Mediators Try To Settle N.Y. Dock Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's top trouble shooter came to New York Tuesday to try to untangle a wildcat dock strike that is choking the east coast.

Federal mediation director Cyrus S. Ching sent his chief aide, Clyde Mills, on the hurried mission as a cry arose for White House intervention in the snowballing strike.

Hills got here a few hours after CIO seamen threw their weight behind the dock strike and threatened to idle passenger liners as well as cargo ships.

He joined a three-man panel of federal mediators already on the scene.

Rebel AFL dock workers have crippled the vast port of New York, as tens of thousands of tons of supplies backed up.

Ships also were tied up at Boston and Albany, N.Y. Stevedores there quit in sympathy with the New York strike.

Air force materiel ticketed for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's North Atlantic treaty forces in Europe lay on Newark docks. Stevedores there refused to touch it.

Army supplies were tied up at military bases in Brooklyn and Staten Island. Troop transports were being loaded, but on a sketchy basis and with under-manned crews of stevedores.

However, a strike leader said a hitch that developed at Staten Island over the trooships was "a mistake."

Frank Fitzpatrick, local 791 president, said he had a son of his own in Korea and pledged his striking stevedores to load trooships from here on out "for nothing, if necessary."

Picketing will be intensified at every other kind of dock, however, even army supply bases, he added.

Larson Predicts Courts Will Uphold Gambling Law

KEOKUK (AP)—Plans for a court test of the constitutionality of Iowa's 1951 anti-gambling law were announced today and Atty. General Robert L. Larson predicted in Des Moines that the act will be upheld.

William Hollingsworth, Keokuk attorney, announced the plan to challenge the law which the last legislature passed on Larson's recommendation.

The Iowa tax commission invoked the law yesterday in cancelling the sales tax permits of four Keokuk establishments—the Lake Shore, Harrington's grill, the Porter Cigar store, and the Hickey Cigar store. The places were involved in recent gambling raids by state agents.

Hollingsworth said he and H. F. Martin, another Keokuk attorney, will ask the courts to invalidate the law.

Martin earlier had filed a brief in which he said the Keokuk community resents "state authorities coming into our town telling us how to run it, making guinea pigs out of us and testing their unconstitutional laws."

The Keokuk revocations mark the first time the state has used the anti-gambling law on a large scale in any Iowa community.

In Des Moines, Larson said any community which wishes to avoid having state law enforcement officials come in should "keep its own house in order, particularly as to gambling."

As to the anti-gambling law's constitutionality, Larson said:

"We would be very happy to have anyone try a test of that law in the courts. We are quite certain that any court test would result in the act being upheld."

determined to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind, and to reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person, in the equal rights of men and women and of nations large and small, and to establish conditions under which justice and respect for the obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law can be maintained, and to promote social progress and better standards of life in larger freedom, and for these ends

to practice tolerance and live together in peace with one another as good neighbors, and to unite our strength to maintain international peace and security, and to ensure, by the acceptance of principles and the institution of methods, that armed force shall not be used, save in the common interest, and to employ international machinery for the promotion of the economic and social advancement of all peoples, have resolved to combine our efforts to accomplish these aims.

Supporters Consider 2-Way Strategy to Get 'Ike' Nominated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's backers are considering a two-way strategy for getting him into the Republican presidential race without a formal declaration of candidacy, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Urgent strategy talks have been held by pro-Eisenhower GOP leaders since Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio announced his candidacy last week. Eisenhower forces believe they must get a formal campaign started soon or local GOP leaders all over the country will jump on the Taft bandwagon for political self-protection.

The Eisenhower supporters, including Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Sen. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania and Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas, repeatedly have voiced confidence that he is "available" for the nomination.

The two-pronged strategy which the Eisenhower forces may use to get around this hitch calls for:

1. Setting up a national "Eisenhower for president" campaign organization in the near future. The move might be announced either at a meeting, or in a joint statement, by leading Eisenhower backers.

2. Entering Eisenhower's name in the New Hampshire Republican presidential primary next March 11. This is the first primary to be held, but its chief attraction for Eisenhower backers is an unusual proviso of the New Hampshire primary law which never before applied in a presidential campaign.

The law says that any person's name may be placed on the ballot by a petition signed by 100 voters. Every such nominee is notified formally by the state and has 10 days in which to issue a public demand that his name be withdrawn.

If the nominee says nothing, his name stays on the ballot.

Political strategists believe this provides Eisenhower supporters with exactly the kind of situation they need—the kind in which "silence gives consent."

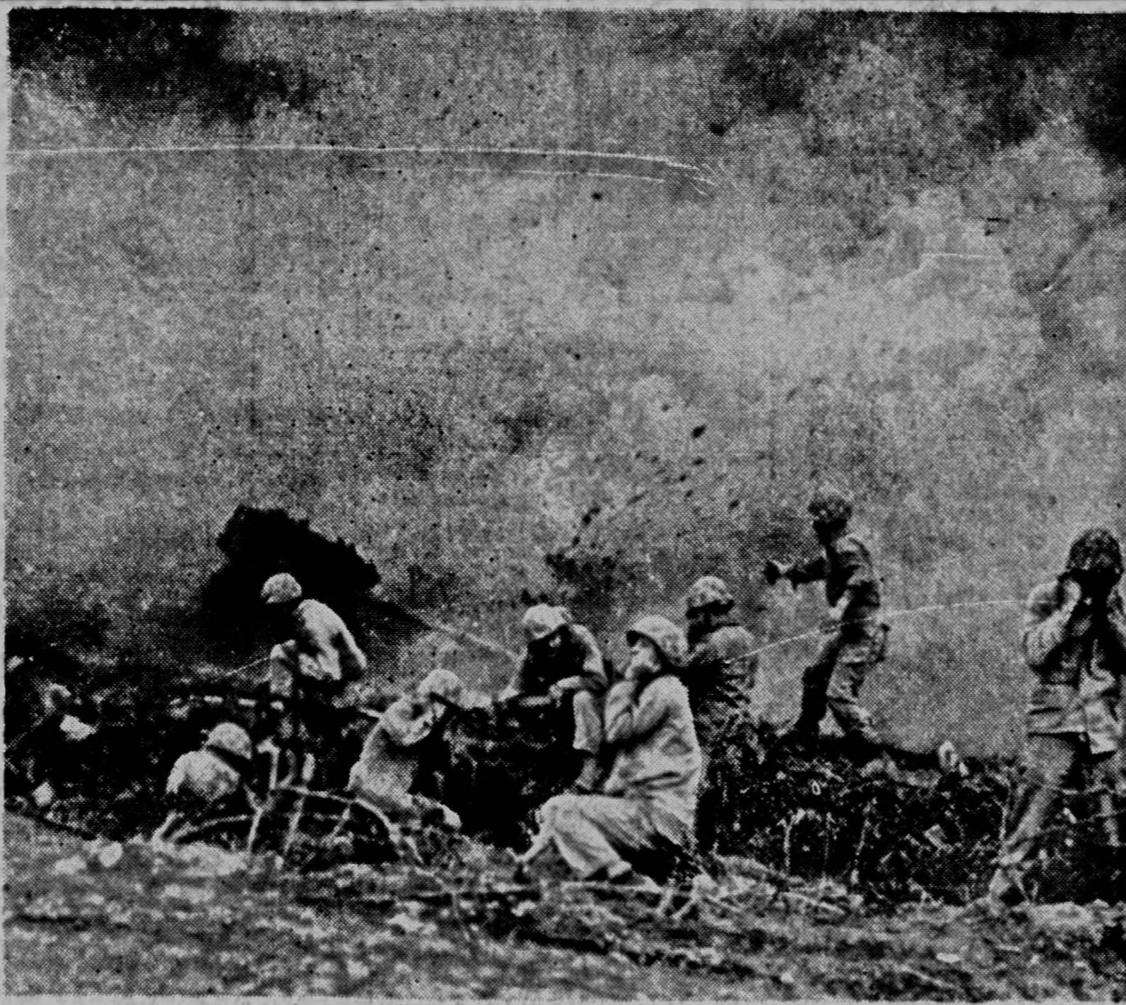

Tryout Dates Set For Kampus Kapers

Kampus Kapers of 1952 will be produced under the direction of Robert E. Devoe, A4, Dubuque with a script written by Gil Taylor, A2, Erie, Pa.

Tryout dates have been set for Oct. 30, 31, and Nov. 1 in Macbride auditorium from 7 to 10 p.m.

The show will be of the variety type and vocalists, dancers, actors, and comedians are all needed.

Any students interested in production work on Kampus Kapers are asked to contact either Pat Vannice, 8-1866, or Bob Newman, X-3086 by Friday.

Anti-British Riots Halted by Police In Egyptian Cities

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Police fired into unruly mobs in Alexandria and used tear gas to disperse crowds which roamed the streets of Cairo Tuesday in anti-British demonstrations.

One demonstrator was reported killed in Alexandria, where police charged with clubs and then used their guns when a crowd of several thousand refused to break up.

Interior Minister Fuad Serag Ed-Din Pasha told reporters traitors and criminals had infiltrated into demonstrations planned as a day of mourning for Egyptian "martyrs". They were killed in a week of riots and clashes with the British over the Suez canal zone and the Sudan.

He said he had given orders to police to fire into demonstrators if necessary to break them up.

Cairo mobs shouting "give us arms" smashed bottles, burned a signboard advertising a western movie and broke a few windows. Two crowds, demonstrating before the British consulate and a movie house, were scattered by tear gas.

Another crowd broke over the Boulaq bridge from one of the toughest districts of Cairo into Zamalek, a foreign residential district on an island in the Nile. They were finally chased out after shouting pro-Soviet slogans in front of the Russian legation. For more than four hours another crowd of about 1,000 marched along the bridge, their way barred by several truckloads of police.

The senate adjourned Saturday night until Jan. 8, without acting either on the nomination itself or on an accompanying bill to cover Clark's military status.

Short said the President had received a legal opinion that an 1870 law would forbid the general as a military man to take the post without such a special act as was passed when Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith became ambassador to the U.S.S.R. and when Gen. Omar Bradley took a tour of duty as veterans administrator.

1. Legislation is necessary to permit the general to accept the diplomatic assignment and still keep his army status, which he does not want to give up.

2. Clark himself has some work he wants to complete as Chief of Army Field Forces before undertaking the ambassadorial assignment.

Soviet deputy commandant V. Sussin bowed to the demands of American authorities and ordered the police from the 50-family border village which had been under West Berlin administration since 1945.

The police slipped out easily Tuesday morning, as quietly as they slipped into Steinstecken last Thursday night.

U.S. Maj. Gen. Lemuel B. Mathewson had told Sussin he would not tolerate the aggressive move into the village. He proposed that the Russians get the East German police out of there and then meet with the Americans "like gentlemen" to decide who owns it.

Backed up by the British and French, Mathewson threatened counter-measures and there were some hints the western powers might seize the Russian Radio Berlin, which has been allowed to continue to function inside the British sector.

He said the depreciation of the American dollar between 1941 and 1950 had cost the public more than $116 billion in the value of life insurance policies, bank deposits and savings bonds.

McKenna, an industrialist and head of the Kennametal company, said "the basic cause of today's inflation is government deficit spending and the loose money and credit policies that have been practiced since the cancellation of the redeemable gold standard."

He said that dictators of the world have always been tied in with irredeemable currency. He said "the basic question" now is whether the people are to become "the subjects of an uncontrollable government or whether we will make it our responsive and responsible agent as intended by our federal constitution."

Truman Calls Off Clark's Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House Tuesday night called off all plans for diplomatic representation at the Vatican until the Senate can pass on the nomination of Gen. Mark Clark to be the first U.S. ambassador to the Catholic church state.

Press Secretary Joseph Short announced that President Truman has decided against a recess appointment for Clark.

Shortly after that, in answer to questions, Short said there are no plans to set up an interim embassy and to do business until a regular ambassador is confirmed.

Gives Two Reasons

Short said the decision was based on two considerations:

1. Legislation is necessary to permit the general to accept the diplomatic assignment and still keep his army status, which he does not want to give up.

2. Clark himself has some work he wants to complete as Chief of Army Field Forces before undertaking the ambassadorial assignment.

Atomic Scientists Prepare 19th Blast

LAS VEGAS, NEV. (AP)—Atomic scientists, spurred by news of Russia's third nuclear blast, returned to the Nevada test site Tuesday preparing to set off what probably will be America's nineteenth.

The explosion, expectable at sunrise Thursday if the weather is favorable, will not be another "super-pooper" like Monday's miniature experiment, the atomic energy commission said.

"I think we're ready to give you boys something you can see," an AEC spokesman told newsmen.

Exercise Desert Rock—Involving 5,000 troops near the test site—probably will not get underway until early next week.

Reds Agree To Terms For Renewal Of Talks

250 Allied, Red Jets in Biggest Aerial Battle

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea (WEDNESDAY) (AP)—Nearly 250 Allied and Communist jets tangled Tuesday in history's biggest jet battle. It swirled around a force of B-29 Superforts pressing home the second bombing attack in two days against new Communist air bases in northwest Korea.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo said today the Allied pilots destroyed or damaged 20 Communist jets.

The Far East air force said three Superfort bombers and one Thunder fighter were shot down.

The Communist jet pilots roared out of Manchuria to defend a nearly completed air field at Nam-si near the Yalu river boundary. They pressed home the attack against the big Superforts while the bombers were making their runs and then pursued them like hornets on the homeward flight.

The Russian-made jet fighters bore down in against the big bombers despite attacks by between 80 and 96 Allied jets flying cover protection for the B-29s.

The flashing jet battles were fought at speeds in excess of 600 miles an hour.

The Allies listed eight Communist jets shot down, two probably destroyed and 10 damaged.

The board also approved the resignation of Seymour M. Pitcher, associate professor of English, effective at the beginning of the current academic year. Pitcher has accepted a position at Champlain college, State University of New York.

In essence, the security rules call for a 1,000-yard neutral zone around Panmunjom; a security zone of three miles in radius around Kaesong and the UN base at Munsan and a 400-meter attack-free corridor straddling the Kaesong-Munsan road.

Reds Delay Signing

The Panmunjom agreement setting up new security rules was signed Monday by Allied and Red liaison officers and ratified a few days later by the Allied true delegation. The Reds delayed their approval 48 hours.

Their ratification came after Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung had called on the United States to settle the Korean war by peaceful means.

A Peiping radio English language broadcast quoted Mao as saying:

"The great struggle to resist American aggression and aid Korea is now continuing. It must be carried on until the U.S. government is willing to settle the question peacefully."

Maj. Gen. Glen E. Edgerton, director of the project, emphasized never that each decorative alteration will faithfully reflect the evolution of the classic Georgian manor although some of the claims of its former occupants will be quietly ignored.

Draperies, rugs, furniture and even roof decorations will be based on authentic patterns recorded in the national archives, but there will be a real facelift. Gone will be the poorly-lighted and most times depressing austerity which has characterized the mansion through the decades. The fine arts commission has approved all the plans—including decorative choices of the Truman family for their individual suites in the second floor.

The rebuilt structure will have 97 rooms, 72 of them on the four main floors. This is 10 more than in the old mansion. Two new basements (the original edifice was built without a cellar) will house 11 rooms, including a freezer room for the first family's food storage units; work rooms; and space for the newly-installed air-conditioning equipment.

The architects have built in extra baths too—a boon to residential families who historically have trudged across the hill to the bath. There will be 19 full baths and nine half-baths. Edgerton displayed to a press conference water color sketches showing the completed rooms will look. Some were identified only as "a room on the second floor," it was easy to detect which could belong to the various members of the Truman family. The sketches revealed that all the Trumans have a preference for pink. The president's bedroom and Mrs. Truman's and daughter Margaret's sitting rooms all will

Carnival of Bands To Be Saturday At Iowa Union

An afternoon of music will be provided Saturday, Oct. 27 at the Iowa Union with the annual Carnival of Bands.

Nine bands will be playing at different times in the afternoon from 2 to 5 in the main lounge, River room and cafeteria.

All students are urged to attend this afternoon of free music. Arrangements have been made through the various housing units for transportation to the event.

Those scheduled to play in the main lounge are Bill Meardon, Larry Barret and Clayton Heyne. In the cafeteria Bobby Cotter and Leo Cortimiglia will play.

Fred King, Ogden Frazier and Shagg Heyne will be in the River room.

The Wisconsin - Northwestern football game will be on television in the north and south lobbies and the Iowa-Omaha State game will be on the radio in the music room and soda fountain.

U.S. Request to Halt Color TV Production Causes Predictions

NEW YORK (AP) — The government's request for a halt in color television set production can be expected to have these effects:

1. It indefinitely postpones the arrival of color television for the public. Industry estimates range from two years upward.

2. It will tend to remove the uncertainty in the minds of present and prospective set-owners as to whether present type black and white sets will retain their full usefulness. They will for years to come.

3. It will give more time for perfection of other color systems and increase the possibility of a review of color TV developments by the federal communications commission before full scale operations begin.

By having to wait, the public—when it does get color TV—probably will get better sets and better color. That should be true regardless of whether the Columbia Broadcasting system's color is retained or another system should be adopted in its place.

CBS President Frank Stanton said his company, within the limits of the defense program, intended "to continue experimental and developmental work during the period of manufacturing suspension." It will try, he said, to bring out an inexpensive and simple adapter to enable a present type set to receive CBS color telecasts in black and white.

CBS, incidentally, will end its color broadcasts after Saturday's showing of the Maryland-North Carolina football game.

The government request for suspension of color TV productions as a material conservation measure bore out predictions made for months by many manufacturers that defense demands would prevent large scale development of color telecasting "for the duration."

Only a handful of manufacturers had announced plans to make CBS-type sets or converters and only CBS' subsidiary CBS-Columbia Inc., had actually put sets on the market.

IC Women's Club To Meet Thursday

Iowa City Woman's club, social science division, will have as its guest speaker Thursday at 12:30 p.m., in the Community building. Mrs. George Glocker who will speak on "Glimpses of Europe."

Members of the committee in charge of the meeting are Mrs. R. R. Chapman, Mrs. Roy Busby, Mrs. Bruce Gibson, Mrs. O. N. Riggs, Mrs. W. E. Bockenthien, and Mrs. Albert Watt.

Approximately one thousand student council members from high schools in Iowa were present. Fourteen members of the U-High student council attended the meeting.

Louis Maher presided over the meeting of the eastern Iowa delegates. Sidney Winter was elected to the cabinet of the State Association of Student Councils and Nick Johnson was selected as a hold-over member of the State Cabinet.

Tunnell Going Great—

Iowa is not generally considered a school productive of professional football talent, but the work of two former Hawkeyes is doing much to alter that idea.

Emlen Tunnell

Hawkeye Makes Good

Grounds and his feats were duly recorded in the New York press the following day.

One of the stories, though a bit dated, should be of interest to Iowans. It was by Joe King of the New York World-Telegram and Sun, who wrote:

"The story of Em Tunnell as a brilliant receiver of kicks goes back to a gallant day in the Polo Grounds in 1948. The Negro halfback was a rookie, he was new on defense, and Steve Owen, coach, advised him to make a fair catch when he was closely rushed. Tunnell made one fair catch and he was booted. The crowd continued to jeer the youngster and his errors accumulated."

"From that day Owen has never convinced Tunnell a fair catch can be the better part of valor."

The 26-year-old halfback seemed to have proved his point by fascinating the fans at the Polo Grounds Sunday with his 82-yard touchdown cruise among the bewildered Cardinals, and the coach is not complaining. Instead, Owen is miffed with the equipment man for failing to keep lightweight jerseys in stock. Tunnell would have been clear for a touchdown on another long jaunt had his shirt been of flimsy material that would tear when grabbed.

Tunnell is single and lives in Garrett Hill, Pa., with his family. He weighs 183 and stands six-one.

Was Not a 'Name' Player

"He attended Iowa, was on the crack basketball squad there, and was a football regular, but he was not a 'name' player."

"Far from it. He had arranged to play semi-pro football in Philadelphia when he walked into the Giant office here in June of 1948 and asked for a job."

"The Giants took the trouble to look him up. They got a recommendation from Doc Spears, who had coached Em for one year at Toledo before the boy went into service. Dr. Eddie Anderson of Iowa touted Tunnell highly, and told the Giants not to worry about a possible added year of college eligibility."

"Go ahead and sign him," wrote Eddie "because I can't keep him in classes. He says he can't sit that long."

"There was another angle to consider. Tunnell would be the first colored boy on a squad which had a majority of Southern players."

"That was no problem. After three days in camp at Superior (Wis.)," stated Owen, "Em was going to the movies with them all, and he was and is as popular as any man on the team."

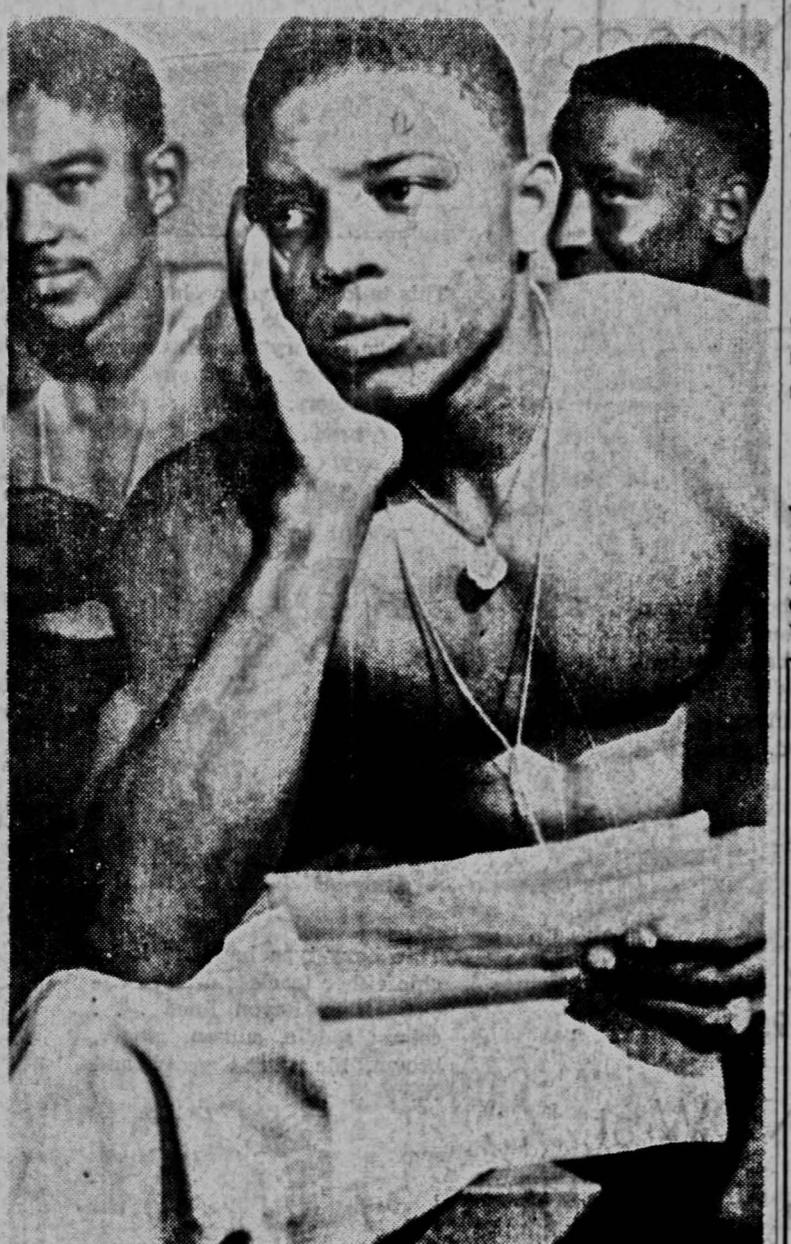

"After Em's 82-yarder Sunday, Ed Price of New Orleans planted a great big kiss on his cheek."

"Tunnell was switched to defense midway of his rookie year and, Owen believes, hit his stride in a late game against Green Bay at Milwaukee when he intercepted several passes and made his first great tackle on Jack Jacobs, the Indian passer."

"Emil first became celebrated on defense in 1949 when he held the safety line alone. Last year Otto Schnellbacher shared it."

"Emil is an attacking player, too. He can throw a ball as far as anyone on the team, about 65 yards. Anderson tried to make him a T quarterback but gave up. Tunnell liked to throw so well that he grinned for a tipoff while calling the pass signal."

Mays Takes Physical

Hawks See Buckeye Plays

More Action Due For Binkey Broeder

Iowa's football team continued to be bounded by the elements Tuesday, the Hawkeyes again being forced to drill indoors in the fieldhouse due to rain.

There the defensive platoon got its first look at the new Ohio State offense as run by a team of freshmen directed by Scout Waddy Davis.

The new Buckeye offense taught by Waddy Hayes is mostly a straight T formation with occasional single wing plays thrown in. Thus far it hasn't produced touchdowns in the spectacular fashion the 1950 single wing team of Wes Fessler did, especially in its 93-21 rout of Iowa.

Work Cut Out

But with most of last year's fine personnel still on hand, the Hawks will still have their work cut out for them.

The Iowa offensive team drilled on sharpening its attack which fell down against Michigan. But the cramped quarters of the fieldhouse prevented any full scale scrimmaging.

It was indicated Tuesday night by Coach Leonard Raffensperger that George (Binkey) Broeder, highly touted freshman halfback from St. Louis, will see more action against Ohio at right halfback.

Recovered from Injury

Broeder is now fully recovered from a rib injury suffered in a scrimmage two weeks ago.

He has been impressive in his brief appearances thus far.

Tackle Hubert Johnston continued to hobble from a bad charley horse suffered against the Wolverines, but Johnston expects to be available against Ohio.

If Johnston is not ready, Dudley Noble, who plays both sides of the line, will fill in, Raffensperger said.

Burt Britzman threw several passes in Tuesday's drills but continued to report pain in his bad shoulder which has been diagnosed as an injured nerve or muscle.

Reichardt Top Rusher

Statistically speaking Bill Reichardt has taken over the top spot among Iowa ball carriers as his 152 yards against Michigan gave him a total of 325 for the season.

The best average, however, belongs to Loranzo Williams, who has gained 7.2 yards per carry. This was made on 18 attempts compared to Reichardt's 72.

Dusty Rice, the previous rushing leader, is second with 227 yards for a 5-yard average.

Reichardt's 152 yards against the Wolverines was 31 behind the modern era Iowa record of Jerry Fiske, who picked up 183 against Northwestern in 1949.

Top individuals included Fred Ruck, catcher of 10 passes for 124 yards and Rice 8 for 174; Britzman, completing 32 of 66 passes for 470 yards and five touchdowns; and Chuck Denning with a 40-yard punting average.

Hayes Shifts Backs For Iowa Game

COLUMBUS, O. (UPI) — Ohio State's backfield probably will be completely revised Saturday in the Iowa game here, Coach Woody Hayes said Tuesday.

Hayes indicated he may switch Tony Cucillo from quarterback to fullback, a position he played for two years at Elyria (O.) high school. Quarterbacking in that case would be Bill Wilks, who is rated by Hayes as a better passer.

Vic Janowicz, who was injured in last Saturday's game with Indiana, will not play this weekend and probably will be replaced by Bernie Skvarka, who subbed for him in the last half of Saturday's game.

The Buckeye mentor said light-workers were scheduled this week, with plenty of attention on pass defense in anticipation of an Iowa aerial barrage.

Tennessee Named Nation's Top Team; Spartans Second

which took over the coveted No. 1 spot Tuesday in the weekly Associated Press football poll, stands a good chance of staying on the top rung the rest of the season.

The powerful Vols, voted the team most likely to be No. 1 in the AP's annual "crystal ball" poll before the season, have a half-dozen games left but they're against Tennessee Tech, North Carolina, Washington and Lee, Mississippi, Kentucky and Vanderbilt.

North Carolina and Kentucky, which seem to have found the winning combination, could cause trouble. But both have been beaten soundly on occasion this year, and if Gen. Bob Neyland's lads keep up their present pace, they should sail through.

Tennessee thus finally made the grade after threatening for three weeks. After the Vols thrashed Alabama, 27-13, the nation's sports writers and sportscasters gave Tennessee 1,354 votes to 1,204 for second place Michigan State. State again had to come from behind, this time to whip Penn State 32-31.

Oosterbaan Gets Backing Of Administration

ANN ARBOR, MICH. (AP) — The University of Michigan Tuesday

gave an unconditional vote of confidence to Coach Bennie Oosterbaan and his Wolverine football staff.

"We believe we have a highly competent coaching staff and athletic administration," said Vice-President Marvin Niehuss. "Athletics is being handled as we would like to have it handled."

Among other speakers before a meeting of about 50 sports writers and publicity men was Michigan Athletic Director Fritz Crisler.

Drake to Protest Bright Injury As 'Malicious and Intentional'

Beauty Queen Held On Drug Charge

(AP Wirephoto)
CHICAGO (AP) — Peggy Ellsworth, 24, beauteous blonde who was Miss Michigan of 1947, was jailed in a narcotics investigation Tuesday but convinced authorities she no longer uses drugs.

She admitted she became an addict after winning her beauty queen title, but she cured herself and hasn't touched the stuff for six months.

Miss Ellsworth was arrested late last night in the company of two admitted addicts. She broke from an automobile and tried to flee but a patrolman captured her in a brief chase.

"For example, consider a man who to outward appearances is the aggressive, masculine type," Winch said. "Perhaps this man has unconsciously been using this display of masculinity to cover up feelings of dependency he's had since he was a boy."

"Not being conscious of this feeling he might marry the 'clinging yin' type—who wouldn't be able to help him much. What the man would seem to need is the maternal type of spouse."

Winch, who is 40 and married, is using 25 married couples who attend college in his study.

Winch is conducting his study into the "hidden needs" by a series of tests and interviews given the students. First, Winch or one of his three fellow-workers attempt to find out what the student consciously looked for in a mate.

"This section is relatively easy," he said. "But the big problem is finding out what the man or woman needs in a spouse but doesn't know what he or she needs."

He said he hopes to reach at least tentative conclusions after another year-and-a-half. The federal security agency has granted him $12,000 for the study.

Her downfall, she said, was when she fell in love with a Detroit musician who was an addict and tried to cure him. Instead she wound up using drugs herself.

"I got so confused I thought of dope as an out," the beauty said. She first was arrested as an addict in Detroit but was given a suspended sentence.

She said she cured herself by "holing up" in Canada with her grandparents and eventually wound up in Chicago working part-time at a job and taking piano lessons.

"I don't know what I'm going to do now," she added.

Government Careers Open To Students

Any SUI seniors or graduate students who are interested in careers with the state department should find out if they qualify for the foreign affairs intern program.

Fifty trainees from the United States will be selected from those who pass the civil service junior management assistant examination.

To be considered for the program a student must also be nominated by a committee headed on the SUI campus by Prof. Kirk Porter, political science department.

Applications for the test must be on file by Nov. 13, so that the test may be taken Dec. 8.

In order that the SUI committee may consider a student, he must contact either Porter or his student adviser before Dec. 1.

An additional 150 trainees will be selected from those who pass the junior management assistant examination. These will be assigned to one of the state department's operating divisions or bureaus after their training.

Any student wishing further information or applications should contact Prof. Russell Ross, political science department.

The plaintiff claims the defendant has failed to meet his obligation and has owed $4,574 in back alimony.

Prof. H. J. Thornton of the history department, was elected president of the Iowa City Kiwanis club.

W. Jenkins, treasurer.

Mr. Truman admitted that he couldn't. In the following dispatch, the professor gives enlightenment.

EVANSTON, ILL. (UPI) — Dr. Robert F. Winch said Tuesday he is studying the "hidden needs" that make John fall in love with Mary, or vice versa.

It might be called a study of what is this thing called love, but Winch, associate professor of sociology at Northwestern university, said it is much more than that.

He explained that many men and women are motivated by unconscious demands in their courtship and marriage, which must be satisfied by the spouse or the marriage may go on the rocks.

"For example, consider a man who to outward appearances is the aggressive, masculine type," Winch said. "Perhaps this man has unconsciously been using this display of masculinity to cover up feelings of dependency he's had since he was a boy."

JAMES M. Nuckles, 64, 702 N. Van Buren st., died at Mercy hospital Monday, after a long illness.

He was born Jan. 22, 1887, near Downey, the son of George and Anna Nuckles. After his first wife died, he married Mrs. Margaret Naughton, Oct. 6, 1948. The couple moved to Iowa City a year ago.

Mr. Nuckles is survived by his wife.

Friends may call until 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Beckman funeral home. Burial will be in the West Branch cemetery.

37 Johnson County Men
Take Physicals Friday

Thirty-seven men from Johnson county will report to Des Moines Friday for pre-induction physicals, local draft board officials said Tuesday.

This will mark the second group of draft-eligible men from the county to be examined this month.

Thirty-one others were examined in Des Moines Oct. 9.

The two groups are the first to be sent from this county since June.

State Police Kill Ex-Prisoner In Gun Siege

PETERSBURG, VA. (UPI) — A Negro who became a raving gunman after 14 docile years in a state mental hospital, killed one man, wounded seven others and stood off more than 100 police for seven hours Tuesday before he was slain.

Eleven state troopers, led by Capt. W. H. Holland, commander of the First Virginia State Police division, shot Herbert Johnson, 36, when they stormed the farmhouse where he had barricaded himself after fleeing from a potato field in an old Civil War battlefield.

While 50 other troopers covered them, Holland and his crew blasted a hole in the ceiling of the burning farmhouse. A trooper rammed a shotgun through and killed Johnson as the Negro leveled his stolen shotgun.

Gunfire ripped plaster off the walls and not a square foot of wood was left unmarked by shotgun fire. Holland's men were under orders not to use rifles because a crowd of at least 5,000 had burst past roadblocks to watch the fight. Police used an armored car and airplanes in the siege.

Colorado state law prohibits publication of names of juveniles placed under arrest until court jurisdiction has been established.

Williams reported the teenagers left Waterloo in a 1930 automobile belonging to the boy's father, and that a warrant for alleged theft had been sent to the sheriff here.

Their parents are on their way here, Williams said, and the two will be turned over to them.

In Waterloo, the parents asked the public to help locate their children — Larry Jacobsen and Donna Parkhouse.

The pair left in the Jacobsen family automobile. The parents told authorities the two had extra clothing with them and it was thought they may have taken some cooking utensils and food.

Until they were located here, the parents had heard no word from their children.

Runaway Waterloo Youths Picked Up By Colorado Police

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO. — Undersheriff Fred Williams said Tuesday two youngsters were held as runaways from their homes in Waterloo, Iowa.

He said the boy, 16, and the girl, 15, left Waterloo Aug. 13 and had been working here in a hotel. They were picked up by sheriff's officers after their car was involved in a minor traffic accident Monday night.

Sidelights On the News

(Editor's note: The Daily Iowan this week begins a new feature on interesting bits of news affecting SUI and Iowa City. If you have any items for this column, please deposit them with the city editor in the newsroom in East hall.)

A revised system of posting bond for charges of misdemeanors was put into effect this week by Police Judge Emil G. Trott.

His order says, "Residents of Iowa and university students (except near the end of a school term) charged with a misdemeanor may be ordered to appear at a certain time and need not post bond, but the officer in his discretion may require the posting of bond."

"Non-residents of Iowa, other than students, shall be required to post bond."

In the past, all persons charged with offenses were required to post bond pending hearing of cases.

Telegrams will cost less this year, Conrad Kaiser, local manager of the Western Union telegraph company said Tuesday.

The 1951 Revenue act, signed by President Truman Wednesday, carries a 40 per cent reduction in the federal excise tax on telegrams. This act, reducing the telegram user's tax from 25 to 15 per cent, will save the American public approximately $14 billion in 1952.

The 25 per cent tax was imposed during the war to discourage civilian use of the wires so more telegraph services would be available to military personnel.

Police were looking for a thief with two pillow slips and several hand towels Tuesday.

Mrs. Elsie Parker, 421 Gilbert st. told police that the slips and towels were stolen from her clothesline sometime Monday night.

Prof. W. O. Aydelotte, chairman of the history department, is author of an article published recently in a volume of essays in Gottingen, Germany.

His essay, entitled "Wolfe Bismarck Kolonialist?", dealt with Bismarck's colonial ideas and the relation of his imperialist policy to his over-all political objectives.

The volume, "Deutschland und Europa," contains contributions from German and American scholars.

Iowa City firemen will demonstrate the use and handling of fire equipment at 2 p.m. today in the parking lot one block north of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Ray Phillips, superintendent of university operations and maintenance, said Tuesday that the demonstration is for the benefit of university personnel.

M. Sgt. Orville L. Russell of the SUI military department has been recalled to extended active duty with a captain's commission.

Russell will leave Nov. 1 to report to Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Police Chief E. J. Ruppert, Detective Ollie White and City Engineer Fred E. Gartzke are in Ames attending the Iowa State college traffic school which began Tuesday.

The meeting is an annual affair to which police and city officials are invited to discuss new methods of traffic control.

A 1933 graduate of the SUI school of journalism will help direct the editorial supervision of the first world wide spot news and picture service for television.

Phil Newson, United Press radio and television news manager, will help supervise the service, which is the most comprehensive and fastest service yet offered to the TV audience.

Seven TV stations (none in the Iowa area) received the service Monday over a specially designed transcontinental news wire and by special air shipments of film leaving New York several times daily.

Dead Corporal Is Honored by Blood Donations

CHICAGO — More than 100 of Jimmy Hlavac's friends and neighbors donated blood Tuesday as a memorial to the young corporal who died in Korea last month.

The kindergarten of Mason public school was converted into a donation center to help the community observe "Cpl. James Hlavac Memorial day."

As each donor entered he signed a book to be given to the youth's parents.

Melvin Debs, a next-door neighbor of the Hlavacs, composed the book's inscription which read: "It is a small token of appreciation, but our blood is the closest thing to our hearts that we can give."

When Debs learned that Jimmy was killed while driving a gasoline truck to front lines in Korea he decided the boys' many friends should "do something to show how much we admired the kid."

UN Scholarship Students at SUI

Free people all over the world today are commemorating United Nations day, but it has special significance for two SUI students.

Because of United Nations aid, Masihur Chowdhury and Sangarm Chaixanien can further their education and bring back to their country had made on Sangarm.

They could not find words for their high esteem of the United Nations and for what it was doing for them. In Thailand and Pakistan, too, they added, the people have full faith in the world organization.

Masihur had some ideas about world peace.

"We can only achieve a peaceful settlement of differences," he said, "by mutual cooperation and sympathetic understanding on all sides."

"They are helping much," Masihur said as he pointed to a large United Nations poster.

Federalists to Hold Discussion Tonight

Observance of United Nations day will be marked by an open discussion at 8 p.m. today in the Iowa Union under the auspices of the United World Federalists.

The meeting will feature David M. Stanley, member of the National Executive Council of the Federalists, who will explain the strength and weaknesses of the present United Nations charter and lead an open discussion on Federalist proposals for amending the charter in line with the aim of creating a limited international government.

Curt Johnson, president of the university chapter of the Federalists said the public and students are invited to listen and participate in this examination of the UN.

They are enjoying every minute of their stay in the United States.

Paul S. Griffith, 1210 Franklin st., for residence, $12,000.

Clara Cross, 1917 G st., for addition to residence, $300.

ACCIDENTS

Cars driven by Herman Cohen, 21 N. Dodge st., and Mrs. Leona Hill, 218 Hawkeye village, collided Monday at 8 a.m. on Washington st. near the University library.

Cohen said he was backing out from the curb and his vision was obscured by the Crandie underpass. Mrs. Hill was driving east on Washington, coming through the pass. The rear of Cohen's car collided with the right side of the Hill auto, causing damages estimated at $150 to Hill's car and $40 to Cohen's car.
