Police Seize Protesting Women Pickets

A DOZEN WOMEN, carrying infants or wheeling baby carriages, blocked the entrance to the city dump in North Camden, N. J., Tuesday in protest against locating the new dump near their homes.

Royal Navy Orders Cruiser to Abadan

LONDON (AP) — The royal navy ordered the cruiser Mauritius to Abadan Tuesday to protect British lives in the Iranian oil row.

At the same time the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil company, whose oil fields and refinery at Abadan are threatened with seizure under Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's nationalization law, ordered all its tankers to pull out of the Iranian refinery port at once — presumably to avoid being involved in any trouble.

A dispatch from Tehran, the Iranian capital, said the news of the cruiser's movement caused deep concern among Iranian political circles. An informed source said a special meeting of the Iranian cabinet probably will be called today.

Ten of the 27 tankers reported at Abadan and vicinity were loaded and they were instructed to dump their thousands of tons of oil if necessary in order to get Iranian clearance papers.

AIOC also ordered its field manager at Abadan, Eric Drake, to Basra, in nearby Iraq, to continue his duties of managing the company's business in both Iran and Iraq.

Dispatches from Abadan said Drake already was in Basra on "very important" business connected with a breakdown in the Iranian supply of aviation gasoline to Iraq. AIOC officials denied his trip concerned plans for a quick evacuation of 3,000 British employes across the river into Iraq.

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison declared the situation was "very serious" as he announced in the house of commons that these actions had been taken "with the full agreement" of the government.

Spelled out, they meant that Britain is not knuckling down to Telegraphers Reject 10% Wage Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western Union Tuesday offered to avert a nationwide strike next Monday by granting a wage increase of more than 10 per cent.

The AFL commercial telegraphers promptly rejected the proposal. It was understood the increase would amount to between 16 and 18 cents an hour, a few pennies more than the 10 per cent ceiling on increases allowed by the wage stabilization board above January, 1950, levels.

J. R. Wilcox, vice-president in charge of industrial relations for the company, disclosed that the offer had been made through Federal Conciliator J. R. Mandelbaum.

But Adolph Brungs, president of the Western Union division of the telegraphers' union, said that the offer was "wholly unacceptable to the union for the reason that it falls far short of the unions wage demands."

Court Asked Death Sentence For Archbishop

BUDAPEST, HUNGARY (AP) — Archbishop Jozsef Groesz expressed repentance in a final statement at his treason trial

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Associated Press coverage of the Groesz trial comes from a Hungarian correspondent in Budapest. He telephones his dispatches to London, which relays them to the United States by radio and cable. Censorship is not involved, but he is subject to Hungarian laws.)

Tuesday after hearing calmly a prosecution demand that he and his eight co-defendants be given "the severest punishment" — which could mean death.

"I repent and regret what I did," he told the five-man court. The same demand for "severest punishment" was made by the same prosecutor, Gyula Alapi, at the treason trial of Cardinal Mindszenty, the Roman Catholic primate sentenced in 1949 to the imprisonment. Alapi said the purported plot was part of a plan to bring the whole world under the yoke of the U.S.

The court of two judges and three laymen is to sentence the archbishop and his companions Thursday. The presiding judge is Vilmos Otti, who sentenced Cardinal Mindszenty.

Archbishop Groesz, 64, succeeded Cardinal Mindszenty as the Roman Catholic leader in Hungary and, according to his long oral confession in court last Friday, took over as head of a pro-Hapsburg plot to overthrow the Communist government with help from the United States and the Vatican. The others likewise confessed to related charges ranging from black - marketeering to murder.

Six of them made use with the Archbishop Tuesday of their right to any "last word" — the final statement a defendant may make at any length under Hungarian law without comment from the prosecution.

"I have still hope that the Hungarian people will forget what I did and ask the priests and the Catholic faithful not to follow my example. Please consider my confession when you pass your judgment."

UN Troops Advance 4 Miles Against Reds

TOKYO (WEDNESDAY) (AP) — Allied forces battled forward up to four miles Tuesday in rugged central Korea in a day-long fight with Reds stubbornly defending a buildup area at Kumsong, 29 miles north of parallel 38.

Planes attacked the Reds at low-level as they grudgingly yielded heights south of Kumsong which they had won in bloody bayonet fighting two days previously.

Violent hand-to-hand fighting broke out last night at two other points north of parallel 38 where the Reds have been reported massing for a possible offensive.

The inconclusive clashes flared on the western front northwest of Yonchon and the east-central front northeast of Yanggu.

The most serious Red buildup was near Yonchon more than 35 miles north of Seoul in a sector which has been a traditional invasion route.

Teen-Age Drug Addiction Raging, Committee Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — A shapely, 21-year-old blonde singer told senate crime investigators Tuesday she resorted to prostitution, forgery and confidence games to get money for a drug habit acquired in high school in Cincinnati, O.

The attractive "thrill seeker" joined other drug addicts, including a former Brooklyn, N.Y., basketball star and a surgeon, in giving a televised committee hearing the bitter stories of their gradual enslavement to the drug habit.

All said they would never have started taking drugs if they had known the terrible consequences. The doctor said "a person had better blow his brains out than start narcotics."

The addicts all are undergoing cures at the U.S. public health service hospital at Lexington, Ky. Identities were not disclosed and only the doctor permitted his face to be shown on television. Only the hands of the other witnesses were televised.

State Department Doubts Peace Offer, Fears Soviet Aim Is Military Advantage

Trygve Lie Hopeful For Peace Because Of Russian Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie said Tuesday he was hopeful for peace in Korea because of Russia's proposal for a cease-fire.

Hurrying back to New York from Oslo, Norway, Lie said in London that the cease-fire offer of Jacob A. Malik, chief Soviet UN delegate, "must be taken seriously."

Before he left Oslo the UN leader said the Soviet proposal would come before a special session of the UN general assembly this afternoon.

Lie stopped in London for a hasty conference with top British officials and took off for New York at 6:07 p.m. (11:07 a.m. CST). "I am always hopeful and am hopeful in this situation," Lie said in a statement at the airport. "Sometimes I have been disappointed. Sometimes my hopes have been filled. I am sure Mr. Malik's statement must be taken seriously."

Malik was reported still ill and postponed again his scheduled meeting with UN General Assembly President Nasrallah Entezem to discuss the cease-fire offer in more detail.

Malik's deputy, Semyon K. Entezem, he said his superior still when Malik would be able to see Entezem. He said his superior still was "indisposed" at his Glen Cove home on Long Island, suffering a mild recurrence of a chronic heart ailment.

Summer School Has No 4 Week Session For Undergraduates

There will be no four-week session for undergraduates added to the summer program at SUNY, Dean E. T. Peterson, director of the summer session, announced Tuesday.

SUNY, however, will continue to offer the independent study unit for graduate students, Aug. 9 to Sept. 15, as in past years.

Changes in the mobilization plans of the armed forces have made accelerated programs unnecessary, Peterson said.

When in March it was announced that SUNY might offer an extra four-week session for undergraduate students, there was considerable feeling that colleges and universities would need to adopt accelerated programs that would permit students to attend college 12 months of the year and thus reduce the time required for graduation.

Peterson said very few colleges and universities have adopted an accelerated schedule, as the mobilization needs became clearer.

Students at the regular eight-week summer session were asked at registration to indicate their interest in the extra undergraduate session. The survey indicated conclusively that registration would be too small to organize the extra program, Peterson said.

Grrrr!

CHICAGO (AP) — Mrs. Josephine DeFranza, 36, won a divorce on grounds of cruelty Tuesday after she testified that her husband, Dominick, 36, fed their eight-year-old son raw meat as a reward for solving difficult arithmetic problems.

DeFranza wanted their son, Donald, to be a superman, Mrs. DeFranza testified.

To build the boy's brain, she said, DeFranza assigned him such multiplication problems as 435,621,789 times 1,234,567, and placed dishes of raw meat before him as "brain food."

"Donald couldn't eat the meat," she testified, "and my husband would force him to crouch in a corner for an hour if he didn't clean up the plate."

Iowa Citian Who Fled Prison Captured Here

Richard R. Sauer, 29-year-old Iowa City man who escaped from an Anamosa prison farm Monday, was captured by Iowa City police Tuesday night about 7:30 p.m. on Prairie Du Chien road.

Police said Sauer surrendered without a fight when they stopped him on the road. Guards from the prison arrived in Iowa City about two hours after his capture and took Sauer back to Anamosa. He will probably face escape charges there.

Sauer told police here he walked away from the farm about eight miles northeast of Anamosa Monday with only six months on a five-year sentence for a previous escape charge left to serve.

He was originally sentenced from Johnson county in June, 1944, for forgery. He escaped from a prison farm in July, 1945 and was recaptured and sentenced to an additional term for escape.

Sauer told police he hid in a field near the farm for Monday afternoon until dark. He said he then walked to Stanwood where he hitched a ride with a milk truck to Mt. Vernon.

He said he helped the driver of the truck deliver milk on a rural route between Stanwood and Mt. Vernon during the three hour trip.

Sauer said he walked the 15 miles from Mt. Vernon to Cedar Rapids where he hitched another ride with a trucker to Iowa City.

He told police he planned to go to Illinois and then to Kentucky from here and at the time of his capture was going to Solon to get more clothing.

Police said he had in his possession, two jackets, a hat, several sets of car keys, a registration card for a car and an Illinois chauffeur's license.

Asked where he got the articles in his possession at the time of his capture, Sauer told officers, "I just picked them up along the way."

Sauer said he arrived in Iowa City about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday and "walked right through the heart of town."

Prison officials who came to Iowa City Tuesday to take Sauer into custody said the Iowa City police officers who aided in his capture would receive a reward that had been offered for his arrest. The officials said they did not know how much the award was.

Congressmen Attack Acheson's Views On 'Success' in Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Acheson said Tuesday he would consider the Korean war a success if a cease-fire could be achieved on the 38th parallel but several congressmen promptly challenged his views.

Acheson made the statement before the house foreign affairs committee as the state department revealed it has mapped its strategy for dealing with Russia's cease-fire proposal. A spokesman added, however, that the plan will be kept secret.

The secretary of state, who appeared to testify on the administration's $8.5 billion foreign aid program, said a cease-fire at the old pre-war dividing line between North and South Korea would represent a UN success from a military point of view.

He stressed that unification of Korea under a free democratic government still is the ultimate political goal of the United Nations. But he said the world organization never intended to unify Korea by force.

Committee Chairman James P. Richards (D-S.C.) said his idea of a successful conclusion to the war would be for the Chinese Reds to withdraw "from all Korea" and for Peiping to "quit trying to get into the UN with a gun in their hands."

He said no Korean peace will be a success unless "we have an iron-clad agreement backed by adequate safeguards." The Communists can't be trusted "unless we hold the whip hand," he said.

Rep. Lawrence J. Smith (R-Wis.) said it would be "silly" to consider a cease-fire at the 38th parallel to be a "successful conclusion" to the fighting.

He said there must be "some degree of military victory" to keep the Communists from having the same advantage they enjoyed before.

Rep. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) agreed with Acheson that a cease-fire would be a "victory."

Control Bill Vote Before Senate Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate agreed Tuesday to limit debate on its economic controls bill and start voting on the bitterly disputed measure today.

Majority leader MacFarland of Arizona expressed confidence that the senate would dispose of the legislation by tonight. A late session is in prospect.

Most of the government's authority to control prices and wages expires at midnight Saturday. Even if the senate manages to pass a new bill before the deadline, temporary legislation may be needed to keep controls in effect. The house is not as far along on its bill as the senate is, and the measures differ.

Sen. Blair Moody (D-Mich.) enlisted Tuesday in the administration's drive for stronger controls, telling the senate the issue is "the consumers versus the profiteers."

August Graduates

All seniors graduating in August must file applications for degrees in the office of the registrar before 5 p.m. today, Registrar Ted H. McCarrel said Tuesday.

Maritime Walkout Ends After 11 Days

NEW YORK (AP) — The 11-day-old maritime walkout that had bottled up the nation's non-defense shipping ended Tuesday night when the last of three striking unions reached agreement on a new contract with the ship owners.

Federal Mediation Service Commissioners Harry Winning and T. G. Dougherty announced that agreement had been reached between representatives of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association (CIO) and agents of 40 Atlantic and Gulf coast shipping companies.

Tokyo Release Hints Suspicion Of Truce Feeler

TOKYO (AP) — Bluntly worded U.S. state department suspicion of Russia's proposal for peace in Korea leaked out here Tuesday night through an apparent misce at Allied supreme headquarters.

A state department source said the United States doubts that Jacob A. Malik floated his truce feeler in good faith, and fears that it "might have been a cover for military advantage."

A mimeographed handout casually circulated the touchy content among Tokyo correspondents. It bore the usual heading, "General headquarters, supreme commander for the Allied forces." The contents were credited to an "informed source" in the office of the headquarters political adviser, William J. Sebald.

Two hours after the handout appeared, a state department spokesman here telephoned correspondents. He said the handout was not released in Tokyo at the suggestion of the state department.

The public information office at Supreme Headquarters asked for some background material to give to the Japanese press, outlining the state department's position, the spokesman said.

He added that state department representatives had no idea the statement would be released the way it was, and insisted that the information, which originally came from Washington, had been prepared for backgrounding the Japanese press.

The handout detailed the following views of Malik's proposal: 1. "If, for instance, the Malik proposal were accepted and U.N. forces withdrew from parallel 38, it raises the military question whether such a move would be just a shift in battle lines to place the enemy in a better position militarily. There is always the danger of a counter-attack and the breaking of an armistice."

2. "The idea of a demilitarized zone is not rejected, as such and it is recognized that part of Malik's proposal has some validity, but not necessarily a withdrawal from parallel 38."

3. "No intelligence reports in Washington lead officials to believe that the Communist fighting in Korea is anywhere near ready to stop."

4. "The proposal itself seemed too frontal and public, a device which has not characterized previous Soviet actions."

5. U.S. experts wanted to know what Malik had in mind by his reference to the "path of peaceful settlement."

6. Malik said talks should be started between the belligerents, but he "failed to say who the belligerents were and it will be recalled that Soviet Russia has never submitted its belligerency in the Korean conflict. The Chinese Communists have claimed their armies are 'volunteers' and the North Koreans have remained silent on this point."

South Koreans Reject Peace Bid

PUSAN, KOREA (AP) — The South Korean government said Tuesday that the Soviet proposal for a cease-fire in Korea and the withdrawal of both sides from the 38th parallel "is entirely unacceptable."

President Syngman Rhee said that before any peace negotiations begin, the Communist forces must withdraw beyond the Manchurian border "in accordance with announced objectives of the United Nations."

Rhee's statement was released immediately following a cabinet meeting. It was described as expressing the "unanimous opinion" of the cabinet.

Senate Reconsiders Social Security Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate voted Tuesday to take another look at a proposal by about $250 million a year.

It accepted by a voice vote a motion by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) to reconsider its action in approving the plan last week.

Interpreting the News —

Gray's Big Job To Coordinate 'Voices' of U.S.

By J. M. ROBERTS JR. Associated Press News Analyst

For years one of the chief criticisms of America's conduct of the cold war has been what is described as a failure to take the offensive.

One of the disappointing things about the critics, however, has been their failure to explain how to do it.

Tell the Russian people of democratic aims, they say. Make American policy clear. It is incredible that large bodies of people, Soviet and non-Soviet, should still be in doubt. But they are.

The appointment of Gordon Gray, president of the University of North Carolina and former secretary of the army, to head the psychological warfare board is an effort to meet this problem.

The general idea is that Gray shall set up an organization to coordinate the work of numerous government agencies, to see that they do not conflict with each other as they have from time to time; in other words, to prevent a united propaganda front.

At the moment instead of an orchestra, the United States has many soloists trying each to sing his own song to the world. There is the army, which broadcasts what it wants outsiders to hear and which uses fugitives from the Russian sphere. Much of this activity is now centered on Japan. The state department does much the same thing in Europe. There is constant overlapping and failure to lap.

There's the ECA advertising American economic cooperation. The central intelligence agency, which keeps quiet about its work. There are the organizations of displaced persons who work in a sort of liaison with the state department, which also operates the Voice of America, libraries, movies, cultural exchange programs and the like. The U.S. information service passes news and the "line" to officials abroad.

The Gray appointment may presage some changes in direct controls as well as in coordination. The state department has never been able to work up great congressional enthusiasm for the Voice of America, and appropriations for it have been subject to much sharpshooting. More than once the department has been on the verge of losing control of this activity on the grounds that it needs to stick to policy-making, not operations, in the propaganda as well as in the military field.

A properly organized psychological warfare board — and Gray has been called because he is recognized throughout Washington as a crack organizer — might very well, in time, assume the job of executing as well as advising on cold war policy. At the present, however, planning and coordination will occupy it.

Other members of the board are also top men, recognized for both knowledge and ability. They are Marshall A. Lovett, Gen. George C. Marshall's right hand at the Pentagon who has valuable state department experience; Gen. Bedell Smith, chief intelligence, former ambassador to Moscow and Gen. Ike Eisenhower's top aide at SHAEP during the invasion of Europe, and James Webb, under secretary of state who is, like Gray, close to the President. The board will also have the active cooperation of the joint chiefs of staff.

It is difficult to devise ways of "taking the offensive" in this undertaking, since America is not trying to confuse other nations into becoming satellites. The entire program of the Western nations is defensive, just as all society can be put on the defensive by one marauder. But as a counter-offensive, if all the world can be made to really understand the American position, much of the danger will be over.

Ewing's New Plan Meets Cool Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new hospitalization program proposed by Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing got a cool reception Tuesday on Capitol Hill.

Chairman Robert L. Doughton (D-N.C.) said he was doubtful whether the members of his house ways and means committee "would want to waste time on that very soon." Doughton's committee has jurisdiction over matters affecting the social security program, to which the new hospitalization plan would be tied.

Ewing proposed that limited free hospital care be made available to persons 65 or older, to widows of insured wage earners and to surviving children under 18. He said the cost of doing this would run to about $200 million a year, but could be financed without increasing the social security deductions on wage earners or the matching payments made by employers.

German Police Escort American Fighter

(AP Wirephoto)

SUGAR RAY ROBINSON (white robe), world middleweight champion, is rushed to safety by West Berlin police after a sudden end of his Sunday fight with German light heavyweight Gerhard Hecht. Berlin tossed bottles into the ring after the referee disqualified Robinson for "foul" blows. Later the boxing commission ruled the contest a "no decision" fight.

Student Sees Robinson Incident As 'Typical of German Chauvinism'

(Readers are invited to express opinion in Letters to the Editor. All letters must include hand written signature and address—typewritten signatures not acceptable. Letters become the property of The Daily Iowan; we reserve the right to edit or withhold letters. We suggest letters be limited to 500 words or less. ### TO THE EDITOR:

The newspapers of Monday, June 25, 1951, featured an account of the greatest significance for the American public. It is difficult to find, usually, an adequate study of the post-war German mentality, except in cases where overt actions force the issue.

The typically German chauvinism displayed in Berlin when an American Negro boxer encountered a German in a public arena describes the German mind so clearly, that no amount of future rationalization and favorable interpretation will henceforth obscure the facts.

Those of us who admire Ray Robinson as one of the greatest boxers of all time regret the bad experience he has suffered and are outraged by the "no decision" verdict of the bout. In truth, there is good reason to be thankful that the "average-German" spectator did not actually succeed in maiming him.

The boxing crowd in the Berlin arena, claiming a foul, showed a frantic hatred of the defeat administered by an American Negro. They banded together in the identical sense of blood-unity that had sanctioned their destruction of Europe.

They attempted to draw blood again by throwing bottles and other objects at the Negro American in the ring who had had the temerity to defeat their "superior" warrior-son. To avoid serious injury, Robinson took cover under the ring.

A sportsman with integrity, whose only error was a naive belief about the brutality of the German public, had to cover and take cover as have civilized peoples of all nations and faiths in recent years. The insane and brutal nationalism that was expressed in pure form under Hitler was demonstrated nearly as clearly in that athletic arena in Berlin this past weekend as it had been when German self-love meant the deliberate extermination of millions of Europe's population.

The frenzied references to Schmelzing's ego-crushing loss to Joe Louis (from which the German sense of superiority has evidently not yet recovered) and the harassing of Negro GI's in the audience on the occasion of Robinson's fight, were spontaneous expressions of what the Germans would refer to as the "volk-soul," voiced in a place and under circumstances that seemed pitifully innocuous.

Guild Charges Publishers Allow Paper Monopoly

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Samuel E. Eubanks, retiring executive vice president of the American Newspaper Guild (CIO) charged Tuesday that newspaper publishers have allowed an "international trust" to seize control of newsprint.

Eubanks told the 18th ANG convention that the trust dictates what publishers shall pay for newsprint "and in some cases who will get it."

The steel industry, he said, could not operate without knowing how much iron ore it will get and how much it will pay for it.

Enough money to finance a pension plan someone in Ottawa, or Montreal, or maybe New York decides the price of newsprint should go up.

It is to be urged that the U.S. shall not become insensitive to the monstrous crimes of the German nation, simply because she has not experienced the outrages of German troops and death-camps on her own soil.

With all the platitudes that we hear about the narrowed physical dimensions of the modern world, we would expect those who have not suffered directly to have at least some cognizance of the spiritual values common to all humanity that have been violated as recently as six years ago by the Germans in an area comprising all of Europe... East, West, North and South.

Where we to use athletic comparisons to achieve perspective we may wonder how many full Iowa fieldhouses could be included in the total number of victims of the Germans. We would be really awed, for example, if on a basketball capacity night of about 15,000 people, we tried to imagine the physical multitude that six million martyred Jews would form.

Some people still at this university have personally seen small fractions of this total in what had been Germany's playing ground, Europe. Even then the physical magnitude was greatly diminished since the aftermath of this Teutonic gaming left withered and diminished products... whitened bones, yawning rib-cages and mounds of bleached, nude flesh. Ashes cannot be washed clean by Judenseife.

It takes an easy conscience to welcome a murdered and with the same breath tell those who mourn for his victim not to grieve.

There were some who were shocked to see "International Student's day" commemorated on this campus by what amounted to near-testimonial affairs in honor of German exchange students. This was what had become of an ideal based on German resistance to German satanism. Some of us can understand the mockery of this situation.

Only those who are spiritually bankrupt, and whose faith has been embalmed with a dripping ideal of lifeless empiricism argue about the question of German responsibility. Yet empirical data is exhaustive, in terms of elections, Sieg-Heils, and war effort, and also within the rioting of a Berlin sports arena so recently.

Let us turn to a man whose spirituality and rationality are not opposed, the internationally renowned Albert Einstein:

"The Germans as an entire people are responsible for these mass murders and must be punished as a people, if there is justice in the world and if the consciousness of collective responsibility in the nations is not to perish from the earth entirely.

"When they are entirely defeated and begin to lament over their fate, we must not let ourselves be deceived again, but keep in mind that they deliberately used the humanity of others to make preparations for their last and most grievous crime against humanity."

Recently, the government and the citizenry of West Germany expressed their humility and capacity for self-criticism by the unbelievable action of vehemently protesting the sentence of a handful of the most heinous German murderers, appealing to legal maxims and to issues of humanitarianism!

This same esprit de corps, the degenerate values centered entirely on the most perverse nationalistic ideals could not restrain itself in time to prevent the "incident" in the Berlin athletic arena where Robinson fought.

This letter does not fit customary principles of good organization. But it insists that one issue unifies it. We must not permit insensitivity to the sufferings of Jews and Frenchmen, Poles and Russians, Englishmen and Norwegians, or the dubious ideal of temporary political expediency to blind us in America to the meaning of German brutality.

We will need a greater spirituality to enjoy the luxury of such "ideals" as a million-dollar boxing gate. We will need it in order not to shudder at the numbers of live humanity that crowd a ball park... numbers that caricature the mounds of shriveled bodies left behind by the Germans.

By CHUCK LEEDHAM

FOR SEVERAL DAYS now I've been dropping over to the art building to see people not sneeze at the exhibit of drawings, but never find the main gallery open. There's a rule, so help me, flat visitors to the exhibit can't sneeze while viewing. It's a fascinating rule and I can't wait to see it in operation.

During the Metropolitan exhibit here a few years back there were guards wandering about with 45's on hips to keep sticky-fingered art lovers from sliching a Rembrandt for the living room and I wonder if it'll be the same about sneezing. It'd be pretty sad to have to tell your kids, "Daddy was shot because he sneezed on an etching."

TWO INTERESTING BITS of information gleaned from a syndicated feature modeled on Ripley's panels:

The questions — Did stone age hunters have dogs, and do calves waste more feed if fed from a small box? The laconic answers, respectively, no, and yes. Bet you didn't know that.

THE SUBJECT OF calves brought forth a really worth-while example of information from, of all people, the Iowan's women's editor. She says cows can chew their cud between 66 and 99 times without taking a breath.

Says one time when stalled between here and Des Moines she counted 'em for lack of anything better to do. This could be a controversial computation but I wouldn't know the difference.

A SERIOUS SUBJECT for once. Ever notice how many guys walk around disconsolately Friday and Saturday nights here in town without dates? With nearly as many gals sitting at home wishing somebody would call them?

Call it lack of initiative if you will, but there still should be some convenient way to get the people together. The happy caveman days (funny how that keeps coming up) when the hefty male could grab 'em by the hair are gone. And drop-the-handkerchief is a little out of date.

Particularly at the beginning of a semester like this, there hasn't been much opportunity to mooch around and get acquainted. So at home and in the, you should pardon the word, beer joints they sit.

Any pertinent suggestions? You might even get a medal. Or have kids named after you.

A NEW TACK in sizing up people has just come out in Life magazine, with their morphis, ecto, endo and meso. Life, remember, started up all the fuss about brows, low, high and middle and let's hope they're not getting their signals crossed.

It was bad enough when you had to measure from eyebrow to hairline with an outside caliper to find out whether or not you should listen to Dillwhistle's Ump-teenth or confine yourself to comic books. But now you've got to weigh in and do push-ups.

Some days it really doesn't pay to get out of bed. Most days, for that matter.

Committee to Study Iowa Old Age Plan

DES MOINES (AP) — Gov. William S. Beardsley named six legislators and three private citizens Tuesday to a newly-formed committee for a study of the state's old age and survivors insurance program.

Lawmakers named to the committee were State Senators Herman Lord, Muscatine; Ralph Zastrow, Charles City, and W. C. Mollons, Grinnell, and Representative W. C. Hendrix, Letts; Arch McFarlane, Waterloo, and George Miller, Harlan.

Non-legislative members receiving appointments were John Schoen, Sioux City, secretary of the Iowa council of state, county and municipal employes; E. M. McConney, Des Moines, president of Bankers Life company, and Fred K. Schmidt, superintendent of schools at Eldora.

A joint senate-house resolution was passed in the 54th general assembly to create the study committee. A representative of the state's employment commission is yet to be named to the committee.

HITLER'S WARTIME trouble-shooter, SS Lt. Col. Otto Skorzeny, who was called the "most dangerous man in Europe" by Allied authorities before they found him after World War II, is living in Madrid under the name of Rolf Steinbauer. Skorzeny engineered the rescue of Mussolini for Hitler. He was tried by Allies for infiltrating their lines during Battle of the Bulge with killers in U. S. uniforms. He was acquitted on plea they were spies, allowable under rules of war.

Details On How New Draft Law Hits Married Men's Deferments

By DAVID O. TYSON WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman signed the universal military training and service (UMTS) law last week and opened the way to wipe out draft deferments for at least 370,000 men.

Eventually about 220,000 men with only one dependent, about 150,000 4-F's and smaller numbers of aliens will be made available for induction.

In addition, 9,000 conscientious objectors now deferred, outright will have to go into noncombat training and service, get into jobs that their draft boards think essential or face prosecution.

But don't start closing out your personal affairs yet if you're in one of these categories.

Selective service headquarters say local boards may not start reclassifying these registrants until new draft regulations are issued.

Boards won't receive the regulations until about the second week in July. Then, because the reclassification and induction machinery is so complicated, no one affected by the new law could be inducted before late August at the earliest.

Here's how reclassification will affect those in class 3-A:

When the new regulations are put out your board will go through its files of 3-As. If your file shows you have only one dependent—whether a wife or someone else you support—then your classification will be reopened.

This does not mean you're automatically switched to class 1-A. Your board simply wipes out your 3-A tag and starts afresh, as if you had never been classified before.

Taking all the information in your file, the board will consider whether you are eligible to stay in 3-A or one of the other deferred classes. The others are classes 2-C for essential farm workers, 2-A for other essential workers and 2-A (S) for students.

The defense department and selective service point out that military service always means inconvenience and heartache—and so only if it would mean severe hardship and privation to you one and only dependent if you were drafted may you be retained in class 3-A.

If it would really mean hardship and privation, get the facts into your draft record now. Back up your claim with letters from any disinterested person, like your family doctor, priest or minister.

If you have acquired more than one dependent since you were classified 3-A, make sure that information is in your draft file. Just write a letter to your board telling about it and back it up with any evidence available, like a certified copy of a birth certificate.

Draft regulations state a child is a dependent not from date of birth but from date of conception. So if your wife is pregnant, get a doctor's statement to that effect and send it to your board.

Some 3-As may feel that, if they must serve, they would like to be in the air force, navy or marine corps, none of which are yet taking draftees.

As long as they're 3-A these men have a chance to enlist in the air, naval or marine organized reserve, but after they're 1-A they won't be accepted. Tomorrow: changes in 4-F.)

SUI Graduate Displays Portraits

An SUI graduate and daughter of a former Iowa City resident is currently painting portraits of the children of air force personnel in Wiesbaden, Germany.

She is Mrs. L. A. West, who recently displayed a group of her pastels and oils at a business and luncheon meeting of the Officers Wives club in Wiesbaden.

Portraits First Interest
Mrs. West said her first interest in painting was portrait work. After her marriage she did most of her painting in her home, using her three small daughters and the youngsters of her friends as subjects.

She came to Germany in June, 1950 with her husband, Lt. Col. L. A. West, chief of surgery, 49th Medical group, Wiesbaden U.S. air force hospital. Before he entered service, Dr. West practiced surgery in Des Moines.

Exhibited at State Fair
Mrs. West's pictures have been exhibited at the Iowa State fair, where she won two gold medals. Once she displayed a self-portrait along with other Iowa artists at the Des Moines library. Grant Wood's self-portrait was awarded first place in the show, with Mrs. West's taking second.

Mrs. West holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from SUI, where she studied with Philip Guston. She is affiliated with Pi Beta Phi, social sorority, and is listed in "Who's Who" and "American Women" as a child portrait painter.

She is the daughter of Mrs. C. H. Dayton, former Iowa City resident.

MRS. L. A. WEST pauses in arranging her display of oils and pastels at the Neroberg Officers club to study the effect of lighting on her oil painting of Susie Lewis, daughter of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Millard Lewis.

Rivers Rage Out Of Control In Kansas Following Rains

TOPEKA, KAN. (UP) — High rivers, fed by heavy rains in northeast Kansas, raged out of control Tuesday for the second time in a week, with serious flooding at Topeka and Lawrence.

The Shunganunga river, swollen by a 2.07 inch rain at Topeka, surged out of its banks and flooded between 150 and 200 homes in the southwest corner of Topeka.

The police department said an area six blocks wide by seven blocks long was under water. Most of the homes in the area were part of a new housing development. One large apartment project was threatened by the raging stream.

At Lawrence, the Kansas river rose above the 24 foot level, about a foot below the critical flood stage of last week.

Volunteers were called to build up the sodden dikes that kept the water out of the principal part of the city last week. But in north Lawrence the water flowed around the dikes and stood four feet deep in some places.

E. K. Zook, secretary of the Lawrence chamber of commerce, said all highways and roads to the north of the city were under water.

Business buildings along one highway were waist deep in water. Men were dispatched from the Olathe naval air station to bolster the volunteer forces.

At Topeka, personnel from the Forbes air force base were called to assist in the flood stricken area. Boats were rushed into service to evacuate scores of persons living along the stream's banks.

New flooding occurred at Manhattan where the Kansas swirled 5.3 feet beyond its banks. The stream was three feet over bankful at Wamego, almost six feet beyond its banks at Topeka and three feet over banks at Lawrence.

The flooding at Beloit continued serious where the Solomon spread almost 10 feet beyond its banks.

The Smoky Hill threatened to cause serious flooding at Enterprise.

Korean Veteran — Breaks Rib While Home

HARLAN, KY. (AP) — The fighting wasn't over for Congressional Medal of Honor winner Carl H. Dodd, 26, when he left Korea. The army first lieutenant reportedly suffered a broken rib when a row broke out at a party given in his honor, state police said.

Dodd received the nation's highest military decoration from President Truman May 19.

The party was given Saturday night by the women's auxiliary of the local American Legion post at his hometown, nearby Kenvir.

The post's sergeant-at-arms, William Petrey, said about 50 persons were involved in the melee.

State police reported the arrest of Clarence Robinson, 31, a coal miner, on a charge of assault and battery, and Archie Lewis Hall, 31, Kenvir, on charges of drunkenness and breach of peace.

Police said they were told the trouble started when an unidentified man and his wife got into a quarrel.

State police said Petrey told them Dodd didn't know who hit him. He was not available for comment.

Robinson and Hall were scheduled for arraignment Tuesday before Harlan county Judge J. Ray Rice.

Dodd, honored for heroism in Korea, is at home on leave.

Store Beats Beef Control With Buffalo-Steer Meat

HURON, S. D. (UP) — The Lampe meat market found a way Tuesday to get around high beef prices, stay legal and keep customers happy.

The market will have buffalo steaks, buffalo roasts and buffaloburgers for weekend shoppers.

The meat comes from an animal more properly called a catalo—a cross between an Angus steer and a buffalo cow. They're distinguished by the broad shoulders and deep chest of the buffalo, and the broad rump of the Angus breed.

A. E. Johnson, Trail City, S. D., raised the animals on his ranch in the western part of the state. He has a herd of about 20 animals.

He recently sold five of the animals at a livestock sale. The Armour meat packing company bought one steer and resold it to the Lampe meat market. The firm said they paid regulation beef prices for the animal, but the government was not allowed to stamp or grade it.

The meat market said the quality compares to good beef, but since it isn't stamped or graded by the government, there is no ceiling price on it.

"We didn't know what to do with the meat at first, but everything was clearly legal so we decided to sell it to the public," Randall Lampe, owner of the market, said.

He said the market would offer buffalo steaks, roasts and buffaloburgers for sale this weekend.

More U.S. Women Do Office Work than Any Other Type Job

There are now more women stenographers, typists and other office workers in America than there are women in any other occupation the women's division of the Institute of Life Insurance has pointed out.

In the last 80 years, according to government figures, the number of women in these clerical jobs has risen from a few thousand to over four million.

The women who work in offices in the United States now receive a considerable part of all income earned by women, the Institute reported, and account for much of the saving and spending which women do.

Their average income during a recent year was around $2,000 a year, even when the incomes of part-time workers were included and the incomes of women who worked only a few weeks or a few months during the year.

Studies made by a life insurance association has revealed that more than a quarter of all the insurance which women buy is bought by clerical workers. A third is bought by married women who are full-time homemakers and the rest is purchased by business and professional women, by students, by self-employed women and by women working in other kinds of jobs.

Got Those Blues? — Proper Laundry Sorting Speeds Job on Washday

Paradoxically, the warmer the weather gets and the less you feel like doing housework, the more family washing there seems to be — more cotton dresses, more washable suits, more youngsters' play clothes full of sand.

A washing machine is a big help, but there's no machine to do the sorting pre-treatment and hanging-out-to-dry to your summer washing.

Sort Clothes in Six Groups
You can speed the washday job along if you start out by sorting soiled laundry properly. Clothes should be divided into six groups:

1. Fine linens — white or fast colors.
2. Cotton and linens — white or light, fast colors, sub-divided into lightly soiled and heavily soiled groups.
3. Colored cotton — dark, fast colors.
4. Rayons, silks and nylons.
5. Work clothes.
6. Special pieces — blankets, bath rugs and bedspreads.

You can now make corsages stay fresh for hours. Or you can arrange flowers without water on your company dinner table and expect the same lasting beauty. The trick, reported in the July issue of Better Homes & Gardens magazine is this:

First, dissolve about one-half teaspoon of a complete plant food (high in nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium) in a quart of water.

Hospital Names Personnel Officer

James P. McGuire, Ft. Meade, S.D., has been appointed personnel officer for the Veteran's hospital here by the veteran's administration.

McGuire will be transferred to Iowa City late this summer to take up his new duties, according to information received from G. H. Sweet, assistant administrator for personnel with the veteran's administration, Washington, D.C.

He is the second person to be appointed to a top executive position at the $10 million hospital. He is currently holding a similar position at the veteran's hospital, Ft. Meade.

SUI Law Student Named To Iowa UWF Council

David Stanley, LI, Muscatine, was named Iowa United World Federalist council member at the close of a three-day session in Des Moines Sunday.

His father, C. M. Stanley, Muscatine manufacturer, was renamed council member. A motion to retain all officers until the August meeting at Columbus, O., was passed.

Workshop Concerns Adult Education In Junior Colleges

Problems of adult education in the junior college received the attention of the fourth annual junior college workshop at SUI Tuesday.

The workshop will continue today. This afternoon a panel will discuss problems of adult education.

Members of the panel include Jesse P. Bogue, executive secretary of the American junior colleges; J. P. Street, assistant superintendent of the state department of public instruction and director of Iowa's public junior colleges; Dean E. T. Peterson of the college of education; Provost Harvey H. Davis and Prof. Hew Roberts, college of education.

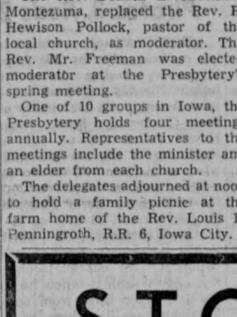

Elementary teacher training in the junior college will be the subject of a discussion this morning, led by Marshall R. Beard, registrar at Iowa State Teachers college; Prof. L. A. Van Dyke, college of education, and J. P. Street.

Tuesday the workshop members heard of the adult education program in Mason City from Clifford Beem, dean of the Mason City junior college, and Alvie Sarchett, director of adult education.

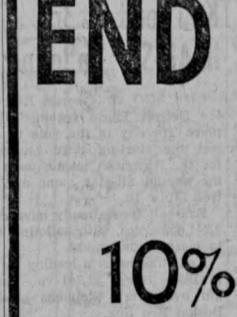

Mrs. Helen Howe, teacher in Burlington junior college, told of nurses training school and co-sponsorship of adult education by community organizations.

From a look in the fresh fruit racks of local stores it looks as though grapefruit will be plentiful during the next month. For a different and picture-pretty first course serving, or for added attractiveness in that Sunday or holiday breakfast, make grapefruit baskets.

PLACE TWO TOOTHPICKS on each side of grapefruit half, about a half-inch apart. With a sharp knife, cut just through skin from toothpick on one side to toothpick on other side. Then separate sections from membrane as in usual service, cutting around each.

LIFT NARROW STRIPS of skin, still attached at each side between toothpicks, and tie in center.

ATTACH FLOWER to handle of basket or place card, using narrow ribbon or fine wire.

White Sox Win, 11-3

CHICAGO (AP) — The pace-setting Chicago White Sox Tuesday night swept into a two game lead of the American league by lambasting the Detroit Tigers, 11-3 before 47,120 as Washington defeated the New York Yankees in the nation's capital.

The contest, first of a three-game series with Detroit, was a free hitting affair with manager Red Rolfe using four pitchers in an attempt to check the rampaging Sox. The Sox threw three pitchers into the fray.

Jimmy Busby, center fielder, and Orestes Minoso, leading the American league batting parade, paced the White Sox with three hits each. George Kell, Tiger third baseman, and right fielder Viv Wetz clouted successive home runs for Detroit. Wetz collected four of Detroit's 14 hits.

The game ended the consecutive hitting streak of Chicago's Bob Dillinger, who hit safely in 18 contests.

Gumpert, with a 7-1 record, failed to survive the fifth after the Tigers tied the score at 3-3. Mary Rotblatt, a lefty, came in to issue an intentional pass to pinch hitter Steve Souchock, filling the bases.

When another pinch hitter, Don Kolloway appeared for Detroit, right hander Luis Aloma replaced Rotblatt. The strategy worked as Kolloway hit into a double play to end the rally.

ton blasted three New York pitchers for 14 hits and 7-3 victory Tuesday night. Ed Lopat, a 10-game winner, lost his third decision.

Marrero posted his seventh win. The only hits off him in the last six innings were a pair of pop flies. He walked three and struck out five.

Lopat was handed a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Phil Rizzuto walked and Hank Bauer doubled, to start the game; and Rizzuto scored when Gil Coan fumbled Bauer's drive and threw wild past third, Bauer advanced to third and scored on Mickey Mantle's infield hit.

Singles by Eddie Yost, who got four of the Senators' hits and walked for a perfect game, Sam Mele and Mike McCormick fetched Washington a run in the first inning. The Senators tied the score in the second on Gene Verble's single, Marrero's sacrifice and Yost's single.

The Senators splurged for three runs and chased Lopat in the fourth inning. Marrero started the uprising by walking and Yost supplied his third single. Marrero scored on Irv Noren's single to left, Yost halting at third. Frank Shea went in to dispose of Mele on an infield fly, but McCormick doubled to score Yost and Noren.

McGuinness Ousts Fontanini In Iowa Amateur Golf Meet

DES MOINES — Redheaded John McGuinness, Des Moines Junior champion, turned in the first major upset of the Iowa Amateur tournament Tuesday by ousting co-medalist Sergio Fontanini in the first round.

McGuinness edged Fontanini, the Des Moines City titleholder, one-up to advance to the afternoon second round. Rodney Bliss, Des Moines, who shared medal honors with a 71, breezed past Tom Washburn, Davenport, 6 and 5.

In the afternoon, Johnny Stoltz, the 29-year-old Ottumwa star, hit a brisk finishing pace to down Jack Webb of Spirit Lake, the 1949 champion, 1 up in 20 holes.

Johnny missed a three-foot putt on 18 for a birdie three, postponing his triumph until the 20th green where he made a five-foot putt for a birdie deuce.

Rodney Bliss continued his fast tempo. The former Nebraska state champion pushed out Charles Meerdink of Muscatine 5 and 4.

John McGuinness whipped Bob Leahy of Denison 6 and 4 in the afternoon.

Dale Kocsis, Iowa's Junior and High School ruler, moved into the third round with a 3 and 2 decision over Jimmy Miller of Des Moines.

The third and fourth rounds will be played today to determine the semifinalists. The semifinal rounds will be over 36 holes as will the championship final Friday.

Louise Brough, 7 U.S. Women Climb In Wimbledon Tennis

WIMBLEDON, ENG. — American tennis queens, led by defending champion Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., "sweated out" a five-hour rainstorm Tuesday and then swept through their opening matches in the Wimbledon tournament without a defeat to move into the third round.

Miss Brough, apparently unhampered by a "tennis elbow" which has kept her out of action for three weeks, won easily, 6-1, 6-2, over Mrs. Gwen Scott of England. Three other American women who had drawn also first round byes, moved into the third round. Advancing with the buxom blonde defending champion with second-round victories were second-seeded Mrs. Margaret Osborne DuPont of Wilmington, Del., the U.S. women's champion; fifth-seeded Beverly Baker of Santa Monica, Calif., and Althea Gibson of New York, first Negro girl ever to compete at Wimbledon.

Third-seeded Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla.; fourth-seeded Shirley Fry of Akron, O.; seventh-seeded Nancy Chaffee of Ventura, Calif., and unseeded Betty Rosenquest of South Orange, N. J., scored first-round victories.

PGA Tournament Starts Today at 'Sandtrap, U.S.A.'

OAKMONT, PA. — This is the golf pro's tournament starting today at "Sandtrap, U.S.A."

It's for the championship of the Professional Golfers' association, and "Sandtrap, U.S.A." is what they've dubbed the trapped Oakmont Country club course. There are 142 of the blamed things chopping up the landscape.

Despite the traps, Oakmont holds few terrors for the top shooters who failed to master the tortured acres at Birmingham, Mich., during the U.S. Open. It's almost easy by comparison.

What does haunt them is that one of the little, little guys — like Eddie Burke — can put together just one round and blast the title hope of a fellow like Sam Snead. That's exactly what did happen just a year ago. Eddie Burke never did much before or since, in a tournament way, but on a day in June, 1950, he knocked off Sam Snead, the medalist, defending champion and one of golf-dom's greatest.

That's why the club pros who can't make the tournament tour come along year after year for a shot at the PGA crown. It's their tournament, as much as it is the touring stars.

The real champions, though, come through most of the time. Walter Hagen won the event five times, Gene Sarazen three, Jim Barnes, Leo Diegel, Paul Runyan, Denny Shute, Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan and Snead once each. Last year's winner was Chandler Harper.

Sarazen is playing in his 27th PGA championship. . . . There have been only 33 all told. . . . Gentleman Gene proved he's still mighty sharp by posting a three under par 69 in a tune-up round. . . . Longest match was Hagen's 43rd hole defeat by the late Johnny Golden in 1932 at St. Paul. . . . Shortest ended at 12 and 11, a mark held by several.

One other thing the pros like about their own tournament. . . . Everybody picks up a little money, even the guys who fail to qualify. . . . There's a total of $45,000 at stake. . . . The little guys at least get part of their travel money from the pot.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conrado Marrero held the Yankees to eight hits — four of which came in the first inning — as Washington

One out later Fondy brought both runners home.

Fondy was batting for Dutch Leonard who got the victory. Bob Rush relieved and held the Redbirds in the last of the tenth.

Musial opened the eighth with a single and one out later Billy Johnson's fly fell for a hit. After Jones popped out starter Paul Minner walked Del Rice.

The Schoendienst singled, scoring Musial and Johnson. Slaughter also singled, bringing home Rice to tie the count.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pinchhitter Dec Fondy doubled home two runs in the 10th inning to salvage a 7-5 victory for the Chicago Cubs over the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday night. The Cubs led from the fourth frame until Red Schoendienst and Enos Slaughter, both in pinchhitter roles, tied the count in the eighth.

Randy Jackson opened the 10th with a single. Eddie Miksis sacrificed and both runners were safe on Nippy Jones' throw to second.

Phils 7, Braves 0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bubba Church pitched five-hit ball Tuesday night in steering the Philadelphia Phillies to a 7-0 triumph over the Boston Braves.

An audience of 18,862 saw the Phillies raise their National league 1950 pennant before the game when Jim Konstanty also was presented the circuit's most valuable player award.

Tommy Brown hit a homer for the Phils' first run in the third inning and his single off Bob Elliott's glove started the Quakers to two more tallies in the fifth.

Brown's homer was his third of the season, all hit since he joined the Phils from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Kell Leads at 3rd In All-Star Balloting

CHICAGO (AP) — George Kell of the Detroit Tigers regained first place Tuesday in the vote to select the starting third baseman for the American league team in the annual all-star game at Detroit July 10.

Baseball fans already have cast 2,241,652 votes, with balloting due to close Friday night.

Kell, the league's leading hitter in 1949, took a 21,241-vote margin over Vern Stephens of the Boston Red Sox.

Marines May Be Forced to Draft Men

WASHINGTON — Gen. Clifton B. Cates, marine corps commandant, revealed Tuesday that the marines will be forced to resort to the draft to attain their present authorized strength of 204,300 officers and men.

He made the disclosure to the house armed services committee shortly before the group voted 26 to 1 to approve a bill fixing the minimum strength of the corps at 300,000 men and adding the commandant to the joint chiefs of staff.

Cates strongly endorsed the measure although it was opposed by the defense department. He said, however, that it will be necessary to use the draft to meet the corps' present manpower goals and the new bill would make such action even more necessary.

The marines traditionally have filled their manpower needs through volunteers although they did use the draft in World War I and II.

Like the air force, they have not used the draft since it was revived after the fighting began in Korea. Cates said he expects a decision shortly on how the corps will use the draft and how many men will have to be called.

The new manpower bill is expected to win house approval but some members believe President Truman will veto it on the basis of recommendations by his military chiefs. Even so, supporters of the legislation are confident they can override a veto.

The marines now have about 194,000 men or some 10,000 short of their present authorized strength. Should the new bill become law, they would have to find more than 100,000 additional men.

The senate already has approved a similar measure which would raise the authorized strength of the marines to 400,000 men and make the commandant a "consultant" to the joint chiefs.

Germany to Send Troops For Pact Army

LONDON — The Allied high commissioners for Germany have completed a report providing for the inclusion of between 200,000 and 250,000 Germans in Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Atlantic army, reliable sources said Tuesday night.

The report, based on five months of negotiations with West Germans, is to be presented to the North Atlantic council deputies early next month.

Informants said the report would call for a German armed force of about 150,000 men to be supplemented by a tactical and defense air force and light naval forces.

The Allied high commissioners have sent their report to Washington, London and Paris for approval by their governments.

Officer Says Confidence Men Hardest to Convict

Confidence men are the toughest criminals to apprehend and convict, primarily because 95 per cent of their crimes are not reported to the police for fear of implicating the victims.

William C. Hopkins, Omaha, Neb., special agent for the federal bureau of investigation, made this statement at the session on extortion and confidence games at the 15th annual peace officers short course at SUI Tuesday.

Hopkins warned the officers of an increase in confidence games in Iowa and presented several skits to show how skillfully these "aristocrats of crime" operate.

One skit showed how easily the "switch trick" can beat a cashier out of $20. The "con" man hands a cashier 19 one-dollar bills and asks for a crisp twenty, giving the story that he wants a clean bill to send his mother for her birthday.

He seals the twenty in an envelope to her and drops it. In retrieving it, he switches it with a dummy envelope. Meantime, the cashier has discovered that she has received only 19 dollars for the twenty. He agrees and attempts to pay her one more dollar, only to find himself "short."

He gives her the envelope which supposedly has the twenty in it for the 19 ones, and goes outside "to my car to get the other buck from my wife." With the twenty dollars, plus the 19 the cashier has given back, he leaves for good.

Hopkins cited cases where a particularly bold con man returned to the scene of his crime and checked court records to see if the victim had sworn out a warrant against him.

If he had, the swindler hired an attorney to approach the victim and offer a partial payment in return for a release. The victim, usually willing to do anything to regain part of his loss, signed a release and received part of the money back.

Most frequently the victim does not swear out a warrant, Hopkins said, because the swindle has made him a party to a dishonest act. Sometimes he holds back to avoid the unpleasant publicity, and sometimes he isn't even aware that he has been swindled.

Agent Hopkins also "credited" Iowa with producing the "father of the confidence men," describing a Council Bluffs man who operated an elaborate system of swindles at the time the Union Pacific railroad was under construction in the west.

With the help of Tom Simpson, Iowa highway safety patrolman, Burlington; Lorin Felderman, sheriff, Maquoketa; FBI agents Andy Strittmatter, Kenneth Bridenstine, John Kelly and Pat Smith, Bloomfield, and Mary Jayne Williams, New London, graduate students at the university, Hopkins staged several skits to show how some common "con" games are carried out.

Confidence games in general involve the same basic steps of choosing a victim, winning his confidence, steering him to the "inside" man, introducing the dishonest way of making money, allowing the victim to make a profit, getting him to plunge on one more try, taking his bankroll, sending him away and slacking off the relation with him.

In the "long con game" described, there is no quick action either to get the money or to sever relations with the victim abruptly. Only in the short game, which usually involves a smaller amount of money, is the swindle accomplished quickly and the as-

EXAMINING THE SCENE of an imaginary crime are four participants in the 15th annual peace officers short course which is being held this week at SUI. The "crime" here was homicide, with the unlucky, a dummy, sprawled on the floor at the right of the picture. Pistol and other clues are examined by (left to right) Gay Folkers, New Hampton; Chief of Police O. J. Erickson, Ames; Sheriff R. L. Blecker, Clarion, and Deputy Sheriff William Caffery, Davenport.

Speakers Advise Caution Before Building Schools

Iowa school board members, administrators and teachers were advised Tuesday that educational goals and practices should be thoroughly re-examined in planning a school building program.

This was the theme of two talks during final sessions of the second annual school building planning conference at SUI.

Charles W. Bursch, chief of the division of schoolhouse planning, California department of education, told conference members Tuesday night that such re-examination is imperative if the long-term investment is to give the community adequate educational returns.

Renovation of school buildings likewise should be made only when such a project is educationally sound, according to Prof. M. A. Stoneman, school administration department, University of Nebraska.

Speaking on "Reconditioning Old School Buildings" during the noon luncheon meeting, Stoneman pointed out that such factors as population trends, redistricting, curriculum changes, school sites and improved building standards must be considered before either renovating or remodeling is undertaken.

Bursch, who is co-author of the book, "You Want to Build a school?" talked on the same topic Tuesday night.

"No longer can an appropriate new school be provided merely by visiting a few new buildings or by checking hastily-prepared plans against a score card and a set of published standards," Bursch declared.

"These have their place," he added, "but they are no valid substitute for a thoroughgoing, widely-shared re-examination of educational goals, curricular materials and methods of teaching."

Conference guests also heard talks on "Cost Analysis of Recent School Construction" during the morning session.

Prof. Koo To Give Summer Lecture

Prof. T. Z. Koo, head of Oriental studies at SUI, will present the second of the series of summer lectures Friday at 8 p.m. on the south Iowa Memorial Union campus.

Koo will speak on "Backgrounds of the Far Eastern Situation." Formerly an SUI teacher of religion, Koo has been a leader of many religious emphasis weeks at various U.S. colleges and universities.

Koo was secretary of the World's Student Christian federation from 1934 to 1947.

During the 1949-50 school year Koo taught at the University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla.

The lecture is open to the general public. In case of rain, it will be held in Macbride auditorium.

Nurse to Speak At SUI Workshop

Edwin G. Nourse, formerly chairman of the President's council of economic advisers, will be the first outside speaker at the second annual workshop on economic education today.

He will give two lectures in the library lecture room. At 1 p.m. he will speak on "Function of Free Enterprise," and at 7 p.m. he will speak on "Problems of the Preservation of the Free Enterprise Economy."

Psychiatrist Outlines School's Responsibility

Schools today are being challenged to take responsibility for children's emotional development, Dr. Jacques A. Gottlieb told members of the SUI workshop in human relations and mental health Tuesday.

Gottlieb, assistant director of Psychopathic hospital, is chairman of the committee on preventive psychiatry of the Group for Advancement of Psychiatry, an organization of leading U.S. and Canadian psychiatrists.

"As the home relinquishes more and more of its responsibility for children to the schools," he said, "education becomes the most important social institution engaged in preparing children to take an active part in society."

If schools accept the challenge and add to their other goals the emotional development of students, Dr. Gottlieb pointed out, the role of the teacher becomes even more important.

He said that if teachers are to help children develop emotionally, they must be prepared for that role — they must be able to understand children and must come to understand themselves. They must recognize the significance of their personal relationships with the child, and act accordingly.

Gottlieb stressed that an intellectual understanding and appreciation of the factors which lead to healthy emotional adjustment would not be enough.

"There must also be emotional understanding," he declared, "so that attitudes and interpersonal relations will be affected, and children can learn to withstand ordinary frustrations and enrich their lives."

Such a program of preventive psychiatry in the schools would tend to reduce mental illness in the future, he explained, noting that half the hospital beds in the U.S. are occupied by patients with neuropsychiatric disorders.

He distinguished between preventive psychiatry and mental hygiene. The mental hygiene movement has become characterized by the goals of improvement in state hospitals and the development of clinics, he said, while preventive psychiatry must influence large groups of persons and social institutions.

The workshop at which he spoke is conducted by Prof. Ralph H. Ojemann, director of a research project in preventive psychiatry here.

The 33 registrants in the two-week workshop are studying the teaching approach and materials developed by Ojemann and his staff. The workshop opened at SUI Monday and will continue until July 6.

50 Clinic Children To See Shrine Circus

Approximately 50 children from the SUI summer speech clinic will attend the Shrine circus in Cedar Rapids today. The trip is sponsored by the Cedar Rapids Shrine.

The children, ranging in age from 7 to 18 years, will have a picnic supper in Iowa City upon their return. The day's activities are part of the summer clinic's recreational program.

The recreational activities are an important part of the clinic, Carolyn Gustafson, director of the dormitory program for the summer speech clinic, said Tuesday.
