DENMARK'S ROLE IN Thwarting COMMUNISM

Depleted by Nazi Armed Forces, Denmark Rebuilds Army, Navy

(Eleventh in a series of 12 articles on the North Atlantic Treaty organization and its role in strengthening the free world.)

By H. D. CRAWFORD
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Denmark's four and a half million people learned some grim lessons about war and freedom during nearly five years of ruthless Nazi occupation that put them on their guard against the totalitarian Communists.

They saw their military strength shrink to a Danish brigade of volunteers recruited in Sweden. They scuttled their navy in August, 1943, to prevent Germans from seizing it. They saw their military forces dissolved by German orders.

When liberation came May 4, 1945, their air force did not have a single military aircraft. Military equipment had been destroyed or carried away by the Nazis. Liberation brought the Danes the exhilaration of freedom from German domination, but it shocked them into realization of their military weakness.

DENMARK HAS FACED

the prodigious problem of building its military defense from scratch. Thanks to the North Atlantic Treaty organization, Marshall plan assistance and strong determination of the Danish people, it has made admirable progress.

Officers and recruits had not been trained during the German occupation. Training naturally was poor during the first two years of liberation. It was made more difficult because recruits had to guard a quarter of a million German refugees.

When Denmark became a member of NATO in 1949, its foreign minister, Gustav Rasmussen, said: "The North Atlantic treaty contains a solemn reaffirmation of the pledges given by those countries under the UN charter. The treaty is therefore designed to strengthen the system of the United Nations. It constitutes a cornerstone in the fundamental structure of general security."

DANES SAY their defense expenditures now are much greater than before World War II. In 1938-39, defense expenditures were nine per cent of the national government expenditures; in 1950-51, they were 15 per cent, and in the coming year they are expected to be 24 per cent.

"These defense expenditures reflect the changed attitude of the Danish people," according to a Danish statement released July 16, "to the need of defense after their experience during the occupation, subsequent international developments, and a strengthening of their feeling of solidarity with the Western democracies."

All able-bodied young Danes undergo a year's military training.

AMERICAN MILITARY aid weapons are used in Danish army maneuvers.

Since liberation, Denmark has trained more than 100,000 men for the army, 20,000 for the navy, and 40,000 for the Home Guard. During 1951, they are re-training some 22,000 privates who took their original training from 1947 to 1949. Officers have been increased 50 per cent, and Denmark is developing what Danes call a "hard core" of "long-service men."

Denmark has received $257,431,000 of U. S. assistance since 1948, including $45,131,000 in the last fiscal year.

DANES FEEL one of their most significant contributions to NATO has been their April 27 agreement with the United States to permit this country and other NATO countries to maintain bases on Greenland, the world's largest island. Greenland's 840,000 square miles make it more than three times larger than Texas. About 708,100 square miles are covered by nature's own world's largest airfield—the great inland ice cap. Weather stations on Greenland proved invaluable during World War II.

Communists have lost considerable strength in Denmark. The lower house (Folketinget) in 1945 had 18 Communist members. In the 1947 general election, this number dropped to nine, and in the 1950 election Communist strength dropped to seven among 151 members. The upper house (Landstinget) has only one Communist member among 76.

"The (Communist) party works along the same lines as similar parties in other countries; in foreign policy its sympathies are directed eastward and it is hostile to the North Atlantic pact," says a recent Danish publication regarding the Danish Communist party.

DENMARK'S Prime Minister Erik Eriksen commented about freedom at Denmark's 1951 observance of American Independence day. "Freedom is not something which you can fight for and win for all time," he said. "No, the battle for freedom never ceases. Twice within our lifetime freedom in the old world has been seriously threatened, but both times the U. S. threw all her might into the fight for freedom and justice."

The Danish press has given editorial approval to Denmark's NATO commitments. It has published pictures of American arms being used for training Danes. It has commented that U. S. military supplies and equipment are inspiring increased Danish public confidence.

"We want to be strong enough, well enough trained with proper weapons—in time!" a Danish veteran who faced the German onslaught April 9, 1940, later fought in the Danish resistance, and spent two years in a Nazi concentration camp, recently told U.S. Ambassador Eugenie Anderson. "We want to be able to really defend our country, if need be. Believe me, I tell you—we would rather fight and die than be slaves!"

That seems to express the spirit and determination of the Danes in NATO.

Senate Passes Flood Control Bill

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The senate Wednesday passed a $638,578,213 bill for navigation, flood control and other civil functions of the army.

This roll call vote was 59 to 10. This is $1.3 million more than the amount recommended by the senate appropriations committee for use by the army engineers in the year that ends next June 30. It also is $124,150,813 more than the house voted earlier this year, but $23,859,630 less than President Truman recommended for the purpose at the opening of the congress.

Racketeer Says O'Dwyer Ordered Him to Hide in '45

WASHINGTON (AP) — Racketeer-politician Irving Sherman said Wednesday that William F. O'Dwyer sent him into hiding just before the 1945 New York mayoralty election to keep him from talking about O'Dwyer's alleged underworld connections.

The burly New Yorker, so shy that he refused to let newsreel cameras or radio microphones record his testimony, dropped his bombshell at the opening of the senate crime committee's new hearings on the "big town" underworld.

Speaking in a thick, confident voice, Sherman gave the committee a history of his personal and political association with O'Dwyer, twice mayor of New York and now ambassador to Mexico.

The story of his flight from New York in 1945 was brought out under questioning by Chairman Herbert R. O'Connor, (D-Md.).

Sherman said he got the word to get out of town during a dinner at the Hotel Commodore in New York, four or five weeks before the 1945 election in which O'Dwyer, who only recently had returned from war duty as an air force general, defeated Republican Jonah Goldstein for the mayoralty.

He said the "word" came from the late Jack Gorman, a New York detective who was a mutual friend of O'Dwyer and Sherman.

During the dinner, he said, "a man approached Gorman and talked to him quietly." Gorman then took him, Sherman said, the witness said, and told him:

"The general (O'Dwyer) just sent word he wants you to leave town immediately."

Warned of Blast

"What reason did he give you for leaving town?" O'Connor asked.

"He said there was going to be a terrible blast in the newspapers and the general didn't want them (the newspapers) to be able to get hold of me," Sherman replied.

The witness said he learned later that the "blast" concerned Goldstein's charge that O'Dwyer was being supported in the election campaign by Sherman, gambler Frank Costello, and "Louie-the-hip."

Sherman dropped the last name in facetiously, apparently as a slang expression for mobsters in general.

He said he left town with his wife and daughter the morning after the dinner, going first to Salisbury, Md., then to Ocean City, Md., and finally to Daytona Beach, Fla. He said he returned to New York "a day or two after the election."

Sherman professed complete ignorance of any information that might have been used in the newspaper "blast" against O'Dwyer. He insisted that he fled simply because "he (O'Dwyer) asked me to, and I thought a lot of him."

He added under questioning that his friendship for O'Dwyer has since cooled.

"We're just not friendly," he

Ambassador O'Dwyer
"The General Sent Word"

replied when Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) asked the reason for the break. "If I were a man's friend, I wouldn't be running away from him."

O'Dwyer Blames Election Politics

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Ambassador William O'Dwyer Wednesday blamed "election year politics" for Irving Sherman's testimony that O'Dwyer told him to get out of New York shortly before O'Dwyer was elected mayor in 1945.

O'Dwyer said he would wait and "hear it all first" before commenting on Sherman's testimony before the senate crime committee in Washington. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has called Sherman one of the most "prominent criminals in the world."

"Let's hear it all first," O'Dwyer said. "Let's find out what's cooking." He added that he would wait until the committee completed its hearings before issuing a formal statement.

Argentina Halts Meat Shipments to Britain

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Argentine government announced Wednesday it has halted all meat shipments to shortage-ridden Britain for the next 10 days because of critical shortages in Argentina.

The new Anglo-Argentine meat agreement which was signed last April provided that Argentina supply Britain with 200,000 tons of carcass meat and 30,000 tons of canned meat annually. In July the institute reduced meat shipments to Britain by 10,500 tons monthly because of the local shortage.

Senate Committee Given Okay on Boyle Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate's permanent investigating committee was given a clear field Wednesday to look into the connection between Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., and a St. Louis firm which received $565,000 in RFC loans.

The senate banking committee decided to leave the inquiry up to the permanent group headed by Sen. Clyde R. Hoey (D-N. C.) and to offer Hoey its full cooperation. The Hoey committee has been conducting a "preliminary inquiry" into Boyle's dealings with the American Lithofold corporation.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of a banking subcommittee which investigated the RFC, lead the drive to turn over Boyle inquiry to the Hoey group. Fulbright noted that his committee's funds are gone and its staff dissolved.

The banking committee wrangled throughout the day over majority and minority reports prepared by the Fulbright investigating group. It first voted to submit both reports to the senate Monday and make them public at that time.

At Fulbright's urging, it later reversed itself and voted to postpone until Friday a decision on what to do with the Republican report. It acted after Fulbright charged that "some parts are unduly vicious and irrelevant."

The Republican report was submitted by GOP Sens. Homer E. Capehart, (Ind.) and John W. Bricker, (O.). It is said to be strongly critical of Boyle and President Truman. Capehart said it will be issued in the form of a statement if the committee does not vote Friday to make it public.

From Diamonds to Rhinestones

Jewelry Designs Practical, Fabulous

Jewelry fashions ranging from the most fabulous diamond pieces to popular priced fashion jewelry, and from "practical" designs to out-of-this world concoctions are being displayed this season.

The use of jewelry to express the individual's personality was the theme of the jewelry fashion show staged this week at the Sert room of New York's Waldorf Astoria by the Jewelry Industry council.

The diamond fashions emphasized the practical as well as pretty look. Using a "convertible" diamond necklace together with a change-about evening gown, a model demonstrated the usefulness of the necklace with detachable pieces which became earclips, brooches, a simple necklace and even a bracelet.

Twin Clips Worn

The change-about evening ensemble consisted of a short black lace dinner sheath with separate bolero for theater wear. With this, the model wore twin diamond clips at the high neckline, diamond earrings, and a trio of slender diamond bracelets.

With the bolero removed, the lace sheath became a short evening gown. Two of the bracelets were then fastened together to become a necklace and the clips were transferred to the low-cut neckline of the sheath.

The third change came when an elaborate white Italian silk and lace overskirt was added to the costume, turning it into a ball gown. Here too, the jewelry proved equally convertible. The clips were added to the diamond necklace to turn it into an elaborate affair equal to the gown.

Among the things shown, big rings were registered as growing in fashion importance both in fine jewelry and fashion pieces. Large glitter pieces and pins with colorful stones added much to the browns, blacks and grays which are predominant in all the fall clothes.

Bright Ribbons Used

A number of interesting touches were used such as bright ribbons tucked beneath large pins with corresponding colored stones; a large antique cameo pinned at the neck of a demure black silk dress with a crinoline skirt; long pearl ropes caught high at the back of the neckline with a diamond clip, the pearls forming a collar in front, and cascading down the back.

In another instance, real ruby jewelry was shown with a platinum gray taffeta dinner dress, the costume punctuated with ruby satin slippers.

Among the most interesting outfits was a special "At Home" ensemble. With sleek black treader trousers and a high-necked sweater, the model wore a fabulous East Indian bib necklace of turquoise and bronze beads interspersed with gold charms.

With it, large gold earrings shaped like a thistle, gold bracelets, and turquoise felt slippers which picked up the color in the necklace.

Mammoth Earrings Worn

Another outfit which found special favor with the audience was an oxford flannel sheath, accessorized with a shocking pink satin scarf in the neckline and matching satin pumps. With this, mammoth diamond earrings were worn, and a large diamond sunburst pin blazed in the center of the satin ascot.

Mrs. Marianna Ostler, famed for inventing "bare-skin" jewelry, draws upon nature for a majority of her ideas. Latest subject to be interpreted in jewelry is the exotic cyclamen, which has been translated into an all-white diamond and palladium clip, with a gracefully curved stem bearing life-like diamond petals.

HIGH IN VITAMIN C

The tomatoes on the market now have soaked up plenty of summer sunshine and so they're higher in vitamin C than are fall and winter hothouse tomatoes. Use plenty of them in summer meals; our bodies do not store an appreciable amount of vitamin C and so, every day we need to eat foods that contain it.

BEDECKED TO THE NAILS is this Miss who models fingernail shields made by a Parisian jeweler. Shaped to the wearer's nails, they feature brilliant-cut diamonds sprinkled on checkerboard of platinum.

EARMUFFS YOU CAN WEAR to a ball are these glittering rhinestones which settle snugly about the ear by the magic of a minute flexible wire. These, together with the spiral rhinestone necklace and bracelet are among the new fashion pieces seen at the Jewelry Industry council's fashion show.

Cleaning Is Task Most Homemakers Detest, Poll Shows

There are 11 hours each week which most homemakers particularly detest.

An informal poll reveals that housewives rate cleaning of the house or apartment as No. 1 on their hate list. And a home-economics study recently discovered that the average homemaker spends approximately 11 hours each week at scrubbing and cleaning.

The ladies blame their plight not only on rural and urban dust and dirt, but also on architects and builders who persist in what one homemaker called "unrealistic construction." She said: "It would help a lot if homes and apartments were designed with house-keeping in mind."

The rooms which become the dirtiest most quickly, all women queried agreed, are the kitchen and bathroom.

Meal preparation is the least distasteful of household tasks, the sewing, washing and ironing coming along in that order.

Easy Search Seen For Job-Hunting Grad

The newly graduated college girl, looking for a job in 1951, should have the easiest search that women have ever had, the Associated Press concluded after a spot check of placement directors at colleges and universities throughout the U.S.

Some companies are recruiting women on campuses for the first time since World War II. There is special demand for women trainees from banks, insurance companies and department stores; and in the technical fields women were reported standing an almost equal chance with men.

Some Women Bosses 'Noisy,' 'Aggressive'

The personnel director of a large company recently said, "Sure we like to put women into executive posts, but — they're a headache."

A fashion magazine who attempted to analyze the prejudices about women in business, discovered this comment is not unique. The most frequent observation made about the women executive was that she is aggressive and noisy and loses all her femininity.

The fact that the older ones are by far the worst offenders would indicate that women executives aren't as aggressive as they used to be. Years ago, the woman who wanted to get to the top had to cope with tremendous hurdles.

She had to work her head off, fight her male co-workers, nine times out of 10 give up all chances of marriage. Men, if faced with the same situation, says the magazine, would be equally hard to get along with.

Another common feeling about women in business is that they are too emotional. But this is not the least bit surprising, continues the magazine, when you consider that by deliberate conditioning, the American woman has long been represented as a creature of emotional impulse — some who screamed and climbed onto a chair when she saw a mouse, blushed and stammered when she saw a man, went into unaccountable "moods."

Most working women today are not working for fun or pin money. They generally have families to support or help support. Many of them are sole support of small children. In short, the women executive, more often than not is handling two jobs. Fatigue and worry make her frequently jumpy, possibly "emotional."

But even though unpleasant women executives get all the publicity, there are many others who are pleasant, well-liked, and feminine, declares the magazine.

And everyone must share in fighting the prejudices about women who work, for, as more and more men are leaving their desks for service in the armed forces, more and more women are needed to fill the gaps.

Speedsters Beware!

— Of City's Gadget

An electronic device that can be picked up and moved in a matter of minutes is being readied to make life miserable for speeding motorists in Iowa City.

The device, an electric speed analyzer, has been purchased by the city for use in checking on the speeds of cars in Iowa City's residential areas.

City Manager Peter F. Roan said Wednesday the machine will probably be put into operation here in about two weeks. He emphasized the machine would be used to help officers enforce the existing speed laws.

The speed analyzer works something like this:

Two rubber tubes are placed across the road where the check is being made. When a car passes over the first of the tubes it activates the machine and when the second tube is run over, the machine automatically calculates the speed of the car.

If the speed is greater than the one designated for that area, a warning light flashes above the testing area and an officer stationed farther down the road is alerted to stop the speeding car.

Roan said the machine can be moved to any street in the city in a matter of minutes. He did not say which Iowa City streets would be used in the first tests for the machine.

He added that the first few violators would probably receive warnings from police but court

Negro Admits 1912 Villisca Ax Slayings

RED OAK, Ia., ((P)) — Montgomery county authorities reported Wednesday that a criminal investigator in Torrance, Calif., has notified them a 71-year-old Negro had admitted the Villisca ax murders of 1912.

The investigator, Ralph Jones, wrote in a letter that the man was making a confession and described in details the house where the murders of eight persons occurred, how blood was washed from the ax, and other events leading up to the multiple slayings.

Victims of the June 9, 1912, incident were Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Moore and their four children, and two small daughters of friends of the Moore family. The Moore children were Herman, 16; Katherine, 12; Boyd, 6, and Paul, 4. The other children were Lena Stillinger, 12, and her sister Ina, 8, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stillinger, farmers near Villisca.

The ax used in the slayings was taken from the Moore woodshed. The victims all had been to a church service that evening, and their deaths occurred after all of them had retired.

Many of those who participated in investigation of the case have died since. The record of the only trial in the case has been removed from the courthouse. The trial resulted in a hung jury.

Officials in Villisca and county officers have received many tips and other false leads in the case since the slayings. Numerous "confessions" to the unsolved murders have been made, but none ever were verified.

This is the second time in two months that county authorities have been contacted from California regarding "new information" on the case.

County Attorney R. John Swanson said he is investigating the latest turn.

Near Death — New Hair Cut — 'Freedom' Leaflets

Polio Experiment Begins

ANTI-RABIES SHOTS were given to Linda Long and more than 400 others at Frost, Texas as part of a plan to test the theory of Dr. Herbert E. Hipps, Waco, Texas, that persons who have had rabies shots have not contracted polio. Dr. Will Miller (left), acting director of the Navarro county health unit at Frost administered the shots while his assistant, Mrs. Jerry Bradley held the child's hands. An unidentified child (right) covers her eyes as she awaits her turn. The program was privately sponsored.

Meet Agathon

DISPLAYING HER QUALIFICATIONS at Las Vegas, Nev., was Agathon, known in real life as Barbara Nichols. She will take the place of Dagmar on Jerry Lester's "Broadway Open House" TV show.

Carry Leaflets Over Iron Curtain

EXPERIMENTAL PLASTIC BALLOONS were tested in Minneapolis prior to the release of 2,000 of them from a point in southern Germany. The balloons carried two million leaflets of friendship into Red-ruled Czechoslovakia. Some of them were designed to explode at 30,000 feet, scattering their load of pamphlets. Messages read: "A new wind is blowing. The free world is thinking of you many and keeps contact with you." The project is sponsored by the American Crusade for Freedom.

Repeats Crash

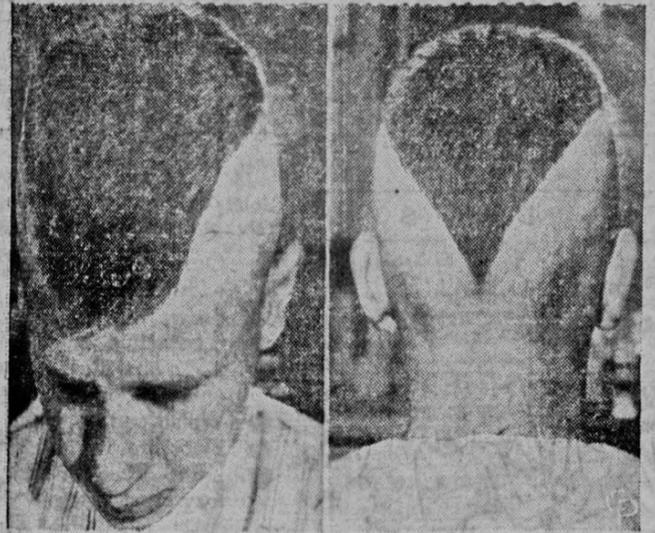

CRASHING INTO CLEVELAND'S CATCHER Jim Hegan for the second time as the league-leading Indians beat the Tigers, 6-5, at Cleveland Tuesday, was Hoot Evers of Detroit. This smash sent Evers flying to the ground in the eighth inning. In the sixth, a similar collision knocked Hegan out, but Evers was tagged out each time. Although groggy from the plate arguments, Hegan belted a game winning single in the 10th.

Must Be A Nightmare to Mother

MOHICAN STYLE HAIRCUT was displayed by Paul Overmayer, 15, Albany, N.Y. after barber Joe Caracci finished with him. Barber Joe said, "It brought out the artist in me." Paul said he hadn't decided whether to leave it that way or not for the coming of school in September.

2 Months Left

ONLY TWO MONTHS TO LIVE because of a constantly expanding heart, little Linda Ray Doughty clutched her toy bunny and smiled for the photographer who brought her the gift. Omaha doctors have no hopes for prolonging her life. She is the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Doughty of Scottsbluff, Neb.

Sister Kenny "Incurably Ill"

FAMED POLIO NURSE, SISTER KENNY, told a Sydney, Australia, newsman that she was "incurably ill", as she prepared to leave for a polio conference in Denmark. She is shown playing with her four grandnieces and grandnephew at her girlhood home of Toowoomba recently.

17 Carloads of Targets —

Something To Shoot At

— 40 Tons of Ammunition

VANDALIA, O., (AP) — The world's noisiest — and one of its richest — sports events opens this week.

It's the 52nd Grand American trapshoot. Starting Friday through Aug. 25, more than 1,800 dead-eye Dicks and Doras will fire a million and a half shotgun shells at as many clay targets. They'll split up a quarter of a million dollars in prizes.

The shooters will represent every state in the union, Canada's provinces, Cuba, the Canal Zone and other spots.

About 35 national championships at various types of competition—16-yard handicap and doubles—will be decided. The big one, however, is the 100-yard Grand American handicap scheuled Aug. 24. This one, generally worth more than $10,000 to the victor, is the most coveted title in the game. No person has ever won it twice in 51 years, although it has gone to shooters ranging from 14 to 70 years in age.

Ray Lorin, manager of the Amateur Trapshooting association, said 17 carloads of clay targets would be powdered during the week, and that the tiny lead pellets in the shotgun shells would spray a 40-ton barrage in front of the long firing line.

Ammunition is plentiful for the first time since World War II, Lorin said.

Preliminary shooting starts Friday, and the warm-up runs three days, with the championships going on the line Monday.

64 Asked to Report For Football Sept. 4

Thirteen 1950 regulars and 26 major letterwinners are among 64 candidates for the 1951 SUI football team invited to report for drills Sept. 4, head coach Leonard Raffensberger announced Wednesday.

Raff said the squad will drill twice daily beginning Sept. 5 until Sept. 19. After that the university will be in session and drills will probably be cut to one a day plus a night skull session.

The Hawkeyes' first game is with Kansas State here on Sept. 29.

Clark Only Remaining Iowan In JCC Golf; Plays Merrins Today

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Defending champion Eddie Merrins, Medalist Teddy White and Tommy Morrow took over the roles of big three Wednesday as the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce National junior golf championship field plowed through two rounds to cut the field to 32 players.

Merrins, the slim 19-year-old pressure artist from Meridian, Miss., battled his way past determined James DePiro of Belleville, N. J., in a 20-hole match.

Each was three over par for 18 holes with a 73 over the 6,600-yard Hope Valley country club course, again a sun-drenched layout as temperatures hit the 90 mark.

Earlier, Merrins had advanced with a 4 and 2 win over another Mississippi player, Cecil Williams, of Laurel.

Of two Iowans left after the first round, only George Clark of Ottumwa survived the second round of play this afternoon. He defeated Rudy Boyd, La Porte, Ind., 5 and 4, and meets Eddie Merrins in the third round today.

John McGuinness of Des Moines was sidelined by Don Welch, Whitefish, Mont.

Notre Dame to Put 4 Games on TV

SOUTH BEND, IND., (AP)—Notre Dame athletic director Edward "Moose" Krause announced Wednesday that the Irish football team would appear in four games on television this fall.

The Notre Dame home opener against Southern Methodist will be on a coast-to-coast TV network, Krause said. The appearance as well as the other three are in conformance with the NCAA television experiment, he said.

The SMU game will be the home TV appearance permitted by the NCAA. The Irish game with Navy at Cleveland also will be televised as the road game appearance.

Notre Dame's game Oct. 5, a Friday, at Detroit university and the games at Southern California Dec. 1 also will be televised, possibly on a network. The NCAA television ban games not on Saturday afternoons to be televised. The experiment ends on the last Saturday in November.

Indians Win 13th in Row

NEW YORK (AP)—Spurred on by the scoreboard, which told them the Indians had made seven runs in the first inning against the Brownies in St. Louis, the Yankees put on a 15-hit demonstration in Washington Wednesday night that resulted in an 8-5 victory.

Yogi Berra had one of his best sessions of the year, rapping a homerun, triple and two singles to drive in four of the Yankee runs for lefty Ed Lopat, who gained his 16th victory of the year. Lopat, in a tighter game would have been no bargain inasmuch as he yielded 12 hits and had to have relief from Bob Kuzava in the ninth.

But the Yankees were in one of their old-fashioned shoot-the-works moods and he actually was in little difficulty. The Yankees took a 4-0 lead in the first three innings. Berra drove in two runs in the first inning with his triple and Joe Collins chipped in with a triple and three singles.

Cleveland wasted no time in pummeling the best the Browns had to offer in its seven-run rally off right handed ace Ned Garver in the opening frame. Al Rosen delivered the big wallop of the inning—a grand slam homerun. It was his 21st of the season.

A little giddy over such support, Early Wynn permitted the Browns to score three runs in their half of the inning, but thereafter he settled down and they got nothing more until the ninth when they picked up their final tally off Steve Gromek:

Cleveland ... 709 000 002-9 11 2
St. Louis ... 300 000 001-4 6 1
Wynn, Gromek (6) and Hegan; Garver, Mahoney (2) Paige (8) and Lollar. WP-Wynn (13-11), LP-Garver (14-7). HR: Cle-Rosen.

The belatedly awakened Red Sox won their fourth straight game, 4-2, over the Athletics on the seven-hit pitching of lefty Mel Parnell. Parnell was forced to pitch ahead of schedule because rookie Leo Kiely had to take an army draft examination in Newark N. J., and failed to report back to the club in time to work.

Parnell also kicked in with a run-producing triple in the second inning as Boston put over three tallies in the first two innings to provide the margin. By winning, Boston remained 5½ games out of the lead.

Boston ... 120 001 000-4 7 0
Philadelphia ... 010 000 100-2 7 0
Parnell (13-9) and Robinson; Fowler, Scheib (9) and Tipton. LP-Fowler (4-9).

The White Sox stayed within their 11-game shouting distance of the top by winning a 2-0 battle from the Tigers in which Saul Rogovin shut out his ex-mates with five hits to edge Virgil Trucks in a duel in which each pitcher struck out seven men. However, Rogovin walked nobody and Trucks passed five.

Rogovin also scored what became the winning run when he walked in the sixth, advanced on a sacrifice and scored on a double by Nellie Fox. Chicago obtained its other run in the eighth when Minnie Minoso walked, stole second and scored on a single by Ray Coleman.

Detroit ... 000 000 000-0 5 1
Chicago ... 000 001 01x-2 4 0
Trucks (5-7) and Ginsberg; Rogovin (8-7) and Masl.

It was shutout night in the National. All three games were decided on whitewashes.

Crafty old Ken Raffensberger won the most dramatic contest for the Reds, 1-0, over the Cubs in a duel with Cal McLish, Ted Kluszewski's homer in the fourth inning provided the measure of difference.

Chicago ... 000 000 000-0 7 0
Cincinnati ... 000 100 00x-1 9 0
McLish, Leonard (8) and Owen, Burgess (8); Raffensberger (12-14) and Howell. LP-McLish (3-7). HR: Cin-Kluszewski.

Bob Friend pitched two-hit ball for Pittsburgh and also derived homerun support from Ralph Kiner. Kiner got his 32nd route clout of the year in a 9-0 decision over Gerry Staley of the Cardinals.

St. Louis ... 000 000 000-0 2 1
Pittsburgh ... 010 140 01x-7 8 0
Staley (13-12) and Scheffing; Friend (6-8) and Garagiola. HR: Pgh-Kiner.

Lefty Warren Spahn of the Braves pitched his sixth shutout of the season, giving up eight hits in winning his 14th game, 7-0, over the fading Phillies who suffered their fifth straight defeat. Sid Gordon homered for Boston.

Philadelphia ... 000 000 000-0 8 0
Boston ... 122 210 10x-9 12 0
K. Johnson, Hansen (2) Thompson (5) Candini (7) and Semitek; Spahn (14-11) and Mueller. LP-K. Johnson 3-4. HR: Bos-Gordon.

Westrum's two-run homer in the eighth inning enabled the second place New York Giants to score their second straight victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers, downing the league leaders, 3-1.

Until Westrum settled matters in the eighth, Jim Hearn and Ralph Branca were hooked up in one of the tightest pitching duels of the year with neither hurler issuing a base on balls until Ed Stanky walked in the eighth.

Brooklyn ... 090 000 100-1 6 9
New York ... 100 000 02x-3 5 0
Branca (10-4) and Campanella; Hearn (11-7) and Westrum. HR: NY-Westrum.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Old Joe Louis left-jabbed his way to a unanimous 10-round decision over back-peddaling Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland Wednesday night for the eighth straight victory of his desperate comeback drive. There were no knockdowns. Louis weighed 203½, his lightest since 1941, and Bivins 180¼.

Schools Open Sept. 10; Expect Record Classes

Superintendent of city schools, Iver A. Opstad, Wednesday announced Sept. 10 as the opening date of Iowa City's public schools and said that enrollment is expected to set a record this fall.

Opstad predicted that the enrollment will reach 2,500, which would be an increase of about 100 students. He added that the increase will be largely in the elementary grades.

Sept. 10 has also been set as the opening of University high school. University elementary will open Sept. 17. Date for the opening of the city's two parochial schools, St. Mary's and St. Patrick's, has not been set.

Following is a schedule of registration dates for schools holding advanced registration:

City high school—Sept. 4-7, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Freshmen will register Sept. 4; seniors, Sept. 5; juniors, Sept. 6, and sophomores, Sept. 7.

his head and fired twice. Holohan's body was tied up in a sleeping bag, and the body was then loaded in a boat, rowed out about 100 yards and dropped at a point where the water was more than 30 feet."

But a strange twist in the case, the department said, is that neither of the accused Americans can be prosecuted under civil or military law—and both are free today.

High Court Involved

Army officers explained the supreme court has ruled that servicemen, even though separated from the service for as little as one day, can not be prosecuted for a crime he is alleged to have committed while on active duty.

And since the alleged crime occurred overseas it is outside the jurisdiction of American criminal courts.

The new uniform code of military justice, which became effective in May, has plugged this loophole in the old law.

But officials said it is hoped that Icardi and Lodolce can be prosecuted by Italian courts. The case has been referred by the state department to the Italian government through its embassy here.

The embassy had no comment Wednesday night. Neither Icardi or Lodolce could be reached immediately for their reaction to the defense department's accusations.

In Pittsburgh, Mrs. Gioviani Icardi, mother of the ex-lieutenant, declared:

"My boy didn't do anything wrong. That is all I have to say. Please don't ask me anything more. I am so upset, so upset."

Anti-Rabies Shots In Polio Experiment Brings U. S. Protest

FROST TEX. (AP) — A mounting storm of criticism by medical authorities failed Wednesday to slow a mass experiment in which 469 persons volunteered to take anti-rabies shots as a possible guard against contracting polio.

Two-thirds of the 700 residents of Frost lined up for their third inoculations in a five-day series, none appeared worried about increasing protests that the experiment could prove deadly.

The experiment was suggested by Dr. Herbert F. Hipps of Waco, Tex. Hipps believes anti-rabies shots may ward off infantile paralysis which has struck hard in this region for many years.

Other medical men warned that anti-rabies injections sometimes lead to death or paralysis.

A U.S. public health service officer, Dr. J. W. Oliphant, warned that the mass experiment is "one of the wildest things I ever heard of." He said rabies shots "kill people once in a while."

Scientists consider rabies and polio "utterly unrelated," Oliphant said at Washington. "There is no reason to think that the inoculation of one would be any use in inducing immunity against the other."

Oliphant, acting chief of the biologics control section of the national institute of health, warned that tests on humans should be preceded by experiments with laboratory animals.

Woman Regains Sight After Eleven Dark Years

SCRANTON, PA. (AP)—A Scranton woman who felt "deep down in my heart I would see again" has had her profound faith rewarded.

Blind 11 years, Mrs. Mary Cerra, 38, can see again.

The mother of three children, who on Oct. 24, 1940, was stricken blind as a result of an optic hemorrhage suffered during childbirth, has regained much of her vision and now can distinguish colors in even small objects.

Cases Are Rare

While physicians are reluctant to say whether the restoration is of a permanent nature, they concede such cases are rare. Nor will they say how the miracle-like restoration occurred.

Mrs. Cerra attributes it to her constant prayers. "I have a feeling," she said firmly, "it all came about from them."

It was several days ago that Mrs. Cerra emerged from the world of darkness. On that day, sitting in the office of Dr. Alexander Munchak, she noticed the scales in his office.

"I can't describe my feelings when I saw an object," she said. "I remember turning to Dr. Munchak and saying: 'Doctor, am I right? Is that a scale over there?'"

One Thrill After Another

Since that day it has been one thrill after the other for the dark-haired brown-eyed woman.

Biggest thrill of all was the sight of her son, Joseph, whose birth, by an ironic twist of fate, had cost her sight.

"He's handsome," she said, "just handsome."

Sweltering Texans Welcome Cool Front

DALLAS TEX., (AP) — Sweltering Texans cheered Wednesday as a cool front edged across the panhandle and high plains, and the weatherman said "maybe" temperatures would drop in some other parts of the heat-stricken Lone Star state today.

Mid-day temperatures in the panhandle were in the mid 70's, 20 degrees cooler than yesterday, as nature's own air conditioner went to work, but there was no sign of the commodity Texas needed more than cool breezes—a general rain.

Livestock interests said ranges in one-half to two-thirds of Texas were burned up by the long siege of hot, dry weather. Henry Bell, secretary-manager of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association at Fort Worth, said "the situation is getting very critical."

Hearst's Body Lies in State

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The body of Publisher William Randolph Hearst lay in state Wednesday at Grace Episcopal cathedral atop Nob Hill, overlooking the city where he started building the biggest newspaper empire in American journalistic history.

The 88-year-old founder and head of the Hearst publishing organization died in his Beverly Hills, Calif., home Tuesday from the infirmities of old age. His body was flown here last night in a chartered plane for burial near the graves of his mother, Mrs. Phoebe Apperson Hearst, and his father, Sen. George Hearst, in Cypress Lawn cemetery.

Harvard Senior Spends 5 Days At Red's Rally

BERLIN (AP) — A Harvard senior who pretended Communist sympathies to attend the giant East Berlin youth rally said Wednesday that the 65 members of the United States delegation are "misguided" and "being used" by the Reds without realizing it.

George Jerome Goodman, 21, Clayton, Mo., said he spent five days as a member of the American delegation to the "peace" rally until Communist leaders realized he was only posing as a fellow-traveler. He was hauled out of bed at 1 a.m., Tuesday, sent to rally headquarters in a waiting car and stripped of his credentials after American leaders became "very suspicious" of him.

Goodman, son of a prominent Missouri lawyer, and an editor of the Harvard Crimson, said he attended the rally to gather material for magazine articles. United States officials in West Germany said they knew of his plans before he entered East Berlin.

The slight-looking youth with a college crew haircut said he considered the rally "very effective" in keeping delegates misguided.

"Everywhere they go they hear the word 'peace' and see the word 'peace,'" he said. "All the Communists tell them that they are for 'peace.'"

However, he added, "the members of the American delegation are not typical American youth and it is a great tragedy that they are representing themselves as typical."

All members of the delegation were afraid of retaliation for attending the rally and told no one their last names or home towns, he said. To protect them from the American press, their billet in a school on the outskirts of Berlin was guarded by three rings of members of the Free German Youth, East German Communist youth organization.

Miss Colorado of 1951 Resigns Her Title

DENVER, (AP) — Marie Aber abdicated Wednesday as Miss Colorado of 1951.

She resigned her title, won Sunday night, less than 18 hours after returning from a trip to New Mexico—during which she was reported missing for more than a day.

She took the step, she told the sponsors of the contest, "because of circumstances I feel disqualify me for the title."

The 20-year-old curvaceous blonde arrived back Tuesday from Santa Fe after being on the missing list 28 hours.

Miss Aber said she disappeared for fear she hadn't won the Miss Colorado contest "fair and square."

"I'm all mixed up," the Hayden Miss told reporters and officials of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Aber explained that "someone" put up $100 for her to win the title and she fled "to escape the disgrace."

John Yelenick, Jaycee president, and Bob Lotito, contest chairman, protested and explained that each contestant was sponsored and a $100 entrance fee paid by the sponsor.

Miss Aber explained that she drove to Pueblo with her sponsor, G. Paul Morris, president of the Denver Alseo Co., storm window manufacturers.
