Lawyer Implicates 7 In Tax Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The late Al Capone's attorney testified Tuesday he ran into income tax troubles after balking at a $500,000 "shakedown" by two men who reportedly claimed to have tax officials T. Lamar Caudle and Charles Olliphant "in their vest pocket."

The Chicago lawyer, Abraham Teitelbaum, identified the men involved in the alleged shakedown in Florida last April as Frank Nathan, former Pittsburgh promoter, and Bert Naster, partners in a Hollywood, Fla., electrical business.

He also said that Naster told him there was "a clique in Washington" that was "looking around the country to see who are soft touches" on income tax affairs. He said members of the "clique" were:

Olliphant; Joe D. Nunan, Jr., and George J. Schoeneman, former collectors of internal revenue, and Jess Larson, head of the General Services Administration. Teitelbaum also said Caudle's name was mentioned in this connection.

Virtually all of the men mentioned by Teitelbaum promptly branded his charges "ridiculous." Schoeneman and Nunan said they never heard of Nathan or Naster. Larson demanded an immediate chance to answer the charges before the subcommittee.

He was given the opportunity at a night session and, in a voice that shook with emotion, denied the accusation flatly.

Larson said he never had any business or social relations with Nathan, but also that he never disman who has hung around this town for four years to my knowledge, selling names and selling reputations . . .

Larson denied "categorically" not only that he ever had any business or social relations with Nathan, but also that he ever discussed any tax case of any kind with Olliphant, Schoeneman, or Nathan. He said he doesn't even know Nathan.

Amvets Disorganize, Officers Quit After Giving Up Permits

Robert Crosby, district commander for the American Veterans of World War II, said Tuesday that the charter for the Iowa City chapter will be "retired" to officially end the chapter's existence.

Crosby said he will send the charter to the Amvet headquarters in Des Moines. All the officers of the local post resigned shortly after the post turned in its beer permits to the city council Monday night. Post officials said the clubrooms would be closed immediately.

This action came after Iowa City radio station KXIC broadcast what it described as a tape recording of a conversation between one reporter at the station and a second in a phone booth in an unidentified local club Sunday.

William Baxter, 20-year-old Liberal Arts junior from Atlantic, working for KXIC, reportedly went to a club Sunday, bought a bottle of beer and telephoned the station.

The station tape-recorded his answers and comments to questions asked by Bob Shafer, A3, Signorney.

Shafer said Tuesday that the station is planning no further action, but added, "It's time somebody cleaned up the backyard."

City Atty. Ed Lucas said that action on the part of the city "is limited to receiving the beer permit." County Atty. William L. Meardon said Tuesday that he will ask the county grand jury, now in session, to investigate reports that the Amvets club sold beer on Sunday and to minors.

Crosby said officers of the club had been considering turning in the beer permit for the last three weeks.

Buy's Jump Trap —

Gets 63-Pound Beaver

— Against Wife's Wishes

James Manary, 522 E. College, caught a 63-pound beaver Saturday with a trap his wife, Carol, didn't want him to buy.

"I wanted to buy at least half a dozen," Manary said.

They compromised by buying one No. 4 jump-trap for $1.85.

Manary purchased the trap Saturday morning. He set it about 2-miles north of Iowa City near the Iowa river. He then went pheasant hunting and returned that night, finding the beaver caught by the left rear leg.

He said he placed a wire around the animal's neck and tried to carry him to the car but the animal was too heavy for one man to carry over muddy ground.

Manary then called his brother Jack, a veteran of five years military duty in Japan, and Buck

Lothridge, 619 4th ave.

The three weighed the beaver at Maher Bros. transfer, 304 S. Gilbert st., where Manary works. One look at the scale and Manary mused, "The biggest I ever got before was 45 pounds."

Last week a Des Moines paper carried a picture of a 60 pound beaver and claimed that so far it was a record catch in Iowa. Lothridge said, "We'd like to get a picture of this," he grinned, "and see what we can do about that old record."

City Plans Parking Lot North of Park Bridge

City Manager Peter F. Roan said Tuesday that city officials intend to provide a parking area on the west side of Dubuque st. north of the city park bridge for the use of fraternity men.

Roan said members of fraternities who recently requested lifting of the ban on Dubuque st. parking would be asked to help clear an area that would accommodate about 35 cars.

Monday night the city manager recommended that the city continue to prohibit parking on Dubuque st. because it is considered a "high hazard" area.

He said that 14 accidents occurred on the Dubuque st hill last year resulting in injury to four persons and property damage of $2004.62.

Monday night the council passed a proposal to buy a 60 by 150 ft. lot on Iowa ave. for conversion to a parking lot.

The property now contains a house and a repair shop. It is located between the Van Meter hotel and Eastlawn dormitory. The cost of the lot would be $16,500.

The new lot, which would accommodate about 35 cars, if approved at a public hearing Jan. 7 would become the first parking area located north of the business district. It would be purchased from funds acquired through parking meter collections.

Fear 2,000 Dead In Volcano Eruption On Philippine Island

MANILA (AP)—Officials of Camiguin island near here expressed fear Wednesday that 2,000 persons may have perished in the violent eruption of Hibok Hibok volcano Tuesday.

At least 141 Filipinos are known dead and rescue workers at the scene believe more than a thousand others are buried under the ashes and lava of the volcano.

All Philippine naval ships south of Manila were ordered to the scene to aid in the evacuation of the 45,000 inhabitants of Camiguin island, on which the 5,620-foot volcano is located.

So great was the heat from the lava that rescue workers so far had dug in only the outer fringes of the disaster zone. Poisonous fumes still poured from fissures, making rescue work perilous.

More than 6 square miles on the volcano's slope were blanketed by ash and lava minutes after the volcano let go with a thunderous roar. A tower of smoke and flame billowed 3 miles high over the summit.

The villagers, wise to the angry ways of Hibok Hibok, this time had no warning. Usually there are advance rumblings or earth shocks that give villagers on the slopes time to run for the coast. The U.S. air force and the U.S. navy each was sending an amphibian plane with doctors, nurses and medical supplies.

Release Demanded Of 4 U.S. Airmen From Red Hungary

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States demanded Tuesday that Communist Hungary free four American airmen immediately and indicated it will reject any Hungarian attempt to use them as hostages for new concessions in the Vogeler case.

The demand was made by George Abbott, U.S. charge d' affaires at Budapest, to Hungarian Foreign Undersecretary Andor Berei. Berei promised only to relay the American protest to high-level officials.

In the Hungarian capital, however, diplomatic circles expressed belief that the airmen will be released relatively soon. They noted that neither Hungary nor Russia have accused the fliers themselves of espionage.

The four men were crew members of a C-47 transport plane forced down in Hungary by Russian fighter planes Nov. 19 after becoming lost. Hungary has charged they were carrying espionage materials to Marshall Tito's government in Yugoslavia. The state department has denied this.

The department's protest Tuesday was by word of mouth. A formal note to Hungary will follow shortly. Department spokesman Lincoln White did not say whether a parallel protest will be sent to Russia who first announced that the missing airmen had been forced down.

An additional protest to the Soviet Union is considered likely, however, particularly since the Russians admitted forcing down the U.S. transport. The case also might be taken up in the United Nations if the men are not freed soon.

If He Can't Tell—A Pelican

LONDON (AP)—Minister of Works David Eccles was asked in the house of commons Tuesday night whether he is sure that pelicans being sent to St. James park would include one of each sex. Four pelicans were shipped in from Galveston, Tex., two weeks ago to replace some that died.

Eccles replied: "I am informed that the only sure guide to the sex of a pelican is another pelican. I am awaiting developments anxiously."

Bus Plows Through Marching Youths in England, 23 Killed

CHATHAM, England (AP)—A bus plowed through a marching platoon of 52 young royal marine cadets on a steep hill here Tuesday night, killing 23 boys and injuring at least 24 others.

Seventeen of the boys, who were marching three abreast to a boxing match, were killed outright and six others died in hospitals or enroute to them.

The bus struck the platoon from the rear shortly after nightfall. One passenger said he "just felt a series of bumps" as the heavy vehicle rolled through the ranks of the marchers, who were between 8 and 14 years old.

The driver of the bus was to have received a medal tomorrow for 25 years of safe driving.

Police identified the driver as John W. G. Samson, who has been with the bus company for 40 years. An official statement said only that the bus was going in the same direction as the marchers and ran into the boys from the rear.

The column of cadets was under command of a regular marine officer.

The boys, who are in a civilian boy scout-like group which prepares them for eventual membership in the marines, were marching from the Melville barracks here to the royal naval barracks.

Dressed in blue marine uniforms with red facings, the boys were going to see the royal marine cadet boxing championships when the bus struck them at about 6 p.m. in the dimly lit street just outside the naval barracks.

A naval petty officer who rushed from the barracks 100 yards from the scene said afterwards:

"I've seen some pretty grim things in a lot of places during the war but this was too much for me. I had to come away."

Bus passengers said the children were strewn about the street by the impact, screaming and shouting.

The scene was cleared within 30 minutes as teams of ambulance workers lifted bodies into ambulances.

Bill Welt was elected president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at a meeting in the Melody Mill Tuesday night.

Phil Hottel and Hal Gilbert were elected first and second vice-presidents, respectively, and Chuck Barker was named treasurer.

U.S., British Commandos Strike Again

TOKYO (WEDNESDAY) (AP)—United States and British marines carried out a commando raid behind Communist lines in North Korea Monday night, the second such hit-and-run raid in two days, the navy announced today.

Raiders of the 41st royal marine commandos struck the east coast rail line south of Songjin, 140 miles from the Soviet border. They had landed and blasted a railway tunnel with bazookas in the same area Sunday night.

This time the Communist shore defenses were ready, and two of the commandos were in a brief close quarter skirmish fought in the moonless night along the railway tracks leading from Siberia.

The commandos withdrew in boats to their attack transport, the USS Horace A. Bass, again leaving an "undetermined number of Communist dead along the closely guarded railway line," a dispatch from the transport said.

The dispatch did not mention whether the marines had carried out further demolitions or whether the reinforced enemy guards had driven them back.

The raid carried the American and British marines and royal marine commandos some 180 miles behind the front lines which remained quiet.

Beardsley's Taxes Due for Further Probing by Bureau

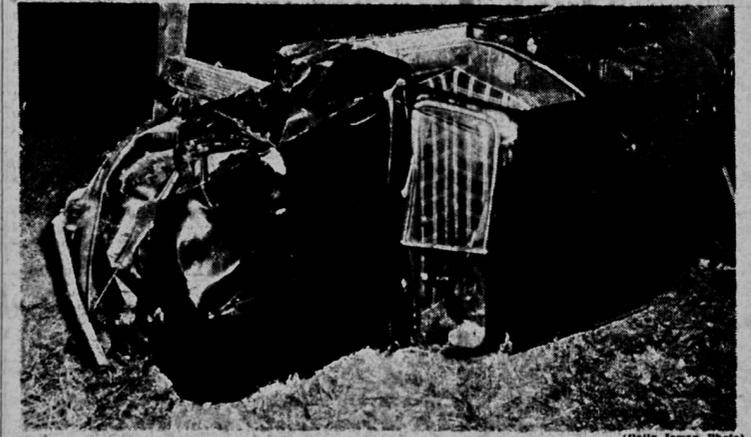

WASHINGTON (AP)—The justice department has asked the internal revenue bureau to make further investigation of the federal tax case involving Republican Gov. William S. Beardsley of Iowa, it was learned Tuesday.

The department sent the case back to the bureau with a request for further study and recommendations about its disposal. The department has been studying Beardsley's tax affairs for several months to determine if the facts warrant criminal action.

A check for $13,000, submitted by Beardsley for payment of $8,000 in back taxes from 1944 and $5,000 penalties, has not been accepted.

In Des Moines, Beardsley said he had "no comment" on the action. "The matter is in the hands of my attorneys," he said.

Driver Injured After Losing Control of Car

LYING ON ITS SIDE IN A DITCH BESIDE HIGHWAY 6 this car, driven by Gene Ellis, of Washington, missed a curve about 5 miles south of Iowa City late Tuesday night and plowed down the embankment. Ellis was taken to University hospital where officials said he was in "fair condition." A trucker behind Ellis, heading toward the city, saw the car go over the shoulder and flagged down several other cars for help. Ellis was found lying several feet from the car. Deputy Sheriff Don Wilson said Ellis probably hit a sand bucket on the shoulder and lost control of the car.

Campus Chest Helps Japan

MEDICAL BOOKS PURCHASED FROM 1950 CAMPUS CHEST funds are presented to the faculty of Kyushu university, Japan, by a member of the Japan student relief committee. The photo was sent to chest officials in Iowa City by the missionary's wife shown in the center. The books were presented early last summer after they were sent to Japan through the CARE agency.

Campus Chest Begins 3-Day Campaign Today

The 1951 Campus Chest begins its three-day campaign today with about 175 solicitors ready to accept contributions.

No monetary goal has been set for the drive. Instead, Chest officials hope for 100 per cent contributions by students and faculty members.

Five students will be stationed on campus each hour during an eight-hour period today, Thursday and Friday, to collect donations and they can be identified by their white arm bands.

In each dormitory, fraternity and sorority, a Campus Chest chairman has been appointed to collect the contributions.

Peggie Lutz, A3, Des Moines, is drive chairman. She said that this year's campaign will be an organized collection of funds for students, by students.

Donations will go to four groups: World Student Service Fund, National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students, CARE, and foreign student aid at SUI.

Collections from last year's drive went to these groups and Chest officials received a letter from Japan late this summer to express gratitude for SUI's effort.

The chairman of the student relief committee in Fukuoka, Japan wrote: "I express my deepest thanks for the medical books from your university to us. Your donation was dedicated to the medical department at Kyushu university which is one of the biggest centers of medicine.

"Authorities of the university were greatly moved when we explained that American students raised the money and stretched their hands of help to the Japanese people."

A missionary's wife said, "Today was a day of books. I congratulated them on the beautiful gift and hoped that it would be a contributing factor to world peace."

BERLIN-KREMLIN

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is one of a series of 12 articles, telling starkly and bluntly the truth of life for a Russian soldier in the Soviet-controlled zone of Germany as told by Maj. Gregory Klimov, a former member of the Russian general staff in Germany. Disgusted with the system under which he lived, Major Klimov fled to the western (Allied-occupied) zone of Germany. Here is his own story, told for the first time.)

BERLIN—To the Russians who encountered them in Berlin for the first time, the Americans appeared as strange and mystifying figures. Their informality, their casualness and indifference on one hand, and their strength on the other were baffling contradictions. Top officers like General Shabalin despised them, regarded them as "demoralized" yet held them in no little awe.

Casualness

Finally, I applied to the information office, where the two soldiers on duty were reclining in their chairs with feet on the desk, and busily chewing gum. I had the feeling that if President Truman or Stalin had come into the room at that moment the soldiers still would not have felt impelled to take their feet down.

Delayed

When we arrived at the airfield the next morning we were told by the sergeant on duty that our plane would start later than originally scheduled. This irritated Shabalin, who was convinced that without a written confirmation, properly sealed and signed, no value could be attached to the mere word of an American general.

A curious emotional conflict arose. The Russians felt themselves superior to the Americans, nevertheless they became uneasy when they entered the United States sector and behaved as if the place was haunted by the devil.

Door Flew Open

Suddenly the door flew open, and a small long-nosed man in uniform rushed out, snapped his hat from the hook, and tossed a quick remark to the secretary.

American Senators

It turned out that the newcomers, a group of American senators, had mistaken Shabalin for Marshal Zhukov. Shabalin regarded his hands with alarm, as if he were afraid they had been contaminated.

Recall returning with Shabalin from a conference in the Eastern zone. The general had ordered the chauffeur not to proceed through the American sector, but he lost his way and landed in a United States district suburb.

First Contact

I had my first direct contact with the American forces as I was arranging transportation to Frankfurt for Shabalin in connection with a series of four-power conferences.

Settled Matter

With a telephone call the general settled the matter of the airplane we needed for the trip to Frankfurt and told me when it would be ready.

Curious Americans

The area was unfamiliar to the driver. It was night; many of the streets were blocked by rubble and the bridges not yet repaired. Shabalin cursed and, because he refused to go over the Potsdamer Chaussee, the main thoroughfare, we zig-zagged through side streets.

Ordered Driver

I ordered the general's driver who brought me there to remain in our car and forbade him to take a single step away from it. "You never can tell what might happen. They might kidnap him," I thought, remembering the many warnings we had been given.

Bard of the Yukon — Shooting of Dan McGrew

— Writes Melancholy Verse

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Robert W. Service, author of "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" and nearly 1,000 other verses, is still grinding out rhymes but most of them are in a melancholy vein.

The onetime vagabond, cowboy, bank manager and adventurer in Alaska in the gold rush days, is not at ease with the world.

The old bard of the Yukon, nearing 78, says:

"I'm disgusted with life. I'm almost an anarchist. I no longer believe in anything but nature. I feel very close to nature, which gives peace, happiness and tranquility."

"I would like to turn my back on the world and live with nature. If I didn't have a family, I would withdraw to a monastery."

The friendliness of the gray-haired poet belies the bitter philosophy of the man who has charmed millions of Americans with such rugged verse as:

"A bunch of the boys were whooping it up in the Malamute saloon." And "This is the law of the Yukon, that only the strong shall thrive; that surely the weak shall perish, and only the fit survive."

Interviewed in his comfortable third floor apartment, Service said somberly:

"I like to write about misery and suffering. Suffering is good for humanity. Man is ennobled by suffering. It is suffering that drives him on to better himself."

Service, who will be 78 next Jan. 16, and his French wife, Germaine, steer clear of the social life of the Riviera, and avoid celebrities.

Nearly lives Service's daughter, Tris, about 30, who just married Llen Davies of Scotland, manager of the Monte Carlo branch of Lloyd's bank.

Service still has a little bit of wanderlust.

"I've got 10 more years to live. Before I die, I'd like to see Australia, New Zealand and South America. "I would also like to visit China, but that's impossible now."

Bankers, lawyers, clergymen and doctors were among the thousands who put on work clothes.

Both banks and many business houses closed. Other firms operated with skeleton crews of women.

A clothier gave away 840 pairs of work gloves. A grocery donated a barrel of rakes and shovels.

Neighboring towns sent 120 trucks and drivers. A sound truck and crew, experienced in directing clean-up details, came 430 miles from Houston. Oil companies provided mobile units used in cleaning oil wells to spray alleys with live steam.

But another new case brought the polio total for December to eight. There were 40 cases in November.

Also prompting the clean-up were 43 cases of infant diarrhea which developed last week.

Debris from yards, vacant lots and streets was piled high and burned in a special dump established north of the city.

Rich Germans Build 'Ready to Run' Navy To Flee Sudden War

By HANNS NEUERBOURG

EMDEN, Germany (AP) — "Those white yachts over there are Germany's new navy," smiled the old whiskered fisherman.

"It's a navy that will run away in case of war."

All along the German North Sea coast between Cuxhaven and Emden, it is common knowledge that pleasure boats have been prepared by cautious, well-to-do Germans to carry them to distant refuge if war breaks out.

They are tied up in small and big harbors. It is difficult to estimate their total number, but it is probably over 100. Several more wealthy families recently have bought and equipped such yachts.

Texans Begin Grim Battle Against Polio

ODESSA, TEX. (AP) — Citizens armed with rakes and disinfectants waged a grim war Monday against an epidemic of polio in this west Texas oil and ranch center.

The all-out clean-up campaign was the best way health officials knew to fight the invisible enemy which has stricken 60 persons and taken nine lives this year.

Survey Shows 107,611 UN Losses in Korea

PARIS (AP) — United Nations casualties in the Korean war total 107,611, a survey of UN delegations from countries participating in the fighting showed Monday.

The figure does not include 212,544 South Korean casualties announced in their last report in June. Adding this figure to the UN losses would give a total of 320,155 for the Allied side, compared with total North Korean and Communist Chinese casualties, estimated by the Pentagon in Washington through Oct. 13, of 1,402,504.

The total casualties for UN forces include 16,805 dead, 75,949 wounded, 14,113 missing, and 609 known British prisoners. Also, Thailand, with a small total of casualties, did not give a breakdown of killed, wounded or missing.

Except for the South Koreans, the U.S., with 100,883, led the list of total casualties on the Allied side, when the latest report was released in Washington.

These included 15,323 dead, 79,952 wounded, and 12,608 missing.

An Ounce of Prevention

One of the most important recommendations of the National Safety council for improving Iowa City's traffic activities is the intensification of pedestrian enforcement.

Even without the aid of statistics, it is evident to anyone who walks or drives on the downtown streets that pedestrians pay little heed to traffic signals.

Not only do they venture stealthily from the curb, but also they walk against the lights. This creates a dangerous situation when drivers thinking they have the right-of-way have to stop suddenly to let the pedestrians go by.

Jaywalkers, individuals who feel they lead charmed lives and cross in the middle of streets, are the bane of life for every motorist. Neither the jaywalker who steps into the street from between parked cars, nor the driver can see each other well enough to proceed safely.

Persons who get out of a car and step into the lane of traffic and those who walk in front of a bus instead of waiting on the curb until it passes are examples of practices which endanger the lives of Iowa Citizens everyday.

While the education of all pedestrians, school children and adults to safety regulations is important, it is even more essential that a police program of strictly enforcing these regulations be put into effect.

Iowa City has had one traffic death in more than a year, however continual vigilance on the part of the traffic department is the only way to prevent others.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure"—especially when it involves the heartache of death or the crippling of bodies.

TO THE EDITOR:

I wonder if Messrs. William Baxter, Bob Shafer, are proud of their (sic) uncommendable and yellow-dog investigation of a local veterans club? What an underhanded, chicken-hearted attempt to gain notoriety.

Are these "AXE GRINDERS" so blasted blind to the obvious well known fact that other clubsrooms open their doors on Sundays? What do they think they sell over the bar openly—buttermilk? How come they choose the AmVets for their below-the-belt investigation?

Bob Shafer, bless his heart, said it was estimated that the average age of those in the club to be about 20 to 22. Thanks. Perhaps he forgot those who were their (sic) pushing 30. Just how does one go about estimating average ages?

No doubt station KXIC is proud of their "drum beating" foul broadcast of the investigation. Shafer said the station had been flooded with calls asking for more information and commending the station for its action. For gawds (sic) sake, are these interested people unaware of such organizations as the Elks, Moose, K. of C., etc. are open on Sundays?

When County Attorney William L. Meardon makes his investigation, I hope he takes into consideration that the AmVets is NOT THE ONLY PLACE OPEN ON SUNDAYS.

The Daily Iowan should also be congratulated (sic) for their conscientious effort to blast the investigation with Tuesday's headlines in bold, black print. Why should such minor local news share the number one spot in the news.

Perhaps when Messrs. Baxter and Shafer are members of a veterans' organization they will understand how much their AXE GRINDING is appreciated.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 28...

THE OVENBIRD

Past Grand Master of the Royal Order of Gourmets and Raconteurs—our outspoken friend knows how to find the proof of the pudding. Especially such a thing as cigarette mildness! A "quick puff" and a "single sniff" left him hungry for facts. Smokers everywhere have tried the same tests and discovered the one true test of cigarette mildness!

It's the sensible test... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke, on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments. Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

A Boost for Brechler—

They call him Windy, this man who's charged with the physical maintenance of Iowa's athletic plant. And Tuesday we found out why.

It's hard to remember ever having heard a man say so much in so short a time as Windy did Tuesday and make such good sense doing it. But that's easy for this heavy-bearded, rugged looking gentleman when he gets on one of his favorite subjects—the record of Iowa Athletic Director Paul Brechler.

Windy, or Harold Brown, if you prefer, has been around the Iowa athletic department for 34 years in various forms of maintenance tasks. At present, he's the head groundskeeper for the entire plant, a job of no little scope.

Thirty four years is one way of measuring it. Another, as Windy often says, is that there have been seven different athletic directors in office since he first came to work. Either way you look at it, it's a considerable length of time.

This, of course, doesn't necessarily make Windy an expert on how to throw a pass or score a basket or judge the quality of a player. But when he talks about athletic administration, you have to sit back and take notice.

"Listen, young fellow," he began, "I want you to tell everyone what a great job this Brechler has done. Why it just makes me sick to hear some people criticize him when they have no idea how much he's done for this school."

"There just couldn't be a better or more efficient athletic director. Take a walk through the fieldhouse with me and let me show you some of the things he's done here the past few years."

It was then that the great oral barrage began and no lawyer addressing a jury could have been more eloquent or convincing.

"See the gym," he said. Well, a few years ago when that floor was warped and giving the phys. ed. classes trouble, Brechler had all the old wood taken out and had steel and concrete put in its place. Relaid the whole floor at a big expense.

"Then he moved the varsity basketball floor 26 feet west to get new bleachers in. And he spent $40,000 to get the safest kind of bleachers so we'd never have any accidents like they had at Purdue a few years ago. He installed new baskets that the kids couldn't run into and get hurt. And he had two extra strings of lights across the court and more lights over the track put in."

First New Hurdles Since 1914

"And look here on the track. He bought these hurdles—60 of them—a couple of years ago. Until then we'd been using the same beat-up old hurdles that were here when I was in high school in 1914! That's the truth, too."

"He let me rebuild the baseball diamond with the best seed available and now we have one of the top college diamonds in the country. And we've relaid the foundation of both tracks."

"Don't forget about the stadium either. Do you know that since he's been here they've had the equivalent of 17 miles of lumber put in to replace the old seats. So that when you walk up the seats you don't break your neck."

"He's had both ends of the stadium over the dressing rooms water-proofed so that there's no more leaky ceilings in the dressing rooms."

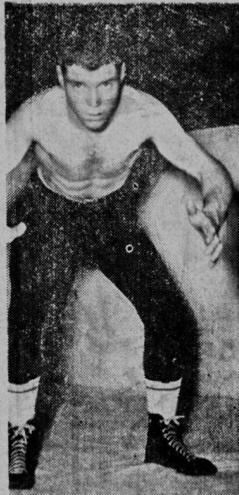

"Look over at the golf course. Five years ago we were doing 90 per cent of the work on the course by hand. Then when he came he sent me to Des Moines and let me get some of the best equipment on the market to make it one of the best courses in the state."

"And remember a few years back when the lower nine notes were completely flooded in June? Well, he had us work day in and day out so that it would be ready when the students returned in September. And, by golly, it was."

"I could go on with a lot more examples like the way he fixed up the classrooms and halls in the fieldhouse, but you get the idea. "Oh yes, don't forget this—almost all of the money that's gone into these improvements has come from athletic department funds. The taxpayer hasn't been footing the bill."

He finally paused, took a deep breath, and added: "Criticize? Why send anyone who wants to criticize Brechler to me. I'll set him straight."

Need Defensive Man So Reichardt Omitted, Bierman Tells Paper

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—"The committee just didn't select him." That, Bernie Bierman said Tuesday, was why Bill Reichardt, Iowa's all-Big Ten fullback, was not invited to play in the annual East-West football game.

Bierman, former Minnesota coach, is a member of the advisory committee to the post-season game New Year's Day.

"After all," said Bierman, "a great number of good boys had to be left out because there just wasn't room for them."

Iowa Coach Len Raffensperger said Monday he was notified by Bierman that there would not be room on the East squad for Reichardt.

Reichardt has accepted an invitation to play in the Blue-Gray game Dec. 29 at Montgomery, Ala.

In Des Moines, Tuesday, the Des Moines Tribune quoted Bierman as saying that Reichardt was left out of the East squad because "he wasn't a double duty performer."

In the Tribune story, Bierman said that Vic Janowicz would be the East's offensive fullback in the single wing while Jim Hammond of Wisconsin would be the defensive fullback.

"We can only pick 24 men for the entire offensive and defensive units and that's why our defensive fullback choice had to be a two-way man," the Tribune quoted Bierman.

"Hammond not only can play on defense, he's also a good ball carrier and excellent punter," Bierman added.

Bierman was further quoted: "It certainly wasn't any reflection on Reichardt's ability that he was omitted from the East team. I personally believe Reichardt is a great offensive fullback."

Cornell Cancels Mat Match with Aggies

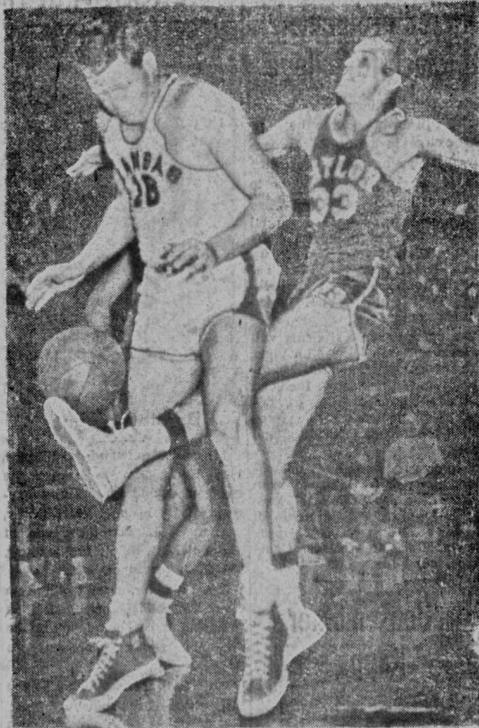

MT. VERNON, IA. (AP)—The faculty of Cornell college has voted to cancel a contract with the Oklahoma A. & M. college, Stillwater, Okla., for a dual wrestling meet at Mt. Vernon, on Feb. 23, 1952.

"This action of the Cornell faculty is taken reluctantly," said Jay B. MacGregor, dean of the college, "after careful consideration which dates from Nov. 5, 1951, and is in recognition of the fact that as yet no disciplinary action has been taken either by Oklahoma A. & M. college or the Missouri Valley conference regarding the Bright incident which occurred in a football game between Oklahoma A. & M. and Drake university on Oct. 20, 1951."

The reference was to the injury of John Bright, Drake back. He suffered a broken jaw in the Aggie game. Drake authorities contend that Bright was deliberately attacked by an Oklahoma Aggie player. Drake has ended its 43-year membership in the Missouri Valley conference in protest against the conference handling of its complaint.

Camera Catches Cage Antics

IT LOOKED LIKE Baylor forward Derrell Davis (33) was kicking a field goal between the knees of Kansas' star center Clyde Lovellette, but this unusual bit of action occurred in Monday night's Kansas-Baylor game as both men came down from a rebound. Kansas won, 57-46, in its opener.

U-High Tops Lone Tree, 51-34

By JIM COOKE
Daily Iowan Sports Writer
LONE TREE — Coach Lou Alley's U-high Bluehawks took their second Eastern Iowa Hawkeye conference win in as many starts as they downed Lone Tree, 51-34. The game was played Tuesday night in the Lone Tree gym and was preceded by a reserve contest which the Iowa City squad also won, 54-36.

For the locals it was clever forward Gardner Van Dyke who again led the scoring parade, this time with 13 points. Center Craig Perrin finished with 12 points, and Tom Kent, Van Dyke's running mate, at forward, got 10 points, six of them in a torrid fourth quarter.

Kent and Perrin sat out most of the third quarter with four fouls apiece. Gary Smothers was high point man from Lone Tree with three baskets and four free throws for 10 points, but it was a pair of freshmen brothers, the Stenebargers, who supplied the offensive spark for the Lions.

The Blues were two and a half minutes into the third quarter with a comfortable 32-15 lead when the Stonebargers suddenly ignited and closed the gap to 7 points, 37-30. Coach Alley reinstated regulars Kent, Perrin and Miller and U-high pulled away from the outclassed Lions.

Shooting averages show the Blues with a torrid second half average of 45.4 per cent with 10 goals in their 22 shots from the floor. Coupled with their nine baskets in 29 first half shots, their overall game average was 37.3 per cent. Lone Tree made good on 13 of their 61 attempts for a percentage of 21.3.

Sophomore Johnny Price, who later returned to action in the varsity game, led the U-high reserves in their win with 19 points. For Lone Tree, Loren Forbes finished with 10 points.

The rapidly improving Bluehawks now boast a perfect conference record and have brought their season average up to .500 with a record of two wins and two losses.

Tennessee Gets First In Final AP Grid Poll

NEW YORK (AP)—Tennessee has a year's lease on the Father O'Donnell trophy, emblem of the nation's No. 1 college football team as determined by the Associated Press poll.

The trophy was given to the Tennessee team Monday night at the annual football banquet in anticipation that the Vols, unbeaten in 10 games this season, would be ranked first.

Tuesday the ballots of 307 sports writers and sportscasters were tabulated. Result: Tennessee on top. The Tennessee trophy-room janitor immediately began hunting wall space for the huge plaque.

The Vols, in winning their first national grid title, got 139 first-place votes and enough other mentions to gather in 2,703 points.

Michigan State was second with 104 firsts and 2,609 points, followed by Maryland, the Tennessee opponent on Jan. 1 in the New Orleans Sugar bowl. Maryland was rated first on only 18 ballots but scored heavily enough for the No. 2 and No. 3 spots to collect 2,289 points.

The coming Sugar bowl game is the first to list the nation's No. 1 and No. 3 teams as its football attraction. The Rose bowl at Pasadena comes up with Illinois, No. 4 in the final poll, and Stanford, No. 7.

The Miami Orange bowl has fifth-place Georgia Tech and ninth-place Baylor while the Dallas Cotton bowl counters with Texas Christian, No. 11 despite its Southwest conference title, and Kentucky, No. 15.

The top 10 with first-place votes and season's records in parentheses:

Ordinance is Submitted To Regulate Use of Gas

A city ordinance, granting authority to the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company to impose regulations on the use of natural gas for space heating here was submitted to the city council Monday night.

Representatives of the utility company, Manager Robert H. Lind and Atty. Robert Osmundson, said that at the present time there is a great demand for gas service for heating purposes that cannot be filled.

They explained that construction of a new pipeline from Ainsworth to Cedar Rapids which would supply Iowa City has been delayed by lack of steel pipe.

The council gave the ordinance its first reading Monday night and two more will be required before passage.

New uniforms for police and firemen which are to be purchased from the St. Clair-Johnson store here will be delivered in January. The new outfits for more than 40 members of the two departments will cost the city $5,778.60 and funds will annually be set aside for replacement.

City Manager Peter F. Roan said that after the arrival of the new uniforms, an inspection will be held in the departments at the beginning of each shift.

In other business Monday night, the council granted a Class B beer permit to E. R. Kinney, 7 S. DuBuque st., heard a petition asking the widening of Silas Foster road, and heard a request from the planning and zoning commission for seven copies of the revised city code.

The SUI chapter, Alpha of Iowa, will have its observance Jan. 21 with a combined celebration and initiation of new members, to be elected Dec. 10.

Membership to the Iowa chapter requires a grade point of 3.2 in liberal arts studies.

The speaker at the Jan. 21 observance will be John W. Ashton, dean of the college of liberal arts and sciences at Indiana university. Dean Ashton was associate professor of English at SUI from 1927 to 1940, and was secretary of the SUI Phi Beta Kappa chapter.

Paving Debt Expected To Be Paid by March

City officials say that they expect a $95,000 street resurfacing debt to be paid by March, 1952.

Half of the debt, which was incurred through resurfacing of asphalt streets early this year, was paid in October. The remainder will be paid from funds allotted to the city from state use taxes.

The work was completed this spring by the Hargrave Construction company, Cedar Rapids. The cost of the project was $258,556.73.

Jewell said that after exchange visits between SUI and Iowa State, invitations would be sent to every Iowa school having independent groups.

Jewell was one of two SUI delegates to the ISA convention at Valparaiso. The Town Women's representative was Alma Marie Miller, A4, Des Moines.

Hancher Urges Use Of Student Unions In Education Program

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher told representatives of seven Iowa colleges during a conference on student unions held here Tuesday that education does not stop when the student leaves the classroom.

The President, speaking at a luncheon, said that many of the most valuable educational experiences take place outside the classroom, and it is one of the functions of the union to help provide facilities for these broader educational aspects.

The rest of the conference was devoted to discussions of student recreation, food service and community activities in connection with college union buildings. Both student and staff representatives of college unions attended the sessions.

Colleges represented were Grace-land, Lamoni; Grinnell, Grinnell; Iowa State college, Ames; Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls; Parsons, Fairfield; Wartburg, Waverly; and SUI.

SUI union staff members attending the conference were E. C. Harper, director; Frank Burge, assistant director; Lloyse Fisher, desk superintendent; June Graham, hostess; Isabelle Plum, director's secretary, and George F. Stevens, head waiter.

SUI student board members attending were Francine Appleman, A4, Elmhurst, Ill.; Leo M. Baker, L4, Muscatine; John Hogeland, D4, Marshalltown; Peg Jensen; Marilyn McMullin, A3, Dubuque; John A. Miller; Tom Moffitt, A4, Tipton; and Ted Rehder.

District Court Hears Land Judgment Suit

Testimony began Tuesday in a $23,525 land judgment case, the first trial of the November term of Johnson county district court.

District Judge Harold D. Evans said Tuesday that he expects testimony in the case, which was brought by Sam T. Morrison against the state highway commission, to be completed today. He added the trial will also be submitted to the jury.

Morrison is asking judgment of $23,525 for land used last summer when the state constructed the new highway 6 cutoff south of Coralville.

He claims that part of his land was used in the relocation of the highway and the rest of his land has been damaged by the construction.

Judge Removes Will Administrator

District Judge Harold D. Evans has removed the administrator for the estate of James D. Cox, who died last March 13.

James R. Cox, of Tipton, the administrator, was charged with failure to manage the affairs of the estate correctly. The matter was argued before Judge Evans Saturday. In his ruling, Judge Evans found that the administrator had transferred ownership of an auto in the estate and sold a threshing machine without proper authority and had failed to file a probate inventory.

R. P. White was appointed new administrator under $1,000 bond.

Driver Charged After His Car Hits Man

A charge of failure to yield the right of way to a pedestrian has been filed by police against Warren J. Wanek, R.R. 5, after a car Wanek was driving struck a pedestrian Monday night.

Injured was Alfred C. Klaffenbach, 63, of 317 E. Church st. Police said he suffered a broken leg, abrasions of the leg and possible internal injuries. Mercy hospital attendants said Tuesday he was in "good" condition. Wanek told police he was turning south onto Clinton st. from Jefferson st., about 12:45 a.m. Tuesday when his car struck Klaffenbach, who was walking across Clinton st. Wanek said he took the injured man to Mercy hospital, then notified police.

Police Judge Emil C. Trott explained Tuesday that the charge "failure to yield the right of way to a pedestrian" is different from "failure to yield the right of way to another vehicle."

Seniors in Medicine Will Serve Month as Doctors' 'Aides'

Seniors in SUI's college of medicine will serve one-month "apprenticeships" with private Iowa general practitioners in the future as part of their undergraduate medical training.

This new forward step, announced by President Virgil M. Hancher Tuesday, was approved late last week by the state board of education.

Dr. Willis M. Fowler, chairman of the college of medicine's executive committee, points out that the preceptorship plan had been under consideration for several months as a move toward acquainting the medical student with the opportunities available in general practice.

The plan is designed specifically, he says, to provide medical students the opportunity to:

1. Observe closely and under ideal conditions the activities of a private physician in conduct of his practice.

2. Study carefully the modern methods of medical care as employed in the home and in the office by a private general practitioner and

3. Observe the close personal relationship of the private physician to his patient.

The new plan will probably become effective in June, 1952, following termination of the current academic year. Medical students completing their junior year then will be eligible to serve their one-month preceptorships.

University and college of medicine officials feel, Dr. Fowler points out, that the preceptorship will be of greatest value to the medical student if served just prior to the time he begins his final year of clinical study.

In essence, Dr. Fowler adds, the new plan extends the senior curriculum in the college of medicine by one month, although it will not affect the student's graduation date. He emphasizes that there will be no increase in tuition fees as a result of the new move.

Iowa's general practitioners will be asked to volunteer their services as preceptors, Dr. Fowler says. Final selections will be made by the dean of the college, or the executive committee currently carrying out the dean's duties, with the aid of the college faculty, the Iowa Academy for General Practice and the Iowa State Medical society.

Although cooperating physicians will be listed with the faculty as preceptors in the college of medicine, they will serve without compensation.

It is hoped that preceptors will provide room and board for students assigned to them. In return, Dr. Fowler points out, medical students will aid the preceptors in the conduct of their practice to the extent permitted by Iowa.

Dr. Fowler emphasized that students will not be conducting medical practice. They will, however, aid the physician to whom they are assigned in carrying out routine examinations and therapy under close supervision while they are observing and studying

A number of Iowa medical students have, in past years, carried out similar programs during summer vacations on their own initiative, Dr. Fowler pointed out. They have served as private practicing physicians' assistants and have been employed in hospitals.

Chemists to Honor Prof. Henry Gilman

Dr. Henry Gilman, Iowa State college professor of organic chemistry, will receive the "Iowa award" here Friday.

The group will hold its meeting in the River room of the Union, with dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Dr. Gilman will speak to the society at 7:30 p.m., on "The Pursuit of Organo-Silicon Compounds."

Drug Use by Teen-Agers Hit

DES MOINES (AP)—Vigorous enforcement of narcotic laws and a strong educational program are two means by which the teenage use of drugs can be stamped out.

Lt. William J. Szarat, director of the youth bureau of the Chicago park district police, said here Tuesday.

Szarat was in Des Moines to speak before the annual convention of the Iowa Sheriffs and County Attorneys association.

Szarat said that in Chicago 989 young people under 21 were arrested as narcotic users from Nov. 22, 1950 to May 30, 1951 as compared to a total of 117 arrested in 1947 and 202 in 1949.

He added that one reason for the increase in the number of arrests is because police are being trained in how to find narcotics and how to "spot an addict."

"I think the reason that the use of narcotics among teenagers has become more prevalent is kids are using them as a lark," Szarat said.

"One youth gets started and then he starts his companions by calling them 'squares' and 'yellow' and telling them what a great feeling drugs will give them."

Szarat said that "the kid that takes dope for a lark doesn't realize that he is going to suffer the tortures of Hell when the effect wears off."

"The use of narcotics now is getting like the era of prohibition when youths thought it was smart to carry a flask on the hip," he added.

Szarat said that a "lot of hoodlums are being deprived of their incomes from bootlegging, gambling and prostitution because of recent nationwide crime crackdowns and have turned to new fields such as the peddling of narcotics."

"Some of these peddlers are giving the stuff away in the vicinity of schools. Once they get one of the school kids on the junk they've got him or her in the palm of their hand," he said.

Moeller to Speak at Florida Meeting

Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI school of journalism, will be speaker at the annual conference of Florida daily and weekly newspapers. The conference will be held at Florida state university, Tallahassee, Jan. 25-26.

His topic will be "The Challenge to the Mass Media in a Time of Crisis." He will also present a summary of the research progress of the school of journalism in the field of management and cost control techniques in the newspaper field.

"The chief threat to human rights is no longer one of too little government . . . Freedom's greatest threat today is too much government, that all limits to government action may be swept away."
... BERNARD M. BARUCH

THE road to Socialism is paved with ever-expanding bureaucracy, increasing government expenditures, waste, and ruinous taxation.

If our American heritage and freedom are to be preserved, it is imperative that government spending for non-defense purposes be cut to the bone. The economy of the nation cannot stand the burden of huge appropriations for non-essential projects on top of our rearmament effort.

No real American wants Socialism. That's why every American owes it to himself, his family and his country to protest against reckless, wasteful misuse of our hard-earned tax dollars.
