Rice Named Back of Week' n AP Poll

Dusty Rice

Cets National Recognition

George (Dusty) Rice, Iowa's spectacular sophomore halfback, gained further honors Tuesday by being named "Back of the Week" by the Associated Press.

Rice's feats against Purdue were adjudged "the most sparkling of the week" after a compilation of notes by sportswriters and sports-masters across the nation. It was the first AP poll of the season.

It was the first time an Iowa player has received the honor and as the greatest national recognition for a Hawkeye gridders since Bill Kay was selected to the Associated Press all-American squad in 1948.

Rice earned the award by scoring three touchdowns against Purdue in his first Big Ten game. He led on a 102-yard opening kick-off return, a 69-yard run, and a 55-yard pass play.

In gaining the honor, Rice edged out such famous stars as Hugh McElheeny of Washington and Dick Kazmaier of Princeton who also enjoyed great days.

The AP story described Rice as a sophomore halfback who lost to time learning the way to the goal line in college football.

The Iowa star is an all-around athlete from Oelwein where he was a state tennis champion for two years and stood out in football, basketball, and track.

State Department's Records Support Jessup's Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department opened its secret diplomatic files Tuesday to show senate investigators that this country consistently has opposed recognition of Red China.

Members of a senate foreign relations subcommittee, who saw the files at a closed-door meeting, agreed that they backed up the testimony of Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup that the state department "never considered" recognizing the Communist regime in Peking.

Chairman John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk also told the subcommittee that "to the best of his memory, no top official in the state department at any time ever recommended recognition of Communist China."

Asked directly if that included Jessup, Rusk noted that Jessup holds the highest post of ambassador.

The subcommittee is considering Jessup's nomination to be a U.S. delegate to the United Nations general assembly. Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, has accused Jessup of giving "false" testimony when he said the state department never considered recognition.

Sparkman said Stassen's accusation was "completely" refuted by the evidence.

CIO Auto Workers in Early Walk-Out

CHICAGO (AP)—Some 4,050 CIO United Auto Workers walked out of six divisions of the Borg-Warner corporation in a pre-emptive strike Tuesday and President Truman promptly certified the dispute to the wage stabilization board.

The UAW had set a strike deadline today at 10 plants. The White House said the dispute involved 2,000 workers.

Mr. Truman acted after Federal Conciliation Chief Cyrus Ching gave him an estimate of the situation. Borg-Warner is a key supplier to the automotive industry currently swinging into defense production.

State Opposes Baculis' Attempt To Dismiss Charge

Assistant County Atty. William Tucker filed resistance Tuesday in district court against a motion to dismiss the murder indictment against George Baculis.

Baculis earlier in the day had filed a motion asking the murder indictment returned against him Sept. 25 by the grand jury be dismissed on grounds that the jury was not legally selected.

Meardon Unqualified
He also claims that County Atty. William L. Meardon was unqualified and prohibited by law from exercising the duties of the county attorney in connection with the investigation of the charge.

The resistance contends the allegations against the grand jury and Meardon are opinions and conclusions that fail to set forth any grounds or reasons.

District Judge James P. Gaffney set 9:30 a.m. today as the time for a hearing on the case.

Charged with Murder
Baculis was charged by the grand jury with murdering Andrew H. Davells in Iowa City Oct. 12, 1950. The indictment was returned last month after an earlier charge of aiding and abetting in the alleged murder was dismissed.

In the motion to set aside the indictment, Baculis contends that Meardon was disqualified to present the case to the grand jury as he represented the Davells estate last fall before he took office as county attorney.

Baculis contends Meardon represented the heirs to the Davells estate from Oct. 18, 1950, to Dec. 20, 1950. The original indictment against Baculis was returned by the grand jury Dec. 15, 1950.

The defendant alleges that Meardon appeared numerous times before the grand jury in connection with the investigation and gave information to the jury, examined witnesses, gave advice concerning the law and helped prepare the indictment.

Jurors Ineligible
Baculis also claims the jury was not selected properly and that certain members were ineligible and exempted by law to serve. He further contends that persons other than jury members were present when the vote was taken on the indictment.

A motion for a bill of particulars was also filed by Baculis asking the court to require the county attorney to inform the defendant of the particulars of the alleged murder.

It is claimed also that the indictment fails to identify which of the various forms of murder is charged.

Des Moines Girl, Stabbing Victim, Leaves Hospital

DES MOINES (AP)—Theresa O'Connor, 24, seriously injured in a cathedral stabbing, was released Tuesday from Mercy hospital here, just four weeks from the day she was knifed.

John A. Masterson, 24, of Des Moines, is accused of stabbing Miss O'Connor as she walked to the communion rail in St. Ambrose cathedral here Sept. 11. The young woman had attempted to break off her acquaintance with Masterson.

Miss O'Connor was being taken in private automobile to her home in Reinbeck, Ia. Her physician said she had made a "satisfactory" recovery, but that it would be some time before she would be able to resume normal activities.

Senate Rejects Truman's Judgeship Nominees

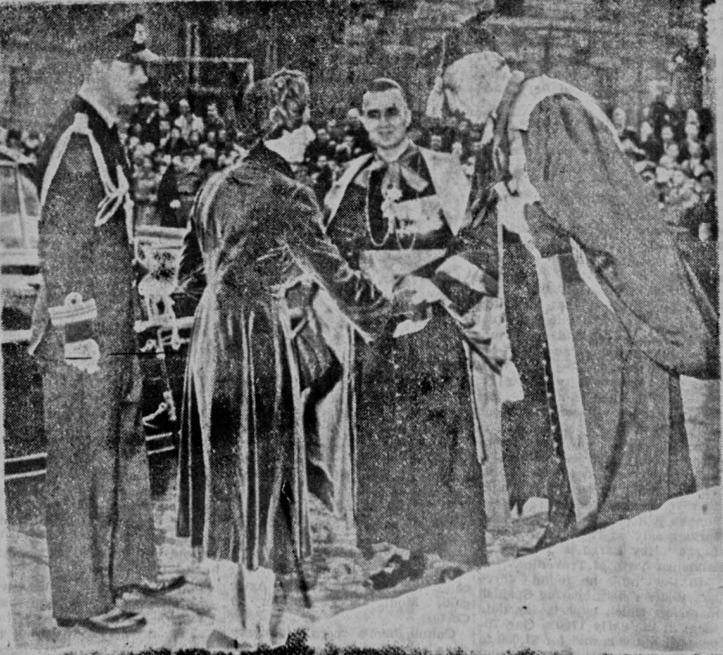

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate rejected the nomination of Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) Tuesday and unanimously rejected President Truman's nominees for two federal judgeships in Illinois.

Upholding a time-honored senate tradition, members of both parties shouted down the nominations of Joseph J. Drucker and Cornelius J. Harrington after Douglas termed their appointments "personally obnoxious to me."

The voice vote had the effect of blocking any possibility that Mr. Truman might give the two men "recess appointments" after congress adjourns.

Douglas, President Feud
Douglas has been locked in a months-old feud with the President because his own candidates for the two judgeships, William H. King Jr. and Benjamin P. Epstein were by-passed by the White House.

Majority party senators customarily have a major voice in picking judges within their own state. The senate judiciary committee

Bail-Jumping U.S. Red Nabbed in Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Gus Hall, fugitive national secretary of the American Communist party, has been arrested in Mexico City an authoritative source said Tuesday night.

Hall, who was 41 years old yesterday—the day of his arrest, fled from New York City last July a few days before he was to begin a five year sentence for conspiring to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government by force. He was convicted Oct. 14, 1949 with 10 other members of the U.S. Communist party's politburo.

Hall, who also was listed as Ohio state chairman of the Communist party, jumped bail along with Gilbert Green, Henry Winston and Robert Thompson, top Communist leaders convicted with him.

The authoritative source here said that Hall, who received his party education in Moscow, was arrested Monday night by Mexican authorities. Mexican police refused to confirm or deny the arrest and the embassy said only that "it has not been officially notified."

Intensive Search
It was pointed out in Washington that the federal bureau of investigation has no jurisdiction outside of the continental limits of the United States and that the U.S. authorities in the case would be agents of the Central Intelligence Agency.

An intensive international search was mounted for the four bail-jumping Communists who fled when it became certain that all their lengthy appeals of their convictions had been rejected. They also had been fined $10,000 each, until Monday night, the search had turned up nothing on the missing Reds. The only lead uncovered previous to Hall's arrest was a report that Thompson had been

Seven Jailed

Seven members of the Politburo surrendered and went to jail following their conviction. They were: Eugene Dennis, general secretary; Benjamin Davis, former New York city councilman; John Gates, editor of the Daily Worker; Irving Potash, union leader; Jacob Stachel, national educational director; John Williamson national labor secretary, and Carl Winter, Michigan state chairman.

The three still at large have these positions in the Communist hierarchy: Green is chairman of the party in Illinois; Winston is national organizational secretary, and Thompson is New York state party chairman.

Favorable Place

Mexico City has been a favored place for American Communists to meet their bosses from Russia. It was recalled that Thompson came here in 1941 to receive the latest word from Russia on the party line.

Hall went to Russia in 1931 and returned in 1933 after receiving instruction in Marxist dialectics and Communist tactics.

He was handed the position of district organizer of the Young Communist league for Minnesota, Wisconsin and Northern Michigan on the basis of his trip to Russia.

Iowa Postmaster Nominations

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman has sent to the senate these postmaster nominations for Iowa:

Arnold A. Benda, Brooklyn; Robert J. Cavanaugh, Delmar; Eugene R. Wilbur, Randallia, and Kathryn Allison, Carnarvon.

Elizabeth Opens Tour; Makes Royal History In Reviewing Troops

QUEBEC CITY (AP)—Princess Elizabeth opened her five-week tour of Canada Tuesday to the cheers of 50,000 Canadians, and she made royal history by reviewing troops while standing in a gleaming white, bouncing jeep.

Canons boomed, churchbells pealed and French Canadians shouted "Vive la Princesse!" as Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, arrived by train at historic Wolfe's Cove to open their visit formally on the spot where King George VI and Queen Elizabeth arrived by boat 12 years ago.

During a whirlwind round of 11 major appearances in less than 11 hours, the royal couple inspected the troops Canada is preparing to send to join Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Atlantic pact army.

Reviews Troops in Jeep

Elizabeth became the first member of the British royal family ever to review troops in a jeep. She jumped lightly into the jeep, which was flying the British royal standard, took a firm grip on the top of the windshield and stood as nearly at attention as she could.

As the jeep bumped over the uneven field, Philip and Brig. Geoffrey Walsh sat on the hard back seat. Elizabeth, accustomed to sitting stately in military uniform on a horse, managed to maintain her equilibrium while inspecting units recruited last May.

Honored at State Dinner

Later, after a gruelling day, the couple were guests of honor at a state dinner at which Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec welcomed them to the province.

"We derive from your example, and from that of your noble husband, inspiration of great promise including unshakable confidence in the survival of firmly established institutions," Duplessis said to Elizabeth.

Polish Engineer, 3 Others Escape Communist Regime

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—A Polish engineer and three mutinous companions sailed their captured Polish trawler into Karlskrona harbor Tuesday and turned themselves in as political fugitives.

They said they could no longer stand the Polish Communist regime.

The engineer staged the mutiny. He said he smuggled his three companions aboard while in a Polish harbor and hid them in the engine room until the trawler was well out in the Baltic. All had pistols which they had kept hidden from police since the war.

Early Monday they seized the ship while the captain and one crew member were asleep. When the first officer, the only other member of the crew, went down for a moment to get his watch, the engineer slammed a door behind him and locked it. Then he called his three friends from their hiding places and they set a course for Sweden.

Britain Blasts Egypt's Move To Scrap Treaty

Allies, Reds Meet To Reopen Talks

TOKYO (WEDNESDAY) (AP)—Allied and Communist liaison officers met today in Panmunjom and it appeared they would be able to get the Korean armistice negotiations underway for the first time since the Communists broke them off on Aug. 23.

The Communists accepted Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's invitation to send their liaison officers to Panmunjom, which the Reds proposed as the site of the formal talks, to work out procedure for resuming the peace parley.

There still remained some differences over size of the neutral zone, but it appeared these differences were comparatively minor and some compromise arrangement could be found. Today's liaison talks were to work out ground rules for resumption of the talks.

The basic problems were solved—selection of Panmunjom as site of the talks and a decision to let the full dress armistice negotiating teams work out details of a neutral zone. Ridgway agreed to the latter in a compromise proposal last week.

The problem remaining was this: The Communists have asked that the neutral zone include both Munsan and Kaesong. Ridgway proposes only that the neutral zone include Panmunjom but he said Kaesong and Munsan should be "free from attack."

If the liaison officers are unable to compose these relatively minor differences, it appeared doubtful the truce talks would be resumed until the United Nations' offensive uses further "persuasion" on the Communists to talk peace.

Allies Gain Mile In West; Reds Shift Troops to East Front

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea (WEDNESDAY) (AP)—The Allies ground ahead 1 mile in western Korea Tuesday but the Reds sprang one of their most significant war moves in months—a sudden shift of Chinese troops to the eastern front.

The new Red maneuver, possibly involving the transfer of a major Chinese unit, checked an Allied advance in the east. This meant just two things to embattled United Nations on the mountainous eastern front:

1. The unending UN hill assaults have at least partly ground down the rebuilt North Korean army.

2. The battle, which was already tough is probably going to get tougher.

U.S. eighth army estimates placed Red losses at 80,000 men since Aug. 23 when the Kaesong peace talks were suspended by the Communists. This is equal to 8 to 10 Red divisions.

Allied losses during the same period have not been announced. In the past, however, Red losses usually worked out about five to eight times as many as the Allies. That would indicate 10,000 to 16,000 Allied casualties.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet's autumn offensive by five Allied divisions was held to limited gains in the west.

Mossadegh Requests Debate Postponement

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh has asked for postponement of Thursday's United Nations debate on the Anglo-Iranian oil crisis because of extreme fatigue, diplomatic sources revealed Tuesday.

The 76-year-old premier made the request personally to Security Council President Joao Carlos Muniz of Brazil. Whether a delay until Saturday or later will be granted depended on the attitude of Britain which has been intent on quick UN action on the oil dispute.

There was considerable feeling among observers here that diplomatic considerations figured as importantly in the delay request as the state of Mossadegh's health.

Senate Approves Bowles' Appointment To India Position

Chester Bowles To Be Ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate approved the appointment of former OPA Chief Chester Bowles as U.S. ambassador to India Tuesday despite Republican charges that he is not qualified for the post.

Bowles was confirmed by a vote of 43 to 33 after about an hour of heated debate in which Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O.) led a futile GOP fight to block the nomination.

Taft told the senate that he "can't think of anyone less qualified" than Bowles to represent the country in the key New Delhi diplomatic post. Democrats contended he was a good man for the post.

Democrat Votes No

On the showdown only one Democrat—Sen. Pat McCarran—voted with 32 Republicans against the nomination.

While the senate GOP policy committee had pledged a party fight against Bowles, five Republicans broke ranks to vote with 38 Democrats in favor of confirmation. They were Sens. William Langer, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., Wayne Morse, Margaret Chase Smith and George D. Aiken.

Succeeds Henderson

Holmes who was defeated for reelection as governor of Connecticut last year, will succeed career diplomat Loy Henderson as ambassador. Henderson has been shifted to Iran.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) told the senate that a foreign relations subcommittee, which he headed, investigated Bowles' qualifications thoroughly, and found him well-fitted for the delicate job of relieving strained U.S.-Indian relations.

Holds Troops In Canal Zone Sudan Area

LONDON (AP)—Britain Tuesday night denounced Egypt's move to scrap the Anglo-Egyptian treaty as illegal and pledged that British troops will stay in the Suez Canal zone and the Sudan until a "satisfactory" Middle East defense agreement is concluded.

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison declared Britain would maintain her "full rights" in the canal area despite the Egyptian threat to eject the British from the Suez and from Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

Morrison hurriedly broke off election campaigning and rushed to London for consultations on the crisis which rocked Britain on the heels of her withdrawal from Iran.

Emphasizing the gravity of the situation, the British defense ministry announced that all leaves had been cancelled for British troops in the Suez Canal zone, Britain's Middle East headquarters and guardian of its "lifeline to the empire."

Defense System

Morrison announced Britain's decision to stand firm after U.S., French and British chiefs of staff met with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in Paris to rush plans for a Middle East defense system—thrown off balance by Egypt's "jumping of the gun" Monday.

The plan would set up a defense command with Turkey and Egypt as its key bases to assure continued strategic control of the Middle East area and the vital Suez canal zone.

(In Cairo, where thousands of Egyptians swarmed through the streets to cheer Monday's Egyptian move, informed sources predicted Egypt would reject any Middle East defense plans which would leave British troops in the canal zone.)

Takes Exception

Morrison's statement Tuesday night said Britain takes "the strongest exception" to Egypt's decision to abrogate unilaterally the treaty of 1936 under which British troops are stationed in Suez and the 1899 Anglo-Egyptian agreements under which Sudan is jointly administered by Britain and Egypt.

"The Egyptian government was aware that new and far reaching proposals were about to be presented to them which would have a direct bearing on the improvement of Anglo-Egyptian relations and on the security of the Middle East," the foreign secretary said.

Argentine Delegates Leave Press Meeting; Membership Denied

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—Argentine applicants for membership in the Inter-American Press association walked out in a huff Tuesday when 33 of their 44 bids for membership were turned down by the convention.

In the excitement, 76-year-old Tom Wallace, editor emeritus of the Louisville (Ky.) Times and president of the association, collapsed in the convention chamber and was rushed to a hospital.

Physicians said they were not certain whether he was suffering from a heart condition, brain hemorrhage or extreme fatigue. He was reported improved Tuesday night. Wallace had stayed up until 2 a.m. with the association's board of directors, passing on the flood of Argentine applications for membership.

A long-time campaigner for good will among the American press, he had advocated admitting the Argentines on the ground that they represented legitimate publications and the association already included members from countries where press freedom is restricted.

Some members of the association, organized in New York last year to guard freedom of the press throughout the Western hemisphere, had been alarmed at the possibility editors supporting President Juan Peron in Argentina were out to capture the organization.

The association took the Peron regime sharply to task last year for stifling press freedom and in turn was called a group of "gangsters" by the Peron press.

Dusty Rice: Player of the Week

Iowa's Dusty Rice has been named one of the nation's outstanding football players this week. That's what it means to be named "Back of the Week" by the AP sportswriters. Dusty played sensational ball against Purdue Saturday. His selection is a deserved honor. However there is more than an individual triumph. Dusty's selection brings honor to the state and points a moral for the Hawkeye team and fans. It isn't hard to see why Rice was chosen as one of the nation's leading ballplayers. For a guy playing his first Big Ten game, Dusty played havoc with Purdue and the record book. He carried the pigskin for three Hawkeye touchdowns. His 100-yard kickoff return set a new Big Ten record. His 69-yard run tied Iowa's record set by Bob Sullivan in 1946. Dusty was also present for the 55-yard scoring pass play. His Saturday performance adds new laurels to an already outstanding athletic career. Dusty, remember, was a member of the all-state football and basketball squads; he won the state tennis championship twice and was one of Oelwein's top track men.

But his greatest contribution has been bringing recognition to the Hawkeyes.

Through this award Iowa has been singled out as having a great ball club despite Saturday's defeat. It is no simple matter turning a gridiron loss into a moral victory but that's what we're driving at.

No one who saw Iowa could fail to be impressed by the team. We played a great game. If it is true we play for the sport as well as for the victory, then no Iowa fan, player or coach should lose faith in the club.

If all our games have the spirit and drive of this past weekend, the greatness of the present Iowa team is certain—and the award to Rice is testimony to this fact.

We hope Tailfeathers and the other booster groups show themselves worthy of having such a good team.

U.S. Needs Civil Defense Individual Is Responsible For Own Civil Defense

(This is the fourth of a series of articles on civil defense, based on the booklet "This is Civil Defense" prepared by the federal civil defense administration. It may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., for ten cents.)

By MILLARD CALDWELL
Federal Civil Defense Administrator

The most staggering civil defense problems are public education, training, and organization. All must be solved without delay. Immediate training for some 15 million Americans, and intensive education in self-protection for 135 million others are vital. Here are some facts and figures for you to think about. Try to picture the number of trained workers that would be needed to handle an attack situation. As an example, a single first-aid station could consist of almost 200 workers. They could handle about 600 wounded people in 24 hours. To care for those injured by one Hiroshima-size atomic bomb, nearly 100 such first-aid stations would be needed. That adds up to more than 20,000 first-aid workers needed for each atomic bomb—but it doesn't include hospital staffs. An engineering service as large or even larger would be needed to clear away the rubble before first-aiders could reach the wounded. A highly trained rescue service would be needed to get people out of wrecked or burning buildings. A large and efficient supply service would be needed to bring in food, clothing, and medicine. Job of Helping Homeless There would be other jobs of putting out fires, restoring utilities, caring for the homeless, gathering families together again, feeding the people, and getting the factories and community life rolling once more. Most of the ways of meeting atomic disaster are not new or different, except in size. The biggest problem is to prepare ourselves to handle disasters greater than any that ever have struck the United States. Remember what you read in the previous article about the Japanese at Hiroshima and Nagasaki. They were almost completely unprepared—and what happened? Their indifference in organizing an efficient civil defense should be a grim warning to us. Here are some really important things to remember. They make up civil defense: 1. A possible enemy has the weapons now to attack us. 2. There is a defense against any attack, including atomic warfare, and civil defense is a big part of it. 3. At least 15 million Americans must be trained in civil defense, and every American must learn the facts of survival. 4. Without civil defense your city would be helpless; with civil defense, your losses could be cut in half. 5. Your state and local civil defense directors must have your support. They have an important

Paying for Freedom . . .

To the Editor: We must concur with Mr. Higgins when, in his Oct. 6 letter published by the Iowan, he quotes the field house pennant, "Freedom is not Free." But we need not agree with his method of paying for it nor with his implied definition of "freedom."

I suppose it is becoming increasingly popular to use ex-factis states as models of strength, states in which people "abandoned ideas" for peaceful settlements of world conflict, just as it has become popular to succumb and strengthen such a state, i.e., Franco Spain. It is a dubious and wavering morality which must be predicated on the ideas against which we once went to war.

To quote Luce's Mr. D. C. Poole is not satisfactory for some; it happens also to be a truism that large armies in the hands of ambitious powers will eventually be put into use. Higgins writes, "we must recognize the truth about the world, . . . and be willing to follow the proper

True or Falsies — Women Buy Bigger Bras

NEW YORK (AP)—Nearly 75 per cent of the nation's women are now buying brassieres from one to two sizes too large and veteran bra and falsie designer Henry Phlen said such bosomy celebrities as Dagmar and Jane Russell are to blame.

"It's a national madness," he said, "the exact opposite of the flapper craze, which caused girls to bind themselves flat as Indians. It's bad enough physically, but the psychological results are even more devastating."

Phlen said the national feminine fever for overstatement had produced a boom in the falsie industry, but warned that a severe period of deflation could be expected.

"The situation is giving hundreds of thousands of lovely young American women severe inferiority complexes," he said, "because a pair of falsies is no more reassuring mentally than a toupee is to a man."

The director of Peter Pan foundations said his firm had just concluded a national investigation to determine where major department stores located their falsie counters and had learned they were sold with the same red-faced embarrassment as red-wool underwear in the men's department.

"Most stores reported they kept one corner of their undergarment department exclusively for falsies," he said. "They are just placed on a counter so a woman can pick up a pair and pay for them without even directly consulting a sales clerk."

He said the results indicated plainly that many women with entirely adequate figures had been misled into increasing their bra sizes, and then led down an inexorable path to the falsie counter to find something to fill them up.

"I have turned my back on falsies as such," Phlen declared. "I believe this problem must be solved in a far more psychologically constructive manner."

He said he had turned to designing his bras with "what you might call a double cut." One fits the customer, the other is a discreet overlay which increases outside dimensions no more than an eighth of an inch.

"Our findings indicated that few women are less than 1/4 inch off exactly what they should be for their height and hip measurements," he said. "Give them that and you banish the shame they feel at having to sneak over to a falsie counter."

What it all means psychologically is even more important, Phlen said.

"It can utterly defeat a pretty girl to have to go home and put her charm in a drawer," he said. "Falsies are insidious. They seemed to answer the problem of the moment but actually made many a girl far more unhappy by being constant reminders she wasn't up to snuff."

He said that was caused by many women feeling they had to overdo a good thing.

"Reason has to enter into this thing somewhere," he said, "or the result will be comical."

NO ACTIVE POLIO CASES

No active cases were reported in University hospitals Tuesday following the transfer of four patients from the active to inactive list.

They were Daniel Butterworth, 5, Bellevue; Carol Carter, 9, Chapin; Bruce Dollenbach, 4, Donnen; Bradley Meisner, 15, Postville.

Treasurer-Seekers Search for 'Lost' Millions

By LORNE S. WADDELL
Central Press Correspondent

MIAMI, FLA. — If there's a shred of truth in the old saying about smoke and fire, Lester Cunningham here is on the brink of recovering a sizable chunk of Florida's $170 million worth of buried and sunken treasure. "Smoke," in this case, is a coral-encrusted anchor and 11 old cannon fished from the Atlantic near Tavernier, Fla., by Cunningham, a diver for a Miami salvage firm. The "fire" is a fleet of 14 Spanish treasure ships which went down in 1715 with $65 million aboard.

With the vagueness common among treasure-hunters, Cunningham says only that he stumbled on his find while diving near Carysfoot reef in the Keys. This treacherous barrier, a ships' graveyard for centuries, is where the 14 galleons came to grief 236 years ago.

He also reports in true treasure-seeker fashion that he found no gold, but he admits that he plans to return and do more searching on the same secret location.

If Cunningham is searching for the Spanish fleet—and it is unlikely that he will confirm it—he is not the first.

Arthur McKee Jr., of Homestead, Fla., combines hobbies of photography and deep-sea diving. While taking underwater movies two years ago, he came upon a sunken galleon in an area he describes only as "3 miles off Key Largo." Key Largo is a large island just north of Traverter.

In the hulk he found three heavy silver bars bearing Spanish markings which experts say date them in the early 1700's. One 70-pound ingot was sold for $1,000 to the Smithsonian institution, and the Washington museum reports that its assay showed 99.36 per cent pure silver. McKee turned down offers to sell the other bars to the Smithsonian, exhibiting them instead in his own museum near Tavernier.

Notwithstanding recent expeditions to Carysfoot reef, the only confirmed salvage was the Spaniards' attempt in 1716. Of all the gold, silver, emeralds and pearls that went down with the fleet, Spanish divers recovered but a small portion—between $700,000 and $1,500,000.

Even that success was short-lived. A fleet of British raiders under Capt. Henry Jennings swept in from Jamaica. His 300-man crew put the Spanish galleon out of commission, and his ships sailed back to the British stronghold with nearly three-quarters of a million dollars.

While Carysfoot reef is rich, there are many other lures for treasure-hunters in Florida. Dozens of rotting wrecks are strewn off the coast between the Keys and Fernandina.

One lies in 50 feet of water within sight of Key West, a hulk which has been identified but never raised. The Spanish galleon Santa Rosa has been there since 1520, but the sea will not give it up, what attracts salvagers is her cargo—some $25 million in Aztec gold, Montezuma's ransom to Cortez.

Cunningham's recent discovery parallels a find in the late 20's off Fort Pierce, Fla. Divers searched an ancient wreck in 25 feet of water and hauled out several coral-encrusted anchors and numerous cannon.

One anchor and two guns now are exhibited in a city park, and two cannon "guard" the city hall. No sign of treasure was reported nor has the real nationality of the ship been established.

Somewhere down off Soldiers' Key there's a cool—and wet—$2 million waiting for someone. This treasure was aboard an unidentified British vessel wrecked in 1829, and there is no record of salvage.

In 1595, the galleon Santa Margarita sailed through the Florida straits and was about to point her prow for Spain when a hurricane hit. Driven by the tropical gale, the ship crashed into a submerged reef and sank with her cargo of $7 million in silver bullion.

No more was heard of the vessel until the early 30's when her hulk was discovered by a diver repairing a submarine phone cable.

Two years later, the diver raised funds in New York, chartered one of Sir Thomas Lipton's former America's Cup challengers, fitted her out with salvage gear and returned to the spot.

Before he could don his diving suit, however, a hurricane roared out of the south and wrecked the ship. He barely escaped, but two of his crewmen were less fortunate. When he came back later, he found that the sandy bottom had shifted and hidden all traces of the hulk.

LAST SUMMER, the Santa Margarita was "rediscovered," this time by John W. Prince of Naples, Fla. He reported that the wreck was buried in drifted sand and that he had recovered several coins and a cannon by dropping dynamite and blasting away some of the sand.

The Santa Margarita's silver is worth looking for, but you may have trouble finding the wreck. A writer earlier this year reported the galleon as lying in San Sebastian inlet north of Vero Beach, Fla. Others have previously given her location as a reef off Palm Beach and as a ledge halfway between Palm Beach and Jupiter.

Still, $7 million is an interesting piece of change. You may want to try hunting yourself, if you happen to have a reliable chart, a $100 state permit, a sturdy salvage ship, a professional diver at upwards of $50 a day, and a "fence" who's willing to help you get rid of "hot" gold and "warm" silver.

Dolphin Club Stars 2 Iowa Swimmers In Annual Show

Two Iowa swimmers will be featured in the 29th annual presentation of the Dolphin show at SUJ Oct. 18, 19 and 20.

They are Beulah Gundling, Cedar Rapids, and Wally Ris, Iowa City. Ris will serve as master of ceremonies for the show and Miss Gundling will present her original solosynchronized swimming composition, Surya. This is the routine with which she won the national AAU outdoor solo synchronized swimming championship at Detroit last August.

This year's performance is titled "Dolphin Showboat" and will be presented four times during the Homecoming weekend. First presentation will take place Thursday evening; the second, Friday, and two performances are scheduled for Saturday night.

Miss Gundling, who appeared in last year's show, has twice won the national AAU outdoor solo synchronized swimming championship. She was also first place winner in the Pan-American trials and U.S. representative at the Pan-American games in Buenos Aires.

She was the first person from the United States to place in the Gale Trophy competition in Canada when she won the solo swimming title there last year. She has recently returned from an exhibition tour of the west coast.

In Surya she has combined authentic East Indian dance movements with swimming strokes and stunts to create the championship routine.

Ris is a graduate of SUJ, where he was captain of the swimming team in 1948 and '49. He holds the record for the Olympic 100-meter freestyle event which he set in 1948. Ris is the only swimmer to win the national AAU 100-yard freestyle championship five consecutive years.

A spectacular double free dive is promised and the Adams twins, Marilyn and Karlyn, Des Moines, will be presented in a synchronized swimming duet. The twins placed in national AAU competition. This is their third appearance in a Dolphin production.

Interpreting the News — Egypt Creates Crises With Demands on Britain

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

It was inevitable that Iran's demonstration of her ability to defy Britain would bring to a head other troubles between British interests and the rising nationalism of the Middle East.

Egypt's position as she creates a new crisis is not an enviable one. Her premier has acted precipitately in what seems to be an obvious effort to make it appear to his constituents that he is forcing something, whereas he knew the British were coming up right at its moment with concessions. His effort to abrogate a treaty unilaterally will not sit well with the nations which are attempting to set up a solid front of cooperation against the threat of a new world war.

Yet it is not to be expected that human beings will not have human reactions. When Britain had the force she used it to make Egypt fit into all her own plans for defense and control of the Middle East and what used to be, much more than at present, the lifeline of India, King Farouk may not be an admirable figure. But when the British poked the gun of a tank almost into his bedroom window during the war, forcing him into cabinet changes to their liking, they could not avoid reaping.

As soon as the war was over Egypt started demanding revision of the 1936 treaty which gives Britain the right to keep troops in the country. That thousands of British men died to protect Egypt from Rome had little meaning for the Egyptians once the danger was over. The prime minister says the treaty was signed when Egypt needed help. That she doesn't need it now. A singularly ungrateful remark, but one which stems back to a belief that England was not altruistic either, and that her economic and military position, not the Egyptians, were her real source of interest at all times.

Britain is now trying to reorganize the defense system she once headed in the Middle East, Britain retired from that system under economic duress after the war, an action which produced the Truman doctrine of American entry into Middle Eastern affairs. Egypt must be a keystone if the new defense idea is to operate. The Egyptians see in the situation an opportunity to win things they have wanted for years—complete control of the Sudan, now under joint British-Egyptian administration, and a final severance of the ties which, since Napoleon, have made Egypt a puppet rather than a partner of Britain in the Middle East.

BLOMMERS TO SPEAK Prof. Paul Blommers, chairman of the board of control of SUJ athletics, will speak on "A Reassessment of Intercollegiate Sports" this noon at a meeting of the Engineering Faculty Luncheon club.

The meeting will be held in the dining room of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Texas Playboy — Would Marry Belly-Dancer — Despite Losses

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Texas playboy Sheppard King, who has proclaimed to the world his intentions to marry a sultry Egyptian belly-dancer with more movements than a three dollar watch, admitted Tuesday there's a small complication—he already has a wife.

But King, who has said he would gladly give up his mother's millions for the shapely Samia Gamal, said he would just as gladly give up his present mate, Gloria.

The 26-year-old King put it this way: "I'd do anything to make Samia my wife. She's a fine, beautiful girl."

Anyhow, he explained, he has been divorced from Gloria once, and secretly remarried her in Dallas last June 2 only because he was thinking of "the best interests of our six-year-old son."

Now, he said, he's made up his mind to go back to Houston, Tex., next month and ask the courts to cut the knot a second time so he can wed the sloop-eyed hoochie dancer.

Gloria gave the complicated marital mixup a twist that would do even Samia proud when she arrived back in New York Monday from Rome where she and King's 18-year-old sister, Patricia, had shared the sights of Rome with the romantic Texan.

Asked about the reported remarriage, Gloria snapped: "I'm not married. And I'm getting damned sick of this."

But King was quite frank in his discussion of his relations with his spouse. Life with Gloria, King said, had proved "totally incompatible."

His remarriage to Gloria in Dallas was kept secret, he said, "because I didn't want my mother to know about it."

"Mother," he explained, "didn't like Gloria and threatened to disinherit me if I remarried her."

And "mother" has made it very clear, by international telephone and cable, that she doesn't like Samia either—without ever having seen her wiggle.

She told Sheppard he'll be cut off from the family till if he goes through with his plans to marry his belly-dancer.

Lolling in luxurious Mena House—the swank hotel in the shadow of the pyramids where some other important decisions were made at the war-time Cairo conference, King said:

"I'd rather have Samia than all the money in the world."

Women's Air Force Needs College Trained Volunteers

Young business and professional women, who are college-trained and have demonstrated marked leadership in their civilian positions, are being offered opportunities to serve their country, and at the same time advance their own occupational careers, as second or first lieutenants in the United States air force.

During the next 12 months, 2,800 such women, 24 to 32 years of age, will be needed by the air force to serve as administrative officers and WAF squadron commanders in this country and overseas, it has been stated today by headquarters of the air force, Selfridge air force base, Michigan.

In its search for qualified candidates for direct commissions from civilian life, the air force is seeking assistance from local and national organizations where young women are rendering public-spirited service. Applicants for these company grade ranks, equal in pay and prestige to those of other air force officers, should be accustomed to working with the public supervisory or managerial experience highly desirable.

The experience required need not have been performed for pay, but may have been acquired while serving voluntarily in such organizations as the Business and Professional Women's club, the Quota Club, the Red Cross, the Community Chest, or other civic business, professional, patriotic and fraternal organizations.

To be considered for direct commissioning in the air force reserve aspirants must have received from a college of recognized standing a bachelor's or higher degree, they may be either single or married, but without dependents under 18.

Women who meet the age, education, physical, citizenship, and work experience requirements, and are otherwise acceptable, will be commissioned and initially assigned to an eight-week indoctrination course. Then they will be assigned to air force activities in this country and overseas.

Whether a young woman's initial appointment will be as a second or first lieutenant will depend on her age and work experience. When an applicant's age is lower than that shown for the grade in which her business or professional background would qualify her, her age will determine the grade. For appointment as a second lieutenant, the applicant must be 4 years of age. She must have at least three years of suitable work experience. Her annual base pay is set at $2565.00. In addition, she is allowed $504 annually for subsistence. When suitable quarters are not available on the base to which assigned, she is allowed an additional monthly allowance of $60.00.

To receive initial appointment as a first lieutenant, the aspirant must be not less than 28 and not more than 32 years old. She must have at least five years of work experience, annual base pay will be $2,992.56, annual subsistence, $504, and the monthly additional allowance for quarters, when not available on the base, will be $67.50.

After a year of active duty service, interested WAF officers, if qualified, may compete for regular air force commissions.

All applications from civilian women should be made directly to the commanding general of the 6th air force, Selfridge air force base, Michigan. Application forms and information may also be obtained at all air force bases or by writing to WAF, Headquarters, USAF, Washington, 25, D. C.

Refrigerators with Something New Are Suggested

How would you like a refrigerator operated by atomic energy?

Would you be interested in a collapsible refrigerator—one you could use in the kitchen, or fold up, pack into your car and set up in a summer cabin? Or a signal light on your refrigerator door that flashes red when ice is being made and green when the cubes are ready to be used? How about an alarm that goes off when a member of the family makes a midnight raid on the food supply?

All these refinements in today's refrigerators—and lots more—have been suggested, according to Donald Dailey, product manager of a leading refrigerator manufacturer, who yearly sifts thousands of suggestions for changes in the kitchen's leading appliance.

"Some of them are impractical," Dailey admits, "but every so often some housewife comes up with an idea that sets us thinking, and sometimes it ends up being incorporated in our line of motorless refrigerators."

Actually, he says, refrigerator manufacturers are eager to know the public's wants and dislikes, whether the ideas are practical or not. "These ideas are the motivating force that bring about an improved product each year. And the wants of today usually become the needs of tomorrow," he adds.

"The widespread demand for frozen foods, for example, one which is still rising, has turned the want for frozen food space in a refrigerator to an actual need," Dailey says. "As refrigerator manufacturers cater to these wants, models manufactured 20 years ago or more become obsolete. These old models while they may be operating satisfactorily, have no provision for frozen foods or the host of other wants which have cropped up in the last decade."

Incidentally, Dailey adds, the signal light on the refrigerator to show when ice cubes are ready isn't necessary these days. The public "want" for more ice cubes has become a need, too, and today's automatic refrigerators are equipped with enough ice trays to handle an average party load.

HANCHER TO SPEAK

U-High Club Officers Elected

Activities at U-High started off with the election of student council president, Oct. 2. Elected to hold the post for his second year was Nick Johnson.

Later in the week elections were held in various clubs. Student Council elected Sidney Winter, vice-president; Mary Vasey, secretary; and Dick DeGowin, treasurer. They plan to go to Ames on Oct. 15 to the State Student Council meeting. Louis Maher of U-High is president of the Eastern Division of the Iowa Association of Student Councils.

U-High's marching band has been holding practices for several weeks in preparation for marching in the university Homecoming parade. The band held elections Wednesday, electing Dick DeGowin, president; Carol Crawford, vice-president; and Janie Crawford, secretary. Several projects are being considered for the coming year. Yankees Trounce Giants, 13-1, To Take Series Lead

McDougald Grand Slams As Jansen Is Routed

NEW YORK (AP) — The World Series blew up right in the Giants' red faces Tuesday, and probably the safest bet on the board is that the New York Yankees will nail down their third straight world championship today in their own ball yard.

In the most slaughter perpetrated in a playoff game for 15 years, the Bombers put the slug on Leo Durocher's wonder boys, 13-1, to run the victory count to 3-2 in their favor and by the savagery of their attack make the final result look a foregone conclusion.

Records were tied all over the Polo Grounds, as Gil McDougald, the Yankees' great rookie infielder, propelled a home run into the left field balcony with the bases loaded in the third inning and Joe DiMaggio celebrated his 50th appearance in a World Series game.

Only two other batters ever matched the feat of the 22-year-old McDougald, who only last season was the most valuable star in the Texas league.

Except for another wonderful job of pitching by Ed Lopat, slick Yankee southpaw, it was a pretty horrible exhibition for 47,530 fans, mostly of the Giants' persuasion, to witness. It was strictly no contest after McDougald exploded to climax a 5-run fifth inning which disposed of Larry Jansen, right-handed Giants' ace.

The stylish Lopat, who learned his early baseball in nearby Central Park, exactly matched his magnificent performance of the second game by throttling the National leaguers with five hits and a single run. Only one Giant reached first in the final four innings as Lopat's mastery reached its peak.

For the Giants the afternoon was a nightmare. They employed five pitchers in an effort to still the Bombers bats, but finally succeeded in doing so only in the final two frames.

Co-starring with McDougald in the 12-hit assault was little Phil Rizzuto, who pushed a 2-run homer into the close right field stands in the fourth off Montia Kennedy. The great shortstop also clouted a single and scored three times.

Better Off at Stadium
Ironically for the Giants, the size of the beating they received probably would have been much smaller had the game been played in Yankee stadium. It is extremely doubtful that McDougald's high fly would have reached the seats at the stadium. Rizzuto's lucky push shot only a few feet from the foul line would have been only a 257-foot out in the Yank park.

The Giants contrived two of their five hits and their only run off Lopat in the first when Alvin

Problems Loom at End, Safety If Injured Iowans Aren't Ready

Problems at end and safety loomed for Iowa Tuesday as several key players continued to nurse injuries that may keep them out of Saturday's clash with Pittsburgh.

The problem has been complicated by the failure of back Bernie Bennett and end Del Corbin to recover from sprained ankles which caused them to miss the Purdue game.

Their return had been counted on to somewhat offset the new crop of injuries that were sustained against the Boiler-makers.

As things stand now three right end and two safetymen are on the injured list.

The ends are Bill Fenton, with a bruised hip; Arnie Caplan, who aggravated an old shoulder injury, and Corbin.

Will Shift Houd
What their condition will be by Saturday can't be predicted now, but should any or all of that trio be out, Coach Leonard Raffensperger indicated that Andy Houg, a sophomore defensive specialist would be moved from the left to right side and several reserves would move up.

Raff cited Don Bjork and Dave DeProspero as likely replacements at the right end spot.

Bjork is a junior from Albert City, who has failed to show the expected improvement that was hinted at in his impressive showing in last spring's drill, while DeProspero is a veteran squad-man with two years of service.

Don Bjork
Replacement at End

At safety, it was thought Bennett would be ready, but he continued to hobble in Tuesday's drills and is now considered unlikely to see much action.

Hess Out
And Jack Hess, who started at safety last week, now appears to be out for a good part of the season as the result of a bruised leg muscle.

Looking better, however, was Corky Reister, and he along with Joe Bristol appear to be the most likely candidates for the position.

Reister is still favoring a hip injury.

Except for the injured men, the Hawkeye squad started work against Pittsburgh plays Tuesday as the reserves, running Panther formations, scrimmaged against the regular defensive unit.

The team also drilled on several new offensive formations.

Hawk Notes: Iowa's statistics showed just about what everyone expected—that Dusty Rice is the Hawkeyes' top runner and pass receiver. For the first two games, Rice has 156 yards by rushing in 22 attempts for a 7-yard average, and has caught five passes for 102 yards. He also leads the team in scoring with 18 points.

Bill Reichardt has 125 yards gained by rushing for a 4.3 average to place him second in that department while Burt Britzmann has hit on 15 of 30 passes for 208 yards.

Iowa has outgained opponents 815 yards to 435 and has a tremendous rushing edge, 553 to 134 for an average of 4.7 per carry to foes' 1.08. Both Iowa and opponents have passed 43 times with Iowa connecting on 19 and foes 21 for 262 and 301 yards, respectively.

Other team figures: total yards kicked returned, 262 to 254, first downs, 29 to 25; 7 fumbles and ball lost 3, to 5 and 4; and 19 penalties for 145 to 10 for 76.

Says Williams Will Quit If Traded by Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Herald columnist Bill Cunningham Tuesday quoted Ted Williams as saying he would quit baseball if traded or sold by the Boston Red Sox.

In a copyrighted story datelined New York, where Cunningham is covering the World Series, the Herald said:

In a telephone call from Princeton, Minn., to New York Monday, Williams said he would emulate Bobby Doerr and break with baseball completely and retire to a connection with a manufacturer of fishing tackle firm if the Red Sox trade or sell him.

"He said," Cunningham continued, "that I sincerely mean this, and I can be quoted."

The story said Williams had seen articles to the effect that the Red Sox are to be broken up and he is almost certain to be the man traded.

Cunningham, quoted Williams as saying:

"I've been happy in Boston. I've been playing for Tom Yawkey. In fact, my only regret is that I couldn't win for Tom."

"So far as this past season goes I thought we had a pretty good year."

U.S. Hits NFL TV Restraint

By HERB ALTSCHULL
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Demanding the end of all restrictions on television and radio broadcasts of sports events, the federal government Tuesday brought suit against the National Football League, accusing it of violating federal anti-trust laws.

The justice department said it picked the NFL for this test case because it is "the worst in respect to having the greatest restrictions on radio and TV of any major sports activity."

The suit asked the U.S. district court to issue an injunction prohibiting the NFL from restricting television and radio broadcasts of its football games.

H. Graham Morison, assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust activity, hinted that if the government is successful in its suit against the NFL, it will take similar action to set free profes-

"If the shoe fits," Morison told a hastily-gathered news conference then we'll see what happens."

The action followed a five-month investigation by the government into the issue of television and broadcasting of sports events.

Morison said: "We feel that the American people are entitled to the right to see or hear what they want."

"We have got to remove these restraints which serve only to the detriment of the public."

He quoted NFL bylaws which establish "territorial rights" for each of its 12 clubs insofar as TV and broadcasts are concerned.

The bylaws say: "No club shall telecast in territory in which (A) game is played without the consent of the home club the visiting club and the commissioner of the National Football league."

Smaller Vet Enrollment Should Boost Grades

By RUSS WILEY

It may come as a surprise to many SUI students to learn that it is easier to earn good grades now than it has been in the past five years.

That is true, at least, if the decrease in enrollment of veterans is any indication.

As William D. Coder, coordinator of the SUI veterans' service, explains it, the huge number of veterans on the campus beginning in 1945 "were largely older men who had learned what they wanted for a life-time job and were more serious in their studies than were nonveterans."

As a result, Coder said, "these men offered strong classroom competition, putting heavy pressure on the average young student in the battle for high grades." Figures released by J. Harvey Croy, assistant registrar, show that 1,361 veterans receiving benefits from the GI bill are enrolled in SUI this semester. That's 19.3 per cent of the total enrollment of 7,067.

A year ago, however, the veterans represented 28.5 per cent of total enrollment. There were 2,604 veterans on the campus at this time a year ago and total enrollment was 9,125.

The peak in veteran enrollment came in the fall of 1946 when 5,800 vets—almost 60 per cent of the entire student body—swarmed to the campus.

Reasons for the decrease are obvious. Most of the vets have graduated. In addition, GI bill benefits have not been offered to new applicants since July 25, when that act of congress terminated.

Coder explained that at the present time the only veterans who can begin a study program with government aid are those in the rehabilitation program, consisting largely of disabled vets.

He added that several bills are now pending in congress which aim for future benefits for veterans. He added that he believes a resumption of the old GI bill is highly possible for Korean war veterans.

The SUI veterans' service was recently moved from a two-story building at 110 Iowa ave. to room B4, University hall. This, and the fact that Coder's office staff has been reduced from six to four employees, help show to what extent the service's duties have been trimmed due to the reduced veteran enrollment.

The following table shows the number of veterans at SUI compared to total enrollment for the six years since the fall of 1945:

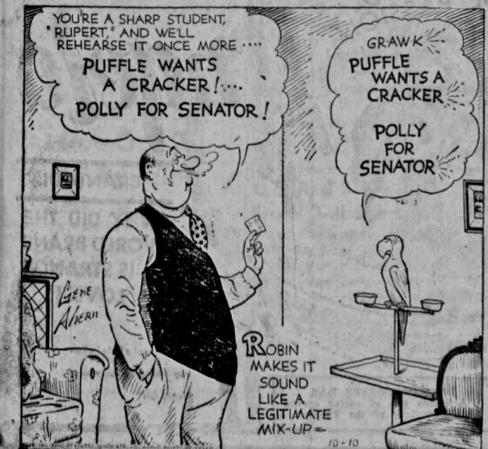

Year	Vet. enrollment	Total enrollment	Vet. %
1945	638	4,744	13.4
1946	5,800	9,770	59.4
1947	5,875	10,239	55.4
1948	5,453	10,886	50.1
1949	4,313	10,383	41.5
1950	2,604	9,125	28.5
1951	1,361	7,067	19.3
1957	2,000	10,200	20.7

SUI Group to Screen Staff Of VA Hospital

SUI hospital officials and the Veterans administration will work hand in hand in staffing the new $10 million VA hospital here, when it begins operation early next year.

A deans' committee from the SUI college of medicine has been chosen to screen all applications from doctors and dentists.

This policy was formulated from a VA ruling which provides that a school located near a medical training center can aid in the selection of medical personnel.

Thirty-four full-time doctors and three dentists will make up the hospital staff. This does not include the interns.

The deans' committee will be headed by Dr. Robert Hardin, associate professor of medicine and assistant dean of medicine for VA affairs.

Other committee members are: Dr. W. M. Fowler, professor of internal medicine and chairman of the executive committee on medicine; Dr. E. D. Warner, professor and head of the pathology department; Dr. Stuart C. Cullen, professor of general surgery and chairman of the division of anesthesia, and Dr. W. A. Bryan, dean of the college of dentistry.

After applicants are screened and approved for appointment, they are referred to the VA in Washington, D.C. for final approval.

Attending and consulting physicians will be selected in much the same manner as the regular staff doctors.

The attending and consulting positions will be filled by physicians and surgeons from Iowa City and neighboring towns or staff doctors from the SUI college of medicine.

Committee members will also act as consultants in matters relating to the residency training program. They will consult with hospital administrators and will supervise all medical research at the hospital.

A training ground for advanced medical students will be set up in the new hospital. A few of the VA doctors may also teach SUI classes.

Officials from both hospitals said Tuesday that the full cooperation between the two will lead to one of the finest medical centers in the nation with an interchange of doctors and students for training, teaching and experimental purposes.

Blue Cross Benefits Available to SUI Staff

Friday is the last day that present SUI staff members may apply for Blue Cross hospitalization coverage. Personnel Director A. C. Marks said Tuesday.

Those staff members who do not apply for Blue Cross enrollment by Friday will not have another opportunity before Oct. 1952.

Check Signal Needs At Street Intersection

A traffic count to determine the necessity of a traffic signal at the intersection of Church and Duquesne streets will be finished this afternoon.

Pedestrian, auto and commercial vehicle traffic load is being totaled by police in the 12-hour check which began Tuesday. The traffic count results from a request for a signal by more than 100 residents living near the corner.

Following are the minimum requirements for installation of uniform traffic signals in the state: 750 vehicles through the intersection in an eight-hour period; 175 vehicles entering from the minor (Church) street in the same period and 250 pedestrians crossing the major street in eight hours.
