Clean-Up Job Finished —Swimming Pool Opens Today

TWO SUI STUDENTS TUESDAY CLEANED the municipal swimming pool in City park in preparation for the pool's opening at 1 p.m. today. Bill Sorenson (left), A3, Dickens, and Dennis Lynch, A2, Des Moines, used a giant underwater vacuum sweeper to clean the bottom of the pool. Sorenson is holding the electric cord leading down to the sweeper and Lynch holds the helmet he used in operating the machine. The weatherman forecast fair and somewhat cooler weather with a high of 76 degrees for today. The pool will remain open daily from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. until Labor day. Admission prices will be 35 cents for adults and 15 cents for children and high school students. Towels and suits will be available to rent.

Ridgway Says Reds Suffered Major Defeat

TOKYO (WEDNESDAY) (AP) — The stand of the U.S. Second infantry division in Korea caused the enemy to suffer "a major, severe defeat," Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today.

Enemy prisoners captured since April 22 "approach 10,000," Ridgway told a news conference at his headquarters.

The supreme Allied commander returned to Tokyo this afternoon after a two-day visit to Korea. He immediately called the first news conference since he replaced General MacArthur.

He said that since the beginning of the Communist's abortive, double-barreled offensive this spring, the Eighth army has captured Red arms and equipment in quantities "exceeding many times" any taken in previous battles.

Ridgway referred to his statement as an informal "Memorial Day report to the American people" on the progress of the war in Korea, based on his latest talks with Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the Eighth army, and other battle leaders.

Ridgway said that despite their severe losses, the Communists still have the capacity for offensive action. He said the Reds could employ five Chinese armies "whose exact strength we don't know."

The general said there were several routes Communist armies could take in any further drive southward. But he said history as well as the experience of the Korean war pointed to three likely choices:

1. Along the Chorwon-Seoul and Kumhwa-Seoul roads.
2. Through the valleys to the east of Seoul.
3. Around the east end of the Hwachon reservoir down Korea's hilly central spine.

The U.S. general paid tribute to the "battle-seasoned, self-reliant" troops of the Eighth army, who he said form an international team unprecedented in history.

Ridgway said the Allied forces in Korea are fighting with determination and "mutual confidence" toward a common goal.

South Koreans Smash 26 Miles Along East Coast; Reds Dig In

No Iowan Thursday
The Daily Iowan will not be issued Thursday due to the Memorial day holiday. Publication will be resumed Friday.

Parade, Services To Feature City's Memorial Program

Iowa City will observe Memorial day today with a parade and seven other ceremonies.

At 9 a.m. the 27-unit parade will march from the Community building west on College street to Clinton street, then north to Church street and on to the Oakland cemetery.

Atty. Donald E. Borchart, Iowa City, will give the main address at a platform program scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. in the cemetery.

At 8:30 a.m. exercises in honor of the navy dead will be held on the Iowa avenue bridge. The American Legion will be in charge of services at the GAR lot in the Oakland cemetery.

Memorial services will be conducted at 9:50 a.m. at the Paul J. Pybril grave, southeast of the GAR lot. Final services of the day will be held at 11 a.m. at Memory Gardens with Atty. Robert Osmondson as the main speaker.

Iowa City swimmers will get their first chance of the spring when the Municipal swimming pool opens at 1 p.m. However, opening day swimmers may shiver a bit with cooler weather forecast for today. The mercury will probably get no higher than 76 degrees.

Iowa City's postoffice, the city hall and the Johnson county courthouse will be closed today in observance of Memorial day.

Postal officials said no city or rural mail deliveries will be made today. Special deliveries will be made, however, and there will be the usual holiday collection of mail.

Kefauver Blasts Truman's Policies

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said Tuesday President Truman's administration "had no vision, no star to hitch our wagon to" in the Korean war.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, on the other hand, made a deep impression on Americans because he had given "a plan and aim" for prosecuting the war, Kefauver said.

The Southern Democrat, former head of the U.S. senate crime committee, spoke at a New York luncheon.

It was reported that Mossadegh told Grady at the luncheon that Iran does not intend to seize the oil properties by force, but that he insisted Britain must turn over the Anglo-Iranian Oil company (AIOC) holdings to Iran.

Reliable sources said the Premier seemed to regard Grady as a "saviour" who could persuade the British to sign over the company's holdings.

UN Gains Continue

UN FORCES IN KOREA continued to push ahead Tuesday. The solid arrows show the main spots of Red resistance. On the east coast, South Korean troops punched into Kasong, 26 miles above the 38th parallel. A powerful Allied task force (1) attempted to link up with ROK troops 10 miles north of Inje. In Hwachon Reservoir area (2) South Koreans reached the south shore while Americans fanned out north, east and west of the captured city. American forces fought the Reds above Yonchon (3) along the western battleline.

'Vacationing' Pilot Flies Over North Pole

FAIRBANKS, ALASKA — Capt. Charles Blair landed at Ladd air force base at 3:29 p.m. (Iowa time) to complete the first flight over the North Pole in a single engine plane.

He made what he called a "very simple flight" from Bardu, Norway, to Fairbanks in 11 hours and 20 minutes.

No Trouble
The 41-year-old daredevil, who set a trans-Atlantic non-stop record of seven hours and 48 minutes with the same plane last January, said he encountered no serious trouble on the polar hop.

He said he hadn't eaten since taking off and was "going to get a steak and a good night's sleep."

He wobbled out of the plane, then let attendants take it to a hangar for a checkup before Blair continues to New York City.

Nothing But Ice
"There's nothing up in that country but ice, snow and clouds. It's a funny thing. I left Norway at 4 in the afternoon of May 28, local time, and I arrived here at 3:29 p.m. local time on the same day. I gained 31 minutes up there someplace. I guess."

He planned to remain here Tuesday night and leave for New York today. He was due back to work today in New York after a two-week vacation.

Air Mail Service
Blair's wife, Janice, and two children, Christopher, 14 months, and Suzanne, 17, live in Port Washington, N.Y.

Blair inaugurated the first polar air mail service on his flight. He carried 3,000 letters to be auctioned on his arrival in New York to aid the Damon Runyon cancer fund.

Yanks' Drive Stopped in Fierce Combat

(From the Wire Services)
TOKYO, (WEDNESDAY) — South Korean troops rammed 26 miles inside Red Korea Tuesday on the east coast. Virtually unopposed, they rolled into the key town of Kansong on the Sea of Japan highway for the deepest thrust of the new all-out Allied offensive.

Elsewhere along the 125-mile battlefield, Chinese-Korean Red forces had checked their headlong flight and were making stubborn defensive stands.

An American drive toward Kansong from Inje, 26 miles to the southwest, was halted by fiercely-fighting defenders. A few miles west, other Red rearguards slowed the U.S. advance toward Yanggu in fierce hand-to-hand fighting.

The heaviest mortar concentration the Reds have assembled since they began their recent retreat rained high explosive on the Yanks who were trying to cut off Communist forces below the Hwachon reservoir from their Yanggu escape route.

The Americans gained only about a mile during the day, to a point about four miles from the hotly-contested town.

The Reds also were fighting savagely in the Hwachon area, at the western end of the reservoir, but they were paying heavily for their stubborn stand.

United Press Correspondent Richard Applegate reported from the Hwachon front that one U.S. division killed 685 Communists Tuesday and captured 133.

Artillery spotters reported that two Communist truck convoys, with headlights burning, moved into the Yanggu area last night, and an Eighth army briefing officer said the Reds apparently were attempting "reinforce holding forces in the area."

Farther west, 105-MM howitzers opened fire on Allied tank columns moving on Yonchon, six and a half miles north of the parallel.

Night-flying Allied pilots reported "extremely heavy road traffic" just behind the Communist lines, and it appeared that the Reds were preparing to fight to death to protect their vital buildup area in central Korea.

The big Allied task force fighting along the Inje-Kansong road on the east-central front was halted about 20 miles from its goal of a link-up with South Korean forces on the Sea of Japan.

A field dispatch said the South Korean troops pushed up the east coast road almost without opposition. Kansong is roughly one-fourth the airline distance from the border to Wonsan, big Red Korean port which the Allies have shelled every day for more than three months.

His chief opponent is Premier John A. Costello, leader of the coalition government, who is asking for a new mandate.

Control Of Russian Skies Vital In War: Vandenberg

(From the Wire Services)
WASHINGTON — Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg declared Tuesday the United States must build a huge air force which in war can smash Russian industrial centers and at the same time destroy the Soviet air force with swift blows.

The air force chief of staff warned senators the present pace of building air power will not be enough on some future "tomorrow" when Russia builds up her long range air force and atomic stockpile.

He took sharp issue with Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson on Wilson's contention that the U.S. will have a reasonable margin of security against Russia by 1953.

Defense Program "Weak"
In a solemn warning to the senate committee investigating Gen. Douglas MacArthur's ouster, he said weaknesses in the present defense program raise a serious question of whether "time is on our side."

Vandenberg characterized the current mobilization program as "30 percent guns and 70 percent butter."

Top administration officials, including Wilson, have asserted that time is on the side of the West in the current arms race with Russia, and that by 1953 this country will be so strong the Soviet Union will not dare to attack it.

But Vandenberg criticized the slow buildup of air strength, both before the Korean war began last year and now.

"Shoestring" Airforce
If the nation had possessed an air force of "proper size" instead of a "shoestring" force, he said there was an "excellent chance" that the Chinese Communists never would have entered the Korean war.

And if they did, he added, the United Nations forces would have been able to follow MacArthur's plan for bombing Manchurian bases without leaving this country "naked" in the face of an aggressive world.

He said there are signs that a "bit more rosy outlook" in Korea would start this country demobilizing or lowering its military sights, although the world situation would remain just as "explosive."

Congress Has Delayed
He said there also have been some delays in congressional approval of public works money which slowed air force recruiting and training of needed men. He told of a "slippage" in aircraft production partly due to difficulty in getting raw materials and parts.

Dealer Offers Steal — Gets Taker

SPOKANE, WASH. (AP) — A motor company Tuesday advertised a 1951 automobile — "A steal for $2,675." The newspaper was out at 11:30 a.m.

Safe Driving Habits Help Preserve Lives

DES MOINES (AP) — Neither a weaver nor a laggard be — in today's traffic.

Remember it's a holiday and your neighbors, friends and others will be on the roads — by the thousands.

State highway authorities offer this advice to motorists:
Drive with the traffic; not so fast that you weave in and out of your lane in passing others, nor so slow that others are tempted to take chances in passing you. Adjust your speed to that of other drivers.

Winter was unusually severe on highways. Some roads are badly damaged. Allow yourself extra time for possible delays.

Nation's Civil Payroll Exceeds $8.3-Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal civilian payroll now probably exceeds the $8.3-billion annual rate reached at the World War II peak, a congressional committee reported Tuesday.

The group is the joint committee on reduction of nonessential expenditures headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.).
It said the payroll cost in March, latest month for which figures are available, was $693,235,000. This converts to an annual rate of $8.3-billion, which was the all-time record set in the war.

The government continued to add employees at a rate of 1,500 a day in April, indicating that the cost has exceeded the record by now, the committee said.
On May 1, there were 2,409,121 employees on the federal payroll as compared with an average of about 3.5-million at the peak of World War II.
The higher cost is explained by federal pay raises since 1945, the Byrd committee said.

Evva Peron Describes Husband As 'God'
BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Senora Eva Peron Tuesday described her husband President Juan D. Peron as "God," when speaking to a group of 400 Japanese residents who called at the government house asking Peron to accept reelection next year.

"There would be no Eva Peron without Peron, but Peron could exist without Evva or anyone else... he is God for us, so much so we cannot conceive heaven without Peron... he is our sun, our air, our water, our life... there can only be one Peron," she said.

Allied Task Force Runs Gauntlet of Fire into North Korea

The operation started last Thursday when the task force of tanks and supporting infantry barreled up the Hwachon-Inje road.

The task force had to fight its way through four miles of enemy roadblocks and ambushes before reaching the south bank of the Choyang river. The Reds were fighting desperately to keep the route open for their own retreat.

The task force battled its way over a steep mountain pass and down into Inje — four miles north of the 38th parallel.
The going was rough all the way. The Reds were well armed.

Some carried American weapons captured in their last offensive.
Loss Six Tanks
Six tanks were knocked out by bazookas shooting down from a sharp bluff overlooking the road.

Tank guns pounded those emplacements to assist sweating GI's who slowly worked their way up to the top. After a four-hour battle the hill was in friendly hands.

Back down the road American engineers built a ponton bridge across the Choyang river for the trucks and jeeps to cross.
On Saturday morning, the main body of the "flying" column formed along the road near Hangye. Groups of men sat around fires in a steady rain and sweated out the operation ahead.

At 1:00 p.m. the column finally began moving. Exactly 10 hours later the trucks and jeeps crawled into a bivouac area on the north bank of the Choyang.

Road Caves In
Later the convoy swept down the road once again. Shortly it came to a stop. The road had caved in on a curve.
At dawn Sunday the column reached Inje. The tanks and infantry of the task force were battling to gain control of the high ground along the road leading to Kansong.

Books and Bullets —

Cold weather may not be an appropriate subject on a day in May. But a speech we heard Monday by a veteran of the Korean war reminded us again as we approached this Memorial day of the suffering with which the men in Korea live.

Capt. Frank Tallman, who served seven and one-half months in the front lines in Korea, told the Kiwanis club members how the weather cut his unit from a strength of 205 men to about 100.

This occurred during the period last winter when we were reading dispatches describing men living in 37-below-zero weather.

During this one-day respite from finals today, most of us can look back over the past winter and shudder with some degree of justification. There were times, too, this spring when we wondered if we were scheduled to go from one winter to the next without a period of pleasant weather. Twenty-six inches of snow in March!

And there were days when we wondered if the mercury was going to crack the bottom of the thermometer. Walking from one building to the next through the cold made noses and ears tingle.

Warm weather is here at last. The campus has taken on color again. And although many of us dread the tests which still lie ahead, the semester soon will be over; we'll be heading for homes or vacations; many will receive congratulations on graduation, and the worries of studies will seem much less significant as they become mere memories.

But there's little relief toward which the men in Korea can look forward today. Rotation? Perhaps. End of hostilities? Only an ill-founded rumor so far.

As we picnic or celebrate today, more with the elated anticipation of the end of school than in honor of the war dead, it will be difficult to believe that men are dying or facing death in Korea, thousands of miles from the SUI campus.

But thousands of them will be doing so — in exasperating mud or eye-stinging and nostril-irritating dust.

This, along with Captain Tallman's reminder of how he and his men lived in 37-below-zero temperatures, makes our complaints about finals and the hard winter we endured appear pretty unimportant this Memorial day.

Last winter we at least returned to warm buildings for the nights. But nights offered no respite for the men in Korea — they only promised attacks in addition to the cold.

Sweating out finals today is far better than sweating out a bullet with our name on it.

3-Dimension Movies Reported Possible

HOLLYWOOD — Three-dimension season is in bloom in Hollywood again, and this time a company claims it's all set up to make those triple-sided movies.

About once a year some inventor or announcer has licked the problem of photographing picture profiles in three dimensions.

Technical experts say "at least 60" three-dimension movie plans have floated through movievictoria during the last three years. None ever figured out a way so you can see the curve on Lana Turner without wearing special spectacles.

Now the "natural vision corporation" has unveiled to the press its three-dimension movie system. You have to wear polaroid glasses to see these pictures, too.

"We are ready to lease our three-dimension camera equipment to any movie studio," explained ex-screen writer M. L. Gunzburg, company president.

"We are prepared to shoot the first color movie in three dimension if nobody else does. Hollywood could convert to three-dimension tomorrow."

Via his system, two regular movie cameras shoot the action that's reflected on mirrors inside the camera case. Gunzburg claims his system shows the scene "in parallax," or two images focused as one, as the human eyes do.

MGM released some Pete Smith short subjects in three-dimensions several years ago. You had to wear red-and-green glasses to see those.

"They could be filmed only in black-and-white and we can shoot in color," Gunzburg said. "Also those early systems had your eyes focusing on infinity, so to speak, and caused eye strain. Many viewers became ill."

When you take off the polaroid specs, the movie looks slightly out of focus. Or, as one newsman quipped, "Just like television."

According to a book by Douglas Vogt, "Stereoscopic Cinema," the Russians have been getting their love stories in three dimensions for a couple of years. They don't have to wear special glasses either. The system involves prisms.

"It's never been used in this country because it's too expensive," explains an expert at the Motion Picture Research council.

New Rifle

Fires 22 Times Without Reloading

WASHINGTON — The government is busy piecing together a new automatic rifle which is rumored to be able to do almost everything but pick up the cigaret butts outside the tents.

This new implement of war one day may supplant the Garand rifle, which helped us win World War II. How it works still is something of a secret.

Weights 6½ Pounds

Weighing only six and one-half pounds — two and a half pounds less than the Garand — it can fire 22 times without stopping to re-load. The Garand is only an eight-shot automatic.

Compare the performance of the new weapon to the one used by the boys in 1776. The men of Gen. Washington's army used flintlocks or firelocks — and had to buy their own. The government had no funds to spend on weapons in those days.

The guns of that period were a little rough for a volunteer to lug around. A flintlock weighed 17 pounds and was awkward. It was seven feet long and when fired had a kick like a hopped-up mule.

13 Orders

Col. William Addeman Ganoe tells in a book called "History of The U.S. Army" about how difficult it was to send a shot through the barrel. A modern soldier only has to sight the target and flex his trigger finger but it took 19 separate motions and 13 orders to fire the old-time rifle.

Colonel Ganoe reports that by the time of the Mexican war, our army had come up to the single shot breechloaders which could be set off without a classroom lecture. During the Civil war our fellows had repeaters — guns which could fire more than one shot without reloading.

During a couple of the Indian wars, the American infantryman found himself at a disadvantage because the Indians had more wampum to buy repeater weapons. Our boys carried single shot rifles, unless they could save enough out of their pay ($15 a month) to buy a repeater with ammunition to match.

One of the best guns we've ever produced is the 1906 Springfield which holds a five-cartridge clip. Even at this writing it never has been surpassed for accuracy at long range.

Our marines still think it is the best in the business for sharpshooting and the leathernecks proved their point during World War II. But rifles are rifles. And the services still say that a gun is no better than the man behind it.

Waukon Soldier Says Wife's Affections Lost

WAUKON — Pvt. Clarence Klemme, who rushed to his wife's bedside after she was critically wounded in a family shooting charged Tuesday that her affections have been stolen.

Klemme, stationed at Camp Pickett, Va., filed a $10,000 alienation of affections suit against Paul Williamson, formerly of Missouri who now is working in the Cedar Rapids area.

Klemme's suit alleges his wife, Darlene, 17, had a "friendship" with Williamson and was driving Williamson's car the night she was shot by her father-in-law, Arthur Klemme, 51.

Population Lineup Of Red Countries

NEW YORK (P) — More than a half billion people have come under the domination of the Soviet brand of communism since the end of World War II, and with the capitulation of Tibet to Communist China, Soviet communism now dominates an area outside the Soviet Union of about 4-million square miles.

With the Soviet Union's 8.7-million square miles and its population of roughly 200-million, Stalinist communism dominates 12.7-million of the earth's 58-million square miles of land mass, and roughly 750-million of the earth's 2.3-billion people.

The lineup:

Country	Population	Area (Sq. Mi.)
Tibet	3,000,000	470,000
China	450,000,000	3,032,000
North Korea	8,000,000	48,500
Vietminh (Northern Indo-China)	—	—
East Germany	18,000,000	41,400
Poland	23,000,000	121,000
Hungary	10,000,000	36,000
Romania	17,000,000	91,600
Bulgaria	7,000,000	42,800
Albania	1,150,000	10,600
Czechoslovakia	12,500,000	49,300
Totals	549,650,000	3,943,000

(Not included in this list is Yugoslavia which, while still Communist, has broken away from Moscow domination. Yugoslavia's population is 15,750,000; its area about 100,000 square miles.)

Scrap Shortage Cuts German Metal Sales

FRANKFURT, GERMANY — Germany, which was converted into "the world's biggest junk yard" by the mountains of scrap metal left in the wake of World War II, faced a critical shortage of scrap today for her rapidly expanding steel industry and to meet export orders.

Hermann Adloss, chairman of the German scrap association said that the demand for scrap has spiraled to such an extent, and available supplies have been so denuded in the world arms race, that "orders now on hand are sufficient to consume Germany's normal potential scrap production for the next 40 years."

"The German scrap potential has decreased to such an extent," he said, "that a critical raw material crisis must be expected in domestic steel production in the foreseeable future."

Present German scrap production is able to meet only 70 percent of the 450,000 tons monthly demand of German mills.

The Bonn government, alarmed by the drain on German scrap — particularly since the outbreak of the Korean war — has ordered that not more than 15 percent of the scrap available to German mills may be sold for export.

Europe-Bound GIs Pass in Review

IT WAS EYES LEFT as soldiers of the eighth infantry regimental combat team of the fourth infantry division swung past a reviewing stand at New York's city hall during bon voyage ceremonies and parade. Five thousand of the foot soldiers sailed for Europe to join Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's European defense command.

30 Years Ago America Buried Her Dead

(Editor's note: Thirty years ago, America buried her unknown soldier, hoping there would be no more occasion for such ceremonies. A member of the Associated Press Washington staff, Kirke L. Simpson, caught the spirit of that occasion with a series of stories that gained world-wide acclaim. On this Memorial day, we reproduce below the major portion of the story that gained a Pulitzer prize for Simpson.)

WASHINGTON, NOV. 11, 1921 (P) — Under the wide and starry skies of his own home-land America's unknown dead from France sleeps tonight, a soldier home from the wars.

Alone, he lies in the narrow cell of stone that guards his body, but his soul has entered into the spirit that is America. Wherever liberty is held close in men's hearts, the honor and the glory and the pledge of high endeavor poured out over this nameless one of fame, will be told and sung by Americans for all time.

Scrolled across the marble arch of the memorial raised to American soldier and sailor dead, everywhere, which stands like a monument behind his tomb, runs this legend. "We here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain."

The words were spoken by the martyred Lincoln over the dead at Gettysburg. And today with voice strong with determination and ringing with deep emotion, another president echoed that high resolve over the coffin of the soldier who died for the flag in France.

Great men in the world's affairs heard that high purpose reiterated by the men who stand at the head of the American people. Tomorrow they will gather in the city that stands almost in the shadow of the new American shrine of liberty dedicated today. They will talk of peace, and of the curbing of the havoc of war.

They will speak of the war in France, that robbed this soldier of life and name and brought death to comrades of all nations by the hundreds of thousands. And in their ears when they meet tonight President Harding's declaration today beside that flag-wrapped, honor-laden bier:

"There must be, there shall be, the commanding voice of a conscious civilization against armed warfare."

All day long the nation poured out its heart in pride and glory for the nameless American. Before the first crash of the minute guns roared its knell for the dead from the shadow of the Washington monument, the people who claim him as their own were trooping out to do him honor. They lined the long road from the Capitol to the hillside where he sleeps tonight; they flowed like a tide over the slopes about his burial place. They choked the bridges that lead across the river to the Fields of the Brave, in which he is the last comrade.

Soldiers, sailors and marines — all played their part in the thrilling spectacle as the cotege rolled along. And just behind the casket, with its faded French flowers on the draped flag, walked the president, the chosen leader of a hundred million, in whose name he was chief mourner at his bier. Beside him strode the man under whom the fallen hero had lived and died in France, Gen. John J. Pershing.

Hawkeye Quality . . .

TO THE EDITOR: Because I feel that my views are similar to those of many other students, I would like to express those sentiments on the following topic: QUALITY.

Somewhere, I have run across the idea that this year's Hawkeye is one of the largest and best ever produced. Perhaps it well deserves the right to claim these distinctions, but I'm wondering what standard of quality is used in the comparison.

It is better because it presents more pictures of fraternity life? At this point, I will present a few facts. Of the 9,000 students at SUI, there are 1,500 living in fraternity row. However, the Hawkeye devoted 71 pages to this minority group, and only twenty-six pages to the rest of the students, who constitute a vast majority.

Now I realize it would be "impossible" to present the pictures of all the students of Currier, Quad, or some of the other dormitories. It would take up much too much space. However, it is essential that there be individual pictures of each fraternity and sorority, since they represent the "highest" type of social life at SUI.

Perhaps this is the reason all students clamored to get their copy of this fraternity annual "as soon as possible." Who would allow a book which possessed quality such as this to collect dust on a shelf. Robert Ciszewski, A3 503 S. Johnson street wearing only the single Medal of Victory that every American soldier might wear as his only decoration.

Behind came the carriage in which rode Woodrow Wilson, also stricken down by infirmities as he served in the highest place of the nation, just as the humble private riding in such state ahead had gone down before a shell or bullet. For that dead man's sake, the former president had put aside his dread of seeming to parade his physical weakness and risked health, perhaps life, to appear among the mourners for the fallen.

After President Harding and most of the high dignitaries of the government had turned aside at the White House, the procession, headed by its solid blocks of soldiery and the battalions of sailor comrades, moved on with Pershing, now flanked by secretaries Weeks and Denby, for the long road to the tomb.

Ahead, the white marble of the amphitheater glared through the trees. People in thousands were moving about the great circle. Down below the platform placed for the casket, in a stone vault, lay wreaths and garlands. Above the platform gathered men whose names ring through history — Briand, Foch, Beatty, Balfour, Jacques, Diaz and others — in a brilliant array of place and power. They were followed by others, Baron Kato from Japan, the Italian statesman and officers, by the notables from all countries gathered here for tomorrow's conference and by some of the older figures in American life too old to walk beside the approaching funeral train.

At the arch where the choir waited the heroic dead, comrades lifted his casket down and, followed by the generals and the admirals, who had walked beside him from the Capitol, he was carried to the place of honor. Ahead moved the white-robed singers, chanting solemnly. Carefully the casket was placed above the banked flowers and the marine band played sacred melodies until the moment the President and Mrs. Harding stepped to their places beside the casket.

Mr. Harding showed strong emotion as his lips formed the last words of the address. He paused, then with raised hand and head bowed, went on in the measured, rolling period of the Lord's Prayer. The response that came back to him from the thousands he faced, from the other thousands out over the slopes beyond, across like a chain. The marble arches hummed with the solemn sound.

Then the foreign officers who stand highest among the soldiers or sailors of their flags came out one by one to the bier to place gold and jeweled emblems for the brave above the breast of the sleeper. Already, as the great prayer ended, the president had set the American seal of admiration for the valiant, the nation's love for brave deeds and the courage that defies death, upon the casket. Side by side he laid the Medal of Honor and the Distinguished Service Cross.

The casket, with its weight of honors was lowered into the crypt. A rocking blast of gunfire rang from the woods. The glittering circle of bayonets stiffened to a salute to the dead. Again the guns shouted their message of honor and farewell. Again they boomed out; a loyal comrade was being laid to his last, long rest.

High and clear and true in the echoes of the guns, a bugle lifted the old, old notes of taps, the lullaby for the living soldier, in death his requiem. Long ago some forgotten soldier poet caught its meaning clear and set it down that soldiers everywhere might know its message as they sing to rest:

"Fades the light:
"And afar
"Goeth day, cometh night,
"And a star,
"Leadeth all, speedeth all,
"To their rest."
The guns roared out again in the national salute. He was home, the Unknown, to sleep forever among his own.

France, Germany Ask West Europe Capital

BONN, GERMANY — France and Germany have opened a vigorous campaign for the establishment of a European "District of Columbia" to house the six-nation Schuman plan executive organizations, it was learned Tuesday.

The two neighboring nations have suggested to their four partners in the Schuman plan area that this first real European territory be created at Strasbourg and Kehl, French and German twin cities flanking the Rhine river.

Books and Pleasanter Thoughts

(Daily Iowan Montage by Carl Turk)

THE THOUGHTS OF AN SUI STUDENT studying for final exams, Jim Deinema, Al. Canton, S. Daz., wandered Tuesday from his books to lakeside and Sally Adler, A3, Winnetka, Ill. For Jim, it was a short spell of getting away from the reality of final exam week at SUI. Finals started Tuesday morning for students in the colleges of commerce, education, engineering, liberal arts and the graduate college. They will last through June 6.

Marshall Blames Inflation For 'Bite' in War Production

WASHINGTON (UP) — Defense Sec. George C. Marshall said Tuesday that inflation has taken a $7-billion "bite" out of the $35-billion voted by congress for military supplies in the current fiscal year.

"The loss of guns, tanks and planes through creeping inflation is just as damaging as if they had been destroyed or captured by an invisible enemy," he told the senate banking committee. "In either case, it is the nation that suffers."

Marshall appeared in support of President Truman's request for a two-year extension of a strengthened defense production act under which the government sets up and administers economic controls, including wage-price curbs.

The request is facing hard going in congress and there have been predictions the President will have to settle for a simple 90-day extension of the present law. This would give congressmen time to sound out voters back home and see what develops.

"Marshall said, however, that the need for the law is even more acute now than when the original act was passed last year after the outbreak of the Korean war.

Other economic developments:

1. The agriculture department reported that average farm prices declined a little more than one percent in the month ending May 15. While it was the third consecutive monthly drop, officials said it was seasonal and said consumers could expect moderate upturns later this year. Average farm prices still are 24 percent above last year.

2. Spokesmen for organized dairy farmers and the cotton textile industry urged congress to let wage-price controls die. They said the program "stultifies production, accentuates scarcities and destroys incentives." Their view was that inflation can be licked by reducing federal spending, adjusting taxes and tightening credit controls.

3. Members of a house labor subcommittee sharply questioned the wage stabilization board's authority over non-wage disputes. They won a promise from WSB Char. George W. Taylor that the board will consider only disputes labelled vital by the President or brought to its attention by mutual agreement of management and labor.

4. Price Director Michael V. DiSalle's agency removed whiskey and wines from under the general price freeze, allowing some price increases by permitting the addition of higher costs of production.

Dean House Changed Into Children's Unit

Residents of Dean house, SUI women students' cooperative housing unit, will vacate their quarters this summer in favor of a group of children.

During the summer, the Iowa child welfare research station will transform Dean house into a preschool examination and testing unit.

The move will enable children and their teachers to travel from the present housing unit to the examination center without crossing busy Market street, as they must do now.

The present building is a converted private residence. It will be closed when moving is completed.

Boxing Champion Gets Jail Term

CEDAR RAPIDS (P) — Sammy P. S. 19, Cedar Rapids boxer and boxer champion, Monday was sentenced to 30 days in jail on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Peters was accused of keeping a teen-age girl out most of one night and giving her beer.

District Judge Floyd Philbrick passed sentence. County Attorney William Glasgow said the girl allegedly is one of two girls who stole a car in Dubuque last week.

Pollard, Korean Vet, To Arrive Here Soon

M/Sgt. Martin A. Pollard, 24 W. Harrison street, is among 18 Iowans returning from the Korean campaign in accordance with the army rotation program.

He is scheduled to arrive home this week, following disembarkation from the USNS General Howze at San Francisco May 21.

TRIPLE-TIME PAY

CHARLES CITY (P) — Triple-time pay for holidays and 15-cent hourly wage boosts will be asked by Oliver corporation employees in wage talks opening Thursday. Charles W. Hobbie, international representative of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, said Tuesday.

Discovery 'X' May Advance Treatment For Tuberculosis

CHICAGO (P) — A natural "X" substance in human bodies that halts the growth of TB germs was described Tuesday to the Society of American Bacteriologists.

The material, as yet unnamed, was found and purified by Dr. Rene J. Dubos, Dr. J. G. Hirsch, and W. B. Schaefer of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, New York City.

It may be a main explanation for a big puzzle about tuberculosis — why more people don't get sick with it. By adult life, from 50 to 90 percent of people in cities show signs of having been invaded by TB germ. But relatively few become actively sick. The spread of the germs is checked in their bodies.

The "X" material possibly increases resistance of the infection, Dubos said. In test tubes, it halted the growth of tuberculosis germs. The substance is found in human and animal lungs, lymph glands, kidneys and spleens, with very much less of it in the lungs than other organs. It possibly is carried by white blood cells to the site of the TB infection, and released there to combat the germs, he said.

The "X" stuff can be obtained relatively easily from beef kidneys and spleens. Studies to determine its possible usefulness are underway.

Professor Moehlman To Study in Paris

Professor Moehlman Awarded Fulbright Grant

An award for a year of research and study in France has been made to Prof. Arthur H. Moehlman, of the college of education.

Granted by the board of foreign scholarships under the federal government's Fulbright act, the award is for research to be conducted at the Sorbonne (University of Paris) during the 1951-52 academic year.

The award would enable Moehlman to continue research in the philosophy and history of education, fields which he now teaches in the college of education. He would study the effects of universal education under the French nationally-centralized system.

His award as research scholar is of the highest type granted under the Fulbright act.

Moehlman studied in Switzerland in 1928-29, and in 1936 made a field survey of European education. During World War II he served in military intelligence in both Europe and Asia, and was American demobilization representative at the Potsdam conference. He worked in future planning with French officials through supreme headquarters and the American control council for Germany.

Prior to his World War II service Moehlman taught at the Universities of Michigan and Ohio State. He edited the periodical "Our Times". In 1946 he came to SUI.

FCC Head Claims No Government Bars To TV Advances

WASHINGTON (P) — If anybody comes up with a new development in color television the door is still open for him. The chairman of the federal communications commission said Tuesday; the commission won't and can't put any bars in his way.

The FCC head, Wayne Coy, made that comment in discussing the supreme court decision upholding the FCC's choice of CBS color TV.

Coy suggested that a black and white receiver, as is, may be worth living room space for quite a while yet. He advanced two reasons:

1. There is likely to be quite a wait before there are color sets for general replacement, before converters are available on a large scale to get color TV on existing sets, or for that matter, before there is much to see in rainbow hues.

2. There won't be much pressure to get the new rig to keep up with the Joneses because Jones is likely to take his time about the shift.

Coy outlined the prospects in testimony as the senate commerce committee held a hearing on his nomination for a new seven-year term on the FCC, preparatory to acting on the appointment June 13.

ARREST TEEN-AGERS

Iowa City police Tuesday arrested two teen-age boys from Cedar Rapids after the boys attempted to sell used batteries to an Iowa City car dealer.

Special Art Class Set for Children

A special six-week summer class in art for children from six to 12 years of age will be held in the University experimental school starting June 18.

The class will meet Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from one to three p.m., under the direction of Harold Swenson. Special emphasis will be on individual instruction.

Parents interested in having their children enroll are asked to contact the University elementary school, extension 2523.

Cancer Dooms Beauty Queen

18-Year-Old Betty Hopes to Graduate and Be with Boyfriend

ATLANTA (UP) — A message of doom and a message of love evened things up Tuesday for brave Betty Thompson, 18.

The first message came from her doctors: the cancer that was in her leg has spread to her lungs. There is not much doctors can do but she wanted the truth.

The second message came from Tom Amburn, aviation machinist mate at the Norfolk, Va., naval air station.

"Tell Betty I love her. Say I'm thinking about her all the time." "I am sorry to cause my parents such concern and grief," Betty said. "I am not afraid to die."

The only change she would have made in her life, if she had known about her true condition earlier, Betty said, would have been to "hurry up my wedding with Tom."

Betty was ill before she met and fell in love with Tom, 19. She had suffered the amputation of a leg two years ago to check the cancer.

Tom spent his leave last January with Betty's next door neighbor because it was too distant to his Sioux Falls, S. D., home.

"Right now, I'm mostly anxious to get to Atlantic for Betty's graduation," the youth reported from Norfolk.

Betty will graduate June 5 from Russell high. The high school beauty queen hopes to attend the exercises, but if she can't, Principal L. L. Deck will take her diploma to her home.

Despite frequent confinement Betty has made good grades and served as junior chairman of the Georgia division of the American cancer society.

In a letter she wrote for the cancer crusade, Betty said that "when you are sick, you have a lot of time to think about the real things that are important in life."

The cancer society has named a special committee to make Betty's days easier and start here a fund.

But Betty asked only for Tom's love and for "people to pray for me."

"The doctor told me to 'keep on living and praying' and that's what I intend to do."

Legal Fraternity Elects New Officers

Donald Callahan, L3, Cedar Rapids, has been elected president of Delta Theta Phi, professional legal fraternity, for the 1951-52 school year.

Other officers elected were Denmar Cope, L1, Davenport, vice-president; Paul James, L3, Des Moines, treasurer; Donald Newbrough, L1, Eagle Grove, secretary; Joe Leo, L1, Oelwein, master of the ritual; John Brake, L1, Sioux City, bailiff; Edward Eckerman, L1, Spencer, corresponding secretary; Robert Claypool, L3, Williamsburg, and William Bently, L1, Chicago, representatives to the Iowa Law Students association.

Recent initiates include Brake, Callahan, Cope, Eckerman, James, Leo, Newbrough, Reilly, Orrin Stribley, L1, Davenport; Carl Goetz, L3, Iowa City; David Hotchkin, L1, Kellogg; Eugene Marlett, L1, Keokuk; William McConville, L1, Knoxville; Edward Arenz, L1, Primghar; James Nettleton, L3, Sioux City; D.W. APPOINT SUPERVISOR DES MOINES (P) — Jessie M. Parker, state superintendent of public instruction, announced the appointment Tuesday of Virgil S. Lagomargino, Anamosa, as a supervisor in her department. Lagomargino will assume his new duties June 1.

Truman Vacations On 5-Day Cruise

ABOARD VAGABONDONA III (P) — President Truman sailed on the yacht Williamsburg Tuesday for a five-day cruise in the waters of Chesapeake bay and the Potomac river.

It was the first holiday for the President since his visit to Key West, Fla., in March.

Aides said Mr. Truman has been under terrific pressure ever since the ousting of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and that he needed the rest.

As shipmates, Mr. Truman took along 10 of his top White House staffers.

The President planned to do considerable work on the trip.

Seek Eviction of Couple from Hotel

Hearing has been set Monday on an eviction suit filed in Johnson county district court by Fannie Dunkel, proprietress of the Dunkel hotel, 6 E. College street.

She seeks the eviction of Alfred and Rose Osburn from a room in the hotel, claiming that the couple has fallen behind on rent payments.

Attorneys for the plaintiff are the law firm of Messer, Hamilton, Cahill and Bartley.

Sports Review Of 1950-51 Seasons

By HOBERT DUNCAN
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

The school year of 1950-51 held plenty of pleasures and fully as many disappointments for Iowa sports fans.

In this article, our last for The Daily Iowan, is a brief summary of what we consider the most significant local sports happenings during the year.

To take first things first, we'll start with last fall's football team. The squad opened fall practice Sept. 6 under new head Coach Leonard Raffensperger. A total of 31 letter men reported to the squad.

On Sept. 30, the Hawkeyes surprised most persons by beating Southern California in Los Angeles Coliseum, 20-14, as Jerry Fiske went wild. The Brooklyn halfback scored two touchdowns and ran for 124 yards in 14 carries.

Return Home
The Hawks returned to Iowa City to receive the appreciation of Iowa fans and also to hear talk of a possible Big Ten championship. Raffensperger's statement that one victory doesn't make a successful season was borne out the following Saturday when Indiana whipped the Hawkeyes at Bloomington, 20-7.

On the following Monday, Purdue Coach Stu Holcomb opened his mouth in the excitement following a win over Notre Dame and the now famous "We'll beat Iowa if it's the last thing we do," rolled out. Holcomb later denied saying it but the damage was already done.

Newspapers around the country and especially those in Iowa picked up the refrain. The bulletin board in the Iowa dressing room was loaded with clippings bearing the statement. The players couldn't forget the statement if they wanted to — and they didn't want to.

However, the Purdue game was nearly two weeks away. In between was a game with Wisconsin which Iowa lost, 14-0. Ed Withers of Wisconsin caught as many Iowa passes that day as the intended receivers did.

Big Week-End
Next Saturday had all the ingredients of a big week-end in Iowa City. It was Homecoming, for one thing, with all the excitement that involves and then there was still Holcomb's statement to be dealt with.

Iowa beat Purdue that day, 33-21, and sent Holcomb back to Bloomington to ponder the virtues of keeping quiet.

Following this victory was a day to forget at Columbus, Ohio. The Buckeyes scored early and often to bury Iowa, 83-21. This was one of the worst lickings ever suffered by a Big Ten school. All-American Vic Janowicz did about everything that day except inflate the football. Maybe he even did that.

The Hawks rebounded with a high bounce the next week to whip Minnesota 13-0 before losing to Illinois, 21-7. Illinois scored three times in the first quarter and then held off the Hawks the rest of the way.

Ties Notre Dame
Iowa tied Notre Dame 14-14 the next weekend. The game produced one of the most discussed plays in Iowa history. Iowa had the ball fairly deep in Notre Dame territory with time remaining for one play in the game. Instead of trying a forward pass as everyone expected, the Hawks didn't get a play underway. Charges and counter charges—all of an unofficial nature—were tossed back and forth.

A month or so after the season was over, several of the players were quoted saying that Backfield Coach Bernie Masterson, since resigned, had ordered the stall. Both Masterson and Raffensperger denied this. So the mystery of the "Great Stall of '50" remains an open issue.

The Hawks had one more game left, with Miami in the Orange Bowl. Miami won, 14-6.

Following the Miami game, the sports scene shifted indoors for basketball, track, wrestling, swimming, gymnastics and fencing.

Iowa Favored
Before the basketball season opened, almost everyone able to operate a typewriter predicted that the Hawkeyes wouldn't have to take off their sweat clothes to win the Big Ten championship. Of course they were about as far wrong as you can get.

Iowa opened the season with a victory, 74-67, over DePauw but then lost two straight on the road to Western Michigan, 58-49, and Butler, 54-51.

The Hawks returned home to beat Notre Dame, 63-60, and touring UCLA, 80-63. Iowa won its first road game of the year in Milwaukee against Loyola of Chicago, 61-56, and then beat Pittsburgh in the final pre-conference battle, 45-24.

Preliminaries Open
The preliminaries were over and the main event was ready to start. Iowa whipped Purdue, 73-63, in the first game and waning hopes for a championship looked a little brighter.

Then Illinois came to town and took a thrilling 72-69 victory back to Champaign with them. Iowa went to Evanston the next weekend and lost the game to Northwestern which might have cost them the title. The Wildcats won 73-70, but not before Iowa had made up a 17-point disadvantage and gone one point ahead in the second half.

Michigan State came to Iowa City and was beaten by the Hawks in a slow moving game, 46-42. In successive games Illinois beat the Hawks, 69-57, Iowa came back to whip Minnesota, 69-47, Northwestern 73-55 and Ohio State, 83-71. Indiana won a 73-60 verdict before the Hawks beat Wisconsin 73-60 and Michigan 70-48.

Win Road Games
In a game at Bloomington, Indiana won, 63-53. Iowa took to the road for two games to end the season. The Hawks downed the Spartans 65-52 and Michigan 65-55 for third place in the conference behind Illinois and Indiana.

In a non-conference game sandwiched in the conference schedule, Iowa beat Missouri, 63-53. Also sandwiched between conference games was the Skip Greene-Fred Ruck affair. The two players were accused of carrying parlay cards from Iowa City to Davenport. Both Greene and Ruck were subsequently cleared of any law violation but were put on a year's probation by the university.

Frank Calsbeek was voted the team's most valuable basketball player and Chuck Darling was named by Big Ten coaches to the first all-conference team.

In other winter sports, Iowa's wrestling team finished sixth in the Big Ten. The swimming team was fifth in the conference and eighth in the NCAA meet. Rusty Garst was third in the 50-yard freestyle in the Big Ten and the 400-meter free style relay team was also third.

The gymnastics team was fifth in the conference. Trampoline Champion Bill Harris failed to retain his championship when he fell near the end of his routine and finished tenth.

Delayed Spring
Despite a delayed spring and poor practice conditions, the outdoor sports got started approximately on schedule. The baseball team went on the annual spring tour and then came back to play Luther twice before swinging into the Big Ten season. In conference play Iowa won 4 and lost 8 for one of the most unsuccessful seasons since Otto Vogel has been coach.

The track and tennis teams fared somewhat better. In the conference meets the track team finished fifth with a total of 20 points and the tennis team was third with 10½ points.

Iowa's golf team finished eighth in the Big Ten tournament at Evanston, Ill.

Tribes Pays Highest Bonus in History For Young Pitcher

CLEVELAND (AP) — Baseball's newest and richest rookie, a draft-eligible pitcher named Billy Joe Davidson, flew here Tuesday with his new boss, General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians.

A big, freckle-faced 18-year-old southpaw from Oak Ridge Military Academy in North Carolina, Davidson had just signed an Indian contract that supplied him with better than $100,000.

The figure was announced in Detroit by Marsh Samuel, Greenberg himself, hailing Davidson as a "new Bob Feller," said he got the biggest bonus in baseball history.

This beat the reported $100,000 previous record paid pitcher Paul Pettit of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Greenberg has never seen Davidson pitch but took the word of his scout, Col. E. P. Holt, president of the prep school where Davidson just graduated.

Sources close to the club estimate the bonus at $120,000. Shortly after the plane landed, Davidson told a reporter: "I was 18 on May 5. I have just registered for the draft. I hope to get in one season before I go into the army."

The Indians are talking of trying out Davidson with the club for about two weeks. However, Greenberg insisted he soon will head for the Indians' farm team in San Diego (the Padres) for seasoning.

Just about every club in the majors bid on Davidson. He pitched 13 victories in 15 starts as a semi pro and prep pitcher, often striking out 18 or 20 a game.

"My average," Davidson said with complete aplomb, "was 17.5 strikeouts a game."

"It's the Bob Feller story all over again," chuckled the jubilant Greenberg. "This kid was taught by his father to pitch. He started out teaching him to throw in the living room of his home in Marion, N. C."

PERCY BASSETT WINS CINCINNATI (AP) — Charley Riley of St. Louis, who only recently was knocked out by Percy Bassett, of Philadelphia bounced back Tuesday night to take a unanimous 10-round decision from Eddie Burgin, Cincinnati's feather-weight boxing hope.

Homer Ruins Lemon's Perfect Game

Wertz Homers In 8th; Only Tiger on Base

To Nevada

FRANK CALSBECK Tuesday was named basketball coach at Nevada high school, officials announced. Calsbeek, 1950-51 team captain of the Iowa basketball team, will begin his duties in the fall. Calsbeek passed up several offers to play professional basketball to accept the Nevada job.

DETROIT (AP) — Vic Wertz was the villain Tuesday as big Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians nearly pitched the first perfect no-hit, no-run game in the major leagues in 29 years.

Wertz, the first batter in the eighth inning, blasted a home run into the upper rightfield stands. He was the only Detroit Tiger to reach base as the Indians won, 2-1.

Charlie Robertson of the Chicago White Sox pitched the last perfect game in the major leagues April 30, 1952. Tuesday's crowd of 6,280 gasped in dismay as Wertz felled Lemon's bid. Lemon, winningest pitcher in the American league last year, had pitched a no-hit game here in Briggs stadium only three years ago. Tuesday, only one ball, besides Wertz' homer, had hit possibilities.

Lemon won his fourth game against five defeats with Al Rosen driving in both Cleveland runs. The big righthander struck out seven men, five of them swinging.

Of the other 21 batters who faced him, 13 grounded out, six flied to the outfield and one lined to the infield.

The Indians mobbed Lemon on the infield grass when the game ended. One of the first to congratulate him was big Luke Easter who snared a line drive from the bat of Pat Mullin. That was the only other hardhit ball.

The Indians touched Bob Cain and relief pitcher Hal White for only six hits. Cain lost his fourth game against three wins.

Cleveland scored in the fourth inning when a Detroit double play attempt failed. With one out, Larry Doby tallied from third as Rosen beat the relay to first. In the eighth, Snuffy Stirnweiss singled, Doby doubled him to third and Rosen drove him home with a long fly to center.

The boxscore:

Team	AB	R	H	O	DP	AB	R	H	O	DP
Cleveland	28	4	10	11	2	28	1	4	10	1
Detroit	28	2	11	11	2	28	2	11	11	2

Post Sports Columnist Catches Pennant Fever

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Cannon, New York Post columnist who is in Chicago to cover the heavyweight title fight between Joey Maxim and Ezzard Charles, caught some of the pennant fever sweeping the Windy City.

Rain Threatens 500 Mile Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The midwest whooped it up Tuesday for the annual mixture of speed and carnival known as the Memorial Day 500-mile automobile race — but kept a worried eye on threatening clouds.

At first it looked like rain might curtail or even postpone today's Speedway classic, but later forecasts sounded a hopeful note. The showers are expected mostly to pass south of here. In event of a storm the race probably would be run Thursday.

The 33 drivers fretfully tuned up their low-hung blunt-nosed cars. A poll of 16 of them showed their average estimated speed for today's race was 125.040 miles an hour compared with the record of 121.327 set by Bill Holland in 1949. High guess was 128; low was 121.403.

The field is the fastest ever assembled. Its qualifying average was 133.570, compared with 131.045 last year. At stake are prizes worth $200,000. The race starts at 11:00 a.m. EST, and lasts about four hours.

Charles 8-5 Favorite To Whip Joey Maxim In Title Bout Tonight

CHICAGO (AP) — Cincinnati's Ezzard Charles, willing if pulverizing heavyweight champion, will defend his title against an old ring acquaintance, light-heavyweight Champion Joe Maxim of Cleveland tonight at the Chicago Stadium.

Odds are 8-5 that Charles, 33, will repeat what he has done three times previously, prove a little better and more aggressive boxer for a decision over the 181-pound Maxim. Both have more than sting in their punches. This eighth title defense in 23 months by Charles will be pretty much a Memorial Day television show. The Stadium turnstiles don't figure to be whirled by more than 12,000 patrons counting a gate of around $125,000.

Duane Brandt Tops Hitters With .321 Mark; Drahn Second

Duane Brandt and Glenn Drahn, both football players, emerged as the top batters on the Iowa baseball team, official statistics showed Tuesday.

Brandt, an outfielder, posted an average of .321 and Drahn, a pitcher and outfielder, had .319. Bill Vana, catcher, had .313 for the team.

Although he finished well down the list in averages with .286, George Hand led in runs batted in, with 17. Chuck Cebuhar finished second with 12.

Young pitchers turned in three of the best performances in conference games. Al Lenski held Wisconsin to four hits in a 5-0 win and Bob Diehl beat Illinois, 4-3, on five hits. A 6-hitter by Jim Riedesel produced a 4-3 victory over Michigan.

The Hawkeyes had a team batting average of .260 and a fielding mark of .941. The clouted 50 extra base hits and drew 116 walks. Merlin Kurt, first baseman, had the best fielding average, .991, making only two errors in 224 chances.

The team will be televised by the Columbia broadcasting system. Both warriors went into seclusion Tuesday in fine fettle after comparative uneventful training stints in which Maxim boxed a shopping total of 250 rounds, legs' marathon sparring session understandable. The 28-year-old Cleveland hasn't met a worthy foe since he knocked out England's Freddie Mills 16 months ago for the light-heavyweight crown.

Larson to Decide Beer Permit Cases

DES MOINES (AP) — Secretary of State Melvin Synhorst said Tuesday the beer permit board wants to know if it must automatically approve permits authorized by city councils, or if it has the authority to investigate applicants.

Synhorst said the board asked Atty. Gen. Robert Larson for an opinion outlining the board's powers. He said the duties were vague as described in the code and never had been clarified by a supreme court opinion.

Chinese Beaten Unless 81 English Miners Aided by Russ: War Vet

The Chinese have made their last big push in Korea unless they are backed up by Russian personnel and more material, Capt. Frank Tallman told members of the Kiwanis club at the Jefferson hotel Tuesday noon.

Tallman is home on a 30-day furlough after seven and one-half months service in Korea. He received the Bronze Star in World War II and in the Korean war. He also was awarded the Purple Heart.

"The Chinese are poor soldiers and fighters," Tallman said. "They depend on mass attacks. The North Koreans are better fighters."

Tallman praised Gen. Matthew Ridgway, UN commander, for the way in which he overcame a defeatist attitude among Eighth army troops and instilled new morale in them.

"Our men are doing a fine job," Tallman declared. "Every man is fighting with his heart and soul. However, at times, during lulls the soldiers feel that the American people are not behind them, he added.

He said thousands of South Koreans are not armed because supplies are not large enough. They are being trained while waiting for equipment, he explained.

The American army has the finest equipment available and daily is getting more equipment, he said.

Tallman will report to Ft. Knox, Ky., after his furlough where he will be an instructor. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Tallman, 312 S. Gilbert street.

81 English Miners Entombed in Tunnel Following Explosion

EASINGTON, ENG. (AP) — A violent explosion trapped 81 coal miners in a gas-filled labyrinth of tunnels in the big Easington pit Tuesday. Fifteen, including one rescue worker, were known dead. At least 66 men remained underground. It was feared they were hopelessly entombed in the mine.

While rescue teams worked through shafts filled with poisonous gas, mine officials said "hope is diminishing rapidly for the safety of the trapped men."

The rescuers were within 700 yards of the spot where the blast occurred, but the officials said trying to reach the trapped men would be "a long and difficult operation."

The number of those still in the mine has been uncertain. Hundreds of yards of the exit passage were blocked by the explosion. Rescuers were burdened with digging tools, respirators and oxygen tanks as they burrowed through the debris.

There was a good chance, engineers said, that some survivors would be found in pockets and unused tunnels of the complicated workings, some of which extend under the sea on England's east coast.

At the pit head hundreds of relatives of missing men were gathered in a drab and sorrowful company. Several clergymen and salvation army workers circulated among the men, women and children, some of whom recited quiet prayers.

No one knew how the blast was set off, but rescue workers and miners in remote parts of the workings said tunnels were filled quickly with dust and acris gases.

Far East Airforce Command Changed in Shakeup

TOKYO (AP) — The airforce rounded out a basic shakeup in its Far East command Tuesday with the arrival of two new commanders and disclosure that one general had been relieved for alleged incompetence.

The shakeup dissolved the setup in the air command which had functioned under Gen. Douglas MacArthur. It replaced MacArthur's Far East airforce commander, Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, and his tactical commander in Korea, Lt. Gen. Earle E. Partridge.

The two new men for the No. 1 and 2 spots arrived by plane from the United States. They are Lt. Gen. Otto P. Weyland, who succeeds Stratemeyer, and Maj. Gen. Frank P. Everest, who takes over Partridge's old command of the tactical Fifth airforce in Korea.

Stratemeyer suffered a heart attack May 20, and is critically ill in an air-force hospital here. Partridge has been acting commander of the Far East airforce since then.

As one of his last official acts in the Orient, Partridge announced that Brig. Gen. Luther Sweetser had been relieved of the command of the 452nd bomb wing because he "was unable to achieve the maximum combat potential from his unit."

Sweetser left Japan Wednesday. He was relieved of his duties about two weeks ago and replaced by Col. Brooks A. Lawhon, former commander of the 35th fighter wing. Partridge's statement on the change said:

"General Sweetser, after a considerable period of time, was unable to achieve the maximum combat potential from his 452nd light bomb wing.

"I felt, as Fifth airforce commander, that under different leadership the 452nd's contribution to the air war in Korea would be substantially enhanced. The officers and men of the 452nd always have had the willingness, experience and the fundamental ability to increase materially their effectiveness in battle."

Civil Service Exams Set for Mine Jobs

The U.S. civil service commission Tuesday announced examinations for physicists, chemical engineers, mathematicians and chemists to fill positions in the bureau of mines in Pittsburgh and Bruceton, Pa.

The salaries range from $4,000 to $7,600 a year. No written tests are required for these examinations.

To qualify, applicants must have had appropriate education and experience. For positions paying $4,000 to $5,600, applicants may qualify or education alone provided they have a Ph.D. degree in an appropriate field.

Prof. Heiser to Study in England

Prof. M. F. Heiser, English department, said Tuesday he will go to England and Scotland this summer to do research work and represent SUI at joint meetings of Roman and Greek societies.

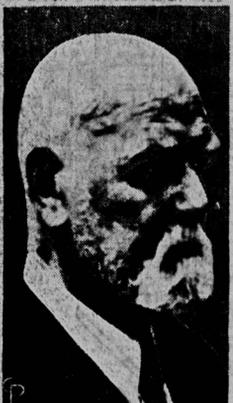

He will leave here early next week and return in September.

Heiser will do research on 18th century Scottish-American cultural relations at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and act as SUI's representative at the joint society meetings at the University of Cambridge, England.

Heiser will be accompanied by his wife and five-year-old son, Warren.

PUPIL AWARDED $122.70
Edwin Pudil has been awarded a judgment of $122.70 in a law suit brought against Mr. and Mrs. Joe Janko in Johnson county district court.

Austrian President

DR. THEODOR KOERNER, 78, mayor of Vienna, is Austria's new president. Koerner, once a general in the imperial Austro-Hungarian army, is a bitter foe of communism. He won a six-year term in a close run-off election to succeed the late Karl Renner.

Married Couple Admits Kidnapping Fort Dodge Man

INDIANOLA (AP) — Deputy Sheriff Carroll J. Richards said an elderly Fort Dodge man Tuesday tentatively identified pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Powers as being those of the couple who abducted him.

The Fort Dodge man, R. L. Adams, 74, had come here from Albia to look over the couple, arrested at an Indianola hotel Tuesday morning. But the two were en route to Albia in the custody of county authorities. Adams looked at their pictures and then returned to Albia.

The Powerses, wanted also in connection with passage of 88 checks, each for $16, in various Iowa cities, will be charged with armed robbery, County Atty. W.K. Cash of Albia said.

Adams was abducted at gunpoint at Albia Monday night, robbed of $394, threatened with death, and forced to take his abductors to Princeton, Mo., in his car. He was released there unharmed Monday night. The Powerses hitchhiked to Lineville, Iowa, boarded a bus for Des Moines, and got off at Indianola, authorities there said.

Sheriff John J. Taylor of Indianola said previously the couple readily confessed the abduction and robbery soon after the arrest. Adams, a wealthy Fort Dodge implement dealer, had been visiting in Albia. At the time of the abduction he was in his car near an Albia doctor's office, awaiting his wife.

The Powers couple's home is in the Oskaloosa area.

3 Injured in Auto Mishap

Three West Branch residents were injured Tuesday when the car in which they were riding rolled off highway 218 ten miles north of Iowa City.

Hospitalized in Mercy hospital at Cedar Rapids were William Hahn Sr., 72, suffering a back injury; Mrs. Hahn, 66, chest injuries; and Mrs. Ed Eggers, 26, facial lacerations and chest injuries. All were reported in "good" condition late Tuesday.

Three other persons in the car received minor injuries and were not hospitalized. They included Ed Eggers, 25, West Branch; Bruce West, 51, West Branch; and Leonard King, 38, Downey.

Highway patrolmen who investigated the accident said the car, driven by Eggers, was traveling north and went out of control when Eggers attempted to pass a truck.

Highway patrolmen said the car skidded off the left side of the road, overturned as it plunged down a 15-foot embankment and landed in an upright position in the ditch.

A fire broke out in the motor of the car but Marvin Gregor who was working in a field nearby, smothered the flames with dirt and grass.

The truck that Eggers was attempting to pass did not stop and patrolmen said the driver was apparently unaware of the accident.

AIRBORNE FIRE FIGHTERS
TIMMINS, Ont. — Fifty Indians, all expert bushmen, were lowered from helicopters Tuesday to battle "spot" fires on the edge of a 100,000-acre forest fire. The blaze is being mopped up in the Gogama area, 60 miles south of this northern Ontario mining town.

Had Big Day

PVT. KENNETH SELLS had a rather sensational time his first day of combat in Korea. A native of Waterloo, and now from Middlesboro, Ky., Sells earned a recommendation for a congressional medal of honor his first day under fire. He suffered a mangled arm rescuing a buddy when he picked up an enemy-thrown hand grenade and attempted to throw it back. The grenade went off in his hand.

Stolen Auto Chase Ends in Collision

WATERLOO (AP) — A 90-mile-an-hour chase of a stolen car ended Tuesday when the machine crashed head-on into another car in the middle of a bridge on highway 20, six miles east of here, and caused injuries to four persons.

Officers said the pursued car was driven by Allen Miller Ivins, 19, Loves Park, Ill., and Joe Lamb, Charleston, S.C., was a passenger. Both were injured, Lamb suffering a severe head cut. Injured in the other car were L. E. Puffitt, Dundee, Ia., and his wife Amreitta. Neither was reported injured seriously.

Sgt. Robert Reese of the state highway patrol said the car Ivins was driving had been reported stolen last night at Council Bluffs. Reese said he picked up the two youths' trail after it was reported they got gas at Grundy Center and drove away without paying for it.

Ceiling Price List Available Locally

Ceiling price regulation No. 34 is available at the chamber of commerce office, Secretary Bob Gage announced Tuesday.

This is the regulation which covers "personal services." Among the items affected are prices of barbers and beauticians; auto, radio and household appliance repairs; laundries, dry cleaning; shoe repairs, filling station services and fees of bowling alleys.

Education Writers Association Presents Awards to Journalists

NEW YORK (UP) — Two writers, two newspapers and a magazine were cited by the education writers association Tuesday for "outstanding contributions to the progress of education writing."

Mrs. Sinatra Plans To Divorce Frankie; Ava Doesn't Comment

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mrs. Frank Sinatra said Tuesday she's decided to divorce the crooner, leaving him free to marry sultry Ava Gardner, because "he asked for his freedom."

"He wanted a divorce so I've agreed to it," she said. "When he asked me for it, I thought I ought to give it to him. He asked me just once, two weeks ago. There are certain details to be ironed out and then my attorneys, Greg Bautzer and Bernard Silbert, will go ahead."

"I was hoping it could be kept quiet until I file," she said at the Sinatra ranch-style mansion in swank Holmby Hills, "but somebody in New York spilled it."

She said, "I have no marriage plans." As for the crooner's, she had "nothing to say." Miss Gardner also refused to comment. Mrs. Nancy Sinatra, who whipped up the singer's bow ties for 11 years, went half-way and won legal separation from him last Sept. 28.

"Frank never asked me for a divorce then," she said, "and those stories that he flew out here six times within the last three weeks to beg me aren't true. He just came to me once, two weeks ago."

Iowa Citian's Car Strikes, Kills Man

Charles Clark, about 70, Milan, Ill., was killed near Durant early Tuesday when he was struck by a car driven by John Cornwall, 37, 119 E. Davenport street.

Cedar County Coroner Gordon Smith said Clark was hit when he stepped into the path of Cornwall's car on highway 66 two miles west of Durant.

Cornwall told authorities he was traveling about 60 miles an hour when he saw Clark in the road. He said he applied his brakes and swerved the car but was unable to avoid hitting Clark.

Clark suffered a compound leg fracture, internal injuries and a broken neck. He died before a doctor could reach him. The body was taken to the Frick funeral home in Durant and will be removed to Milan later.

Granted Divorce Here

Alfred R. Graham was granted a divorce late Monday from Loretta Graham in Johnson county district court.

The couple was married Jan. 15 at Rock Island, Ill., and lived together until May 1.

Mosse Plans to Spend 7 Months in Europe

Professor Mosse To Represent SUI

Move to License Race Track Wires

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate crime investigators urged congress Tuesday to strike a "death blow" at illegal off-track betting by requiring race track wire services to obtain licenses from the federal communications commission.

Chairman Herbert R. O'Connor (D-Md.), who introduced a bill to carry out the committee's recommendations, said it would exempt newspapers, news services and radio stations which carry sports news as part of their regular service.

He said in a statement accompanying the bill that the "race wire services are the very life blood of illegal gambling operations."

"Bookmaking on a national scale could not exist without the transmission of up-to-the-minute information of race results and other information," the Maryland Democrat asserted.

Prof. George Mosse, history department, said Tuesday he has asked the state board of education for a leave of absence from SUI to lecture and do research work in Europe until February, 1952.

Mosse said he plans to leave next Tuesday for Glasgow, Scotland, to represent SUI at the 50th anniversary of the founding of the University of Glasgow the week of June 24-30.

From there, he will go to London as SUI's official representative at the Anglo-American historical conference during the second week of July.

If the board grants the leave, Mosse said he plans to motor through Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Yugoslavia and Italy. He added that he hopes to renew acquaintances with officials in the Yugoslavian government.

Mosse said he expects to do research during October on the influence of Italian Renaissance ideas on Puritan thought in England and the United States. He will use the Vatican archives in Rome and the Calvin archives in Geneva, Switzerland, as source material.

Mosse said he plans to lecture during December and January at the Universities of Erlangen and Heidelberg, Germany, and return to SUI in time for the second semester of the 1951-52 school year.

Association Sees Teacher Shortage

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Education association said Tuesday it may take a house-to-house canvass to secure up enough teachers to staff the nation's grammar schools.

There is a need for 80,000 teachers in that field, the association said, and only 32,000 available this year from colleges. "Some communities," the commission added, "already are making house-to-house canvasses to locate, count and classify possible teaching candidates."

RESIDUAL OIL PRICE HIKES — The government authorized increases of 17 to 31 cents a barrel in prices for residual fuel oils on the Atlantic seaboard.

The office of price stabilization allowed the increases in setting dollars and cents ceilings for all grades of residual fuel oils. The order is the first to fix dollars and cents ceilings for any petroleum products.

(Residual fuel oils are used for power generation, by military installations and industrial establishments, as a bunker fuel for ships, and as a heating fuel for some commercial and residential buildings.)

PETROLEUM STORAGE BARRELS — The petroleum administration for defense (PAD) said it has authorized 22 firms to use defense order ratings for delivery of almost 15,000 tons of steel to build storage tanks for 3,167,500 barrels of heating oil and gasoline.

The authorizations were based on a survey of petroleum storage needs in areas where navigation is blocked by ice during winter months.

PAD said the companies must place their orders before June 1, and the steel must be delivered not later than September. Ports involved include Bettendorf, Iowa.

IOWA PUBLIC SERVICE BONDS — Iowa Public Service company, Sioux City, asked the power commission for authority to issue $5-million in first mortgage bonds to mature July 1, 1981.

HICKENLOOPER CLAIMS — Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said "One individual in the state department" blocked military efforts to bring trained German scientists here after the war.

Hickenlooper did not name the man, but he was not talking about the secretary of state.
