C4, Sioux Falls, S.D., SAE president the first semester, said.

About 10 other members who had been in close contact with Kudart during the past 48 hours were examined at the hospital Wednesday and declared free of the disease, Trueblood said. There are 33 men living in the house.

Kampus Kapers Dress Rehearsal on Monday

Dress rehearsal for the 1951 Kampus Kapers musical review, "Of All Things," is scheduled for Monday night, Director Gil Pearlman, A4, Des Moines, said Wednesday.

The Newman club sponsored show will open April 25 in Macbride auditorium. It will run until April 28.

Tickets for the show are available at Racine's Whetstone's drug store and the Iowa Union desk. Price per ticket is 75 cents.

The show, written and directed by Pearlman, is a modern satire upon current topics in today's news. Such varied topics as the Kremlin and the SUI budget have been worked into a fast moving musical review.

It Snowed - Ticker Tape

A BLIZZARD OF TICKER TAPE descended on the car of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as it moved down Montgomery street in the heart of San Francisco's financial district enroute to the city hall and an official welcome for the displaced supreme commander.

From the windows of the St. Francis Hotel, guests tore open their pillows and dumped the feathers to welcome the general. But they have a surprise awaiting them at the cashier's desk. "Those feathers were a fine idea," the assistant general manager said, "but they made expensive confetti. The guests will be billed—$15 apiece."

Use Nationalists, Bomb China - Taft

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) said Wednesday night the United States should use Chinese Nationalist troops and bomb Communist China if necessary to win the Korean War. Taft told the Daughters of the American Revolution that "we must do everything to bring that war to a successful conclusion."

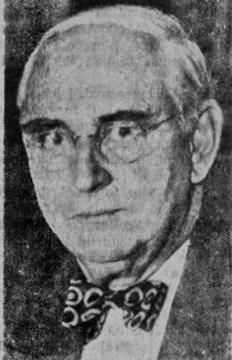

He added, however, that an invasion of Communist China would require an army of "at least a million men," and would constitute "real threat to our economic existence."

"If any such major effort is to be required," he said, "we must preserve our power for possible war with Soviet Russia."

Taft spoke out shortly after Secretary of State Dean Acheson unleashed an attack on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Far Eastern proposals.

Taft accused the administration of "wavering back and forth" in its opposition to Communism.

He said that "nothing probably has shaken the confidence of the people in the administration more than its unwillingness to admit the mistakes they have made in a soft attitude toward Communism."

Truman Sets Up Stabilization Board

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Truman Wednesday overruled protests from industry and decided to set up a new wage stabilization board with broad powers to pass on labor disputes which threaten national defense.

That left the makeup of the new board up in the air about the time he gave out his decision at a news conference there were hints that industry might yield under protest and sit in.

That would permit establishment of a tripartite board with representatives of labor, industry and the public. Top union spokesmen already are on record in favor of it but management has been holding out for a board with power only to pass on wage issues.

All U.S. radio and television networks will carry live broadcasts of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's speech before congress at 11:30 a.m. today.

WSUI, through a special agreement with WMT, Cedar Rapids, will be the only local station handling the address.

Speech Planned Despite Death Of Vandenberg

(From the Wire Services)

WASHINGTON, (THURSDAY) - Thousands of Americans roared a welcome early today as Gen. Douglas MacArthur arrived in the nation's capital to report to congress (at 11:30 a.m. Iowa time today) on the mounting Far East policy fight that cost him his command and split the country in two camps.

The general's big constellation, the "Bataan," landed at Washington's National airport at 11:31 p.m. from San Francisco just a week and a day after President Truman dismissed MacArthur as Far East commander and relieved him as the first chieftain of a combined United Nations army.

MacArthur's plane passed over Iowa City at 8:48 p.m. Wednesday, according to Civil Aeronautics Authority officials in Iowa City.

The non-stop flight took just eight hours and six minutes.

On hand to greet MacArthur, his wife and their 13-year-old son were Defense Secretary George C. Marshall, the joint chiefs of staff, Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, the President's military aide, a congressional delegation, and a crowd estimated at 12,000.

Vandenberg's Death While the death of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, (R-Mich.) produced some uncertainty over MacArthur's appearance before congress, House Speaker Sam Rayburn later confirmed that the joint congressional meeting would be held.

President Truman made it virtually certain that he and MacArthur will not get together during the deposed Far Eastern commander's whirlwind tour to Washington today.

He backed up a statement by his press secretary, Joseph Short, that MacArthur would be received only if he asked for such an appointment. There has been no sign that the five-star general would ask.

Only a few hours before MacArthur's plane landed the bitter debate over his Far Eastern policy views flared hotter than ever.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson said in a speech before a Women's National Press Club that MacArthur's proposals for extending the war in Korea would "gravely imperil world peace."

Taft says "Bomb China" Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R-Ohio) addressing the Daughters of the American Revolution, fired back that the United States should use Chinese Nationalist troops and bomb Red China to win the Korean war. But he warned that a land invasion of China would take a million men and might wreck the economy.

Mr. Truman, who had said he would do nothing to detract from "MacArthur Day" in the capital, was not at the airport. The President and Mrs. Truman attended a movie early in the evening and returned to Blair house, the Presidential mansion.

Untold thousands sat before their television sets to witness the spectacle as all TV networks in this area poled their facilities for the special night telecast. Huge floodlights for the occasion were furnished by the military services.

After brief greetings at the airport, the general and his party rode in a White House limousine to the Statler hotel, which will be his headquarters during his stay here.

"MacArthur Day" proper will begin at noon when the general leaves the hotel and motors along flag-decked streets to the Capitol to deliver his address. The formal parade along historic Pennsylvania avenue will begin immediately after the address.

No Politics for Mac In San Francisco General MacArthur climaxed a roaring welcome by declaring he does not intend to enter politics or seek any political office. (See story page 2.)

The general made his dramatic announcement during a warm and riotous greeting from at least 300,000 people who jammed downtown San Francisco.

editorials Four-Hundred-Thousand of Us —

The 1951 Johnson county cancer drive is now underway, with a goal set at $6,000. People all over the nation are becoming more aware of the good work performed by the American Cancer society. Iowa Citizens should be especially aware of the Iowa division's work. This group during the past three years has expended $401,000 toward cancer research. Of that amount, SUI received $177,000. For an example of how the Iowa division has helped to fight cancer, Dr. Titus Evans, head of the radiation research laboratories at SUI, cited the laboratories' $16,000 electron microscope which was paid for by funds for cancer research. About 11,000 persons underwent treatment for cancer in Iowa last year, and an estimated 7,000 cases of the disease will be diagnosed in the state during 1951. Cancer will account for 400,000 deaths among Iowans now living if the present death rate continues. Difficult as it is to believe, only one-third as many Iowans were killed during World War II as died from cancer during the same period. Faced with such figures, it pays every one of us to donate as much as he can to the current drive. The money will be well spent. Just one of the many ways in which the Iowa division works to fight cancer is through its nurse scholarship program. To help relieve Iowa's critical nursing shortage, the division each year is awarding 50 full three-year scholarships at accredited Iowa nursing schools to qualified young women unable to finance their own training. We hope the current drive finds wholehearted support from the citizens of Iowa City and Johnson county.

Contino Blames Fence for Disappearance

HOLLYWOOD — Curly-haired Dick Contino, 21-year-old $4,000 a week accordionist, surrendered Tuesday to federal authorities on a draft evasion charge. His mother said he had been in a rest home. She, his doctor, his attorney and a priest accompanied the handsome entertainer to the office of Richard Hood, chief special agent in charge of the Los Angeles federal bureau of investigation office. Contino disappeared from Fort Ord, Calif., Friday on the day of his scheduled induction into the army. His mother, Mrs. Mary Contino, said she had been with him since he left Fort Ord, and they had been at a rest home. But she declined to say where. "I tell you, friend, I'd just rather not talk about it," Contino told a reporter. "If you don't mind, I'd rather wait a little while. I just don't feel like talking right now." He said he had "just been resting" since he left Fort Ord. Atty. Gerald L. Kales, Dr. S. S. Polito and a priest who declined to give his name but said he was a "friend of the family" were with Contino when he surrendered on a federal warrant. Kales told newsmen Contino said he left Fort Ord because he

'Mac' Denies Political Plans

By FRANK H. BARTHOLOMEW
SAN FRANCISCO — Gen. Douglas MacArthur, with the cheers of a half million San Franciscans ringing in his ears, emphatically declared Tuesday, "I do not intend to run for public office." The 71-year-old hero of Bataan, center of a stormy controversy over U.S. foreign policy in the Far East, left no doubt about his intentions. "I was asked if I intended to enter politics," he said. "My reply was no. I have no political ambitions whatsoever. I do not intend to run for any political office and I hope that my name will never be used in a political way." The only politics I have is contained in a simple phrase known well by all of us — "God Bless America."

Twenty-five thousand San Franciscans stood in stunned silence for a moment before a raised platform in front of the city hall. Then there was a ripple of applause that swelled into a deafening roar. MacArthur's speech came at the climax of the greatest welcoming celebration in the city's history. Half a million people paid him their respects and expressed the nation's gratitude in a three-mile parade from the Hotel St. Francis to the city hall. His announcement came at the end of a brief speech in which he told of his feelings on returning home after 14 years in the Far East. "I cannot tell you what it means to be home," he said. "How I have longed for it, dreamed of it through the dreary years of absence abroad." "My emotions almost defy description as I find myself once more among my own people — once more under the spot of the great American home which breeds such magnificent men as I have just left fighting the battle in Korea. They are splendid," he said. "In Japan it has been my privilege to welcome California's own contingent — the 40th — which is there not for commitment to Korea but to serve a cause more vital — that of the battle we have elected in the pattern of American democracy.

"The arrival of your fine sons in Japan is giving the Japanese people the same indication of our determination to assist them to repel any predatory action which might assault to them. It is my hope that this will permit their return without commitment to the hazards of actual war. They are adding to the magnificent record of the past of California's history." Then he thanked the city for the welcome it had given him. "Speaking for myself, Mrs. MacArthur, and my son, Arthur, I cannot tell you how deep is our appreciation for the wonderful hospitality with which this great city has welcomed us. The memory of it will remain in our hearts always." He could have stopped speaking at that point, but then he uttered the words that removed him from the ranks of 1952 presidential candidates. Immediately after the tremendous ovation his statement unleashed, MacArthur left the stand. It took him eight minutes to press through the crowd to his car. Then, escorted by a motorcycle squad, he left for the San Francisco International airport, where his special Lockheed Constellation, the Bataan, was waiting to take off for Washington. Prior to MacArthur's departure, his aide, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, said the general did not intend to visit President

Thuman, although the White House had indicated he could have an audience with the President if he requested one. The man the President stripped of all his commands in the Far East just a week ago in a conflict over U.S. foreign policy, was dazzled by the welcome he received from the "city that knows how." A half million people witnessed his triumphal parade through the city streets. Another half million had greeted him Tuesday night in a near riotous celebration when he stepped to the soil of the American mainland for the first time in 14 years. "I'm amazed. I've never seen anything like this before," the 71-year-old hero of three wars said as he emerged from his hotel Tuesday for the city's "formal" reception and parade. Plans of the city fathers, thrown awry from the moment MacArthur landed, again were thwarted when the parade, which was to last only an hour, took two hours to reach the city hall where MacArthur was to make a brief address. All along the three-mile line of march, MacArthur's six-car procession moved at a snail's pace, slowed by the pressing through that moved to see, to touch and to welcome personally one of the nation's greatest military leaders. Every minute lost was a threat to the general's strict time schedule, which called for him to depart for Washington at 2:30 p.m. (Iowa time) where he will address a joint meeting of congress on Thursday. Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney indicated MacArthur's Washington speech was nearly complete, with only minor polishing to be done on the flight east. Whitney said the speech was "primarily a review of the Far East."

Stripped of all his Far East commands by President Truman only a week ago in a Far East foreign policy dispute, MacArthur was carrying his case to the American people. "I'm amazed. I've never seen anything like this before," the 71-year-old hero of three wars said as he emerged from his hotel Tuesday for the city's "formal" reception and parade. Plans of the city fathers, thrown awry from the moment MacArthur landed, again were thwarted when the parade, which was to last only an hour, took two hours to reach the city hall where MacArthur was to make a brief address. British Commander Supports MacArthur In 'Off-Record' View TOKYO — Violation of an off-the-record press conference here has caused another crisis over the United Nations policy in the Korean war. Lt. Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, commander of the British Commonwealth occupation forces in Japan, told reporters confidentially that he agreed with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's policies. His views, expressed 24 hours before MacArthur was dismissed, have been made public by an American press association (The Associated Press). Robertson predicted "certain defeat" for the United Nations army in Korea unless UN planes were permitted to bomb inside Manchuria. "It is unreasonable to expect any commander to fight a war without a clearly defined objective. No one has yet given General MacArthur that objective." "If I were the military commander in Korea and was not in position to bomb their bases, I should have two alternatives — pull out or face certain defeat." British policy has been sharply opposed to the bombing of Red China or any extension of the war into Manchuria. There was speculation here that London might take disciplinary action against Robertson.

Pravda Cites Failure Of U.S. 'Aggression' In 'Mac's' Dismissal

MOSCOW — The official newspaper Pravda said Tuesday Gen. Douglas MacArthur was dismissed for failure to invade Communist China. The Communist party organ devoted three columns of its front page to the first authoritative, Soviet analysis of President Truman's action a week ago. The only previous comment in the Soviet press was one paragraph in the Literary Gazette last week. "It is well known," Pravda said, "that American interventionists troops aimed not only at seizing Korea but at invading Manchuria and attacking the Chinese peoples republic."

North Koreans, aided by Chinese volunteers, "disrupted these criminal plans," Pravda said. "Precisely for this inability to materialize such plans of conquest was luckless MacArthur removed." "His inability to cope with the Korean situation was the cause of the inglorious crash of MacArthur's career." Pravda said the real purpose behind MacArthur's ouster was Mr. Truman's desire to pass off "a deep crisis in American aggressive foreign policy" as merely a "personal crisis" between the President and the general. Pravda said that a 1 a.m. conference was never called by the White House during World War II. That one was called for the announcement of MacArthur's removal, Pravda said, was "propaganda noise with which official circles in the United States of America announced for public opinion that the general's ouster was 'worthy of attention.'" "All the same it is permissible to ask what steps the United States intends to take for the peaceful settlement of the conflict..." Pravda said, and then answered itself with, "apparently none!"

Electrical 'Bullets' Used in Sterilizer

CAMBRIDGE, MASS. (AP) — A new kind of sterilizer purifies packaged drugs in a split second and looks good for sterilizing blood vessels and bones for human spare parts banks. This sterilizer fires electrons at 3-million-volt power. The things to be sterilized ride on a conveyor belt, passing under the stream of electrical bullets speeding from a vacuum tube. Dr. John G. Trump of Massachusetts Institute of Technology said the sterilizer has purified antibiotics, other drugs and surgical thread packaged in boxes or glass bottles. Pieces of arteries have been sterilized, then stored in a deep freeze and later transplanted into living animals. There was no loss of ability to transplant the arteries. Tests are underway to learn if the electron beam will sterilize human bone for bone banks without harming the bone.

6 Nations Sign Schuman Pact On Coal, Steel

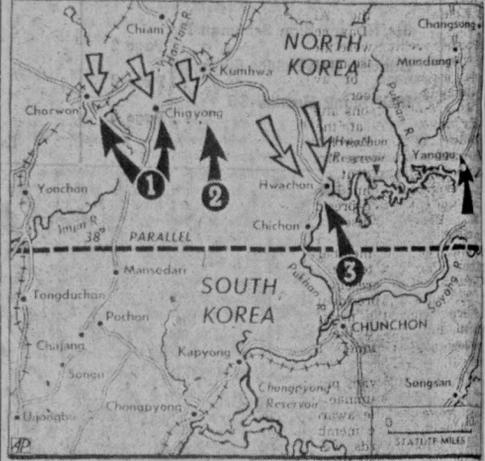

PARIS — Six West European governments Tuesday signed the 50-year Schuman pact pooling their combined $4-billion coal and steel resources for the common good. The pact, covering half of West Europe's coal and two-thirds of its steel, was signed by the foreign ministers of France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg at the French foreign ministry. The treaty was designed to make war among the six nations impossible and to strengthen the free nations' defense efforts. It represents 15-million people. It is named for its sponsor, French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said just before the pact was signed that France and Germany would propose establishment of a European "District of Columbia" as the capital of the Schuman plan.

The pact is the most daring economic experiment the European nations ever have attempted. It covered almost a year of preparations. Absent was Britain, which refused to join. The treaty must be signed by the parliaments of the member nations within the next six months. Observers believe it will win a slight but safe majority in all the legislatures. The pact provides for pooling the six nations' heavy industry under these conditions: 1. Creation of a nine-man supranational high authority to administer the pool. 2. Establishment of a six-nation council of ministers with the right to make recommendations to the high authority but not to give it orders or veto its decisions. 3. Creation of a consultative committee representing coal and steel producers, consumers and workers to advise the high authority. 4. Creation of a special assembly composed of delegates of the six nations' parliaments to meet once annually to receive a report from the high authority. A vote of censure by the assembly would force the authority to resign. 5. Establishment of a special court of justice of seven members to hear appeals by member states, the council of ministers or producers against decisions of the high authority. 6. Establishment of a common pool market for the steel and coal of the six members to eliminate price-rigging and prohibitive tariffs. 7. Free interchange of coal and steel workers among member nations.

Allies Keep Reds Off-Balance

ALLIED FORCES IN KOREA maintained constant pressure against steadily retreating Reds Wednesday and early today and pushed as far as 18 miles inside North Korea on the Western front. Solid arrows show approximate positions of Allied drives. Open arrows indicate main points of Red resistance. Two tank-led Allied spearheads (1) blasted into the Choryon and Chigyoung areas before pulling out. In center of front (2) UN forces were punching into Reds in area south of Kumhwa. In drive on Hwachon Dam Allied column (3) ran into bitterly resisting Reds and failed in several attempts to seize the dam. See story or Page 1.

Claim First New Footwear 'Since Caesar'

DETROIT — A retired Detroit shoe salesman Tuesday announced the development of a shoe "which makes you feel like you're walking down-hill all the time." Nathan Hack said his first new departure in footwear since Julius Caesar put heels on shoes to enable his soldiers to walk further. "And that was 2,000 years ago," he said. Hack, past president of the Detroit Shoe Retailers association, said the ripple sole is made of a rubber-leather composition. It is attached beneath the regular sole and "lengthens each stride six inches more than ordinary shoes," Hack said. The highly flexible ripple sole also reduces shock when the feet strike the ground and makes walking more comfortable. The ripple sole consists of a series of waves running from the front of the heel to the tip of the toe. As the body leans forward, each successive ripple gives way so that when a step is completed one has the feeling that he is walking downhill. Hack first experimented with the ripple sole three years ago, aided by Dr. Laurence E. Morehouse, associate professor of physical education at the University of Southern California.

Group Asks Removal of Controversial Questions

A petition and statement asking removal of questions dealing with race, color and religion from SUI application forms were presented to President Virgil M. Hancher Tuesday by the Coordinating Committee on Applications Forms. The statement, signed by Willie G. Gibson, G. Cedar Rapids, and James Joseph, G. Saunders, G. Committee on Application Forms, N.Y., committee co-chairmen, is he printed in entirety. "We believe that it is one of the fundamental rights of all human beings to have equal opportunities, regardless of race, color or religion, to promote and advance the capacities with which they are endowed. It is one of the functions of our universities to enhance, by example as well as education, the promulgation of this democratic principle. There is incontrovertible evidence that many universities in this country practice discrimination in their admissions policy, and these measures can be combated only if democratic universities set an example by a firm stand on this issue. With increasing recognition of these facts, many universities, among them members of the Big Ten (Michigan, Minnesota, Northwestern, Wisconsin), have removed from their applications forms questions relating to race, color and religion, thereby asserting the immaturity nature of this information with regard to qualifications for admission. Yet, had there been no measures taken by other universities toward the elimination of this data, we feel that it would be altogether fitting for the State University of Iowa to take the initiative, as it has in the past, in setting a precedent for positive action in intercultural education. We are firmly convinced that, as a matter of principle, questions on race, color and religion have no place on applications forms. Alternatives "Concern has been expressed in the past over possible difficulties which might arise if these questions were removed from the application forms. These difficulties concern the two functions presently served by questions on race, color and religion on the application forms. The first function served by these questions, is to provide religious organizations on campus with information on the religious affiliations of prospective students. By receiving this information several months before the students arrive on campus, these organizations are helped in their work. Technical devices are available to carry out this function once the decision to remove these questions has been made. For example, required religious preference forms could be sent to students with their notification of acceptance, several months before their arrival on campus. In this way the work of the religious groups would not be impeded, and yet information on religion would not appear on of-cial university records. Prejudice Fostered "The second possible function served by these questions is to segregate students in housing. Segregation is practiced on the assumption that students of different races or religious backgrounds are liable to be incompatible. It is our conviction that incompatibility between roommates is a function of personality differences which has no necessary connection with race or religion. If the University asks these questions in an effort to pair students fittingly, it could change to more pertinent questions in order to determine the living habits and cultural interests of students before assigning them to the same room. Universities which have removed these questions have adopted the practice of leaving a space called 'Roommate preference' on housing applications. We feel that it is significant that most students who have approved of segregation in housing have spoken of the 'other' students who may object to living with persons of a particular race or religion, but have disclaimed any such prejudice for themselves. Who then are these prejudiced students? Their failure to speak up for themselves has led us to believe that the prevalence of such prejudices has been largely overrated. Our faith in the maturity and fair mindedness of students at the University has not been sufficiently undermined to lead us to such a pessimistic view. Granting that some prejudice may exist, the question we then face is whether the University should foster such prejudice by catering to it. We prefer to believe that a university training students for citizenship should have its policy dictated by democratic ideals, not by expediency. We feel that there are indeed few students who would not be willing to give their situation a fair trial if they found themselves assigned a roommate of a different religion or race. For those who for any reason find themselves incompatible with their roommates, the traditional machinery for changing rooms is still available at the housing office. Unofficial Discrimination "The last point we wish to make is that information about individuals' race, color and religion can be used by prejudiced persons for discriminatory purposes regardless of official university policy. For this reason, too, it is desirable that such information does not appear on University records to which, for example, prospective employers have access. For these reasons, among others which we should like to bring to the attention of the administration, we request the removal of questions relating to race, color and religion as well as photographs, from all application forms of the State University of Iowa."

Lawyers, Accountants, Can Share Tax Work

Lawyers and accountants have disagreed for ten years about their roles in federal income taxation, but there is a place for both of them, according to an article in the Iowa Law Review.

The review, released last week, features a symposium on the regulation of law and accounting. Maurice Austin, certified public accountant, member of the New York bar association, and law professor at the Brooklyn law school, explains the role of each.

On the side of the lawyer, he writes, "Federal income taxation is founded on statutes, elaborated and interpreted by administrative regulations and rulings, and construed by court decisions."

However, "the common, everyday professional task of the certified public accountant" is actually determining the income to be taxed.

Austin suggests "permitting both lawyers and accountants to function as long as they remain within their respective fields."

But he adds that as long as there continues to be a shortage of law-

English Teachers Plan Weekend Conference Here

Iowa English teachers will meet at SUI Friday and Saturday to discuss problems of teaching high school reading, writing and speaking skills.

The conference is sponsored by the SUI communications skills staff. It is the first since the annual event was discontinued during World War II.

Purpose of the writing workshop sessions is to acquaint teachers with the standards of achievement in writing which are necessary for the student to get along well in college and in his community.

Another objective of the conference is better continuity of instruction in writing skills between high school and university levels.

Teachers will have the opportunity to compare their own ratings of student writing and the ratings of other teachers and members of the university communication skills department.

Speakers at the conference will have no chance to monopolize speaking time. A new conference innovation, a kitchen timer, will notify the speaker when his time is up. Marathon speechmakers will be eliminated.

All speakers who will appear on the program are from SUI. Included are President Virgil M. Hameher; Prof. John C. Gerber, Prof. Alma B. Hovey, Prof. Bartholow Crawford, Prof. Carrie E. Stanley and Prof. Arnold Fox, all of the English department.

Prof. James B. Stroud and Prof. Robert L. Ebel, both of the education department, and communication Skills Instructors Harry H. Crosby, Jeffrey Fleece, John A. Ice Vogues Busiest Gal

NEEDLE AND THREAD OR SKATES PRESENT A PROBLEM for Candy Richards, a member of the Ice Vogues show. They are the symbols of the two jobs, wardrobe mistress and chorus member, which Candy now holds. When she first joined the show in France last summer, Candy didn't even know how to skate.

A Variety Girl—

Holds Many Ice Show Jobs

BY ARLO WAGNER In variety is the spice of life, then Candy Richards, Ice Vogues' chorine, is probably the best flavored girl around.

Candy received a B.A. degree in speech and drama at Stanford university, modeled for Conover in New York, sang in a Paris night club and is presently working with the Ice Vogues as supervisor of costumes, chorine, mother confessor and first aid expert. And that's not all. She is married to Rudy Richards, the show's "King of Rhythm," who demands that she look beautiful at all times—not a difficult task for Candy.

Candy's biggest job at present is wardrobe mistress or supervisor of costumes. She is required to keep the costumes clean and see that everyone has his own costume.

When one considers that there are about 40 skaters with the show and each has at least four changes per performance, and after one sees the way some of those costumes are used almost as mop rags, he gets some ideas of the immensity of her job.

Candy's job was eased somewhat by the size of the Iowa fieldhouse where the Ice Vogues show ends a four-day stand tonight. Quite often, the company is crowded into a space with barely enough room for dressing rooms, let alone costumes.

As "mother confessor," Candy tries to keep peace in the troupe, which like any large family, has its quarrels. She takes care of all injured persons where a physician is not needed.

Candy was vacationing in Nice, France, on the Riviera when she joined the troupe this summer. She made her "first connection with ice" when she joined as wardrobe mistress.

Now, nine months later, she has learned to skate well enough to be in the chorus and is married to one of the stars of the show.

Hawaiians Chat With SUI Debaters

Island Debators Tell of Preparations

'Hawaii Is War Conscious'

People in Hawaii are very "war conscious," Shunichi Kimura and Masaru Funai, University of Hawaii debaters, declared here Wednesday.

They debated against an SUI team in Old Capitol Wednesday.

Since the outbreak of the Korean war, all inhabitants of the islands have participated fully in civil defense drills. These include atom bomb drills, Kimura said.

There have been no "war jitters", however, Funai asserted. "The people don't want a war, but they are going to be prepared if one should come."

"Students may be working a little harder for a better grade to obtain deferment from the draft, but the war hasn't had much other affect on the University of Hawaii," Kimura said.

Both Kimura and Funai admitted the facilities which the Big Ten schools have available for students' use in professional studies.

The University of Hawaii offers only pre-professional studies. Its social sciences, speech and political science departments are the most complete, Kimura said.

Neither would exchange Hawaiian weather for the middle-western brand. It is spring weather the year around in the islands, they reported.

Dental College to Hold Oral Surgery Lectures

Three SUI faculty members will speak at an oral surgery conference sponsored by the college of dentistry Friday and Saturday in room E405, University hospitals.

Dr. Stuart Cullen, professor of general surgery and chairman of the division of anesthesiology, Dr. Alton K. Fisher, head of oral pathology, and Dr. L. Bodine Higley, head of orthodontics, will address the conference.

Three visiting speakers are Dr. J. Frank Hall, head of oral surgery, Indiana university school of dentistry; Lt. Col. John S. Oartel, director of basic science division, army dental school, Washington, D.C., and Dr. Sanford Moose, professor of oral surgery, College of Physicians and Surgeons, San Francisco.

Attendance will be limited to 35 and applications will be accepted in the order they are received, accompanied by $25.

A dinner will be given Friday evening at the Hotel Jefferson for the guests.

11 Exhibits Depict Medical College

Eleven exhibits depicting activities of the SUI college of medicine will be shown at a meeting of the Iowa State Medical society at Sioux City Monday through Wednesday.

Dr. John T. McClintock, director of the college's post-graduate studies, is in charge of the exhibits to be presented by staff members from the departments of ophthalmology, surgery, orthopedics and neurosurgery, biochemistry, otolaryngology, oral surgery and the division of physical medicine.

The department of dermatology and the Iowa state department of health are collaborating on an exhibit as are the Iowa hospital school for severely handicapped children and the state services for crippled children.

Debaters Discuss U.S. Policy

Whether we can best hold our allies in Europe and Asia by strengthening or withdrawing military forces from vital areas there became the main issue of the Hawaiian-SUI debate Wednesday in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

Only a small audience heard the debate.

Masaru Funai and Shunichi Kimura from the University of Hawaii supported the affirmative of the question: "Should the United States limit its defenses to the western hemisphere?" Bill Perrin, A4, Waterloo, and Ben Crane, A4, Upper Montclair, N.Y., gave the negative argument.

The Hawaiian team proposed the United States withdraw her armies to the western hemisphere and build an effective military force there instead of

Television Set Installed In Union Lobby

The new television set at the Iowa Union was examined and approved Wednesday by Union officers. Inspecting the set are (standing from left to right) Howard L. Mills, G. Huntington, W. Va., and Barbara Clinton, A4, Clinton, both members of the student union board; Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the Union, and Pete Van Oosterhout, A2, Orange City, member-elect of the board. Kneeling are Frank Burge, assistant director of the Union, and Mark Sutton, radio and TV technician who installed the set.

Television is now available in the Iowa Union. A temporary installation is now operating in the Union south lobby and is open to all students, Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the Union said Wednesday. Orders have been given for permanent sets which will be installed very soon, he said.

Harper said he planned to clear the north lobby conference room of future engagements and turn it into a 125 seat TV theater. "It will be at least six weeks before these engagements can be taken care of, however. After that the conference room will be used solely for television when it is on," he said.

A console model with a 20 inch screen is the type of set to be installed in the theater. A secondary installation of a similar set, to be purchased later, will be made in the south lobby of the Union.

Harper said he hoped to eventually have six TV sets in the Union. He pointed out that it might be some time before this plan is realized because it is necessary to wait for the reaction to the present plan and possible television improvements, such as a larger screen and color pictures. It was very difficult to get TV in the Union, Harper added, because the building is located at the bottom of a 45 foot hill. To overcome this problem a 30 foot aerial was built on the top of the Geology building which is situated one block north of the Union at the top of the hill. Altogether the aerial was 150 feet above the Union.

An amplifier had to be installed at the base of the aerial because of its distance from the sets. The Union was connected to the aerial by a coaxial cable. Any number of sets can run off this type of installation, Harper said.

At 10:30 this morning General MacArthur's arrival and parade in Washington, D. C. will be telecast. At 11:30 Iowa City will be able to see the recently fired general's speech to congress. His reception in New York City may be viewed Friday morning at 11.

Mayor Proclaims World Government Sunday for Apr. 29

Mayor William J. Holland Wednesday proclaimed April 29 as World Government Sunday in Iowa City.

He urged Iowa City citizens to inform themselves about world government and to attend a public forum "Federation and Freedom" planned for 3 p. m. April 29.

Panel speakers will be Ben E. Summerwell, Iowa City; Harlan Miller, Des Moines Register columnist; Father Charles T. Gaskell, Rock Island, and Clemens Werner, Davenport.

The public forum will be held at the band shell south of Iowa Union. If the weather is cold or rainy the forum will be in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Johnson county and SUI chapters of the United World Federalists will sponsor the public forum.

The mayor's proclamation said that April 29 has been designated as World Government Sunday in many communities in the United States.

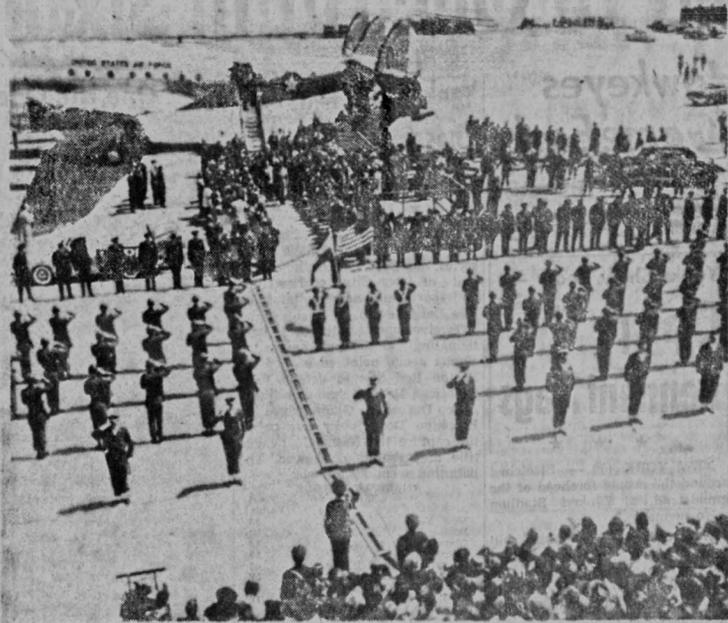

Including Iowa City among these communities, Mayor Holland suggested the forum would help inform Iowa Citizens of a plan of federal world government.

A United Nations federal government has been proposed by some people as a means of preventing World War III.

Study Children's Needs Says Doctor

To understand a handicapped child, the parent or teacher must determine the child's wants and needs, Dr. W. Grant Dahlstrom, assistant professor in the department of psychology, told a special education seminar, Tuesday night.

Needs of the handicapped child can be understood only by individual study of the child, he said. Workers with the handicapped should avoid judging the child's feelings by how they would feel in a similar situation.

Dr. Dahlstrom emphasized that there is no uniform personality reaction to a given handicap. A handicapped child may or may not be free of emotional maladjustments.

A child who is handicapped early in life may have different emotional needs from a child who is afflicted following a normal development, he added.

The Carl E. Seashore award is awarded to an Iowa Citizen, who has striven toward the same objectives.

Harlan Miller, Des Moines Register columnist, will speak at the banquet.

"I know I'm plain," she added with a smile.

Wild Mississippi Threatens Dubuque, Davenport Families

(From the Wire Services) Swirling waters of the Mississippi river threatened the worst floods in years and forced Dubuque and Davenport families from their homes. Emergency mobilization efforts were started in other Iowa towns along the river.

Dubuque officials warned that 500 families would be driven from their homes if the crest reaches an expected 22.5 feet. The city prepared emergency accommodations for more than 1,000 families. Already 35 families have been moved from the east section of town expected to get the worst flooding.

Water which has already spilled over levees has covered a three-block area in the eastern section. Nearby lowlands also have been flooded.

Sandbagging crews strengthened dikes and levees on a round-the-clock schedule. Industries and homeowners got ready to pump out basements and drain off water.

Sandbagging got underway at Davenport as officials estimated that 400 families were imperiled. Water may cover streets of the business district at the height of the flood expected next Wednesday.

At Muscatine, crews were raising the mainline tracks of the Rock Island railroad seven to eight inches.

Iowa Held To One Hit In Six Innings, Lose 3-0

Irish Blank Hawkeyes As Rain Halts Game Early

SOUTH BEND, IND. — The University of Iowa Hawkeyes dropped the 51st renewal of their baseball series with Notre Dame, as the Irish picked up two fast runs in the first inning and added one in the fourth, to win, 3-0.

The game was played under murky weather conditions, and intermittent showers caused Plate Umpire Lazar to call it at the end of five and a half frames.

The Irish nicked Pitcher Bruce Marsh for six hits, while the Iowans got to Notre Dame Pitcher Stan Konopka for only one.

Center-fielder Duane Brandt of the Hawkeyes walked to start the first inning, but Second-Base man Tom Stenger hit into a double play, and Right-Fielder Jack Lundquist popped to the first baseman to end the inning.

Stenger got the only Iowa hit in the third inning. The Hawks got two men on in the fourth inning, on two walks after two were out. However, Captain John Dinzole went down swinging to end the inning.

The two Irish runs in the first inning came on singles by Third-Base man Len LeRose and Shortstop Harry Durkin, combined with two costly Hawkeye errors. In the fourth stanza, the Notre Dammers got another by combining two singles, a walk and a fielders choice.

Illinois Senate Defeats TV Bill

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP) — A bill to require televising of sports events at the University of Illinois was killed Wednesday by the Illinois senate education committee.

The committee acted unanimously after being informed that enactment of the bill probably would force the U. of I. out of the Western conference.

However, Sen. Robert W. Loyons (R-Oakland) and Roland V. Libonati (D-Chicago) were instructed to write a letter urging conference officials to relax television bars.

The committee was advised by Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, Big Ten commissioner, that the U. of I. would be dropped if the bill passed and the Illini complied with it.

For the university to do so would be an infraction of conference regulations, Wilson said in a letter to the committee.

Libonati said the reply to Wilson would stress the interest of Illinois sports fans and alumni in U. of I. athletic teams, and urge him to take steps to lift NCAA bans against television.

Florida Bowler Leads Tourney

ST. PAUL, MINN. (AP) — Bowlers from the south and mid-west held the spotlight in the American Bowling Congress Wednesday as a kegler from Florida and one each from Wisconsin and Minnesota took over leads in two divisions.

Walt Wellman, 50-year-old citrus grove operator from Orlando, Fla., put on one of the best exhibitions of pressure bowling in the meet thus far to move into the all-events top with 1,918. He had 653 in the team event, 622 in the doubles and 643 in the singles.

That gave him a seven-pin margin over Murry Rainnie of Michigan City, Ind., who had taken the all-events top Monday. Ed Drafz, 46-year-old stockroom clerk from Peshtigo, Wis., and Joe Rolek, 30-year-old box spring maker from Minneapolis, moved into a tie for first in the singles division with a score of 698.

Leo Durocher's Giants edged the Brooklyn Dodgers by two points to capture the National League title the tabulations showed. The balloting went as follows:

Welterweight King Stops Foe In Four Rounds On T. K. O.

DETROIT (AP) — Chicago's Johnny Bratton, NBA Welterweight Champion, finished off young Don Williams, Worcester, Mass., in a hurry Wednesday night. He stopped Williams in the fourth round in their scheduled 10-round non-title bout.

Referee Bobby Watson stopped the fight just as the fourth round was about to start after Dr. Joseph Tahalan had examined Williams' badly cut left eye.

For three rounds Bratton, 149, had crashed his power-packed rights to Williams' face. Williams weighed 151 in the overweight bout.

Bratton, making his first appearance since he won the title from Charley Fusari last month, toyed with Williams and was never in trouble. When the fight ended Bratton's black hair was still neatly combed.

Iowa Late Entry In Kansas Relays, Send Five Men Saturday

The sprint relay team of the University of Iowa will compete in the 440 and 890-yard relays at the Kansas Relays at Lawrence Saturday, Coach Francis Cretzmeier announced Wednesday.

After cancellation of the Wisconsin-Iowa dual meet here Saturday, Coach Cretzmeier obtained permission from Kansas officials to enter the Kansas Relays late.

He said he will take five runners to Lawrence by train. The men are Gary Scott, Len Sykes, Lou Mathis, Bob Henard, and DuWayne Dietz. There is a chance that several of the men also may run the 100-yard dash and that Henard may brood jump.

Iowa holds the meet record at Kansas for both sprint relays: 40.5 made in 1935 in the 440-yard relay and 1:25.2 set that same year in the 890-yard event.

Coach Cretzmeier figures that his sprinters may hit 42 or better for the 440 and under 1:27 for the 890 by the time of the Drake relays and under proper conditions might go that fast Saturday.

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — Three members of the Walker Cup team were rudely bounced out of the running in the North and South Amateur Golf Championship Wednesday, leaving home town boy Dick Chapman as the team's lone survivor.

Chapman marched proudly through the second and third rounds while teammates Frank Stranaham, Bill Campbell and Jimmy McHale were eliminated by lesser-known players.

Stranaham, the muscular blaster from Toledo, Ohio, was outstayed in the morning round by J. A. McBride, Paterson, N. J., 1 up. McBride later bowed in the afternoon to Billy Joe Patton, a lumber merchant from Morgantown, N.C., 5 and 4.

Campbell, the Huntington, W. Va., legislator who is the tourney's defending champion, was ousted by Jack Coyle of Springfield, Ill.

Citation Third in Comeback Race

SAN MATEO, CALIF. (AP) — Mighty Citation, the ace of the great Calumet Farm racing stable and the greatest money winner in race track history, ran the worst race of his life Wednesday.

Citation, running the first race of a second comeback try after a 10-month layoff, placed third, behind A Lark and Pancho Supreme. It was the first time in 39 starts the big horse had been worse than second, and only the tenth time he ever was beaten.

But even in defeat, Citation looked good to his jockey Steve Brooks.

After the race, Brooks said he was satisfied with the Comet's performance and was pleased that there appeared to be no return of the leg injury which kept Citation away from the tracks throughout 1949.

NCAA Ruling Limits Football Television

WASHINGTON (AP) — The television committee of the NCAA, in what it said was a move to save the life of intercollegiate sports, Wednesday approved a plan for limited telecasts of next fall's college football games.

Under the plan adopted by the National Collegiate Athletic Association group, here's the menu for the television fan:

- 1. Only one game will be televised in any area on any given Saturday.
- 2. On at least one Saturday, a blackout may be imposed and no game will be brought into the area at all.
- 3. No team will be seen more than twice, once at home and once when it plays away from home.

These plans had been drawn previously by a four-man steering committee, and were approved unanimously Wednesday by the full 12-man committee.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Cleveland Indians' battery of Pitcher Early Wynn and Catcher Jim Hegan was too much for the Detroit Tigers Wednesday.

Wynn led the Indians to a 4-2 win, their second straight in the youthful American league season, by limiting the Tigers to four hits. Hegan smashed a home run and three singles to drive in two runs in the 10-inning battle before 5,161 fans.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Washington Senators staged a three run ninth inning rally for a 6-4 victory over Philadelphia's Athletics Wednesday night.

Chandler, who was to have been here Tuesday to hand out world series trophies to the New York Yankees players, spent the day in Washington instead and visited members of the U.S. senate. He then left for his home in Versailles, Ky.

Chandler was senator from Kentucky when named baseball commissioner.

BOSTON (AP) — Sam Jethroe's home run over the left field wall with two on and one out in the ninth inning broke a 5-all tie and gave the Boston Braves an 8-5 victory over the New York Giants before a slim gathering of 2,784 Wednesday.

The blow came off Southpaw Dave Koslo, who had just come in to relieve Allen Gettel, third New York hurler.

Gettel was charged with the defeat.

The Giants entered the ninth trailing by 5-3, but rallied to score two runs on two walks, two singles and a hit batsman. They drove Starter Johnny Sain to cover as well as his relief man, Blix Donnelly.

You've Got To Hold That Cane Just Right

Supreme Court Day Today to Feature 'Invasion of Privacy' Mock Lawsuit

This is Supreme Court day at SU. Each year the supreme court of Iowa comes to Iowa City to sit in as the final word on the senior law class argument, and SU's Law Student association has planned a full day of activities in conjunction with the judges' presence. Four seniors, who have survived a series of competitive arguments in the last three years, will represent the plaintiff and defendant in a hypothetical case involving the legality of publishing a news picture. The specific issue is whether or not the publication of a picture invades the rights of privacy. The plaintiff, a man included in the picture, accuses the defendant, a hypothetical newspaper, of sensational "yellow journalism." The paper, in turn, argues that the law recognizes no such right as pri-vacancy. The public is invited to attend the mock trial, which starts at 2:30 p.m. in the house chamber of Old Capitol. The four seniors who will argue the case are James Kennedy, Estherville; R. Bruce Hughes, Sioux City; Evan Hultman, Waterloo, and James Sperry, Grundy Center. At 10:30 a.m. the Order of the Coif, honorary legal society, will initiate 12 men, including an honorary initiate, Federal Judge William F. Riley of the southern district of Iowa. The 11 others who will be initiated, rank in the upper ten percent of the August, February, and June graduating classes. The supreme court judges, all honorary members of the Coif, will witness the initiation, which will take place in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. Dean Mason Ladd will preside. An informal luncheon for distinguished guests at 12:15 p.m., and the Supreme Court day banquet at 6:20 p.m. round out the day's activities. Both will be held in the Iowa Union. Tickets for the banquet are on sale in the college of law building at $1.75 each. In conjunction with the day, law students have published a magazine, the Iowa Law Rebeuke, a humorous satire on the Iowa Law Review. The books went on sale Wednesday for lawyers and the public may buy it for 25 cents Friday at the college of law.

Betts Wins Divorce, Custody of Child

Marshall L. Betts, 30, was granted a divorce in district court Wednesday from Arvada Betts, 28, on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

District Judge Harold D. Evans granted Betts sole custody of the couple's eight-year-old boy. Betts also was awarded household effects and his car. The defendant was awarded personal belongings and will be allowed to visit the child periodically.

Betts, in requesting the divorce, claimed that his wife wanted the boy removed from the Iowa school for handicapped children. In response to his request, the court ordered an injunction restraining her from removing the boy from the school.

Mrs. Betts answered the claim by asking dismissal of divorce action. She claimed that she did not want the boy taken from the school.

Iowa House Slows Up; Final Session Nears

DES MOINES—The Iowa house plodded through odds and ends Wednesday afternoon in the slow-down process as final adjournment time approached. Just when the legislature will adjourn finally was a question but the indications were that most of the members might leave tonight so that only a few would remain for the final gavel. Because of considerable clerical work remaining even after the passage of bills stops, final adjournment is not likely before the early part of next week. One of today's events will be a joint meeting with the senate to hear and see Gen. Douglas MacArthur's address before congress by radio, television and through the house chamber public address system. Wednesday afternoon, the house passed one resolution, two senate bills, and rejected a motion to reject a motion to remove two bills from the house sifting committee.

Larson's Salary ...

The Iowa house of representatives refused once again Wednesday to enact a departmental appropriation bill that would give Atty. Gen. Robert L. Larson an increase in pay. Representatives sent the controversial measure into a conference committee for the second time. The bill would allocate $8,997,867 a year to pay for running the state government.

The bill came out of its first conference committee with provisions that Larson be granted a $750 a year increase in pay, giving him an annual salary of $8,250. Earlier, the houses had refused to go along with senate proposals that Larson's salary be increased from $7,500 to $8,500 a year. It was then that the bill first went into conference.

In arguing against the bill, Rep. L. Dee Mallonee (R-Audubon) said he would "hate to see the attorney general get an increase simply because he was doing the job he was supposed to do." Those supporting the pay increase commended Larson for his successful two-year fight against gambling. But they also argued the salary applied not to an individual but to an office.
