Truman Hints He Will Veto 'Overly Weak' Controls Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Truman threw out a broad hint Thursday that he will veto the economic controls bill now taking shape in congress unless he thinks it will do the job of stopping inflation.

His threat was made public as the house voted to freeze wage-price ceilings for four months—a move which Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle said might force the shutdown of "several hundred thousand" business firms.

The amendment to the controls bill, which was approved by a vote of 180 to 131, would freeze the ceilings at their July 7 level the day the bill became law.

The White House released a letter which Mr. Truman wrote to Mrs. C. Irving Geyer of Springfield, Mass., in reply to a letter which she had written to the President complaining against "lobbyists" trying to weaken price control legislation.

"Let me say this to you," Mr. Truman wrote the irate Massachusetts housewife. "If we can't beat off the lobbies this time, we will just make a new start and try again."

The plain implication was that he would veto the bill, if he considered it overly weakened by "lobbies." Mr. Truman once previously—in 1946—vetoed a price control bill which he considered inadequate, and demanded that congress start all over again with a new measure.

It was that dispute which led to a lapse in OPA controls for several weeks before a new bill was passed.

The wage-price freeze proposal stirred bitter debate in the house. Critics called it "insincere" but backers said it was necessary for "real price control."

While administration forces were momentarily thrown into confusion by the surprise action, Chairman Brent Spence (D-Ky.) of the house banking committee, predicted the proviso will be thrown out on a rollcall vote on Thursday.

He said he also expects show-down votes then on "six or seven" other provisions which have been tentatively written into the bill over administration protests in recent days.

"I'm not afraid of anyone," Spence asserted. "They've done about everything to my bill that they can do."

But DiSalle told reporters the wage-price freeze proposal would cancel government plans for giving price relief to firms which have been "squeezed" under the general price freeze imposed Jan. 28.

"I could not estimate how much unemployment and economic chaos would result," he asserted. DiSalle said the provision also would wipe out plans to grant price increases in the next few weeks to certain seasonal items such as canned goods. It also would prevent increases on items important to the defense program such as shipbuilding and civilian essentials such as woolen clothing.

He said that while the proposed increases would not add "substantially" to living costs, they were important from the standpoint of encouraging production. He added that the freeze would destroy incentive to increase needed production and force many plants to close down.

About the only things which could increase in price under the freeze proposal are farm commodities which now are generally below the so-called "magic figure" of parity. Ceilings cannot be imposed on farm prices while they are below parity.

Down Boy, Down

NEW YORK (AP) - For eight years Jerry Van Atta trained his Doberman-Pinscher as a watchdog. Thursday the dog got his big chance. Two thugs knocked Van Atta cold and robbed his gas station of $175.

The dog, asleep on the floor, never opened an eye. But when the police arrived, he woke up and tried to bite them.

Former Economic Chief To Speak Here Tonight

Alan Valentine, former director of the economic stabilization administration, will speak on "The Political Scene in Washington" at 8 p.m. today on the south campus of the Iowa Memorial Union.

An educator, politician and businessman, Valentine served as ESA director from Oct., 1950, to Jan., 1951. It was his task to impose price and wage ceilings under the government's national emergency program.

Although an opponent of planned economy, Valentine accepted his position as ESA director because he believed the emergency of the times required such restrictive measures.

Valentine studied at Oxford in England as a Rhodes scholar. In 1925 he received a B. A. with honors from Oxford and three years later was granted his M. A. degree there.

Returning to the United States, Valentine became an English instructor and dean of men at Swarthmore college. In 1932, he went to Yale as professor of history, arts and letters.

From 1935 to 1950, Valentine was president of the University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y.

In case of rain, Valentine's lecture, the fifth in the summer series, will be presented in Macbride auditorium. The general public is invited to attend.

Lucas Will Confer With Chicago Firm On Airport Bonds

City Atty. Edward W. Lucas said Thursday he will confer today with representatives of a Chicago bonding company to determine whether the firm will purchase $67,000 in bonds from Iowa City to be used in building the city's new airport administration building.

The firm had indicated earlier this week it would not purchase the bonds because of a law passed by the 1951 Iowa legislature restricting cities to a maximum of five mills in taxation for paying off bonded indebtedness.

Lucas said the bonding company was reluctant to purchase the bonds because the low taxation rates would result in unfavorable interest rates.

He said the airport commission would ask contractors to wait an additional 30 days for signing the contracts for the building.

Lucas said after talking to airport commission officials and members of the Iowa City council at a noon meeting Thursday, three alternatives are open to the city on the airport building question.

1. Request the Chicago bonding company to purchase the Iowa City bonds in spite of the five mill limit on taxation.

Franco Nears Link with U.S. Shifts Cabinet

MADRID, Spain (AP) - Generalissimo Francisco Franco completed a drastic reshuffle of his cabinet Thursday night as the first step toward linking Spain with the defense of Western Europe through a chain of U.S. air and sea bases.

The shakeup raised to prominent cabinet posts several officials and industrialists friendly to the U.S. and other Western powers.

A foreign office spokesman said the new cabinet will be published in the official Gazette this morning. It would include at least two prominent monarchists.

There was, however, no indication that Franco planned to restore the monarchy in the near future. Informal sources said, in fact, that relations between Franco and the Spanish pretender to the throne, Don Juan, have become even more strained in recent months.

The reshuffle, an effort to overcome opposition by Atlantic pact nations to the participation of Spain in the defense of Western Europe, had been expected momentarily during the three-day visit of Adm. Forrest Sherman, chief of U.S. naval operations.

The new cabinet will be sworn in at 11 a.m. today and meet later with Franco.

Franco is expected to acquaint the new cabinet with his discussions with Sherman which reliable sources said would give the U.S. a chain of air bases from the Pyrenees mountains in the north to Seville on the Mediterranean sea.

Informal sources said no ironclad agreement had been reached in talks. The U.S., they said, expressed interest in the air bases at Seville, Madrid and Barcelona as well as fields in northeastern Spain in and near the Pyrenees.

British Physicians Threaten to Resign Unless Given Raises

LONDON (AP) - All 20,000 physicians in Britain's socialized health service told the government Thursday they would resign Sept. 25 unless their demands for increased pay rates were submitted to arbitration.

The ultimatum was delivered to Minister of Health Hilary A. Marquand after British Medical Association (BMA) committees from all counties conferred for seven hours in London.

Unless arbitration is agreed upon by the September deadline, the BMA statement said, the resignations of the 20,000 should be considered submitted as of that date.

The doctors now get a flat fee of $2.50 a year per patient and are allowed to sign on a maximum of 4,000 patients. They have been complaining they have to take on too many to earn a decent living.

The 20,000 medical men who signed up under Britain's national health service include all except 1,000 of the nation's general practitioners. The income of each of them is estimated between $3,000 and $6,000 a year. The average British worker is credited with an income of $873 a year.

Korean Truce Talk 'Showdown' Postponed By Torrential Rains

Reds Reported Ready For Big-Scale Attack Today or Saturday

TOKYO (AP) - An Allied officer said in Korea Thursday night that he had word indicating the Communists would be all set by today or Saturday to launch a full scale attack.

The report said one of the biggest Communist supply operations of the war would be complete by Saturday night, and that enemy front line forces, hundreds of thousands strong, would be in position to open an offensive.

An officer of a United Nations commission reported the ominous information to United Press correspondent Frank Bartholomew in Seoul.

Long lines of Communist vehicles have been winding down through North Korea to the battle zone for days. The Allied air force stepped up bombing attacks on Red supply lines during the full moon this week. But sporadic rains and mud impeded them Thursday.

The word that enough food and ammunition to sustain an offensive had reached the Communist front lines came as the Kaesong truce negotiations took a bad turn.

Korean dispatches said many felt that the withdrawal of Allied forces from Korea—evidently the nub of the deadlock at Kaesong—would open the way for an immediate re-invasion of South Korea.

A dispatch from the UN advance camp below Kaesong quoted an officer there as saying: "The Reds are getting much the worst of this stalemate war. And we intend to see that it gets even tougher. We have been planning them day and night with bombs and artillery, and we intend to continue our aggressive patrols right up to the hour of any agreed cease fire."

Air force spokesman said night attacks in the last week had been among the heaviest of the war, and ground officers reported that artillery barrages in some sectors were of near record intensity.

Iran Will Reopen Talks with Britain

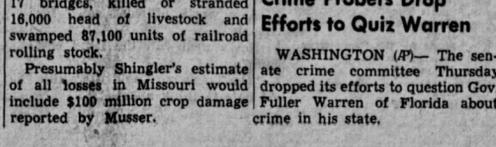

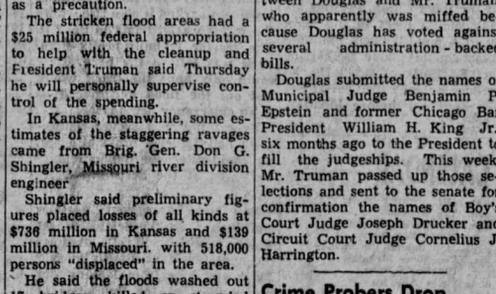

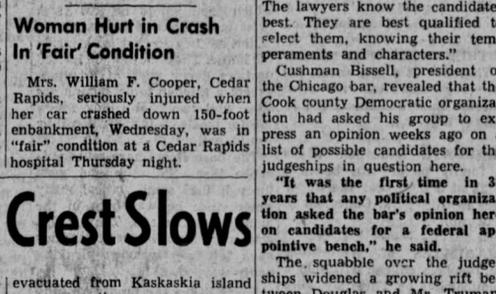

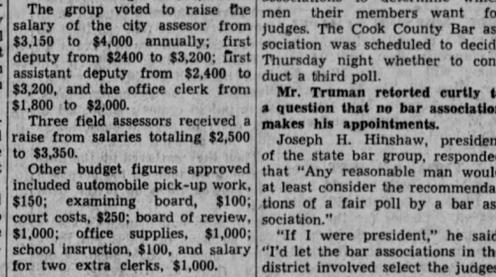

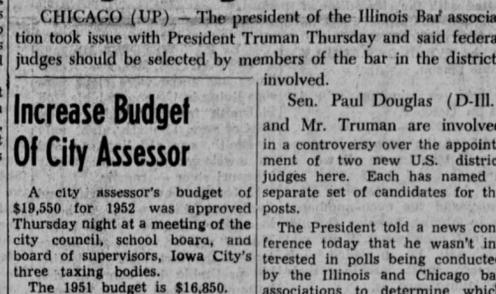

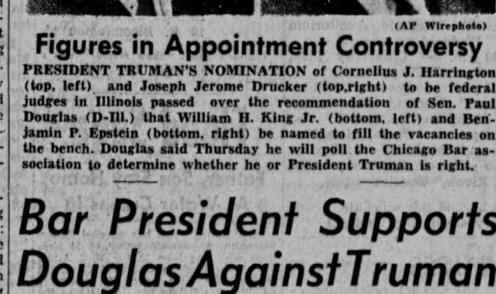

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Government officials agreed Thursday night at a meeting with W. Averell Harriman, U.S. ambassador at large, to reopen negotiations with the British in the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

It was the first sign of a possible break in the fight touched off by the nationalization of the British-controlled oil fields at Abadan.

Harriman met with the mixed Iranian oil commission for two hours despite a warning by police that a plot was uncovered to assassinate him.

"We are prepared to sit down again and talk with the British," Kazem Hassibi, Iran's top oil expert, said. "However, we are not prepared to back down on the principle of nationalization."

Members of the commission told Harriman they are prepared to discuss the sale of the oil fields, but "only under the nationalization law."

UN Expected Final Break Or Agreement

TOKYO (FRIDAY) (AP) - Torrential rains and impassable roads forced postponement of today's "showdown" truce talk in Kaesong.

Even as the five-man Allied negotiating team turned back, the Chinese radio unleashed a new propaganda blast against the Americans.

Peiping said Allied planes were continuing to patrol and bomb Chinese territory "in spite of the truce negotiations." The broadcast said 10 U.S. planes flew over the Korean border into China between July 11 and 16.

The eighth army announced at first today's meeting had been cancelled. Later it changed the word to "postponed."

However, nothing could have been a greater anti-climax. The world seemingly was moving toward a decision on peace or war, and it was not the five-man delegation from both sides who determined the course of today's all-important session, but the weather.

The eighth in the series of talks between UN and Communist negotiators was called off when swollen streams and bad road conditions prevented the UN peace team from reaching the city.

A spokesman said the UN delegation was returning to the advance camp because torrential rains had washed out sections of the road and sent streams surging out of their banks.

An advance UN truck convoy of Allied communications and service personnel and newsmen made the 16-mile trip to Kaesong by 9:30 (5:30 p.m. Thursday CST) but the negotiators' jeeps could not ford the swollen streams.

The army's announcement called it a "postponement" rather than a cancellation, indicating the talks would be resumed as soon as weather permits.

Even before the five-man UN delegation took off, the United States made it clear it was willing to risk a break in the truce talks rather than bow to Communist political demands.

An official UN spokesman said earlier the delegates would come to an agreement at today's session or "there will be an air of finality about the disagreement."

There still remained a possibility the talks would be held later today, but not at the scheduled time of 10 a.m. (6 p.m. Thursday CST). Should the weather improve, the usual helicopters could be used.

Official secrecy hid the exact cause of the deadlock as the delegates sought in seven previous meetings to reach agreement on an agenda — a formal program for armistice talks.

But it was becoming increasingly clear it hinged on Communist demands for quick withdrawal of "foreign troops" — not including Chinese — from Korea.

Figures in Appointment Controversy

Bar President Supports Douglas Against Truman

CHICAGO (UP) - The president of the Illinois Bar association took issue with President Truman Thursday and said federal judges should be selected by members of the bar in the districts involved.

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) and Mr. Truman are involved in a controversy over the appointment of two new U.S. district judges here. Each has named a separate set of candidates for the posts.

The President told a news conference today that he wasn't interested in polls being conducted by the Illinois and Chicago bar associations to determine which men their members want for judges. The Cook County Bar association was scheduled to decide Thursday night whether to conduct a third poll.

Joseph H. Hinshaw, president of the state bar group, responded that "any reasonable man would at least consider the recommendations of a fair poll by a bar association."

"If I were president," he said, "I'd let the bar associations in the district involved select the judges. The lawyers know the candidates best. They are best qualified to select them, knowing their temperaments and characters."

Cushman Bissell, president of the Chicago bar, revealed that the Cook county Democratic organization had asked his group to express an opinion weeks ago on a list of possible candidates for the judgeships in question here.

"It was the first time in 38 years that any political organization asked the bar's opinion here on candidates for a federal appointive bench," he said.

The squabble over the judgeships widened a growing rift between Douglas and Mr. Truman, who apparently was miffed because Douglas has voted against several administration-backed bills.

Douglas submitted the names of Municipal Judge Benjamin P. Epstein and former Chicago Bar President William H. King Jr., six months ago to the President to fill the judgeships. This week, Mr. Truman passed up those selections and sent to the senate for confirmation the names of Boy's Court Judge Joseph Drucker and Circuit Court Judge Cornelius J. Harrington.

Kentucky Community Irritated by Report On Soldier Housing

MORGANFIELD, KY. (AP) - This small Kentucky community, almost adjacent to a huge army camp, seethed with controversy Thursday night over its living quarters for soldier families.

A U. S. Senate committee reported Wednesday that service men from Camp Breckinridge paid outrageous rents for housing, some of it rat-infested, unsanitary and unfit for human use.

"Full of baloney," J. Earle Bell said of the committee. He is managing editor of the Morganfield Advocate and chairman of the Union county rent control board.

Mayor Lyle Waller was apologetic. "Some of the conditions which the senate group reported do exist," he remarked.

Col. Barney Daugherty, chief of staff at Breckinridge, said "the housing in this area is not very good."

Lt. Robert Butler, the camp's billeting officer, pulled no punches. He declared that some "rotten" housing conditions existed, that the soldiers were constantly griping, and that "the landlords are very ugly and bad."

Editor Bell asserted that Morganfield, with normally 4,500 citizens, just couldn't cope with the housing emergency thrust upon it. It has accommodated 500 soldier families.

"How on earth," Bell exclaimed, "do they expect us to provide facilities for from 30,000 to 40,000 army personnel?"

waterfront industries and families to worry about.

Midwestern headquarters of the Red Cross said that "there is not another large city in the path of the flood."

St. Louis Emergency Ends As Flood Crest Slows

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The crest of the Missouri river's worst flood began slowing Thursday as it rolled toward this metropolitan area, and the Red Cross announced that the "real emergency" is over.

But the Red Cross said more than 13,000 persons were homeless in Missouri and Illinois, and to small towns in the bottomlands the floods were still an angry menace of property damage and hardship.

The St. Louis weather bureau reported that the Missouri crest was slowing as it approached the confluence with the Mississippi 16 miles north of here and now was due at St. Louis Monday at 40.5 feet.

This would be the highest crest in 107 years, but the main residential and industrial areas of St. Louis were not in danger.

The city of 900,000 population is located on high ground and has only a comparatively few

Ravages of the great flood extended westward through Missouri and Kansas, a grim scene of billions of dollars in damages and death.

The death toll still stood at 39. In Milwaukee, R. H. Musser, director of U.S. soil conservation for the upper Mississippi region, said aerial surveys show that all crops on 1,487,000 acres of farmland between Kansas City and St. Louis have been destroyed.

Musser estimated agricultural damage in Missouri alone at $100 million. Damage will be much greater when Kansas losses are assessed, he said.

Four St. Louis water pumping stations appeared in no danger, but workers pumped sewage from another at Howard Bend. City officials said that two St. Louis stations could be knocked out without serious consequences to residents.

Downstream, 50 families were evacuated from Kaskaskia island as a precaution.

The stricken flood areas had a $25 million federal appropriation to help with the cleanup and President Truman said Thursday he will personally supervise control of the spending.

In Kansas, meanwhile, some estimates of the staggering ravages came from Brig. Gen. Don G. Shingler, Missouri river division engineer.

Shingler said preliminary figures placed losses of all kinds at $736 million in Kansas and $139 million in Missouri, with 518,000 persons "displaced" in the area.

He said the floods washed out 17 bridges, killed or stranded 18,000 head of livestock and swamped 87,100 units of railroad rolling stock.

Presumably Shingler's estimate of all losses in Missouri would include $100 million crop damage reported by Musser.

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to make a few remarks on the concert of chamber music that was held in the Iowa Union Wednesday night. To me this concert represented the best musical performance that has been given here in the last three years. I wish to call your attention to the pitifully small publicity that was made for this concert in advance. It is regrettable that practically the only way this concert was announced was by means of a typewritten program sheet pinned to the bulletin board of the music department. Is it not standard practice to have concerts announced at least a week in advance by means of printed cardboard posters which are distributed in all the university buildings and housing units? Or perhaps a chamber music concert is regarded as unimportant as compared to an orchestral performance? Without in the least trying to detract from the qualities of our University orchestra, I still believe that value of music should not be measured by the number of participants in the performance.

Finally, may I comment on the report of your "music critic" that was published in Thursday's paper. Independently of whether one likes the music or not, and of whether one likes the interpretation given to it by the performers or not, it is at least to be expected that your music critic show some seriousness in writing about the concert. Quite apart from the content of what he is trying to say, Mr. Danielson's curt reference to Reger as "Max" and to Beethoven's music as the "show melody" is utterly lacking good taste.

I only hope that we shall have occasion to hear some more concerts of this sort in the future.

Andrew Lenard, G 19 E. Bloomington St.

(Editor's Note: "Show melody" was a misprint. It should have read "slow melody.")

Flood Saga

Father, Son Stay Home As Water Creeps In

The United Press has selected Robert Stalmsmith, 55-year-old father of 14 children who was born in the West Alton, Mo., bottomlands, as a typical flood-area farmer. The daily story will be carried on this wire telling how he faces as the Missouri river creeps into his home to an expected three-foot level.

By RAY WEBSTER JR. WEST ALTON, MO. — A few hours ago there were eight persons living in the comfortable Bob Stalmsmith farm home two miles west of here. Thursday night, only Stalmsmith, one stripping son and an unwelcome guest — the muddy Missouri river — remain.

Stalmsmith moved his wife and five other children still at home to higher ground as the "Big Muddy" swirled higher and higher around the dirt levee protecting his profitable 140 acres of rich bottomland. Then he and 17-year-old Larry Stalmsmith pitched in to move everything that can float up where the water won't reach it.

They started in the barn lot. Four hundred chickens, the only livestock on the mechanized farm, were put in crates and hoisted to the roofs of several outbuildings and into an aged truck.

Then they gathered up the dozens of farm tools in the barnyard and stowed them up in the barn loft.

Stalmsmith had managed to harvest 60 acres of wheat but there wasn't much he could do about the lush fields of corn and beans which soon would be lost from sight under tons of yellow floodwater, so they started work inside the house. They shoved and hauled upstairs every stick of furniture except a kitchen table, butane gas stove and two chairs they would use for meals — if and when they would eat.

The bare floors gave mute evidence that Stalmsmith had gone through the same ordeal many times since he was born in the house 55 years ago. The surging waters of dozens of previous floods have left the wooden planking badly warped.

Larry drove the family car into town and parked it on a rise where the water wasn't likely to flood it. The tractor is built pretty high, so it was left in the barn. They could only hope the truck would last out the flood undamaged — as an emergency hen house.

Everything was secure Thursday when the levee broke at 9 a.m. By mid-afternoon the "Muddy Mo" was at the Stalmsmith doorstep.

Bob and Larry went upstairs and turned on the television set which probably will get a lot of use the next few days. Stalmsmith said TV keeps him from looking out the window at the thousands of dollars worth of work going for naught.

How much will the flood cost him? "Don't ask me," said Stalmsmith. "I hate to think about it."

'Personals' Rate Laugh in Comedy

Preen's Whiskey Flows — 'Salon' Should Be 'Saloon'

— Like the Missouri

By WAYNE DANIELSON

"Mr. Preen's Salon," a comedy whose title should be changed to "Mr. Preen's Saloon," opened for a six-night stand at University theatre Thursday night.

Set in New Orleans during Mardi Gras, the play is about an arthritic old boy named Preen who owns an apartment house where whiskey flows like the Missouri in flood time.

The thesis of the play is familiar: "Love Conquers All — Even Arthritis." For Oliver Preen, played by Harold Shiffler, finally throws away his cane and marries one of his tenants — an upstairs Astaire named Lily Arnez. Cecilia Thompson, by the way, was OK in this role.

The play is an adaptation of Robert Tallant's novel about Mr. Preen. It was written by Doris Lloyd Morehead, who should have thrown the book away. She has a fine talent for drama — but this play was buried under bookish anecdotes, superfluous characters and fat Tuesday confetti.

As I may have intimated, the play is too long. It could have taken several cuts without feeling the pain. Director Paul Davey did well in improvising action where there were embarrassing stage waits — but, there were some talky scenes against which even his talents were crushed.

The show was written as a project in Prof. E. C. Mabie's experimental theater class. The lighting was by Walter S. Dewey and the two stage settings were by Prof. A. S. Gillette.

"Saloon" has some outstanding features: Margaret Hall's fantastic Mardi Gras costumes were almost worth the price of a ticket; Robert Holland's performance as Preen's Negro servant was a stand-out.

The biggest trouble with the play is that it has too many characters.

42 OMVI Charges Listed for Year

During the year ending July 1, 1951, 42 persons were charged in Iowa City police court with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Police Judge Emil G. Trott made public the figures this week in his annual report to the Iowa state liquor control commission.

Trott's report show that all of the 42 cases brought into his court were bound over the grand jury for investigation and trial by the district court.

The report also shows that 321 persons were charged with intoxication during the one year period. Of these, Trott reported, there were 311 convictions.

McCarthy Gets Kohler's Aid Against Truman

MADISON, WIS. (AP) — Gov. Walter Kohler told Democrats in a letter Thursday that state department charges by Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) should be given "a fair hearing" and invited them to "join us in an effort to throw Trumanism and all it stands for out of our national life next year."

The Democrats, who had asked Kohler what he thought of "McCarthyism," countered that the Wisconsin governor was "unable to defend McCarthyism on the merits" and had "substituted a bitter partisan attack against the administration on unrelated issues."

Kohler's letter said that "it is certain that McCarthy's activities please neither the Communists nor certain Democratic leaders." Then he denounced the Tydings committee hearing on McCarthy's charges and called for a "complete and impartial inquiry into these charges."

"The way in which the Tydings committee handled this investigation has left the American people with a feeling that it was only interested in protecting the Democratic administration and not in discovering whether Communist sympathizers had been able to infiltrate into this administration," the letter said.

Kohler charged that the Democrats were "primarily interested in getting newspaper publicity." And he said if they wanted newspaper space they should:

1. "Denounce the condemnation of Alger Hiss by Dean Acheson. . . Missouri ballot frauds, the mink coat, deep-freeze and RFC scandals, the Kansas City killings of Democrat leaders in Democrat headquarters and the general incompetence of the Democrat party in the nation."

The Democrats said Kohler's letter proved "he has succumbed to the pro-McCarthy forces within the Republican party." And they challenged him to "debate these issues throughout Wisconsin at any times and places he may choose."

Iowa Flood Loss Set at $30-Million

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Missouri river floods caused an estimated $30 million dollars damage to Iowa agricultural lands this year, a soil conservation official said Thursday.

R. H. Musser, Milwaukee, regional director for the U. S. soil conservation service in the upper Mississippi region, said damage in Missouri and Iowa would exceed $1 billion. He placed agricultural damage alone in Missouri at more than $100 million and at more than $30 million in Iowa.

The party leaders said they also discussed efforts to continue a strong and united Republican party in the state.

Tentative arrangements were made to call a meeting of the state GOP central committee at the time of Anderson's inauguration when he would meet members of the party organization from all parts of the state, they said.

A letter of congratulations also was received by Anderson from Ancher Nelson, Hutchinson, vice-chairman of the state GOP. The governorship "will heap on your shoulders many responsibilities and you have every reason to expect cooperation and support, especially from the party officers in Minnesota," Nelson said.

He said "I wish to offer my full cooperation and the same can be expected of the (central) committee and of the party workers that it represents."

Marengo Farmer, Son 'Good' After Hayloft Fall

Melvin Rathjen and his son Larry, 17, Marengo, were reported in good condition by Mercy hospital officials Thursday. They both suffered multiple fractures when they fell 30 feet from a hayloft.

Both men suffered fractured pelvic bones. The elder Rathjen also received a fractured elbow and his son had two broken wrists and a dislocated finger.

Youth Hurt in Elevator In Satisfactory Condition

Norman Cuddes Jr., 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cuddes, Holbrook, was reported in "satisfactory" condition Thursday by Mercy hospital authorities.

He was injured Tuesday when he became entangled in a grain elevator while baling hay on the family farm north of Holbrook.

Truman Disavows Knowledge Of Eisenhower's Plans in '52

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman indicated Thursday he is just as mystified as anybody else whether Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will run for the White House in 1952.

Mr. Truman told his news conference he hasn't talked politics with Ike — as he called him — since 1949, so he doesn't know what the five star general is going to do.

The President said that when they discuss it and Eisenhower tells him what he is going to do, then he will rely on it—because, he said, Eisenhower's word is good.

Once again, as he did last week, Mr. Truman insisted he had not used the word "never" in discussing what Eisenhower told him about being a candidate for president.

He said Eisenhower told him in 1949 that he was not a candidate, but he doesn't know whether that is still Eisenhower's position. The subject came up, Mr. Truman said, when they were talking about Eisenhower going to Europe to head a combined European defense force.

1. He replied with a crisp no when asked if there is any evidence that Russia has set off any atomic explosions since the one he announced in September, 1949.

2. For military reasons, the United States is changing its policy toward Franco Spain—to some extent, Much depends, Mr. Truman said, on what Spain is willing to do to help strengthen the defenses of western Europe.

3. Asked about a recent charge by Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) that Secretary of Defense George Marshall is involved in a great Communist-linked conspiracy against the U. S., Mr. Truman said:

That is one of the silliest things he has ever heard of, and he doesn't think it helps this country for people supposedly responsible for the nation's welfare to make silly statements like that.

4. He had no comment on the possibility of an early decision in the Korean truce talks.

5. He has not heard directly from W. Averell Harriman, his

Gang-Style Slayings Of 2 Chicago Men Leave Police Baffled

CHICAGO (AP) — Two gang-style slayings of Chicago business executives within three days Thursday had investigators groping for clues to the apparently meaningless killings.

Latest victim of gunfire was John J. Cassidy, 56, well-to-do building contractor. He was shot to death early Thursday while driving in suburban Cicero, apparently as he attempted to elude pursuers.

Police said they had found no motive for the killings. Still lacking a motive also, was the slaying Tuesday of Charles Crane, 37-year-old sales manager of a scrap paper firm. He was shot to death in his automobile as he drove up to his office on the west side.

In the Crane killing, several witnesses saw the killer as he fled in a car driven by another man.

There were no eyewitnesses to the killing of Cassidy. He was found, dying, in his wrecked automobile after it had crashed into a residence on 39th street in Cicero. He died without regaining consciousness.

Police said residents near the scene of the Cassidy slaying reported hearing the screech of tires, then four shots, just before the victim's car was wrecked.

Police investigating the Crane slaying pinned their hopes of finding a motive on a safe which Crane kept in his home.

Opening of the safe was postponed at the request of the widow, Irene, 36, until after the funeral Thursday in Rock Island, Ill. Mrs. Crane said her husband was the only person who knew the combination.

Crane, a $50 a week dock hand 10 years ago, rose to become operating head of the Thomas Paper Stock company at a salary of $25,000 a year.

Co-op Broken Into For Second Time

The Consumers Co-operative Fuel company, 920 S. Capitol st., was broken into Wednesday night for the second time in less than a month, police reported Thursday.

Police said the building was entered through a rear window and the burglars left through the front door.

Nearly $300 was stolen from a safe in the building on June 27. At that time police said a 400 pound safe was removed from the building and battered open.

Authorities later found the safe on a road five miles south of Iowa City. Police said entrance was gained in the same manner at that time.

Influence Peddler — Gyps Priests Of $200,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Greek Catholic priests testified Thursday they were taken for perhaps $200,000 by an influence peddler, described by senators as a professional "con man."

The priests—Father Maxim Markiw and Father Peter Hewko—identified the man as Samuel D. Mason of New York City. Chairman Clyde Hoey, (D-NC), of a special senate investigating subcommittee said the man freed a string of "gullible victims" out of more than a third of a million dollars. He said the man had a long criminal record. Hoey said the man's most lucrative line seemed to be convincing people the government was going underground and that government buildings could be leased for as little as a dollar-a-year.

One-by-one, witnesses ticked off a story of how Mason talked them out of huge piles of cash for promises of obtaining special government favors. The promises were never filled, they said. Mason, a short red-faced man of about 60 years of age, has denied to senators that he did anything wrong. He is under a subpoena to appear before the subcommittee, probably today. Mason sat throughout Thursday testimony calmly staring into space.

Father Markiw, who identified himself as provincial of the order of St. Basil the Great, with headquarters in New York, told of turning over to Mason between $150,000 and $200,000 in 20 to 100-dollar bills. Father Hewko said Mason wanted small bills because he said he had to divide the money among a lot of people. The priests said they accepted because their order needed a new church, a school and a poor children's camp.

Boy Catches 44 Bullheads

As 800 Youngsters 'Go Fishing' at City Park In 2 Ponds Stocked with 3,000 Fish

Approximately 800 youngsters from age two to sixteen dipped their lines into the two City park ponds Thursday in a contest to see who could catch the most fish in a four-hour period.

The state conservation commission Wednesday dumped about 3,000 "eating size" bullheads into the park ponds, and Thursday the fish came out almost as fast as hundreds of hooks.

Billy Curran, 11, pulled out the best string of fish, 44 of them. The highest number caught by a girl was 43 by Judy Bulachek, 11. The youngest boy catching a bullhead was Dan Vickroy, 2, and the youngest girl was Marilyn Wolfe, 4.

About 400 youngsters with hooks baited and waiting for the starting gun were on hand at 7 a.m. The greatest bulk of fish was pulled out in the first hour of the contest.

Hooks were baited with everything from ordinary fishing worms to cheese and wieners.

Officials overseeing the contest said that no one fell into the ponds, and there were no other accidents reported. One boy, who went just for the sport, donated his 22 fish to the Iowa City fire department.

The contest was sponsored by the Iowa City park board, the state conservation commission and John Wilson.

Prize winners for the contest: Six-year-old and under group: 1. David Bell, 2. John Houzel, 3. June Houzel, 4. Judy Vickroy, 5. George Koeney, 6. Roger Schriparr, 7. Dick Gate, 8. Richard Ruppert, 9. ### Sioux City Fire Loss Estimated at $60,000

SIoux CITY (AP) — Flames leaped nearly 100 feet in the air as fire caused $60,000 damage Thursday to a two-story brick and wood building owned by Mrs. Laura Rogers.

Fire Chief Charles Kuhl said the fire was discovered about 5 a. m. in the rear of an electrical appliance store. Seven fire companies fought the blaze, he said, and two firemen suffered slight injuries.

Kuhl estimated damage to the building at $30,000 and said another $30,000 damage was done to the contents. Three other firms occupied the building in addition to the electrical appliance store. The second floor was unoccupied.

Mrs. Rogers, the building owner, pledged parts of her property for the $40,000 appeal bond of Dr. Robert Rutledge, St. Louis, who was convicted of second degree murder for the knife-slaying of Byron Hattman, also of St. Louis, in a Cedar Rapids hotel. Rutledge committed suicide at Houston, Tex., rather than return to Iowa to serve the remainder of a 70-year term after the state supreme court affirmed his conviction. The courts have not decided whether the appeal bond will be forfeited or returned.

Loses Fat Show Fat Lady Drops 401 Pounds

FORT THOMAS, KY. (AP) — Trying to lose a few pounds, and finding it tough?

Take courage, folks, from the story of Dollie Dimples, only a year ago "the most beautiful fat girl in the show business."

Dollie—in private life Mrs. Celeste Geyer—said her heart finally could not bear the strain of her poupage, and her heart went bad a year ago at her home in Lockhart, a suburb of Orlando, Fla. Doctors gave her up when she could not breathe lying down.

Then she went on a diet of meat, vegetables and fruit, she told a reporter, limiting the calorie content to 800 per day. If she got hungry, she smoked a cigarette.

The fat began to disappear. Daily, active in her heavy days because of her song and dance routine—the latter quite a feat in view of her weight—said this of her 401 pound decline:

"It's simple, all anyone has to do is diet properly and have will power to stick strictly to the diet."

"Right now I feel wonderful, and they (other fat people) would too, if only they'd make up their minds to go through with it."

Now, she says, she is giving up the show business—not because she has lost the real props for the act—but because after 23 years on the boards, she has a new field.

"I'm going to show women how they can reduce," she said.

GREEN BAY, WIS. (AP) — Sheriff Gordon Zuidmuller blushed at the thought of his race to catch a "nude" woman driver.

The sheriff tracked down a car complaints said was driven wildly by a nude woman.

Zuidmuller approached cautiously to begin questioning. Inside sat a woman wearing a low-cut sundress who said her husband was teaching her to drive.

Chisox Triumph, Bosox Lose

Chisox 2, Yanks 1

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox Thursday hoisted themselves into undisputed possession of second place in the American league pennant scramble by defeating the world champion New York Yankees, 2-1, in a thriller in which the Yankees outhit Chicago, 10 to 5.

Howard Judson, a surprise starter for Ken Holcombe, who suffered a wrist injury against Boston Saturday, was the winning pitcher, although he needed assistance from lefty Billy Pierce in the ninth to quell a threatened uprising. Ed Lopat, who has beaten the Sox by 2-1 counts in two previous games, lost this one by the same margin.

The Yankees made a gallant attempt to tie the score, or triumph, in the first of the ninth. Judson passed Bobby Brown, pinchhitting for Jerry Coleman, and Billy Martin ran for him.

Pierce was called to replace Judson. Lopat failed twice to bunt and then struck out and Martin was doubled as second as he over-ruled the bag, Joe Erazut to Chico Carrasquel. Gene Woodling fled to Al Zarilla to end the game.

The Yankees maulled Judson for four hits in the first two innings, but extracted nothing but exercise from them. Johnny Mize grounded weakly for the third out in the first after Phil Rizzuto and Hank Bauer had singled. Jackie Jensen singled in the second, but was nabbed trying for third on Coleman's single to center.

The Sox had Lopat on the ropes in the third inning, scoring two runs. Carrasquel launched the attack with a single to center and Erazut drew a pass. Judson laid down a perfect bunt to Johnny Mize and both runners moved up on the sacrifice.

Bob Dillinger's long fly to Woodling brought Carrasquel home. Nellie Fox dropped a Texas league double into short right center and Erazut scored. Then Minnie Minozo walked and a hit by Eddie Robinson might have eliminated Lopat. But Robinson flied out.

Indians 5, Bosox 4

CLEVELAND (AP) — The on-rushing Cleveland Indians made it two out of three over the first place Boston Red Sox Thursday when speedy Bob Avila raced all the way home from first on an 11th inning single to give the Tribe a 5-4 victory in their series finale.

The spectacular end to the fiercely-fought game came after Avila reached base on a single—his fourth hit of the game—that scored pinch-hitter Bob Lemon for the tying marker.

Then with two out, Sam Chapman's popper landed behind third base. Off with the pitch, Avila had almost reached third when left fielder Ted Williams picked up the ball.

Williams held the ball, expecting Avila to play it safe and hold up at third. But the swift little second baseman continued, sliding safely across the plate to beat Williams' throw.

Clyde Vollmer banged out two homers for the Sox to make it 16 straight games in which he has hit safely.

Pinchhitter Vern Stephens of the Sox had tied up the count 3-3 in the ninth when he singled in Fred Hatfield, who had reached base on a one-bagger.

Early Wynn went the route for the Tribe to win his fifth straight victory and his 10th game of the season against nine losses.

Harry Taylor, who pitched the last four innings after starter Maurice McDermott, taken out for a pinchhitter, was the loser. He allowed six of the Tribe's 15 hits.

Browns 9, Nats 7

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Browns batted around for six runs in the eighth inning and then weathered a ninth-inning uprising by Washington to defeat the Senators 9-7 Thursday before 3,148 fans. The Browns' big inning featured two-run doubles by Rookie Bill Jennings and Ray Coleman.

Dick Starr had yielded only five hits going into the ninth, when he needed help from Bob Hogue and Lou Sleater.

Robertson hit his first homer of the season in the ninth inning as a pinchhitter and it drove in two of the Senators' four runs in the inning.

The Browns six-run spurge in the eighth broke a 3-3 deadlock. Sherm Lollar and Hank Arft led off with singles and a bad throw by Yost on Ken Wood's grounder let in a run. Jennings, playing his first game since the Browns acquired him from the Giants on waivers, drove in two more with a double. Then a single by Jack Maguire, a walk and Coleman's double completed the Brownie scoring.

Ready for Charles Or Louis: Walcott

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Still just "Dad" to the six kids back home in Camden, N. J., 37-year-old Jersey Joe Walcott Thursday happily promised to be a fighting world heavyweight champion.

"I still can't believe it," said Walcott modestly at a news conference. "I think I'm the luckiest man in the world. A wonderful family and the greatest manager—Felix Bocchicchio.

"Felix always preached to me every day in the world 'You're the greatest fighter.' Last night we convinced a lot of people."

The wheels already are turning for the September rematch which may be held in any one of four cities — New York, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia or Atlantic City.

"Charles deserves the right to the return like the contract says within 90 days," Bocchicchio said. "Joe Louis? We'd love to fight him again. He's next after Charles.

"Then we'll go right down the line. Rocky Marciano and all the rest. We want to do the boxing game as much good as we can."

Walcott nodded in agreement with everything his manager said. One of the many telegrams he received came from Louis. He talked about the fight in between posing for pictures as he pretended to drive home the same left hook to Felix's jaw.

What about the knockout punch? "It was a left hook that traveled about six or eight inches. First I feinted a jab to the body and then hooked the left.

"When I hit him, I said, 'Thank God, this is it.' When that punch landed, I knew it was the end. But I knew it was only a matter of time after I hit him in the stomach with a hook in the second.

Charles got his biggest payday — $98,482 and Walcott $42,241. Jersey Joe added a homey touch to the busy day-after activity. He called home to talk to his wife, Lydia, and his six children. When somebody asked Joe if the family called him "Champ," Walcott answered with a big grin.

A's 5-3, Tigers 0-4

DETROIT (AP) — Rookie Morris Martin of the Philadelphia Athletics blanked the Detroit Tigers 5 to 0 Thursday to tie the Ellis Kinder of Boston as the league's winningest pitcher percentage-wise. But the Tigers bounced back to win the second game of a double-header, 4 to 3.

First baseman Lou Limmer's wild throw while trying for a force play in the eighth inning of the second game allowed Neil Berry to reach second. Berry scored the tie-breaking run on Dick Kryhoski's single.

Martin, a 28-year-old Missourian of Indian descent, allowed five hits and walked no one in the first tilt as he carved his sixth win against one loss. Fred Hutchinson (8-4) was the loser.

Virgil Trucks, who relieved starter Hank Borowy in the eighth inning of the second game, won his fourth game against two losses. Bob Hooper lost his seventh game as against four wins.

World's Recordholder To Attempt Today 200 MPH in Racer

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, UTAH (AP) — Ab Jenkins, who for a quarter of a century has been "Mr. Speed" in American car racing circles, will end his long career today in a grand assault on 40 land speed records.

The 68-year-old veteran driver is confident that he can keep his big Mormon Meteor III spinning over the salt flats at better than 200 miles per hour for an hour.

This speed would crack the American one hour record of 195.95 m.p.h., already held by the former Salt Lake City mayor. That's the mark he's really after although up on the block will be 39 other records in the world's unlimited, international class A, American unlimited and American class A.

Almost every time the erect his two and one half ton car, and energetic older steps into the records flat. Only last Labor day, he came out of retirement to break 34 of the records he set ten years earlier. Jenks now holds all existing speed records from 25 miles up to 24 hours.

This vast salt surface, 120 miles west of Salt Lake City, is ideal for land speed racing. And this year, says Jenkins, the 12 mile track is in its best condition since 1933 when he first throttled over the route. Jenkins hopes to complete 17 laps during the official test today in the 60 minutes between 6:30 and 7:30 a.m. (CST).

Jenkins, who holds many medals as being the "world's safest driver" plans to retire from active racing after taking the new record crack today.

The runs will be in charge of the American Automobile association.

Citation, Only Million Dollar Horse, Retired

INGLEWOOD, CALIF. (AP) — Trainer Jimmy Jones announced late Thursday that Citation, the first and only million dollar winner in horse racing, has run his last race. He said it was the wish of the thoroughbred's owner that the horse be retired.

Citation achieved his million dollars in earnings last Saturday when he won the $100,000 net Hollywood gold cup. The victory gave him a lifetime total of $1,085,760 and fulfilled the wish of the late Warren Wright, his breeder-owner, that he be kept running until he reached that goal.

Jones personally had wanted to keep Citation running for at least three more races and nominated him for Saturday's $50,000 Sunset handicap, closing day feature of the Hollywood Park meeting.

"But after talking it over with Mrs. Wright she decided that we should announce Citation's retirement," Jones said. "He made his million and he's a horse being held together 'with strings' and it was decided it would be best not to take a chance of his breaking down by racing him more."

The chunky Calumet farm trainer said that Citation would be taken to Chicago with the rest of the stable's horses and might be the star in a movie to be filmed there.

Penn Submits To NCAA; Won't Televis

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of Pennsylvania has complied with an NCAA ban on full television of football games and has been restored to good standing in the association, NCAA president Hugh Willett announced late Thursday.

Willett said Pennsylvania's director of athletics, Francis T. Murray, notified him the school will conduct television of its 1951 football games "in keeping with the resolutions adopted by the association at its convention in Dallas last January."

"We are therefore pleased to announce that the University of Pennsylvania is now restored to good standing in the National Collegiate Athletic association," Willett said.

The NCAA had set Thursday as the deadline for Pennsylvania either to comply with the association's program of limited and supervised television of football or be placed under suspension.

Willett, elated over the termination of a debate that has raged across the country for weeks since Penn bucked at participating in the controlled television plan, reiterated in a statement that there will be "plenty" of games televised this fall.

Penn had insisted that it would continue its television program and challenged the constitutionality of the NCAA's efforts to compel its members to follow the one-year experimental program.

However, the most concrete opposition came from Penn's own football opponents, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth and California—all scheduled to play Penn in 1951—who said they would not fulfill their dates.

One of the issues projected by the Pennsylvania athletic director was the possibility that the entire program might be in violation of the anti-trust laws. Murray urged that the department of justice rule on the matter.

Willett made it clear, however, that the department had never approved — nor had it disapproved—the TV plan.

Art Andrews Makes Boys Tennis Finals

DES MOINES — Iowa City's Art Andrews advanced to the final round of the boys' singles at the Missouri Valley tennis tournament Thursday in Des Moines. He will meet Dale Anderson of Shawnee, Okla.

Art won his semi-final match defeating Mike Mehaffey of Little Rock, Ark., 6-4, 6-1. After the singles match, Art and Anderson will combine as a double team to take on Al Holtman, St. Louis, and Bob Riley, Kansas City, for the doubles title.

Art and his partner won two matches to get into the final, dumping first Ron Ruessner, Hutchinson, Kan., and Mike Hoffman, Council Bluffs, 6-3, 10-8, and then Neal Drury and Sanford Astor of St. Louis, 6-0, 4-6, 6-2.

Ruthie Ashton advanced to the semi-finals of the junior girls' singles by downing Bunny Hejna of St. Louis, 6-4, 6-1. She then teamed up with Dorothy Avera, Lawton, Okla., to win a first round doubles match, 8-10, 6-3, 6-2 from Jackie Duker and Jeanne Gantner of St. Louis.

Two Iowa Citizens were beaten in Thursday's action. Suzy Hamilton lost a semi-final girls' singles match to Sally Rielley of Kansas City, 6-2, 6-8, 6-0. Jamie Andrews and his partner, John Ben of Shawnee, Okla., lost in the men's doubles quarter-finals to Ben Bishop, St. Louis, and Lucien Barbour, Winfield, Kans., 6-4, 9-7.
