U.S., Russia Set Off Atomic Blasts

Reds Step-up Atomic Tests In Arms Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House dramatized the accelerating atomic arms race Monday by announcing a third Soviet test explosion a few hours after American scientists achieved the first "small" A-bomb blast in history. The new Soviet atomic explosion was the second disclosed by the White House in less than three weeks, and indicated that Russia is speeding up tests of new-model bombs in a desperate effort to cut down the long American lead. It "apparently" was part of a test series, Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said. He did not use the word "bomb" as he did Oct. 3 in announcing the explosion of a second "atomic bomb" within Russia. Short said, "there may be more such explosions from time to time." The announcement fitted into a statement Oct. 6 by Generalissimo Joseph Stalin of Russia. Stalin said then: "The testing of atomic bombs of various calibers will be carried out in the future also according to the plan for our country's defense against the Anglo-American aggressive front." Short would not say when the latest Russian explosion occurred, adding "it is not in the national interest to say more than I have already said." Just how the Russian blast will be tied with their demand for outlawing all atomic weapons was not clear here. Some officials here expect Russia to revive the demand at a meeting of the United Nations general assembly in Paris next month. A majority of the UN last, however, on a system of controls with international inspection which Russia rejects.

Report Underground Wrecks Russ Trains

BERLIN (AP) — Mounting underground attacks on Russian trains in Poland have forced the Soviets to shift their East German exports to sea lanes, information from East zone sources said Monday. Reparation trains which once rolled out of the Soviet zone, through Poland and into Russia without incident, now are apparently subject to sabotage attacks beyond control. Informants said the Russians and the East German Communist regime are rapidly expanding ports and ship building facilities at Wismar, Stralsund and Greifswald on the Baltic to handle the flow.

Names British 'Enemy,' Egypt Threatens Action

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt's prime minister called the British in Egypt "the enemy" Monday night and declared, "We are about to bring him to severe accounting." Traveling from Alexandria to Cairo and speaking before cheering crowds at each railway station, Prime Minister Mustapha El Nahas Pasha told his audience at Damahour: "We have studied all possibilities and all aspects of the situation so that we may reach our aim without enabling the enemy and usurper to dominate us. The enemy has lost his head and has been overwhelmed with a wave of madness and fear. He has thus committed aggressive attacks about which we will not keep silent and we are about to bring him to a severe accounting." The prime minister's progress through northern Egypt came at the end of a day in which his government took several more setbacks from the British forces in the Suez canal zone. British army tanks Monday night seized the Egyptian state railway's workshops just outside Suez, southern terminal of the canal. Egyptian residents of the town feared they soon would be entirely cut off from the rest of Egypt. Egyptian Interior Minister Faud Serag Ed Din said 20 tanks took the shops and 25 locomotives. An

Jessup Receives Recess Appointment To UN

Official's Acceptance Previously Rejected By Senate Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman Monday night announced he is giving Philip C. Jessup a recess appointment as a member of the U.S. delegation to the UN delegation in Paris. The nomination had been rejected by a senate foreign relations subcommittee, by a 3 to 2 vote, after a bitter controversy over Jessup's views on U.S. policy in the Far East. The senate approved nine other of Mr. Truman's nominees to the UN delegation, but took no action on the Jessup appointment in the last hours before adjourning. The president said in a statement he is appointing Jessup because Jessup has demonstrated that he is "outstandingly well qualified for this position." Mr. Truman declared that the objections made to Jessup's appointment "seem to me to be erroneous, and in some cases, simply the result of partisan politics." The president also declared that the charges against Jessup "bordered on fraud." Mr. Truman said efforts to ascribe communist sympathies to the ambassador-at-large were "utterly without foundation, and some of the so-called documentation introduced in support of those charges bordered on fraud." Several Republican senators were reported to have raised a question as to the legality of an interim appointment for Jessup after the senate had shelved his nomination. The question was based on the fact that the UN general assembly, which begins its important next meeting in Paris on Nov. 6, is expected to wind up its sessions before congress returns next January. This in effect would mean that the senate would have no chance to pass on the interim appointment. Some Democratic senators, however, declared there was no legal obstacle to such an appointment.

ONE-MAN ROCKET PASADENA, CALIF. (AP) — The navy announced Monday a tiny, one-man, rocket-powered helicopter is being made ready for a test flight. "It is the nearest approach that has been made to strapping a pair of rockets upon the back of a man and shooting him into space in comic strip fashion," said Gilbert Magill, designer.

Associated Press dispatch from Port Suez reported 10 tanks were involved.

Serag Ed Din also said a British military policeman shot an Egyptian dead and that the policeman said he fired because the Egyptian passed too near a British military camp. The army move was a swift followup of the British navy's seizure of command in the harbor to break a tie-up of British merchant shipping caused by a harbor pilots' strike. Authorities reported that land and sea moves were related. The railway seizure was reported aimed at enforcing a British ultimatum calling on the Egyptian dock workers and pilots to get back to work. The tanks rolled in at 5 p.m. British soldiers at the same hour occupied switch points on the railway running from the British military port of Adabia, south of Port Suez, to British camps farther inland. The railway does not pass through the port city but goes around it. The city is out-of-bounds to British forces. Egyptian officials at Suez said the British command told them it also planned to cut two oil pipelines from Port Suez to Cairo. One has a capacity of 14 million gallons of gasoline monthly; the other carries kerosene.

Local Chest Drive Extended to Nov. 1

Homecoming put a crimp into Iowa City's Community Chest drive last week so Chest officials have extended the campaign until Nov. 1. Only $12,598.13 had been turned in by Saturday evening, the original closing date. The over-all goal is $31,126. Sig Nelson, chairman of the drive, said the additional time will be given to allow further opportunity for donations by persons who have not yet been contacted. About 23 per cent of the university family goal has been reached. The professional goal has reached 60 per cent, and the business and employe division, 33 per cent.

Sidelights On the News

(Editor's note: The Daily Iowan today begins a new feature on interesting bits of news affecting SUI and Iowa City. If you have any items for this column, please deposit them with the city editor in the basement of East hall.)

A visitor from almost anywhere in the world could find a student from his country on the SUI campus. A total of 175 foreign students from 44 countries have enrolled at the university this semester. Last year there were 179 students representing 43 countries. Foreign graduate students number 130, undergraduates, 38, and unclassified, 7. There are 141 men and 34 women. Besides the 175 regular students, 10 University hospitals residents, two holders of fellowships and two internes are from outside the United States. China, which last year sent 53 students to SUI, still leads this year with 32. Students from Turkey number 20; Canada, 14; Japan, 9, and Greece, 8. Other countries represented by five or more students are Egypt, England, Panama, Germany, Nigeria, Norway and Poland.

An SUI student who won his bride in a bet on the outcome of the Notre Dame-Southern Methodist football game Oct. 13 must wait at least three weeks for his honeymoon. Calvin Hewitt, 33, a student from Lewiston, N.Y., working on an M.A. in science, married Helen Jakusz, 24, Elkhart, Ind., Saturday in Rushville, Ill. Hewitt has been in a Rushville hospital since Oct. 1, when he suffered a back injury in an auto crash. The bridegroom must remain in the hospital for at least three weeks more.

The SUI student met Miss Jakusz while both were students at SUI. Following the auto accident, he asked her to marry him, but she wanted to wait until he recovered from his injury. They left the decision up to the outcome of the football game. Hewitt chose Southern Methodist, and the Mustangs came through for him, 27-20.

When Pfc. Kenneth M. Hay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer M. Hay, 812 S. Dodge st., arrived in Korea recently, he wasn't a bit surprised to be there. "I expected it," said Hay, 19, who entered the service in the summer of 1950 after graduation from high school. "I'm the fourth member of my family to be in service and the third one to be stationed in Korea." The Iowa Citian's father and two brothers were in the service in World War II. Hay, a member of the air force, has been assigned to the motor vehicle squadron. Hay played quarterback on the football team while at City high.

Aftermath of SUI's 40th Homecoming: The Iowa City Chamber of Commerce reported Monday that 28 "welcome" flags had disappeared over the weekend. The flags are displayed downtown during special university and city events. Milton W. Schornhorst, Davenport, showed a bit too much of the Homecoming spirit Saturday, when his car struck and tore down a brick wall at Summit and Kirkwood sts. Police didn't think it was in keeping with the spirit of the weekend and charged Schornhorst Monday with reckless driving.

Pvt. Donald L. Carney, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Carney, 1220 First ave., was listed among troops arriving in Seattle, Wash., Wednesday on rotation from Korea. Carney arrived in Korea Aug. 23, 1950, making him a veteran of 13 months service in that zone. He enlisted in the army in March, 1949.

Reds Are Expected To Agree To Early Resumption of Talks

MUNSAN, Korea (TUESDAY) (AP) — A go-ahead signal from the Reds expected at any moment, will start new Korean truce talks, possibly today. Liaison officers of both sides signed Monday elaborate security and neutrality rules surrounding the new site at the roadside village of Panmunjom. Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief United Nations armistice delegate, quickly ratified the agreement Monday afternoon and invited the Reds to do likewise. "On the day following receipt by me of such acceptance by you," Joy wrote in a letter to the chief Red delegate, Lt. Gen. Nam Il, "the UN delegation is prepared to meet your delegation as tentatively arranged by the liaison officers at Panmunjom for the purpose of resuming discussion of agenda item 2 of the military armistice conference." Agenda item 2 is the question of where to draw a buffer zone between the two opposing armies. That item had stalled the conferences at Kaesong from July 27 until the Reds suspended them Aug. 23. The subsequent two months have given over to extensive bickering over Red charges of Allied violations of the neutral conference area, finally ending in agreement of the new site at Panmunjom. Although Adm. Joy's letter referred to a day's lapse between Red ratification and resumption of the talks, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, UN command spokesman, said a prompt reply could cause the talks to start this afternoon.

Despite optimism surrounding the new truce effort, the Allied soldiers still grinding painfully north in Korea took the attitude that "seeing is believing."

Allies Gain . . .

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea (Tuesday) (AP) — Twenty-six U.S. Patton tanks punched through the smoking ruins of Kumsong in a four-hour raid Monday while Allied infantry moved within 600 yards of that central Korean Communist base without contacting the enemy. Chinese resistance melted on the foggy mountain ridges southeast of Kumsong during the day. The U.S. eighth army communique Monday night reported United Nations units were "advancing toward their objectives against little enemy opposition." It said a patrol was less than one-third of a mile from the now neutralized Red road and rail junction, 30 miles north of parallel 38. There was no significant fighting along either the eastern or western fronts, and contact was light elsewhere along the central front, the communique said. Eighth army headquarters estimated that Allied troops inflicted 29,275 casualties on the Reds during the week ended last Friday. This included 22,000 killed, 6,000 wounded and 1,275 captured. The war which has blazed with savage intensity on all three fronts during the past few weeks seemed destined to simmer down to a slow boil once cease-fire negotiations begin again.

Atomic Bomb Chiefs Review Plans

DIRECTORS OF THE ATOMIC BLAST at Las Vegas, Nev. Monday conferred before setting off the blast which was especially important because it was so small. It gave rise to the belief that scientists have harnessed atomic power enough to use in artillery shells. Maj. Gen. William B. Dean, commander of the tests, is shown at right. The other two shown are Lt. Col. George H. Dechow (left) and Lt. Col. Hiram M. Merritt. (Another picture on page 6).

Taft Advocates Cutting Of Taxes, Arms Outlay

DES MOINES (AP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) declared Monday night "there is no absolute necessity for a military program of the exact size we are undertaking." The senator, the only announced major party candidate for the presidency in 1952, made two recommendations for solving the nation's financial difficulties. He said in remarks prepared for the Iowa Bankers association: "We should set up a combined military and civilian commission to determine whether this tremendous military program is really necessary to its present extent. "We should seriously consider the proper limits of government spending in the United States. The only real solution is to cut expenses, balance the budget, and limit taxes to 25 percent of the national income." As to the first, he commented: "I doubt if under this administration which believes so largely in spending for spending's sake, there will ever be a cut in the military program before the whole economy of our country is wrecked. "As far as I can see it, the matter has received no careful study either from the administration or from those who direct our military program." As to the second, he said: "Up to this time Mr. Truman has only one remedy—more and more taxes. I think there is a practical limitation on taxes at a point where additional taxes do more harm than good. "I do not believe, therefore, that we can find any remedy for the financial dilemma which is upon us in further increasing the extraordinary burdens of our tax system. At present, Taft continued, the nation is spending at the rate of more than $60 billion a year. In the next fiscal year, spending will reach $85 billion, budget estimates show, he said. He added that the President is proposing increases which will mean about $100 billion budgets in a few years. At the same time, Taft said, deficits are growing to the point where they probably will amount to $20 billion to $30 billion a year soon.

Cancer Group Cites SUI Man, Bureau

The bureau of audio-visual instruction of SUI extension division has been awarded the 1951 Distinguished Service citation by the Iowa division of the American Cancer society. One of less than a dozen awarded by the cancer group, the citation was presented in recognition of the bureau's work in producing a short movie to accompany cancer films distributed throughout Iowa. The movie portrays the activities sponsored by the Iowa society with money obtained by popular subscription throughout the state during annual fund-raising campaigns. It has been included in the complete library of cancer films maintained and distributed by the society. Vernon E. Putnam, Stanley E. Nelson and staff members of the bureau's picture production section collaborated in producing the film. Another of the society's Distinguished Service citations was awarded to Robert G. Arley, G. Hampton, as designer of the editorial cartoon used by the group during the 1951 fund-raising campaign. Arley was cartoonist for The Daily Iowan last year.

Dock Strike Seals Port of New York; Walkout Spreading

NEW YORK (AP) — A snowballing wildcat strike of rebel dock workers sealed off the port of New York Monday and led to a railroad freight embargo. An estimated $4,200,000 pile of merchandise lay unattended on piers throughout the vast port area. Only one or two piers were reported operating. Union longshore leaders who are anti-strike planned a new try at getting their stevedores back to work. They had no luck Monday. Of roving pickets who swept the docks all but clear of stevedores during the day, Union Organizer Harry Bowers said: "We are going to make a counter move. We will help the men to return to work. "If the police allow any mobs to come into our section, there will be trouble. Let them (the strikers) stay in their own back yard." Bowers did not say how his group hopes to win over stevedores who have quit in sympathy with the original wildcat strikers. First violence of any account in the week-old strike came in Brooklyn when dockers fell on one another with fists and stones. Five men were slightly hurt by thrown rocks. Two men were arrested on assault charges, including Gerardo Anastasio, who spells his name differently but is a member of the notorious racketeering Anastasia family. Customs officials said only a very few docks were working, as strikers carried their contract strike to Staten Island and New Jersey. An estimated 1,800 men were idle in Jersey as all but one pier closed here. Other thousands were out in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Staten Island.

Judge Rules Own Appointment Legal

LAKE CHARLES, LA. (AP) — New Orleans Judge J. Bernard Cocks ruled Monday he and a special prosecutor have the right to try the cases of five crusading newspapermen accused of defaming 16 public officials and three admitted gamblers. Cocks overruled motions filed by the newsmen's attorneys questioning the legality of his appointment by the Louisiana supreme court to handle the cases as a visiting judge.

U.S. Succeeds In Exploding Small Charge

LAS VEGAS, NEV. (AP) — Scientists exploded an atomic charge so small Monday that it was overshadowed by a TNT blast which preceded it. The smallness of the explosion, barely audible 50 miles from the test site at Frenchman's Flat, indicated nuclear fission experts were succeeding in their goal of stepping down the power of the atomic bomb to a point where it can be used for artillery and warheads. Observers in this desert resort town were unaware that the charge had been set off until an atomic energy commission spokesman announced: "One of the nuclear detonations announced by the AEC on Aug. 28 was held this morning at the Nevada test site." TNT Stronger United Press Staff Correspondent Joseph Quinn witnessed the explosion from Charleston peak, less than 50 miles away, and reported he saw a small wall of flame "similar to an exploding naphthalin fire bomb." He reported the blast was not as strong as the TNT charge set off an hour earlier. Managing Editor Joe McClain of the Las Vegas Review Journal, who accompanied Quinn to the vantage point, said the atomic blast gave off its characteristic mushroom-shaped cloud. He said the red glow in the morning sky at 8 a.m. CST was "about the size of a dime" from that distance away. Monday's explosion was in marked contrast to those set off here last January when they lit up the skies in six western states and rattled windows more than 500 miles away. AEC Satisfied In a subsequent statement, the AEC indicated its satisfaction with Monday's initial test in the new series of atomic explosions that will feature the first atomic combat maneuvers. No troops were used in the explosion nor were there any live animals subjected to the effects of the blast. "An experimental nuclear detonation was conducted and the desired scientific data was obtained," the AEC said. "Reports received up to 11 a.m. from air and ground patrols indicate no radiation hazard in this area. The Civil Aeronautics association had been advised it may lift air traffic restrictions." From an authoritative source it was learned the AEC will not make another test tomorrow.

Clark Nomination Opposed by Connally

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Tom Connally of the senate foreign relations committee said Monday he will oppose the nomination of Gen. Mark W. Clark to be the nation's first ambassador to the Vatican. Connally (D-Tex.) told a reporter his reason is "that in the war in Italy he discriminated against and sacrificed large numbers of the 36th division (Texas national guard) from my state in crossing the Rapido river." "I formed the opinion from his conduct in that matter that he should not be appointed to any high or responsible position in military or civilian life," Connally said. "Asked if his opposition had any bearing on the rapidly growing religious controversy over President Truman's surprise move to establish diplomatic relations with the Vatican, Connally replied: "I'm not going to discuss anything but what I said."

Wife Swapping

TO THE EDITOR: Hurrah for the barbarians! I refer, of course, to Saturday's letter to the editor concerning Rock Island's wife-family-house trading deal which appeared on the front page of last Thursday's Daily Iowan.

I sincerely hope that the news staff of The Daily Iowan can find, in the future, more intelligent and interesting articles than this.

It is unfortunate that any newspaper (or news syndicate) would stoop so disgustingly low as to make such an incident a news item. To advertise such an incident as this is to popularize it with the resulting effects of condoning the action.

There is no doubt that such an article is an example of sensationalism, the staff of life of the modern U.S. newspaper.

The frivolous thinking of our present day society — which we call civilized — is in sharp contrast with that of uncivilized people who have had a higher degree of morality than we have in the civilized world today.

Certainly there must be better news for The Daily Iowan's eight pages.

Churches' Float

TO THE EDITOR: I was both annoyed and amazed by the singular breach of faith which the Ministerial association and the student Christian organization displayed in the float they exhibited in the Homecoming parade.

In placing their float among those sponsored by business concerns, they should have subjected their zeal to the ethics of those concerns.

Interpreting the News —

Expects Senate Debate On Clark's Appointment

By J. M. ROBERTS JR. Associated Press News Analyst President Truman may have actually timed his decision on diplomatic relations with the Vatican in order to give the country ample time to debate it.

By sending General Clark's ambassadorial appointment to the senate in the closing hours of the congressional session, and then giving out word that, because of the old law against appointing military men to civilian jobs, there would be no recess appointment, the White House virtually assured several months of argument.

Senate reaction to bitter criticism from the Protestant churches was that full hearings surely would be held, meaning no decision could be reached for weeks after congress reconvenes in January.

The President's action is amazing in any case. Just about the time you are about to decide that narrow partisan politics plays an important part in everything that Truman does, he comes up with some highly controversial proposal that by no means can be considered good partisan politics.

Steadfast bet was 10 to 1 that crooner Frank Sinatra will marry Ava Gardner before New Year's Eve, 1952, with few takers. Veteran long-shot players could take a glittering 35 to 1 against the possibility that showman Billy Rose will be marching to the altar within the same period.

"They're getting more attention than any sports event these days," explained one odds-maker, "because a lot of the cynics figure any of those romances would be harder to fix than a basketball game and because everybody wants to claim inside information on the situations."

Wildest fluctuations in the past week were on the Elizabeth Taylor-Nicky Hilton meeting, which may or may not have started a reconciliation.

Hilton had shrunk from a long-shot, 30 to 1 bet for regaining the dark eyed film star's love to a hopeful 10 to 1 contender. Interested bettors could risk their cash two ways on the young hotel scion, however, with seven-to-five still being offered that he will marry film starlet Betsy von Furstenberg before the end of February, 1952.

New Betting Fad — Bookies Give Odds on Love

By JAY BREEN United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway bookies have been offering odds on such nationally known romances as the Sinatra-Gardner and Taylor-Hilton idyls.

Steadfast bet was 10 to 1 that crooner Frank Sinatra will marry Ava Gardner before New Year's Eve, 1952, with few takers. Veteran long-shot players could take a glittering 35 to 1 against the possibility that showman Billy Rose will be marching to the altar within the same period.

"It all started in the night clubs and bars," explained one long-time bookie, who had never before read the sections of a newspaper preceding the sports page. "Lots of characters got so mad trying to prove they had the inside dope on these things that big money started to come out."

British Voters Weigh Record Of Socialism

By MICHAEL NEWMARCH

LONDON (AP) — Impoverished ears are throwing open the stately homes of England to sightseers at 35 cents a look but workers in city tenements haven't seen a breadline in years.

The leisured middle classes, whose enterprise was largely responsible for making Britain great, no longer are leisured and claim there's no opportunity for enterprise.

The housewife's weekly meat ration is gobbled up at one meal but virtually no one in Britain goes hungry.

Industrialists complain their efforts are hamstrung by shortages and controls. Trade unionists glower over wages that buy less and less each week.

Youthful sons of the Pukka Sahibs, who once guarded an empire for the king and helped build the Lancashire cotton trade, now are going to Africa to teach black trade unionists about collective bargaining.

All these Britons get another chance Thursday to give their verdict on Britain's homespun revolution and the welfare state. The nation's third general election since World War II comes after six years of Socialist rule.

In spite of the obvious changes in the life of everyone from duke to dustman, there's plenty of disagreement on Socialism's achievements and failures.

There's no doubt about some of the things the labor government has done. It has:

- 1-Nationalized coal mines, iron and steel, electricity and gas plants, the Bank of England, railways, and some road and other transport facilities. The list covers an estimated 20 per cent of all British industry.

- 2-Created a socialized medicine plan, entitling everyone to unlimited "free" drugs and hospital treatment paid for out of general taxation.

- 3-Established a complex network of regulations aimed at giving the government a maternal control over the nation's whole economy.

- 4-Created three new self-governing dominions in Ceylon, Pakistan and India, and granted Burma freedom to leave the empire altogether.

- 5-Raised the school leaving age by one year. Every British child now is entitled to free schooling up to the age of 15.

The labor government also claims it has saved mankind from World War III.

That's a claim which comes most strongly from left-wing Socialists led by Aneurin Bevan, firebrand ex-minister of health and labor.

Again and again from Labor platforms, speakers claim patience, restraint and calm for Premier Clement Attlee's administration. They say these have been a dominant factor in preventing the cold war from blowing up into a hot one in the past few years.

Against this asserted achievement opponents cite these as serious failures:

- 1—Recognized the Chinese Reds, who now are shooting English soldiers in Korea and stand aloof from normal diplomatic relations with Britain.

- 2-Labor negotiators failed to safeguard British oil interests in Iran, or come to terms with Egypt in their dispute about British troops at the Suez canal.

Labor candidates promised during the 1945 election campaign that a socialist government would be able to come to an understanding with the Soviets. But British Laborites have found it no easier to get on with Stalin than anyone else and the attempt now has been written off as a failure.

They explain shortages and rationing by saying increased consumption, not only in Britain, but in many other lands, has caused global scarcity of many things from sheet steel to tea leaves.

Under Socialism, they say, there are fair shares for all.

It's true unemployment is lower in Britain today than at any time before. There is a hard core of around 175,000 unemployed on public assistance. But there are nearly 23.5 million in steady jobs.

CONTROL OFF X-MAS TREES WASHINGTON (AP) — Christmas trees were exempted from price control by the government Monday. This means that practically all green decorations for the holidays are exempt.

By LEE GARNER

At the homecoming fracas it was our good fortune to be perched on the damp seat immediately in front of four or five sweet young parties of the weaker sex. As a result of this stimulating experience we retired from the contest with four medium sized welts on the head, two knee bruises located in the middle of our back and a pair of slightly reddened ears.

Our ears did not get red as a result of either a clout or an embrace. It was only our feelings which got hurt as the honor of the entire male sex suffered considerable damage at the hands (or rather, tongues) of the winsome parties beforementioned.

As you have already suspected, the conversation behind us concerned everything in the encyclopedia of young unattached ladies' minds except football, Walling and hashing over the game are reserved for the days and nights coming up in the following week.

Among the more important topics of general discussion were the contents of a recent missive from (and we quote) "a drip" in the good old hometown, whether there were any traitors from Iowa on the Michigan team, the relative merits of the no-cut versus the "they will give you an examination instead if they drop no-cut days" systems, the cute shape of Number 15, the even cuter shape of Number 67, and the overcoats of the band.

Meanwhile, we eased the Highlanders and concluded that although they might be warm, those plaid shrouds were about four feet too long to add anything else to their usefulness. Just then, they took the shrouds off and we missed some of the talk behind us until the Highlanders had marched off the field and were sitting out of sight.

We then took out our earplugs and resumed our listening. The conversation had gone on to a new topic. (This means that at least 30 seconds had elapsed since the previous topic.)

There will be a consolation meeting Wednesday night in the Airliner for all men stood up during the weekend. Come in shifts, so there will be room for all.

vious topic.) "During the time we were watching the Highlanders with our ears plugged we must have irretrievably lost at least 30 topics from the encyclopedia we spoke of earlier, or, what is more likely, just five topics repeated in times.

We cannot describe it. Only a verbatim report will do the closing topic justice. Unfortunately our high school shorthand of ten years' antiquity can no longer take down 250 words a minute as we may have gaps here and there. Things sound black enough without the whole story.

... well, he's sort of all right in a way and all that if you know what I mean but kid he always wants to do what he wants to do and he never thinks of what I might want to do at all so when we go out on dates all he wants to do is just drink and drink and you know what else ...

(Somewhere around here, a breath.)

... so I don't know here I got a girlfriend guest for homecoming and all that and we have a blind date for her who is okay I guess except maybe we think he is liable to want to drink too and you know what too and that wouldn't be so good maybe as she is from my home town and is kind of well sort of you know prissy like ...

(Sound of biting of apple. Next ten words either were, or sounded like, applesauce.)

... well, I think what we will do is just stand them up and teach them a lesson and do something by ourselves even if they do have the car here and all because I am sick and tired of just doing what he wants to do all the time the stubborn thing oh look wasn't that a darling play? Or I guess maybe that was Michigan—HOLD THAT LINE!

And so forth, we presume. Fortunately, at this point, the rains mercifully drove us to shelter.

There will be a consolation meeting Wednesday night in the Airliner for all men stood up during the weekend. Come in shifts, so there will be room for all.

The Bright Incident:

"We look upon it as just another football incident."

With this statement, the football cabinet of Oklahoma A & M dismissed any responsibility for the deliberate violation of rules and good sportsmanship which resulted in the injury to Drake's Johnny Bright.

We suggest the club's director take another look. We suggest they look at the above pictures and then at their conscience. Do they really believe No. 72 is guiltless? Are they going to be allowed to do nothing about it?

We understand that photos are not always conclusive. You can see in them anything you wish. And what we see is the intentional injury of Bright to the horror of every decent sports fan and American.

The fact that Bright is a Negro, the first of his race ever to play at Stillwater, makes the Aggies look even worse. For this reason alone, to clear the university of any suspicion of prejudice, an investigation and not a white wash is called for.

The incident, however, concerns SUI in several ways. First because we are all sports fans. This university and community is very much sports conscious. Since the university and the alumni are actively engaged in promoting sports, especially football, then any athletic problem concerns us.

Secondly, we are morally obligated in the American tradition to support fair play. This rather academic statement has concrete political implications. Fair play and sportsmanship are accepted as fundamental tenants of American character. To pacify and allow this flagrant violation to go without a protest would be to sow the seeds of our own moral destruction.

It would be adding fuel to the Communist fire by which they hope to burn us.

As Gus Schrader of the Cedar Rapids Gazette said, "If the Aggies are permitted to get away with that kind of stuff then there is no hope for American sports and games. We might as well chuck them all overboard and go to Russia for our recreation."

Morover, SUI is immediately concerned because it is a member of the Big Ten conference, the nation's leading conference.

To allow this incident the moral sanction of our silence would bring shame to our group. This shame would not only contribute to losing our national prestige but our self-respect. Not to protest would be to condone this type of action in our own conference. There would be a false ring to any grid iron victory under this condition.

The Big Ten delegate to the Rose Bowl would have another odor.

Thirdly we are concerned with the Oklahoma incident because it happened in our own backyard. Drake is an Iowa team. While this is of less significance than the support of the principle involved, it nevertheless gives a personal meaning to the Bright incident.

We cannot be indifferent to a neighbor's house on fire.

All this adds up to the point that SUI must protest the Bright violation.

The protest should be directed to the Missouri Valley conference or the NCAA. It should urge them to take steps to correct this fantastic violation of U.S. principle. This should be done if the president of Oklahoma A & M does not expell the offending player and subject Coach J. B. Whitworth and his staff to an investigation.

The student council has long clamored for ways to serve the students and university. By protesting the malconduct present at Stillwater they can win for themselves a place of leadership while serving the highest moral goals.

To our knowledge neither the student council or the SUI athletic department plan any such protest. Let's not give tacit support to this despicable incident by our silence.

Messrs. Bunce and Brechler, the next move is up to you.

Professor Meets Grade School Teacher

REMINISCING ABOUT HIS DAYS in the fourth grade with Mrs. Lela Anderson (on the left) as a teacher, is Prof. John Ross Winnie, SUI fine art department. Also pictured is Alice Anderson, A4, who is in Winnie's cinematography class and discovered that her instructor was instructed by her mother in Clear Lake where Winnie's home is located. Mrs. Anderson and Winnie met Monday for the first time in 28 years and talked over old times and class-mates.

An SUI professor met his fourth grade math teacher yesterday for the first time in 28 years.

Alice Anderson, A4, Klemme, a student in one of Prof. John Ross Winnie's classes, found out while talking to her mother last weekend, that Winnie was one of her mother's math and art students at the Clear Lake grade school in 1922-23.

A meeting between Mrs. Anderson and Winnie was arranged for Monday morning. Mrs. Anderson remembered her former student as a well-mannered boy. However, Winnie said he was not the model student. He recalled that Mrs. Anderson had a warm personality and was very easy to get along with.

Mrs. Anderson was married in 1924 and moved to a farm near Klemme, where she still lives. Besides a daughter at SUI she has a son, Allen, 23.

Winnie was graduated from Clear Lake high school in 1930. He then went to Cornell college at Mount Vernon where he received a degree in 1936. In 1940 he earned a Master of Fine Arts degree at SUI. During the war he served 3 years with the navy as a photographer in the South Pacific.

After spending a year and a half on the west coast where he was connected with the motion picture industry he returned to SUI where he is now a professor in the dramatic arts department. He is married and lives at Coralville.

Sad Day for Iowa—

Some people would have you believe that that moisture falling Saturday afternoon during the game was rain. But those of us who are still grieving over the day's sorry developments are certain that it was really the tears of Judge McKinley, Nile Kinnick and other departed Iowa greats looking down on what surely must rank as one of the most disappointing Hawkeye efforts in many years.

There is no shame in losing to a team of Michigan's calibre, which until proven otherwise, is still the champion of the Big Ten. But the manner and setting in which Iowa failed on this occasion was the galling thing to us optimists who had envisioned better days for Hawkeye football.

Here was a capacity homecoming crowd of 53,000, many of whom had traveled great distances and were getting their first look at this year's Iowa team.

They had heard much about the new found Hawkeye explosiveness and speed and were confident that the Hawks could at least make a good showing against a Michigan team still quite a few notches below the Wolverine powerhouses of recent seasons.

But from the opening kick-off to the very end Michigan never let anyone forget that it was the "champion of the West" while Iowa was just another "have not" in the lower circles of the Big Ten.

This was doubly tough to take, for if Iowa has ever had the material to give Michigan a battle it's this year. No one can convince us, despite the outcome, that Iowa does not have the personnel at least comparable to that which the Wolverines presented.

Yet against a well-drilled, deceptive Michigan attack, the Hawkeys looked slow, sluggish and unimaginative.

In their own territory and around midfield, the Hawks, led by the magnificent Bill Reichardt, were able to ground out the yardage. But when it came to advancing the ball when a scoring chance presented itself, something invariably fouled up.

The point is that at no time in the game did the Iowa team show the many alumni and friends of the university present the kind of ability knowing football men are sure it possesses.

And it wasn't for lack of effort either, for there wasn't an Iowa player who wasn't giving it his all. But mistakes that a veteran team shouldn't commit and an unusual amount of bad breaks combined to put the damper on the occasion more than the elements could possibly have.

There were several instances where Iowa players and coaches could well be criticized, but rather than do that, we'd like to think that one of these Saturday afternoons, the Hawkeys will function on all cylinders. And when that happens, someone else will do the crying.

All-American Bench Warmer —

A good many people are wondering out loud these days about Coach Leonard Raffensperger's rather odd method of "rewarding" one of his players for a good performance.

Against Pittsburgh two weeks ago, Loranzie Williams was finally given a chance to demonstrate his abilities, and he promptly obliged by picking up 104 yards on eight tries for a gaudy 13 yard average per carry.

So against Michigan the following week, Williams was permitted to carry the ball a grand total of two times, one of which was nullified by a penalty.

In effect, Williams was relegated to the third string left halfback as both Dusty Rice and Bernie Bennett were dividing the duties there. At that, it took an injury to Rice to get Williams in at all.

Certainly no one is more qualified to judge his personnel than the coach, but the history of sports is replete with examples where coaches and managers made mistakes along this line.

You'd only have to go back to the case of Iowa's Harold Bradley who for reasons known only to Dr. Eddie Anderson was confined to the bench for two years, though everyone insisted he was a top-flight tackle. Last season, under a new regime, Bradley was given his chance and ended up Iowa's most valuable player.

It is not illogical to assume that anyone who has turned in such tremendous feats in practice and looked so impressive in the one game he was given any kind of chance, should surely be getting a better break than Loranzie has been receiving.

If it's any consolation to Williams, a good many other people are just as perplexed as he is.

Grid Costs Hit Jesuits

Jesuit Colleges May Have to Abandon Football Due to Losses, 'Frisco Coach Says

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Kuharich, head coach and athletic director of San Francisco university, said Monday he expected the various Jesuit schools around the country to do "some heavy thinking" about abandoning football.

"You know, the mother Jesuit school, Georgetown, has quit football and Father Guthrie has written a very interesting article on how much money is saved," the youthful Kuharich told the New York football writers.

"I wouldn't be surprised if the other Jesuit schools get together sometime before the NCAA meeting next January and formulate a definite policy for the group."

Other Jesuit Schools
In addition to San Francisco, other prominent Jesuit institutions fielding teams are Boston college, Marquette, Santa Clara, Detroit, Loyola of Los Angeles and Fordham.

Georgetown abandoned the sport after the 1950 season. The Georgetown administrator, Father J. Hunter Guthrie, said football cost the institution a million dollars in ten years, an average of $100,000 a year.

"Football is not paying its way at San Francisco," Kuharich said. "If we aren't able to schedule big games I am sure our own authorities will begin discussing the advisability of continuing a team."

Hard to Get Schedule
"It is getting harder for us, as an independent, to line up a representative, paying schedule, Pacific Coast conference teams, for instance, have their own commitments usually and we are fortunate to get a game with them." "Besides there is the two-plateau system and so forth which is adding to the heavy expense of fielding big time teams."

Says Bright Not Purposely Hurt

Aggie Coach Admits Block Was Illegal

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—An illegal block, thrown unintentionally by a keyed-up tackle, apparently was responsible for the injury to Drake halfback Johnny Bright in a football game with Oklahoma A. and M. Saturday, Coach J. B. Whitworth of the Aggies admitted sorrowfully Monday.

Whitworth, here for the weekly meeting of the Oklahoma City quarterback club, said movies of the game show that Aggie tackle Wilbanks Smith charged into Bright twice in the early moments of the game with his arms in an illegal position.

The Aggie mentor said he was making no attempt to defend the player's action but declared he was certain the illegality of the blocks was unintentional. He said Smith failed to keep his hands on his chest, as stipulated in the rules.

Jaw Fractured
Bright, the nation's leading ground gainer of all time, was taken from the game with a fractured jaw midway in the first period. The Aggies went on to win, 27-14, snapping Drake's five-game winning streak.

Whitworth said no disciplinary action was planned, since he was convinced the Drake star was not injured purposely.

Gaer Wants Action

DES MOINES (AP)—Coach Warren Gaer of Drake university said Monday he thought Coach J. B. Whitworth of Oklahoma A. and M. should have taken some action in the slugging of Johnny Bright.

However, Gaer said he did not know what the action should be. He said Whitworth did not call him to apologize as he told reporters at Oklahoma City he would.

athletic cabinet viewed game movies in a regularly scheduled meeting Monday but took no official recognition of the controversy.

"We look upon it as just another football incident," one cabinet member told newsmen. He said no formal protest had been made to the Missouri Valley conference and that the cabinet would take no action unless a protest was presented to Oklahoma A. and M. officials.

"Nothing Intentional"

"There was nothing intentional about Smith illegally blocking Bright," Whitworth told a reporter. "I wouldn't have had it happen for the world if I could have prevented it."

"The entire team was keyed-up for the game. It was Mom's and Dad's Day and naturally we were out to break Drake's winning streak."

"I talked to Bright after the game and at the time I didn't know there was any talk about intentional roughness. I told Johnny I was sorry he was hurt and that I thought he was one of the finest football players I have seen."

"He told me his getting hurt was just one of those things that can happen in football."

Was Illegal Block

Bright was illegally blocked on the first play from scrimmage as he faked to the right while Gene Macomber swept left with the ball.

Bright lay stretched on the field for several minutes but stayed in the game and on the next play pitched a 61-yard touchdown pass. A few minutes later he was hit again on the same type of play.

The six-foot, 205-pound Bright was the first negro to play football at Stillwater. After that 1949 game, Bright and his Drake teammates praised the sportsman-like conduct of the Aggies.

"I intend to call Drake Coach Warren Gaer and explain everything to him."

75 Yards Before Injury

Bright was 75 yards passing and rushing for his college career up to the Aggie game and he picked up 61 yards passing and 14 running before being injured.

In Des Moines, Drake athletic director Jack McClelland said the Drake athletic council would meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday to discuss the incident.

"Every shred of evidence is being gathered and will be presented," McClelland said. He added:

"We have always enjoyed the best of relations with Oklahoma A. and M."

Gov. William S. Beardsley of Iowa, commenting on Bright's injury, said: "I feel sportsmanship must have been at a low ebb when such an outstanding fair player as Johnny Bright was subject to such physical abuse."

More Cage Scandal to Come, New York Attorney Indicates

CHICAGO (AP)—The scandal that has been smirched some of college basketball's greatest performers apparently hasn't ended.

Even as ex-Kentucky greats Alex Groza and Ralph Beard Monday were whisked to New York—the latest stars to face bribery charges—New York Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor said:

"Our investigation is continuing. You may assume that other schools probably are involved."

O'Connor's superior, District Attorney Hogan, said at New York: "In line with our policy in these cases, we have consistently refused to name schools that are involved until we have the evidence and the arrests are made."

O'Connor's comment came as he was asked about a printed report that as many as seven more schools were to be quizzed in the pointedly rigged scandal that already has touched seven schools and involved some 34 players.

The Chicago Herald-American's basketball expert, Jim Enright, wrote under a banner story Monday that the seven schools that included one in the southern conference.

Already emeshed in the bribing scandal are players from Kentucky, Bradley, Toledo, College of New York, Manhattan Long Island University and New York University.

Appeared in Court
Ashen and solemn, Groza and Beard spent three hours in Cook county criminal court building while appearing before judges to waive extradition for grand jury appearance in New York.

O'Connor, his voice reduced to a whisper from a seven-night, said they would be arraigned in New York today. Beard and Groza were seized here Friday night.

Implicated with Groza and Beard in the most recent cage exposed is Kentucky's 1949 captain, Dale Barstabile. The two are charged with accepting bribes from gamblers to share points against Loyola of Chicago in a 1949 game at Madison Square garden.

"We're Through"
Neither Beard nor Groza, who have been stockholder stars of the Indianapolis Olympians for the past two seasons, was represented by counsel. "What's the use," said Beard. "They tell we're through with basketball."

Hayes made his reshuffling plans before receiving some bad news from the team physician, Dr. Richard Patton, who advised against using all-American halfback Vic Janowicz in the Iowa game this weekend.

Janwicz, Jack-of-all trades in the Buckeye backfield, has been nursing a rib injury for some time and aggravated it in the Indiana game.

Hayes said he was cutting down on the "rough stuff" in practice, explaining that "if we haven't learned to block by now, we'll never learn."

He said the big problem this week was to guard against pessimism on the part of the squad, after two straight not-too-good performances.

BRADFORD TO ARMY
ANN ARBOR, MICH., OCT. 22—Michigan faced a serious reserve problem at the right halfback position Monday with the disclosure that Wes Bradford, present first-stringer, soon will be inducted into the army.

J. B. WHITWORTH, Oklahoma A and M football coach, sadly scanned newspaper photos of the play on which Johnny Bright, Drake's star, received a fractured jaw. After seeing movies of the game, Whitworth said Bright was the victim of an illegal block thrown unintentionally by a keyed up Aggie tackler.

Aggie Coach Sees for Himself
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Coach Jess Hill of Southern California, normally one of the calmest men in the business, spoke angrily about inferences his Trojan team played dirty football against California Saturday.

"I am getting sick and tired of the things that seem to be said after every one of our games," Hill told a standing room only meeting of the Southern California football writers association.

Hill was standing just behind his two captains, linebacker Pat Cannamela and quarterback Dean Schneider. He introduced them as "two of the finest co-captains that can be found in football."

It was Cannamela's performance which brought charges from some San Francisco football writers that USC played it foul and that Cannamela was responsible for the injury to Cal's star fullback, Johnny Olzewski.

blocked, out-charged, out-tackled, and out-fought California. It was a hard, a rugged football game. It was a game I am proud to have had a part in."

Hill declared that Cannamela's first tackle of Olzewski was "one of the finest, cleanest tackles I have ever seen. He had his arms around the legs between the knee and the hips."

Hawks Turn To 'Revenge' Tilt

Ohio State Next For Iowa Gridders

An unimpressive loser to Michigan last Saturday, Iowa turned to its "revenge" game with Ohio State at Columbus this weekend.

The Hawkeys, of course, will be out to make some kind of amends for that 83-21 nightmare of last year when the talent laden Buckeyes did everything but chase Iowa out of the ball park.

It shouldn't be too difficult an assignment, therefore, for Coach Leonard Raffensperger to get the team up for this one.

Score Not Necessary
"The squad feels that such a score was not necessary last year," Raff said.

"We have 19 seniors who played in that game and all season they have been determined that Ohio State should pay for that one."

The Buckeyes, however, also figure to be hopped for this one after their disappointing 32-10 upset by Indiana last Saturday.

Ohio, with "the best squad of material" Iowa scout Waddy Davis says he has seen this year, has defeated SMU, 7-0; tied Wisconsin, 6-6; and lost to Michigan State, 24-20, in addition to the Indiana setback.

Buckeye Alums Howling
And of course, such results have not been too pleasing to the howling Buckeye alumni already said to be "down" on new coach Woody Hayes.

All Iowa players were in uniform Monday except tackle Hubert Johnston. Johnston received a charley horse against Michigan and confined his activity to jogging around the field.

Other Hawkeye injuries were Dusty Rice with a bad cut over the eye, and Arnie Caplan, who again aggravated a chronically bad shoulder. All, however, should be ready in plenty of time for Saturday.

The regulars were let off with a light signal drill but the reserves went through a scrimmage.

The Hawks will have a shortened week of practice since they are scheduled to leave Iowa City Thursday morning for a plane trip to Columbus. They will work out in Columbus Friday afternoon.

Investigate Rumors, Vanderbilt Urges

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Use of "rumor investigators" as a method of helping to end corruption in sports was suggested Monday by Alfred G. Vanderbilt.

The prominent race horse owner said he thought the trouble with most sports operations is that rumors are ignored as baseless without an investigation. He said:

"When a promoter hears a rumor, he should track it down, regardless of how ridiculous or unbelievable it might sound. It is his opportunity to clean up his own house. If he doesn't and the rumor becomes reality, then someone else will clean the house for him."

Three Dodgers Named To AP All-Star Team

Phil Rizzuto Got Least Votes

Stan Musial Got Most Votes

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn's deflated Dodgers couldn't quite make the World Series but they dominated the 1951 Associated Press major league all-star team, winning three of the 10 positions.

Half of the 16 big league clubs, four in each circuit, are represented in the AP's sixth annual all-star squad, selected Monday by 186 members of the Baseball Writer's association of America.

The Dodgers are the only club to have more than one representative. Oddly enough, the pennant-winning New York Yankees and New York Giants placed only one member each on the stellar squad.

Other teams represented are the Boston Red Sox, Detroit Tigers, Philadelphia Athletics, St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates.

The all-star team:
First base—Ferris Fain, Athletics
Second base—Jackie Robinson, Dodgers

Shortstop—Phil Rizzuto, Yankees
Third base—George Kell, Tigers
Right field—Ralph Kiner, Pirates
Center field—Stan Musial, Cardinals

Catcher, Roy Campanella, Dodgers
Lethanded pitcher—Preacher Roe, Dodgers
Righthanded pitcher—Sal Maglie, Giants

Five of the players are holdovers from the 1950 all-star squad. They are Robinson, Kell, Rizzuto, Kiner and Musial, who missed out only once since the poll was inaugurated in 1946, received the most votes, 185.

The National league batting king was one short of a unanimous vote. Six of his votes, however, were for first base. The rest were for outfield.

Williams, who failed to make the team last year because of a fractured elbow, was back in left field, a position he has won every other year.

Only Rizzuto and Williams, baseball's most valuable players in 1950 and '49, respectively, had strong competition. The Yankee shortstop, who performed so sensationally in the World series, received the smallest number of votes by a winner. His 79 votes topped a field of six with Chico Carrasquel of the Chicago White Sox second with 43 votes.

Williams drew 102 to beat out the Giants' Monte Irvin for the third spot in the outfield, Irvin, the National league's runs-batted-in leader, had 85. Musial and Kiner, the other all-star flycatchers, received 179 and 105 votes, respectively.

Robinson walked off with second base honors, obtaining 180 votes. Kell was favored by 144 writers for third base. Rookie Gil McDougald of the Yankees was second best with only 24. Fain, American league batting champ, won the first base job from Brooklyn's Gil Hodges, 111 to 67.

Campanella dethroned Yogi Berra of the Yankees behind the plate, 189 to 19. They were the only catchers named.

Roe (22-3), boasting the best percentage among the pitchers, was named on 116 ballots to win the southpaw nomination over Warren Spahn (22-14) of the Boston Braves.

State Is Named Defendant in 2 Damage Suits

Jurors were selected Monday in district court for the trial of a $17,000 damage suit against the state highway commission. The case is brought by Roy and Margaret Greer asking payment for damages to their farm during construction of the highway 6 cutoff south of Coralville last summer. The plaintiffs claim that about one and one-half acres of their land was used for the highway right-of-way, and dirt for raising the highway was taken from another four acres. They also point out that their farm has been damaged by the highway running across it. The Greers were offered $1,600 last May for the land used in condemnation proceedings carried out by a sheriff's court. The highway commission was also the defendant in a second damage suit filed by Robert O. Schmitt, operator of the Zesto stand between Iowa City and Coralville. The plaintiff claims the defendant took no action to condemn and assess damages that might be incurred before highway construction began.

Schmitt said he suffered a business loss between July 31 and Sept. 28 when the highway was closed. He also claims the highway was elevated which now puts his stand eight feet below the level of the road. Schmitt asked the court to direct the defendant to begin condemnation proceedings to determine the amount he will receive for his damages.

A limited cab driver had been observing Erickson's actions and radioed police his location. Police said Erickson struck cars belonging to Darwin Larson, Storm Lake; Rex Hansman, 318 E. Benton st., and Marvin Hiller, Dysart, at Iowa ave. and Clinton st., and a car belonging to Bonnie Partox, 318 S. Linn st., on the Iowa ave. bridge.
