Hawkeyes To Test Big Ten Champs

Egypt Pulls Troops from Suez Zone

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - Egyptian tanks and artillery pulled back toward Cairo Friday from the bustling British defense perimeter along the Suez canal. But Egypt made a new threat on paper to kick out the British and Moslem extremists demanded "revenge" on British troops. The canal area was sealed off and placed on a firm British war footing. The British embassy disclosed Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed Salah Ed Din delivered a note of "general protest" against continued presence of British soldiers on Egyptian soil. The French-language newspaper La Bourse Egyptienne reported the note begins an Egyptian policy to get tough with the British. It said Egypt is asking the British to get out and says if they don't, "Egypt will be obliged to take adequate measures to prevent British military domination of the canal region." Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, commander in chief of British middle east land forces, returned to the Suez by air today from London, presumably with orders to hold the canal with the garrisons and reinforcements pouring in. The withdrawn Egyptian armored forces had been posted on the Cairo-Suez highway yesterday at the height of tension over the first clash between Egyptian and British troops at El Ferdan bridge Wednesday.

"Let's Not Horse Around with Michigan"

THIS MERRY-GO-ROUND FLOAT with the slogan, "Let's Not Horse Around with Michigan," was awarded two first place trophies at the Homecoming parade Friday night. Built by Hillcrest men's dormitory, the float won first in the single division and first in the dormitory group. The float was sponsored by the Iowa City Restaurant association. More parade pictures appear on page 8.

Hershey Discloses 47% of Freshmen Fail Deferment Test

WASHINGTON (AP) - Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey disclosed Friday that 47 per cent of all freshmen who took the college draft deferment test last spring and summer failed to make a passing score of 70. The figure was revealed in an analysis showing what percentage of each college class scored high enough to merit deferments as students. Hershey reported last week that of the 339,000 students in all classes who took the examinations, 37 per cent failed. He did not give a breakdown by classes until Friday. There was not geographical breakdown. His figures mean that the 125,431 students who failed to make a score of 70 probably will be called into the armed forces unless they can convince their local draft boards they stand high enough in their classes to deserve deferment. Selective service boards are granting draft deferments on the basis of either test scores of 70 or better or on high class standings. The class-by-class breakdown showed that failing marks were made by 38 per cent of the 104,000 sophomores who took the test, 29 per cent of the 77,000 juniors and 24 per cent of the 38,500 seniors. A total of 98,000 freshmen took the exam. The test was designed to measure capacity to learn and selective service officials said it "presupposed no schooling beyond the ordinary high school preparation for college." Officials explained that seniors did better than freshmen only because the brighter students reach the senior class of college and others drop out along the way. The poorest showing of all was made by 1,000 high school students who were not supposed to take the test but managed to anyway. Only 17 per cent passed.

Hillcrest Double Winner In Largest SUI Parade

By ROBERT HESS

Hillcrest dormitory carried off two first-place parade awards for their trophy case Friday night, as the largest pageant in Homecoming history wound its way through downtown Iowa City. An estimated 18,000 persons lined the mile-long route in brisk 38-degree weather for this third annual affair. Judges awarded Hillcrest the first prize trophy in the single division and the Elks club handed them a traveling award in the dormitory division for their revolving merry-go-round float. Phi Kappa Sigma received the Kiwanis award for the best fraternity entry. Their dragon float was runnerup to Hillcrest in the single group. The combination entry of Phi Delta Theta-Pi Beta Phi won top honors in the multiple division with their Mother Hawk float. Sigma Alpha Epsilon-Phi Gamma Delta was second. Two traveling trophies were given to sororities by the Lions Club. Zeta Tau Alpha was tops in the single group and Delta Gamma-Sigma Phi Epsilon won the award in the multiple division. Other float awards in the single division included: Sigma Chi, Psi Omega, 4th, and Delta Sigma Pi, 5th. Iowa City Boy Scout troop No. 2 was awarded a trophy for the best entry in the group of under 18 years of age. Jack Shelley, news director of station WHO, Des Moines, was chairman of the judging committee and handed out the awards. Other judges were: Harry Boyd, editor of the Cedar Rapids Gazette; L. C. Bagley, Audubon, president of the alumni association, and Dr. George Scanlon, Iowa City physician. Awards were based on originality of design, ingenuity of construction, beauty and humor. Immediately following the parade, an estimated 5,000 Homecomers crowded around the reviewing stand to whip up enthusiasm for today's game. Al Coupee, sports director of station KRNT, Des Moines, was master of ceremonies. Speakers included President Virgil M. Hancher, Paul Brechler, director of athletics; L. C. Bagley, president of the alumni association.

Hancher, Holland Greet Homecomers For University, City

President Virgil M. Hancher and Mayor William J. Holland Friday rolled out the welcome mat for SUI homecomers. The texts of their greetings follow: May I extend my warmest welcome to all the guests of the university who are with us for the celebration of Homecoming this year. To the returning friends and alumni, we are glad to have you back. To those who are attending a Homecoming celebration for the first time, we are happy to have you here and hope you will return annually for our Homecoming weekend. The university - its students, alumni, faculty and staff - and the residents of Iowa City have all worked together in organizing the program for this weekend. The Homecoming parade, which is becoming a traditional feature of the pre-game activities, represents the efforts of students, civic groups, musical organizations from Iowa City and surrounding communities, with the support and assistance of the local business firms. The engineers have constructed the corn monument, the Dolphin show is being presented at the Iowa fieldhouse. Everything will be climaxed by the football game with Michigan this afternoon. We hope the dance at the Iowa Memorial Union this evening will be a victory dance. It is a pleasure to have you with us to celebrate such a fine tradition as the SUI Homecoming. Virgil M. Hancher, President TO IOWA STUDENTS, ALUMNI, AND FOOTBALL FANS: In the name of the people of Iowa City, I extend to all of you a warm welcome during this 40th annual Homecoming. You will find the home of the state university a friendly town. The facilities of the city are available for your use. This promises to be a big affair and city officials want you to enjoy it thoroughly right up to the finale of the Homecoming dance. Have fun - Iowa City's welcome mat is out for you. William J. Holland, Mayor

UN Council Shelves Oil Dispute; Waits World Court Action

FLUSHING, N.Y. (AP) - With Iran boycotting the session, the United Nations security council voted Friday to shelve any action on the Anglo-Iranian dispute until after the world court makes a final decision. The vote was 8-1, Russia voting no, with Yugoslavia and Britain abstaining. The final court decision is expected in late January. The council action came after support for an American-backed British proposal calling for new talks suddenly collapsed. However, the British, much harried by troubles throughout the middle east, did have the satisfaction of seeing the council in effect reject the Iranian demand that the case be thrown out at once. The vote came as an anti-climax after a dramatic week-long debate highlighted by the appearance of Iran's premier, Mohammed Mossadegh, who flew here on a sickbed to plead his country's case. With the council debate having solved little or nothing in the festering oil dispute, the scene now shifts to Washington. The hope is that, when Mossadegh calls on President Truman next Tuesday or Wednesday, the groundwork will be laid to revive direct Anglo-Iranian talks - outside UN jurisdiction - as soon as possible after the Oct. 25 British elections. The Iranians have left the door open to new negotiations - but not under UN jurisdiction. Mossadegh announced Wednesday he would boycott Friday's session "because we do not accept any recommendations or advice from the security council." The Iranians here frankly admitted the paralysis of their oil production is fast bringing economic ruin. They are known to be carrying on negotiations to hire non-British technicians to re-start production with representatives from several countries, notably Sweden.

Allies Retake Hill In Battle for Kumsong

SEOUL, Korea (SATURDAY) (AP) - Allied forces today threw Red defenders of Kumsong off a hill on the central Korean front. The Communists had taken it during the night in a counter-attack supported by a heavy mortar barrage. Allied infantrymen were withdrawn in 2 miles of the former Red bastion some 30 miles north of parallel 38. The Red hub is under heavy Allied artillery fire. Chinese attacked desperately twice last night, a pooled dispatch from the central front said. One attack gained ground but the Chinese were unable to hold it. Farther east the second battalion-size Communist counter-attack was repulsed, and United Nations infantrymen moved ahead another 300 yards in the early morning hours. In the west, where Red resistance had collapsed temporarily northwest of Yonchon Thursday, Chinese infantrymen on Friday fought off an Allied infantry attack with rifle fire and hand grenades.

Korean Reds Get Stalin's Greeting

MOSCOW, SATURDAY (AP) - In an exchange of greetings, Prime Minister Stalin today wished success to the Korean Communists in their "struggle for freedom and independence." Stalin's message was in reply to a telegram from Kim Il Sung, North Korean Premier, which declared that "the help and support given us by the Soviet Union are a firm guarantee of victory in a just war." (The exchange between Stalin and Kim was similar to messages that have passed between them on previous occasions. It marked the third anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic and economic relations between North Korea and the U.S.S.R. Publication of the exchange followed the disclosure in Washington Wednesday that Moscow had rebuffed a U.S. proposal, made by American ambassador Alan G. Kirk Oct. 5, that Russia act to bring about an armistice in Korea.)

Congress Seeks to Quit; Passes Tax Bill, 5 Others

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress, working swiftly toward adjournment today, finished work on a $5,691,000,000 tax increase bill and several other important bills Friday. (See story on right for details of the tax bill.) Other important actions Friday: The house and senate both passed compromise bills raising many postal rates (the penny post card will be two cents), and increasing the pay of 1.6 million government workers in the post office department and civil service. The pay raises will cost $673 million a year; the postal rates will go up a total of $117 million. Holds Up Vacation The senate passed a $4,020,198,000 appropriation bill for military construction. The house previously had passed a similar one, and agreement on a final version is one of the few things remaining before congress can go on vacation until January 3. Senate and house conferees agreed on a $7,328,903,976 foreign aid bill and both houses will act on it tomorrow. This was an appropriation; the program had previously been authorized. A presidential veto of a bill to give up to $1,600 toward the purchase of an automobile for each of certain disabled veterans was overridden by the senate, 55 to 10. Unless the house follows suit, however, the veto will stick. No Action on Jessup Nine of Truman's nominations for delegates to the UN sailed through the senate, but it took no action on a controversial 10th one, that of Philip C. Jessup. Jessup had been accused by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) - and had denied the truth of the charge - that he had an affinity for Communist causes. A congressional resolution ending the state of war with Germany was signed by the president quickly, even as Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) sought to recall it from the White House. McCarran said congress had mistakenly worded the resolution so as to leave it open to the interpretation that the U.S. could still seize German property in the United States. It appeared that congress might get out of town in the afternoon today, rather than drag into the night as has sometimes been the adjournment pattern. Many members had advance plane and train reservations already in their pockets. Bills still pending when congress quits won't die; they may be pushed again when the lawmakers come back in January. Library Open 4-6 University library will close at noon today, but will be open from 4 to 6 p.m. in anticipation of receiving Homecoming visitors.

Michigan Here For 1st Time In 14 Years

By JACK SQUIRE, Daily Iowan Sports Editor Michigan's somewhat tarnished but still formidable Big Ten and Rose Bowl champions make their first Iowa City appearance since 1937 as Iowa's Homecoming guests today. The occasion will be duly observed by an expected capacity crowd of 53,000. Game time is 1:30. This, of course, is a big one for the Hawkeyes. In addition to the Homecoming incentive, Iowa will be seeking to improve its conference rating which currently shows a 34-30 defeat to Purdue against no victories. In non-conference play the Hawks have fared better, scoring wins over Kansas State and Pittsburgh.

Beat Indiana

Michigan, on the other hand, dropped its first two starts, both non-league games, but came back last week to start defense of its crown by thumping Indiana, 33-14. But the Wolverines, judging from losses to Michigan State and Stanford, are a few notches below the Michigan caliber of recent years. Thus, a close, wide open affair is anticipated, with the contest rated an even-money game in most circles. Iowans will be getting their first look at the famed Michigan single wing attack employed so effectively by Coach Bennie Oosterbann, and his predecessor, Fritz Crisler.

Still Have Talent

And while the likes of Bob Chappuis, Bump Elliot, Chuck Orman, and other famed names no longer dot the Wolverine roster, Oosterbann has enough talent on hand to present a dangerous team. Key man in the Michigan attack - which features reverses, spinners, and other types of deception, is Bill Puteh, who runs and passes from left halfback. He is supported by fullback Don Peterson, who will hit up the middle in the spinner plays. Wes Bradford, a fleet 152-pound right halfback, and Ted Topor, who handles the blocking-back assignment in the single wing and plays quarterback on the few occasions Michigan switches to the "T."

Perry, Johnson Outstanding

Some of the biggest names on the squad are found in the line where end Lowell Perry and tackle Tom Johnson are rated outstanding. Perry, in addition to being a left receiver and rugged defensive performer, also runs and passes on an effective end-around play. Johnson is a 227-pound bearcat on defense. Another sturdy Wolverine is Roger Zatkoff who rivals Iowa's Chuck Denning for Big Ten linebacking honors. Against this capable opposition, Iowa will present to the big Homecoming gathering its most explosive and spectacular team in years.

Hawks Develop Passing

This has been accomplished by the development of a good passing game to go with the power running of all-conference fullback Bill Reichardt and the speed of sophomore halfbacks Loranzie Williams and Dusty Rice. Britzmann has been bothered by a sore shoulder all week and has not thrown at all in practice. But he was confronted with the same situation last week when he came editorials The High Cost of Dancing

The Iowa Memorial Union reported Friday that only one half of the 800 tickets to Saturday night's Homecoming dance have been sold. The tickets are priced at $3.60 a couple.

From the response, it is evident that the price of this university dance is too high. We should like to think that it is the lack of coin and not spirit that may prevent a sell-out crowd.

Why should all-university dances be so expensive? Has the Union Board examined their own pocketbooks?

How many students can bear this cost? How many students can carry this cost on the campus' most expensive weekend?

After paying for the folks' football tickets, seats at the Dolphin show and a Homecoming mug, even the Homecoming badge pinches the well-punctured budget.

In our opinion to tax students an additional $3.60 is uncalled for at this time.

Is the Union Board aware of the high cost of dancing? Yes. Are they doing something to remedy the situation? No!

Just who on campus wants name bands at this price?

The Daily Iowan believes that more open houses utilizing local talent would be welcomed by students. Such occasions would serve to build school spirit and pride in the Union as something more than a "television palace."

Remember the success of last year's Club Cabaret?

In our opinion there is no choice between high priced entertainment for the few and open houses for the many.

The Union is for all SUI students with or without $3.60.

It is the Union Board's duty to serve the greatest number even at the expense of abandoning the traditional and now inflated all-university dances.

Let's not make the Union a rich man's club.

Welcome Home Alumni—

It's quite the fashion to attack alumni groups lately. Our magazines and newspapers are filled with such attacks nearly every day.

In such articles, alumni are lumped together as "pressure groups" whose sole motive in life is to fire the football coach at good old State, or good old Normal or good old cow college. Somehow it seems inconsistent that the nice guys we knew a year ago were suddenly turned into ogres merely by being awarded a diploma. We don't believe the great mass of alumni are ogres.

Open for Inspection—

Homecoming has many different meanings to the hundreds of campus visitors—but to the SUI family it means one thing, we're open for inspection.

The governor and members of the legislature together with the alumni are here to look us over.

A word of warning is due here. An overzealous student or bitter faculty reception may prove harmful to the SUI cause.

We agreed with Rep. Ludwig who said recently in this column that SUI should not over-do the welcome. It would be unexpected, insincere and unwise.

We can sincerely welcome these distinguished guests by being gracious hosts, willing to go out of our way to show the university's facilities and explain the problems connected with higher education in 1951.

The presence of visiting bigwigs on campus reminds us of that old proverb, "You can do more with honey than you can with vinegar." And you can

By LEE GARNER

Nothing strikes more terror into husbands, unbalances more economics and prefigures the destruction of more households than the announcement "I think I will take up knitting."

Beside such a phrase, "Tighten the slack in the noose" is a relatively cheerful remark. At least it contains the promise of immediate future relief.

Every year some 6 million (well, it seems like that many) coeds alone fall for that line about whipping up expensive woolen things by knitting them at home dirt cheap. Out of these, 1 million fall for another line and get married.

The rest go on knitting and hoping. Garments pile up. Life, if not the yarn, gets into a fine tangle.

In the hope of impressing prospective grooves, coeds took to knitting in class. This saved time as nobody was taking notes anyway. Besides, what goes in one ear of a woman comes out the mouth of another, so why take notes?

We have heard of several professors who have fuddled up by the most important points of their lecture by lapsing into "knit 1, purl 2, cast on 6, decrease 3," under the sudden impression they were conducting a knitting class.

Some of them still insist that they were, but these are all now safely put away in nursing homes.

There is nothing like knitting to keep our minds on the music at concerts. We no longer have to worry about different composers and compositions. Every selection sounds like a Spanish number with a muted castanet section.

If we wanted to exaggerate we could say that university concerts resemble faint background music for large chow mein dinners, complete with chopsticks, being held in the same room. But we shall stick strictly to unadorned facts.

We have been exposed to knitting at first hand. We herewith append a short ledger of debit charges to date for one pair of mittens:

2 skeins red yard at $1.10 $2.20
4 needles at 2 for $25.....50
3 instruction books.....1.05
2 hours, shopping, misreading instructions, exchanging yarn at $6.00 per hour.....$1.20
1 1/2 hours, knitting at $6.00.....$9.00

3 doz. burned oatmeal cookies at $35 a doz.....1.05
Soap and water for rinsing.....free.

Total $15.30

The results shrank. That is an understatement. We now use them for soup spoon covers. It is a tight fit.

We know a better way to come out with a lumpy snarl of loosely tied knots. We suggest turning a cat loose for one hour with a ball of yarn in a dark room full of spindle chairs.

We will match the product with anything we have ever encountering in the line of home knitting.

Interpreting the News - Politicians Moral Laxity Can Lose Cold War

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

The latest exchange between the United States and Russia over the possibilities of a truce in Korea is interesting, but merely a tactical propaganda method of pointing up how Russia talks peace while contributing to war.

Something else is going on in the United States which is more fundamental.

The report of the Douglas senate committee which has been studying the ethics and moral standards in government brings into focus a situation affecting not only a domestic operation, but the nation's entire standing in the world.

Washington is constantly appealing to the country for unity in facing the problems of the day. Among which the cold war looms largest. Yet by their actions public officials are constantly tearing down the public faith on which unity must be based.

Callous political trickery for personal profit, and sometimes worse, has been brought to light in practically every department of the government, federal and local.

The Douglas committee pointed out that the public and congress condones and the business men who get involved with public figures in such deals are just as much to blame.

Religious and civic leaders have been just as alarmed about personal morality among Americans. It is hard to tell whether any of it is worse than it always has

Strong Man Peron Faces Election With Confidence

AP Newsfeatures

Having crushed a recent anemic revolt, President Juan D. Peron of Argentina faces the Nov. 11 presidential election with complete assurance.

For the 36-year-old strong man, Peron controls radio, has muzzled the press, can restrict public meetings, and throw opposition members in jail for criticizing public officials. To clinch matters, a law prohibits coalitions in elections.

Peron studied Mussolini methods when he went to Italy in 1939 with a military mission. In 1943 he joined an army clique which overthrew President Ramon Castillo. Then as vice-president, minister of war and labor secretary, he played ball with the workers, put his men in key army posts.

Forced from office and imprisoned by a coup in 1945, he came back to power a week later, riding the crest of a labor strike which tied up the nation. He married Eva Duarte, then 26, and won the presidency in 1946. He began a nationalization program, purged universities.

Last year Peron got a 125 million dollar credit from the United States to bolster trade. He has given no material support in the Korean war.

Born near Buenos Aires of Italian descent, Peron graduated from the National Military College, became professor of tactics there, later was military attache in Chile. Tall, handsome, energetic, he begins work at 6 a.m., is fond of strenuous sports.

His-wife, now the most powerful woman politically in the western hemisphere, recently withdrew as her husband's running mate when opposition developed to having a woman in so important a post.

Up to Legislators—

TO THE EDITOR:
"To act on principle and not on persuasion" would be a fine motto to be hung in all rooms in the state capitol building. This is not to infer that legislators do not act according to the unwritten code of ethics which guides public officials.

Rather it is a reply to G. M. Ludwig's editorial which appeared in Wednesday's Daily Iowan. Surely the state officials do not need to be convinced of the importance of higher education. Their own positions should be evidence in itself of a common knowledge of this fact.

If it is not, then the Iowa citizens would do well to select more carefully the men they elect to these positions.

Why should the university be compelled to pamper and cajole these men in order to obtain the consideration to which they are entitled. The university is not a separate body apart from the legislature; it is a part of the state and the direct responsibility of it.

If the legislators fail to accord it the importance of its being by a refusal to grant appropriate funds, no amount of entertaining or flattery of the officials should be undertaken to change their minds.

Rather, it should be the requirements of the state to change the officials in the legislature.

This is not to dispute Ludwig's claim that these men are entitled to respect and honor when they come to Iowa City. That is assumed by any person of average intelligence.

It is, however, up to the legislators to acquaint themselves with the "importance of higher education" if they have not already done so.

It would be far more valuable if these men would come to the university, not to be entertained, but rather, to observe and note for themselves the needs of this institution.

Printing the News?

TO THE EDITOR:

I'm from a country way back on the confines of civilization. Let's be more explicit and make no bones about it; I'm a barbarian. It is certainly exhilarating to be among people who have progressed so much further than we have towards realizing the essential dignity of man.

Out there we're so primitive we still recognize the permanence of the marriage bond. Here you're so advanced you swap wives and families with your neighbor, much like the young savages at home swap postage stamps and match labels!

Congratulations on giving such prominence to the Irvin-Shields trade agreement made at Rock Island the other day. If that was your way of demonstrating that America leads the world, more power to your elbow!

I for one was greatly impressed and look to you to sponsor the invention of a slot machine which will disgorge wives at two for a quarter. That would be a big stride forward, and if I know anything there would be a lot of money in it, too. So go to and good luck!

I should like this chance to praise the Highlanders for their increased repertoire as evidenced at last Saturday's game. Keep up the good work, girls, and more Scotch, please.

LA Committee Nominations Must Be in Monday

Nominations for standing committee members of the college of liberal arts must be in the registrar's office by Monday noon, Dean Dewey B. Stuit said Friday.

The faculty nominates by secret ballot from lists provided by the registrar. Eligible members are selected from the faculty of the humanities, natural science and social science groups.

The committees consist of an executive committee, nine members; educational policy committee, nine members, and adjustment committee, three members.

Only one member of a department shall be eligible to serve on a particular committee at one time. The faculty nominates three times the number of representatives to be elected to any committee, nine members, and adjustment committee, three members.

Stuit explained that some duties of the executive committee include assisting and advising him in conduct of college business as elections and emergency meetings.

Other tasks are cooperation with the dean on matters of policy regarding professional welfare of the faculty and to supervise codification of rules and regulations.

The educational policy committee evaluates courses and programs. Members consider changes in curricula, and needs and requirements of the college in regard to grading, admission, good standing and degrees.

The adjustment committee determines scholarship status of students. Members study the rules and regulations pertaining to students and recommend changes when needed.

This committee has actual contact with students, Stuit said. Membership includes, besides the dean and three faculty members, the registrar, dean of students, and the administrative officer of the advisory office.

Laughter—Tears —

First Play Makes Hit

By WAYNE DANIELSON

Terence Rattigan's "The Winslow Boy," a play with a jugful of laughter and a jigger of tears, opened Friday night at University theater.

The story is a moving tale of a father's defense of his youngest son, accused of stealing a postal note from a friend at military school. On the surface the father seems to go to extravagant lengths to clear his son's name, but underneath is the universal fight for human dignity.

William Smart played the part of Ronnie, the Winslow boy, with realism, although at times it was difficult to picture him as an unshaven youth.

Robert Paulus made something memorable out of the part of Arthur Winslow, father of the boy. Jerry Silberman gave an impish performance as the boy's older brother.

The key part of Catherine Winslow, Ronnie's sister, was played by lucent Gail McClintock, a spirited actress with a remarkably resonant voice.

Stephen Joseph strode through the part of Sir Robert Morton, famed lawyer, with a mixture of callous cynicism and restrained sentiment.

Though the play as a whole was pleasing, the plot wore thin in the third act, and the dialogue was occasionally too pompous.

The pre-World War I costumes were by Margaret Hall, a designer with good taste. The lighting was by Walter S. Dewey, and Lewin Goff directed with judgment.

Although the cast may be hampered occasionally by windy dialogue and a sometimes-tired plot, "The Winslow Boy" should enjoy a successful eight-day run at University theater.

Missouri Solon Asks President To Fire McGrath

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three New York agents were suspended Friday in a widening probe of internal revenue scandals, and in the house a demand was made for the dismissal of Atty. Gen. McGrath.

Rep. Bakewell (R-Mo.) accused McGrath of trying to impede the St. Louis phase of the internal revenue investigation. He introduced a resolution asking the house to go on record in favor of having President Truman fire McGrath.

Bakewell charged that the attorney general, the nation's chief law enforcement officer, "sought to interfere with the administration of justice when he attempted to divert a grand jury in St. Louis from its investigation of charges against the former collector, James P. Finnegan."

McGrath has denied obstructing the investigation. The latest suspensions were handed out to Ralph P. Demayo, Jack Neustadt and William H. Dettmer Jr., who appeared before a house ways and means subcommittee Thursday for questioning about their outside income.

A fourth agent in the New York bureau, Mordcaim Miller, was summarily suspended last night, an hour after he refused to make a full disclosure of his financial affairs before the subcommittee. About all that Miller admitted was that he had four bank accounts.

Demayo acknowledged Thursday that he neglected to report $2,000 in horse race winnings on his own income tax returns. Dettmer said he made about $6,500 betting on harness races.

Neustadt refused to say anything until he talked with his lawyer.

In a statement accompanying his McGrath resolution, Rep. Bakewell said in part, "it is a very serious offense to interfere with the administration of justice. When the man charged with enforcing the law seeks to prevent its enforcement, he is absolutely unfit for his position."

Medical College Alumni to Meet

About 20 former residents of the department of medicine in the SUI college of medicine will meet today for a special "alumni" meeting in conjunction with Homecoming.

A scientific session will be held this morning after which the returning doctors will visit in the department.

Participating in the roundtable discussion will be Drs. T. Lyle Carr, assistant professor; and Robert C. Hardin, associate professor, both from the department of medicine; J. E. MacFarland, Ames, and Lucien Ide, St. Joseph, Mo.

Following the Iowa-Michigan football game this afternoon, the group will conclude their one-day meeting with a dinner at the Iowa City Elks club.

U.S. Ends War With Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman late Friday signed a congressional resolution ending the state of war with Germany.

There was no immediate statement from the President in connection with his action. The White House simply announced he had signed it.

The senate adopted the resolution Thursday by a voice vote. The house had approved it last July. The resolution became effective as soon as the President affixed his signature. It means the Germans no longer are enemy aliens in the eyes of this country.

Among its practical effects of these: it clears the way for possible reestablishment of a German embassy in Washington, makes it easier for Germans to travel to this country and do business, and permits Germans to sue in American courts.

Gaffney Considering Baculis' Demurrer

District Judge James P. Gaffney has taken under advisement a demurrer filed by the attorneys of George Baculis, charged with the fatal stabbing of Andrew Davellis last fall.

Baculis claims in the demurrer that the indictment against him refers to a section of the Iowa Code which states various ways in which murder can be committed, and therefore he is charged with several crimes instead of one.

Gaffney said it will be several days before he rules on the demurrer which asks dismissal of the murder indictment against Baculis.

Senior Art Student Draws 'Interlude'

Iowan Cartoonist Seeks New Twist

GETTING A LINE ON HUMOR, Frank Interlandi, senior in the art department, follows his ambition of getting, and giving, a laugh from the commonplace. Interlandi draws the cartoon, "Interlude by Interlandi" which appears in the Iowan. "I like to give a new twist to an everyday occurrence," he says, "and draw a little enjoyment for the readers."

Frank Interlandi, SUI's newest "good humor" man, looks for the lighter side of life. And in so doing, he likes to pass along his views for the entertainment of others.

This he does through a cartoon, appropriately titled "Interlude by Interlandi," which appears in The Daily Iowan.

"I think most people take things too seriously, especially in regards to everyday occurrences," the cartoonist said.

Frank said he watches for these "everyday occurrences" and then tries to apply a little twist toward the humorous side when he sits down to draw.

The object is two-fold, he said: to let himself enjoy drawing and to point out to other people how ordinary things can be humorous.

Senior art major, Interlandi came to Iowa this semester. Previously he was a part-time student at Northwestern University, working as a layout man with a Chicago advertising agency.

Hailing from Elmhurst, Ill., he has had drawing "in his blood" since he was too young to remember. His cartooning is done just as a side attraction to his serious study in art. He said he did a lot of cartoon drawing for a service newspaper while a GI.

As for the future, Interlandi is undecided. He said he expects to be graduated next August, but after that he hasn't decided whether to study for a master's degree or return to an advertising agency.

Hospital Staff Member Attends Conference

Helen Ersay Chase, administrative associate at University hospitals, returned this week from the annual conference on public personnel administration in Detroit, Mich.

The conference was sponsored by the Civil Service assembly of the United States and Canada, consisting of panel and group discussions of the problems of the trained personnel shortage.

The topic of discussion on Miss Chase's panel was "de-skilling" the nurses' job. The panel was concerned with training unskilled workers in certain phases of a nurse's job so the trained personnel could be freed for more technical work.

Lincoln Experts To Dedicate Collection Here

Prominent Lincoln collectors and scholars from throughout the country will gather at university library Nov. 19-20 for the dedication of the 3,500-volume Bollinger Lincoln collection.

Judged by Clyde C. Walton, curator of rare books at the university library, as one of the six most important Lincoln collections in the country, the collection is a gift from the late Judge James W. Bollinger of Davenport. A student of Lincoln lore, Judge Bollinger spent years assembling the collection, valued at $50,000. It consists of manuscripts, autographed Lincoln books, volumes written about Lincoln, pictures, and objects associated with the Civil war president.

Friends of Bollinger, Lincoln collectors and scholars and Iowa officials will attend a banquet and address Nov. 19 opening the dedication. Paul Angle, director of the Chicago Historical society, will be the guest speaker, according to Walton, who is in charge of the program.

The Nov. 20 program will feature a series of addresses in the Shambaugh lecture room of the university library and a luncheon at the Iowa Memorial Union. Guest speakers will be Harry Pratt of Springfield, Ill., state historian of Illinois; Ben Thomas, Springfield, Ill., one of the editors of the Abraham Lincoln Quarterly; Charles Lynch Jr., Cedar Rapids attorney, and Louis A. Warren, director of the Lincoln National foundation at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Bollinger died recently at the age of 83. The former Scott county district judge graduated from SUI college of law in 1889.

Princess Margaret's First Beau Marries

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret watched her first sweetheart get married Friday.

She stood in St. Margaret's church and saw Susan Hornby, daughter of a wealthy publisher, become the bride of the Marquis of Blanford, son of the Duke of Marlborough and heir to fabulous Blenheim palace.

The tall, pink-cheeked young nobleman used to hold Margaret's hand in night clubs and ask band leaders to dedicate sentimental number to the dark-haired girl with "the prettiest blue eyes in the kingdom."

Fashionable St. Margaret's, whose stained glass windows were the gift of Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain, was jammed with more than 1,200 royal and noble guests for Britain's wedding of the year. Some 20,000 commoners clogged the streets and sidewalks around the church and the adjoining Westminster Abbey and houses of parliament.

Commandant Protests — Grab Part of U.S. Zone

— Russians Hand It Back

BERLIN (AP)—United States Berlin Commandant Maj. Gen. Lemuel A. Mathewson Friday protested a Soviet attempt to whittle off a 3-square-mile piece of the U. S. sector of Berlin and demanded that the Russians hand it back.

Armed German police from the Soviet zone marched into the American-administered district of Steinstuecken Thursday night and informed its 200 inhabitants the area had been "annexed" to the Russian zone of occupation.

An American spokesman said the U.S. command was considering countermeasures, but had reached no decision.

Mathewson, in a note to Sergei A. Deginin, Soviet control commission chief, charged that the action for "illegal," "arbitrary," "unilateral" and a violation of an Allied agreement fixing the borders of the American, British, French and Russian areas of the divided former German capital.

"I therefore demand that the Soviet occupation authorities instruct the German authorities under their control to revoke their action against Steinstuecken and permit its habitants to resume the former pattern of their lives as members of the West Berlin community," Mathewson said.

The Soviet zone police plastered the disputed area with posters informing its inhabitants they now were under the administration of the Russian-occupied city of Potsdam, subject to Soviet zone laws and permitted to use only Soviet-backed east mark currency.

The Communists in occupying the district, argued its inclusion in the American sector was "unnatural" because the area is separated from the rest of the U.S. part of the city by a 300-yard strip of Soviet-held territory.

Bettendorf Woman Stabbed to Death

DAVENPORT (AP)—Mrs. Beulah Smith, 37, Bettendorf, died Friday of stab wounds received in an argument and named her husband as the assailant in a deathbed statement.

County Attorney Clark O. Filseth said first degree murder charges will be filed against Smith, who had admitted the attack on his wife in a statement signed shortly before she died.

Mrs. Smith was stabbed several times earlier Friday with a pocket knife to climax a marital argument. Smith told police he left his job at the Rock Island arsenal at mid-morning and stopped in a tavern in Moline, Ill. From the tavern he went to the Hi-Way Market near Bettendorf, where his wife was employed.

The argument started at the market and was resumed when Mrs. Smith returned home shortly after noon. Smith said they scuffled and he stabbed his wife once with the knife. However, attending physicians said she had been stabbed several times. Neighbors summoned an ambulance and police.

Mrs. Smith died a few hours after she was hospitalized.

Wisconsin JV's Down Iowa Again, 6-0

Hawkeye Receiver Tries in Vain

JIM MILANI (left), Iowa JV halfback, couldn't quite reach a pass thrown by quarterback Chuck Merritt in the second quarter of the Hawkeyes' return clash with Wisconsin's JVs. Badger defender was back Tom Proctor. Wisconsin won, 6-0.

Hawkeye Fumble Sets Up Badger Tally

By LEE CANNING

Wisconsin's undefeated junior varsity stayed that way here Friday afternoon by punching across one touchdown midway through the fourth quarter to stop Iowa's JV team, 6-0.

It was the second win over Iowa and the fourth straight victory of the season for the Little Badgers. Wisconsin previously defeated Iowa at Madison.

Fullback Bob Lamphere turned Iowa's left end from 3 yards out to score the winning touchdown. Quarterback Mario Bonofiglio's attempt for the extra point was blocked.

Milani Fumbles

Wisconsin gained its scoring chance by recovering a fumble by Iowa halfback Jim Milani on the Hawkeye 12. Lamphere, a 202-pound sophomore, gained 3 yards on his first attempt and then moved to the Iowa 3 on try No. 2. His game winning run came on the next play.

The Little Badgers threatened following the opening kickoff and pushed to Iowa's 1-yard line before the Hawks took over.

Halfback Jack Mansfield took the first half kickoff on Wisconsin's 10 and finally was brought down on Iowa's 41.

Badgers Stopped

Two plays later, halfback Clarence Bratt wheeled 28 yards to the Iowa 9 for a first and goal for the Badgers. Bratt tried the Iowa line for 3 more yards but a second-down pass fell incomplete and Bratt was stopped on Iowa's 1 after two more plunges.

Quarterback Bill Wright pitched Iowa out of trouble by completing a 42-yard pass to end Dan McBride and then led the Hawkeyes into Badger territory by finding McBride open again on Wisconsin's 40.

An offside penalty against Wisconsin plus runs by Milani and Wright gave Coach Wally Schwank's Hawks another first down on Wisconsin's 30. The Iowa drive died on the Badgers' 24 when Wright's fourth-down pass was incomplete.

Hawks' Rushing Stopped

That drive was Iowa's deepest penetration into Wisconsin territory as the Badger forwards held the Hawks' rushing game to 27 yards.

Iowa moved to Wisconsin's 45 late in the fourth quarter on a 14-yard run by Milani and a pass interference penalty on the Badgers, but four pass plays failed as the game ended.

The Iowa passing attack gained 106 yards to Wisconsin's 45 but on the ground, the Badgers, headed by Mansfield, Bratt, and Bill Rutenberg, piled up 148 yards.

Anderson Vetoed; 'Skins Take Todd

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Redskins fired Coach Herman Ball Friday, but were forced to replace him with Backfield Coach Dick Todd when the league commissioner ruled Hunk Anderson was not eligible for the job.

The action climaxes a week-long wrangle over just who will coach the Redskins. Club owner George Marshall held out hopes, however, that he still may get Anderson free to coach his team.

The developments Friday were these: National Football league Commissioner Bert Bell told the Redskins they could not hire Anderson as coach because he still is signed as line coach to the Chicago Bears even though he has not worked for them this year.

Marshall fired Ball and appointed Todd "temporary" coach—presumably until he can straighten out his efforts to get Anderson.

Ball said he will remain with the club as a scout and is leaving for Chicago tonight to scout the Bears-Philadelphia Eagles game. Marshall, obviously disappointed, immediately, said unless Halas relents, Todd will coach the club through its remaining nine games this season.

ROYALS BEAT ALL-STARS

Intersectional Games, Key Conference Tilts In Big Ten Today

CHICAGO (AP)—While the two unbeaten members engage tough intersectional foes, the Big Ten football race picks up speed today with three conference games of title importance.

Defending champion Michigan, which may be the comeback team of the season, invades Iowa; Ohio State, lacking its earlier lustre, entertains Indiana; and Purdue is host to Wisconsin.

Illinois, winner of three straight including its only loop start against Wisconsin, is at Seattle against the strong Washington Huskies. Also a three-game winner, Northwestern risks its perfect record against puzzling Navy at Evanston, Ill.

A third non-conference contest finds Minnesota seeking its first win, against Nebraska at Minneapolis.

After drubbings by Michigan State and Stanford, Michigan snapped back with a 33-14 win over Indiana. If the Wolverines can bundle a solid Iowa team, they must be rated a definite title contender.

Purdue is risking a lot against tough Wisconsin which last week tied Ohio State, 6-6, and statistically outplayed both Illinois and the Buckeyes. The Boiler-makers started conference play with a 34-30 win over Iowa. After Wisconsin, Purdue has a distinct schedule advantage with only three more conference games.

Ohio State needs to brush aside Indiana to stay in the title running, a feat the Buckeyes should accomplish. The Hoosiers have nothing to show this season except a 13-6 squeeze past Pitt.

Outside the Big Ten, Notre Dame plays at Pittsburgh, the Irish trying to forget the 27-20 aerial blitz from Southern Methodist; Michigan State seeks its fifth straight win at Penn State; and Marquette is host tonight to offense-minded Tulsa.

Hawklets Top Clinton, 19-14, On Lockhart to White Pass

(Special to The Daily Towan)

CLINTON — City high handed Clinton its first loss in Mississippi Valley conference play here tonight, 19-14.

City high scored its winning touchdown with four minutes left in the game after trailing, 14-12.

Lockhart to White

The Hawklets tally came on a 40-yard pass play from Bill Lockhart to John White.

City high also accounted for the first scoring in the game when Jim Freeman took a short pass from Bob Frantz on the Clinton 16 and went the rest of the way aided by a key block by Chuck Warren.

The play came just three seconds from the end of the half. Clinton bounced back shortly after the start of the third period when Dick St. Clair went 37 yards for a touchdown after Clinton had recovered a City high punt.

Freeman Scores

Freeman put the Hawklets ahead again by plunging over from the four after his quick kick had put Clinton in a hole.

With City high leading, 12-7, Clinton recovered another fumble on the Hawklet 20 and scored two plays later on a 1 yard plunge by Phil Leahy.

That made it 14-12 until Lockhart and White combined for the winning tally.

Freeman and Frantz placed the City high attack while linebacker Tom Colbert stood out on defense.

U-High Routs New London

By JORDAN MATULEF

University high kept alive its hope for at least a share of the Eastern Iowa Hawkeye conference championship Friday by overwhelming New London, 44-9, at City high field.

The Bluehawks wasted little time in wrapping up the contest. On the first series of downs Bob Price passed to Mel Perrin who lateraled to Gardner Van Dyke for a 15-yard touchdown.

Shortly afterwards Van Dyke climaxed a 50-yard drive by scoring from 5 yards out. Mel Ritterger place-kicked the first of his two successful point-after-touchdown attempts to make the score 13-0.

In the second quarter the Bluehawks wrapped up the game as they scored four more touchdowns to stretch their lead to 38-0 at the half. Kenny Stock featured the attack by scoring three times during the period.

After Stock raced 58 yards for his fourth touchdown on the very first play of the second half, U-high coach Don Weber began substituting freely and the two teams battled evenly until the later stages of the fourth period when New London scored a touchdown and a safety.

Next Friday the once-defeated Bluehawks will travel to West Liberty for an all-important contest with the presently undefeated leaders of the conference. A victory for the Bluehawks would enable them to tie for the conference lead.

SPARTANS FAVORED

STATE COLLEGE, PA. (AP)—Unbeaten Michigan State, rated third in the nation by the Associated Press, will be a two-touchdown favorite over the once-beaten Penn State when the two teams meet here today.

Hawkeyes . . .

pleted 12 of 25 passes against Pitt.

Williams, who broke lose for in the first time last week, and Rice will share the duties at left halfback, with Don Commack at right half.

Iowa will be in fine physical condition for the game with only tough defensive tackle Pete Spanjers hampered by an injury.

Tore Ligament

Spanjers tore a ligament in his knee against Pitt but is said to be ready to go today.

Michigan will be handicapped by the loss of halfback Frank Howell, out for several weeks with a fractured ankle.

The visitors travelled by train to Cedar Rapids where they worked out on the Coe field Friday afternoon.

The Iowa squad also spent the night in Cedar Rapids to avoid Friday night's excitement. Both teams will make the short hop to Iowa City by bus this morning.

Though the two schools have met as far back as 1900, only 13 games have been played in the series, two going to Iowa, 10 to Michigan and one tie.

The last meeting was in 1946 at Ann Arbor when the Wolves won, 14-7.

Coach Leonard Raffensperger has selected tackle Hubert Johnston and Reichardt as Iowa's co-captains today.

Leads at Stake In Pro Grid Games

NEW YORK (AP)—First place in both conferences will be at stake Sunday as the National football league moves into its fourth week with a full schedule of six games.

The New York Giants, only unbeaten eleven in the circuit, will entertain an old rival, the Philadelphia Eagles, in the Polo Grounds in what may prove to be the toughest tussle of the day.

Not only will the Giants' defeatless string be on the line but their first-place hold in the American conference will be in jeopardy.

2 Obstacles for Iowa

TWO MICHIGAN PLAYERS who figure to make things rough for Iowa in today's Homecoming battle are Lowell Perry (left) an outstanding offensive end and defensive safetymen, and Roger Zatkoff, one of the better linebacksers in the Big Ten. More than 50,000 are expected for the game.

Money Troubles Hamper Browns

WASHINGTON (AP)—House baseball investigators were told today one good reason why the New York Yankees win pennants and the St. Louis Browns do not. The house monopoly subcommittee heard testimony that the Yankees spent an average of $804,471 each year for the past five years developing player replacements. The Browns made a "net profit" of $125,825.45 on "replacements" in 1950.

A. G. Lanier, Yankee club comptroller, said the "Browns have had to dispose of talent to stay alive. You can't break even on replacement costs and win a World Series."

Gil McDougald Named AL Rookie by UP

NEW YORK (AP)—Gil McDougald, so obscure last spring he didn't even rate a spot on the Yankees' printed roster, was named United Press American league rookie of the year Friday.

The kid from Frisco, who led all of the old-time Yankees in the batting averages and played both second and third base with distinction, won the honor in the balloting of a veteran selection board consisting of 24 baseball writers—three from each league city.

McDougald, who has a batting stance unlike anyone else in baseball, wasn't very impressive when he hit the Yankee training camp this spring, but he wound up by ousting Jerry Coleman, a 1950 all-star from his regular job.

No one in camp could see how he could hit the ball, standing with both feet almost facing the pitcher. He explained to Manager Casey Stengel that he had a very valid reason for it.

It's the only way I can hit a curve ball," he explained.

The only other rookie to receive consideration in the balloting was Chicago's fine utility star, Orestes Minoso, who was at home both in the infield and the outfield, and particularly at home plate.

Minoso, traded to the White Sox from Cleveland in a deal that probably cost the Indians the pennant, wound up with a .326 average.
