Reds Get UN Armistice Proposal

Suggested Armistice Site

WONSON HARBOR located by the box and pointer was offered Friday as a possible meeting place between the representatives of the United Nations and the commander-in-chief of the Red forces in North Korea. Solid line is approximate battle line with Communist forces designated by open arrows and UN forces by solid arrows.

Allies Smash Attacks Prior To Truce Bid

TOKYO (SATURDAY) (AP)— Allied artillery smashed attacks by two Communist companies in central Korea early today—hours before the official bid for an armistice in the year-long war.

A lull had settled over most of the 100-mile battlefield Friday. But shortly before midnight, the Reds struck northeast of Kumhwa. Eighth army headquarters reported they were hurled back.

Kumhwa is 17 air miles north of parallel 38 and at the southeast corner of the Reds' shattered "iron triangle." Frightful Red losses in two ill-fated spring offensives from that triangle preceded Moscow's suggestions for field negotiations.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, on instructions from Washington, addressed a broadcast message at 8 a.m. (4 p.m. CST, Friday) to the Communist commander-in-chief in Korea.

In the field, there was a bitter but localized fight Friday for a hill in the west, and signs of stiffening Red resistance in the center. But the overall situation added up to a lull.

A hill north of parallel 38 in the west changed hands six times. At nightfall, the Reds held it. In the mountainous center, 1,000 Reds stood firm against Allied patrols probing the area of Kumson, a Red buildup point 20 miles north of 38.

The mounting reports of a possible impending truce were passed from soldier to soldier across the battle-front.

In east-central Korea, a North Korean lieutenant serving as a political officer surrendered to a U.S. soldier. He said he had heard the report. He said that Jacob Malik, Russia's UN delegate, proposed a cease-fire, had reached the Communist front lines.

6 Local Men Face Induction July 16

Six men from Johnson county will be inducted into the army July 16, draft board officials announced Friday.

This group is the smallest number ordered from the county since the start of the Korean war. The July quota of six will bring to 153 the number of men from Johnson county drafted into the service.

Local Service Resumed

The first United airlines flights out of Iowa City since the end of the pilots' strike will be at 1:45 and 5 p.m. today.

The 1:45 p.m. flight is west-bound and the 5 p.m. flight is east-bound. B. D. McWilliams, manager of the airport, said reservations have been taken since Friday.

British Oil Company Closes Iran Plant

LONDON (AP)— The Anglo-Iranian Oil company announced Friday it is closing down its entire operations in Iran.

British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison voiced the hope that the consequences of Iran's nationalization of the industry will force a change in the Tehran government's attitude.

Congress Rams Through Stop-Gap Controls Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)— Congress rushed through a bill extending the nation's economic controls for 31 days Friday, but slapped an absolute ban on price rollbacks and most new price ceilings.

Final passage came less than 36 hours before all controls were due to expire at midnight tonight.

If President Truman signs the bill, a vast series of price rollbacks already ordered will have to be suspended.

The office of price stabilization (OPS) estimated Friday night the ban on rollbacks would cost consumers about $5 billion. Rollback orders affecting machinery, shoes, cotton textiles, and many other lines of manufactured goods were scheduled to go into effect July 2.

Congress worked at top speed to ram through the 11th hour extension.

The house initiated the stop-gap bill, adopting it on a voice vote after a roll call vote of 232 to 159 added a "status quo" amendment prohibiting all rollbacks and any new ceilings except for farm products which might reach parity price levels during the month.

A messenger rushed the emergency legislation to the senate, where it was immediately approved by the senate banking committee and sent to the floor. Senate approval came within two hours of house passage.

There was little doubt that the President would sign the bill in order to keep his anti-inflation program alive, even on a restricted basis, until Congress completes work on a comprehensive new law.

There was no debate on the bill in the senate. It sailed through

Thailand Premier Held Ship's Captive In Bangkok Harbor

SINGAPORE (SATURDAY) (AP)— Premier Marshal Plaek Pibulsonggram of Thailand was kidnapped by naval and marine forces and kept a prisoner Friday aboard a warship in Bangkok harbor, the Thai navy radio said.

The navy radio said the premier had been "arrested" during a ceremony Thursday at which an American charge d'affaires presented a dredge to Thailand.

There was no shooting at the time and no resistance to the seizure of the premier, the broadcast said.

The navy insisted that the action was taken by "officers of all three services" who were dissatisfied with the Pibulsonggram regime. Among the dissidents, Gen. Luang Kach was mentioned.

Kach was a long-time friend of the premier but was exiled to Hong Kong a year and a half ago when Pibulsonggram nipped in the bud a plot aimed at his government.

The army announced that the ministry of foreign affairs had assumed control of Thailand's government and that the deputy minister of defense had ordered the navy to remain in its barracks.

Army-navy rivalry for power has long been a source of danger in Thailand. Former premier Pridi Phanomyong, who is believed to be in China with the Chinese Communists, has strong support within naval ranks.

Anxious World Awaits Reply From Peiping

WASHINGTON (UP)— The United States and its Allies took the initiative Friday in attempts to end the Korean war by inviting the Communists to armistice talks aboard a Danish hospital ship in the North Korean harbor of Wonsan.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, UN Far East commander, broadcast the proposal to the Communist commander over all available South Korean radio stations. He emphasized that any truce agreement must contain "adequate guarantees" against a renewal of Red aggression.

One Western diplomat here said the Communists made peace overtures even before Ridgway made his broadcast. He added that a cease-fire could come at any time. But other officials here and at UN headquarters in New York cautioned against over-optimism.

The Communist reaction was uncertain but Western leaders were more hopeful than ever for an end of the bloody "police action" which already has cost the Allies and the Communists more than 4,720,213 battle and non-battle casualties among civilians and troops.

Ridgway told the Communist commander: "I am informed that you may wish a meeting to discuss an armistice providing for the cessation of hostilities and all acts of armed force in Korea, with adequate guarantees for the maintenance of such armistice."

"Upon receipt of word from you that such a meeting is desired, I shall be prepared to name my representative. I would also at that time suggest a date at which we could meet with your representative. I propose that such a meeting could take aboard a Danish hospital ship in Wonsan harbor."

Ridgway's statement added up to the fact that the United States and its Allies with troops in Korea are ready to talk terms if the Communists are really serious about ending the Korean war. If they are not, the war will go on.

Ridgway acted on instructions sent to him earlier by the defense department and the U.S. and its 15 Allies. His announcement capped a day of swift developments which left the Western world more hopeful than at any time yet that the bloody Korean war may end soon.

Ridgway made his broadcast as representatives of the 16 United Nations met here to discuss what steps must be taken in the U.S. if, and when, an armistice is arranged. At UN headquarters in New York, a high official said it would be at least 48 hours before a cease-fire could be nailed down.

Although officials here and at UN headquarters were elated at the speed with which Ridgway moved, they cautioned that some rugged negotiations might be in the offing before the shooting stops — if it does.

The consensus seemed to be that if Russia wanted an end to the Korean war the Chinese and North Koreans will go along.

A high diplomatic official said here that Ridgway's appeal was directed to the Communist "commander-in-chief" to cover the possibility that either a Chinese or a North Korean might step forward. But the official believed a Chinese probably is the commander in North Korea.

The contents of Ridgway's message were given in advance to the South Koreans, who generally have opposed any cease-fire at the 38th parallel.

Their reaction was not immediately known, but they were not expected to give up their long-term goal of trying to unify all Korea. It was hoped, however, that they could be persuaded to attempt a unification on a political instead of a military basis.

While Wonsan, site of the proposed meeting, is deep in Red Korea, there already were Allied ships in or near the area. Destroyers and heavy cruisers bombarded the port Thursday for the 134th consecutive day.

Members of congress also hailed the action, although several lawmakers warned that must be no "appeasement." Several said it "all depends" on the terms demanded by the Communists and whether Malik was "serious."

Chairman Tom Connally (D-Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee, said he was "highly gratified" with Ridgway's action. He hoped "it means a cease-fire and peace."

Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry, Neb., favored talking peace "every time the government has a chance to talk peace." But, he said, "every final settlement must be a lasting one without appeasement."

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)— It probably will be at least 48 hours before a Korean cease-fire can be nailed down, a high United Nations official said Friday.

Secretary General Trygve Lie, who ordered the cease-fire proposal circulated Friday night to all delegations as a UN White Paper, commented: "I earnestly hope that the message of the commander-in-chief of the United Nations command will receive a prompt and affirmative response."

UN observers generally were elated about the speed of the peace efforts, culminated by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's proposal for armistice talks aboard the Danish hospital ship Jutulandia in Wonsan harbor.

But they cautioned that there were large difficulties to be cleared in cease-fire talks and that opposing generals were not likely to reach agreement without some rough negotiating.

The wording of Ridgway's broadcast proposal to the Red commander-in-chief talked of an armistice covering a cease-fire and accompanying guarantees. The question was: Could these talks be split into two stages so that the fighting could stop while the complicated questions of borders, buffer zone (if any) and exchange of observers proceeded.

One reaction to Ridgway's broadcast was that it will determine whether the Russian proposal for a cease-fire was genuine. A high UN official thought Washington suggestions that a cease-fire might come in a matter of hours was somewhat optimistic.

He said one of the big problems in armistice talks would concern the question of a buffer zone between rival armies. He said the line of fortification the Allies have been building approximately along the 38th parallel ran along the most natural defense line in the mid section of Korea and therefore Ridgway's command probably would insist on a buffer zone running north into North Korea.

The Communists were not likely to agree to that, he said, without some vigorous arguing, if at all. Turkish Delegate Selim Sarper, whose country's Korean troops have hung up a distinguished battle record, said when informed of Ridgway's broadcast: "I hope it will succeed, but I cannot express any feeling stronger than hope, for Thursday, the North Koreans made a broadcast demanding punishment of American war criminals. This is a funny sort of demand at a time when they are supposed to talk peace, so I am rather cautious."

Egyptian Delegate Mahmoud Fawzi Bey, commenting on the cease-fire effort, before word was received of the Ridgway broadcast, said: "Although I am usually an optimist, yet, on this question, I do not encourage optimism, bearing in mind the difference between a cease-fire in Korea and a final peaceful settlement of the whole Korean question — a settlement that I believe will need continuous effort and considerable time."

Dr. Ales Bebler of Yugoslavia, chief of the only anti-Soviet Communist delegation, said he thought there was "a good chance" that Ridgway's cease-fire proposal would be successful but that there would be no further developments for a matter of days.

Dr. Tidrick Named Head of SUI Department of Surgery

Dr. Robert T. Tidrick, professor of general surgery at the SUI college of medicine, has been named head of the department of surgery, President Virgil M. Hancher announced Friday.

Tidrick will succeed Dr. Nathan A. Womack, who resigned in May to become head of surgery at the University of North Carolina. Tidrick's appointment, approved by the state board of education, will become effective Sept. 1.

The son of a missionary, Tidrick was born in Egypt. He received a B.A. degree from Tarkio college, Tarkio, Mo., in 1932, and his doctor's degree cum laude from Washington university, St. Louis, Mo., in 1936.

After interning for a year in University hospitals, Tidrick served as an intern at American hospital, Assiut, Egypt. He returned to the university's college of medicine in 1938 as an assistant resident in surgery.

During his years on the Iowa medical faculty, Tidrick served as a resident in surgery, instructor in orthopedic pathology, assistant and instructor in surgery, and as an assistant, associate and full professor of surgery.

He served in 1949-50 as chairman of the executive committee in charge of the college of medicine.

Communists Staging Buildup: Marshall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Marshall said Friday that the Communist world is staging a "rather ominous" buildup of its military strength.

As a vital part of the American effort to match this buildup, Marshall said, the nation must expect to spend at least $6.3 billion a year in each of the next three years—a total of almost $19 billion—on military aid to its allies.

Marshall expressed the opinion this will have to be done no matter how the Korean cease-fire negotiations result. Apart from "the tragedy of the casualties," he told the house foreign affairs committee, Korea is only one incident in the world picture.

Marshall testified in favor of the administration's program of $8.5 billion in foreign military and economic aid during the fiscal year beginning next Sunday.

Of this sum, $6.3 billion is earmarked for military aid alone, most of it to western Europe.

Marshall said rather diplomatically what many congressional critics of the foreign aid program have put more bluntly—that some of America's European allies are dragging their feet in the joint mobilization effort.

Marshall balanced this, however, by saying European morale has improved since the North Atlantic treaty organization was set up and that "the confidence and determination of our treaty partners has grown considerably in the past year."

He did not elaborate on his statement that there is a "rather ominous" Communist buildup of strength. But he said "A crucial test of the success of the mutual security program must be met in western Europe."

Testifies Before Budget Official Finance Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assistant Budget Director Elmer B. Staats predicted Friday that defense-swollen federal spending will "level off" in 1955 at $65 billion a year and remain there indefinitely.

He made the forecast in testimony before the senate finance committee, which is weighing the administration's request for $10.7 billion in new taxes to keep the government out of the red. The house has approved a $7.2 billion tax increase.

Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O.) said Staats' testimony made clear that huge defense expenditures will continue "for 10 years or maybe the rest of our lives." He proposed that an independent commission be created to study how the armed forces can get more for their money.

Taft also said he suspected that President Truman has asked for a bigger tax increase than actually is needed this year so that he "won't have to ask for another tax bill next year just before the election."

Staats said government spending during the 1952 fiscal year, which begins Sunday, will run about $68.3 billion. He forecast it will rise during fiscal 1953 to a peak somewhere between $80 billion and $90 billion.

After that, he said, the heavy initial costs of rearmament will be over and the main defense burden will be maintaining armed forces of about 3.5 million men. He predicted that the total budget will drop in fiscal 1954 to about $75 billion and "level off" the following year at $65 billion.

Staats emphasized that more than two-thirds of the prospective spending in each year would go for defense.

He also challenged the popular congressional belief that deep slashes can be made in non-defense spending.

"There is no valid basis," he said, "for assertions that vast sums can be saved by eliminating waste and duplications in the federal bureaucracy."

Staats said the only way to make "substantial" cuts in non-defense spending is to reduce or eliminate programs which congress has established by law—such as veterans benefits, aid to farmers, conservation projects and the like.

Committee to Propose Traffic Plan to Council

Right-hand turns at all times at the intersection of Riverside drive and Iowa ave. and the leveling of the College st. parking lot will be proposed to the city council, the parking and traffic committee of the chamber of commerce announced Friday.

The 16-member committee met in the chamber of commerce office to discuss the two problems and unanimously pass them for recommendation to the council.

Wayne E. Putnam Jr., new committee chairman, said the committee feels that motorists should be allowed to make right turns at Riverside drive and Iowa ave. intersect on at all times, including times when the red stop light is on.

Traffic jams on the Iowa ave. bridge may be avoided, Putnam said, if right hand turns may be made at all times. This procedure was followed some years ago, he said.

The committee also agreed to recommend that the city council approve the leveling of the College st. parking lot in preparation for the permanent surfacing of the lot later this summer.

Because of an 80 foot addition to the lot, the present lot is built on two levels.

City engineer Fred Gartzke met with the committee. Also discussed was a parking layout for the newly opened Musser parking lot, located on the corner of Washington and Gilbert sts.

The committee requested that parking guide rails be laid out and parking on a 45-degree angle be tried. Committee suggestions also called for two entrances off Gilbert st., and two exits and one entrance off Van Buren st.

Briller's Battle . . .
TO THE EDITOR:
Mr. Briller attempts to explain why the Robinson incident happened. He asks us to believe that the German people still hate the Americans and consider themselves to be "World Supermen." Perhaps he is right. This reader does not profess to know the answers, but I do know on-the-spot assumptions like those of Mr. Briller's are not worth the inflated dollar of today. He does not advance the hypothesis that the riot could have been Communist-inspired which seems to be more tangible.

based on an obvious personal hatred of the German people he asks us to anathematize these people. This is certainly contrary to our policy of trying to win them to our side in the crusade against communism by pouring billions of dollars into that country. He also says that we should dislike the German people because Alfred Einstein dislikes them. Einstein, undoubtedly, is a savant in the field of science but he's as much a tyro in the field of human relations as anyone else.

The purpose of this letter is not to feud with Mr. Briller but to ask the American people not to be misled by someone's personal bias. Our real threat today is communism—six years ago it was fascism. In my opinion, by just such incidents as this, the Communists hope to split us up without firing a shot. Let's try to analyze the facts before we jump to any hasty conclusions.

2 Killed; 20 Injured When Illinois Train Plunges Into Creek

MODE, ILL. (AP) — Two persons were killed and 20 injured Friday when the streamlined train "Meadowlark" plunged 100 feet into a creek from the rain-weakened approach to a trestle.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad train, carrying 75 passengers, left the rails when a sodden eastern fill approaching a trestle over Brush creek gave way beneath its weight.

The engine plummeted into the creek and turned over, dragging the baggage car and the train's three coaches down the embankment.

Fireman C. L. Mills, 60, was killed outright by the impact and died in the engine cab. Mail clerk Robert Boatright drowned in the baggage car when it, as well as the engine, were covered with water.

Engineer John R. Beach, 70, suffered an injured leg but saved himself by scrambling out of his cab onto the wreckage.

The injured were taken to hospitals at nearby Salem, Vandalia and Effingham, Ill., but authorities said none seemed seriously hurt.

Officials praised the calmness of the passengers, who waited several hours for ambulances and police cars to push their way across sodden fields to the desolate scene of the wreck.

A four-inch rainfall in the last 24 hours weakened the earthen approach, authorities said.

Engineer Beach said he tried to stop his train as the fill gave way, "but it was too late and we just went down like a chute—the chute."

Ambulances which reached the scene became mired in mud and another train had to be moved in from the other side of the trestle to remove the dead and injured.

Harris Surrenders; Accused of Shooting

FAIRFIELD, ILL. (AP) — Charles (Blackie) Harris, known better by reputation than by sight, surrendered Friday on a warrant charging that he tried to kill two members of the thinning Shelton gang.

Accompanied by several companions, he walked into the sheriff's office, then into the police magistrate's court and quickly gained his freedom on a $10,000 bond.

Questioned by reporters, Harris denied that he was the man who machine-gunned and seriously wounded Lulu Shelton Pennington, 44, and her husband, Guy, 37, on a Fairfield street Thursday. The Penningtons, each shot four times, named Harris as their attacker.

Harris said he learned of the shooting through a radio news flash while he was home listening to a baseball game.

No mention was made by reporters to the later slaying Thursday of Louis Sons, found shot to death in the roadhouse of Ogie Pennington, brother of Guy.

Officers say Sons may have witnessed the machine-gunning.

Harris, an infrequent visitor in town, is an ex-convict and former cronie of the notorious Shelton brothers. He has become an arch foe of the family in recent years, however.

Davenport Man Gives Up To Police After Killing Friend

DAVENPORT (AP) — Ray C. Greenlee, 22, charged with murder in the fatal shooting Friday of Robert Smith, 20, surrendered without resistance when officers closed in on him at his parents' home.

Smith died early Friday of two bullet wounds in the chest, a short time after he stumbled from the trailer he shared with Greenlee. He formerly lived in Fairfield, Ia.

The capture ended an armed search by ground and air that started when Leroy Borah, 13, told officers he heard shots and saw Greenlee dash from the trailer. Borah said Greenlee stuffed a gun in his pocket as he ran.

Greenlee told detectives the shooting was accidental. Officers said the young man told them he and Smith had been drinking beer and he was "pretty drunk."

Officers quoted Greenlee as saying Smith always wanted a Luger pistol and was "messing around" with a Luger pistol owned by Greenlee. He also was quoted as saying he "jerked the gun from Smith's hand" and it went off twice.

"I was so scared I thought of nothing except to run. I went into Davenport and sat in the park for two or three hours and decided to give myself up," officers quoted Greenlee.

Greenlee said he then went to his father's home and gave the gun to his father. The elder Greenlee said he had just finished talking by telephone to the sheriff's office when Ray arrived. Ray's younger brother called police, but police already were converging on the house.

Detectives said a neighbor had reported the youth's return to his home.

Sheriff C. W. (Pete) Wildman organized a posse to search the Mississippi river banks near the trailer camp, and alerted the area. Wildman said his men were equipped with walkie-talkies and planes were pressed into the search. He said he had advised his men to take no chances because he knew Greenlee was armed.

Persons living in the trailer camp said they heard a commotion in the Smith-Greenlee trailer just before the shots.

Wildman said Smith apparently was shot while lying on a bed. He said one bullet was found in the mattress and the other in the trailer floor.

Walkout Hits Fifth Minneapolis Hospital

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A fifth Minneapolis hospital was hit by a walkout of service employees Friday when 28 of 93 laundry, diet kitchen and other help failed to show up for work at St. Mary's hospital.

But admissions were not curbed at St. Mary's as routine continued "about normal" because nurses who teach in Catholic schools volunteered their services, a hospital spokesman said.

The spokesman said workers "got calls last (Thursday) night" and were stopped when they sought to enter St. Mary's Friday by persons "urging them not to work."

Near normal operations were reported by Abbott, Parkview and Northwestern hospitals where either some employees returned to duty or a "few" new employees were hired and volunteers joined in carrying out service duties.

However, admissions were at an "emergency only" basis at Fairview hospital.

State law forbids hospital employees to engage in a work stoppage, but officials of local 113, AFL union building service employees union denied they had called the walkout. Some of the absentee employees said they were "on vacation."

During the past year, the union has threatened to call a strike to back up demands for improved working conditions and a closed shop.

First credit workshop of its kind at the lakeside, the week's program was sponsored by the SUI extension division. Lee W. Cochran, director of audio-visual instruction, was in charge.

Estherville Man Killed In Collision on Bridge
ESTHERVILLE (AP) — Mickey Schany, 26, Estherville, was killed Thursday when his car and another collided at a bridge over the Des Moines river near here. Officers said Schany was attempting to pass a slow-moving tractor-drawn trailer when his car collided with one driven by Gilbert Osher, 66 Grattinger. Schany was employed at the Family hospital here as a utility man.

Koo Says Russian Proposals Betray Unreadiness for War

Russia is not ready for another world war and that may be the reason for their current cease-fire proposals, Prof. T. Z. Koo, director of Oriental studies at SU, told approximately 200 people in Macbride auditorium Friday night.

"Now that word of truce has come up, there are only two views to take," Koo asserted. "The cease-fire talk may be a dodge to stall for time, or Russia may have seen enough of the Korean war to make the risk of an open war too great."

He said if Russia is sincere, the hope of the U. S. for avoiding actual world war is bright. Speaking on "Background of the Far-Eastern Problem" in one of the summer series lectures, Koo outlined the background of political movements in the Far East from before the Communist party began to the present time.

Koo said that the two basic revolutionary movements in China at the turn of the century were political nationalism and economic and social justification. As communism arose in China, it tied in with these two basic movements so tightly that today they cannot be broken, he said. "Yet, if they aren't crushed, the rest of the world is in danger," Koo declared.

"The Communist party's force and power cannot be estimated in terms of numbers," Koo said. "Their members are forced to be active."

He said the three types of party members are the soldier, who is actually fighting the wars, the plain-clothesman, who is behind the lines as a saboteur. But worst of all is the propagandist, who is actually in the midst of a society, undermining and destroying confidence, he said.

After the Communists have come to power they allow no opposition in terms of a second party, Koo emphasized.

"The only way to overthrow a communist government is by armed rebellion," he declared.

Koo said there was no danger of communism in America as long as its citizens are loyal to truth and integrity and thereby preserve their democracy by actually taking their duties to democracy seriously.

British Factory Ripped by Blast

BRIDGWATER, England (AP) — An explosion ripped through the royal ordnance factory at nearby Puritan Friday and the ministry of supply said "five or six" persons were killed.

Officials said the specific number of casualties probably would not be available until after a formal inquiry scheduled for Saturday.

The explosion rocked houses and shattered windows over a wide area. First reports said the blast occurred in a chemical plant where only about a half dozen men were working. An official announcement said "some were killed and some were injured," but first reports said only one injury case had been admitted to Bridgewater hospital.

4 Contracts Given For Construction Of Randall Dam

OMAHA (AP) — The Omaha district office of the corps of army engineers Friday awarded four contracts for $17,789,930 for construction at the F. T. Randall dam on the Missouri river in South Dakota.

The largest sum involved, $12,955,328, for the construction of a power house. The Donovan-Lovering-Boyle companies of Chicago received the contract.

Working jointly, the three firms will start construction this summer. They are scheduled to complete the structure by March of 1956, an engineers' spokesman said.

The second largest contract, $3,970,361, went to the Westinghouse Electric corporation, for furnishing and installing the remaining four generators at the power house. Westinghouse also has the contract for the initial four generators.

The two remaining awards included a $590,908 contract to the Allis-Chalmers farm machinery company for furnishing miscellaneous electrical equipment for operation of the power house system, and a contract totaling $272,322 to the Woodward Governor company of Rockford, Ill., for furnishing eight turbine governors to control the speed of the turbines and generators.

Generation of initial power from the giant dam is scheduled for the fall of 1953. The dam now is 43 per cent complete, the engineers said.

For the All-Star Game — The Tentative Lineups

CHICAGO (AP) — Three last minute changes were recorded as balloting to select starting lineups for the annual all-star baseball game in Detroit July 10 neared completion.

With the polls closing at midnight, the total vote late Friday neared the 4 million mark.

Eddie Robinson of the Chicago White Sox overtook Ferris Fain of the Philadelphia Athletics in the vote to select the starting first baseman for the American league squad.

The other two changes were in the National league fan poll. Pee-wee Reese of the Brooklyn Dodgers shot ahead of Alvin of the New York Giants in the shortstop vote, while Gil Hodges of the Dodgers dropped behind Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates in balloting for first base.

In the American league, the White Sox, Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers dominated the probable starting lineup. Brooklyn appeared to have won three starting assignments on the National league squad.

Barring further changes, the American league infield would be composed of three Chicago stars — Robinson at first, Nelson Fox at second and Chico Carrasquel at short — with George Kell of Detroit at third.

The American league outfield would have Vic Wertz of the Tigers in right, Dom DiMaggio of Boston in center and Ted Williams of the Red Sox in left. Yogi Berra of the New York Yankees appeared to have won the starting assignment behind the plate.

Bliss Takes Iowa Golf Crown 3 and 2

DES MOINES (AP) — Rodney Bliss, Des Moines insurance executive, won the Iowa Amateur golf championship Friday, defeating Orrie Goens, Des Moines, 3 and 2, in a 36-hole match over the Wakonda Country club course.

Bliss, trailing one club at the end of 18, came back in the final round with an infallible chip shot that time and again lined him up for par. His putter, stubborn and disappointing in the first rounds, was brought under control in the afternoon as Goens went bad with his irons and missed his putts.

Goens and Bliss were long and powerful with their drives throughout the match, although Bliss on one occasion—the seventh hole—went in the rough with a slice. He had to shoot away from a fence, using an abnormal left-handed swing with his putter. He still managed to par the hole with four strokes.

Bliss jumped ahead with a two-up lead at the end of the third hole, but Goens began to improve. Goens was one-down at the end of nine after shooting a two-over-par 38 against Bliss' 37. Goens tied the match on the 10th, but Bliss went ahead on the 12th as Goens bogeyed the 340-yard four-par hole.

Goens tied on the 15th and went ahead with a birdie—his first of the game—on the 300-yard 18th.

Goens gained his widest lead, two-up—when Bliss bogeyed the 21st hole, a four-par. Bliss, tightening up on his aim, came back to tie on the 24th and go ahead on the 320-par 25th. The match was knotted again on the 28th before Bliss went ahead again to stay.

The match ended at the 34th when Bliss came out of the rough with a five iron to the green and holed out. Goens, meanwhile, pushed his approach shot into the rough and needed an extra shot. The cards:

Bliss 3 and 2
Goens 38
Bliss 37

Chisox, Yanks Win; Bums Fall

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox Friday night clung to their precious one-half game lead in the American league by walloping the St. Louis Browns, 10-3, in the first of a four-game series.

The White Sox sent 18 batters to the plate in the first two innings to score eight runs and rout pitchers Tommy Byrne and Jimmy Suckecki.

A delighted crowd of 23,352 witnessed Chicago's 43rd victory in 66 games to remain in front of the New York Yankees. It was the White Sox's seventh triumph over the Browns in eight games this season.

Orestes Minoso, leading hitter in the American league, paced Chicago's 13-hit attack with a double and two singles in lifting his average to .367.

Howard Judson went the distance for Chicago to establish a 3-0 record.

The White Sox drove Byrne out of the box in the first inning under a three-run barrage.

The Sox belted Suckecki for five runs in the second inning before he was relieved by Bob Mahoney. Suckecki pitched only two-thirds of an inning and faced seven batters.

The Browns counted twice in the fifth on two singles and Tom Upton's double.

Robinson belted his 16th home run of the season in the sixth inning to score Chicago's tenth run.

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe DiMaggio's eighth inning double scored Phil Rizzuto with the winning run Friday night as the New York Yankees defeated the Boston Red Sox, 2-1, behind Vic Raschi's three-hit pitching. It was the righthanded ace's 12th win against four losses.

The Yankees collected seven hits off lefty Maury McDermott and made a 1-1 tie in the fifth when Hank Bauer lashed a two-bagger into left field and countered on Gil McDougald's single.

Two of the three Boston safeties against Raschi came in the fourth, which Johnny Pesky opened with a single to right. After Billy Goodman grounded out, Ted Williams singled in Pesky for the lone run.

Joost's leadoff home run preceded a triple by Elmer Valo and an infield out to give Philadelphia 2-0 advantage in the first inning of the opener.

Larsen Advances, Althea Gibson Loses In Wimbledon Tennis

WIMBLEDON, ENG. (AP) — Art Larsen, U.S. singles titleholder from San Leandro, Calif., carried the American banner into the quarter-finals of the Wimbledon tennis championships Friday as Althea Gibson, first Negro ever to compete in the tournament, was eliminated.

Playing on the center court before a packed stadium of 7,000, including the Dowager Queen Mary and Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee and his wife, the 26-year-old left-handed Larsen extended himself only when necessary to beat Thorsten Johansson, Swedish Davis cupper, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

Miss Gibson was eliminated by a fellow-American, Beverly Baker of Santa Monica, Calif., 6-1, 6-3, as five U.S. women won third round matches in straight sets, putting eight Americans into the round of 16.

The three leading British empire threats — top seeded Frank Sedgman and seventh-seeded Ken McGregor of Australia and eighth-seeded Eric Sturgess of South Africa — also reached the men's singles quarter-finals in a day devoid of any upsets.

Sedgman turned in an easy 6-0, 6-2, 6-1 victory over young Fausto Gardini of Italy, who Thursday upset Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla.; McGregor played spotty tennis in beating Paul Remy of France, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 and Sturgess whipped Bernard Destremau of France, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

Larsen was the only one of the tournament's four remaining Yanks to compete Friday. Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., meet Dr. Hans Van Swol of Holland; Dick Savitt of Orange, N. J., plays Josef Asboth of Hungary, and 17-year-old Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., faces Armando Vieira of Brazil in fourth round matches today.

Hamilton said the NCAA has stated previously: "The NCAA has placed before the department all the information it has on its actions, resolutions and plans in regard to television. The department has indicated it is studying the matter. We are proceeding with our plan, but naturally will cooperate to the fullest to give the department assistance."

The fundamental issue is whether or not the NCAA program is legal or whether it violates federal anti-trust laws.

Justice Dept. Probing NCAA TV Stand: Penn

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The justice department Friday told the University of Pennsylvania it has ordered a sweeping investigation of televising college football games.

At the same time, department spokesman made it clear that the government has not approved the National Collegiate Athletic association plan of limiting football TV.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tom Hamilton, chairman of the NCAA's television committee, Friday charged athletic director Francis T. Murray of the University of Pennsylvania, with "trying to muddy up the water" in the battle over the NCAA's plans to limit televising collegiate football games.

Hamilton said in a statement, "Fran Murray of Pennsylvania is again trying to muddy up the water and subvert the will of the community of colleges in order to accomplish the desire of one institution's interests."

The fundamental issue is whether or not the NCAA program is legal or whether it violates federal anti-trust laws.

Hamilton said in a statement, "Fran Murray of Pennsylvania is again trying to muddy up the water and subvert the will of the community of colleges in order to accomplish the desire of one institution's interests."

Hamilton said the NCAA has stated previously: "The NCAA has placed before the department all the information it has on its actions, resolutions and plans in regard to television. The department has indicated it is studying the matter. We are proceeding with our plan, but naturally will cooperate to the fullest to give the department assistance."

Harper, Harmon Out; Snead, Mangrum Win in PGA Golf

OAKMONT, PA. (AP) — The defending champion, medalist and four former titlists were swept from the Professional Golfers association tournament Friday, but these rocky incidents were completely overshadowed by the case of the curious fly.

The vagrant insect—variously described as a tiny butterfly or a gnat—figured in the stormy second round match between Sam Snead and Marty Furgol which was won by Snead with a birdie three on the 21st hole.

Furgol, 32-year-old Lemont, Ill., professional, protested on the 14th green that Snead violated a rule when he stooped down to blow an insect off his ball.

Snead contended he didn't touch or clean the pellet and thus had broken no regulations.

When it was impossible to get a ruling immediately, Furgol continued under protest and matched Snead stroke for stroke right up to the 18th where they finished all square.

Other favorites to prevail included Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., the leading money winner and top choice for the title; Jim Ferrier, the sure-punting former Australian; huge Vic Ghezzi of Inwood, N. Y., champion in 1941. Ferrier won the title in 1947.

Nine extra hole matches were played during the long, dreary day with one of them eliminating Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., defending champion.

The slender Virginian fretting with stomach and club-swinging troubles, was ushered to the sidelines by Jim Turnesa of Briar-cliffe, N. Y., who rallied to square the match on the 18th and then won it with a 25-foot, over-hill putt on the 23rd.

Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., who won the medal in a three-way playoff with Pete Cooper of White Plains, N. Y., and Mangrum, went out in the first round, the victim of unknown Dick Shoemaker of Cleveland, 3 and 1.

Only three out of an original 10 former PGA champions remained to carry the battle into today's 36-hole third round jousts. They are Snead (1942, 1949), Ferrier (1947) and Ghezzi (1941).

Arthur also won Friday in the boys singles, topping David Nairn of Ames, 6-0, 6-2, in the second round and then dumping Mike Hoffman of Council Bluffs in the semi-finals, 6-2, 6-0.

Jamie had little trouble in the second round of the junior singles, besting Keith Paulson of Ames, 6-1, 6-1.

Ruth lost out in the women's singles when she was beaten by Beverly Siebert of Kansas City in the second round, 7-5, 6-3. But she came back to win in the junior singles, where she is seeded second, 61, 6-1, from Sally Doan of Des Moines in the second round.

Francis T. Murray, Penn's athletic director, made public the text of a letter to him from H. G. Morison, assistant attorney general, in which Morison asserted that the justice department has not "either formally or informally approved the NCAA's television moratorium."

It was the latest move in the long-simmering feud between Penn and the NCAA over the question of televising games next fall.

The NCAA at Dallas last Jan. 12 voted 161 to 7 to declare a moratorium on telecasts of college football games, stating that it wanted to test the effect of TV on attendance and gate receipts.

It announced it would permit only a limited number of games to be televised with 60 per cent of the proceeds going to the NCAA's TV fund and 40 per cent to the competing institutions.
