'Friends' Slay Crime Witness Willie Moretti

CLIFFSIDE PARK, N.J. (AP) - Glib-tongued Willie Moretti, pal of underworld kingpins, was silenced Thursday by the guns of four men who joked with the big-time gambler just before the triggers were squeezed.

Authorities said the pudgy, balding character, who once boasted he'd never be murdered, had been "taken for a ride by his friends."

Shot twice in the head, Moretti was found sprawled on a tile floor of a small restaurant. A waitress, who had gone into the kitchen just before the shooting, discovered the body beside a small, square-topped table.

The four men had fled. Strewed on the floor were four .38 calibre shells, indicating an automatic pistol had been the death weapon.

A racing form, a cup of coffee, two smoking cigarettes and a small brown cigar were atop the blood-flecked restaurant table. Moretti had $2,000 in cash in his pockets.

Talkative in Crime Probe Moretti, an intimate of the late Al Capone, Frank Costello and Joe Adonis, had been perhaps the most talkative witness to appear before the senate crime investigating committee. Former Mayor O'Dwyer of New York told the committee Willie was one of the directors of Murder, Inc.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), former chairman of the committee, told the slaying by a senate reporter, said, "It is pretty clear that Moretti talked too much and had been talking too much for too long."

Tells of Shooting Mrs. Dorothy Novack, waitress at Joe's restaurant, across the street from Stuttsford Palisades amusement park, gave police this story of events preceding the shooting:

Four men were seated at a small table in the restaurant, sipping coffee. Moretti, nattily clad in a brown suit, walked in, shook hands with the quartet and all five sat down. They joked and chatted. Mrs. Novack went into the kitchen for a menu. Four shots rang out.

The waitress scurried back to find Moretti's body on the floor and two hats left behind by the killers.

Widespread alarms were broadcast for the fugitives, including descriptions furnished by the waitress.

Ex-Cop Moretti Surrenders Self On Murder Counts

CHICAGO (AP)—Michael Moretti, suspended policeman and central figure in a double-killing which led to a noisy controversy, surrendered Thursday on two murder charges.

Moretti, who surrendered to authorities at the criminal courts building, was indicted yesterday on the murder charges by a Cook county grand jury which deliberated 15 minutes.

The 33-year-old former state attorney's policeman, suspended after he shot to death two youths and wounded a third Aug. 24, was taken immediately to the county jail. He was accompanied by his attorney, Allan Bloch.

Bloch said plans to arraign Moretti today before Chief Justice Thomas E. Kluczynski might be delayed. The lawyer said he plans to enter a motion to squash the indictment.

Moretti had been at liberty under $20,000 bond since a blue ribbon coroner's jury recommended a grand jury probe of the killings.

Frank Menches Dead; Invented Hamburger

AKRON, O. (AP) - Concessionaire Frank Menches, who is credited with "inventing" the hamburger, died here Thursday at the age of 86.

Menches ended his active life as concessionaire for county fairs here in 1938, but not until after he had left his mark on the gastronomic habits of the nation.

Before the turn of the century, Menches, a brother, Charles, and a nephew, Robert, entered the concession business. At the Summit county (Akron) fair in 1892, Menches ran out of sausage. In an effort to please his customers, he ground up a sausage and sold it as a cooked, meat patty. It was unexplainably named "hamburger" about two years later.

'Wasn't Speeding' - Refuses Jail to $12.50 Fine

Refusing to pay a fine of $12.50, Edna Pixley, 311 Kimball road, Thursday began to serve a three-day sentence in Johnson county jail.

A medical laboratory technician at University hospitals, Miss Pixley was issued a summons Wednesday after police officers said she sped across the city's new traffic analyzer.

Police Judge Emil G. Trott found the woman guilty Thursday morning after she pleaded her innocence to driving 35 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone.

"I couldn't have been speeding," she told the judge. "My car doesn't go that fast."

Truman Charges Secret Information Printed in Papers

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Truman charged Thursday that "95 per cent of our secret information" has been published in newspapers and magazines and urged publishers and radio newscasters to withhold military secrets regardless of their source.

In one of his longest news conferences, Mr. Truman stoutly defended his Sept. 25 executive order giving federal civilian agencies the same censorship powers held by the military and atomic branches. The move has aroused bitter opposition and some congressmen have moved to cancel it.

Complains About Air Maps The President complained particularly about publication of air maps of principal American cities and a map printed by Fortune magazine showing the location of atomic energy plants.

Told that the maps were supplied by the government, the President said he did not care who gave them out—the publishers should not have used them if they had the interest of the country at heart. He said the publishers—not federal agencies—have the main responsibility for security.

After the Conference More than an hour after the conference, however, White House press secretary Joseph Short issued a clarifying statement saying that anyone who receives military information for publication from responsible officials "may rightfully assume that it is safe to publish the information."

"Citizens who receive military information from sources not having the necessary responsibilities and qualifications to evaluate such information," the statement said, "should, as loyal Americans exercise the most careful judgment in determining the safety of publishing such information."

Premier Challenges UN Authority in Iran

TEHERAN, Iran (AP) - Premier Mohammed Mossadegh will walk out of the United Nations security council if it claims jurisdiction in the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute, it was announced Thursday.

Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi told a press conference that Mossadegh will "repudiate Britain's complaint" to the UN and challenge the security council's authority to deal with the question.

Earlier, Mossadegh had told parliament in a speech that he is going to New York to find out whether the council is just "another trap for weak nations."

The last 10 of the thousands of Britains who built and ran the Iranian oil industry left Abadan Thursday for Basra, Iraq, leaving unskilled Iranians in undisputed control of the "oil capital" and the rich fields that feed it.

Today Is Deadline For Paying Tuition

Fee payments made after this time will be subject to a fine. Tuition will be boosted $2 for the first late day and $1 for every following day.

The business office said that payments were being made on schedule and they expected a minimum of fines.

Austin Defends Jessup Against McCarthy's Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) - Warren R. Austin said Thursday the American delegation to the United Nations needs ambassador-at-large Phillip C. Jessup to help "carry the torch" against Communist trickery.

Describing Jessup as a "powerful protagonist" of American interests, without a trace of Communist sympathies, Austin defended Jessup against pro-Communist charges fired by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.).

McCarthy is seeking to block senate confirmation of President Truman's nomination of Jessup as a United Nations delegate.

Austin, chief of the American delegation to the UN and a former Republican senator from Vermont, told a senate foreign relations subcommittee there is "no question" of Jessup's loyalty to the United States and he praised the ambassador as an example of "the highest statesmanship, character and ability."

While Austin threw his support behind Jessup, there were these developments:

1. Chairman McCarran (D-Nev.) of a senate internal security subcommittee announces that his group will question former vice president Henry A. Wallace "in the next day or so" in connection with a current inquiry into the affairs of the Institute of Pacific Relations (IPR).

2. Chairman Sparkman (D-Ala.) of the senate foreign relations subcommittee, which is conducting the Jessup inquiry, disclosed that Harold E. Stassen, former Republican governor of Minnesota, has urgently requested an opportunity to testify.

NEW TRUCE TALKS SITE TOKYO (FRIDAY) (AP)— Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway invited the Communists Thursday night to pick a site in no-man's land for immediate resumption of Korean truce talks.

GE Engineer Predicts Nuclear Plane of Future - To 'Keep Up with Time'

CHICAGO (AP)—A nuclear engineer Thursday predicted development of an atom plane which would do the following:

Stay aloft for several days. "Keep up with time" on a flight around the world, accomplishing the circuit under cover of darkness. Fly at maximum speed and at any desired altitude for its entire mission.

Many Problems Involved Dr. Miles C. Leverett, a general Electric company nuclear engineer, stressed the engineering problems involved but added "the difficulty of the task and the value of the result combine to form a challenge which is, in my opinion, unmatched."

Leverett is associated with GE's aircraft nuclear propulsion project which is responsible for developing an aircraft nuclear power plant for the atomic energy commission and the U.S. air force.

Leverett said engineers must develop a shield to protect the crew of an atom-powered plane. Without a shield, he said, humans would have to remain a mile away from a high-powered nuclear reactor in operation.

Suggested Hazard "It is occasionally suggested that a nuclear aircraft will create a hazard to persons in its vicinity," he said.

"Inasmuch as the aircraft itself will carry a crew which must be protected adequately, persons at a distance will not be affected in any way."

Engineers must develop materials which can withstand high temperatures and intense radiation of an atom-powered aircraft, Leverett said.

Ideal Use for Atom "The combined effects of high temperature, corrosion by various coolants, radiation damage, thermal stresses and mechanical stresses can be extremely serious in some cases," he said. "The aircraft reactor presents these problems to an unusual and critical degree."

Sigma Phi Epsilon Suspension Lifted

A week-long suspension of fraternity activities at Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity was lifted by SUI officials Thursday, upon the recommendation of the faculty committee on student life.

Dean of Students L. Dale Faunce, in announcing the lifting of the suspension, said the faculty committee "clearly developed that a single individual was fully responsible for the presence of a quantity of stale beer found in the chapter house."

Faunce said the individual, a member of the fraternity, has claimed full responsibility for the presence of the beer and that he has been put on disciplinary probation, restricting him from all fraternal activities.

"Any further violation of university regulations will result in his suspension from the university," Faunce said.

The dean of students released the following statement from the faculty committee on their investigation:

"The committee on student life endorses the action taken by the dean of students in suspending the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity until such time as the committee on student life might review the facts and recommends that in view of the fact that the fraternity itself was not involved in the incident, that suspension now be terminated."

"The committee regrets the lack of vigilance on the part of the fraternity which permitted a member to bring an intoxicating beverage into the chapter house and expects that appropriate disciplinary action will be taken in the case of the individual involved."

Sigma Phi Epsilon, located at 702 N. Dubuque st., was ordered to suspend all activities, after Faunce said a three-gallon can of stale beer was found in the house.

Consumption of intoxicating beverages on the premises is not involved in the infraction upon which this suspension was based, the dean of students said.

Sigma Phi Epsilon was suspended in 1949 in an investigation of the death of Margaret Ann Jackson, SUI student from Burlington.

Campus authorities said she and Robert Bednasek, a member of the fraternity, had been drinking at one of the fraternity's parties the night the coed died at a rooming house.

Bednasek was later acquitted of murder in connection with the death.

Pep Rally Scheduled

Tailfeathers club has scheduled a pep rally for 9:30 a.m. today at the Rock Island depot as the Hawkeyes of SUI leave for Lafayette, Ind., and the Iowa-Purdue game Saturday.

As many Iowa fans as possible are urged to lend their voices to the rally.

Iowa Coach Leonard Raffensperger may talk briefly before the team departs.

Police Ask Help In Apprehending Hit-Run Drivers

Iowa City police Thursday asked public cooperation in apprehending hit-and-run drivers in the city, following two accidents Thursday afternoon in which the responsible motorists left the scene.

"The name of any citizen who reports an accident will be withheld if he so desires," a police spokesman said. "We would like to have a complainant's name so we can check with him later."

Damage totaling close to $200 resulted to two cars parked in the 100 block on Bloomington street between 1 and 2 p.m. Thursday, when a blue-colored automobile sideswiped them.

One of the autos driven by James D. Olson, Spencer, received $125 damage, while about $60 in repairs will be needed for the second car owned by Vern H. Trowbridge, Hillcrest.

A maroon-colored automobile, traveling "at a high rate of speed" in the 600 block on Dearborn st., ran over a boxer dog belonging to Mrs. E. C. Lundquist, 615 Dearborn st., shortly after 6 p.m. Thursday. The dog's leg was broken.

Police instructed citizens to try to get the license number of any car leaving the scene of a mishap. Make of the car, color and any unusual decorations on the vehicle should also be noted, authorities advised.

Giants Win Opener

The amazing New York Giants won the opening game of the 1951 World Series Thursday, defeating the New York Yankees, 5-1.

Veteran Dave Koslo stopped the Yanks with seven hits as Monte Irvin and Al Dark led the Giant attack against Allie Reynolds.

SUI World Series Fans View Opening Game

WORLD SERIES CONFLICT was the only subject on the minds of more than 1,000 SUI students Thursday as they viewed the opening game between the Giants and the Yankees on television in the Iowa Memorial Union. Four television sets are bringing the entire series to the students. For fans who wish to eat before the game, Union management announced Thursday that the cafeteria will be open at 11:30 a.m. and the luncheon counter at 11 a.m.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The congressional atomic energy committee heard a secret briefing on Russia's new A-bomb test Thursday and promptly scheduled a vote next Monday on a resolution calling for "all-out" expansion of the U.S. atomic effort.

President Truman simultaneously disclosed that this country learned of the second Soviet atomic bomb explosion less than 10 days ago.

He also told his weekly news conference that he hopes the Russian atomic progress does not make war more imminent. But he added soberly that he cannot be sure.

Soviet Capable of War Rep. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), a member of the congressional atomic committee, said he is convinced that "the Soviet Union is capable today of launching an all-out war."

But he said he is also "supremely confident" that the conflict can be averted if the United States moves swiftly to strengthen its atomic lead by spending up to $10 billion a year on a wide variety of new A-weapons. Present atomic spending runs about $1 billion a year.

Increase in Funds

Chairman Brien McMahon (D-Conn.), said he will ask the atomic committee Monday to approve a resolution which he introduced in the senate last month. It calls for a sharp increase in atomic funds to give the army, navy and air force "atomic weapons in far greater numbers and variety."

The bill sets no specific figure for atomic spending, but McMahon has proposed $6 billion a year. McMahon originally had planned to bring his resolution to a vote in the committee Tuesday, but a two-hour closed meeting was taken up entirely by a report on the Soviet A-bomb test which the White House announced Wednesday.

Furious Red Attack Threatens UN Drive

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea (FRIDAY) —(AP) Chinese Reds surged down from their hilltop bunkers today and attacked the U.S. positions in waves on the flaming western front.

The Reds were fighting furiously to crack the Allied line, which was rolled forward as much as four miles in two days of a roaring autumn offensive. The Allies kicked off their drive Wednesday with 100,000 troops from 9 nations paced by mammoth British century tanks.

First cavalry division troops fought off the Chinese counterattacks throughout the night. But the Reds still were pressing their attack at daybreak. The action raged southwest of Chorwon.

A battalion of 1,000 Reds spearheaded the attack, which began at 2:40 a.m. (11:00 a.m. CST), Thursday. When the Americans beat off the first wave of attackers, the Reds stepped up their strength to 3,000 men.

A general headquarters communiqué said only that Allied troops hurled back several Communist counterattacks.

It said the Allies were continuing their drive on the central and west-central fronts against "considerable enemy resistance."

The 100,000-man Allied offensive, spearheaded by the British commonwealth and U. S. third division, had blasted two deep dents in the Chinese defenses of western Korea Thursday.

OPS Puts New Ceilings On Canned Vegetables

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government put most canned vegetables under new price ceilings Thursday and officials said housewives may expect penny-a-can price increases in some items. The Office of Price Stabilization order permits canners of most vegetables to pass on some cost increases, effective Oct. 20. OPS said it expects "there will be only slight increases, if any, in prices to consumers."

The items covered by Thursday's order include canned mixed vegetables, catsup, tomato puree, sauce and other products; canned vegetable juices, succotash, and other canned fresh vegetables except for rhubarb, sauerkraut, asparagus, fresh cucumber pickles, pumpkin and squash.

The British Elections:

The forthcoming British elections will prove interesting but nothing to get excited over. King George VI will dissolve parliament today in an official act that will bring a new government to power with the Oct. 25 elections.

Since its decisive victory six years ago, the Labor majority has dwindled to less than a dozen seats.

As the number dropped, the party has become almost impotent in winning critical legislation and votes of confidence.

It is hoped that the election will end the nearly even division in parliament and decide whether Churchill or Attlee has a mandate from the people.

The Tories have been gaining strength, but it would be a mistake to believe that if the Conservatives win, Britain will revert to a free enterprise economy and scrap the nationalization program completely.

It would be too dangerous politically for the Tory group to abolish the social services which have become an accepted part of British life.

It is true the coalition government worked out the social services program during the war but it was Labor who introduced them. The Conservatives have no clear alternative policy.

They say they will do all the things they neglected to do when they had power—but would abolish the controls essential for the maintenance of full employment and the services.

Basically the Tory position is this: less government and more individual incentive and profit. Social services should be kept but administered more efficiently. Iron and steel should be denationalized and other industries decentralized.

This is far from a victory for free enterprise in the American sense of the word. Labor, on the other hand, takes full credit for full employment fostered by Marshall plan aid. The Attlee forces insist that nationalization must be maintained, and a check kept on profiteering and monopoly.

Britain's chief problem since the war has been economic.

The British are beginning to feel the pinch of the re-armament program. Inflation has robbed them of the gains from increased productivity. Prices on imports are up thus demanding more exports and even greater productivity.

The rising cost of living, less U. S. air and devaluation, have continued to put John Bull over a barrel.

Needless to say no single man or party is responsible for the plight of Britain, but since Labor is in power it is the natural center of attack.

Though we doubt it, Labor may lose the election—simply as a reaction by a tired and overworked people protesting against the inhumanity of an austerity program in a cold war world.

We venture to predict there will be no landslide vote either way. The figure for victory will probably resemble those of 1945 when 48.5% of the people voted for Labor and 39.6% voted Conservative. In the 1950 election Labor's lead was cut to 46.1% while the Tories gained 43.4% of the popular vote.

"The question," Churchill said in 1950, "is whether socialism or free enterprise would best be able to find the money to pay for the social services which all wish to maintain."

If this is the only difference John Bull can find, then the difference between a Tory or Labor victory is that of Tweedle- and Tweedledee.

Interpreting the News —

British Election Affected By A-Bomb Explosion

BY J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

It seemed like a rare coincidence Wednesday when Bobby Thomson's explosion at the Polo Grounds came simultaneously with the White House announcement that Russia had set off another atomic bomb. The wisecracker had a field day about it.

There was, however, a truly significant coincidence about the timing of Russia's latest experiment. It came just as the British election campaign was being launched, and while diplomats were trying to make the last organizational arrangements for the defense of western Europe.

Russia's atomic power had come to hold a deep meaning for London officialdom and the British people. It embodies the realization that in any future war Britain lies horribly open to atomic attack.

That is why the left wingers of the British Labor party can make cooperation with America—which they claim will lead to war—a major issue in the election.

Announcement of the new explosion will enhance this feeling in Britain.

Some United Nations diplomats even speculated that the Russian's timed their latest experimental explosion for such purposes.

Germany is in the midst of bargaining for as many Allied concessions as possible in return for her participation in the new European army. Russia is believed about ready to make another bid for a four-power conference on European problems, in the hope of blocking this rearmament. Any reminder of her atomic power strengthens her hands.

The U. N. General Assembly is about to meet in Paris. One of the problems before it is a double-barreled approach to limitation of all arms including control of atomic energy.

Even if the explosion was purely coincidental—as seems most likely in such an expensive and important project—it has its effect on world politics.

31 Truckers to Compete In Truck Safety Roadshow

DES MOINES (AP) — Three last minute entries have boosted to 31 the number of truck drivers who will participate in the fifth annual Iowa Truck Safety Roadshow.

Preliminaries in the professional driving contest, sponsored by the Iowa Motor Truck association, are scheduled today with finals Saturday afternoon.

Truck drivers were selected from fleets throughout the state to compete in three divisions—straight truck, tractor with single axle semi-trailer, and tractor with tandem axle semi-trailer. Champions in each will represent Iowa in the National Truck Roadshow at Chicago, Oct. 22-25.

Field events in the competition at the Iowa state fairgrounds will include six problems to test the drivers' skill in difficult parking and precision driving.

Harvest Moon in Britain

Anti-Truman Leaders Sight GOP Buildup in Dixieland

By HENRY LESSNE
Central Press Correspondent

ATLANTA, GA.—No one knows what the "solid south" is going to do politically in 1952. But for some time now it has been toying with the thought of a two-party system. It was, in fact, toying with the idea a little even before civil rights became a major issue.

Will next year mark a turning point? Southerners are giving much thought to the matter. The splinter Dixiecrat revolt of 1948, hastily organized, carried four southern states, but it didn't accomplish its purpose—to throw the election of a President into the House of Representatives. The Dixiecrat party, as such, is now apparently extinct.

There are those who think that southerners, through a coalition with dissatisfied Republicans, can "recapture" the Democratic party. Others incline to the belief that the south can't "recapture" anything and that the only course lies in the building up of a "respectable" Republican party in Dixie.

The Republican party in one-party Dixie has never been much more than a patronage organization. In many southern states there are two Republican factions competing for patronage. But some feel that a Republican organization could be built up in the South which could contest the all-dominant Democrats.

THEY ARGUE THAT THE south can never have a voice in the councils of either the Democratic or the Republican party without a strong two-party system. They point out that when the two-thirds rule was abolished in the Democratic party, the south lost its one chance to exercise the power of veto in Democratic affairs.

The suggestion was made in a recent speech by Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi, who led the Dixiecrat revolt in 1948, that next year southern Democrats might name their delegates to the national convention but hold their state conventions in recess.

The delegates should then attend the national convention, he proposes, and "demand all socialistic plants and those repugnant to the south be deleted." Then depending on the result, the state conventions could take whatever course is necessary—maybe spark the creation of a coalition third party.

The pressures contributing to another southern revolt are increasing. They may be stronger by 1952 than they were in 1948. The Congress hasn't passed any of President Truman's civil rights legislation, but Supreme Court decisions have been chipping away at the pattern of segregation in the fields of education, real estate and transportation.

NEGRO ORGANIZATIONS estimate that a million Negroes now vote in the southern primaries and the goal is two million votes by 1952. Negroes in recent years have held a balance of power in some of the two-party or "doubtful" states. Political thinkers in the south are now suggesting that if a two-party system comes to the south the minority race conceivably could swing elections.

Politically the anti-Truman south is groping for an answer. When political talk swings to 1952 the south naturally wonders about the role of Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina. He has flatly said he would not be a candidate of any party.

He didn't run out on the party when it abolished the two-thirds rule and he didn't run out even when he was asked by the late President Roosevelt to step aside as the leading candidate for the Democratic vice presidential nomination in 1944.

He occupies a key place in American political life.

Rubinoff

Warsaw Concerto
On Violin

By MELCHOR T. VILLANUEVA
What strikes me most in Rubinoff's rendition of Warsaw Concerto on the violin is the uncanny contagious sadness that finds expression through the simplicity of his playing technique.

From the first measure it was a revelation of the powerful blitzkrieg of the invading Germans that gave the urge to the young English composer, Richard Addinsell, to create a piece of music that was to immortalize the sufferings of Poland from the horrors and brutalities of war.

That is why to a foreigner, a Filipino, in this land of freedom and the free, this popular masterpiece has a more tender touch than to many average Americans.

Only a person who has seen his nearest kin and countrymen, young and old, massacred and mowed down by machine guns, burned alive in the thick-walled cells of Fort Santiago, beheaded and dumped in the backyard, and bayoneted cold-bloodedly on the Death march, only someone who has been shocked by the merciless killings of women and children, only those who had been witness to these shall feel to the very core the bitterness of a loss and the deep sentiments evoked by the favorite passages of the concerto.

After this initial spark, the whole being of the listener cannot but be transported to the no-man's-land that may be Poland, Maginot Line, or Bataan, or even the 38th parallel for that matter, and easily experience that renewed existence manifested through the rolling terrors that cannot be helped because he has outlived the war, because he could easily recall the past of an utter humiliation and the sorrow of a downtrodden people.

Undoubtedly, Rubinoff's marvelous playing, which, however, may be misjudged to have a dash of showmanship, is the easiest to be appreciated and liked by men of all walks of life and young people of any level of education. His accurate double stops are enviable. The lucidity and purity of tone of his melodic passages are as seemingly effortless as they are easy on the part of the performer.

Warsaw Concerto, arranged for the violin and played for the first time in America by David Rubinoff on his famous Stradivarius is perhaps, more than the original piano composition, a closer interpretation of Addinsell's varying moods and feelings, and at the same time provides a much quicker transfiguration of the life of a conquered nation.

Dislikes Pessimism

TO THE EDITOR:
This morning I read J. M. Robert's article concerning Iran entitled, "Restoration of Position Impossible for Britain."

It is with regret that I read of such pessimism. If the restoration of Britain's position in Iran proved impossible, would it not be another victory for Russia in the waging of her "Cold War"?

To defeat this outcome every effort should be made through the United Nations to attain a workable settlement between Britain and Iran. If this cannot be done, then Iran will surely become another tentacle in the growth of the Russian Octopus.

In the above-mentioned article it was stated that Britain now lacks the force to restore her position. It is not the force that Britain lacks, but the power to use it with world peace in the balance. All the Western powers, not Britain alone, "lose face" by her complete withdrawal because of demands backed by armed force.

The Iranians proceeded in defiance of the ruling of the World Court at the Hague and of accepted international usages. In these circumstances a settlement should not be a case of "forlorn hope" but of one moved by all the Western powers in the United Nations organization.

Library Complaint
TO THE EDITOR.

I write to complain of a gross miscarriage of policy which I have just observed. As regards this letter, I have decided it is better to be bitter: something may be accomplished in this manner.

It is my usual policy to study in the new library on occasion. Up to and including the point of study, everything is simply gorgeous.

The smoking lounge is the focus of my complaint. Why do people have to study in there also? Granted, it is much more comfortable than a hard library chair—this however is beside the point. The lounge was intended for idle conversation at relaxation, neither of which I have yet enjoyed there.

It is very disheartening to open your mouth only to have better than twenty people staring intently down your throat. The sociologist says that laws and rules are socially defined and as such are subject to social interpretation.

I don't especially like the present interpretation of lounge as defined in the library.

Are there those who would join my crusade for freedom of speech? If so, let them all please rise and sing a rousing chorus of "On Iowa" in the smoking lounge. Some results will probably then be forthcoming.

U.S. Must Build Civil Defense

Chief of Staff Says Red Planes Can Attack U.S.

This is the first of a series of articles on civil defense, based on the booklet "This Is Civil Defense" prepared by the Federal Civil Defense Administration. It may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for ten cents.

By MILLARD CALDWELL
Federal Civil Defense Administrator

General Hoyt Vandenberg, Chief of Staff of the United States Air Force, has made a startling statement—one which most Americans find hard to believe. He had said that at best we could knock down only 30 out of every 100 enemy planes attacking the United States. That means that at least seven out of ten would get through. Despite our traditional attitude that "it can't happen here," we must believe these facts.

This does not mean that our air force is ineffective. We have an excellent air force and our anti-aircraft defenses are good. In the last war, the Germans also were well equipped with defense weapons, but they were not able to stop our attacking bombers. On the average, we lost fewer than 10 out of each 100 planes. That gives us something to think about!

We know that everything possible will be done to stop the enemy at our borders, and to prevent sabotage within, but we also can be sure that, in case of war, a good percentage of enemy attacks would be successful in spite of all that we could do. That is why we must have Civil Defense.

The wide oceans which once protected us have given way to global bombers. Today we face more kinds of attack than ever before, and our danger is much greater. There is only one sure way to keep any enemy from knocking us out of a war. We must know how to save lives and property, restore our cities and industries, and carry on the fight no matter what kind of attacks are hurled against us.

Russia has hundreds of heavy, long-range bombers patterned after our B-29's which could get through most of our defense setups. We know that Russia has atomic bombs and that their heavy long-range bombers are capable of delivering them anywhere in the United States at any time, the Kremlin dictates.

She can wage biological warfare for she has scientists capable of preparing diseases for use against people, plants, and animals, and trained secret agents who could spread them.

It is certain that she has the major war gases, including the new and deadly nerve gas developed by German experts who were taken into Russia at the end of the last war.

That is not all we must plan against. In some types of biological warfare fifth columnists could begin work without waiting for a war to start. Saboteurs too, could attack from within and wreck our defense and war production output.

Hit Without Warning
All these enemy weapons could hit us without warning. The outcome of modern war is not necessarily decided by armies in the field. Wars today can be won or lost on the home front. The home front cannot be hidden, and it cannot retreat—not if we are to survive as a free people. Millions of Americans must be trained in civil defense before this country can be sure it is ready for enemy attack. Meanwhile, that attack might come at any moment. We have no time to lose in preparing to ward off such an attack. Your home, your job, your family, your life may be at stake. Civil defense is the sure way—the only organized way—for survival on the home front. (The next article will discuss what is civil defense and how it can help.)

Movie-Land Plans Big 48 State Tour To Woo U.S. Public

HOLLYWOOD — Hollywood insists business is booming... it's not afraid of television... but the town is sending 240 stars and big-wigs out to the 48 states to woo the public.

Next Monday, the biggest mass emigration in Hollywood history will begin. The town's leading citizens will hop planes and trains to make speeches "promoting" Hollywood around the country. This mass tour was the brainchild of Texas theater Manager Bob O'Donnell. And he got a group called Compo, which is Hollywood's chamber of commerce, to set it up.

It's part of a year-long national campaign, "Movietime, U.S.A." But the spokesman for the project insists it wasn't designed to lure the public away from their TV sets and installment plans back

Exchange Instructor from England

By RUSS WILEY

The SUI football team has a new fan. The new fan, however, admits she hardly knows the difference between a halfback and a field goal, but that makes little difference.

She is Muriel Webster, an exchange instructor of women's physical education from Anstey College of Physical Education near Birmingham, England. She saw her first football game last Saturday when Kansas State played the Hawkeyes.

The spectacle of the game impressed her most, Miss Webster said.

"But at first I couldn't understand why the game was stopped so often. In soccer and rugby, the game goes on steadily. But I soon realized that play has to be stopped for the huddle, substitutions and so on."

She plans to see all the "colorful" football games from now on. Miss Webster is a member of SUI's women's physical education faculty in exchange with Dr. Margaret Fox, who presently is filling Miss Webster's position in England. The Scottish-born instructor is living in Iowa City with Dr. Gladys Scott, 428 Ferson ave. Other elements of American life in addition to football have impressed Miss Webster.

Friendliness — "I am greatly thankful for the extreme friendliness and helpfulness shown to me by Americans," Miss Webster said. As an example, she told how streetcar operators in Washington had to patiently explain our system of dropping money into a meter — and the right amount — before sitting down, instead of having a conductor pass through the car to collect fares.

Automobiles — "So many, so big," she exclaimed. "At first I couldn't tell whether some of them were going forwards or backwards."

Men's clothing — Miss Webster said she has been surprised to see so many multi-colored sport shirts, jackets and suits. "Men dress much more conservatively and conventionally in England."

When Miss Webster told someone in New York that she was on her way to Iowa, the person remarked, "Why are you going out there? All there is out there is corn."

"But I have found Iowa to be a very beautiful land," she said. "In Scotland I always lived by the sea; here I live by seas of waving corn." Miss Webster will travel for a while in the U.S. after the spring semester before returning to England.

Quadrangle Queen Finalists Will Be Selected Monday

An eight-man social committee will elect the 10 semi-finalists for the Quadrangle queen for 1951, George Miller, A3, Quad social chairman announced.

Selection of the semi-finalists who will be introduced to the Quad members Monday, Oct. 8, will be made on the basis of photographs submitted from the university's housing units.

The queen and her four attendants, who will be elected by popular vote of Quad residents, will be presented at the annual Quad dance, Friday, Oct. 13.

The Quad queen will be honored guest at the annual 1951 Quadrangle banquet, and the hostess of the dormitory Christmas party.

Peace Not Answer to World Conflict, UWF

Peace alone is not the solution to world conflict, a former air force colonel told more than 65 persons at the fall kickoff dinner of the SUI and Johnson county World Federalists Wednesday night.

"The world needs cooperation plus law," Ronald McLaughlin, Minneapolis, Minn., now a commercial pilot asserted.

McLaughlin attacked the present structure of the United Nations, declaring that it does not have the power to enforce its decisions. He called on the building up of a stronger United Nations to eliminate the "now existing deficiencies."

Therapist to Lecture On Cleft Palate Problem

Muriel Morley, British speech therapist, will speak on the problem of the cleft palate at SUI Monday evening.

Miss Morley, speech therapist to the children's department of the Royal Victoria infirmary, Newcastle on Tyne, England, is the author of a book, "The Cleft Palate and Speech."

Chief consultant in speech therapy problems to three hospitals in Newcastle, she has conducted extensive research on speech disorders in childhood for several years with neurologists and pediatricians from the Royal Victoria infirmary.

Her graduate college lecture appearance here will be sponsored by the speech department.

Freezing of Waffle Now Perfected

ONE MINUTE in toaster is all that is required before serving.

A perfected frozen waffle, with the ingredients, taste and texture of the home-made kind, now has come to the market.

After months of research, the makers, Snow Crop, discovered the method of producing a palatable waffle which could be stored indefinitely in a freezing compartment, yet would require no defrosting before being heated for serving.

The waffles are made from a batter of flour, eggs, baking powder, milk, sugar, salt, vanilla and vegetable shortening that is cooked until 90 per cent done. They are ready to serve, hot and crisp, after being heated in the toaster for one minute.

They come in a box which has a "window" to show the six waffles packed inside. The key to the attainment of the standard crisp texture after toasting results in the moisture retained by these packages during the freezing process.

This new waffle was tested on housewives in selected areas. Acceptance was immediate for one small neighborhood store, for example, sold ten cases in twenty days. Now, they are available nationally, ready to be stored in a freezing unit to be served after the minutes' warm-up in the toaster.

Koslo Hurts Giants Past Yanks In Series Opener, 5-1

Veteran Gives 7 Hits; Irvin, Dark Pace Attack

By CARL LUNDQUIST

NEW YORK (AP)—Obscure Dave Koslo started the story book New York Giants off in quest of a new miracle Thursday when he pitched them to a big upset 5 to 1 victory over the New York Yankees before 65,673 fans at Yankee Stadium in the first game of the 1951 World Series.

Koslo, who has been a Giant since 1941, longer than any player on the roster, combined a slow breaking curve and bomb-sight control for a seven-hit victory. It was the first time since 1936 over a stretch of nine World Series engagements that the redoubtable Yankees had lost their opening game.

Jansen vs. Lopat

NEW YORK (AP)—Manager Leo Durocher announced Thursday night that right hander Larry Jansen, a 23-game winner this season, will pitch for the Giants today in the second game of the World Series and Manager Casey Stengel said left hander Ed Lopat, a 21-game winner, will go for the Yankees.

the jaunty Giants mauled no-hit hero Allie Reynolds as if he had been a third rate pitcher for a second division outfit in their own league.

Alvin Dark, the slick shortstop from the Louisiana Bayou country, who hit a three-run homer and Montie Irvin, the Jersey Jolt, who paced the Giants at all seasons, emerged as the hitting heroes in this latest contest.

Sewed Up Early
For all practical purposes, the game was wrapped up in a neat package for the Giants in the first inning. And as has been so typical of their rallies in the successive last-chance hurdlers they have cleared lately, they put over the two runs necessary for victory with two men out.

What's more, Irvin stole home with the tally that could have been the margin of triumph. That was heaping embarrassment on the mighty Yankees in a hurry.

With two out, Hank Thompson, subbing in right field for the injured Don Mueller, walked. Irvin singled him to third with a shot to right field. Whitey Lockman sliced a ground-rule double into the left field stands to score Thompson and send Irvin to third. Then with one ball delivered to Bobby Thomson, Wednesday's home run hero, Irvin took advantage of an elaborate windup by Reynolds and streaked for the plate. He slid under the amazed Yogi Berra and was so clearly safe nobody bothered to raise a protest. It was the second time this year the Negro outfielder had stolen home.

Scored in 6th
The Giants scored no more until Dark pumped his drive into the left field stands in the sixth inning, but the way Koslo was whipping the Yankees, runs were a surplus commodity.
Koslo, a Giant in team name only, was truly a David who slew a whole team of mighty Goliaths. For the Yankees, so overpowering annually in these classics, were supposed to be lying in wait for whatever opponent the National league could finally muster after its exhausting playoff.

But the slick southpaw from Menasha, Wis., altered that plan promptly and reversed the series odds so that the Giants now probably will be rated as least an even-money bet to win.

He had some shaky moments, especially at the start, but he wound up on a glorious high note by retiring 15 of the last 18 batters he faced.
The Yankees scored their only run in the second inning when Gil McDougald cracked a double to left and moved to third on a single by Coleman. When Thompson bobbled the ball for an error, he came home. It would have been an unearned run but a subsequent single by pitcher Reynolds took the onus off Thompson.

Almost Picked Off
The big Giant sixth inning just put the string around the victory package that Koslo was wrapping up. Catcher Wes Westrum singled with one out to start the rally. Koslo moved him along with the first of two neat sacrifice bunts. Eddie Stanky drew a walk.

Amazing Giants Keep Smiling

THREE NEW YORK GIANT players who had the most to do with the Giants' 5-1 victory in Thursday's opening World Series game joined the celebration in the Giants' dressing room. Showing their smiles were (left to right) Dave Koslo, 31-year-old lefty who gave the Yanks only seven hits; Montie Irvin, who had four hits and stole home, and Al Dark who hit a 3-run homer.

JVs to Meet Camp McCoy

Dan McBride and Don Inman will lead the Iowa junior varsity squad as co-captains when Coach Wally Schwank's JV outfit takes the field against Camp McCoy Saturday afternoon on the soldiers' home field.

Saturday's game will be the second of the season for the junior Hawkeyes. Wisconsin's JV squad topped Iowa, 27-12 in the opener.

Inman, a well-built 200-pounder, is scheduled to start as Iowa's offensive fullback or defensive linebacker against Camp McCoy. While a prep at Tama high school, he was placed on the all-conference team for three seasons and received all-state honors during his junior and senior seasons.

McBride, a transfer from Burlington junior college, will be a regular offensive end for Coach Schwank's team. He was a regular flanker at Burlington high school before playing on the JC squad.

Iowa's starting defensive lineup will be: Lyle Lewis and Marlow Eckhoff, ends; Dick Wilke, Ron Bietz or Cameron Cummins, tackles; Tom Ellis, guard; Don Inman, Louis Matykiewicz, Tom Kerf or Phillip Hayman, linebackers; Jim Hatch, Prentiss Lamont or Dave Johnson, halfbacks; and Bill Becktel or Duane Davis, Safety.

Leo Credits Bums' Scouts

NEW YORK (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, bitter opponents of the New York Giants Wednesday, were credited Thursday by a tremendous assist in winning the opening game of the World Series.
"Tom Sheehan and Andy High turned over their full scouting reports on the Yankees Wednesday night," said the Giant manager.

"I spent two hours with them Wednesday night. The reports were the finest I had ever seen. Then I worked for an hour before the game with Wes Westrum (catcher) and Dave Koslo (the Giant pitcher). We knew just about everything there was to know about the Yankees. It was a wonderful piece of cooperation."

The attitude of the Giants in their luxurious dressing rooms in Yankee Stadium was that the victory over the Yankees, spectacular as it was, was an anticlimax after what happened in the final National league playoff game yesterday. They scarcely even smiled as they trooped from their dugout under the stands.

There was a certain amount of back pounding, and a great deal of photographers' flashes, but scarcely a voice was raised.
Koslo, the crafty little pitcher who subdued the Yankee bats so effectively, looked worn out.
"It was my sinkers, low and away, that were most effective," he said. "In the first couple of innings I had trouble with the wind (it was blowing in from centerfield).
"It made my curve ball hang in the air."
Monte Irvin, the quiet Negro leftfielder who had such a stellar day, said that Manager Durocher told him he could try to steal home if he thought he could get a good jump.

Bennett, Corbin, Reister Out

Injured Iowa Players To Miss Purdue

Iowa will be without the services of backs Bernie Bennett and Corky Reister and end Del Corbin for the Purdue game Saturday as Coach Leonard Raffensperger released a 40-man travelling squad for the Boilermaker contest.
The Hawkeye contingent will leave by train at 9:15 this morning and is scheduled to arrive in Lafayette at 7 p.m.

Denning Returns

Chuck Denning practiced with the Iowa squad Thursday after missing drills Tuesday and Wednesday. Denning is included in the 40-man Iowa travelling squad.

Have Sprained Ankles

Bennett and Corbin have sprained ankles while Reister pulled a muscle in his side. Corbin's mishap occurred in Monday's practice session.

With Bennett and Reister, the top two safeties, missing, that assignment will go to Jack Hess, a sophomore from Des Moines. Bennett's place at left halfback will be taken by freshman Bob Stearnes, who will be behind Loranzie Williams and Dusty Rice at that post.

Game captains Saturday will be center John Towner and defensive back Joe Bristol. Raffensperger announced. Both are seniors.

The tempo in the Hawk's final practice Thursday was slackened a bit after two days of lengthy scrimmaging.

Worked on Pass Defense

Another long session was put in on defense in anticipation of

Joe Bristol
Co-Captains for Purdue Game

John Towner
Co-Captains for Purdue Game

another busy day against the passes of Boilermaker quarterback Dale Samuels.
Last season Samuels completed 15 of 25 tosses for 150 yards as Iowa defeated Purdue, 33-21.
Purdue Coach Stu Holcomb will probably be even more air minded this time since the Boilermaker running attack is not up to the 1950 calibre.
A big reason for this is the loss of John Kerestes, an outstanding fullback.

The Iowa squad will stay at the Purdue union and will return to Iowa City immediately after the game, arriving here early Sunday morning.

The traveling squad:
ENDS
Don Swartzendruber, Andy Hour, Ed Lindsey, Bill Fenton, Arnold Caplan, Fred Ruck.

LAFAYETTE, IND (AP)—Purdue Coach Stu Holcomb re-shuffled his offensive backfield Thursday and indicated two rookies might get starting posts for Saturday's Big Ten opener against Iowa.
Holcomb also experimented with changes in the forward wall because of the doubtful status of injured Ray Pacer, outstanding sophomore defensive tackle.

Undefeated Franklin to Oppose Little Hawks Here Tonight

City High's once-beaten Hawklets and the undefeated Thunderbolts of Franklin high of Cedar Rapids meet tonight on City's athletic field in the most important game on the Mississippi Valley conference's five-game weekend schedule.

Kick-off time is set for 8 p.m. Davenport toppled Coach Frank Bates' Little Hawks from the all-victorious ranks last week by a 19-6 count. The loss shattered a City winning streak that stretched over a two-year period.

While City was losing to Davenport, Franklin posted its third victory of the season by sinking Cedar Rapids Roosevelt, 18-12. Rock Island also is included on the list of Franklin victims.

Another City defeat would push the Hawklets deep into the bottom half of the conference standings and kill the defending champions' chances of finishing among the leaders.

Franklin needs a victory to tie Davenport for the loop's lead. A win for the Cedar Rapids school could be a big step in its drive toward a crown. The Thunderbolts play only a five-game schedule and don't meet the rugged Davenport club.

Franklin Coach Bill Barnard brings to Iowa City a team which is equipped with good speed, fine passing and reliable punting to match the offensive ability of City's co-captains and standouts, Jim Freeman and John White.

The visitors are built on a foundation of 11 lettermen. Quarterback Elliott Day directs the Thunderbolt's T-formation attack.

John Rosenberg at left half, Paul Foster at right half and Gordon Aukerman at full supply the running power. Rosenberg's running and punting were Franklin's big weapons in the Rock Island upset.

City high has used the past week to develop its offense which is scored only two touchdowns during the present season.

Coach Bates has indicated that Freeman will probably see as much action at fullback as at his usual end spot for the Little Hawks.

Bluehawks Seek Third Straight Today Against Winfield

Undefeated University High will be going after victory number 3 as it meets Winfield at 3 p.m. today at the Iowa practice field.

The Bluehawks are seeking their 13th consecutive win, and their 15th game in a row without a loss. Last week U-High defeated West Branch, 15-7 while Winfield fell before Wilton Junction, 20-6. A win today would put the Bluehawks into a tie for first place with West Liberty in the Eastern Iowa Hawkeye Conference, since the present leaders will play non-conference games this weekend.

Coach Absent Winfield will be playing the contest without the services of its head coach, Herbert Van Arx, who had an appendectomy Monday.

Orrie Rew, superintendent of the schools in Winfield, will coach the team in Van Arx's absence. Rew previously had guided Winfield to two state basketball tournaments.

U-High Coach Bob Weber plans only one lineup change against the Wolves. Nick Johnson, 205-pound letterman tackle, who has been previously bothered with a bruised rib, will be making his first start of the year.

Mel Ritter, pass-catching end, and Tom Kent, regular left halfback, have been held from contact work during drills this week. However, the two men, who are nursing bruised muscles suffered in the West Branch game, are expected to be ready for today's game.

Worked on Offense Emphasis in this week's practices have been on overall offensive play. The team has worked on getting better protection for the passer and better blocking at the line of scrimmage.

Coach Bates has indicated that Freeman will probably see as much action at fullback as at his usual end spot for the Little Hawks.

Court Fines Slade $500 For OMVI

Albert C. Slade, Iowa City, pleaded guilty to a charge of second offense drunken driving in district court Thursday.

He was ordered to pay a $500 fine or serve five months in jail. His driver's license also was revoked. Slade was given 30 days in which to pay the fine.

The indictment against Slade first listed him as a third offender. He was charged in 1937, 1949 and 1951 with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

The 1937 and 1949 charges, however, were both listed as first offenses. The defense argued that a man could not be charged as a third offender without having first been charged as a second offender.

Under Iowa law a person charged with third offense OMVI is given a mandatory jail sentence of three years.

Services Scheduled For Mrs. Alice Peters

Services for Mrs. Alice Peters, 71, 409 N. Gilbert st., who died Wednesday of a heart attack aboard a Rock Island train, will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday at St. Patrick's church.

Hospital Librarians Hear MacQueen at State Library Meet

"Choose the book to fit the case!" This was the advice given Thursday night by Dr. J. C. MacQueen, professor of pediatrics in the college of medicine, at a hospital librarians' workshop.

The workshop was one of four held on the opening day of the three-day Iowa library association conference at Iowa City.

The importance of correct selection of books in child patient rehabilitation was emphasized by the speaker as he explained that the nature of treatment the child is undergoing determines what types of books he should read.

"The task of choosing suitable books belongs to the hospital librarian, who should, therefore, have an understanding of child development as well as an interest in the patient," MacQueen said.

Conference workshops for public and college librarians were held Thursday in the SUI library. Their programs featured demonstrations of modern charging machines, microfilm projectors, micro-card projectors and other audio-visual equipment used in libraries.

Today's general meetings will feature speeches by Sarah L. Wallace, director of Minnesota public libraries, and Hazel Webster Byrnes, director of the state library commission, Bismark, N. D.
