Physician Charged With Obtaining Narcotics Illegally

An Iowa City physician remained free without bond late Tuesday night, after he was charged with obtaining narcotic drugs by misrepresentation, fraud and deceit.

Dr. Gerald F. Brown, about 40, an obstetrician and gynecologist, was accused in an information filed in district court by County Atty. William L. Meardon of obtaining the drugs from an Iowa City druggist last July 21.

A bench warrant has been issued for the arrest of Brown, but Sheriff Albert J. Murphy said he had not been taken into custody Tuesday night.

Arrestment of the doctor is expected to be later this week.

The county attorney said the charge is based on an investigation conducted by a federal narcotics agent from Minneapolis, Minn.

Meardon said the investigation showed that Brown used the name of Mrs. June Custer, Muscatine, on a prescription for drugs nearly nine months after the woman had died.

The narcotics agent, according to the information, interviewed Brown Sept. 19, who "admitted that he was a drug addict and that 90 per cent of the narcotic drugs ordered by him on opium order forms was diverted to the personal use of himself and his wife, Dr. Bernice E. Brown, and that they had used all of the narcotics ordered in the name of Mrs. June Custer since that patient's death."

Mrs. Brown, a doctor in the student health department in University hospitals, was reported to be in Psychopathic hospital for treatment.

Meardon said that the federal agent reported that "a large quantity of narcotic drugs was discovered at the residence of the defendant."

The county attorney called the case "pitiful."

Listed as witnesses in the information, in addition to the federal agent, are Florence Heltzer, deputy clerk of the district court at Muscatine and Edward S. Rose, Iowa City pharmacist.

Mossadegh to Leave UN Council; Russia Backs Iran's Stand

FLUSHING, N.Y. (AP) — Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh told the United Nations Security Council Tuesday he will walk out today after making one more speech against Britain's stand in its oil dispute with Iran.

Russia then strongly indicated it will veto Britain's proposal for new Anglo-Iranian talks, thereby supporting Iran's stand.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told the council that UN "intervention in the internal affairs of Iran cannot be permitted."

The aged but alert Mossadegh spoke three times in the course of the council's three-hour session.

First, in a prepared speech, he threatened to "go home" if Britain did not change its stand, and he suggested the council follow suit and forget the oil squabble.

Then he made his departure more definite by asking permission to speak once more today and adding: "Before making my last intervention and taking leave of the council, I should like to have the opportunity to reply to the British delegate (Sir Gladwyn Jebb)." The council will meet at 9:45 a.m. CST and a vote is expected before the day is out.

Iowa's Governor Does Good Deed

DES MOINES (AP) — There was a snarl in the late evening traffic in downtown Des Moines Tuesday—a curbline got stuck at an intersection.

The bus was unable to start because of a break in an overhead wire. The bus driver was waiting for a following bus to give his bus a push.

But before the following bus reached the intersection, a motorist pulled out of a line of cars and gave the bus a push.

The driver of the car, it was Gov. William S. Beardsley.

Prime Minister Of Pakistan Assassinated

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan was assassinated Tuesday by a member of a fanatical religious sect demanding a "Holy War" against India.

The prime minister was cut down by two bullets fired into his chest at point-blank range as he arose to address a meeting of the Moslem league at Rawalpindi, in the Punjab. He had gone to Rawalpindi—a hotbed of agitation between Pakistan and India in their bitter dispute over Kashmir—in an effort to soothe the angry atmosphere in the area.

A howling mob seized the assassin and tore his body to bits on the spot as the prime minister's body slumped to the floor.

Liaquat died at a military hospital to which he was rushed for a blood transfusion that failed to save his life.

Speculation on a successor centered around the present governor of Punjab province, Sardar Abdur Rab Nishtar. However, some sources believed East Pakistan political leaders may make an effort to obtain the prime minister's portfolio for Murl Amin, East Pakistan provincial prime minister.

A sobbing announcer officially informed the nation of his death over the Pakistan state radio, which immediately began broadcasting prayers for the premier.

Authorities identified the assassin as a member of the fanatic Khaksar religious sect which has been demanding a "Holy War" with neighboring India in the dispute between the two nations over control of the Kashmir region.

Radio Pakistan said the man's name was Said Akbar, a member of the Khaksar sect, founded in 1930 by Allama Mashriqi Khan, of Lahore. Allama was jailed four times in the stormy years before the partition of India and Pakistan.

Government officials said Liaquat was shot just as he stood to address the Moslem league meeting.

Taft Thows Hat in Presidential Ring

POINTING-UP HIS VIEWS ON THE REPUBLICAN presidential nomination, Ohio Sen. Robert A. Taft predicted Tuesday that the Republicans would not name him and the voters would elect him to the White House. Taft was interviewed in a brisk question-and-answer exchange by some 150 reporters.

Convicts Attempt Mutiny At West Virginia Prison

MOUNDSVILLE, W. VA. (AP) — More than 1,300 convicts staged a "mutiny" Tuesday night at the West Virginia state penitentiary and were stopped by machine gun fire as they stormed the penitentiary power plant.

No one was hit by the gunfire. The convicts made two attempts to storm the prison buildings but were sent scurrying back to the prison compound each time as prison guards and state police opened fire from the towers atop the 40-foot prison wall.

Warden Orel J. Skeen warned the mutinous prisoners over a loudspeaker that if they passed restricted lines painted on the paved surface of the compound "you will do so at your own risk."

The Homecoming symbol was erected again this year by the Associated Students of Engineering.

Richard Azeltine, E4, Rowan, chairman of the construction committee, said Tuesday night that a lot of work had to be done, but he was confident the monument would be finished by late this afternoon.

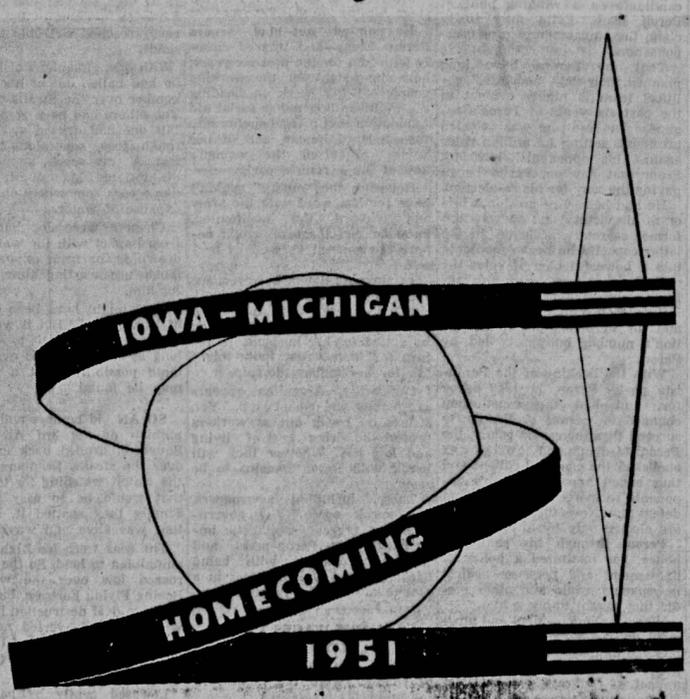

Engineering students have been working on the project each weekend and night since Oct. 8.

This year's monument, designed by Darrel J. Croot, G, Sioux City, was picked from 23 entries in the designing contest open to students and townspersons.

It is mounted on a trailer base for use in the annual Homecoming parade Friday night and will take the lead in SU's colorful pageant.

Measuring 10 feet wide and 15 feet high, the monument represents an inverted trylon and a sphere surrounded by a spiral.

1951 Homecoming Monument

THE 1951 HOMECOMING MONUMENT is an inverted trylon and a sphere surrounded by a spiral. It looks similar to a large wood screw, with the threads going only to the center. It will be mounted on a wheel base and placed on the west approach to Old Capitol prior to appearing in the Homecoming parade Friday night. The monument is 10 feet wide and 15 feet high with the trylon and base in yellow, the spiral black with yellow letters. It was designed by Darrel J. Croot, G, Sioux City.

SOS Reported From Area of Missing Plane

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, MASS. (AP) — Search planes seeking survivors of an 11-man crew aboard a missing air force strato-cruiser Tuesday reported a continuous SOS radio signal and a flickering light in an area about 190 miles southeast of Nova Scotia.

An air force flying boat from Harmon Field, Newfoundland, reported that it had sighted, and then lost the light, but that his radar failed to pick up anything. The search plane's captain radioed he zoomed low over the water where the light was seen but could see nothing in the darkness.

A C-54 search plane intercepted the continuous SOS at 4:30 p.m. CST. It said the distress signal appeared to come from the same area southeast of Nova Scotia.

Before the continuous SOS was picked up, two other faint emergency signals, sent five hours apart, were intercepted by other planes hunting over a wide expanse of ocean for the strato-cruiser which disappeared Monday.

House Rejects $5.7 Million Tax Increase Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house rejected the compromise $5,732,000,000 tax increase bill Tuesday in a stunning upset that left key lawmakers questioning whether any revenue measure at all will be passed this year.

The 203 to 157 vote against the bill surprised even the unusual combination of Republicans and northern and big city Democrats who made up the bulk of the winning side in the roll call.

The forces who turned it back were comprised principally of two groups: (1) Those who oppose a tax increase until government spending is slashed and (2) those who said the bill hit too hard at low income groups and too lightly at large incomes.

"It apparently was a combination of extreme left wingers and right wingers who outnumbered the middle," commented Sen. Robert Taft (R-O.).

The bill, worked out by a senate-house conference committee after senate and house had passed it in differing form, would have raised individual income taxes $2,333,000,000 a year, and made other big changes in revenue law.

The plan was to boost the personal income tax rates by about 11 per cent, with the option of paying at present rates and then adding 9 per cent of what the taxpayer has left. The option would benefit single persons with incomes of $28,800 or more, and married couples above $57,600. At such levels, or higher, the present tax rates already take a heavy percentage of total income.

Tuesday's vote threw a big monkey wrench into the machinery that had been spinning smoothly toward adjournment of congress at the end of this week.

Britain-Egypt Clash In Suez Canal Zone

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Violent anti-British riots and arson broke out in the disputed Suez canal zone Tuesday and British troops opened fire with machineguns and rifles against a howling Egyptian mob which attacked them.

Reliable reports said 12 Egyptians were killed and at least 104 others injured in riots at Ismailia, Port Said and Alexandria. Hundreds were arrested.

The Egyptian government rushed 700 policemen from Cairo Tuesday night to preserve order in Ismailia, seized by British troops after the day's worst rioting in which eight Egyptians were killed and 74 wounded and British installations were put to the torch.

Four were killed and 23 injured at Port Said and seven were injured in Alexandria.

The British agreed to quit the barricaded city of Ismailia as soon as the Egyptian police show they are "capable of maintaining order." The British had barricaded the road leading to Cairo but let through a special train carrying the Egyptian police.

The Egyptian government ordered its troops not to participate in any riots as tension mounted in the strategic area.

The government also took steps to prevent further rioting and Minister of Interior Faud Sirag El Din Pasha said he was taking "stringent measures to ban all demonstrations with every possible means."

British tanks were patrolling the city of Ismailia when the Egyptian police reinforcements arrived. The British also clamped on a 8 p.m. to 8 a.m. curfew.

The violence flared as the Egyptian parliament proclaimed the annexation of the Sudan, a co-dominion jointly administered by Britain and Egypt.

(London reports said Britain was rushing additional troops to the Suez canal zone to cope with the rising tide of nationalist anti-British feeling following Egypt's decision to throw British troops out of the canal zone and the Nile Valley.)

Sen. Brewster Says Leaders 'Stalling' In Jessup Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Owen Brewster (R-Me.) Tuesday accused administration leaders of "stalling" to prevent a senate showdown on confirmation of Ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup as a delegate to the United Nations.

Expressing doubt that Jessup would be confirmed in a senate vote, Brewster said administration forces "evidently know when they are licked."

The Maine senator spoke out after the senate foreign relations committee passed up action on Jessup and chairman Connally (D-Tex.) refused to say whether the full committee will meet again before congress adjourns.

Connally told newsmen the nomination is still in the hands of a subcommittee which has been studying Jessup's background, particularly his views toward Red China.

Jessup has accepted an invitation to return to the witness stand today to reply to charges by Republican leader Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, that Jessup knowingly gave the subcommittee "false testimony."

Mason City Man Dies; Year's 3rd Polio Death

Carroll Gerdes, 34, Mason City, died of polio Tuesday afternoon at University hospitals, officials said. Gerdes is the second polio death from cases admitted in 1951. A third death this year was a case admitted in 1950. Four active polio cases remain at the hospitals.

Gerdes is survived by his wife, Mary.

Ohio Senator Makes Third Nomination Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft formally declared his candidacy for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination Tuesday and predicted that he will be "nominated and elected" on a militant anti-new deal platform.

The Ohio Republican, who will be making his third bid for the White House once occupied by his father, said a survey of party leaders and rank-and-file members convinced him he can wage "the only kind of a campaign" that can win for the GOP.

Anti-Taft forces headed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Sen. James H. Duff, (R-Pa.), are striving hard to swing the GOP nomination to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of the new Western European defense force.

Eisenhower supporters are expected to open their own campaign headquarters soon in Topeka, Kans., and Washington, although the general has not publicly declared his willingness to run. Supporters are sure Eisenhower will indicate his answer soon and that it will be yes.

Taft, whose top-heavy re-election victory in Ohio last year made him an automatic GOP presidential contender, made his formal announcement to some reporters in the huge senate caucus room where he has presided as "Mr. Republican" for years as head of the GOP policy committee.

In three prepared statements Taft declared his candidacy, disclosed his plans to enter the Ohio and Wisconsin primaries and outlined a platform challenging Truman administration foreign and domestic policy.

The Ohio senator claimed he already has the nomination practically in the bag. He said he is assured of the delegates from some states and that his prospects are so strong in a sufficient number of other states "to constitute a majority at the convention."

Taft was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination in 1940 when the party chose Wendell L. Willkie. He stepped aside in 1944 in favor of John W. Bricker who became Dewey's running mate for the vice-presidency.

In 1948, Taft was defeated for the GOP nomination by Dewey who suffered a surprise defeat at the hands of President Truman. Many Republicans are convinced that Taft could have defeated Mr. Truman, who now appears as the most likely Democratic candidate in 1952.

Taft Will Sweep Nation

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-O.) will sweep the nation in 1952 like he did in Ohio last fall.

That's the opinion of former National Republican Chairman Harrison E. Spangler of Cedar Rapids.

"It has been my observation that Senator Taft has more support among the farmers of Iowa and the middlewest than any Republican presidential candidate for the last 20 years," Spangler said when asked for his views on Taft's announcement for the 1952 presidential nomination.

"His general reputation for honesty, integrity, ability and forthrightness is very close to a lot of people."

"I believe that he will do in the nation what he did in Ohio last fall when he won by landslide proportions."

Spangler is Republican national committee man for Iowa. He supported Taft at Philadelphia in 1948 as a member of the Iowa delegation.

Iowa City Grocer Dies at Store

William J. Hildebrand, 68, 21 S. Van Buren st., died of a heart attack at his grocery store, 421 E. Washington st., late Tuesday night.

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth; three sons, Byron and John both of Iowa City, and William, living in Marietta, Ga., and a daughter, Mrs. Mervin Belger.

The body was taken to the McGovern Funeral home for funeral arrangements.

By REP. G. M. LUDWIG

A wife will succeed far more gracefully in reconciling her husband to that new hat if she shows signs of affection for her husband before the bill arrives. The State University of Iowa and Iowa City cannot disregard the state legislature one year and nine months and then expect the consideration they feel entitled to by exuberant "loving" for three months while the legislature is in session. This weekend, during Homecoming, there will be a fine opportunity for the university and Iowa City to express some affection towards the legislature even though the next session is more than one year in the future.

Some of this "loving" has been done well in the past by the extension division of the university under the leadership of Bruce Mahan. Annually the university acts as host to the legislature during Homecoming. All arrangements are once again made to do this same thing this week.

But we can do more than arrange for a formal entertainment on this occasion. Every faculty member of the university, every student, every businessman in Iowa City and every citizen can participate. Any person who is really interested can do some little thing to help make our legislators feel at home. Not that we should overdo the matter; this would be unwise and unexpected. But we should do everything in our power to make these distinguished visitors feel welcome, to give to them that we really want to entertain them, to show them the place, to acquaint them with the intricacies of university life to impress them with the importance of higher education. Let's prove to the state legislature this weekend that the door mat is clean and the latch string out.

Defense Regulations Increase Filings of New Flight Plans

DES MOINES (AP) — A lot of new flight plans are being filed with the Civil Aeronautics administration.

The reason, as CAA officials see it, is that pilots want to comply with the new defense regulations covering air travel over the northern sections of Iowa.

Since the regulations were put into effect Sept. 30 no planes have been intercepted but more pilots are letting the CAA know where they are going and what their routes are.

The requirement, under the rigid defense setup that has been established on a national basis, is that no plane using an altitude of more than 4,000 feet should be in the air unless it can be quickly identified.

Flying farmers and private fliers doing short jumps under the 4,000 foot ceiling are not affected. They do not presently interfere with the air search radar system that is being operated by the armed forces.

But on flights where the 4,000-foot ceiling is to be exceeded flight plans must be filed in advance with the CAA.

As a result of this requirement the scheduled flights listed in Des Moines have increased by about 20 a day, according to Bill Buchanan, who is head of the CAA communications division here.

"It looks as though all the pilots want to make sure that they do not violate any defense regulations," Buchanan said.

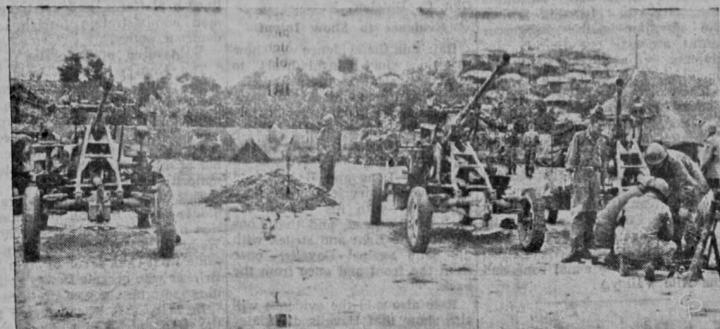

A large part of the increase in flight plans comes from the operators of planes that are handling executive trips.

Others are being filed where the use of aircraft is necessary to get replacement parts for farm and similar equipment.

While radar stations in Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota have been in operation for sometime, the air force has not yet used any interceptor planes to check the air channels.

Sioux City is expected to be a base for the use of interceptor craft under present arrangements, although no details have been announced. Another base may be at Minneapolis.

Army Tests Captured Enemy Weapons

THESE THREE 87-MILLIMETER anti-aircraft guns, Russian-made, were captured near Chang-gong, Korea.

By DAVID A. HELLER
Central Press Correspondent

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md.—A little-known but vitally important program of the United States army—one that pays off in fewer American casualties and greater United Nations striking power—is putting captured enemy weapons and equipment through a series of severe tests to discover their weak and strong points.

When our army ordnance experts get through with a piece of captured enemy equipment—say a 7.26 Detyarev machine gun captured in Korea—they know as much about it as the Soviets do. Sometimes more.

Here at Aberdeen proving ground, where many such tests are conducted, the army maintains a museum of captured equipment. The museum covers many military eras and many wars. It even has a gun that shoots around corners, a bit of genius devised by a German inventor, who rigged the weapon with a bent barrel.

Some day, when current tests are finished, the museum will get some choice exhibits—captured weapons sent back from the battlefronts of Korea by specialized army ordnance intelligence detachments.

These detachments consist of three specialists, usually a captain and two sergeants, attached to front line fighting divisions. Each is an expert in all forms of ordnance.

When a new weapon is captured anywhere along the lines, the specialists are called in. They examine it, make tests, and issue a report. If the new weapon poses a special problem for our troops, the report can be made available to area commanders in a matter of hours.

The experts try to find answers to a series of questions—and fast. What can the weapon do? What are its weak points? What are its strong points? What countermeasures can we take against them?

The answers to these questions are vital. Human lives and American victories depend on them. For example, during the Battle of the Bulge in World War II we defeated the Germans partly with German guns and German ammunition.

The unexpected Nazi offensive caught Allied troops off guard and much American equipment was lost. Fortunately, Allied troops had a backlog of captured German equipment. Ordnance experts had compiled manuals and performance tables of the Nazi equipment and Allied troops stopped Gen. Gerd von Rundstedt with some of his own weapons.

Similar examples could be given for the Korean fighting, but such information is a military secret now.

How does Russian equipment stack up with ours? Ordnance experts say that it is crude but fairly effective.

For example, one Soviet T-34 tank costs only one-fifth to one-tenth as much to build as our Patton and Pershing tanks. However, its life in combat is only a fraction of the combat durability of our tanks.

Red Chinese weapons are almost invariably copies of something made by somebody else—the Japanese, the Germans, even the American weapons. The Reds are especially fond of our M-3 sub-machine gun.

Soviet tanks, armored cars, small arms and artillery are not finished as well as ours. The parts of much Russian equipment

TV Palace

What has come over our Union? What was once a nice quiet spot where one could stop for a few minutes to collect his thoughts in a peaceful atmosphere of tranquility has now become a television palace.

First it was the southeast lounge, then another room and now the main lounge has become the stage for the so-called entertainment seen on television. True, it is admirable of the Union to make national events of interest such as fights, World Series and Senate Investigating committees within reach of the student, but can the Union defend most of the material seen on television as the type of thing most broadening and of most benefit to the student.

Once the Union library was a spot where one could relax with a few minutes browsing; now one relaxes to "Come-on-a-rip-to-my-house" heard from the River Room and Milton Berle from the Main Lounge. Small wonder there is a dreadful shortage of psychiatrists.

One hears the comment made that the manager of the Union and the Union Board want to make the Union "popular", something it reputedly was not before. To do this, television which the students "want" was installed to the point of taking over the Union completely. It seems to me that the Union is missing a point. Instead of giving the students what they "want" shouldn't the students be treated with what they want and what is of good taste befitting a university atmosphere.

If the primary aim of the Union is to become popular and to offer the students what is "wanted" why doesn't the Union install a beer tap and Friday night burlesque.

Northwestern Bell Buys Red Oak Phone Company

RED OAK, IA. — The largest mutual telephone company in Iowa was voted out of existence Tuesday when stockholders voted to accept the offer of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company to buy it for $100,000.

Previously the board of directors of the Red Oak Mutual Telephone company had approved the sale, but a two-thirds majority of the stockholders was also required before the sale could be made. The stockholders voted 449 to 8 in favor of accepting the offer.

Will Eva Peron Seek Position As Ambassador to Washington?

By SANFORD MARKEY

Will Eva Peron be Argentina's next ambassador to Washington? The answer to that eyebrow-titting question may come soon after Nov. 11, the day the voters in the Land of the Pampas elect their next president.

That man is almost certain to be Eva's husband, incumbent President Juan Peron who will become the first president in Argentina's history to succeed himself.

What's more natural than for the general to establish another first—the appointment of the first woman—his wife—as the Argentine's ambassador to Washington? This becomes even a possibility when one considers that for a short while it appeared that the president and his wife, 29-year-old Evita, were to become the first "Mr. and Mrs." political team to be elected president and vice-president of a nation in this hemisphere.

Last August, in a carefully-staged nominating rally, Mrs. Peron was asked to become vice-president to her husband. She held off acceptance until she could quiet army opposition. This she could not do, and so, tearfully, she yielded to incumbent 67-year-old Hortensio Quijano.

Frustrated in this attempt, Evita may turn her attention to another long-cherished ambition—an official invitation to visit Washington; to be received with all the pomp and circumstance attached to such a visit.

This invitation has never come. Newsmen now are speculating that she may ask her husband to make this wish come partially true by naming her ambassador to Washington. As a "retired" top candidate on a winning political Peron team, Evita may justly claim the ambassadorship as compensation.

That the Perons have long planned their "Mr. and Mrs." political team is highly evident in the past six years of Peron's regime. In 1946 he was elected president, getting 1.5 million votes against his opponents' 1,220,000. From that day on, Peron began paving the way for his re-election. He had been vice-president prior to his victory and he was also former secretary of labor. In the latter capacity he began moulding into a powerful bloc of votes the nation's labor force. With him was Evita, who soon became a major influence in both the labor group and the Peronista party, the nation's number one party led by Peron.

With the backing of the Peronista party, Peron, in 1949 asked for, and had the constitution changed to permit presidents to succeed themselves. Last July, the Peronista-dominated congress abolished the electoral college and thus ended hopes of Peron's opponents to merge their votes and defeat him. Now, future presidents are elected only by direct vote.

Peron, through his controlled police, has instituted a policy of harassment and pressure against newspapers, radio and other media that sought to oppose him. When the independent and powerful daily, La Prensa, constantly opposed him, Peron had the newspaper closed in January, and, by an act of congress, expropriated. His opposition charge they can not get police permits to hold meetings; they can't buy radio time, and their newspapers are barred.

Peron, however, has also seen to it that he has opposition in forthcoming elections so that he can claim his return to office was a mandate of the people.

Senora Peron

A new election law makes it mandatory that opposition parties nominate candidates and participate in elections, even though they face harassment and little opportunity to reach the public.

Having muffled the opposition, Peron paved the way for his nomination at the August rally. Even though the general was the central figure, he merely set the stage for the "missus."

He pointed out how Senora Peron—Evita—had worked closely with him for the past six years; how she fought for the working people; for her work in heading the multi-million dollar social aid foundation that pours benefits into thousands of homes, and of her having organized the women's unit of the Peronista party.

However, the "missus" couldn't have the last word with the army and yielded the nomination, knowing that the army could depose the general as well as herself.

In stepping down, however, she reminded the women of the work she had done for them, and asked them to show their appreciation by voting for her husband. In return for their votes, Evita might ask for her ambassadorship.

Outwardly, Argentina appears prosperous and content. Yet, strikes do break out as workers protest the rising cost of living and low pay. Whether they will break with Peron remains to be seen.

Those, including newspapers, who speak against the government are tagged "capitalistic imperialists" by Peron-press, and they are charged with being backed by the United States in a plot to destroy the Peron regime.

New Airborne Lifeboat Aids Fliers Forced Down At Sea

By ANDREW BOONE
Central Press Correspondent

TOKYO — Joe Dougherty probably would be considered pretty unimportant, just one man among countless who battled for Korea. If he died, he was just one more name on a casualty list that already reached well into the thousands.

With other members of his crew, he had bailed out of his disabled bomber over the Straits of Korea. The others had been rescued. But this one had drifted away in the rough seas, separated from the rest. A tiny speck, supported by his inflated Mae West, floating like a cork somewhere on the vast expanse of water.

Chances were Joe had died— from impact with the water, from drowning, or from exposure. Not much use wasting time hunting for him.

That might have been one way of looking at it. But it was not. The way of ARS is to search so long as there remains even a remote possibility that a survivor may be found.

SO AN old bomber and an amphibian of the 3rd Air Rescue Squadron dropped back and forth over the straits. Scanners studied the water, watching for the speck that would be so easy to miss. Finally they spotted it, a figure that was alive and waving.

The seas were too high for the amphibian to land. So the bomber roared low over the waters—a Boeing Flying Fortress, built originally to deal destruction in World War II, but converted now to a life-saving career. From the belly of the plane fell not bombs, but an A-3 lifeboat.

Landed gently by parachute, the lifeboat landed within 50 feet of Joe and he climbed aboard. Even then the work of the planes was not finished. It did not end until they had directed an air force rescue boat to the scene and the flyer was on his way to safety.

The rescue was typical of the work of Air Rescue Service, war and in peace. The very existence of ARS is typical, in many ways, of one fundamental of which America itself is founded—the importance of the individual. It costs a lot of money to keep ARS in operation, for the saving of a comparatively few lives. But it is worth it.

Units of Air Rescue Service are scattered around the globe. Whenever American planes fly, they are within reach of the long arm of ARS. Its air-search and rescue work is available to both the military and civilian, and to other countries which request it.

Typical of the way ARS works is Flight D of the 2nd Air Rescue Squadron, based at Anderson air force base on Guam. This outfit is responsible for all search and rescue operations over approximately 800 miles of ocean stretching from Iwo Jima, halfway to Kwajalein and halfway to Manila. To do the job, it has nearly as many men as miles of ocean, plus 25 aircraft and dozens of surface vessels at its call.

RESCUE MISSIONS in the Guam area begin in a small room, known as the Rescue Co-ordination center. It consists of a semi-circular desk and a large plotting board which represents the unit's area of responsibility.

When an aircraft fails to make an hourly report of its position, control promptly alerts the rescue-duty officer. If no further report from the plane is received within 90 minutes, the rescue unit goes into action.

The aircraft of Flight D are equipped with the latest in lifeboats, the A-3. It's an all-metal job, with self-inflating chambers which right the boat if rough water has turned it over. Aboard is food enough to last eight men 30 days, and condensers for converting salt water to fresh. Aboard, in fact, is almost everything but a television set and bed-room slippers.

FACULTY NIGHT AT CURRIER

Faculty guest night at Currier hall women's dormitory is every Wednesday evening. This week's guests will be Prof. T. G. Rosenmeyer, English department and Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Hoyt of the history department.

When the Fourth Iowa Small business clinic convenes at Waterloo Nov. 4, at least 25 Iowa women will be there to tell how previous clinics helped them develop their businesses.

The clinics are sponsored by the Iowa Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, to provide professional advice for women with marketable inventions or ideas. The Iowa Development Commission and SUI are co-sponsors. Among the "success stories" the clinic will feature is that of Mrs. Joy Welterien of Manchester, who brought samples of her family-recipe salad dressing to the clinic last November in Cedar Rapids. At the clinic, Mrs. Welterien received suggestions on labels and packages from SUI professors in commerce and advertising. The Iowa Development Commission located a bottle manufacturer who would supply a distinctive bottle, obtained copies of pure food regulations, and discussed a trade name which would connote the food living for which Iowa is famous. Now Mrs. Welterien's dressing is on the market. Among others on the program are Mrs. Alta Poole, Harlan, who is in the feed business; Mrs. Marianna Hanna, Jefferson, who runs a berry decorating service; and Mrs. Ethel Baldwin of Shenandoah, who has developed a new potting soil.

Chief speaker at the clinic will be SUI President Virgil M. Haner, who will give the luncheon

Two-Faced Cooking Can Save Time

There are lots of ways in which working women can save time and prepare unusual menus too. Cooking two main dishes at once will produce good food with a minimum of effort. The idea of two-faced cooking is that while you're cooking tonight's dinner you can prepare the major portion of tomorrow's and each one will be different. Add salad, rice, potatoes or noodles—a dessert and dinner is ready. This two-faced cooking can be accomplished with meat, fish, or even spaghetti. To prepare two meat dinners at one time, buy a whole shoulder of lamb. Since this will probably be about 7 or 8 pounds in weight, have the butcher bone the chop part of the shoulder and cut the rest up for stew. Marinate all the meat in a fifth dry red wine, seasoned with rosemary, parsley and thyme. The bones pieces can then be cut up and speared on skewers. Alternate the pieces of meat with tomato quarters, mushrooms and onions and then broil until brown. While you're eating the first dinner start the second one cooking. Combine the rest of the lamb with carrot strips and whole onions and simmer in the liquid for about 2 hours. All you have to do when you get home from the office the next evening is to reheat the stew and you have a quick second dinner. Desserts can be two-faced, too. A half of a sponge cake can be used for mock short cake one night—the other half soaked with brandy and topped with whipped cream can be dessert the next meal time.

Band Leader Mooney Started Career As Linotype Operator

Art Mooney, who will play for the "Homecoming Holidays" dance Saturday night at the Iowa Union, never intended to become a band leader. He started his career after high school as an apprentice linotype operator on the Detroit News. But before that time he played the saxophone and organized a small band. As a side line, while working as a printer, he played with several bands in Detroit. One day, while at work, he switched his name with Glenn Miller's in an announcement, and it was printed. It cost him his job, but launched a very successful career. One of his first hits on record was the recording he made of "Mahzel," followed by the phenomenal success of "I'm Looking Over a Four-Leaf Clover." Novelty tunes have always been a specialty of Mooney but he realizes the public's demand for slow danceable music and has combined a successful ratio of the two. Tickets for the dance, which will be from 8-12 p.m., are still available for $3.60 per couple at the Iowa Union desk.

Former Iowa Citizen Wins Award

Mrs. Marina Ann Ries Strittmatter, formerly of Iowa City, and her husband, Mr. C. P. Strittmatter, won the twentieth annual Mom's and Dad's day "A" blanket award for having the most children-enrolled in the University of Arizona this semester. Mrs. Strittmatter, whose brother operates the Ries Iowa book store, received her B.A. degree from SUI in 1925, and moved to Tucson, Ariz., the next fall to teach school. She married Mr. C. P. Strittmatter, a University of Arizona student, and they have resided in Tucson since then. The award was presented to the Strittmatters during halftime ceremonies at the University of Arizona-West Texas football game. Six families were tied for the "largest number of children" event, but the Strittmatters won the prize when it was found that their children had the highest scholastic average of those in the competition.

Medical Faculty Meets

The medical faculty will hold a dinner meeting at 6:15 p.m. today in the doctor's dining room in University hospital. A business meeting which will start at 7:15 p.m., will include reports on the council meetings and standing committees. T. L. Carr, faculty secretary, urged all members to attend the meeting even if unable to attend the dinner.

Make-up Fashion Enhances Tones

This fall, make-up is more important than ever. With fabrics so rich in the wonderfully neutral shades... the deep-tones plums, the grays—especially charcoal, the warm browns... color at your lips, nails, eyes must add the emphasis, the vibrance which sparks your overall appearance. The working woman will find lipstick and nail polish fall into one of three categories, and each shade should be chosen with an eye to the color of the costume as well as to the color of the skin. The tawny, coppery reds which animate the browns, the greens, the rusty shades of fabrics so much in fashion this season... the blue or lilac-toned reds which have an affinity for the plums, the dark reds, the blues and purples... the fire engine reds which pinpoint a black or gray ensemble.

Even Swimming's High Pressure—

You might think that a so-called minor sport like swimming would escape the commercialism and high pressure tactics prevalent today in college athletics.

Certainly it's not a money making endeavor and there's no great amount of publicity attached to it. But, nevertheless, the zeal with which certain colleges go after high school swimming prospects is comparable to the now common-place tactics used on prep football stars—the scholarship, the board job, and the "incidentals."

Dave Armbruster

Two recent cases, in particular, point this out clearly, and in both instances Iowa was an interested party.

One concerns Ford Konno, the fabulous Hawaiian youth, who already has taken his place among the all-time tank greats.

Konno had been breaking all kinds of swimming records since his sophomore year in high school, and naturally enough, there wasn't a college coach in the country who wouldn't have done a few dozen cartwheels to land the young man.

Iowa, a national power in swimming since the end of World War II, was one of the interested schools. Moreover, there was considerable optimism here that Konno might choose the Hawkeyes since several of his good friends are, or were members of Coach Dave Armbruster's teams.

That wasn't to be, however, once the real big boys started working in earnest.

As any swimming devotee can tell you, the "big boys" are Ohio State, Yale, Michigan and Michigan State.

Michigan's efforts in this case are especially interesting. The Wolverines, according to a story related to us by an Iowa student and close friend of Konno's, had a prominent alumnus contact the governor of Hawaii who was supposedly to use his influence to steer Konno to Ann Arbor.

But even wealthy Michigan lost out here when Ohio State, with the inexhaustible funds of the "Front Liners," landed Konno on the inducement of what one Big Ten swimming coach swears is free room, board, tuition, books, $100 a month, and the promise of a new car.

New Car Swayed Gora

Then there was Ronnie Gora, from Lane Tech in Chicago, who swims the 100 as fast as Wally Ris ever did.

Gora had attended a couple of Dolphin sponsored picnics here, knew Ris and other Iowa swimmers, and was seemingly headed here, or at least strongly considering it.

But Gora is now at Michigan, with the gift of a new car by a Michigan alumnus in Chicago apparently doing much to sway him, or so the grapevine says.

Things weren't always that way as Jim Counsilman, Iowa's assistant swimming coach and former Buckeye star, can attest.

"I was a national champion in high school and when I graduated only Ohio State and Yale contacted me. Today I would have received at least 30 letters from college coaches," Counsilman said.

"Before the war, there were only a few schools that would go out after swimmers but now the competition is much more widespread and it's that much harder to attract good high school swimmers here."

Those sentiments have been repeated many times by Armbruster, who still continues to produce fine teams despite the rising competition.

Getting back to Gora, another factor that can account for his choosing Michigan was that he was taken along as a "guest" on the Michigan swimming team's tour of Europe last summer, on money no doubt obtained from the 90,000 crowds that watch so many Wolverine football games.

Most schools, however, don't have much left over for swimming after the football and basketball squads are provided for, which means that relatively few swimmers are subsidized.

But, as Konno and Gora can verify, if you're good enough and know the right people, the sky's the limit even in this supposedly simon-pure sport.

Beat Texas

Arkansas Governor Orders Win

By CARL BELL

LITTLE ROCK, ARK. (AP)—Gov. Sid McMath and the President of the University of Arkansas Tuesday issued proclamations ordering Arkansas to perform a football trick it hasn't done in 13 years—beat the Texas Longhorns.

The Razorbacks will be hosts to Texas, the nation's fourth ranking team, at Fayetteville Saturday. It will be the first time they have met on the Arkansas campus since 1934, the annual rivalry having been reeled off at Austin, Tex., Little Rock or Memphis, Tenn., for the past 16 years.

Taking cognizance of Arkansas' long victory drought in this South-west conference series, the Governor and University President Lewis Webster Jones proclaimed this as "Beat Texas Week."

Governor McMath—an Arkansas alumnus—went on to "order, bid, enjoin, direct, charge and command the Arkansas Razorbacks to fill themselves on wild acorns—of which we have a fine crop—and proceed to de-horn the Texas Longhorns, individually and collectively, and to tie each of their tails in a running bowline."

The Governor observed that 13 is an unlucky number—"for long-horns."

Dr. Jones' proclamation, his first in the five years he has headed Arkansas, declared that "the Longhorns are in danger of becoming conceited by their frequent victories over Arkansas and for the good of their souls should taste defeat now and then."

However, all this pre-game pep is not expected to be productive. The experts, almost to a man, are picking the Longhorns to make their 1951 conference opening a successful one.

Wolves' Attack Worries Iowa

Hawks Work Against Tricky Single Wing

Iowa got its first look at Michigan plays Tuesday, and most of the Hawkeyes were pretty much impressed with what they saw.

Although it was an unpolished group of Iowa freshmen running the Wolverine formations, it was evident that the tricky single wing attack employed by Coach Bennie Oosterbaan could cause the Hawkeyes a lot of trouble.

The Iowa defensive platoon generally agreed that it is loaded with deception not encountered thus far this season.

Tricky Optional Play

The Hawks were especially concerned with the Wolves' optional play where the tailback—usually Bill Putsch—starts wide and either runs or passes.

The Michigan attack also employs reverses and spinners with fullback Don Peterson hitting hard up the middle.

Whether or not tackle Pete Spanjers will be in there to bolster the Iowa defense Saturday is still not known.

Reports Improvement

Spanjers, suffering from a torn ligament in his knee, jogged around the practice field Tuesday and reported an improvement.

And Trainer Doyle Allsup believes Spanjers may be ready for part time duty.

Otherwise, only Jack Hess, is definitely out for the Homecoming contest.

The latest set of statistics continued to point up the fine job turned in by the Hawkeye defensive unit against rushing plays.

Opponents have gained a mere 217 yards rushing in three games for an average of 1.9 yards per play.

Iowa Has 4.3 Average

Iowa ball carriers, on the other hand, have picked up 769 yards for a 4.3 average.

It's another matter on pass defense, however, for the opposition has connected on 35 of 69 attempts for 521 yards and four touchdowns.

Quarterback Burt Britzmann has a 490 passing percentage on 27 completions in 55 tries for 411 yards and five touchdowns.

His top receiver is Dusty Rice with eight for 174 yards and three scores. Fred Ruck also has caught eight, but only for 94 yards.

Loranzie Williams and Rice pace the Iowa running game with a 7.6 and 6.3 average respectively. Williams has carried 17 times to 32 for Rice.

Complete statistics for the first three games:

WEAVER INELIGIBLE

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Ed Weaver, the only returning regular from the 1950 Army football squad, was declared ineligible by the academic department Tuesday. The 6-foot-3, 205-pound end from Kingston, N.Y., is deficient in one subject and will be sidelined until he makes up the work.

Frank Howell
Has Bad Ankle

Bright Leads Field In Total Offense

NEW YORK (AP)—"Mr. Offense" is the new name for Johnny Bright, the great Drake tailback who is working on his fourth mile.

The 200-pound Negro back, the all-time record ground gainer in college history, is pacing the nation's major teams in total yardage, rushing, and scoring, according to figures released by the National Collegiate Athletic bureau today.

That's nothing new for Johnny. He's led the pack for the last two years in ground gaining and it looks like the only way he can be stopped this year is by a steel net.

The Iowa college senior boosted his all-time yardage to 5,674 when he ran for 202 yards and passed for 84 more in leading Drake to a 26-6 victory over Detroit Friday night.

Michigan Loses Howell for Iowa

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (AP)—The Michigan football camp got bad news Tuesday with the announcement that Frank Howell, speedy halfback from Muskegon, would miss the Iowa game Saturday and probably will be out the rest of the season.

Howell, counted upon to give the Wolverine backfield additional punch, has a broken bone in his ankle.

The team went through a long non-contact drill Tuesday that consisted largely of signal drills and pass plays. Tom Johnson, regular tackle, was put to bed with a cold but is expected to make the trip to Iowa City.

Today's session will be the last in Ann Arbor before the Iowa game, since the team will leave for Chicago Thursday evening with one practice scheduled for Cedar Rapids Friday.

McMillin Lost For Rest of Season

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Illness forced Philadelphia Eagles coach Alvin (Bo) McMillin to the sidelines Tuesday for the rest of the 1951 season and Assistant Coach Wayne Millner, former Notre Dame great, was named to succeed him.

McMillin, 56-year old Detroit Lions coach and general manager, joined the Eagles this season but has been able to coach only one game due to an ulcer condition. He has a three-year contract.

McMillin underwent an operation at St. Mary's hospital last Friday, but team physician Dr. Thomas Dowd deemed it inadvisable that he continue his coaching chores "for the balance of the year."

The stomach ailment, which has been plaguing McMillin for some time, originally sidelined him on Sept. 30 as the Eagles met the Chicago Cardinals in Chicago. At that time he gave way to the 38-year-old Millner, who has played end for and coached the Washington Redskins among other professional football teams. The Eagles won the game, 17-14.

James Clark, Eagles President, said the 1951 loss of McMillin "is a keen disappointment." "But if it will contribute to his return to good health that is a real consolation," he added.

Farm System Destroying Baseball, Says O'Connor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leslie O'Connor, who for 23 years was one of commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis' closest advisers, said Tuesday farm systems are destroying organized baseball.

O'Connor told a house judiciary subcommittee that the late Judge Landis never liked the farm systems. But, O'Connor said, "Judge Landis did not oppose it as much as I do."

Under the farm system, a major league club owns or controls minor league teams. The subcommittee, studying whether baseball violates anti-trust laws, has been casting a critical eye on the farms.

Controls Many Players

O'Connor said that the rules say no team can control more than 40 ball players. "But by the farm system," he said, "it actually can control hundreds of players."

He contended that this isn't good for the player, the minor leagues or, in some cases, the major league clubs which go in for farming.

O'Connor now is a Chicago lawyer, and also is counsel for the Pacific Coast league.

Here are some of the objections O'Connor raised:

Ball players—Under the farm system they're largely limited to the organization with which they sign.

Minor leagues—They have been cut off from many sources of revenue that they had before, such as sale of players.

Advice from Garver

The committee also got some advice, by mail, from Ned Garver, $18,000 a year pitcher with the last place St. Louis Browns, is on a barnstorming tour.

In answer to a questionnaire sent him by the committee, he suggested a plan whereby players on second division clubs could get

Hoeksema Sold To Detroit Tigers

Dick (Hooks) Hoeksema, former Iowa pitcher, has been sold to the Detroit Tigers by the Quad City Tigers.

Hoeksema, who had an 11-10 record with the Quad City team last season and an earned run average of 2.51, will report to Williamsport, Pa., of the Class A Eastern league next spring.

Hoeksema is currently attending SUI and working on his masters degree.

THE light conditioned home is today's big new idea for home comfort and beauty. It's a home where the lighting follows exact recipes prepared by America's top lighting experts . . . a home where the world between your walls seems as bright, as cheerful, as inspiring as all outdoors.

Light-conditioning can be achieved with table and floor lamps as well as with the latest improved lighting fixtures.

For example, to provide the best light for reading, a floor lamp should be placed at a spot measuring 15 inches to right or left of the reading material and then 26 inches from that point toward the back of the chair or davenport.

With lighting recipes such as this, every seeing task, every room in your home can be "light conditioned" . . . at little cost. For 21 other home lighting "recipes", stop in—get your free copy of the new lighting booklet, "See Your Home in a New Light."

Police to Adopt New Patrol Plan Buy More Cars

A new police patrol expansion program will include the addition of three new patrol cars and a change from the two-man patrol policy to a one-man operation, City Manager Peter F. Roan said Tuesday.

With the addition of the new police cars which have been ordered, both business and residential districts will be more effectively covered, Roan said.

Detective Oliver A. White of the local police department left Tuesday for Wichita, Kan. to spend two days studying the one-man operation there. Practices for the one-man cars here will be patterned after Wichita's successful plan.

When the new program goes into effect here, two patrol cars will be in operation during all daylight hours and three cars during the night.

"The one-man patrol is not new to cities in the United States," Roan said. "Des Moines is the most recent city in Iowa to inaugurate one-man cars although they have been in operation in such cities as Berkeley, Calif., Chattanooga, Tenn., Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Wichita for the past 20 years."

Roan listed these advantages of the one-man system: maximum distribution of manpower, more extensive coverage of patrol areas, smaller beats, prompter service, more frequent inspection of known hazards, increased awareness of police protection, increased efficiency through greater self reliance and initiative, and lower cost of operation.

A recent survey by the International City Manager's association shows that a total of 624 cities, 86 per cent of those furnishing police data for the 1950 municipal year book, are now using one-man patrol cars.

Rembolt to Speak To State Society

Dr. R. R. Rembolt, director of the State Services for Crippled Children, will be speaker at a noon luncheon during the annual meeting of the Iowa Society for Crippled Children and Adults to be held in Des Moines Oct. 27.

Dr. Rembolt, through his efforts in the interest of crippled children, has greatly increased the number of services available to the society in a constant effort to bring help to the physically handicapped persons of Iowa.

Boy Found Unconscious Is In Fair Condition

Jack Vincent, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Vincent, who was found unconscious Sunday in the driveway of his farm home near Iowa City, was reported in "fair" condition by Mercy hospital officials Tuesday.

The boy is suffering from a broken pelvis, broken left leg, a concussion and kidney injuries. Authorities have not been able to determine the cause of injuries, but speculated that he may have been struck by a car.

PROFESSIONAL SCOUTING

Earle K. Behrend, deputy regional executive of the Boy Scouts, will be in Iowa City Thursday to talk with college juniors and seniors interested in investigating a professional scouting career.

An appointment may be made by contacting the SUI placement office, 111 University hall, or the local Boy Scout office.

City to Receive Bids On New Uniforms For Police, Firemen

City officials will advertise Monday for bids on more than $6,000 worth of new uniforms for policemen and firemen.

With the decision made last week, Iowa City became the third city of its size in Iowa to provide uniforms for these two departments.

City Manager Peter F. Roan said that the new outfits for the policemen will be "French blue" and will consist of two pairs of trousers with a dark blue stripe on the outer leg seams, two wool shirts, an overcoat and a cap. The uniforms for the firemen will be regulation dark blue.

One member of the Iowa City police department already has an idea how he'll look in his new uniform, soon to be purchased at City expense.

"Why, we'll look just like the SUI band!" exclaimed the lawman, who preferred to remain unidentified.

The cost to the city will be about $150 per man. A credit of $10 per man will be set aside by the city each month for uniform replacement. At the present time men in both departments pay for their own uniforms.

The Iowa legislature in its last session granted Iowa City authority to provide the uniforms and the move was recently approved by the city council.

Patient Care Increased at SUI Hospitals

A total of 19,367 patients were admitted to University hospitals during the fiscal year ending July 1, 1951, an increase of more than 1,100 over the figure for the previous year.

These patients accumulated 274,328 patient-days during the year, according to an announcement of annual statistics by University hospital officials. One patient receiving medical care in the hospitals for a 24-hour period constitutes one patient-day. Outpatients, who receive examination and treatment without occupying bed space, totaled 29,276.

The figure for patient-days represents an increase over the 1949-50 year while out-patient registrations took a slight drop. Other figures showing an increase were births, 1,249, and operations, 9,255. In addition, hospital personnel performed 13,749 minor surgical procedures, including emergencies.

The hospitals performed 98,618 laboratory examinations, issued 154,711 prescriptions, performed 51,282 physical therapy treatments and 6,702 blood transfusions. The dietary department served 1,528,022 meals, while laundry processed totaled 2,687,790 pounds. The social service office handled 7,409 cases.

Total number of hospital personnel has increased slightly over the previous year. Seventy-five staff physicians, 103 resident physicians and 17 interns were on call. The hospitals employed 185 graduate nurses with 287 student nurses in training. Medical clerks totaled 86, other professional hospital personnel, 81, and other general hospital personnel, 619.

Refuse to Reduce Bond on Masterson; Indicted for Stabbing

DES MOINES (AP) — District Judge Tom K. Murrow Tuesday overruled an application by defense attorneys for a reduction of the $20,000 bond for John Masterson.

Masterson, 24, was indicted last week for assault with intent to commit murder in connection with the stabbing of Theresa O'Connor, 23, on Sept. 11 during Mass in St. Ambrose cathedral.

Masterson was taken to the men's reformatory at Anamosa for safe keeping after a scuffle with other prisoners in the Polk county jail. He will be returned here this week for arraignment on the indictment, First Ass't. County Atty. Ed Fitzgerald said.

Masterson's attorneys contended that the $20,000 bond was excessive and prevented him from posting bond for his freedom. Fitzgerald resisted the defense move for the bond reduction.

Defense attorneys said they plan to file a written application to provide for a psychiatric examination of Masterson at the University hospitals at Iowa City.

Masterson told police he stabbed Miss O'Connor because she had told him she didn't want to see him anymore.

Miss O'Connor, who was stabbed several times in the back, was released last week from Mercy hospital and has gone to the home of her parents in Reinbeck.

4 Persons Claim the $5,500 Found Sewed In Swindler's Shorts

CHICAGO (AP) — Sigmund (Marryin' Sam) Engel, 76-year-old lothario, testified Tuesday that the $5,500 found sewed in his underwear belongs to none of the four persons who claim it.

"Someone left me it for bail," Engel said loftily, and added that he still has a few dollars tucked away in his underwear.

The dapper, white-haired lover was brought from state penitentiary, where he is serving a term for swindling Mrs. Resetta Corrigan, to be the central figure in a court wrangle over his money.

The claimants are his former attorney, Mrs. Corrigan and two other amours.

The two others are Mrs. Pauline Langton of New York, who claims she is Engel's "one and only wife," and Mrs. Florence Barrete, Chicago, who contends that Engel absconded with her money and jewelry, totaling $12,000.

Engel said that he still has $40,000 of the money he was carrying in June, 1949, when he was arrested in the Corrigan case. But he was vague about where he got it.

"It was outside of Chicago, I know, and it was legitimate," he said.

Hotel Searched For Link With For Link With

DES MOINES (AP) — County Attorney Clyde E. Herring said today that evidence seized in a raid on the Cargill hotel early last Sunday was being examined for possible connections with a mid-west prostitution ring.

A major objective of the raid was to find out if underworld interests in Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City might have some branch agents in Des Moines, Herring said.

Eighty officers moved into the Cargill early Sunday, seizing business records, whisky, guns, and $40,000 in cash.

Seventeen persons were arrested, including eight women who hid behind a secret panel in an upper floor closet for six hours. "The women, all nude, were stacked like cordwood when we finally broke the secret panel out," Herring said.

Police Continue Searching For Stolen Baby

MICHIGAN CITY, IND. (AP) — Police sifted numerous reports of women seen carrying babies Tuesday amid waning hopes that newborn Lawrence Lyons, kidnapped from a hospital crib Saturday, will be found.

Investigators were confronted by no less than five reports of women seen carrying babies or bundles.

"We're checking all angles," said Det. Capt. Charles Hanke. "But there are still no concrete leads any place."

The seven-day-old infant vanished from his crib at St. Anthony's hospital in an abduction that roused this Lake Michigan shore community.

Reward money climbed to $2,500 and volunteers fanned out again Tuesday to search for a possible body.

The search area was the lake shore after all vacant lots, abandoned buildings and trash cans had been checked in the city proper.

One tangible clue was provided by "Carty," a German shepherd dog trained in tracing scents. The dog sniffed at the missing infant's crib blanket and traced the scent to the curb of the hospital's Ripley street entrance.

The trail ended at the curb, but investigators said the dog's clue tended to support the tip of an anonymous caller Monday night, who said he saw a woman in a green coat leave the Ripley street entrance with a bundle in her arms Saturday and enter a car at the curb.

City to Receive Bids On New Uniforms For Police, Firemen

City Manager Peter F. Roan said that the new outfits for the policemen will be "French blue" and will consist of two pairs of trousers with a dark blue stripe on the outer leg seams, two wool shirts, an overcoat and a cap. The uniforms for the firemen will be regulation dark blue.
