Hawks Challenge Unbeaten Illini

An Editorial - Letter to the Team

(One hundred copies of this morning's Daily Iowan have been taken to Champaign, Ill. for the Iowa team members and coaches to read before today's football game against Illinois.)
An open letter to team members and coaches:
The Daily Iowan, speaking as a representative of the student body, would like first of all to wish you the best of luck in today's game. We know it won't be easy to win. In fact it may be impossible to win against a team as great as Illinois. But we're confident that whatever the result you'll offer everything you have.

Deans Suspend No-Cut Rule For Thanksgiving Vacation

By BOB HESS
The no-cut rule has been suspended for Thanksgiving vacation. A green light was given to the suspension Friday after a conference by Deans Dewey B. Stuit of the college of liberal arts, Sidney G. Winter of the college of commerce, Francis M. Dawson of the college of engineering and Myrtle E. Kitchell of the college of nursing.
The no-cut rule on classes is presently in effect in these colleges.
The deans held the special meeting after a recommendation by the student council Thursday night that the no-cut rule be waived during the Thanksgiving vacation.
Bunce Receives Letter
The decision was released in the following letter to John Bunce, student council president:
"Following a conference with the deans of the undergraduate colleges I am authorized to state that the colleges of commerce, engineering, nursing and liberal arts will suspend the no-cut rule for the Thanksgiving vacation on a trial basis.
"Faculty members of these colleges are being asked to keep accurate attendance records during the periods immediately preceding and following the Thanksgiving vacation in order that we may determine the success of this experiment. It is hoped that the tabulation of results can be completed by about Dec. 1."
Student Aid Asked
"We sincerely hope that the student body will give its full cooperation in this experiment. As it has been mentioned before, we are not anxious to have arbitrary rules which appear to interfere with the freedom of the students, but at the same time we recognize that there is a problem of maintaining attendance before and after vacations.
"Should the attendance record of the students be poor during these periods we, of course, will want to continue the no-cut rule. It simply would be indefensible educational policy to permit class attendance to fall off markedly during the periods before and after vacations.
"A hearty response of cooperation by the student body in this experiment would be a matter of satisfaction and pride to us all."
The student council released the following statement after hearing of the deans' decision:
"The student council urges that all of those who are affected by the suspension of the no-cut rule cooperate 100 per cent in proving that the result of that rule can be obtained without its being imposed upon them.
"The student council firmly believes that the concerned students will successfully take the respon-

GEE WHIZ MOM, WILL DAD be gone long? Mary Joette Swartzendruber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Swartzendruber, looks somewhat perplexed at the thought of her dad, Hawkeye end, leaving for the weekend. Seek to Upset Nation's 2nd Ranking Team

By JACK SQUIRE
Daily Iowan Sports Editor
CHAMPAIGN, ILL. - Nobody around here is giving Iowa much chance to derail Illinois' Rose bowl express today as the unbeaten Illini try for victory number seven.
The Illini, leading the Big Ten and ranked second nationally, are rated a three touchdown favorite, and there are few takers.
If Illinois needs any additional incentive besides the Rose bowl

NATO May Not Reach 90-Division Strength

WASHINGTON (AP)—A scaling down of Western Europe's master defense plan is in prospect, administration officials reported Friday.
They said economic problems facing the North Atlantic Treaty nations made it highly doubtful that they would be able to reach the target of 90 divisions, fully equipped, by the middle of 1954.

Scientist Seeks Cure For Sleeping Sickness, Gets Disease Himself

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A young University of Pittsburgh research scientist, seeking a cure for a deadly type of "sleeping sickness" which attacked U.S. troops in Korea, Friday fought for his life after catching the disease himself.
University officials said Earl W. Vensel, 28, apparently was infected accidentally by a virus which produces the disease. He had been doing research work at the Pitt graduate school of public health for the armed forces epidemiological board.
Vensel was admitted to St. Joseph's hospital several days ago and was reported "still in critical condition" Friday. Hospital authorities said he was unconscious and paralyzed on one side. Earlier this week, surgeons cut a hole in his neck and pumped air into his lungs to keep him alive.
Pitt Chancellor Rufus H. Fitzgerald said the nation's top experts in the field have been called in to fight for Vensel's life. He said the exact cause of the disease has not yet been determined despite laboratory tests to determine the "causative agent."
A school spokesman said the viruses with which Vensel was experimenting attack the brain and spinal cord producing a form of encephalitis or sleeping sickness.
School officials said Vensel had been working under the direction of Dr. William Hammond, one of the world's foremost virus experts, and that some of the viruses he had been working on were shipped from the armed forces in Korea.

Truce Still Distant; Talks Start 5th Month

MUNSAN, Korea (SATURDAY) (AP)—The Allies insisted today that Communist proposals for a Korean buffer zone would cause a sterile bogdown without ever achieving a real armistice.
Nevertheless, the Allied subcommittee scheduled another meeting with the Reds at Panmunjom at 8 p.m. Friday.
As the talks entered their fifth month, a command spokesman said the United Nations negotiators were "beginning to view with some misgivings the idea of a formalized line" for a cease-fire.
The spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, said the UN command is increasingly skeptical of considering any proposal that shows a cease-fire line on a map.
"The Communists give every indication of desiring only part of an armistice—namely the fixing of a formalized agreement on item 2 (the buffer zone question) which would, in effect, give them a cease-fire with no encouragement, incentive or pressure to settle other items which we deem essential," Nuckols told correspondents.
Looming in the background of the snarled talks is the latest Soviet suggestion for withdrawal behind the 38th parallel, a cease-fire within 10 days and departure of all foreign troops from Korea within three months.

Gunfire, Brickbats Mark Argentine Election Campaign

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's presidential election campaigning came to a climax with a blaze of gunfire and brickbat throwing here Friday.
The violence occurred at a Radical rally in Constitution plaza during a speech by Presidential Candidate Ricardo Balbin.
Six persons were wounded and ten bruised. Police broke up the demonstration with tear gas.
Eight parties are more or less in the running, but the real election contest is between Peron and Balbin, his severest critic. The radicals said they believe if the election is free from coercion and as honest as Peron has promised, they have an outside chance to win.

Warren Withholds Candidacy Decision

By The Associated Press
Gov. Earl Warren of California said Friday he will announce in a few days whether he will run for the Republican presidential nomination.
In New York, Republican National Committeeman J. Russell Sprague said he has "been assured" that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will accept the GOP nomination.
Other developments carried forward the long build-up of the presidential election a year hence.
Delegates to the CIO convention in New York applauded a speech in which Emil Mazey of the United Auto Workers declared Eisenhower has not demonstrated his fitness for the presidency.
"I find nothing in his record which would indicate that he is an acceptable candidate for president as far as organized labor is concerned," Mazey said.
At Cincinnati, Charles P. Taft announced for the Republican nomination for governor of Ohio. There was some speculation on how this might affect the candidacy of his brother, Sen. Robert A. Taft, for Republican presidential honors. Charles Taft said he didn't think it would have any effect; Robert said he would stay entirely out of his brother's campaign.

Saved Her Life - Girl Marries Blind Lover

ARLINGTON, VA. (AP)—There's a special ray of sunshine at 1847 Wilson blvd. these days.
That's where Tommie Millett, 27, and his new bride, the former Gloria Moore, are honeymooning.
Of course there may be special rays of sunshine for a lot of other honeymooning couples.
But Tommie and Gloria are special:
He has been blind since birth; she is a cripple.
"I owe Tommie my life," she says. That's because two years ago they were engaged at that time—surgeons removed nine inches of bone from his right shin. It was grafted to Gloria's spine.
"Because she had been born with the inability to maintain balance, the bone was needed to help stabilize her spine and act as a brace.
"I knew that without the operation I might die a slow, painful death," she said.
So now Tommie, who works as a masseur, has someone to "see" for him.
Both feel that they have inspired other handicapped persons to marry.
"Many couldn't see how a blind man and a crippled girl could get along," they said. "We'll show them how. We're two people who never say die."

London Declares British Food Stocks Low

LONDON (AP)—Winston Churchill's Conservative government disclosed Friday that Britain's food cupboard is even bareer than it was during the U-boat blockade days of 1941.
The meager rations now doled out each week may have to be cut still further, Food Minister Gwilym Lloyd-George warned the house of commons.
Britain is too near broke to buy enough of the food available in the world to build up the supplies, he declared.
Lloyd-George said government stocks of wheat, flour, sugar, butter, margarine and other fats—excluding amounts "set aside for strategic purposes"—were well below the dangerously low level they reached in 1941.
He did not explain what he meant by strategic purposes or disclose the amounts of food thus set aside.

EGYPT ACCUSES BRITISH

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egypt accused Britain Friday night of using Nazi-like tactics in pouring armed forces into the disputed Suez canal zone.

ABBOTT, COSTELLO FILE SUIT

NEW YORK (AP)—Film comedians Bud Abbott and Lou Costello charged in a $5 million damage suit Friday that a movie company and a distributor cut and cheapened their slapstick pictures without their consent.

West Acts to Speed German Rearmament

PARIS (AP)—The Western Big Three acted Friday to speed German rearmament amid bitter Soviet charges in the United Nations that they are turning Germany into a base "for military action against Russia and the people's democracies."

Germany and German rearmament emerged as the dominant issue before the UN general assembly as the West reacted swiftly to Russia's rejection of the Big Three's "foolproof" plan for disarmament.
The United States, Britain and France invited West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to Paris on Nov. 21 for a decision on how soon and how many German soldiers can be supplied for Eisenhower's North Atlantic Pact armies.
Simultaneously the Western powers pushed through the UN steering committee, by a 12 to 2 vote, a demand for full debate on their plan for an on-the-spot investigation of political conditions in Soviet-run East Germany.
The proposal was put forward by the West to determine if "free and democratic elections" are possible in East Germany on a Soviet scheme for unifying the divided country. The Western powers agreed to a similar UN investigation of the U.S., British and French zones.
Soviet delegate Jacob A. Malik in two tough and embittered speeches before the UN charged that the U.S. was engineering "another Korea" in West Germany.
He vigorously opposed the suggestion that the UN look behind the Iron Curtain to assess political conditions in East Germany as a "violation" of the UN charter.

Longshoremen End Costly Dock Strike After 26-Day Revolt

NEW YORK (AP)—Rebel stevedores ended a billion-dollar tieup of east coast docks Friday.
The wildcat strike—longest and costliest ever on the New York waterfront—began 26 days ago as a revolt against a new contract. It quickly spread to Boston.
More than 20,000 AFL longshoremen and about 130 ships were idle at the peak of the strike.
Railroad men said it probably will be a week before piled-up exports across the nation move normally.
A state fact-finding board—with persuasion as its only weapon—was praised by shippers for its part in bringing peace although the stevedores' grievances are still unsettled. The board promised to hear them out and offer its recommendations later.
The fact-finders took over after city, state and federal mediators failed, and after strikers turned down a back-to-work appeal by President Truman.
State industrial commissioner Edward Corsi set up the three-man fact finding board under state law. Its members are Dr. Martin P. Catherwood of Cornell university; Dean Alfange, a New York city attorney; and the Rt. Rev. John P. Boland, a state mediator and a Catholic priest from Buffalo.
The board had no powers to end the strike. It could only take evidence and make recommendations on the disputed longshoremen's wage contract.

Jets Down 3 MIGs, Damage 4 Without Loss

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, (SATURDAY) (AP)—Two jet battles in which three Russian-made MIGs were shot down and four damaged featured the Korean fighting Friday as cold weather slowed action on the ground.
In the first of the dogfights, the fifth air force reported 19 F-80 Shooting Stars took on 30 MIGs, downing two and damaging three, without losses of their own. The victory was considered remarkable, since the slower Shooting Stars are regarded as a poor match for MIGs, especially when outnumbered.
In the second clash 33 American F-86 Sabre jets tangled with 20 MIGs. They were credited with downing and damaging one, also without loss. It was one of the few times the American jets have outnumbered the Reds.
In weather that was clear but as cold as 17 degrees above, most infantrymen on both sides stayed in their foxholes to keep warm.
The eighth-army reported Friday's chief action was a company-sized Red attack on the eastern front north of the Kwachon reservoir. The Communists threw the Allies off one hill, but lost it almost immediately to a counter-attack.
The two recent trouble spots, Yonchon on the western front and Kumsong in the center, were quiet except for four minor Red probing attacks and occasional artillery exchanges.
Although an Allied briefing officer said the Chinese had moved enough tanks and artillery to the western front to be "capable of launching a limited offensive," they showed no disposition to do so. Air observers said traffic behind Red lines had dwindled after a busy two weeks.

Uset Possible

If the Hawks can retain that spark and get a few of the breaks that have usually been going the other way, an upset could be in the offing, especially if the Illini aren't taking Iowa too seriously.
The task confronting Iowa, however, is nothing short of tremendous, in view of Illinois' outstanding personnel.
Speed, power, agility, depth—you name it and Illinois has it.
There are few backfields equal to quarterback Tom O'Connell, halfbacks Johnny Karras and Don Stevens, and fullback Bill Tate.
O'Connell, a sophomore transfer student from Notre Dame, is a deft passer (he's third in the conference) and has been a sharp field general.
Karras Outstanding
Karras, of course, is one of the foremost runners in the game today as Iowa has found out on previous occasions. Stevens and Tate are also dangerous ball carriers.
Pete Bachouras, another fine halfback, will also have to be watched.
There's just as much class up front, on offense and defense.
Some of the standouts are Chuck Ulrich, 220-pound tackle; Rex Smith, offensive end; Chuck Boerio, linebacker; Al Brosky, defensive back; Chuck Studley, guard, and Frank Wozniak, defensive end.
Spirited Team
And down here they tell you that there's never been a more spirited Illinois team than this group.
In spite of all this, there's a genuine fear of the Iowa attack, which statistically ranks second

Every Draftee Cost U.S. $53.33

WASHINGTON (AP)—Selective service disclosed Friday that it spent $53.33 to induct each of its 587,553 draftees last year—compared with an average of $61 disbursed by the army, navy, air force and marines for each of their volunteers.
Defenders of the armed services recruiting program were quick to point out, however, that volunteers serve at least three years while draftees are in uniform for only about two years. Thus, they said, they actually are getting more for their dollars.

Preview—THE FILM

By GIL TAYLOR

"Saturday's Hero," screenplay by Millard Lampell and Sidney Buchman from Lampell's novel "The Hero." Directed by David Miller. A Sidney Buchman production for Columbia pictures. At the Varsity.

On the credit side of "Saturday's Hero" which purports to be the lowdown on football's graft system, are three fine performances by Donna Reed, Sidney Blackmer, and Alexander Knox.

Miss Reed, as a rather disenchanted young woman, acts with sensitivity and beauty while Blackmer, cast as her possessive uncle does much more for the role than it deserves. Alexander Knox contributes his usual persuasive characterization, this time as a university professor.

Other than that the film has little to offer. Briefly, it is the story of a poor boy, because of his athletic ability, gets the opportunity to go to a wealthy college.

While there he learns the values of such old cliches as honesty and truth, but learns them the hard way and by reel nine we find him returning to his drab home working that he will obtain his education in the best manner, by industry and fearlessness.

This is familiar, being found from Horatio Alger to "The Open Road For Boys," but the film does contain some excellent and quite exciting football shots.

It also has John Derek as the stalwart hero, Derek has two expressions: that of tightening the muscles of his jaw in the face of adversity and raising his big eyes to denote everything from despair to passion. Admittedly he is a handsome boy, but that does not overshadow the fact that he has no acting ability.

While the film is billed as an expose of football, it contains little that is new upon that subject but if you like action, happy endings and obvious morals, it will be playing until Wednesday.

Hats Off to Gavin

TO THE EDITOR:
At last some one has raised a vital topic in this column. Nice going, Mr. Gavin, and allow me to add my voice in demanding an organized blood donor program for the armed forces.

Daily Iowan, here's your chance to campaign for something really worthwhile. Light the fire under the Student Council, whose job it should be to organize and set up such a program; get out the organizations that show such talent when promoting epics such as MEBOC or Kampus Kapers. Advertise, promote, make people on this campus aware of the need for blood, get the drive going, and make them feel guilty if they don't give.

Come on, Daily Iowan, show the power of the press. Come on, students, get your heads out of the sports section.

Challenge to Yell

TO THE EDITOR:
The recent gripe printed about Tailfeathers made me mad. There was a bang-up pep rally that night the team left for the Ohio game. But does anybody give a peep of praise over this encouraging event? No!

Students greet signs of "moulting" feathers with open ink wells and primed typewriters. Lack of school spirit is as conventional a topic of conversation as the weather. The only difference is that nothing is being done for school spirit while scientists are rapidly mastering wind, snow and rain, not to mention sleet.

Is it any wonder the pep club isn't a moving force on this campus? The only people who yell at the games are exhibitionists who

Deer Takes Hunter For Ride in Woods

LEMMON, S.D. (AP)—John Behrman went hunting for a deer and wound up riding one through the forest.

With a friend, Oscar Stonelake, Behrman came upon two deer. He fired at one, but the other charged him.

His rifle became entangled in the deer's antlers. Behrman had a good grip on his weapon and when the deer tossed its head, the hunter flew into the air.

To his surprise he landed on the deer's back and found himself prancing through the forest.

The deer charged into a tree to shake Behrman loose, but the hunter kept his seat even though the tree went down. Then the deer plowed into another tree and the shaken Behrman slid to the ground.

Only then was Stonelake free to take a shot at the deer, but he missed.

To remind hunters of gun safety rules and teach youngsters proper handling of firearms, your Iowa Safety congress, in cooperation with the State Conservation Commission, Boy Scouts and other organizations, has planned the 23rd annual observance of Gun Safety Week, November 11 to 18.

Timed to coincide with the opening of the pheasant season, the gun safety observance emphasizes that firearms provide safe recreation only if properly used.

Prospect of All-Out War Emphasizes Air Power

By J. M. ROBERTS JR., Associated Press News Analyst

The prospect of all-out air war in Korea has undoubtedly played its part in the decision of the joint chiefs of staff that the United States must re-emphasize development of its air power.

The plan now calls for an air force increase from 87 to 140 wings, with, as General Bradley puts it, "a considerable increase in navy and marine air strength."

Military authorities would not be surprised at any time if they had to revise their tactics in Korea to implement the warning given the Communists many months ago, that important aerial assault on Allied ground forces would bring retaliation in the form of bombing beyond the Korean border.

The Communists are trying to develop air bases south of that line now, with the obvious intent of putting their short range jet fighters over the battle lines. Allied efforts to prevent construction of these fields has produced more extensive air battles than ever before, with the Red planes, some flown, as General Vandenberg put it, by Russian-speaking pilots, venturing much farther south.

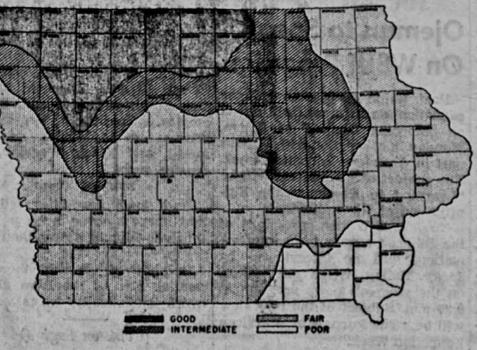

The battles have also emphasized the need for hurried production of new and more modern

Techniques of Intimidation

(Editor's Note: The Daily Iowan brings you today the conclusion of the article on Techniques of Intimidation. The Daily Iowan feels that this report dealing with the problems facing American universities has special significance for our readers, who are primarily members of a university community. These articles, printed with special permission from The New Republic magazine, are above all, provocative. The editors of The Daily Iowan invite readers to express their opinions on the controversial issues introduced.)

Red-White-Blue Axgrindings
The University of Virginia, the school Thomas Jefferson dedicated to the "illimitable freedom of the human mind," was recently audience to a distasteful spectacle. Three of its most respected faculty members, the head of the Woodrow Wilson School of International Affairs and two of its professors, were suddenly charged with being Communist sympathizers. The accusation did not originate with the local DAR or the American Legion chapter but with one of the accused's own colleagues, an ambitious assistant professor in the school. The accuser, ranking at having been passed over for a promotion, had taken his case not to a faculty committee but straight to the public via a radio program which he gave on one of the local stations. On investigation the charges were found to be utterly groundless, and the accuser was fired.

Academic politics is seldom pleasant, but it becomes dangerous when a disappointed faculty member seeks to exploit prevailing political prejudices to bolster his personal ones. Nor do universities always discriminate as well as Virginia did. In the small Fairmont (W. Va.) State college, Dr. Luella Mundel, head of the art department, has been dismissed by the state board of education on charges almost paralleling those made in Charlottesville. Again the accuser was a disappointed junior colleague. The charge, that Dr. Mundel is an atheist, again was made to a scandal-hungry public, this time in "Ticks and Tocks," the gossip column of one of the local newspapers. Dr. Mundel, who denied both charges, is now suing for slander, but what resources do most professors have to throw into a long and expensive litigation?

College Press: 1.65% Free
Every college editor worth his salt pursues at least one "crusade" a year. Lack of student interest in the campus chest, the United Nations or the honor system are the more usual topics of editorial broadsides. But sometimes an editor feels called on to aim his shots at more specific offenders—perhaps the college administration or a state political machine that may control it. What happens then? A case in point occurred last spring at the University of Washington, where the daily editor felt strongly about a new set of subversive-control bills then before the state legislature. His editorials left no doubt of his position. They scorned the "anxious little men" who were "insisting that we give up our freedom to save our freedom." The daily also printed several opposition articles, and the faculty adviser made no open criticism. But one day the editor found himself, without previous notice, called before a faculty-dominated committee and dismissed.

To back up the dismissal, a faculty member explained that "the situation was so bad that the school of journalism could not take responsibility for the daily if the editor who 'harped' too long on a single issue" remained. A student committee examined the charges. It found that during his campaign the editor devoted less than 2 per cent of the daily's space to coverage of the subversive bills. The committee concluded that "if we are to credit the charges dealt with here, future editors must be warned... that they should not devote as much as 1.65 per cent of their space to discussion of an issue."

CAMPUS POLL

Question: Has the decrease in enrollment at SUI improved the performance of your classes?

Prof. Russell M. Ross, political science department: "Very definitely offers more opportunity for classroom discussion. With classes under 50 rather than close to 100, a student has better opportunity to find the answers to problems that arise in his study and from the lectures."

Prof. Nicholas V. Riasanovsky, history department: "Slight improvement, but not a radical change. With the lecture system, it doesn't make too much difference."

Prof. William J. Paff, English department: "I have about three times as many students this year, so there hasn't been any real decrease in my classes."

Prof. J. E. Partington, general business department: "Not perceptibly."

Prof. Richard Popkin, philosophy department: "Easier for the student to ask questions and discuss problems."

Doctor's Role in Society Told

Premedical students attending Grinnell college; H. W. Saunders, G. F. Else, and Drs. W. R. Ingram and W. B. Bean, all of SUI.

The premedical curriculum should not be restricted solely to the study of sciences, the speakers reiterated, but should help prepare the future doctor to be an effective, and interested and responsible citizen.

The doctor must close the existing gap between the patient and himself, and the patient must be told "in English" what his illness is and what can be done about it.

Students were told that the patient is worried about his illness—worried about its meaning in reference to his future.

Dr. H. M. Hines, of the SUI college of medicine, discussed graduate education in the medical sciences, and Dr. W. R. Miller, of the Psychopathic hospital, told the students and advisors about the selection of students for the college of medicine.

Take Out Evil, Job Of College Sports Scandal Committee

EAST LANSING, MICH. (AP) — Michigan State College President John A. Hannah, named to head a committee investigating recent sports scandals, Friday declared his faith in intercollegiate athletics.

"I believe there is much good in intercollegiate athletics," Hannah said. "Our job will be to save what is good and take out what is evil."

Hannah is chairman of a committee of 10 college presidents named by the American Council on Education to investigate intercollegiate sports scandals.

"We are not fanatics about athletics at Notre Dame," Father Cavanaugh said, "but we believe that courage, loyalty and spirit can be developed better by a virile athletic program than any other way."

"Some of those super-intellectuals entrusted with managing our relations with other countries would do a better job if they had courage and the will to win."

Has Operation — Jim Thorpe Flat Broke

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — All-America athlete Jim Thorpe, flat broke, underwent successful surgery Friday for removal of a cancerous growth on his lower lip.

The legendary Carlisle school Indian, who won fame as a football, track and baseball star—and last year named by the Associated Press as the No. 1 athlete of this century in a charity case at the Lankenau hospital.

Thorpe, now a bulky, fat, aging 63 with thin greying hair and heavy wrinkles in his face, won all-American honors in 1911 and 1912 as the football wonder of the Carlisle Indian school.

The lip condition was discovered a week ago, Mrs. Thorpe said. He went immediately to a doctor.

On doctor's orders he cannot talk. His lower jaw is taped, and he can take only liquids for nourishment.

Mrs. Thorpe proposed that Jim's friends in the sports world do something for him.

"It would be a nice gesture," she said, "if the National Football league which Jim helped found would hold a 'Jim Thorpe Day.'"

"It would also be a nice gesture if the New York Giants, for whom Jim played, would sponsor a benefit."

Mrs. Thorpe said she didn't know what Jim would do when he got out of the hospital, adding she had no plans, no money, no definite place to go.

Finances Frighten Fans Frick Feels

CLEVELAND (AP) — Baseball fans simply can't afford to see as many games as they used to, Ford Frick said Friday.

The new baseball commissioner, here to address the city club, was talking about the recent disclosure that major league attendance dropped more than a million last season.

"That convinced me," Frick told a reporter, "that the post-war boom has ended and that attendance, generally, has leveled off."

"You'll find that baseball attendance follows the economic trend. People have as much money today, but the money buys less."

Little Hawk's Defense Stops St. Ambrose, 18-0

By LEE CANNING
City high passed up scoring chance here Friday night and still had enough steam left to drop St. Ambrose academy of Davenport, 18-0, in the last game of the season for the Little Hawks.

Sparked by the fine tackling of tackle Jim Wagner and guard Con Colbert, Coach Frank Bates' defensive outfit proved to be the difference. The rugged Hawklet defense held the visiting Knights to 14 yards on the ground and stopped St. Ambrose without a major scoring threat.

St. Ambrose got within City's 30-yard line only three times and all three times the Little Hawks halted the visitors' attack without serious trouble.

The victory over St. Ambrose was No. 6 of the season against two losses and one tie for City. The Hawklets finished Mississippi Valley conference play last week with a three win, two loss and one tie mark, good for fourth place.

City scored the second time it gained possession in the first quarter. Taking over on its 25, City moved to the St. Ambrose 13-yard line on runs of 33 and 15 yards by halfback Fritz Hageboeck and a 14-yard pass from quarterback John White to end Paul Lemme.

Halfback Bob Frantz got the first touchdown when he covered the last 13 yards. The kick for the extra point was wide.

A fumble by St. Ambrose halfback Kevin Fennelly on the Knights' four gave the Hawklets a second-quarter touchdown opportunity.

Hageboeck went for the score on the first play, a tricky double reverse. Freeman's kick was wide and City held a 12-0 lead at halftime.

Miami Passes Top Chattanooga 34-7

MIAMI, FLA. (AP) — The Miami Hurricanes, with Jack Hackett and Frank Smith striking suddenly for long-distance touchdowns, beat Chattanooga, 34-7, in the Orange bowl Friday night.

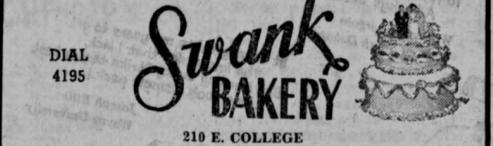

Hackett, hitting his aerial stride for the first time since he was knocked out of action with a broken collar bone before the season opened, connected with Ed Lutes on touchdown pass plays that covered 69 and 21 yards.

AMVETS POST 32

'Mary Stuart' Opens

Two Queens Make Full House at Theater

By WAYNE DANIELSON
The SRO sign was out Friday night at University theater for the opening performance of 'Mary Stuart,' by Friedrich von Schiller.
The play is a five-act historical drama about the imprisonment and execution of Mary, Queen of Scotland.
In the chief role, Mary Van Fleet, beautifully costumed, played the troubled queen. Her performance was stirring.
Susan Wood, as Queen Elizabeth, played the red-haired despot with a roughly regal voice and vigorous action. Her performance was admirable.

Handsome Robert Price, played a youthful sprig conspiring for Mary's freedom. As Mortimer, he was properly heroic. Indeed, very heroic.
Superlatives might easily be used to describe Harold Shifler, who played the Earl of Leicester, a venomous viper who wanted to be the lover of two queens.
Shifler's jaunty bearing, mellow voice, and keen interpretation, made his performance outstanding. His speech during Mary's execution (offstage) was splendid.
Historical plays require an elevated manner of speaking. But last night, the speech was sometimes too elevated, with the result being a few bursts of unintentional laughter.

This was unfortunate, but it seems to be the fault of the play which evidently was written without any break in a solid array of our scenes.
Harold Crain directed the cast of 32. The opulent costumes were by Margaret Hall. Walter S. Dewey supervised the lighting and A.S. Gillette achieved good effects with the theater's Elizabethan stage.
The play has a few moments that you will want to miss, but you should see it anyway. It will be at the theater for eight performances. P.S. Friday night the curtain rose at 8:10, fell at 10:50.

23 Awarded Certificates In Civil Defense Course

Twenty-three Iowans were presented with certificates of graduation by President Virgil M. Hancher Friday at the end of the fourth civil defense course to be conducted on campus.

Members of the defense class, sponsored by the university in cooperation with the state civil defense administration, had completed a five-day course covering the effects of conventional bombing, atomic bombing, biological and chemical warfare, in addition to the effects of "natural" disasters.

Climax of the course was a field demonstration Friday in which the class entered an area simulating a city in the aftermath of an atomic bombing and practiced restoring vital services to the "city."

Radioactive cobalt and iodine were spread through the area and several fires were started in miniature buildings. Members used geiger counters to pick a safe path through the area, enabling the "firemen" to put out the fires with extinguishers.

Other civil defense courses are planned for the near future, but no dates have been set as yet.

She lived for a number of years at West Liberty before moving to Iowa City in 1948. Mrs. Coffman is survived by several nieces and nephews. Her husband, two brothers, and three sisters preceded her in death.

New Student Outlines Trip

Prussian Student Arrives

Helmut Gramberg Given International Scholarship; Trip Here Financed by Lutheran Students

By CAROLINE COLLAMORE

Three years ago, the Lutheran Student association on campus started a drive to raise money to bring a European student to SUI. Finally, Helmut Gramberg, 20, of Koenigsburg, East Prussia, arrived this week.

The money was gathered from four sources. Students contributed money, worked Saturdays and sold blood to be used in the University hospitals. Home church organizations, such as the Ladies Aid and Brotherhood groups, sent gifts of money.

Working through the Lutheran Resettlement service of the National Lutheran council, they contacted two prospective students. However, one went instead to Canada and the other was placed elsewhere in America.

Gramberg was eligible to come to America because he belonged to a group known as ethnic Germans. By the Potsdam agreement, all those peoples living in other European countries but still considered Germans—those with German ancestry, speaking German and continuing a German culture—were to return to Germany.

From 5 to 6 million ethnic Germans were uprooted and returned to Germany, a country whose exhausted economy could not support her normal population. Gramberg said his impression of America was very favorable, in spite of a thunderstorm that
