House Votes Cut In Federal Jobs, Housing Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — By a two-vote margin, the house Wednesday refused to retreat in its demands for a big slash in the administration's public housing program and for a cut in the number of federal employees.

The chamber voted 188 to 166 to stand pat on the two economy moves and to reject a compromise worked out by a senate-house conference committee.

House conferees were instructed to insist on the original house decisions as spelled out in the $5,160,000,000 independent offices appropriations bill. The measure provides funds for more than a score of federal agencies, including the atomic energy commission.

Originally, the house had voted to allow the public housing administration to build only 5,000 public housing units this year. Under the compromise proposed by the senate-house conference committee, the number would have been increased 10-fold to 50,000 units. President Truman had asked for 75,000.

The conferees had also agreed on a senate proposal for cutting federal personnel by 10 per cent, instead of the house provision to refill only one out of every five job vacancies.

President Truman had originally asked congress to authorize 135,000 housing units in the year starting July 1, but later cut the number to 75,000 because of shortages arising from the Korean war emergency.

Battle Looms Over Quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration tore into one of the hottest issues of the economic controls fight at the opening of senate-house conferences Wednesday. It sought to keep the right to fix livestock slaughtering quotas.

Both houses, in their varying bills which the conferees are trying to weld into one, denied the office of price stabilization that authority. In view of that action Sen. Burnet Maybank (D-S.C.), chairman of the conference, said there is some doubt there is any legal way to restore the power in the present bill.

The administration has made something of a test point of the issue, contending that it is the key to the whole meat price ceiling program. Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle has spoken of the possibility that lack of the power to say how many animals a slaughterer may handle might open up black markets so wide as to force general decontrol of meat.

Opponents of the quota system on the other hand contend that the curbs themselves would foster black markets by limiting the operations of legitimate meat packers.

Opponents of the quota power now would lose it under both senate and house versions of the defense production bill which the conferees are trying to push to final passage before the present law expires July 31.

Both bills provide that "no restriction, quota or other limitation shall be placed on the quantity of livestock which may be slaughtered."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senate committee produced evidence Wednesday that Owen Lattimore, one-time state department consultant, urged a far east research organization in 1938 to support Soviet Russia's international policy "without using their slogans."

The disclosure was made at the start of an investigation into the Institute of Pacific Relations (IPR). Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.), presiding at the inquiry conducted by an internal security subcommittee, said he aimed to find out whether "subversive influences" have affected American "far eastern policy."

The first witness was Edward C. Carter, a slender, gray-haired man who is a trustee of the IPR. He described himself as a former educator and vigorously denied he ever was a Communist.

The examination dealt principally with Lattimore, now a Johns Hopkins university professor, and Frederick Vanderbilt Field, leftist New York millionaire. Field, financial "angel" of several left-wing groups, is expected to testify today. He is now under jail sentence in New York for contempt of court.

Carter told the senators that

Dismissal of $51,500 Damage Suit Asked By Lons and Baculis

James Lons, owner of the Princess cafe, and his brother, George Baculis, Wednesday asked the district court to dismiss a $51,500 damage suit filed against them arising from the death of Andrew Davelis, waiter in the cafe.

The suit, filed May 12 by Stella Davelis, former wife of the waiter and his brother, Thomas, charged Lons and Baculis with "unlawfully and feloniously assaulting" Davelis Oct. 12, 1950.

The suit further charged that during the assault, knife wounds were inflicted in Davelis' chest that caused his death.

In their answer Wednesday, Lons and Baculis denied any part in the alleged assault.

Davelis died Oct. 12, 1950, from knife wounds police said were inflicted by Lons during the scuffle on the lawn in front of the Dan Dutcher home.

Lons was charged with first degree murder in connection with Davelis' death. A district jury acquitted him of the charge May 6.

Baculis is still under a grand jury indictment on a charge of aiding and abetting in a murder in connection with the death. His trial has been set for Sept. 4.

$565,000 RFC Loan Linked to Influence Of Democrat's Chief

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The name of William M. Boyle Jr., Democratic national committee chairman, was linked Wednesday with a printing firm here which after three unsuccessful tries secured a $565,000 loan from the reconstruction finance corporation.

In Washington, Boyle denied any connection with the RFC loan. The Post-Dispatch reported that Boyle, a close friend of President Truman, was paid $8,000 by the American Lithofold corporation, in monthly installments which began soon after an RFC loan for it had been approved in 1949.

Boyle's name popped up alongside that of another friend, James P. Finnegan, whose administration as internal revenue collector for eastern Missouri is under investigation by a federal grand jury here.

The newspaper said it had also learned that Finnegan was paid $1,000 a month by the company which issued him stock, valued at $12,000, but later cancelled the stock after an investigation of his office was started by the department of justice.

Finnegan quit as collector of internal revenue here only recently, following a charge by Sen. John J. Williams (R-DeI.) that he had used his office to promote personal business. Finnegan could not be reached for comment.

Boyle, at Washington, was quoted by the Post-Dispatch as saying he had been retained as an attorney by the printing firm for "about two and one-half months in 1949" but that he had decided in the spring of that year to quit his law practice to avoid possible intimation that he was using his job as Democratic party head "in connection with any law cases."

Fountain Is Winner Of Safety Contest

Howard Fountain, R.R. 5, Iowa City, was a winner in the senior division of the sixth annual farm safety contest sponsored by radio station WHO.

Fountain made two safety gadgets—a metal protector or grinder guard to be worn when using a grinding stone and a 10-foot pole with a danger sign to warn motorists of mud on the highway.

He said that he plans to enter his gadgets in a safety gadget contest at the state fair in Des Moines.

EUROPE'S HARVEST 'GOOD' BELGRADE (AP) — United States Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan said Wednesday that Europe's harvest prospects looked good this year and would reduce the need for American aid.

Bradley Renamed Staff Chief Chairman

Gen. Omar Bradley The GI's General

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman Wednesday nominated Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the popular "GI's general," to a second two-year term as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Bradley is the first man to hold the post, created two years ago under the armed forces unification law with the aim of attaining closer cooperation between the joint chiefs—the military heads of the army, navy and air force.

The 58-year-old Bradley, who wanted to retire this year, agreed to serve another two years on the grounds that every soldier must do what his country asks in time of emergency.

Costello Spends 40 Minutes in Prison, Then Freed on Bail

NEW YORK (AP) — Gambler Frank Costello, alleged co-boss of the east coast underworld, was arrested Wednesday and put in a jail cell for the first time in 34 years.

Costello was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of contempt of the U.S. senate along with two other top eastern underworld leaders, Joe Adonis and Frank Erickson.

However, he spent only 40 minutes in a cell in the U.S. marshal's office before he was released in the custody of his lawyer.

Suave Costello hurried to the federal courthouse by subway to surrender shortly after he was indicted on nine counts of contempt for refusing to answer questions asked him by the senate's Kefauver crime committee.

He was taken before Federal Judge John F. X. McGohey, who set bail at $5,000. A surety put up the bond and Costello was released. He said he will plead innocent.

Adonis, 49, Costello's alleged co-leader in crime, and Erickson, 54, a king-pin bookmaker, already are in jail. They are serving two years each for violating gambling laws, and will be brought to federal court to enter their pleas to the new charges.

Tuesday four patients were transferred to inactive. They were Karl Kinman, 24, Ottumwa, Mark Rosover, 6, La Porte City, William Dahm, 10, Olin, and Robert Saylor, 6, Kirksville.

Those transferred Monday were Marjiam Aurand, 28, Eldora, and Mary Shreiber, 19, Iowa City.

British Protest U.S. Proposed Tie with Spain

LONDON (AP) — Great Britain has protested to the United States that the proposed American military alliance with Spain might do "political damage" to the Western defense effort. Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said Wednesday.

Laborites cheered as Morrison stated British policy on Spain in his first appearance in the house of commons, as the government speaker in a major foreign policy debate. Conservatives cried "nonsense . . . nonsense."

"His majesty's government's policy towards Spain has not changed," Morrison said. "The government still does not believe that the inclusion of Spain in the Western defense would strengthen the community of freedom-loving nations."

"They (the government) have informed the U. S. government of their conviction that the strategic advantages which might accrue from associating Spain with Western defense would be outweighed by the political damage that such an association might inflict on the Western community of nations," he added.

R. A. Butler, chief conservative speaker in Wednesday's debate, said that the United States "unilaterally" moved toward a pact with Spain had stripped away some of the "unity of purpose" all the free powers should show to the world.

"It is not for us, however strongly we feel on the Spanish issue, to prevent action calculated to help the Spanish people, who are still suffering from the loss of over a million men in their civil war," Butler said.

Earlier, Foreign Undersecretary Ernest Davies told questioners that the U.S. wanted bases and air fields in Spain but was not pressing for the inclusion of Spain in the Atlantic pact.

A conservative asked Davies: "Why is it right to give help to a Communist dictatorship in Yugoslavia and do nothing for a non-Communist dictatorship in Spain?"

The minister replied: "There is very considerable difference between the Communist government in Yugoslavia and the Franco government in Spain. The Communist government under Tito was our ally during the war and the government of Franco was not."

Illinois Journalist Accepts SUI Position

Virginia Coverdale, instructor for the past two years at Northwestern university's Medill school of journalism, has been named administrative assistant in the SUI school of journalism.

Miss Coverdale will begin her duties in September. She succeeds John Scott Davenport, who resigned at the end of the second semester to take over the publication of two papers in Illinois.

Before going to Northwestern, Miss Coverdale was with the Journalism department at the University of Denver for three years. In her final year at Denver she was acting director of the department.

Miss Coverdale began her newspaper work on the Indianapolis (Ind.) Times as a woman's page writer and general assignment reporter in 1939. Later she spent five years on the Fort Wayne (Ind.) News Sentinel.

On the Sentinel she was a woman's page reporter, book editor, picture page editor, general assignment reporter and copydesk worker.

Richard Campbell, 24, Muscatine, admitted to the isolation ward of University hospitals Wednesday, was in fair condition Tuesday, officials said. His case was diagnosed as polio.

There are at present, four active polio cases in the hospital. Transferred to the inactive list Wednesday was Irenaeus Klaren, 33, Dubuque.

Tuesday four patients were transferred to inactive. They were Karl Kinman, 24, Ottumwa, Mark Rosover, 6, La Porte City, William Dahm, 10, Olin, and Robert Saylor, 6, Kirksville.

Those transferred Monday were Marjiam Aurand, 28, Eldora, and Mary Shreiber, 19, Iowa City.

Allies, Reds Believed Near Final Armistice Agreement

Allied, Red Troops Spar in Light Attacks Along Korean Front

TOKYO (THURSDAY) (AP) — Allied and Communist armies sparred along the Korean front Wednesday in fighting so light it gave the impression both sides were marking time for the Kaesong negotiations.

Patrols went out from the Allied lines on the western, central and eastern fronts, searching for the enemy and any surprises he might be brewing. About all they found were Communist scouting parties on like missions.

In most cases the patrols withdrew after the exchange of scattered shots. There were no attacks aimed seriously at gaining territory.

A communique issued at 10 p.m. said U.S. 8th army forces "continued patrol activities and reported light enemy contact."

Northwest of Munsan, a South Korean town below the truce city of Kaesong, an Allied patrol engaged a Communist platoon.

Other patrols exchanged fire with an unknown number of Reds, and watched a Communist battalion dig in northwest of Korangpo, 15 miles due east of Kaesong.

Allied troops beat off a light probing attack north of Inje, on the east-central front. In the same general area the Communists fired 176 rounds of artillery at Allied positions.

Light contact was reported west southwest of Kansong, on the east coast. The report indicated a battle going on several days for key heights overlooking the town had died down.

MacArthur Blasts U.S. Policy, Calls Korean War Indecisive

BOSTON (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur struck out Wednesday night with a sweeping condemnation of American policy, at home and abroad, and declared that the result of the war in Korea has been "indecisive."

In one of his most powerful speeches since he was recalled from the Far East, MacArthur laid down four major points:

1. The result of the war in Korea has been indecisive and added that "appeasement thereafter became the policy of war on the battlefield."

2. American foreign policy has become a "mass of confused misunderstandings and vacillations. The sorry truth is that we have no policy."

3. The costs of government have risen at "an accelerated, alarming and reckless rate," and that nothing is heard from Washington about the possibility of a reduction or limitation of these costs.

4. "The survival of the free world is infinitely more dependent upon the maintenance of a strong, vigorous, healthy and independent America than upon any financial aid which we might provide under our own existing stringencies."

MacArthur addressed a joint session of the Massachusetts house and senate.

"In Korea despite the magnificent performance of our fighting forces the result has been indecisive," he said.

"The threat of aggression upon the weak by those callously inclined among the strong has not diminished. Indeed, nothing has been settled. No issue has been decided," he added.

C of C to Honor New City Manager At Annual Dinner

Iowa City's new city manager, Peter F. Roan, will be a guest at the chamber of commerce board of directors annual dinner next Wednesday.

The dinner meeting will be Roan's first public appearance here he accepted the manager job July 3.

Civic problems in Iowa City and future developments will be discussed. City council members will also be at the meeting.

Roan is also scheduled to speak to a combined meeting of Iowa City's service clubs Aug. 9.

Mayor William J. Holland said Wednesday Roan told him he will attend the regular city council meeting Aug. 6. Holland said the city manager will probably have his office in the mayor's office in city hall.

Roan and his wife and two sons will live at 223 E. Davenport st. during the next year.

Government Promises Prompt Flood Relief At Tri-State Meeting

KANSAS CITY, MO. — The federal government Wednesday promised prompt relief for victims of the nation's first billion dollar flood at a one-day conference of the Missouri river states committee.

Raymond M. Foley, federal housing and home finance administrator, called the flood a "disaster to the nation," as well as to the area actually hit.

The conference was called by Gov. Val Peterson of Nebraska, who was joined by Gov. Edward F. Arn of Kansas and Gov. Forest Smith of Missouri in outlining the two-fold purpose of the meeting:

1. To plan for immediate relief for victims.

2. To plan a long-range program for the prevention of future disastrous floods in the Missouri river basin.

Foley, appointed by President Truman to establish a central coordinating office on temporary relief activities of the federal agencies said:

"The President has already authorized initial allocations from his emergency fund to the states of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma. We have released to the department of agriculture $1 million of the special appropriation to make immediately available feed for livestock in the disaster area."

Foley said he has asked all agencies and officials to furnish the federal government information on the type of aid needed.

The Allied negotiators led by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy reported back to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the UN supreme commander, after Wednesday's session and he transmitted the Red offer to Washington and the U.N.

He discussed the matter with the pentagon from his Tokyo office and then gave his final instructions to joy before the team took off from the UN advance camp for Kaesong at 1:20 p.m. (11:20 p.m. EDT).

A commander in the field Ridgway could make a military decision on his own. But even the Communist terms obviously had Washington's approval.

By then the advance camp was more optimistic than ever and a dispatch from there said that the word had been to accept the Communist proposal.

The dispatch said it was felt in the Imjin river camp that agreement finally was near after three weeks of negotiations interrupted once by the UN and once by the Communists.

The first interruption came when the Communists stopped an Allied convoy. Ridgway laid down a series of stiff demands for conduct of the truce talks and the Communists met them all.

Then the UN served notice it would not settle the question of troop withdrawal at a military conference and the Reds took time out to consult with their superiors in Peking, Pyongyang and Moscow.

Committee Claims Lattimore Supported Russ Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senate committee produced evidence Wednesday that Owen Lattimore, one-time state department consultant, urged a far east research organization in 1938 to support Soviet Russia's international policy "without using their slogans."

The disclosure was made at the start of an investigation into the Institute of Pacific Relations (IPR). Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.), presiding at the inquiry conducted by an internal security subcommittee, said he aimed to find out whether "subversive influences" have affected American "far eastern policy."

The first witness was Edward C. Carter, a slender, gray-haired man who is a trustee of the IPR. He described himself as a former educator and vigorously denied he ever was a Communist.

The examination dealt principally with Lattimore, now a Johns Hopkins university professor, and Frederick Vanderbilt Field, leftist New York millionaire. Field, financial "angel" of several left-wing groups, is expected to testify today. He is now under jail sentence in New York for contempt of court.

Carter told the senators that more and Lauchlin Currie, an administrative assistant to President Roosevelt, also recommended Field for the job.

The letter said "Owen" was taking the matter up with Currie, but

Field tried without success to obtain an army intelligence assignment after the U.S. entered World War II. He testified he wrote someone in the war department in behalf of the appointment.

Sen. James Eastland (D-Miss.) said a February, 1942, letter from Field to Carter showed that Lattimore

High Court Justice Refuses Field Bail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Stanley F. Reed of the supreme court refused Wednesday to order release of Frederick Vanderbilt Field, millionaire leftist, and two other New Yorkers on bail pending their appeals from contempt convictions.

The others are mystery writer Dashiell Hammett and W. Alphacus Hunton.

The three are trustees of the civil rights congress hall fund. They were held in contempt in New York federal court for refusing to tell who contributed to this fund, used to provide $50,000 for four Communists convicted of conspiring to advocate the violent overthrow of the government.

The four Communists forfeited bond and disappeared.

Carter under questioning said he didn't know whether Lattimore and Currie recommended Field for a commission.

The letter Lattimore wrote on July 10, 1938 concerning Soviet policy was produced in photostatic by subcommittee counsel Robert Morris. It advised the IPR, a private organization, how to conduct its then current Sino-Japanese survey. It was written to Carter, then secretary-general of the IPR.

Lattimore, in Washington Wednesday night, was asked by a reporter to comment on the 1938 letter.

He said he did not attend the committee session Wednesday. He said the time of the letter—the first half of 1938—was "very important."

He said at that time the Russian policy was "all out for collective security—it was in favor of united international action to stop the Japanese."

Lattimore added he wanted the IPR at that time to follow the line which would make neither the Russians nor any other nation represented in the institute think the U.S. was subservient to the Russians.

Lattimore has been one of the chief targets of Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.), who charged that Reds muscled into the state department. During an inquiry by a foreign relations subcommittee last year, Lattimore denied under oath that he was ever a Communist.

Contino Pleads Guilty to Draft Dodging Rap

SAN FRANCISCO — Dick Contino, the 21-year-old accordionist who climbed from a butcher's apprentice to a $4,000-a-week entertainer, was in a San Francisco jail Wednesday after pleading guilty to draft dodging. The Glendale, Calif., musician stopped his jury trial in its second day Tuesday when he unexpectedly switched his plea from innocent to guilty to charges of evading induction into the army.

Contino appeared pale and dejected as Federal Judge Michael J. Roche brushed aside his plea for immediate induction so he could become a "good soldier" and ordered the musician to jail for at least two weeks while his fate is decided.

Then the youth, who took French leave from the army induction center at Fort Ord, Calif., the night before he was to be sworn into service, was led off to a jail cell with a psychiatrist holding his hand while a cluster of teen-age girls wept helplessly. The judge ordered Contino jailed without bail until August 7, at which time he will consider a probation report as to whether the youth should be imprisoned, given medical care, or allowed to join the army from which he fled last April because he felt "fenced in."

The entertainer's psychiatrist, Dr. P. P. Poliak of San Francisco, protested the jail sentence at the post-trial hearing on the claim that his patient suffered a neurosis which is a type of claustrophobia. "I hate to think what will happen if he is kept in seclusion," the psychiatrist said.

Previously Contino had pleaded innocent on grounds he was unfit for military service. He had said he "couldn't bear to be away from his parents," according to one witness.

Teen-Age Traffic Fatalities Decrease

DES MOINES — Driver education programs in Iowa high schools have brought about a reduction in fatal traffic accidents involving teen-aged drivers, a safety expert said Wednesday.

Frank B. Ulich, director of safety education in the state department of public safety, said that only 12.2 per cent of drivers involved in fatal accidents were in the 14- to 20 age bracket during the first six months of 1951.

That figure compares with 16.4 per cent during the same period in 1950, 13.4 per cent in 1949, and 18.9 per cent in 1948, records showed.

Two hundred and fifty Iowa sponsored driver education programs last year, Ulich said. He added that other schools planned to adopt such a program next fall.

Flood Waters Gone; Stench Lingers on

MANHATTAN, KAN. (UP) — The Kansas river valley—birthplace of the nation's first billion-dollar flood—looked like a mud-caked battlefield Wednesday, pock-marked with water-filled bomb craters.

Sandy desolation stretches mile after mile where corn should be high and cattle should be grazing. The sand has choked off crops, perhaps for years to come.

The river is back inside its banks, but wide, shallow lakes stretch between sandbars across the valley.

Uprooted trees, torn as if by gunfire, lay on their sides, their roots in the air.

The city of Manhattan at the confluence of the Kansas and Big Blue rivers, suffered through 40 days of flood in 40.

For the last two weeks there has been no business in the downtown area. There will be none for some weeks to come.

Flood damage here is estimated conservatively by Mayor Z. R. Hook at $22,500,000. That's an awful impact on a college town of some 20,000 persons.

The story also is told in the tears of a middle-aged woman who two weeks ago lost her husband. She was scrubbing some furniture on her mud-coated porch, sobbing how "awful it is to be alone and have my home and everything I have left ruined."

Illinois College Of Commerce Dispute Rages

URBANA, ILL. — The University of Illinois board of trustees Wednesday approved a $47,853,147 budget but passed lightly over a raging controversy in the school's college of commerce.

The budget, some $4 million above that of last year, included a 7 1/2 per cent cost of living increase for staff members.

The college of commerce controversy had caused Dean Howard R. Bowen to resign at the first of the year after some professors under him had accused him of "liberal" tendencies.

Tuesday Everett E. Hagen, head of the department of economics, also resigned, declaring that the department was subject to "outside pressures" as a result of the controversy.

The only action of the trustees was to receive and approve a report of its policy committee which studied the matter.

The policy committee acknowledged that the dispute has done "considerable damage" to the university, but its only recommendation was that a new dean of the college of commerce should be appointed without delay.

The trustees thus passed over a proposal of University President George Stoddard that the entire college of commerce be reorganized.

Robert R. Hudelson, who had been named acting dean of the college when Bowen quit, Wednesday was named acting head of the department of economics in Hagen's place.

Hagen Tuesday announced that seven other members of the economics department had resigned, hinting at a mass protest action.

But Hudelson said Hagen's announcement was misleading because some of the resignations dated from last winter but had never been announced by Hagen.

The original dispute in the college of commerce had flared when Prof. Ralph Blodgett, well-known economics authority, resigned. Several colleagues later charged he was forced out because his views were too "conservative."

RAF Bomber Set To Fly North Pole

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — A Royal air force bomber was put in top mechanical shape Wednesday for its return flight over the North Pole to England.

Wing Comdr. R. T. Frogley and his crew of 10 arrived here Tuesday on the first leg of an Arctic navigation training flight from Keflavik, Iceland.

They followed a route along the same aerial highway military strategists believe a Russian air armada might try to use in case of war with the United States.

State Records Damaged

DES MOINES — Water which trickled down a wall when a water pipe broke Tuesday night damaged records in a state supreme court vault in the state capitol.

The amount of damage could not be estimated immediately, but a spokesman said it apparently was not high. The records were kept in a vault just beneath the water pipe.

Code Experts Play Key Part in U.S. Security

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C. — While no serious concern apparently is felt here that disclosures in congressional hearings have spilled the beans concerning the United States highly secret code, Gen. Omar Bradley's warning that it might happen has emphasized again how widely they are used and how important it is to safeguard them.

Use of code systems is ancient and constitutes a highly technical science which is practiced by a close-knit group of experts who comprise almost a cult, but it is doubtful if any nation ever has had to rely on codes as extensively as Uncle Sam does today, because of the world-wide span of his interests.

The two biggest coding centers here are the amazing telecon room in the Pentagon, which is a veritable world-wide communications nerve center, and the state department.

Strictly speaking, relatively few methods of secret communication actually should be called codes. Many of the most confidential messages are transmitted by cryptograms.

The difference is that a code means to the experts a relatively simple system in which five-letter combinations are given word meaning, and the key is a special "dictionary," which, if lost, could give away the whole thing.

On the other hand, a cryptogram is based on an ingenious system which usually employs a jumbled alphabet keyed into a special password that may be changed frequently to confound prying enemies. They also are called ciphers.

Nowadays there also is the scrambled telephone or teletype-writer used in the two-way cable-telegraph or cable-radio discussions which take place between the plotters of high strategy at the Pentagon here and the area commanders. The sending apparatus purposely garbles the message, and the receiver "unscrambles" it. Probably it is natural that U.S. code experts should be jumpy over the possibility of codes being "cracked," because to their own credit in the last decade are two of history's most dramatic examples of secret communications systems being tapped.

They broke the Japanese code early in World War II, and this led to the great Jap naval defeat at Midway. The Nazi attempt to perfect a system whereby a whole cryptogram could be crammed into a dot used as a period in an otherwise harmless social letter was wrecked when the FBI caught a spy with parts of the device, and the decoding experts figured out the message through a microscope.

The science of breaking codes known as cryptanalysis, is regarded as one of the greatest tests of human intellect. As one of the experts puts it, "Unraveling a cryptogram requires the exercise of unusual powers of inductive and deductive reasoning, much concentration, perseverance, and a vivid imagination—plus a certain special aptitude and a vast practical experience."

It has intrigued thinkers for centuries, and Thomas Jefferson is credited with invention of a mechanical device for deciphering.

Edgar Allan Poe, whose cypher concerning Captain Kidd's treasure in his story, "The Gold Bug," has fascinated generations of readers, contended that "it may be roundly asserted that human ingenuity cannot concoct a cipher which human ingenuity cannot solve."

Supporting Poe's theory are many of the amazing archaeological discoveries made by scientists

FOR DAYS NOW I'D BEEN MEANING to go over to the art building and interview that squirrel in the slide room. But, sad to relate, he has gone to the happy nutting grounds.

I only had two semesters of Squirrel, just enough to meet the language requirement, but he probably had an interesting story to tell. The story I get, somewhat garbled perhaps, is that someone overheard him mention once in passing that Grant Wood was okay, after all, and he was mysteriously poisoned with a tube of burnt ochre.

CHEMISTRY MAY BE A WONDERFUL science, but I still dream of Jeannie with the (natural) light brown hair.

IT'S ALL VERY FINE TO RESURFACE the streets, but the tar is beginning to get more than somewhat troublesome in the heat. One guy I know has been standing in the same place for three days now, frantically pleading for someone to try him loose.

Nobody'll go near though. The authorities are seriously considering parachuting C-rations to him. If he'd thought fast enough, he could have jumped out of his shoes, but by now he's up to the middle of his shins.

HOW ABOUT A REAL SHAGGY DOG story? With a real shaggy dog in it? Normally this would fill about 17 columns, but here presented boiled down.

In the days of knighthood, there was a little teeny-type knight, about two feet tall, who never could go out from the Round Table to joust and slay ogres because he was too small. He was unhappy, Morose.

But finally he found a big, shaggy dog to ride, the king gave the green light, and he rode Sir Lancelittle to whack a salamander or two.

On and on he rode, chopping down an ogrelet every now and then and before he knew it, winter was upon him. For days and days he rode on the dog, whose feet were becoming sore and frozen from all this foolishness.

The big storm inevitably came, and they reined in at an inn. Inside, quoth the innkeeper, all filled up, bub. Wearily, tearfully, the knight pleaded with him, but to no avail.

At length, still astride Rover, Sir Lancelittle prepared to leave the inn. As they pushed open the door and raised the portcullis, a fierce and wintry blast blasted in. The dog shivered, Lance shivered, even the innkeeper shook a bit.

Rover's pore old carcass gave way about that time, and as he struggled to rise with Lance still in the stirrups, the innkeeper cried: "Stop! You can stay and sleep in a bathtub. I wouldn't send a knight out on a dog like this."

Director Reveals — Barrymore Jr. Jittery

— In Movies, Too

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — John Barrymore Jr., also suffered stage fright on a movie set when he had to make love to Corinne Calvet, the man who launched the young profile's acting career said Wednesday.

Young Barrymore jilted a Chicago theater last week because he got scared. But producer George Templeton, who has the actor under contract for movies, says that scare was nothing compared to the willies John gets in front of the camera.

"Especially when we made 'High Quebec' and he had to play love scenes with Corinne Calvet. He got scared and said, 'How can I go in and play a scene with her?'"

During other scenes, the producer went on, the newest actor in the Barrymore clan went "completely blank and forgot everything." Other times his voice vanished, too.

"His hands would shake, his knees tremble, he'd drop props, stumble into things and stiffen up," Templeton said.

"He'd never have walked out of that Chicago play if I had been there to help him. When we went on personal appearance tours for his first movie, 'The Sundowners,' I practically had to push him out on the stage.

"Before he was to go on, he'd say, 'I just don't feel it. You don't understand.' But after I'd get him out on the stage, he'd do a wonderful job.

"He's a true movie star, completely unpredictable. He's like a race horse. In that Chicago incident he just didn't get away from the gate."

Templeton, an ex-assistant director, wanted to sign up John for movie roles when the actor was seven. After three offers down the years, his mother, Dolores Costello, finally gave in when Templeton turned independent producer.

Young Barrymore has complained he wishes he'd started as a bit player named John Smith, not a star named Barrymore.

"He doesn't mean that," chuckled Templeton. "He's a true Barrymore, wants to be top dog or nothing. When I hand him a script, he looks through it to see how big his part is and says, 'What the hell am I doing, a stooge?'"

"Most stars never were anything but stars, anyway. Did you ever hear of Greta Garbo doing bit parts? Or Alan Ladd or Shirley Temple?"

"What John should do is go back to work and do a good job and forget he's John Barrymore Jr. Nobody expects him to be as good as his father was."

WAR CASUALTIES IDENTIFIED WASHINGTON (UP) — The defense department Wednesday identified 39 more American battle casualties in the Korean war. The 362nd casualty list included 9 dead, 22 wounded, 2 injured and 6 missing.

For Dining—Beauty Plus Durability

BEAUTY OF WOOD COMBINES WITH DURABILITY of plastic in this new dinette. Manufactured by a specially-developed technique, wear-resistant, laminated wood parts are contoured under heat and pressure, bonded with a thermo-setting plastic. The wooden parts are hand-rubbed to give a luxurious, satin finish which harmonizes with the pattern stain and heat resistant, plastic table top. Chairs are upholstered in a scuff-resistant material, available in aqua, jonquil, poinsettia, and sepia. The natural spring of bent wood is utilized in the design of the chairs, which have a posture-regulating back.

Women Advised —

Redecorating? Use 'Rule of 3'

There are probably very few women who haven't at one time or another had the urge to do some redecorating in their homes. Too many of them, though, hesitate to give vent to their ideas for fear they will be impractical or won't turn out as well as they picture them.

Home redecoration, however, is a simple matter and there are many codes that the housewife, student or business girl can follow. She needn't hire an interior decorator in order to have a room that is attractive, comfortable and suitable.

Reflects Personality
No room reflects the personality of the homemaker quite so much as her bedroom. So with a few decorating ideas and determination, she should be able to turn out a room that will be a perfect setting for her—one that will be appealing and attractive to her during those hours of relaxation.

Restful Color Best
These are set rules in the decorator's vocabulary, but they allow plenty of room for the imaginative person. Her choice of pattern and color are entirely up to her.

Can Be Striped, Plain
If she chooses patterned wallpaper, she should then select a rug in a solid color. Her draperies should be a solid color—either the same as the rug or one that would harmonize with the rug and wallpaper.

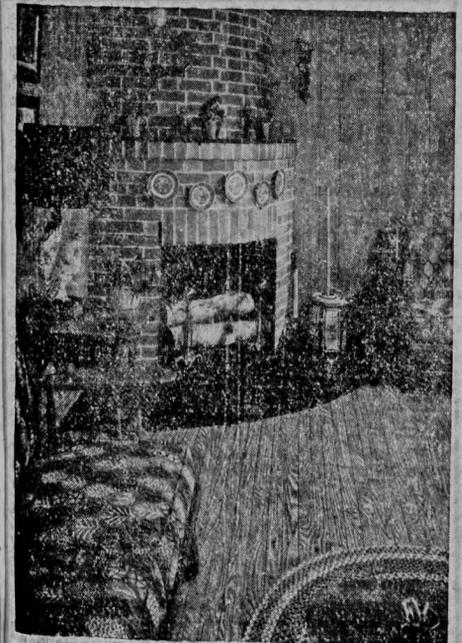

The bedspread and chair covers, then, could be of either a plain color or a stripe.

If the pattern in the rug sets the pace for the room, she might choose striped wallpaper to blend with it. In order to avoid too much pattern, her draperies, bedspread and chair covers could be done in plain, solid colors.

The third choice she has in her Rule of Three allows her bedspread and chair covers to be gaily patterned. To compliment these, her rug and draperies should be in a plain, solid color and her wallpaper either plain or striped.

Restful Color Best
These are set rules in the decorator's vocabulary, but they allow plenty of room for the imaginative person. Her choice of pattern and color are entirely up to her. She may select what is most appealing to her. Whatever her choice, though, she should try to create a restful, relaxing atmosphere—one that will lure sleep, not drive it away.

For Living—Oak Floor Area

EXPOSURE OF MORE FLOOR AREA, home decorators say, is the latest fashion in interior planning. Illustrating this trend, the room pictured here capitalizes on the gleaming mellow beauty of oak. The floor itself thus becomes a major element in the decorative plan. Set off by a handsome throw rug, it complements the attractive wood paneling and maple furniture which flank the curved brick fireplace.

Psychologically Speaking — Bamboo, Hemp, Fiber Make Rooms Cooler

If you don't have an air-conditioning unit in your warm little house, try a few psychological tricks to make it cooler. "Coolth" can be achieved without hiding hunks of ice behind the settee. You can do it with a few well-chosen furnishings.

Instead of leaving windows bare, why not use bamboo shades and draperies? These can be bought in department stores or custom-made at budget prices.

Bamboo Makes Draperies
Draperies of fine matchstick-size bamboo-like wood strips are available in any lengths, and widths up to 12 feet. They come in natural, white, beige, charcoal, grey, Chinese red or painted to match any sample.

Blinds of natural bamboo are very popular this season. They can be cut to fit windows with a small saw, if you can't locate them in the right size. If colors aren't available, paint them yourself to harmonize with your decor.

The enchanting thing about bamboo and its sister-woods is it makes you cool just to look at it. It can be put away and used season after season although in color it is making great inroads into winter decorating schemes.

Emphasis on Hemp
There is great emphasis on inexpensive hemp for floor coverings this season, and the interest is not confined to summer living. Rugs made of individual hemp squares in solid or color combinations offer floor magic at budget prices. The squares can be made to any size or shape.

Fiber rugs are prettier than ever this year. There are dramatic block plaids and tweedy flecked rugs to bring exciting flood interest to living room, game room and sun room. They are available in a 12-color range of designs and popular decorator combinations.

Designs Lamp
Another charming idea is a lamp designed by Helen Woods of Northampton, Mass. Mrs. Woods' lamp base is a glass bowl into which fresh flowers can be put.

During the summer she suggests seashells and cypress root or garden flowers for foamy coolness. In the winter greens can be beautifully arranged for a delightful effect.

Other cooling effects can be achieved with aquariums built into end tables, lamps, coffee tables and bookcases.

Fabrics Enable You To Achieve Any Effect In Home Furnishings

By means of good choice of fabrics, you can achieve any effect you want, complement any furniture period, develop any color scheme. How do you decide?

According to the July issue of a home magazine, you should start with what you have. Before you go shopping, study your room carefully. Take with you samples of your wall color, floor covering, and drapery fabric.

The article points out that upholstery and slipcover materials in a traditional room should be rather formal. You might choose brocade, linen, damask, chintz, velveteen, or leather. For a Provincial room, you'll want fabrics with a homespun feeling and a simple design: textured and plain cottons, ginghams, small-patterned chintz, toile, percale, calico, or denim.

Texture Important
In a Modern room, texture and color are most important. The fabric itself might be cotton, silk, linen, nylon, rayon, or wool. Modern patterns are usually stylized—that is, abstractions, geometric prints, or oversized florals.

Limit yourself to no more than three colors in any room. One easy way to do this is to match large, upholstered pieces to the walls or rug, or make them a lighter or darker shade of the same color. Let odd chairs pick up one or two other colors in the room. Cover small occasional chairs in a bright shade of the colors.

Simplifies Upholstering
A tailored flounce, box-pleated at the corners, may simplify upholstering where carved legs fit over lower corners of the chair. But get an expert's opinion on whether or not a flounce will improve the appearance of your chair.

More important, the article suggests, choose materials suited to the kind of life they must lead. Sturdy, tightly woven fabrics won't wear through quickly. Colorfast and shrinkproof slipcovers can be dunked in suds often as they need it.

85 Persons Attend Iowa City Academy's 4th Annual Reunion

Eighty-five persons attended the fourth annual reunion of the former Iowa City academy at City park recently.

All classes except four from 1891 to 1917 had representatives present. The roll was taken by B. V. Bridenstine, president. Greetings were read from 10 states.

L. R. Morford led a memorial service honoring those who died the last year. He also spoke of Prof. W. A. Willis, the academy's owner and principal from 1891 until his death in 1915.

Gift for the oldest graduate present went to Mrs. Emma Davis McRoberts, '91. The graduate coming the most miles, George Elbert of Davenport, was also presented a gift.

Last year's officers were re-elected. They are: President, B. V. Bridenstine, Iowa City; vice president, Mrs. Carrie C. Worley, Ely; secretary, Miss Mary Sunier, Iowa City, and treasurer, Mrs. Alice S. West, Iowa City.

Members voted to hold the next reunion the third Sunday in July. The following persons attended the reunion:

Iowa City — B. V. Bridenstine, Mrs. Alice Schell West, Mrs. Ethel Gould Pollock, Mrs. Minnie B. Hunter, Mrs. L. R. Morford, Mrs. Emma Davis McRoberts, Mr. Mary Thomas Black, R. E. Roberts, Mrs. S. A. Hunter, Mrs. W. Winborn.

For Sleeping—Femininity

DAINTY AND FEMININE, this decor provides a delightful setting for a little girl. The beige carpeting, rose faille chair, white organdy bedspread and curtains tie in with the colors in the apple blossom wallpaper.

Decorative Touch Advised For Little Girls' Bedrooms

Little girls are more sensitive to their surroundings than their mothers might think. Most of them love and appreciate pretty things from babyhood on. When they graduate from cribs to youth beds, the decorative treatment of their bedrooms should be given some thought.

Many mothers are inclined to make do with an old thing in a child's room because they say children are so hard on things. They'll wait to fix up their rooms until they're old enough to appreciate it.

Can Be Taught
However, if a child has possessions she is proud of, she can be taught values and the need for taking care of these possessions without difficulty. Furthermore, surrounding her with attractive, good furnishings will develop in her natural good taste.

More serious in consequence than nondescript furnishings, however, is the practice of making do with old bedding for children. Most hand-me-down mattresses and bedsprings are worn out. If they are no longer comfortable for adults, they certainly are not right for children.

Need Good Bedding
Youngsters need good quality, firm bedding to insure proper skeletal formation. Although they can sleep anywhere if they're tired enough, their posture and health can be badly affected by the uneven support of inferior or worn out bedding.

Market Emphasizes Fabric, Color Ideas

The Summer Home Furnishings Market this year revealed many new and interesting ideas in home decoration. Emphasis was on fabric and color—and nature seemed to give the cue for the rich textured fabrics and warm colors.

Dual purpose furniture was again a feature point of the show. Sofa beds, studio couches and chair beds received added attention because of their interesting styling, appealing colors and fabrics.

Mattresses Concealed
The ease of operation in converting from an attractive sofa to a comfortable bed was also noted with appreciation. In many styles of sofa beds, comfortable innerspring mattresses were concealed.

Many were done in tweeds and nubby fabrics—which are not only attractive but practical. Geometric rather than floral patterns predominated, and replacing the bold stripes of last year were the subtle, hairline stripes.

Brown, Gray Lead
Browns and grays seemed to be the leading colors, with the lighter shades the more popular. The monotone color scheme is still the favored—one color and its variations—often highlighted by the use of black and white.

The fashion trend has affected the woods, too. Emphasizing the natural beauty of wood are warm tints, from rose and dusty plums to blue and gray. Beige is a popular finish for mahogany, and maple furniture has acquired the lighter, honey-colored hues.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cleveland Indians came within one out of winning their first game at the Yankee stadium in over a year Wednesday, but a two-out, ninth inning double by Johnny Mize scored two runs, wrecked the Indians for the 13th straight time here and gave the New York Yankees a thrilling 2-1 triumph.

Mike Garcia, heavyweight Indian righthander, had surrendered only four singles and was working on his second straight shutout as the Yanks came up for the last time. The Tribe had manufactured their lone run in the first inning on two hits and two outs by Eddie Lopat.

Gil McDougald, however, opened the last of the ninth with a line single to center. Garcia quickly disposed of the next two batters, striking out Gene Woodling and getting Joe DiMaggio on a fly to right. It looked like the finish.

Larry Berra kept the Yankee hopes alive with a single to center that sent McDougald to third.

Mize, whose eighth inning homer beat Cleveland 3-2 Tuesday, worked the count to one and one, then sliced a hump-backed hit over third. Berra followed McDougald across the plate with the winning run.

Chisox 6, Bosox 2

BOSTON (AP) — Easy throwing Ken Holcombe turned up as the Chicago White Sox's eagerly sought "stopper" Wednesday, and his artistic five-hit stint provided a 6-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox. The effective righthander faced only 32 Bostonians while snapping his fourth-place club's five game losing streak.

But Holcombe owed much to Don Lenhardt, who belted his second three-run homer here in two days against lefty Mel Parnell in the sixth inning.

Up to that time, Parnell, victor over the White Sox in three previous tries, had a 1-0 lead that looked safe, thanks to a pair of sparkling double plays. They had blocked a Chicago attack that eventually totaled 12 hits.

Before Lenhardt stroked his 11th four bagger into the convenient left field screen, Nelson Fox and Minnie Minoso, the league's top batsman, had slashed successive singles with one out.

Leadoff man Dom DiMaggio greeted Holcombe with a two bagger in the opening inning and took third with smart base running on Johnny Pesky's fly. He was driven in by Ted Williams' easy left to left field. The latter went hitless on his four tries.

Browns 5, A's 4

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Righthander Ned Garver chalked up his 13th victory in 18 decisions Wednesday night as the St. Louis Browns pushed over a tally in the ninth inning to take a 5-4 win over the Philadelphia Athletics. It was Garver's tenth consecutive win in three years over the A's.

The winning counter resulted from rookie shortstop Bill Jennings' single, a sacrifice by Garver, a hit by Bob Young and Jim Delsing's outfield fly.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Del Wilber's homerun, Granny Hamner's double and Robin Roberts' four-hit pitching were too much for the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday as the Philadelphia Phillies took a 2 to 0 decision from the Redbirds.

Relief hurler Cliff Chambers had allowed just two hits in four innings before Wilber clouted his fourth homer of the season with the bases empty in the seventh.

A single by Del Ennis, sacrifice by Dick Sisler and Hamner's double added the other run in the eighth.

Roberts was masterful, allowing just one Cardinal to reach second. That was Wally Westlake who singled in the fifth and advanced one base on Hal Rice's single.

Roberts didn't walk a man and he struck out five.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Catcher Joe Garagiola's eighth homerun of the year with two aboard in the seventh inning helped the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 5-4 victory over the New York Giants Wednesday.

George Strickland's long fly ball in the eighth with the bases loaded scored Pete Reiser with the winning run.

The Giants took a 7-6 contest, a playoff of a 6-6 tie, before the regular game. The game was called June 17 in the last half of the eighth because of Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew law.

Willie Mays scored the winning tally on Alvin Dark's long fly in the 10th.

Garagiola's round tripper in the regular game paced a four-run rally for the Bucs to tie up the game in the seventh frame. They added another in the same stanza on a passed ball.

For Giant manager Leo Durocher, it was his 1,000th win as a big league pilot. Jansen presented him with the ball that did the trick.

Watson Fails in NAAU 1,500-Meter Swim Test

Detroit — SUI swimmer Don Watson failed to qualify Wednesday in the 1,500-meter free-style event which opened the national AAU outdoor swimming championships at Detroit.

Watson placed third in his heat which was won by John Marshall of Yale 19:10.5. Watson's time was 20:55.8, which was good enough for fifth place on the basis of time. However, only the top four times qualified for today's 1,500-meter finals. Best preliminary time was by Ford Konno of Hawaii who swam the distance in 18:31.5.

Westinghouse Buys Football TV Rights For College Games

NEW YORK (AP) — Football fans of the television-watching variety were assured Wednesday that they can see games on seven of 10 big Saturdays next fall.

The National Collegiate Athletic association television committee, after a two-day session, named the Westinghouse Electric corporation of Pittsburgh as sponsor of a 10-weeks program of experimental "live" television.

It will run from Sept. 22 through Nov. 24 and each geographical region of the United States will be blacked out on three of the ten Saturdays. The Army-Navy game on Dec. 1 will be televised as in the past.

The games to be televised will be selected by the sponsor on the basis of a tentative schedule already drawn up. Since Westinghouse will negotiate with the individual colleges for each game, no schedule was announced. Neither was it decided which network or stations will carry the telecasts.

The National Opinion Research center of the University of Chicago has been engaged by the NCAA to study the effects of the television schedule on attendance at games.

ISHAA Will Curtail Sports; Funds Short

BOONE (AP) — The Iowa High School Athletic association said Wednesday it is forced to curtail its subsidization of sports because of snow storms and icy highways last winter.

Largely because of the bad weather and hazardous driving conditions, revenue from the sub-state basketball tournaments this year was $25,488.75 below 1950, the IHSAA said.

That, together with a reduction of revenue from the state finals of $5,948.27, brought a total reduction of $30,537.02.

The board said it would have to curtail its program of baseball, track, tennis, golf, swimming, wrestling and coaching schools. It is hoped a solution to the situation can be worked out by the time school opens in the fall, the board said.

Toledo U. Involved In Basketball Fixes

Three More Point-Shavers
Carlo Muzi, Bob McDonald, Bill Walker

NEW YORK (AP) — The exploding college basketball scandal engulfed its sixth school Wednesday and turned up an amazing story of a "double cross" among gamblers involving a death threat to one of them.

District Atty. Frank S. Hogan reported that three stars of the University of Toledo's crack team admitting taking money to rig the points in a game with Niagara at Toledo last December.

He also said that two sets of gamblers were involved in the fixing of the Bradley-St. Joseph's game in Philadelphia early last year.

Asked whether more colleges would be implicated in the gigantic series of fixes which has involved some of the outstanding players and teams in the country in college sport's worst scandal, Hogan said he would make no forecast.

More Players Named
The district attorney said the three Toledo players, William Walker of Toledo, Robert McDonald of New York, and Carlo Muzi of Akron, told the grand jury how they kept their winning margin to only three points in beating Niagara, 73-70, in Toledo on Dec. 14, 1950.

Three minutes before the game was over, Hogan said Toledo led by 17 points. The D.A. said that Eli Kaye, who is under $50,000 bail in the alleged bribing of New York players, sent $1,750 to Walker as a payoff.

Hogan said Walker gave $250 each to Muzi and McDonald and kept the remainder. All three are ex-servicemen, and McDonald is president of the senior class.

Hogan, in stressing the cooperation of the three players, made it clear there are no charges against them. There had been no law against bribing amateur athletes in Ohio, but starting Aug. 22 it will be punishable by a $10,000 fine or a prison sentence of one to five years, or both.

Other Offers
The three players turned down attempted bribes to shave point spreads in Toledo's games against Michigan on Dec. 6, Illinois on Dec. 9 and Denver on Dec. 12, Hogan said.

"The players explained to Klukofski," Hogan said, "that it meant too much for them and the school to beat teams like Michigan, Illinois and Denver to attempt to do any tampering with the point spread."

Toledo beat Michigan 60-48, Illinois 68-54 and Denver, 50-44. All games were played at Toledo. Hogan did not say how much money Klukofski offered the three players to fix the Michigan, Illinois and Denver games.

In relating the fantastic story of the "double cross" in the Bradley-St. Joseph's game at Philadelphia's Convention hall early in 1950, Hogan said one of the alleged fixers travelled in the same Pullman berth with Melchiorre. He added that another, Kaye, invaded the Toledo field house to pressure the players and "dangle money before them."

According to Hogan, Kaye and the English brothers, Nicholas (Nick the Greek) and Tony, worked together to fix the Bradley players. The battle of wits between the gamblers developed when Jack West, a convicted New York bookmaker who is being sought by Hogan, got together with Nick English to get information on the Bradley - St. Joseph's game.

West was to pay Nick $1,000 for information on the Bradley score. This separate deal was unknown to Kaye.

West placed his bets on St. Joseph's to win with a point handicap of six or seven points. The involved Bradley players were not going to throw the game but just to shave the points and make it close.

It turned out that Bradley won, 64-60. Thus, with a point spot of six or seven, those who got on St. Joseph's won their bets.

A few hours before the game was made, the gambling books were flooded with wagers on St. Joseph's and the prosecutor said that West evidently bet a lot of money.

Switch Bets
Kaye told Nick English, according to Hogan, that "there must be a double-cross and we will have to switch our bets. There is so much money bet that the game will go off the betting boards (no bookie would take bets), there will be an investigation, and we will all be in trouble. So let's switch and teach the other guys a lesson."

Hogan said Kaye then instructed the players to win over the spread, and after they agreed, Nick again relayed this information to West. West and his associates protested they had their bets down and couldn't switch, said Hogan, citing the story told by the English brothers.

Hogan said West and two associates brought him to West's sociates then grabbed Tony English.

Keeping Cool and Learning, Too

NOW KICK—said Mrs. Nyle Jones as she gave her little niece, Sue Yetter, a few swimming hints and some assistance. Mrs. Jones and Sue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Yetter, Iowa City, decided Wednesday was a perfect day to visit City park pool. It was crowded, but it was worth it to keep a trifle cooler, they explained. Even the photographer felt cooler; that is, after Mrs. Jones, who is visiting here from New Braunfels, Texas, informed him that the Lone Star state is much hotter than Iowa at this time of the year.

Report Charges Drake University Overcharged VA

WASHINGTON (UP)—Drake university and two other colleges have been cited by the general accounting office for having charged the Veterans administration full price for books and supplies furnished GI students despite the fact they got a discount on them. The other two named in a GAO report to congress were Georgia Institute of Technology and the University of Kansas. The GAO said it found the three instances in a sample check of schools and colleges which it completed recently. A hearing on the report was conducted Tuesday by a special house committee investigating the GI training program. The GAO found that a majority of the colleges checked had received overpayments of one kind or another from the Veterans administration. Among the irregularities it cited that "charges were made for books, supplies and equipment without taking into consideration discounts received." It was under this heading that the three colleges were listed. The Veterans administration pays the tuition for veteran students plus the charges for necessary books and supplies. However, where schools receive a discount on these books and supplies, the GAO contends it should be passed along to the government.

Drake President Claims Compliance

DES MOINES (UP)—Dr. Henry G. Harmon, president of Drake university, said Wednesday he believed the school had complied fully with regulations pertaining to veterans education benefits. He said that he had received an official word from Washington to confirm reports that Drake was among several schools which the Veterans administration accused of turning in "erroneous" claims to cover veterans education costs. "I can only say that we have been very careful with all our accounts," Harmon said. "We believe that all the accounts, which Drake has submitted to the Veterans administration are in accord with both the statute and VA regulations."

Vets Hit V A Offices On D-Day for GI Bill

WASHINGTON (UP)—Former servicemen stormed Veterans administration offices throughout the nation Wednesday to meet the deadline for training under the GI bill. Midnight was H hour for this different type of D day with the VA manned until that time to handle the onslaught of applications. Some servicemen couldn't leave their jobs. They sent wives, sisters, and sweethearts as proxies. So many toddlers accompanied the wives the Chicago regional office set up a nursery. "We got kids all over the place," said regional VA manager Robert D. Beer. Only a comparative few of World War II veterans could ignore the deadline and still cash in. All who were discharged from service before July 25, 1947, had to be enrolled in courses Wednesday.

174 ISC Students Awarded Degrees

AMES (UP)—Degrees were awarded to 174 students Wednesday at commencement exercises which marked the end of the first summer session at Iowa State college. Dr. Charles E. Friley, president of the college, presented degrees and certificates. Exercises were held in the gymnasium on the college campus. Among eight Iowans receiving a doctor of philosophy degree were Alfred L. Musson, Ames; Raymond C. Rhee, Ames; Robert A. Worsing, Council Bluffs; Donald R. Fessler, Fort Dodge; Forrest I. Boley, Fort Madison; Wendell H. Nedderman, Lovilia; Dwight H. Burquist, Sioux City, and Robert J. Lambert, West Des Moines.

Robert Rutherford Files $3,862 Judgment Suit

Robert Rutherford, Johnson county, filed suit in district court Wednesday asking a $3,862 judgment from Robert and Lawrence Rogers, Johnson county, as the result of an automobile accident June 13. Rutherford claims he suffered head and neck injuries in an accident involving cars driven by himself and Robert Rogers on Melrose ave. Rutherford asks $362 for damages to his auto and $3,500 for injuries he claims resulted from the accident.

Late House Member Succeeded by Wife

MCKEESPORT, PA. (UP)—Mrs. Vera Buchanan, staunch supporter of President Truman, was elected to congress Wednesday to serve the unexpired term of her late husband, Rep. Frank Buchanan. The 48-year-old widow was victor in the 33rd Pennsylvania district, a Democratic stronghold, by a margin of nearly two to one over Clifford W. Flegal, 30, McKeesport city controller.

Scottish Song Group To Appear at SU

The Royal Scots, a song specialty group, will present a program of Scottish songs and dances and selections from famous operas and operettas at 8 p.m. Friday in the final program of the summer lecture series at SU. The performance will be held at the Iowa Memorial Union bandshell, and in case of rain, will be presented inside the Union. All of the Royal Scots, "four lads and a lassie," have sung in radio and television shows and have played in leading Broadway musicals. They will be costumed in Scottish kilts. Members of the group are: Lawrence Lane, tenor; Melvin Johnson, tenor; Bernard Izzo, baritone; Lawrence Gray, bass, and Lida DaValle, lyric soprano.

Wants to be Pretty, Not Political

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany's "ideal" woman fled into West Berlin Wednesday because she wants to be pretty and not political.

Blue-eyed, blonde, Traude Eisenborn, 19, was named "the ideal of progressive women" by the East Berlin Communist trade union for combining the right proportion of "beauty, Marxist dialectics and industry."

But, Traude said, she thought she was picked just as "a sort of pretty front for East Germany."

"I didn't do anything special," she said. "Nothing that other girls didn't do, too. But since I was picked, I didn't have a minute's peace."

She said she had to make speeches, pose for propaganda pictures and appear at rallies. But it was too much when she was scheduled to be the prize exhibit at a gigantic rally of Communist youth in East Berlin next month.

Traude asked only one thing of West Germany: "That people let me alone. I don't want any fuss made about me any more."

She said she had started to withdraw from all activities but the Communists got suspicious and began shadowing her so she decided to get out of the zone.

Thompson Recommends Higher Taxes for U.S.

A program of direct controls, credit controls and increased taxation to achieve defense without inflation was urged Wednesday by Prof. C. Woody Thompson, SUI college of commerce.

Speaking to members of the Lions club at the Mayflower inn, Thompson said, "A combination of these three with taxation serving as a basis is needed to meet the demands of an increased productive capacity."

Thompson said that the United States can produce $300 billion of goods at full employment in a civilian economy.

"The problem is to increase productive capacity of the country to $345 billion a year from now," Thompson said.

Thompson said that we could increase the sum total of goods and services (gross national output) produced, but that it would be inflationary because we have to bid up labor and materials.

"The major bulk of war costs in the next four years is going to rest on the consumer — which means you and I as well as the John D. Rockefeller," Thompson said.

Thompson explained that the appropriations of the last congress for defense and war are now being felt in the economy. "The diversion of materials from consumer goods to war production are noticeable," he said.

"The outbreak of the Korean situation was felt immediately in the economy with consumer and business sectors increasing their spending," Thompson said.

"People buy in greater volume and industry expands to meet this increase and also the needs of the government for the defense situation," he explained.

Thompson said this results in the unemployed being put to work or full employment in which case inflation appears.

He explained that the inflationary process was the one other choice to increase productive capacity. He added that the American people have chosen inflation by a fault to avoid the issue.

Thompson concluded that our standard of living will still be higher than that of 1940-41 with a program combination of direct and credit controls and increased taxation.

Sherman's Body Arrives by Plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — The body of Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, the late chief of naval operations, arrived at National airport on a naval transport plane Wednesday.

Cabinet officers headed by Defense Secretary George C. Marshall and Secretary of State Dean Acheson were at the airport when the plane came in from Naples, Italy, where Sherman died unexpectedly on Sunday.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Gens. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, and Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, also were there along with most other top ranking military leaders in Washington.

As the casket was carried from the plane to a waiting hearse, the white-clad navy band sounded ruffles and flourishes, and then played the hymn, "Abide with Me."

The arrival ceremonies were simple and brief. Airplane traffic stopped at the airport while they were in progress.

Henri Petain Buried; Epitaph Inscribed 'Marshal of France'

ILE D'YEU, France (AP) — Henri Philippe Petain, last marshal of France and hero of Verdun, was buried Wednesday in a windswept grave on this bleak little island far from the battlefields of his glory.

A marble slab will cover the grave. On it is the inscription: "Henri Philippe Petain—Marshal of France"—the sign of the old soldier's victory over authorities who wanted the tombstone to identify him as of "no profession."

Authorities had announced that the slurring words "no profession" would appear on the tombstone. But the former marshal's wife and lawyers won for him the right to rest with the title that his country wanted to forget because he headed the wartime Vichy government that cooperated with the Germans.

Eight faithful World War I followers of Petain carried his black oak coffin to the Port Joinville cemetery where Petain rests amid the graves of British commandos killed in World War II.

Thousands of Frenchmen lined the narrow winding road to the cemetery, French generals, war veterans of all ranks and ex-prisoners paid last homage. In the Paris from which Petain was exiled, hundreds of persons trooped to the Arc De Triomphe, where lies the tomb of the unknown soldier, to lay wreaths dedicated: "to a great Frenchman, Petain."

Iowa Breakin Suspects Held in Harrisburg, Ill.

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa bureau of criminal investigation said Wednesday two men held at Harrisburg, Ill., are suspected of having broken into the Stanley, school.

Bureau Chief R. W. Nebergall said the men were Hiran Jenkins, 30, and John W. Jenkins, 20 both of Chicago. Nebergall said they were named in a warrant issued after the Stanley school was entered July 10.

FBI Arrests Iowan; Find Stolen Bonds

OMAHA (AP) — A 27-year-old Iowa man was arrested by FBI agents as he walked into a railroad station carrying a package containing $119,520 in government bonds stolen from the McClelland, Ia., savings bank last January.

Dark-haired, squat Samuel Rocha, manager of a small tavern-club in Council Bluffs, Ia., was surrounded by federal agents in the Burlington railroad station lobby.

FBI Agent James Dalton said Rocha claimed he "didn't know what was in the envelope" he carried.

Rocha was jailed and FBI agents said he would be arraigned before a U.S. commissioner Wednesday. Rocha was arrested on a warrant filed at Des Moines earlier charging him with burglary and entering a federally-ensured bank to commit burglary.

Dalton said Rocha had been "under surveillance for a long time."

He said the bonds he carried were identified by serial numbers as those taken from safety deposit boxes at the McClelland bank Jan. 31. The bank's incomplete records indicated at least $87,000 in bonds was missing.

"It apparently has turned out to be a lot more," said Dalton.

Fugitive Recaptured After 2 Hours' Liberty

ANAMOSA, IA. (AP) — Ralph Reynolds, 26, Des Moines, escaped from an Anamosa reformatory farm Wednesday, but he was a fugitive for less than two hours. A guard nabbed him as he crouched in an alfalfa field on another reformatory farm not far from where he escaped.

Reynolds had less than five months left to serve on a 25-year sentence for rape. Conviction on an escape charge carries a five-year penalty.

Authorities said he was transferred from Eldora training school to the reformatory May 14, 1941. They said he was convicted of assaulting a matron at the training school.

Purdue Airline Deal Nears End

DES MOINES (AP) — A "satisfactory" conclusion of negotiations which may lead to the sale of Midwest airlines to the Purdue research foundation was reported Wednesday by R. B. Stewart, vice president and treasurer of Purdue university.

Stewart said the deal now awaits the approval of the civil aeronautics board and that no details would be released pending CAB action.

Stewart earlier said the foundation was investigating the possibility of buying controlling interest in the airlines. Stewart has been talking with airlines officials in closed meetings here.

Husband Hunter Finds Mate She Wanted

VICKSBURG, MICH. (AP) — Mrs. Jean Gregory, who advertised for a non-drinking husband to support her sick mother, honeymooned with her new mate today "who just fills the bill."

The 26-year-old divorcee was married Tuesday to Lewis Kline of Three Rivers, Mich., whom she had known casually for about a year.

She had asked newspapers to find her a husband who would be good to her and to her three children by a previous marriage. In addition, the husband would have to pay the hospital bills for her sick mother.

Kline, a five-foot, 11-inch truck driver, proposed three days ago.

"I never was so surprised to see anybody in my life," the new bride said. "He'd taken me dancing a couple of times about a year ago, but there was never any talk of love or that sort of thing."

Kline, beaming while photographers took pictures of them, said he had read about Mrs. Gregory's plight in a Kalamazoo, Mich., paper.

"I was kind of shocked. She looked desperate. I decided right then and there I was going to marry her. But it took me a little while to ask her."

The couple slipped quietly to Angola, Ind., Tuesday and were married by Justice of the Peace in, she said.

Harvey E. Shoup.

Kline also is divorced and has two children, four and eight years old, who live with their mother.

Mrs. Gregory picked Kline out of more than 300 men who offered marriage by letter, telephone and telegram. Letters still are coming bride one day, and proposed the next.

Kline visited his prospective

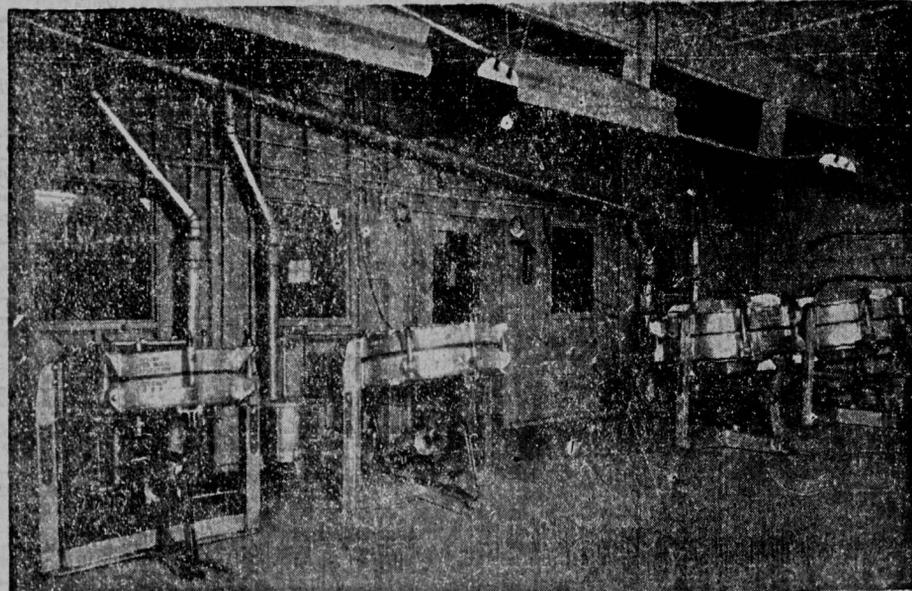

"He fills the bill all right," Mrs. Gregory said. "He likes my children and they like him. He doesn't drink and he doesn't smoke."

"I know we'll be real happy."
