Lons Told of Argument Before Davelis' Death: Brother-in-Law

By MARVIN BRAVERMAN
A brother-in-law to James Lons testified in Johnson county district court Monday that Lons told him he had an argument with Andrew Davelis about a week before Davelis' death and that Lons said he "almost knifed Andy."

Erma Loghry, 34, brother of Lons' wife, Viola, and an employe in Lons' Princess cafe for about 14 years, said the quarrel arose "over a sweetroll." Davelis was a waiter in the Princess at the time of his death.

Loghry was the first state witness called in the trial of the 53-year-old Iowa citizen, charged with fatally stabbing Davelis last Oct. 12 in a fight in a residential section.

Earlier, County Atty. William L. Meardon and Defense Atty. A. C. Cahill presented opening statements to a jury of seven men and five women.

Meardon said he will introduce evidence to show that there was "a great deal of friction and trouble" between Davelis and Lons prior to Davelis' death. He told of five times Lons admitted stabbing Davelis.

To Present 'Whole Story'
Cahill asked the jury to keep an open mind to all the evidence and said the defense will show Lons' background and will bring "the whole story to court."

"I'm certain," Cahill declared, "when you hear the whole story, you will find the defendant did not commit any crime and certainly not the crime of murder."

Meardon told a prearranged meeting the night of Oct. 11 between Lons; his brother, George Baculis, and two of Lons' companions, Edward Poggenpohl and Harry Elder. He also spoke of a meeting scheduled that night be-twen Mrs. Lons, Loghry and Davelis. He said Loghry was unable to meet with the other two.

The evidence will show, Meardon continued, that Mrs. Lons drove in her husband's car to St. Patrick's church at the corner of Linn and Court streets where she picked up Davelis sometime after 1:30 a.m.

Lons' Group Followed
The county attorney said Lons and his three companions followed Mrs. Lons and Davelis until they forced the car to the curb on Summit street.

Davelis then ran into the home of Atty. Dan C. Dutcher, 620 S. Summit street, Meardon said and when he was ushered out by two policemen "a flurry of things happened."

"The defendant, James Lons, was all over him," Meardon declared, and Lons was "pulled off" Davelis several times.

Meardon said two police officers had been called to the scene because of the auto accident which awakened neighbors and also after a call from Dutcher.

After the scuffle, the police escorted Davelis to the police station where he collapsed and later died, the county attorney said.

County Coroner George D. Callahan was summoned and pronounced Davelis dead, he added.

"Lons Told of Stabbing"
While police were escorting Davelis to the police station, Lons and his companions returned to the business district and separated, Meardon said.

At the time, Meardon said, Lons told Poggenpohl that he had stabbed Davelis twice, once in the back and once in the front.

Lons then returned to the Princess cafe where he was arrested by police officers after Davelis died, Meardon said.

He added that Lons admitted to the officers who arrested him that he had stabbed Davelis and told them where to find the knife.

Wounds Caused Death
The county attorney said the autopsy showed the cause of death to be due to "stab wounds which caused severe internal hemorrhage and bleeding."

Coralville. Under examination by local Atty. D. C. Nolan, special prosecutor, Loghry said Lons told him in February or March of 1950 he was thinking about firing Davelis and was going to give him 30 days notice.

The second state witness Monday was Mr. Stella Davelis, 34, divorced wife of Andrew Davelis. She wore a navy blue suit and hat and occasionally glanced at Lons as she was being questioned.

Mrs. Davelis said she last saw her husband just before midnight when he came into the Strand cafe, 131 S. Dubuque street, where she worked part-time.

"He said he was going to see Viola (Mrs. Lons) about his job," Mrs. Davelis declared.

"Aiding Reconciliation"
The short, dark-haired woman told the court that Mrs. Lons was helping bring about a reconciliation between her and Davelis at the time of his death.

Lons sat near his defense attorneys, Cahill and William Bartley, and listened intently to the testimony. He shook his head in a negative manner at some of the statements given by Loghry and Mrs. Davelis.

Also present in court were Davelis' mother, Mrs. George Davelis, 69, East Moline, Ill.; a brother, Tom Davelis, also of East Moline, and two sisters, Mrs. Florence Zanfes, Sioux City, and Mrs. Collette Spurgehettes, Rock Island, Ill.

There were about 20 additional spectators, including a few SUI law students.

The jury chosen Monday is: Mrs. Ethel E. Cox, farmwife from eight miles south of Iowa City; Homer I. Estes, 47, Coralville, general laborer.

John Walters, 75, Hills, farmer. Mrs. Esther Bireline, 530 N. Dubuque street, housewife.

Mrs. Emily Stoehl, housewife living two miles west of Solon. Herbert Ashdown, 76, 220 E. Church street, retired farmer.

R.H. Goering, 223 S. Johnson street, custodian at University hospitals.

Owen Rogers, 719 Page street, employe of the city street department.

James J. Burns, 54, Union township, farmer.

Mrs. Claretta Yoder, Windham, housewife.

George C. Parks, 30, 1125 E. Davenport street, employe in the plumbing and heating department at SUI.

Clara Kutz, who lives six miles from Iowa City.

Lou E. Clark, 518 S. Lucas street, who was one of the 16 prospective jurors named last Friday, was excused from jury duty, because of sickness. Miss Kutz was chosen in his place.

After selection of the jury, McCoid announced that members will be segregated and housed in a local hotel.

Vogeler to Be Held Until 'U.S. Agrees'
BUDAPEST (AP) — Robert A. Vogeler probably will be held in his Hungarian prison cell until the United States has met the conditions laid down by the Hungarian government, usually well-informed sources said Monday.

The Hungarian demands are believed to include the reopening of Hungarian consulates in the U.S. and the lifting of a U.S. ban forbidding American tourists to travel in Hungary.

Flood Fights Continue; More Rain Predicted

Mrs. Davelis
A Reconciliation Pending

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles G. Dawes, former vice-president of the United States, died Monday night of a heart attack at his home in suburban Evanston. He was 85-years old.

Dawes, who also had served as ambassador to Great Britain and created the Dawes plan for German reparations after World War I, complained of feeling ill Monday and stayed home for the first time in several weeks from his office in the City National bank, where he was chairman of the board of directors.

Dawes served as vice-president under Calvin Coolidge from 1925 to 1929. He declined to run again after that term and was appointed ambassador to the Court of St. James in London, where he flouted English tradition.

He returned to the United States in 1932 with the intention of returning to private business but was appointed by President Herbert Hoover as directing head of the government's $2-billion reconstruction finance corporation.

Dawes was an enigma to friend and foe alike. He used words so forceful they had to be deleted from the Congressional Record, but he was remembered by many music lovers as the composer of the beautiful "Melody in A Major."

Speculators a Hindrance
"If there was anything needed they would get it right away without questions. On the other hand, the speculators from other towns were a hindrance to everybody."

The main duty for the Iowa City guardsmen, Novy said, was to set up an aid station for rescue workers behind a power plant about a block from the levee.

"We treated a few minor cases, cuts, colds and so forth, but nothing really serious," he explained.

Entire Unit Alerted
Brig. Gen. Fred C. Tandy, Iowa adjutant general, alerted the entire Iowa City and Fairfield guard units Monday. The entire 34th reconnaissance unit has been alerted for possible duty in the flood areas.

Local guardsmen on duty are Capt. Donald Zavala, resident physician at University hospitals, Sgts. Paul J. Dvorak, Harold E. Smith, Thomas Berger, Charles Jennings and Robert Kirkpatrick, who has replaced Pvt. Novy.

Several tank transports have been steam cleaned to meet Iowa health standards and are ready to go, company officials said. Each truck can haul about 5,500 gallons of water.

Communities in need of drinking water should contact the company office in Iowa City or one of the river terminals at Dubuque or Fort Madison.

Contracts Okayed For SUI Building
The new Iowa budget and financial control committee has approved awarding contracts for $486,140 worth of work on a new SUI communications center.

The committee, which will serve for the legislature between sessions, also approved two other projects for which funds had been provided by state legislatures previous to the 1951 session.

They were a $66,907 contract for utilities for the new SUI women's gymnasium building and a $65,000 contract for alterations and relocation of the radiology department at the University hospitals.

The contracts were approved for the state board of education.

Control of Crowds Main Flood Problem, Guardsman Observes

By MINOR BARNES
The greatest problem in flood-bound Muscatine is the controlling people who have come to watch the flood, reported National Guardsman Larry Novy, 519 N. Johnson street, Monday.

Novy, a private in the 109th medical clearing company served with six other local guardsmen at the flood area, Saturday, Sunday and Monday morning. The Muscatine people cooperated 100 percent, he declared.

Red Offensive Smashes South, Allies Retreat All Along Line

Two Walk Out Of Attlee's Labor Cabinet

LONDON (AP) — A second minister took a walk from Prime Minister Clement Attlee's cabinet Monday night, joining Aneurin Bevan who charged that Britain was shackled to the "wheels of American diplomacy" in a reckless armaments drive.

The resignation of Board of Trade President Harold Wilson, 35-year-old "boy wonder" of the Labor government, was announced by Attlee, whose thin-edged majority in the house of commons was further threatened by the internal party fight.

Wilson Plans Speech
No correspondence between Wilson and Attlee was made public, but the resigning board of trade president planned to state his reasons in a later speech in the house of commons as Bevan did Monday.

Bevan, the leftwinger who resigned as Labor minister early Monday, charged in an impassioned speech to a glum and largely unresponsive house that the Labor government was letting the United States drag it into an arms program which would plunge Britain into economic chaos and scuttle her socialistic welfare programs.

He urged a curtailed arms program which would let Britain maintain her standard of living and social services.

Reshush Dismissal
The President Monday "reshashed" the general's dismissal with his top congressional leaders at their weekly White House conference, while an aide to General MacArthur said Monday the general still does not know why President Truman stripped him of his commands.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said at the same time "it may be necessary to bring Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower back from Europe to testify in the Truman-MacArthur fight."

Welcomes Planned
Meanwhile, Chicago drew plans Monday for two parades and a speech at mammoth Soldier field by the general when he visits there Thursday.

Chicago Mayor Martin H. Kenney and civic leaders polished details of a big reception blowout expected to attract 3-million persons.

Milwaukee, MacArthur's home town, also worked feverishly Monday on plans to give the old soldier a "real homecoming" Friday.

Oust Acheson
From a leading MacArthur supporter, house Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts, came a new demand for the ouster of

Secretary of State Acheson and his "powerful clique of fuzzy-minded thinkers, global do-gooders, defeatists and appeasers."

Under the constitution, a president can be removed only after conviction, in impeachment proceedings, on charges of "treason, bribery or other high crimes or misdemeanors."

Hendrickson's proposed amendment provides for a nation-wide vote on recalling a president any time two-thirds of the state legislatures petition for such a vote.

Then, if the vote was in favor of ousting the president, his office would be declared vacant and the vice-president would succeed to the post until the election of a new president. However, there could be no recall during the first year of the president's term.

Hendrickson told the senate that while he makes this proposal "when our entire nation is teeming with emotion" over MacArthur's removal, it would apply only to future presidents—not to Mr. Truman, whose tenure can't be changed while he is in office.

WASHINGTON — The American-inspired ban on oil shipments to China is producing a severe shortage for the Communist war machine. While the shortages have not yet been reflected at the fighting front, information shows the Reds have been forced to give top priority to fuel and oil supplies for their planes, tanks and war transport.

LONDON — Claiming that the American rearmament program is a greater threat to the world than Russian aggression, Aneurin Bevan, leader of the left wing revolt that threatens to wreck Britain's Labor government, left the cabinet. He was followed by Harold Wilson, president of the board of trade. It was reported that colonial under-secretary Tom Cox would be next.

Mac Squabble Initiates Recall Amendment Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Truman-MacArthur controversy churned up Monday a senate proposal to change the constitution so that future presidents could be voted out of the White House by the people.

Senator Hendrickson (R-N.J.) introduced a resolution calling for such a constitutional amendment.

His office said Hendrickson had received thousands of letters and telegrams asking if "something couldn't be done" to remove President Truman from office as a result of his dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Then, if the vote was in favor of ousting the president, his office would be declared vacant and the vice-president would succeed to the post until the election of a new president. However, there could be no recall during the first year of the president's term.

Hendrickson told the senate that while he makes this proposal "when our entire nation is teeming with emotion" over MacArthur's removal, it would apply only to future presidents—not to Mr. Truman, whose tenure can't be changed while he is in office.

KOREAN FRONT — Chinese Red hordes tore a big hole in the mountainous middle of a 100-mile-long flaming front in the third day of the Red counteroffensive. Chinese Push Despite Huge Loss of Life

TOKYO (TUESDAY) (AP) — A Chinese Communist division supported by cavalry poured through a break in the center of the Allied line Monday, braving a hell of air and artillery fire to smash southward to the 38th parallel.

Thousands of Chinese drove 18 to 20 miles through a break in Allied lines into South Korea and threatened the flanks of Allied forces still holding north of the 38th parallel today.

Reds Suffer Huge Loss
Eighth army headquarters reported the Reds had thrown up to 250,000 troops into their spring offensive and sent United Nations lines reeling back to the vicinity of the 38th parallel almost everywhere across the 95-mile fighting front.

Incomplete tabulations indicated however, that the offensive cost the Reds a phenomenal 18,000 to 20,000 casualties in its first two days.

Behind the attacking and reserve forces, the Reds were believed to have enough troops to make up a total 700,000-man offensive force.

The Reds poured over the ridges and down the valleys toward the parallel despite a butchering of their ranks by Allied planes and fast-firing Allied artillery, including big 155-millimeter "Long Toms" and 240-millimeter (8-inch) howitzers.

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet ranged Allied reinforcements behind the break-through area to bolster the dent in his lines.

Hold in East
To the east of the break-through Allied troops held against Red attacks in the Kwachon area. But on the west, attacks by Chinese divisions drove UN forces back across the Hantan river.

Further west, another UN unit fell back nearly 12 miles south of Chorwon, 18 miles north of the parallel. Allied spearheads had reached to within a few miles of the defense bastion last week.

On the western flank, close-quarters battle raged with small arms, automatic weapons and hand grenades. The Reds smashed across the Injin river near Korangpo, just south of the parallel, during the day Monday, but action decreased there during the night.

Allied warplanes roared over the entire battlefield unmolested, cutting up and burning Red troop concentrations. The Fifth airforce claimed nearly 2,000 enemy casualties Monday and navy carrier planes more than 350.

Mitropoulos To Play With SUI Orchestra

Pianist and conductor Dimitri Mitropoulos will play the concerto which accidentally made him famous at the SUI symphony orchestra concert in Iowa Union at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Dimitri Mitropoulos Substitute Makes Good

Joan Krutz Married To Arthur McGiverin

Joan Krutz, N4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Krutz, Winter set, and Arthur McGiverin, C4, Cedar Rapids, were married here Saturday in St. Thomas More chapel.

The Rev. J. Walter McEleny officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Following a reception held at Westlawn, the couple left on a short wedding trip to Chicago.

Student Group to Give Hearing, Speech Tests

Prof. Frederic Darley and 38 SUI speech pathology and audiology students today will test speech and hearing defects of the 201 children in the state juvenile home at Toledo.

Darley and the SUI students, most of whom are in the introduction of clinical practice course, will test the children's hearing, articulation, voice and oral speech mechanisms in order to determine what help the children need.

Darley and 30 speech correction students also made a similar survey last year at the Iowa school for the blind at Vinton.

Instructors Speak at Cedar Rapids Conference

C. E. Peck, SUI instructor in business letter writing, and R. D. Wilson, SUI instructor in office management, spoke last week at the fourth annual conference of the Iowa commercial organization office secretaries at the Roosevelt Hotel, Cedar Rapids.

Peck spoke on "Changing Patterns in Business Letter Writing," and Wilson discussed "Office Management for Small Offices."

Serge Koussevitzky, than conductor of the Boston symphony orchestra, asked Mitropoulos to conduct the Boston symphony orchestra. Koussevitzky had learned about Mitropoulos and "his concerto."

In 1937 Mitropoulos became permanent conductor of the Minneapolis symphony orchestra for 12 years. He was made co-conductor of the New York Philharmonic with Leopold Stokowski in the 1940-50 season and is now permanent conductor.

James Dixon, A3, Guthrie Center, will conduct the SUI symphony orchestra, when it plays the concerto with Mitropoulos Wednesday evening. Dixon is a student of Mitropoulos and Prof. Philip Greenley Clapp, conductor of the university orchestra.

Clapp will conduct the orchestra in Berlioz' overture, "The Vehmische Judges" and Sibelius' "Symphony No. 1 in E major."

To Show Two Films At Iowa Union Tonight

Two films will be shown at the Iowa Union at 8 p.m. today on the current series of "Movie Date Nights."

The films are "A Tale of Two Cities," starring Robert Donat and Edna Mae Oliver, and "Magnificent Obsession," starring Irene Dunne and Robert Taylor.

Business Fraternity Initiates 3 Members

Delta Pi Epsilon, honorary graduate fraternity in business education, initiated three persons in its spring initiation Saturday morning.

A luncheon was held in honor of the initiates, at which Miss Gladys Bahr, national secretary, spoke. She is a member of the faculty at Stephens college, Columbia, Mo.

The new members are Frances C. Hyde, G, Minneapolis; Everett W. Moore, G, Oskaloosa, and Elizabeth R. Nelson, of the University of Illinois faculty.

Inflation Problem Outlined by SUI Professor

The U.S. currency system of money backed largely by credit has been unable to check the inflation caused by "pressure groups seeking higher profits or wages," SUI Prof. G. R. Davies writes in the April Iowa Business Digest.

The Digest is a monthly publication of SUI's bureau of business and economic research. In the past, Davies says, when currency was redeemable in gold, an inflationary boom would be checked as soon as gold became scarce. Deflation could result.

In nineteenth-century Britain, he states, "business depression... under the leadership of the Bank of England... became a recognized and accepted institution."

Davies explains a credit money system in terms of the "company town" found in coal mine regions.

There wages are credited to workers on the books of the company general store. The goods they buy from the store are subtracted from their balances. No currency changes hands; everything is in terms of credit.

Credit itself is almost as old as money, he states. Soon after silver and gold became valued as coined money, inflationary credit based on them was issued by early banks. In the 18th century, credit money was issued on the basis of titles of land and other property.

Returning to the problem of inflation in the U.S. today, Davies says the federal reserve system could efficiently control credit and inflation, much as the Bank of England used to do, if we would only let it.

Scouts Do Heap Much Work

THIS WAR PARTY OF LITTLE INDIANS is getting ready to attack the Iowa City Community building May 4—but there won't be any scalping. The 1951 "Scout-O-Rama" will be held in the Community building May 4 and 5. These members of Cub Pack 12 are busy working on their Indiancraft display at the home of their den mother, Mrs. A. M. Barnes, 510 S. Van Buren street. In the foreground, Raymond Barnes stitches together panels for a teepee. Behind him (left to right), George Miller is stringing beadwork. Jimmy Ruby puts the finishing touches on a drum and Clarke Barnes tightens another drum, while Mrs. Barnes continues her work on headresses for the cubs.

Scouts to Appear On Program Covers

The four boys who sold the most tickets to the 1951 "Scout-O-Rama" exhibit will be pictured on the cover of the "Scout-O-Rama" program.

They are Bill Bywater and John Parker, of Iowa City; Terry Hogendorf, North English, and Gene Scriven, Kalona. The picture of the boys was taken Saturday at the Statue of Liberty at the Iowa City high school. The picture will appear on 4,000 programs.

Two more scout units have entered booths in the show which will be held May 4 and 5 in the Iowa City Community building, Scout Executive Martin Hunter said Monday.

The new entrants are Explorer post six, of Iowa City, and troop four, of North Liberty. This brings to 22 the number of scouting units now entered in the exhibit.

Hawkeye Award Nominations Due

Nominations for Hawkeye man and woman of the year must be submitted in a sealed envelope to the office of student affairs, room 111, University hall, before 5 p.m. Friday. Don Guthrie, A4, Iowa City, chairman of the nominating committee, said Monday.

Seniors with a minimum of 90 semester hours and 3 semesters at SUI may be nominated for the award by housing units or individual students.

Nomination applications must include the name, qualifications and grade point of the candidate.

Winners of the award will be presented at the University Women's association Mother's day luncheon in the Iowa Union Saturday, May 12.

The award is sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa and Mortar Board, honorary leadership fraternities. The occasion for this year's presentation was agreed on "as somewhat more appropriate" than last year when it was made at the all-campus carnival, Guthrie said.

Foreign Students Guests of YMCA

A group of foreign students from SUI will spend Saturday and Sunday in Washington, Iowa, as part of the international relations program of the Washington YMCA Men's club.

The 23 foreign students representing Chile, Turkey, Germany, France, Poland, Bulgaria, China, Hungary, Syria, Egypt, Palestine, Formosa, Great Britain and Bolivia, will stay in private homes while in Washington.

In past years a similar program has been carried on by the club, but this year the students will not address as many groups as before, the emphasis being on informal conversation.

Garfield Testifies 'Never Knew a Red'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Screen star John Garfield testified Monday that he's not a Communist, never has been a Communist, and, in fact, has never even known a single Communist. He denounced communism as "tyranny."

The movie "tough guy's" testimony to the house committee of un-American activities produced immediate disagreement among committee members.

Rep. Moulder (D-Mo.) called Garfield "a thoroughly and intensely loyal American citizen" while Rep. Jackson (R-Calif.) told the actor he was "not entirely convinced of the entire accuracy and cooperation you are giving this committee."

Garfield said his name had been used many times for fund-raising and other purposes by organizations which later were cited as subversive.

Usually this happened without his knowledge, he said, adding: "I'd like to point out what a tough situation a guy like me is in — I get millions of requests from organizations."

Describing himself as a Democratic party member and a political liberal, the actor said firmly: "I am no Red. I am no pink. I am no fellow traveler."

7 Pershing Rifles Teams to Compete Here in Drill Meet

Over 200 members of Pershing Rifles, national honorary military fraternity, from seven midwest schools will take part in the annual second regimental drill meet here Friday through Sunday.

Individual drill competition and rifle marksmanship will be held Saturday morning with platoon and squad drill after lunch.

Winning team will be presented awards at a banquet in the River room of the Iowa Union preceding an informal dance Saturday evening.

Election of officers will be held during a business meeting Sunday. Registration for the meet will be Friday.

Brig. Gen. Fred C. Tandy, Iowa adjutant general, members of the SUI army ROTC department, and Maj. Graham Marshall, USAF reserve, manager of the SUI interfraternity business office, plan to attend.

The seven schools competing are the Universities of Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wisconsin, and Iowa State and North Dakota state colleges.

Headquarters of the second regiment of the Pershing Rifles is located at SUI.

Last year's drill meet, held at Iowa State college, was won by the SUI team.

Canterbury Members To Attend Meeting

Ten members of Canterbury club, Episcopal student church group, will attend the state Canterbury association's constitutional convention in Cedar Falls, May 4 and 5.

The Rev. Harold F. McGee, pastor of the local Episcopal church, will address the convention on the morning of the second day. He is the secretary of college work for the Iowa diocese.

Attending are Clyde Griffen, A3, Sioux City; Pat Hovorka, A2, Cedar Rapids; Bonnie Smith, A3, Davenport; Tip DeNike, P2, Chicago, Ill.; Marcia Mary Mealy, A3, Duluth, Minn.; Helen Edwards, A3, Independence, Mo.; Carl Wickes, E2, Des Moines; Ralph Cockshott, A3, Atlantic; Janet Kedney, G, Iowa City, and Myrtle Sperry, A4, Tampa Fla.

Students of Canterbury clubs at Grinnell college, Drake university, Iowa State Teachers college and Iowa State college also will attend the convention.

Two Automobile Crashes Cause $375 Damage

A two-car collision, causing total damages of $175, occurred at 2 a.m. Sunday on Newton road near the SUI medical laboratory. Drivers were George S. Feiwel, L1, Chicago, and Lloyd Hockinson, 116 Lafayette street.

Allen L. Robb, A1, Waterloo, reported $200 damage to his car parked near the City park bridge at 6:45 p.m. Saturday.

Robb said a car driven by Robert McCarrville, 124 Grove street, and a truck driven by Ashley B. Libersky, Cedar Rapids, collided and then struck his car.

TO SPEAK ON CHILDREN

Grace Chenoweth Orr, senior teacher at the Iowa hospital school for severely handicapped children, will speak at a special education seminar 7:30 tonight in lecture room 1, medical laboratories, on "Guidance for the Parents of Handicapped Children."

Employers, Teenagers To Discuss Jobs

Prospective employers and teenage employees will meet at 7 p.m. tonight in the Iowa City Community building for skits, demonstrations and a panel discussion of skills and qualities needed for various jobs.

The program will be presented through the recently organized youth employment service. Three skits and a panel discussion by students from Iowa City's four high schools and four demonstrations by adults will feature the meeting.

All members of the youth employment service are required to attend the meeting or leave excuses at the employment service of the Community building.

The skit, "How to Win Jobs," will be enacted by five City high school students. "How to Influence Bosses," dealing with conduct on a job, will be put on by students from St. Patrick's and St. Mary's high schools.

Demonstrations of gardening and lawn care, janitor work, clerk's conduct and baby and household duties will be demonstrated by adult leaders.

Five University high school students will conduct the panel discussion.

Students are to register as they enter and a record of attendance meetings, Mrs. E. T. Hubbard, project chairman, said.

Zoology Department Has 'Fun' With Frogs

By TOM KLECKA

Like biblical Egypt, SUI's zoology department has had trouble with frogs. They are easy to handle, comparatively hardy and always ready to oblige researchers with a supply of new subjects for more experiments.

But they can give the department its share of headaches. During the last restocking, a bucket containing about 20 of the lively puddle-jumpers upset.

Frogs in assorted sizes bounded around the lab, knocking over test tubes and spreading glass fragments like confetti.

They went into sinks and onto desk tops. They wriggled through filing cases and played among a tangle of rubber tubing.

According to Sheldon Segal, graduate assistant and veteran of "operation grab," it took nearly three hours to round up the leaping herd.

Started on the subject of jumping frogs, he recalled days when students would take their favorite specimen and line them up for hallway races.

Sponsors were allowed to use a feather to coax their entries over the finish line. Prodding or guiding with anything but the feather however, meant immediate disqualification.

The races are not run anymore, but if the practice is ever revived, there are several types of frogs that show plenty of class in the exercise tank.

One type, the most elementary form, found only in Africa, has a pudgy gray body and lacks the typical frog's belligerent expression.

Unlike the American brand, it cannot survive without water. Its skin required moisture and if left out of the tank it will dehydrate and die.

Because it spends all its time in the same environment, its leg muscles have never developed sufficiently to support its weight, the legs being used exclusively for gathering food.

But if this amphibian aborigine is helpless on land, it's a rocket in the water. The toes on the hind legs are exceptionally long and have heavy webbing between them. One thrust and the frog goes skimming across the entire tank, with speed to spare.

Then there is a more advanced cousin, the California tree-climbing frog. It has adhesive pads on its toes and what seem to be steel springs in its legs.

About an inch long, it can jump 15 times its own length and easily climb the glass walls of its container.

Iowa City High Senior's Scholarship Finalist

An Iowa City high school senior, Margaret Lou Moeller, was named one of 20 finalists for three science scholarships having a maximum value of $3,200 each, at Rochester University, Rochester, New York, this week.

Miss Moeller, the daughter of Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the school of journalism, was chosen as a finalist from 900 high school science students. The three winners will be announced later.

The big frog measured 10 inches from nose to tail, weighed 2.2 pounds and is rood for 15 years of croaking. The Carolina variety is just one of the many types of frogs in the SUI zoology department. The hundreds of frogs, are used mostly in the department's "over-ripe" egg and egg "rafting" experiments.

Valparaiso Choir To Appear Here

Richard Schoenbohm will direct the Valparaiso university a cappella choir in a concert at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Methodist church.

Schoenbohm, a director of the choir from Valparaiso, Ind., for 16 years, is a former member of the Chicago Civic Opera company and choir director of the international Music camp, Interlochen, Mich.

He is the brother of W. B. Schoenbohm, director of the Iowa hospital school for severely handicapped children.

The choir has appeared in concerts in cities throughout the United States and broadcasts for the International Lutheran hour on Radio Luxembourg.

Try and Stop Me

ANTON GRIFFIS, ex-Ambassador to the Argentine, says that in the part of Maine he hails from, the natives are just born traders, and grow up "doin' what comes naturally" to them. For example, he tells of one farmer who spent the long winter fashioning wooden back-scratchers, and came to Boston in the spring with a wagonful to sell. He was laughed at for his pains. "Go back to your farm, you hick," laughed one trader. "Back-scratchers have been a drug on the market for twenty years."

That very afternoon, however, an Egyptian sahib, swathed in native raiment, came to the trader and said he was commissioned by his government to purchase a thousand back-scratchers. "Everybody is clamoring for them in Cairo," he explained. "I'll have 'em for you tomorrow," promised the amazed trader. He dug up the Maine farmer, who fortunately had parked his wagon right across the street, and purchased his entire supply of back-scratchers for a very fair sum.

Iowa Employment Up in March

During March, jobs were found for 8,563 persons by the Iowa State employment service for an increase of 30 percent over the February figure and 20 percent over March employment last year.

Shortages of various skilled workers were reported to the ISES as industry expanded under defense impetus.

Manufacturers Lead Manufacturing plants hired 2-23 workers of the 8,563 total. Food processing, including cereals, meat packing and produce plants, hired 69 workers. The manufacture of farm and other machinery including electrical appliances required 620 additional workers.

Wholesale and retail trade showed strength as 1,946 new workers were absorbed during the month. Interstate railroads hired 342 workers. Public utilities added 380 to their rolls and 1,768 service workers went to work in public eating and drinking places and in private households.

Contract construction and building operations required 433 additional workers. Job openings received by the employment service during the month numbered 9,716. The employment service was unable to fill 2,996 of these.

During March, the 39 local offices of the employment service received 2,824 initial claims for unemployment insurance benefits compared with 5,180 in March last year. Paid out in unemployment insurance benefits was $480,000, compared with $1,070,000 in the same month a year ago.

Cheadle Says Thanks—

Things in Roland must be quieting down finally after the state tournament. Anyhow Coach Buck Cheadle found the time to send out the season's statistics...

It was wonderful," Cheadle said. The statistics are wonderful in their own way too. They show that only one regular on the team hit less than 40 percent of his shots for the entire season.

Gary Thompson, the little kid who made such an impression on tournament fans, and Ralph Johnson were the team's most accurate shots with 41.3 percent.

The Rockets scored 1996 points in 36 games compared to a defensive average of 1193 so Roland won most of its games by a pretty safe margin.

When you get a look at the statistics it seems little wonder that the Rockets won 35 of 36 games and kept a perfect record until the last possible minute when Davenport whipped them in the finals of the state tournament.

The outstanding success of Roland in the tournament quieted some of the agitation, including our own, about revising the present tournament set-up. However, we still feel that this reform is necessary.

Even though Roland did get to the finals, the fact remains that five of the six class B entries in the meet were eliminated in the first round.

One of the major topics of conversation among sports writers in Iowa City to cover the meet was the desirability or undesirability of changing the present set-up to either throw all the teams together in the sectional or have three class champions. Most felt that a change was needed.

So do a majority of coaches according to a recent state-wide survey. And we believe most of the fans feel the same way.

If Jack Dittmer does as well in future years as Denver, Colo., fans think he will, he should be one of baseball's all time greats.

Jack, the former Iowa football and baseball star, has the whole hearted backing of Denver fans according to a story which ran recently in the Rocky Mountain News. It was written by Bob Collins, a former sports editor of The Daily Iowan.

Collins quotes several persons who saw Dittmer in spring training with the Boston Braves. Most of the things they had to say were very complimentary.

From most reports the Braves were impressed too but not sufficiently to keep them from sending Dittmer to Atlanta for further experience.

Boston has switched Jack from second base to third base and Dittmer seems to have acclimated himself without much trouble. Still second base is his favorite position "but that's probably because I know how to play it better," he said.

A look at Dittmer's record while playing for Denver of the Western League last season shows in part while the fans out there like him so much.

In 72 games for the Bears, Jack hit .373 with more than a fourth of his 95 hits going for extra bases. He was also high in the runs batted in column with .59.

When Jack joined Denver it was a club going no where fast in last place. When he left the Bears at the end of the season they were the warmest thing in the league and most fans credited no small part of this revival to the hustle and play of Dittmer.

Right now it looks like the New York Giants, favored by many to win the National league, are getting off to a start similar to last year's. Last season the Giants stumbled around for a while and then found themselves and started winning ball games like mad.

Through Sunday's games, New York had won only two and lost five. And if this wasn't enough for Leo Durocher to accept, three of the losses were to the hated Brooklyn Dodgers. And if this still wasn't enough, the manager administering the defeats was Charley Dressen, a former assistant of Durocher's.

Durocher is in a funny situation this season. If he wins the fans will probably give him part interest in the Polo Grounds. If he loses he might likely be paying his way to see the Giants play next year.

Finding a Quarterback No. 1 Football Problem

By RED BICKERS (First in a series on Iowa football prospects)

The No. 1 problem in Iowa's spring football practice is at quarterback.

No experienced men are available to direct an array of good backs at the half and fullback positions.

So unless a play-caller develops fast in the remaining weeks of spring training or is found among the now-eligible freshman group, the Hawks will have their backfield loaded with potentially strong runners but no driver to mesh the gears.

Glenn Drahn, the 1950 regular, has finished competition and the other quarterback with some experience, Fred Ruck, has been sent to end where his pass-catching will be effective.

Two other letterman quarterbacks are on the spring roster, Jim Sangster of Iowa City and Burt Britzmann of Hawarden. The list of backs at the other positions a good one. Leading it is United Press all-conference fullback, Bill Reichardt of Iowa City, who was leading ground gainer with a 4.2 average and top pass-receiver with 11 caught last season.

Behind Reichardt are Mike Riley and Jerry Nordman. Don Commack and Bernie Bennett are capable halfbacks, Chuck Denning, a fine line-backer, will get some offensive work when he takes over the punting. Joe Bristol is a defensive back and Duane Brandt, also defense, now is on the baseball squad.

Furillo's Single Beats Boston In 16 Innings, 2-1

BROOKLYN (AP) — Carl Furillo smashed a "sudden death" single in the 16th inning Monday to score Billy Cox from third base and give the Brooklyn Dodgers a 2-1 triumph over the Boston Braves in the longest game of the young 1951 season.

Furillo delivered with two out against Lefty Warren Spahn, who went the distance for the Braves.

Cox started the rally with a one-out single. He moved up on a sacrifice by Clyde King, third Brooklyn pitcher, and advanced to third when Gene Mauch booted pinch-hitter Ed Miksis' grounder.

Furillo, who broke up Sunday's game against the New York Giants with a tenth-inning homer, socked one of Spahn's serves against the right field scoreboard to decide the issue. The blow was Furillo's only hit of the game in seven trips.

The boxscore: Brooklyn AB H O Boston AB H O ... Furillo 1 1 2 ... Spahn 1 0 0 ... King 1 0 0 ...

CHICAGO (AP) — Andy Pafko hit one for the ladies Monday — a game winning two-bagger in the last of the ninth — to give the Chicago Cubs a 2-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Monday's win before a ladies day throng of 13,004 was the Cubs' fourth in five games this season.

The Cubs were able to get only five hits off Mel Queen, Pirate righthander. But one was Bill Serena's home run in the fifth.

The boxscore: Chicago AB H O PHIL AB H O ... Pafko 1 2 0 ... Serena 1 1 0 ...

14-State Alarm for Cage Fixer

NEW YORK (AP) — A 14-state alarm was issued Monday for the arrest of William Rivlin, convicted on a basketball game-fixing charge two years ago and now wanted in connection with the latest widespread court scandal.

Rivlin, 45, was indicted on a bribery charge late Monday afternoon along with Jack Goldsmith, 31-year-old former Long Island university star described by authorities as an "essential key" in the probe.

District Atty. Frank S. Hogan said Rivlin was present at several meetings of Goldsmith with former LIU players to discuss fixing of the LIU-Duquesne game Jan. 1, 1949.

Goldsmith was the 18th player or former player arrested in the spreading scandal.

Bosox Deny Story Dropt to Be Traded

BOSTON (AP) — If Walt Dropt, Red Sox first baseman currently warming the bench, is to be traded, officials of the Boston club say they know nothing about it.

Similar denials came from spokesmen for the Detroit Tigers and Philadelphia Athletics reportedly concerned in the three club deal.

The report (published in the Providence, R.I., Bulletin) had Dropt going to Philadelphia, Ferris Fain, A's first sacker, going to Detroit and one of the Tigers' three regular outfielders coming to Boston. The Detroit outfield currently is composed of Hoot Evers, Vic Wertz and Johnny Groth.

Dropt, 1950 American league rookie of the year, was benched Saturday after getting only one hit in a dozen times at bat.

Kampus Kapers Changes Face Of Macbride Hall Auditorium

Macbride auditorium will have a "new look" for the annual Kampus Kapers musical review, "Of All Things," which opens at 8 p.m. Wednesday and runs nightly through Saturday.

A false proscenium (the frame of the stage around the curtain opening) has been built to lesser width of the stage and to make it seem lower.

The stage curtain is being "dressed" for the show with a covering of white spangled gauze. This redecorating job is under the direction of Charles Brandon, A2, S. Louis, Mo., who designed and directed the construction of the scenery.

Constructed in sections, the proscenium was put together like a giant jigsaw puzzle after the pieces were placed in position on the Macbride stage. The large size, 16 by 32 feet, made the project one of the "big" jobs for Brandon's crew.

Eight modernistic sets were constructed for the show. These sets tend to be more comic backgrounds than realistic representations. They add to the light atmosphere and satirical theme of the musical review.

There will be 16 numbers in the two-hour show. Eight of these will be performed alternately in front of the curtain to keep the fast tempo demanded by the script and allow the necessary scenery changes.

Two movable 1000-watt spotlights will be used to supplement regular lighting. These will be used to highlight sections of the stage to draw audience attention to particular playing areas.

Dale Gould, A3, Elyria, Ohio, is in charge of overall lighting effects and special sound effects.

Senator Says AEC To Hold Experiment On Kwaja'lein Atoll

HONG KONG (U-P) — Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, (D-Wash.) said Monday that the atomic energy commission will carry out an "experiment of a military nature" on Kwaja'lein atoll in the Pacific within the next few days.

Magnuson refused to disclose the exact date and nature of the "experiment" but said he would go to Kwaja'lein after a three-day visit here, to witness it.

It is assumed, from the way Magnuson talked, that the experiment involved a test of a new atomic weapon.

Magnuson flew here from Formosa, where he conferred several times with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek of the Chinese Nationalist government. Before that he had visited Tokyo and the Korean front.

The senator, who is a member of the interstate and foreign commerce committee, came here to study among other things Hong Kong's trade with Communist China.

He said the United States is trying to tighten up its present embargo on exports to the Reds and commented that one American shipping company is the chief offender in continuing trade.

Magnuson spoke with high praise, both on his arrival here today and on his departure from Taipei, Formosa, on conditions in that island stronghold of the Nationalist government.

Pilots Black Ball Northwest's Planes, Association Claims

MINNEAPOLIS (U-P) — Northwest Airlines officials here were non-committal Monday about a statement by a pilots' association spokesman that the firm had grounded its Martin 202 planes because pilots refused to fly them.

Northwest Airlines said it had "no comment" if cared to make on the statement.

The spokesman for Council No. 1 of the Airlines Pilot association said the airlines grounded the planes March 9, just one day before the deadline set by pilots.

He said the pilots had first refused to fly the planes after Jan. 17, but agreed to a two-month extension after the company agreed to find replacements.

He said that after the company failed to find replacements, it grounded the planes. The company said it was taking the planes out of service for modifications recommended by the civil aeronautics administration.

Modifications have been underway on the planes at Holman field, St. Paul. The spokesman for the pilots said that the pilots hadn't committed themselves to flying the planes even after the CAA-recommended modifications are made. He said no decision has been made yet.

Five of the airlines' original fleet of 25 Martins have been involved in fatal crashes. They have been grounded several times for modifications.

In Washington Monday, the civil aeronautics board blamed a faulty propeller for the crash of one of the planes in which six persons died Oct. 13 at Almelund, Minn.

The dead included two Northwest pilots and four civil aeronautics administration employees. They were making an instrument check flight.

A CAB report said the probable cause of the crash was: "The unwanted reversal of the right propeller during flight as a result of which the crew was unable to maintain control of the aircraft."

Clinical Institute To Begin Today

About 90 out-of-state representatives are expected today for the institute on clinical teaching in medical and surgical nursing sponsored by the SUI college of nursing, and the Iowa league of nursing education.

Nurses from seven mid-western states will participate in the two-day conference. Prof. Amy Frances Brown, coordinator of medical and surgical nursing, and Dean Myrtle E. Kitchell, of the nursing college, will address the group.

Group and panel discussions, demonstrations of nursing techniques, and an educational skit will complete the program.

Joy Hardy Wins Divorce, Custody of 2 Children

Joy Hardy was granted a divorce Monday in district court from John Hardy, who she claimed deserted her and their two children.

She was granted custody of a three-year-old son and a two-year-old daughter. She said the defendant is now in the armed services.

The plaintiff said, the couple was married in Yankton, S. D., Dec. 2, 1946, and lived together until Oct. 4, 1948, when she claims her husband deserted her.

Open Hearings Against Reds Comintern Ruled U.S. Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government opened registration hearings against the Communist party Monday with testimony by a former Red leader that the Communist Internationale controlled the party in this country from 1919 to 1929.

Benjamin Gitlow, party secretary, told the hearing that the party was controlled by the Communist Internationale from 1919 to 1929. He said the party was controlled by the Communist Internationale from 1919 to 1929.

The Internationale or "Comintern," now officially dead, had its headquarters in Moscow and generally was believed to rule the activities of Communists in every country. Its work now has been taken over by the Cominform.

Lawyers for the Communists, headed by fiery former Rep. Vito Marcantonio of New York, promptly leveled objections to the procedure but quickly were overruled by the five-man board.

Board Chairman Seth W. Richardson made it plain at the outset that he will not tolerate the type of obstructionist activities that dragged out the trial of 11 Communist party leaders in New York for nearly a year.

The board is considering a justice department demand that the party be required to register as a "Communist action" group under the McCarran subversive control law passed over President Truman's veto last year.

City Teenagers' Art Included in Exhibit

Art work by seven Iowa City high school students is included in a traveling art show selected from the 21st annual Iowa high school art exhibit at the SUI art building.

The traveling show will be sent to various high schools during the school year. It is sponsored by the SUI extension division.

Students whose work was selected are Cynthia Johnson, City high school and Jerry Carey, Bob Davis, Bill Humphreys, William Nigg, Keith Stevens and Tony Womack, all of University high school.

Creative art work from 31 high schools was selected for the traveling show.

Selections were made on the basis of creativeness and experimentation shown in the individual works, and are not intended to represent winners of the art exhibit, Prof. Frank A. Wachowiak, SUI art department, emphasized.

Government Girls Get Frustrated, Bored Without Males, Night Life in Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — This town is filled with thousands of girls who come here to work for the government. They come from all over — from Meddybemps, Me., to Dinkey Creek, Calif.

And what happens to them once they get here? They become "lost, frightened, bored, pretty sad, frustrated."

This gloomy description of a government girl's fate comes from Phyllis Bell, who runs a charm school here.

Ideas and Food She tries to cram some ideas and some proper food into their interiors, and to remodel their exteriors. At so much a charm, of course.

Local charm schools got into the news recently as part of the backwash of the RFC hearings. The senate banking subcommittee questioned Rex Jacobs, a Detroit manufacturer. It came out that shortly before his marriage, his wife ran a charm school here.

Well, the committee decided charm schools had nothing to do with its hearing, and let the idea drop.

Miss Bell, whose school is not connected with the one which was run by Mrs. Jacobs, gave me the case history of one of her students.

"I won't use her name," she said, "but she came from the south and works for the state department.

"You should have seen her when she came to us. "For one thing, her clothes were dated. She wore skirts almost two inches too long. She still wore her hair almost to her shoulder."

I gave an appropriate gasp of horror, and Miss Bell plunged on. "Her colors were too loud, and, due to her diet, her skin was in bad condition."

"Furthermore, she acted too sweetly and appeared too artificial."

Hunt Ends As — Banana Lures Gorilla Back

HOT SPRINGS, ARK. (AP) — A short-lived "big game hunt" ended Monday where it began near Hot Springs.

"Tim," a 300-pound carnival gorilla, was lured back into his cage with a banana less than three hours after he spread alarm by escaping Monday afternoon into an enclosed 32 acre area near the resort city.

The 18-year-old gorilla, described as "very dangerous," made his get-away while being transferred from a truck cage to a show wagon.

Heavily armed sheriff's deputies quickly surrounded the compound fence with orders to shoot to kill if the animal attempted to scale the six-foot fence.

Show manager Paul Olson played to Tim's big appetite by having bananas and other gorilla delicacies placed in the animal's cage.

The big fellow came back to the cage and handlers edged him inside and that was all of Tim's brief fling. Later he was transferred to a new cage, which Olson said would hold five elephants.

The gorilla, in captivity only about one year, is part of a "monkey show" with the Hennies Brothers carnival which has its winter quarters near Hot Springs.

Moscow Orders Obedy: U.S. Red Party Founder

WASHINGTON (AP) — Benjamin Gitlow, one of the original organizers of the Communist party in the United States, testified Monday he knew of no instance of American Reds disobeying a directive from Moscow.

Further, he told the subversive activities control board that international Communism, with headquarters in Soviet Russia, put up $35,000 to help launch the Daily Worker as the official Communist organ in America in 1924.

Transit Shutdown Jams Detroit Traffic

DETROIT — The auto capitol of the world got a huge gulp of its own medicine Monday.

With a transit strike on, Detroiters rode to work in every available automobile, creating one of the worst traffic jams in city history.

Main arteries looked like the city's famed assembly lines. Automobiles, with irate motorists honking out their anguish, lined up bumper-to-bumper for blocks.

A drive to work that normally took 15 minutes took an hour to an hour and one-half. All but the very early found that once they got where they were going there was no place to park.

High School Gym Can Serve As Small Town 'Rec' Center

The high school gymnasium can be used by residents of small towns to add years of vitality to their lives.

This is the opinion of C. H. McCloy, research professor in physical education for men at SUI. He maintains that through exercise a person of sixty should have 85 percent as much vitality as one of 25.

Small town gyms offer residents more recreational facilities per person than gyms in larger cities.

"By using the gym regularly for community sports, nearly all people who want to take part in recreational exercise can be accommodated," he said.

In addition to school sports and physical education, the gym can be used for a businessmen's volleyball league, women's basketball games and other activities.

Even if the gym is kept busy from morning to night by students and townspeople, all interested groups should still be able to use it for two or three hours a week.

By contrast, most larger cities cannot provide nearly enough recreational facilities for their population. If half the adults from 18 to 45 wanted to engage in sports three times a week, many more facilities would be needed than are usually present.

McCloy said that for each 100,000 of the population, a community would need 60 golf courses, 4,000 tennis courts, 30 swimming pools, 200 gyms, 200 volleyball courts, 200 softball diamonds, 100 tracks, 50 soccer and football fields, and 50 baseball diamonds.

Even if people did want to take part in sports, he said, they are usually not interested enough to travel any distance to reach the facilities.

One reason for the lack of interest is that America has "gone competitive" according to McCloy. A person's interest in varsity sports is developed while he is in school, at the expense of sports which can be played after graduation.

Name Mary McTigue To Airlines Job

Mary Kathleen McTigue, Des Moines, 1950 graduate of SUI, has been assigned as a new United Air Lines stewardess at New York following her graduation from the Cheyenne, Wyo., stewardess school.

Miss McTigue was a member of Gamma Phi Beta, social sorority, freshman orientation leader, vocational conference hostess, Pan-Hellenic treasurer, and picture editor of Hawkeye while at SUI.

MOVIE STAR PROBE

— Movie tough guy John Garfield testified that he never was a member of the Communist party or its front organizations and urged congress to outlaw the party as protection for "outspoken Liberals."

He made the statement at a house un-American activities committee hearing during which it was disclosed that Hollywood gossip columnist Hedda Hopper will be subpoenaed to turn over the names of six movie colony Communists on whom she claims to have information.

WAR SURPLUS 'FIX'

— John Maragon, convicted perjurer and former White House hanger-on, testified that an American official investigating multi-million-dollar deals in U.S. war surplus was "taken care of" with luxurious dinners and a set of valuable English chinaware.

Maragon said he was told the gifts went to Travis Fletcher, former chief investigator for the U.S. foreign liquidation office. Fletcher now is investigation chief of the state department's security division.

NAZIS' APPEAL REFUSED

— The supreme court refused to hear the appeal of seven convicted Nazi war criminals, clearing the way for their execution on the gallows.

Two lower federal courts already had rejected the appeal of the seven former SS officers and concentration camp officials who were charged with murdering thousands of European civilians during World War II.

NOMINATION REJECTED

— President Truman withdrew the nomination of Mrs. Ireen L. Kennedy to be postmistress at Shell Lake, Wis. No reason was given for the action. The nomination originally was sent to the senate last Jan. 29.

SAWYER WINS DELAY

— Secretary of Commerce Sawyer and nine others won a delay in their contempt of court trial.

Before granting the postponement, a three-judge panel of the U.S. court of appeals brushed aside a series of motions filed by Attorney General McGrath.

These asked that (1) the three judges who brought the contempt charges disqualify themselves from further participation in the proceedings; (2) the case be transferred to the other six judges, and (3) the proceedings be suspended until the supreme court acts in the complex litigation for control of American President lines.

RUBBER REGULATIONS

— The government announced a 10 percent increase in allocations of rubber for many civilian goods in May.

But passenger car tires, garden hose, athletic goods, toys and a score of other products were excluded from the increase.

The increase will be devoted to truck and bus tires, industrial equipment, tractor tires, factory belting, shoe soles and other more essential items.
