Truman Fires
Caudle in Tax
Fraud Shakeup

T. Lamar Caudle
Fired by Truman

KEY WEST, FLA. (AP) — President Truman fired Assistant Atty. Gen. T. Lamar Caudle in charge of the justice department tax division Friday for "outside activities" incompatible with his official duties.

The chief executive cracked down on Caudle, who has figured prominently in a house committee investigation, a day after telling a new conference he wanted to get to the bottom in this inquiry and that anybody at fault will have to take the consequences.

The internal revenue bureau has been shaken by scandals. The President has announced he will seek legislation in January placing collectors of internal revenue under civil service.

The President is said to be considering an order to permit a house committee headed by Rep. Cecil R. King (D-Calif.) a free hand in inspecting records of income tax fraud prosecutions.

Presidental Secretary Joseph Short, meeting with newspapermen at this naval station winter White House, told them:

"The President asked for and received this resignation because Mr. Caudle has engaged in outside activities which the President feels are incompatible with the duties of his office."

Short would not discuss the "outside activities." He said Caudle's resignation is effective immediately.

The resignation was requested. Short said, "within the last two or three days."

An assistant attorney general in charge of the tax division, Caudle's duty was to prosecute cases of tax fraud and evasion.

His name figured in the news earlier this month when he acknowledged he had made a private trip to Europe last summer to help wine merchants preserve $96,000 in dollar credits in Italian banks.

Local Group to Name
SUI Man of Year

Nomination blanks are now being circulated by the Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce in its annual search for a local, rural and SUI Man of the Year.

The three chosen will receive awards in January at a special banquet.

The awards, a certificate and a key for the local man and certificates for the rural and SUI selections, are made on basis of contribution to community and state welfare, participation in community and state activities, leadership success in personal relations and business and cooperation with individuals and civic organizations.

The award is for direct, outstanding service and has no relation to Junior Chamber of Commerce membership. The local committee is headed by John Graham who will have charge of the local selection. Other members are Dick Phipps and Frank Eicher who will handle the rural and SUI selections, respectively.

All nominations must be received by the committee before midnight Dec. 15, 1951. The judging will be done by local citizens that are over 35. Anyone may nominate and the nominations should be addressed to: Junior Chamber of Commerce, Box 673, Iowa City.

Russian 'Peace' Bid Called 'Old Claims'; Gets U.S. Rejection

PARIS (AP) — Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky demanded Friday an immediate ban on atomic weapons and a one-third cut in the armed forces of the five great powers as an urgent prelude to world disarmament.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson promptly rejected these demands and declared the intention of the United States, Britain and France to persevere with "the serious business of trying to get agreement on genuine steps toward disarmament."

Acheson said he was glad to see Vishinsky had decided to stop laughing at the three-power western arm proposals, but said that Vishinsky still is not ready to agree on genuine steps toward disarmament.

Vishinsky spoke to the UN general assembly at a session in which French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman urged the Russians to live in mutual trust with the rest of the world and UN Secretary General Trygve Lie called for the foreign ministers here to start genuine negotiations on a settlement of east-west problems.

The Russian was in his usual form, sometimes shouting and sometimes speaking in a moderate tone.

Western spokesmen speculated that Moscow saw Vishinsky had pulled a boomer by laughing at the arms limitation proposals laid down by the United States, Britain and France at the start of the sixth general assembly. They suggested Vishinsky had been instructed to turn out old suggestions, often turned down by the UN, in an attempt to recapture the initiative and woo peoples disillusioned by his rejection of what might be a step toward peace.

Short would not discuss the "outside activities." He said Caudle's resignation is effective immediately.

Blood Donation Drive
Set for Early 1952
Local Chairman Says

A blood donor program for the defense department will be staged in Johnson county early next year.

The tentative arrangement calls for three days to be set aside for donors to give 435 pints of blood in the first of four 1952 drives in the county to meet the Red Cross quota of 1,740 pints.

The Johnson county Red Cross board met Friday and voted to take part in the national defense blood campaign.

Mrs. Victoria Gage, Des Moines, field representative for the program, met with the board and outlined plans. She said a mobile unit can be expected in Iowa City "early in 1952."

The exact date will be set when Mrs. Gage returns in January and checks on the progress made here on the project.

The British in London said they would think it over.

Salah El Din proposed in the UN assembly's general debate that the UN run the Sudan—which Britain and Egypt have ruled jointly since 1899—until a decision is made by vote of the 8,000-000 Sudanese people.

Young Ronald Rietveld this week wrote Clyde C. Walton, university curator of rare books, expressing a desire to attend the dedication of University library's Bollinger Lincoln collection Monday and Tuesday.

Ronald explained that he had been a Lincoln collector since he was 5 years old and claims to be the "youngest full-fledged Lincoln student living." According to his letter, Ronald corresponded with the late Judge James W. Bollinger, Davenport.

MADISON, WIS. — Iowa's football team draws another rugged assignment here this afternoon against Wisconsin's defensive-minded Badgers.

It will be the Hawkeyes' last chance to record a conference victory this season, but unless the Iowans can show marked improvement over their most recent outings, this promises to be another long afternoon for the 2,000 or so Hawkeye followers who have made the trip.

It's hard to imagine otherwise, for this Wisconsin team is cut from the same mold as the fine Illinois team that handled Iowa so easily last week.

BULLETIN

TOKYO (SATURDAY) (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway tonight confirmed the authenticity of a report of atrocities committed by Communist soldiers in Korea.

But the supreme commander expressed regret that evidence had not been coordinated before it was released.

He said that it had caused unnecessary anguish among relatives of soldiers in Korea, saying that all deaths had been reported to next of kin regardless of how death occurred.

If these problems could be solved full armistice terms would be good only for a limited period of time—perhaps about 30 days. During that period the fighting would continue and the negotiations would be committed to see whether they could solve the remaining highly controversial armistice problems which they have not yet talked about.

Future Teachers To Discuss Jobs

A discussion of problems, professional relations and methods of getting a job will form the program of a meeting of SUI Future Teachers of America Monday.

President Norman Severin said two teachers, one with four years' experience and the other a beginner, will conduct the discussion.

The teachers are, respectively,

Jack Dyer, math teacher at Lowden high school and Kathleen Morrissey, 1951 SUI graduate and English teacher at Lowden.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria of University high school.

The direction is vastly un-

inspired and the theater and battle scenes, along with numerous others, would undoubtedly be fine upon the stage but fail to explore the possibilities of the film.

HOWEVER, THE PRODUCTION does have Jose Ferrer and that is enough to overlook any technical difficulties. For his acting he deservedly won the Academy Award last year and although he has been playing it so long that many people believe he wrote the play, he still remains fresh and exciting, doing as much for and with the over-sweet romance as any human could.

He is Cyrano and everything that Cyrano should be and no higher praise can be given. The remainder of the cast, principally Mala Powers as Roxane and William Prince as Christian are not of his high quality. To be kind to their performances one would have to be silent. But one can easily shout for Ferrer who contributes a moving job with the utmost ease.

Ohio State

Men at Ohio State university are behind the eight ball now that women have invaded the pool room in the new Ohio Union.

According to the Ohio State Lantern, girls now attend pool classes. One rule laid down by instructors is that the female students cannot receive help from male bystanders.

The Lantern said pool is fast becoming a woman's sport; that because of this, bridge clubs may vanish. "Instead of telling husbands that dinner is late because they had to play one last rubber to win the game, the excuse will be 'I just couldn't pocket that eight ball.'

In most classes girls aren't allowed to smoke. Tournaments take the place of midterms and finals, although the story did not tell whether scholastic credit is offered by the course.

The story said that men like to play pool with women — unless they're beaten. It tears down their ego.

One item appears to be most noticeable. The "typical atmosphere of the pool parlor" seems to be changed.

Purdue

The Purdue crew, university rowing team, gained full university recognition recently to become the third midwest school to sponsor a rowing team.

The crew hopes to gain national recognition next spring, according to the Purdue Exponitor.

Coch Coach Hakon Rensum of Norway has emphasized that experience is not needed to become a good carman. The team has five returning veterans who lost their only race last year to Culver Military academy. The crew was organized in 1949.

University of Wisconsin and Marietta college are the only other rowing schools in the midwest.

Baldwin-Wallace

Baldwin-Wallace college in Berea, O., has adopted a pay-by-the-credit-hour policy of tuition.

Under the new plan, liberal arts students will be charged $9 per credit hour.

The previous system charged $125 per quarter, although course loads ranged from 12 to 17 hours.

Preview — THE FILM

By GIL TAYLOR

FERRER IN ROMANTIC HOKUM

"Cyrano de Bergerac" upon the screen is more like a photographed stage play. The film was produced by Stanley Kramer of "The Men" fame and since he was obviously intent in funds the settings and decor are, to an irritating extent, fake paper-mache, which causes the film to lack visual richness for it badly needs the advantage that lavish scenes, more extras and technicolor would give to it.

THE CAMERA WORK, also is a distinct disappointment. In such scenes as the soliloquy beginning "to sing, to laugh, to dream," the love scene beneath the balcony, and the memorable moment when Cyrano shouts "bring me giants" the camera fails entirely and loses most of the magic inherent in the play.

The direction is vastly un-

inspired and the theater and battle scenes, along with numerous

others, would undoubtedly be fine upon the stage but fail to explore the possibilities of the film.

HOWEVER, THE PRODUCTION does have Jose Ferrer and that is enough to overlook any technical difficulties. Coeds Learn Housekeeping In SUI Co-op Dormitories

THIS MEAT SHOULD BE DONE BY NOW thinks one of the dinner cooks, June Rosenow, A3, Esterville, as she gives the pork chops a knowing poke. Life at Fairchild isn't all work however, as the girls have parties, openhouses and formals at different times throughout the year.

DOING HER JOB OF KEEPING the living room tidy is Barbara Sinex, A2, Des Moines. On call as general handyman, she also fixes the washing machine and any mechanical implement that happens to be out of commission. Barbara designed and installed the buzzer system in use for calling girls to the phone.

A GAME OF SOLITAIRE is enjoyed between studies by Sally Hudloff, A1, LaMoille (left) and Mary McGrath, A1, Davenport (right). Many of the girl's bedrooms have been self-decorated. The drapes in one room are made of yellow toweling with yellow used throughout the room.

The sign on the door reads "Fairchild House." It is one of the three cooperative dormitories on the SUI campus where 63 coeds are learning practical knowledge in housekeeping besides their academic studies.

Anyone visiting Fairchild would first notice that the girls truly enjoy living there. They make speeches in their classes about the co-ops and tell their friends about the merits of their housing unit.

Each of the twenty girls has an assigned household task that takes from one to two hours daily time.

Some of the jobs include planning and cooking meals, setting tables, washing dishes, checking in laundry and cleaning.

Nine of the 20 girls living there work part time on an average of 17 hours weekly besides their household tasks. The cost for one year is approximately $375.

The house consists of two quadruple rooms, four double rooms and four single rooms, besides the living and dining areas.

Most of the girls have decorated their own rooms with plenty of imagination in the way of draperies, bedspreads and wall decorations.

Begun in 1936 the co-ops have an "indefinite future" according to manager Robert Cotter, who is also in charge of married housing.

Originally the co-ops were for men students. This practice was started in 1932. In 1938 there were 11 men's and two women's but the male co-ops were abandoned with the drop in enrollment during World War II.

The managers of the cooperatives say that the men kept their own rooms cleaner but left the kitchen in terrible shape.

At the end of the year, since the co-ops are operated by SUI as a nonprofit organization, any money left from the food half of the budget is refunded to the girls.

Remember the refund—is constantly echoed in the kitchen to cut down on unnecessary waste. The decorating, repairing and new furniture comes from the other half of the budget.

Court to Open New Session

The November term of district court will open Monday with the impaneling of the Johnson county grand jury, District Judge James P. Gaffney said Friday.

District Judge Harold D. Evans will preside over the new court term, while Judge Gaffney will

Local Red Cross Again Participates In 'Seas' Program

Judge Gaffney said Friday that 54 civil and criminal cases were disposed of by trial, judgment, or dismissal during the term. He added that 17 cases brought before the court concerned drunken driving.

He also said that there were nearly 500 orders issued in probate and civil matters, and that the first 30 cases set for jury trial were disposed of. He added that he will transfer three cases to Marengo for further disposition.

The Johnson county chapter of the Red Cross, in answer to a request from the area Red Cross office in St. Louis, will again take part in the "Christmas in the High Seas" program.

Last year 18 packages were sent, according to Mrs. Edwin B. Kurtz, chairman of volunteer services, and this year the chapter is planning to send the same number.

These packages, each containing six gifts and a Christmas greeting card, will be expressed by Dec. 1 to the Presidio in San Francisco so that each man in naval service will receive a Christmas package.

Items which have been approved by the national Red Cross include writing portfolios, pencils with clips, gum, hard candy in tight cellophane bags, photo folders, cross word puzzle books, pocket clothes brushes, wallets, tooth brushes, razor blades, pipes and pipe tobacco, stationery, soap, pocket-size books, decks of cards, small games, oil skin pouches, handkerchiefs, wash cloths, nail files, manicure scissors, and miniature chess or checkers games.

Each gift package will be attractively wrapped and will cost $2.50. The entertainment and instruction service will assist Mrs. Kurtz in the purchasing and wrapping of these gifts. Members of this committee are Mrs. Leonard Raffensperger, chairman; Mrs. J. K. Schaff, Mrs. George Carson, Mrs. Robert Fitch, and Mrs. James Jordan.

Any individual or community organization wishing to take part in this service may bring gifts to the Johnson County Red Cross office, 15½ S. Dubuque st.

Adoption of a new Iowa City summons will be discussed Friday at a meeting of civic leaders in the City hall council chambers.

Invitations have been sent to a representation of Iowa City business and governmental leaders who will be asked to voice their opinion on the proposed issue.

Police Judge Emil G. Trott said the new summons is patterned after the uniform traffic summons first used in Michigan.

The new traffic ticket will contain both information and summons and will make it easier to file for police records.

Fines will be imposed according to the seriousness of each violation. A fine for speeding 10 miles over the limit will be heavier than for speeding 5 miles. Under the present setup, all speeding charges carry the same fine.

Fines for violations are listed on the new ticket in three columns showing the progressive increase in the fine in proportion to the seriousness of the offense.

Judge Trott said the meeting Friday has been called because the police department wants public support of the new summons before putting it into use.

The book is scheduled to be published next spring.

Cops, Judge Ask — Which Twin Was Drunk?

CHICAGO (AP) — Twin sisters threw an auto safety court into hopeless confusion Friday.

Police had a drunken driving and disorderly conduct charge against one twin, but weren't sure which. And to look at Lucille and Jean Lisiecke, 30, you couldn't tell them apart.

They were arrested Nov. 2 by two patrolmen who thought Jean was the one who was drunk and disorderly. She also was accused of speeding, driving without a license and resisting arrest.

But in court the officers told Judge William V. Daly they now believed it was Lucille who was driving while drunk.

"Which is which?" Daly asked. "We can't tell," the cops said.

Daly dismissed the drunk and disorderly charges but said to one twin, "Jean, I'm going to fine you $21 on the other charges."

"But I'm Lucille, your honor," said the twin.

Radio Men Believe TV News No Threat

DETROIT (AP) — Radio news men believe television never will supplant radio as a means of disseminating news over the air waves.

Jack Shelley, news manager of station HO, Des Moines, son of J. Bormann, director of news and public affairs for WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul, made the statement Thursday in a session of the national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity. No TV newscasters took part in the discussion.

"Radio newscast ratings continue to advance in the face of TV news competition," said Bormann, formerly of station WMT, Cedar Rapids. "Until TV discovers the key to its shackles, its chances of crowding out radio newscasting will lie submerged and dormant."

Shelley said many TV stations don't have "one single locally produced news show" while many radio stations do "bang-up local news reporting and broadcasting."
