Allied Planes Smash Red Rail Transport in Record Blow

City Vote Shows Swing To Churchill

Hit 36 Engines, 289 Rail Cars; Down 1 MIG

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea (FRIDAY) (AP) — Allied planes smashed the Korean war's record blow at Communist rail transport Thursday. Pilots estimated they destroyed or damaged 36 locomotives and 289 rail cars in a series of bombing and strafing attacks centered in the northwest.

The old mark, set Sept. 19, was 20 locomotives and 272 rail cars destroyed or damaged.

For the fifth straight day, Russian-built MIGs made determined efforts to break up the Allied raids. A total of 80 enemy jets pressed three attacks against 63 or more Allied planes.

Reds Down Corsair The U.S. fifth air force claimed one MIG was damaged in a 10-minute clash between 31 Sabre jets and an estimated 50 MIGs.

The air force reported one marine-piloted Corsair fighter, hit by ground fire, crashed behind enemy lines. It said there was no chance that the pilot survived.

The North Korean army communique, broadcast by Pyongyang radio claimed a bag of six Allied planes without specifying the date. It said one B-29 Superfort was shot down in the Wonsan area and two others were damaged. Twelve Allied fliers—the normal complement of a B-29—were captured, the enemy claimed.

There were no Allied reports of Superforts in action Thursday, but on Wednesday MIGs heavily attacked a flight of eight B-29s across Korea.

U.S. Tanks Attack In the ground war, U.S. Patton tanks spearheaded the western outskirt of Kumsong and shot up the former Red supply base, setting new fires. The rampaging tankers cut through Chinese mortar fire to approach the city, 30 miles north of parallel 38.

Apparently there will be no Allied attempt to seize Kumsong at present. Under the new buffer zone proposal submitted to the Reds at Panmunjom Friday, Allied forces would withdraw 6 1/2 miles to the south of it.

Winter Clothes Push U.S. Cost of Living To All-Time High

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices for clothing, particularly fall and winter apparel, helped Thursday to push the government's cost of living index to a new record high.

The bureau of labor statistics, announcing its figures for Sept. 15, said the latest survey shows living costs were 186.06 per cent of the 1935-39 level. This is a gain of 0.6 per cent in the August 15-September 15 period and an increase of 6.9 per cent as compared with Sept. 1950.

Apparel Costs Up Apparel costs went up 2.7 per cent in the month, to a record high of 209 per cent of the 1935-39 average. Fall and winter clothing had not been figured in the index since the end of last winter, when there were many clearance sales. Also the cost of wool has climbed during the last year.

Food prices edged up during the Aug. 15-Sept. 15 month to 227.3 per cent of the 1935-39 average, a gain of 8.2 per cent in a year. In the 56 cities surveyed, food prices gained in 33, dropped in 21 and were unchanged in two.

The overall gain in living costs will mean a small pay boost for more than 100,000 workers whose pay rate is hitched to changes in the government index. The 100,000 include 70,000 employees of General Electric.

Other Items Other items reacted as follows during the month:

House furnishings, up 0.1 per cent. Gas, electric and ice bills, unchanged. Other fuels, up 0.3 per cent.

Rents, up an average of 1.3 per cent. Miscellaneous, including automobiles, medical and dental fees and transit fares, up 0.4 per cent.

Local Soldier Missing in Korean Action

Pvt. Jack Callahan Missing in Action

Pvt. Jack Callahan, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Callahan, 303 E. Benton st., has been missing in action in Korea since Sept. 7.

His parents have received word from the war department concerning his disappearance. Callahan was with the 35th infantry regiment at the time.

He graduated from St. Patrick's high school in 1950 and entered the service Jan. 22, 1951. He completed his training at Ft. Riley, Kan., and was home on leave last May. He left for Korea in June.

As yet his family has been informed of no other details.

Ohio Student Paper Hits at Gag Rule

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — The student daily newspaper at Ohio State university, home of the "gag rule," complained Thursday that a staff reporter had been ordered to have all stories approved by the university social board before publication.

The Ohio State Lantern said a reporter was kept from a meeting of the social board Wednesday night. He was told by the board that any stories of its activities should be submitted for approval before they could be published. The social board is composed of students and faculty members who make rules for campus dances and entertainment.

A committee of the student senate meanwhile has organized a program to eliminate a "screening" rule which requires all off-campus speakers to be approved by President Howard L. Bevis.

Students Plan — Dad's Day Celebration

Although the nation won't celebrate Father's day until June, students at SUI are planning right now for a whale of a Dad's day celebration Nov. 2 and 3.

One of the outstanding features of this year's festivities will be the selection of a student dad and an alumni dad to occupy the honor spot at the Iowa-Minnesota football game Nov. 3.

These dads will be selected next week by a committee of Omicron Delta Kappa, men's honorary leadership fraternity. Nominations should be left at the office of student affairs in University hall by today. Only students may nominate candidates.

Letters have been sent to the dads of all members of the football squad inviting them to attend the celebration and to view the game from the student's section. Football dads will be identified by placards bearing their sons numbers.

A student pep rally on Iowa Memorial Union grounds at 7:15 p.m. Nov. 2 will officially begin the Dad's day weekend. The student choice of alumni and student dads will be presented by Omicron Delta Kappa.

At 8 p.m. Nov. 2 there will be a Dad's day party in the Union. Parents and students will be admitted free.

The doors of fraternity and sorority houses, dormitories, Union and all colleges and departments will swing open at 9 a.m. Nov. 3 to welcome all visitors. This open house period extends until noon.

The football game starts at 1:30 p.m. Saturday and during the half-time the alumni and student dads will be introduced to the crowd. Exhibitions will be given by the SUI band and the Scottish Highlanders.

Winding up the two-day celebration on Saturday will be an open house at the Union starting at 8 p.m. Movies, dancing and games will be featured at this finale of the weekend.

Churchill or Attlee? Britain Decides Today

Larson 'In No Hurry' On Decision to Run For Political Office

DES MOINES (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert L. Larson said Thursday he is "in no hurry" to decide whether he will run for governor or any other political office next year.

Announcement by Lt. Gov. William H. Nicholas that he will seek the Republican nomination for governor in the June primaries revived speculation that Larson also might enter the race soon.

The attorney general put off the rumors Thursday with this comment:

"Last year I had to campaign for office. The first of this year I had extra duties because of the legislative session. Since then I've been devoting myself exclusively to being attorney general. Sometime around the first of the year I will decide whether to run for any office again or retire from politics entirely."

Navy Ready to Deliver A-Bomb, Kimball Hints

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's part in building up European defenses brought these developments Thursday: (1) Word that the U.S. Mediterranean fleet probably is prepared to use atomic bombs if necessary, and (2) an announcement that a light bomber wing is being sent to France.

Secretary of the Navy Kimball was asked at a news conference: "Is the sixth fleet set to deliver an A-bomb if necessary?" He replied, "I would guess so."

Kimball's guess was the first hint that any naval unit is now prepared to deliver an A-bomb, although it previously had been announced that aircraft carrier crews were being trained to that end.

The air force said the 12th

UN Peace Proposal: Territorial Swap Plus Buffer Zone

MUNSAN, Korea (FRIDAY) (AP) — A concrete Allied proposal for a Korean buffer zone, involving cession of about 200 square miles of territory by each side, put the next cease-fire move squarely up to the Communists today.

The Red reaction might come at a subcommittee meeting scheduled at Panmunjom at 11 a.m. (8 p.m. Thursday, CST).

There was speculation that some sort of compromise would be effected after the Reds make a counter-proposal. Upon this might depend the speed with which the United Nations and Communist negotiators settle this thorny question or go into a possible new deadlock.

The sudden Allied proposal was introduced at a subcommittee meeting immediately after the truce negotiations were resumed, ending a 64-day suspension.

It was on this issue that the previous talks were snarled, but the Reds themselves offered to start all over with a clean slate.

A United Nations command spokesman said the Allied suggestion entailed a line generally following the present battlefield, but with the Reds to give up about 200 square miles territory in the west and the Allies to pull out of a similar area in the east.

Community Chest Reaches $14,411

Community Chest donations continued their gradual climb toward the $31,126 goal as the campaign total reached $14,411.02 by Thursday.

The university family division totaled $2,965.24; employers and employees, $8,842.03; professional, $1,151; public service, $4,957.50, and special contributions, $954.25.

Chest officials have prolonged the drive until Nov. 1 or possibly later if the goal is not reached by then. It was to have ended last week.

Council Asks Student Ideas On No-Cut Rule

The student council Thursday night asked SUI students for recommendations to change the University's no-cut rule and unanimously voted to take no action on the "Bright incident."

The present rule penalizes students one hour's graduation credit for every hour missed on a no-cut day.

The group asked The Daily Iowan to publish and forward suggestions to the council. At the same time the council offered three ideas of its own.

1. Offer the same number of cuts as the number of credit hours carried. If a student carried a four-hour course he would be allowed four cuts. Cuts on a no-cut day would double. Excess cuts would lower the student's grade by a letter. Thus five cuts during a semester and a final grade of B would net this student a C.

2. It was suggested that no-cut day violations should be penalized by adding a tenth of a grade-point to the student's graduation requirement. A 2.0 requirement for example, would be raised to 2.1 after one absence on a no-cut day.

3. Levy a cash fine for no-cut violations.

In other action, the council voted support of President John Bunch, who opposed The Daily Iowan suggested student protest over the "Bright incident."

The council announced that 15 members of the Iowa state legislature will attend a Dad's day luncheon Nov. 3 at the Iowa Memorial Union before the Iowa-Minnesota game.

SUI dormitories will play host to the council each month. The council's next meeting will be held at Westlawn, Nov. 8.

SOVIET-EGYPTIAN PARLEY CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — A Soviet-Egyptian meeting in the midst of the British-Egyptian crisis over the Suez and the Sudan won the headlines in Cairo newspapers today.

A British military spokesman, meanwhile, said an Egyptian labor boycott, obstruction and starvation tactics in the canal zone are creating a critical situation for the British.

LONDON (FRIDAY) (AP) — War-time Prime Minister Winston Churchill and his Conservatives seemed assured today of unseating the Laborites in the British general election, with Conservative party headquarters claiming victory if the overnight trend continued.

The Conservatives slashed sharply into Labor's city strongholds in the overnight count, grabbing 11 former socialist seats in the house of commons. The Liberals majority in the 1950 election was only six seats.

Nearly half of the returns in Thursday's election for 625 seats in commons were still to be counted, starting at noon (6 a.m. CST) today, after a morning recess. But they were mostly from rural areas which always have been overwhelmingly Conservative.

At 4 a.m. (10 p.m. CST) when the count was recessed for the night, returns had been tabulated from 319 constituencies, plus four in which the Conservative candidates were opposed.

Cities Swing Conservative The city vote showed a sharp swing to Churchill, and there was no sign that the trend would continue this afternoon. Thus the British people seemed to have granted the 76-year-old statesman his last wish—a chance to try to win the peace as he won the war.

Lord Woolton, Conservative party secretary, said that if the trend continued, "The Conservatives ought to have a majority which will be a reward for the sustained efforts of the party workers."

Labor headquarters was gloomy. Prime Minister Clement Attlee arrived soon after 3 a.m. (9 p.m. CST) to confer with Morgan Phillips, the party secretary.

As expected, Labor led the commons seat count early this morning. But the lead was only about half that needed in the city constituencies to assure another Socialist victory.

The standings of the parties at 4 a.m. (10 p.m. CST):

Table with 2 columns: Party Name and Seats. LABOR 176, CONSERVATIVE 145, LIBERAL 2.

In the 1950 general election, at the same stage of the counting, Labor led the Conservatives by 50 seats, compared with today's 31.

And the Laborites were faring even worse in the popular vote. In its own strongholds, the cities, the party got only 50 per cent of the vote. The Conservatives were polling 48 per cent, as against about 43 per cent in 1950.

The popular vote for 319 of the 625 constituencies: LABOR 7,588,529 50%, CONSERVATIVE 7,219,943 48%, LIBERALS 224,077 1.5%, COMMUNISTS 9,427, OTHERS 28,698 5%.

The final result, when one party gets an absolute majority of the 625 seats in commons, will not be known until afternoon.

editorials Every Man Is Brother's Keeper

In his article in The Daily Iowan, the president of the student council would have SUI students sit back in their chairs and let the rest of the world pass by their doors. Mr. Bunce states that it is neither the right nor the responsibility of SUI students to intervene in the matter concerning the actions of a football player in one of Saturday's games. I am sorry to see that our student body president has taken such a philosophy of individual isolationism. This is the very type of reasoning that we as students are trying to rid ourselves of through education. We, as students and citizens, must look at things with open minds, not minds closed and clouded by isolationism. I hate to think of the state of affairs the world would be in today if we all felt as Mr. Bunce feels. In both a national and international scale, the societies of the world have grown too close together to be ignored by any of society's members. Certainly this incident, like other important incidents of the day, has certain bearing and influence on ourselves as individuals.

Every man is his brother's keeper, whether he likes it or not. For Mr. Bunce's information, the Communists of Russia did not ask us to participate in the Korean situation. But we as Americans felt it to be our duty to fight for the free nations of the world. The functions of society are the responsibilities of every individual whether it be race riots in Detroit, slum clearance in Chicago, or football incidents in Oklahoma. In my opinion, we are indirectly influenced by this football incident, as we, too, have a football team. I would hate to think that if this type of incident happened to an Iowa football player, other people around the country would not sit up and take some interest and develop some opinions. It is not only our responsibility, but our duty as students of SUI to take an active interest in last Saturday's football happenings in Oklahoma. It is not up to the student council or its president to tell the students of SUI what opinions they can and shall form. John O. Seesser, A2 Clinton

Letters to the Editor Churches' Defense

TO THE EDITOR: With what I hope is recognition for Mr. Cooperrider's feeling about the Student Christian Council's Homecoming float, I would like to mention several interesting questions which came to my mind while reading his letter published on October 23. 1) Does a sectarian organization have to ascribe to secular standards in order to co-operate and/or compete with secular organizations? In the first place, don't religious bodies have a certain duty to preserve their essentially evangelistic mission? In the second place, has it been definitely established that the S.C.C. was seriously competing for a golden ear? 2) Were monetary motives really behind the appeal to come to church Sunday? Who says going to church cannot be entertaining to students? Some of the best jokes I've heard were from the pulpit. (My father's a pastor). 3) Are the wares advertised by the S.C.C. float the private property and interest of the dispensers thereof, or do they belong to us all as we choose to identify ourselves with them? My interest in this matter has nothing to do with my initials. Stewart C. Crockett, G 221 E. Church

Sorry for Council TO THE EDITOR:

Union Carnival

TO THE EDITOR: I read your editorial last Saturday about the extravagant price of tickets to Union dances. This Saturday at the Union, the Union board is sponsoring the Carnival of Bands absolutely free of charge to anyone attending. There will be nine bands playing at various spots in the Union from 2-5 p.m. Also the Wisconsin-Northwestern football game will be televised and the radios will carry the Iowa-Ohio State game. This is an excellent opportunity for students to have an afternoon of dancing and relaxation at the Union without worrying about the drain on the pocketbook. Perhaps Saturday's affair will convince many people on campus that the Union board is not trying to "bleed" the student body. Bill Friedman, A3 Sioux City (Editor's note: We think the carnival is a good idea. We're all for it. But is it comparable to an all-university evening affair?)

Why Not Petition?

TO THE EDITOR: I heartily agree with your editorial on the "Bright Incident." If the student council or the SUI athletic department do not take immediate action to lodge a protest I suggest that you start a petition to compel consideration of a protest action. I, for one, would be glad to sign such a petition. Dorothy T. Walker Sam H. Walker, M. D., Dept. of Surgery.

Winner Take All

Moral Breakdown Blamed for Increase In Embezzlements

By FRED MULLEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Director J. Edgar Hoover of the federal bureau of investigation has blamed a breakdown in moral standards for the high rate of bank embezzlement throughout the nation. During the first eight months of this year there were nine per cent more bank embezzlements than in the corresponding period of 1950. Hoover described the rise as "alarming," and warned that lack of moral responsibility has developed in many walks of life. "Gambling, excess drinking, living above income, women and poor incomes were factors," he said. His remarks dealt primarily with bank defalcations because those are within the FBI's jurisdiction. But other officials said that what applies to the erring bank employee is true in other embezzlement cases. The biggest bank embezzlement on record this year involved $2,398,863. In an area near Pittsburgh, Pa., eight separate cases involving more than $3 million have been uncovered. Hoover said the embezzler is usually a man "with an egotistical pride which forces him to live above his income." "Lacking a resolute moral character," he added, "he step by step, succumbs to temptation." No figures are available on all types of embezzlement. The FBI keeps records only on those affecting banks. But officials said the increase in bank thefts is a sound gauge of similar crimes in all types of business.

Spillane Writes — His Novels Have Guts

— For Average Reader
Associated Press Arts Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — "The average reader" . . . take it from a writer who knows, for 6 million of them have bought one or another of his four novels. . . "wants something fast. He likes heavy romance, wants a guy to be a guy, a woman to be a woman. He expects a guy in a book to do what he himself wouldn't dare." This writer is Mickey Spillane. In 1947 he needed $1,000, so he wrote a book and spent the money and sold the book, in that order. The book was "I, The Jury," of which two million copies are in print. "I started writing the kind of novels I write because they're the kind of books I like and can't find," he says. "They are adjusted to the faster basis of living of our time." If all this is what the reader wants, it's exactly what he gets in Spillane. . . the other novels are "My Gun Is Quick," "Vengeance Is Mine," "One Lonely Light," "Love 'em, leave 'em, kill 'em, bang-bang-bibb, with a punch for a climax. . . that plus particularly flowery and torrid prose is pretty much the Spillane model, with Mike Hammer the principal character. Spillane is an alert, somewhat spare man in his thirties, with a crew haircut, a thin nose with hump in the middle. Girls would call him good looking, and they

4 United Nations Films

By GIL TAYLOR
Four short films produced by the United Nations department of public information will be shown for the last time today at the Capitol theater. They are being shown free of charge as a public service by Mr. Pannos. The films demonstrate accurately and movingly the suffering, the desolation and conflict in the world and are well worth seeing. The first of the four is titled, "Peoples Charter" and is a resume of the beginnings of the UN. We see glimpses of the thought, the ideal and the purpose behind the organization, the work and energy that went into it, the belief that such honest men as Stettinius, Churchill and Roosevelt put into it. Added to this are some of the most convincing documentary shots and scenes of war-torn Europe ever filmed. "The UN At Work" produced by Film Polski takes the now defunct UNRA as an example of the methods of its organization and how ideas are put into actual operation. When UNRA ceased its work in Europe many thousands of children of war were left homeless, foodless, and it was necessary to immediately reorganize and form another plan to take its place. In doing so, because of the period needed for organization, these children waited and waited, wondering whether the UN had also failed them. However, acting exceptionally fast for such a complex body, the UN rushed food and other necessities to Europe. To quote from the film, "the arm of the UN unfolded the chil-

Interpreting the News — UN Throws Might Behind Truce Talks

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst
The United States threw in new-scale aerial assaults on the Communists in Korea to punctuate the warning of the UN truce negotiators that their terms for a demarcation line are going to get tougher all the time. While the Allies have offered to make compensating compromises, withdrawing a little from their farthest advance in the east if the Communists will give up some territory in the west, the general policy is to make peace only along the general battle line which may exist when and if terms are agreed upon. The negotiations were resumed amid widespread Allied expressions of optimism that an agreement would eventually be reached. Just what this optimism was based on, other than the evident Communist desire not to break off negotiations, was not clear. Neither Peiping nor Moscow has given any indication that they will give in on their demand for withdrawal of Allied forces south of the 38th parallel. In fact, the Communists may have agreed to resume negotiations, stalled for two months, merely for the purpose of forestalling an all-out Allied offensive which seemed to be in the making. Word had gotten out — perhaps deliberately — that the enemy was in for atomic attacks unless he did something about an armistice immediately. General Bradley went to the front, the Reds agreed to Allied terms for resumption of the negotiations, and word got out again that use of atomic weapons in Korea had been postponed. This may have been a bluff, but indications are that it was not. Americans have not forgotten how quickly the Japanese war ended after Hiroshima.

Argentina Claims 'Cranium Bank' For Skull Surgery

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A "cranium bank" believed to be the first of its kind in the world, has just opened here. Operating much like a blood bank, it stores various parts of the human skull for emergency operations. The parts are frozen and may be kept as long as 90 days, according to a spokesman for the Neurosurgery Institute which sponsors the bank. The idea of transplanting a portion of one human skull into a cavity in another skull caused by disease or accident is not new. But the idea of storing spare parts in a bank is new, according to Dr. Ramon Carrillo, one of Argentina's foremost nerve surgeons. Skull portions are generally used in operations for epilepsy in which the brain and the skull are injured and in the case of tumors where a portion of the bone must be removed to gain access to the brain tissue. Gold and silver plates have long been issued in place of the removed portion of the skull. But this is expensive, according to Dr. Carrillo. Plastic has also been used with promising results. The advantage of using frozen bone is that the graft will become one with the patient's cranium, according to the institute. A short time after the operation, cells called osteoblasts pass from the patient to the graft thus completing the cranium and circulation is restored. EISENHOWER WILL RUN On Either Ticket NEW YORK (AP) — Leonard V. Finder former New England publisher, says Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would accept either the Republican or Democratic nominations for president under certain conditions. Finder, one of the prime movers in the abortive Eisenhower boom of 1948, said in a Collier's magazine article that the general has told him: ". . . You have always understood that I do not want political office, that I have done my best to avoid it; but that I would have to accept it if it were a matter of duty. I have never placed myself above my country's commands." Finder concludes that the general would accept a presidential nomination "providing it is clearly an expression of the American people's wishes and there are no further war complications." In 1948 Eisenhower wrote Finder that he could not accept a presidential nomination. He said then that life-long professional soldiers should not seek high political office "in the absence of some obvious and overriding reasons." Now, says Finder on his own "initiative and without pretense of any special authorization," the general's sense of duty would compel him to accept.

New Businesses Should Check with Iowa OPS

Persons establishing a new business should check with the Iowa office of price stabilization regarding ceiling price regulations which might pertain to their particular enterprise. A. J. Loveland, director of the Des Moines district OPS, said Thursday members of his staff are available and anxious at all times to assist in various pricing problems confronting all Iowa businessmen. He emphasized that when a new business is contemplated, a complete understanding of price regulations under which the enterprise will operate is very important. In cases where a change in ownership of an established business is made, the new operator, in most instances, is governed by the same regulations and price actions which have pertained to the previous owner.

Former SUI Athlete And Movie Stuntman Says Acting 'Tougher'

HOLLYWOOD — Jack Mahoney, former SUI athlete who used to risk his neck as Hollywood's No. 1 stunt man, turned actor and decided today that saying dialogue is "a lot tougher."

Hahoney, the newest idol of the popgun set, is the star of the "Range Rider" television movies that another horse opera hero, Gene Autry, produces.

For nearly five years, Mahoney as a double had his nose flattened, a sword stuck in his eye, his heel bones bruised and his ribs smashed.

"Acting's still tougher," he sighed. "No matter how you feel, you have to deny your feeling. You have to act happy even though you're sad, and you have to look interested even if you're disinterested."

Until Mahoney turned actor, he reaped fancy paychecks by doing daredevil stunts while the star of the picture sat in his dressing room, polishing his nails and took all the credit.

Movie audiences seldom knew it was Mahoney in costume and curls, not Errol Flynn, who leaped down those 12 steps in "The Adventures of Don Juan," and was tossed through a glass saloon door as a double for Sunny Tufts.

He fell 22 feet onto just an ordinary bed mattress in place of actor George Macready, and because Gregory Peck's neck was more costly, Mahoney fell off a running horse in "Yellow Sky."

"Jumping off cliffs or onto horses from second story windows were every day occurrences when I was stunting," he shrugged.

"I took the bumps and bruises. After all, it's only a little blood and skin.

"But it took me a long time to get over being shy and self-conscious about acting."

Now that he's an actor, he suffers in another way, too.

"In this TV series my skull was split open, a 25-pound plaster boulder fell on my head and I was kicked in the stomach by a horse," he said.

"That's because I'm working with actors, instead of other stunt men. It's a matter of ego. The actors see me do my own stunt work so they want to do theirs instead of using a double. But stunting is a matter of close timing—so I get hurt more."

Mahoney "didn't mind so much" when the famous profiles got the close-ups and he got the dirty work in his stunting days.

"Now I'm the only actor who does all his own stunt work," he groaned. "But nobody believes it!"

"But understand, I'm not being critical. They're wonderful to me here. There's a good explanation for the difference.

"We've been well conditioned at home—at least in London—to American speech through your movies. The British ear is attuned to Danny Kaye, Jack Benny, Danny Thomas, Abbott and Costello and the others who have visited us since the war.

"But Americans haven't been so exposed to British accents, not even in New York which sees more of our players in its theaters and more of our films than the rest of your country.

"Consequently, it takes a little more time for a remark to soak in when it's delivered with a British accent.

"Heavens! I feel almost like a pioneer. We've had all those wonderful people of yours over there, and it seems that I'm about the first bit of reverse lend-lease cargo in the comedy field."

Royal Party to Resume Tour

QUALICUM BEACH, B. C. (BUP) — Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh spent the last hours of their three-day holiday Thursday tramping through the Canadian woods and watching loggers work.

The royal visitors are scheduled to resume their busy cross-continental tour today. They will start the return leg of their 10,000-mile trek by car and ship. Then they will board their 10-car special train and later will finish the trip by airplane, making stops en route to Montreal including a visit with the Dionne quintuplets.

But Thursday they had their first clear weather of their holiday at Eaglecrest lodge, a $300,000 log cabin in the British Columbian woods.

Reports from the retreat said the couple were relaxed by their brief holiday and eager to continue their tour.

The first scheduled appearance today is at Nanaimo, B.C. Then they will travel on the destroyer Crusader back to the mainland. They will visit Burnaby, B.C., by car and then board their train at New Westminster for stops at Chilliwack and Boston Bar.

There will be a "whistle-stop" visit at Edson, Alta., and a full-dress, eight-hour call on Edmonton, Alta., Saturday.

The material is part of a manuscript submitted to a special committee of the British house of lords reviewing American regulatory measures on the subject.

Lady Drivers

Pay Attention to Instruments

Women who "pilot" the family car daily are being urged to take more notice of their instrument panel. Every gauge carries an important warning in the economical and smooth operation of a car.

Checking the speedometer is routine while driving. It can save a fine for speeding, and cost of a new hat! Besides, too high and prolonged speed is wearing on tires, motor, and extra fuel consumption.

Gas and oil supply, proper charge and discharge of batteries, motor temperatures, are gauges too often neglected. . . with usually costly results.

Unless you are in the habit of noting the temperature indicator for example you can suddenly find your radiator resembling a national park geyser. It could be from any number of faulty conditions. You might have a broken fan belt, or thermostat, or improper and insufficient anti-freeze coolant; with its resulting clog of rust and scale, broken hose connection, etc. All you know now is that had you watched that hand mounting above normal your radiator would not be cooking and neither would your blood pressure.

If you learn to keep an eye on those indicators in front of you, you won't have to walk a mile for a gallon of gas, or find your horn dead, or an oil leak that can ruin your motor.

Ask the man of the house. He will be delighted to tell you "What every girl should know!"

Medical Association Disclaims New Cancer Drug Krebiozen

CHICAGO — The American Medical Association reported Thursday that an investigation "fails to confirm the beneficial effects" claimed for the new cancer drug krebiozen, but backers of the discovery disputed the finding.

The AMA's committee on research of the council of pharmacy and chemistry issued a long-awaited, 42-page report on the controversial drug.

It said that a "thorough" study of the case histories of 100 patients showed little evidence of improvement from the use of krebiozen.

In an announcement that gained world-wide attention, the drug was disclosed publicly last March by Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, prominent physiologist and vice-president of the University of Illinois.

Ivy, replying to the AMA report, said that he stated in March "that krebiozen had promise for the management of the cancer patient and merited serious clinical investigation."

"On the basis of my personal observation of over 60 patients and study of the case reports of over 100 reputable physicians and clinics on over 400 patients, I hold the same opinion today," Ivy said.

"I would not be contributing an average of six hours of my time every day to its investigation, and I would be the first to announce its lack of merit."

The discovery, a powdered substance derived from horse serum, was credited by Ivy to Dr. Stevan Durovic, a Yugoslavian physician who fled to Argentina. He now lives here with his brother Marko, an attorney.

Ivy's statement was backed up by a reply from the Krebiozen Research foundation, of which he is president.

The foundation, a non-profit organization devoted to research with the drug, deplored the AMA report as "most unfortunate."

"This is because the foundation still considers that results should be under extensive clinical investigation and feels that results should be held in reserve until a final decision regarding its merits can be made from a study of the results on over 500 cases now on file with the foundation," it said.

The AMA committee said it attempted to learn the composition of the drug from Durovic, but met with rebuff and concluded that krebiozen "actually is a secret remedy whose nature and preparation are known only to Dr. Durovic and, presumably, his brother, Marko."

The committee said that it ordinarily does not evaluate "secret" drugs, but was issuing its report as a "public service" because of the world-wide attention given krebiozen.

The foundation replied that on Oct. 18 it informed a committee of nine members of the AMA "regarding the exact process by which the cells of the horse are stimulated to make krebiozen."

"Certain members of the foundation are preparing a clinical paper in which this process will be revealed publicly, along with the observations which have been made on all patients treated," the foundation added.

Don't "Catch On" — American Audiences Slow

— British Comedian

NEW YORK — American audiences take longer to "dig" a British comedian than British audiences do to appreciate the drolleries of American comics, according to Max Bygraves.

This new comedian from London, who was 29 years old on the day he made his American debut last week, said he had to revise the timing of his whole act to allow for this.

"It takes a bit of getting used to, but it doesn't matter so long as the laughs do come," Bygrave said. "I can wait. I've got no place to go but to a hotel room."

"I put in a new bit of business the other day and there was a dead silence that seemed to me to last over the weekend. Then the laugh came. I said, 'Thank God, I thought you had all gone home.' They didn't hesitate on that one."

"But understand, I'm not being critical. They're wonderful to me here. There's a good explanation for the difference.

Mike Riley Leaves Iowa Team After Flare-Up With Coach

Will Miss Game With Ohio State

By JACK SQUIRE
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Mike Riley, first string line-backer, has left the Iowa squad after a dispute with end coach Bob Fitch, it was learned Thursday.

Riley, a two-time letter winner, stalked off the practice field Wednesday and did not report for practice Thursday afternoon.

He was not included on the 40-man Hawkeye traveling squad which left Thursday night for Columbus where Iowa plays Ohio State Saturday.

"It looks like Riley has quit the team," Coach Leonard Raffensperger said Thursday. But Raffensperger would not give any reasons for Riley's action.

"May Return"

Riley, however, said Thursday night that he "may return" to the team next week.

Riley left the field Wednesday after being irked by several remarks of Fitch, a member of the Iowa staff since 1948.

Fitch is reported to have criticized Riley's work in the practice and his performance against Michigan last Saturday.

"I'm not a hot tempered guy," said Riley. "But there's just so much abuse you can take."

No Comment

Neither Raffensperger nor Fitch would comment on this.

"I haven't spoken to Riley since Wednesday and he hasn't turned in his uniform yet. If he wants to come back to the team, I'll speak to him," Raffensperger declared.

One Iowa player, describing the incident said, "Fitch just nagged Mike too much and Mike lost his head."

Riley, whose play this year, has been almost entirely on defense, was said to be disconsolate over not seeing more action as offensive fullback where he is an understudy to Bill Reichardt.

Has Been Disappointed

"I've always felt a little disappointed about that since I've been here, but that had nothing to do with this thing," said Riley.

"I'm cooling off a bit now and I guess it was just one of those things. If I decide to come back, I suppose it will be up to the coach," Riley stated.

Raffensperger said he has not decided for sure who will take Riley's place as a line-backer. He mentioned Duane Brandt, John Townner, and Ron Peterson as the likeliest choices.

Third Year on Team

This is Riley's third year on the Iowa team. He came here from Minneapolis and was regarded as an outstanding prospect.

But his play has been curtailed by the presence of Reichardt, an all-conference fullback.

Although he previously showed glimpses of defensive ability, this is the first season he was being used as a regular defensive player, where he combined with Chuck Denning to give Iowa one of the better pair of line-backers in the Big Ten.

He is 6-1, 220-pounds and has long been considered one of the most popular and colorful figures on the Iowa football team.

Charles-Maxim Sign For December Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Promoter Jimmy Murray Thursday announced the signing of light heavyweight Joey Maxim and former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles for a 12-round non-title bout in the San Francisco cow palace, Dec. 12.

The San Francisco promoter said he expected the fifth meeting of the two should attract some 16,000 fans and a gross of $150,000.

Murray wouldn't disclose the terms but it was believed that each fighter would get 30 per cent.

The promoter said he had not made any deal yet for radio or television rights.

Bright to Miss ISC for Mother

DES MOINES (AP) — Drake's Johnny Bright says he will respect the wishes of his mother and not play in Saturday's homecoming football game against Iowa State here.

Bright's mother, who lives in Fort Wayne, Ind., expressed her wishes in a telephone conversation with Coach Warren Gaer Thursday.

She said that although doctors had said it would be all right for him to play, she didn't want him to play this weekend. She said that she would let doctors decide about future weekends but that she specifically didn't want him to play so soon after the injury.

The great negro halfback, the nation's all-time ground gaining leader, received a broken jaw in last week's game with Oklahoma A & M at Stillwater.

Bluehawks Invade West Liberty For Crucial Conference Game

By JORDAN MATULEF
University high, fresh from a 44-9 victory at the expense of New London last week, will take on an undefeated West Liberty tonight at 7:30 on the Comet's home grounds in a game that could well decide the championship of the Eastern Iowa Hawkeye conference.

The game is all-important to both teams and should be one of the better contests in eastern Iowa small-school prep circles this season.

At present the Bluehawks are deadlocked for second place in the conference with a 4-1 record while the Comets own a 5-0 mark. A victory tonight would enable U-High to share first place while a loss would shove them out of the title picture.

Big and Fast

West Liberty coach Carl Ellermeier has groomed his outfit into a hard-hitting, fast-charging eleven that can move well despite its size. The Comets possess an explosive single-wing offense headed by fullback Ken Jehle, the ace of the squad.

U-High's lineup will remain the same as the one that has started the last two games. The Bluehawks received one jolt when Kenny Jensen, reserve tackle who has seen a lot of action, got a broken jaw in the New London game. He will be out for the remainder of the season.

Harriers in Action

Iowa's cross country team will make its first home appearance today when it opposes Marquette on the track east of the stadium at 3 p.m.

The teams will go over a 4-mile course which runs through Finkbine golf course.

Iowa defeated Purdue, 25-34 in its opening meet three weeks ago. The Hawks are paced by freshman Rich Ferguson and sophomore Ted Wheeler.

Promoted from JV

Kerf, an all-stater at City high last year, has been impressive since his promotion from the junior varsity two weeks ago.

The Hawkeyes held their final drill here Thursday with another look at Ohio State plays as run by a freshmen unit.

The Iowa party will stay at the Neill House in Columbus and is scheduled to arrive in Cedar Rapids 12:30 Sunday.

The traveling squad:

ENDS — Dan Swartzendruber, Andy Hoag, Ed Lindsey, Bill Fenton, Arnold Casan, Dave DeProsper, Fred Esch.

TACKLES — Dudley Noble, Don Chief, Andy Buntz, Lloyd DaBillo, Pete Spanjer, Tom Kerf, Bill Lindquist.

GUARDS — Austin Turner, Ron Fairchild, Dick Frymire, Bob Lage, Bill Kerf.

CENTERS — John Townner, Ron Petersen, Jerry Hiltz.

QUARTERBACKS — Bert Britzmann, Jim Sangster, Paul Kemp.

Princeton-Cornell Tops Grid Card This Weekend

NEW YORK (AP) — The college football spotlight turns this week to half a dozen vital conference games, but none more important than the meeting between Princeton and Cornell at Princeton's Palmer stadium. The Ivy league championship is at stake.

These two are not only undefeated and untied, but rate joint ranking as the East's best for the season half ended.

Other sections also come up with several notable offerings that may make or break the conference championship hopes—not to mention the Bowl ambitions—of the participants.

Illinois vs. Hoosiers

Skimming over these, we find Illinois playing Indiana at Bloomington; Wisconsin against Northwestern at Evanston; Stanford versus Washington at Seattle; Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt at Nashville, Maryland and Louisiana State at Baton Rouge, Baylor and Texas A & M at College Station, and Rice against Texas at Austin.

Illinois, ranked No. 4 in the Associated Press poll this week, faces a stern rival that knocked off favored Ohio State last week. The Illini have won four straight this year, and snafu otrivshshewNt year, and stand with Northwestern as the only unbeaten clubs in the Big Ten.

Stanford Undefeated

Stanford has copped five straight without loss or tie, but now the rough stuff starts, for Washington capable of halting the Indian march to a Rose bowl bid.

After what happened in the southwest last week, a coin tossing is recommended practice there. Baylor, only undefeated outfit in the vast state of Texas, may be the next to go down. Texas A & M, which skidded from sixth to 16th in the poll this week after losing to Texas Christian, will be in no mood for any Sunday picnic.

Wisconsin Loses Felker For Northwestern Game

MADISON, WIS. (AP) — End Gene Felker, Wisconsin offensive and defensive mainstay, won't be able to play in Saturday's Western conference game against Northwestern.

Felker suffered a back injury in a blocking drill Thursday. Preliminary examinations indicated that he will be sidelined for two weeks or longer.

Erv Andrykowski probably will replace Felker at left end on offense, and either Jerry Wuhman or Don Voss will take a shot at his right end defensive job.

Hawks Lose Hube Johnston For Buckeyes

Iowa will be without the services of Hubert Johnston, its 6-6, 235 pound tackle, when it meets Ohio State at Columbus Saturday.

Johnston, who suffered a severe charley horse against Michigan last week, was left off the 40-man travelling squad when a last minute check revealed he would not be ready by Saturday.

His place on the travelling roster was taken by second semester freshman Lloyd DaBillo, a 215 pounder from Waterloo. But Dudley Noble will be the man to fill in.

Will Workout Today

The Iowa squad left from Cedar Rapids by plane Thursday evening and will work out in the Ohio stadium this afternoon.

Game captains announced by Coach Leonard Raffensperger are guard Ron Fairchild and halfback Chug Wilson.

Fairchild, a stocky 215 pounder from Marengo, plays the middle of the line on defense while Wilson has been a reserve at right halfback.

Three freshmen, in addition to DaBillo, were taken to Columbus. They are halfbacks Binkey Broeder and Bob Stearnes and tackle Tom Kerf.

Iowa Civil Defense Calls for 12,000

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa defense officials said Thursday that a ground observer corps would be necessary to protect the state against attack from the air in case of war.

They pointed to statements by officers of the central air defense force that radar and intelligence reports alone would not provide adequate protection.

For that reason a ground observer corps would serve as one of the most vital links in the defense setup and would require trained personnel, they said.

The state civil defense administration has launched a drive for 12,000 volunteers to man 594 ground observer posts throughout Iowa. Persons who wish to volunteer may contact their local county defense chairman or the state office of civil defense.

Waterloo Woman Says State Reneged On a Baby-Sitter

WATERLOO (AP) — The state reneged on an implied promise to find her a baby-sitter if she would serve on a murder jury, the attorney for a Waterloo housewife claimed Thursday.

The claim was part of a legal brief filed on behalf of Mrs. Jeanette Watson, 37, in her appeal of a six months contempt of court sentence for refusal to serve on the jury. She has been free on bond since May.

"At most she was guilty of refusing to leave her two small children alone after she had been led to believe she would be given help in finding someone to take care of them," Mrs. Watson's attorney said.

The brief said that the state's attorney replied "Maybe the court will help you find one," when Mrs. Watson explained in District Judge Shannon B. Charlton's presence that she couldn't serve for lack of a baby-sitter.

Mrs. Watson "accepted the offer of help in all seriousness," the brief said.

Judge Charlton, in asking the Iowa supreme court to uphold the contempt sentence, said Mrs. Watson defied the court and even disregarded her husband's advice that she serve.

"The court has an obligation to spell out in forthright terms the duty of people to serve on juries," Judge Charlton's appeal brief asserts.

State Rebuttals In Scarlett Case

CENTERVILLE (AP) — The state presented rebuttal witnesses Thursday in the first degree murder trial of Mrs. Eloise Scarlett, 22, Batavia, charged in the death of her son, Harry, 7.

The defense rested its case shortly after the divorce testified that she had been nervous and upset since an operation.

Earlier, defense attorneys filed a notice in district court that Mrs. Scarlett's defense against the charge would be based on an insanity plea. Dr. C. M. Davis, Centerville, told the all-woman jury that he had once examined Mrs. Scarlett and found that she was of "unsound mind."

Observers did not expect the trial to reach the jury before today.

Police said Mrs. Scarlett shot her son fatally and killed her 8-year-old daughter with a hammer, but no charges were filed in the girl's death.

Camera Reported Stolen

Theft of a camera valued at $360 by its owner, Carl Turk, 309 N. Riverside drive, was reported to police Thursday. Turk said it was stolen from the Art building auditorium. He told police the camera is equipped with "an F-1.5 sonnar lens, in which there are only 13 in the world."

Instead of Tremendous Hearse; Willy's-Overland Company Obliges

DETROIT (AP) — With the exception of Ward M. Canaday, automobile executives growled angrily this week at Sen. J. William Fulbright, (D-ARK.).

Industry officials started muttering uncomplimentary things about Fulbright when he proposed that the government force them to make smaller cars "instead of these hearses that clutter up the streets."

But Canaday, president of Willy's-Overland, Toledo, O., grinned happily while most of his competitors fumed.

Reason for his joy? It just so happens that Willy's is getting ready to introduce a brand new automobile that meets the senator's specifications.

Fulbright, at a congressional hearing on civilian cutbacks, asked Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson and Defense Production Administrator Manly Fleischmann if they "wouldn't be justified in asking Ford and General Motors to build small cars instead of these huge hearses?"

Fulbright said he drives a Ford, himself, but "I'd like to have a smaller one than that."

"These big cars are becoming such a nuisance," he said, complaining particularly about the Washington traffic jams caused by government limousines.

These words were promotional music to Canaday's ears, and he promptly wrote Fulbright to be prompt—Willy's has the answer:

Success Ode; Turns Checks Into Small Fortune

WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Wilson, a Washington attorney, described Thursday how he parlayed $1,000 and a $7.50 monthly pension into a $50,000 estate for a disabled veteran of World War I.

It took 32 years, Wilson said, but it wasn't any trouble at all. It's all according to how you figure the percentages.

The soldier, Castenzo Nicholetto, a native of Italy, died Sept. 5 in a Knoxville, Ia., veterans hospital. A member of company A, 32nd engineers, he was committed to St. Elizabeth's hospital here as a mental patient upon his discharge in June, 1919.

The court appointed Wilson as his legal guardian with the responsibility for administering the estate — if any. Nicholetto had $1,000 in army mustering out pay and a monthly pension of $7.50.

That was all and when Nicholetto was transferred to the VA hospital in Iowa, Wilson continued handling his affairs. The record of his achievement came out when he asked for authority to administer the estate, upon Nicholetto's death.

Wilson gathered in the checks each month. The soldier's wants were small. His meals were paid for by the government.

He had clean sheets, a yard to sit in, a pipe to smoke, a little wine if he wanted it.

"All I ever spent out of his earnings," Wilson said, "added up to $75 to $100 a year for fruit, and maybe a bathrobe or a pair of carpet slippers.

"I had $1,000 to start with. The annual income added up to about $390 a year. First I invested it in the federal land bank. The interest on that used to amount to four or five and a half per cent. That added up rather rapidly, starting with $1,000 and adding to it month by month. I re-invested that.

"The income has not varied across the 32 years. Finally I went into government bonds for him, adding the interest as I went along. I never got a cent for myself. Now it adds up to an estate of something like $50,000."

So far as Wilson knows — or knew until the story broke Wednesday—the old Italian who died at 65, had only one living relative. A distant woman cousin in Joliet, Ill.

The cousin may be dead, for all Wilson knows.

But the story was cabled abroad. Now, it seems that Nicholetto has more "cousins" than ever spoke to him in his native Italy.

Tractor-Trailer Upset; So Was Town

BONNEAUVILLE, PA. (AP) — This community's 123 residents were upset today because a tractor-trailer upset.

As a matter of fact, a lot of people left town. In quite a hurry, too, according to Pvt. David James of the state police.

The truck, driven by Miles D. Cramer of Chambersburg failed to negotiate a turn, left the road and snapped two utility poles.

Interested citizens offered help before they learned of the trucks contents. Then they headed the other way.

The 22,000 pounds of TNT did not explode. The townspeople went back to their normal routine after the truck was towed away.

Poison Whisky Suspect Charged With Murder of 31

ATLANTA (AP) — A 360-pound ex-convict accused of selling the poison whisky that killed 31 persons was charged with murder Thursday night.

Solicitor Paul Webb of Fulton county changed the manslaughter charge against John Richard (Pat) Hardie to one of murder and said he was seeking "one other man" as an accomplice.

The murder charge was placed after officers and revenue agents checked the story of Hardie, a tripple-chinned 360-pounder, that he had bought 99 gallons of lethal booze from a moonshiner in the Georgia hills.

Revenue agents indicated they had called off their search in Rabun county, where Hardie said he bought the whisky. Solicitor Webb said the search for the second man was being confined to Atlanta.

Hardie, whose record fills three pages in the FBI files and who has been convicted of bootlegging and manslaughter, was first charged with involuntary manslaughter. He was arrested at his bed in Piedmont hospital where he was confined with auto accident injuries.

Three Negroes whose deaths had been diagnosed as wood alcohol poisoning were removed from the list after autopsies, but three others died of the lethal draughts and the count remained 31.

Sidelights On the News

A new cook book, containing recipes of exotic dishes favored by United Nations members, is now available to calculating cooks at SUI.

The book has been secured by United World Federalists of Johnson county and SUI to celebrate the sixth birthday of the UN. The recipes have been kitchen-tested and edited by the American Home Economics association.

Now you may have loco (beef-vegetable stew) from Argentina, picadillo cubano (that's Spanish for hash) from Cuba, collada de choco (corn soup) from Ecuador and fish and black sauce from Czechoslovakia.

Copies of the recipes cost $1 and may be obtained at the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce office, 104 S. Linn st., or by mailing $1 to box 255, Iowa City.

The "flying saucers" phobia is back again.

A Centerville woman told SUI astronomy Prof. C. C. Wylie this week that she saw a strange flying object in the Centerville area. She said it was moving slowly from south to north rather low in the southeast sky and looked like a round or oval, bright silvery disk.

The astronomy department, investigating a meteor which fell near Centerville July 28, investigated the woman's story and decided it probably was an airplane reflecting the sun.

Wylie said they decided it wasn't a meteor because the object was not moving fast enough and did not give off a bright enough light.

Want a pigeon's-eye view of your property? You'll find it on City Manager Peter F. Roan's desk in city hall.

In May, 1951, at the investigation of the city planning and zoning commission, an Iowa flying service photographed the Iowa City area. The results have been assembled in a 70-photo brochure which is available for inspection by city property owners.

Roan said Thursday that individual prints of any section may be obtained through his office at a slight cost.

A 45-minute movie of the 1951 Ohio State-SUI football game will be shown at 4:15 p.m. Thursday in Macbride auditorium.

Tailfeathers sponsor the movie. Admission will be 10 cents.

Marine Bases Criticized by Senate Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senate investigating committee Thursday criticized home-front conditions at some U. S. marine bases as contributing to low moral among the leathernecks and wasting the taxpayers' money.

Citing widespread complaints, the committee's report singled out a variety of cases ranging from poor food and flimsily protected open-air showers to overstaffing in "chair corps" positions.

The report recommended that women replace some of the able-bodied desk men.

At the Pentagon, a marine spokesman told reporters: "The marine corps is studying the report with a view of taking corrective action where indicated."

With some exceptions, the report generally praise the food, medical care, clothing supplies, housing and recreation facilities at the six training centers.

But it noted instances of overcrowding, gripes about the food, lack of electric lights, and failure to brief the troops on the significance of the Korean war. And it had sharp words for officers who take a carefree attitude in the spending of vast sums for defense.

Farmer Awarded $3,825 Damages

Roy and Margaret Greer have been awarded $3,825 in district court for land used by the state in construction of the new highway 6 cutoff.

The case, brought by the plaintiffs against the state highway commission had asked for $17,300. The jury retired at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday and deliberated four hours and 50 minutes before returning a sealed verdict. The verdict was announced Thursday.

The jury's verdict stated that they had found that $3,825 represents the difference in value of the Greer farm before and after the highway construction.

Jurors Selected In Highway Hearing

Jurors were selected Thursday for the second case against the state highway commission to appear in district court this week.

The action is brought by D. E. and Bessie Sweeting, asking $17,500 for damages to their land during the construction of the highway 6 cut-off south of Coralville this year.

The plaintiffs' claim that approximately one-fifth of their acre of land was used for the highway right-of-way, and that the location of the new cut-off damages the remainder of the property for its intended use as home sites.

Jurors selected were Earl Fry, Catherine Ruppecamp, M. J. Katzenmeyer, Gertrude E. Miller, George Relic, K. W. Lange, Prescott Hermon Jr., Agnes Klaus, A. L. Workman, Nora M. Gosenberg, Warren Wullen and Peter A. Stirik.

The jury was empaneled and opening arguments were heard before court was adjourned at 12:30 p.m. The trial will resume at 10 a.m. Monday, District Judge James P. Gaffney said.

4 SUI Students Take Dim View Of Yanks Abroad

Four SUI students who toured Europe this past summer took a critical view Thursday of the American tourist abroad at a panel discussion in Old Capitol sponsored by the University Women's association.

"We were glad to be taken for Englishmen," said Marilyn Hart, A4, Keokuk; Elizabeth Metcalf, Des Moines; Fannie Mae Gilpin, A4, Northwood and Ted Herstand, A2, Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

The panel in this first series of Information First lectures agreed that most of the American tourists they met spoke loudly, spent lavishly and considered foreigners ignorant if they didn't know the English language.

"These tourists expected Europe to be just like America," said Miss Gilpin.

Because of Americans' attitudes and actions abroad, the students said, Europeans often resent American tourists.

The panel members, who toured Europe and England by plane, train, car, and on foot, agreed that the best way to see Europe is to go alone or with a friend, and not on a planned tour.

Another suggestion was: Don't talk Americans with which to seek; foreigners are more interesting.

U.S. Accuses Remington Second Time for Perjury

NEW YORK (AP) — The federal government placed a new perjury charge against economist William Remington Thursday, after flubbing a previous attempt to jail him.

Remington's lawyer at once raised a cry of "double jeopardy" — the forbidden practice of trying a man more than once for the same crime.

Said attorney Joseph L. Rauh Jr., in Washington: "We cannot believe that this vicious device to avoid the time-honored rule against double jeopardy will be sanctioned by the American people or the American courts."

In the new indictment, a federal grand jury accused Remington of lying five times from the witness stand while being convicted of perjury. He upset the conviction on an appeal.

While perjury is the charge against the former $10,000 a year commerce department economist, the heart of the case all along has been the allegation that he was a Communist who stole government secrets for a Soviet spy ring.

The same legal device of a perjury charge was used to put Alger Hiss, his former state department aide, in prison for passing government secrets to a spy ring.

Conviction on the new indictment could cost Remington a maximum of 25 years in prison and $10,000 in fines. His arraignment was set for next Tuesday.

Remington, 34, was convicted last February of lying to a grand jury when he swore he never was a Communist. He was fined $2,000 and sentenced to five years in prison.

However, in August a federal appeals court ordered a new trial for Remington. The appeals court held that trial Judge Gregory F. Noonan was too vague in defining to the jury what membership in the Communist party meant.
