Oliphant Resigns Tax Office

WASHINGTON (AP) - Charles Oliphant resigned as chief legal officer of the internal revenue service Wednesday deploring "vilification" and piling another sensation on the heap already collected by a house investigating committee.

As Oliphant gave up his $14,800 a year job in the Truman administration, Frank Nathan went before the inquiry group to deny a charge that he tried to shake down a wealthy Chicago lawyer for $500,000 with promises to "fix" his tax troubles through influential friends in Washington officialdom.

Nathan shouted that the accusation was "a dirty, filthy lie." Oliphant resigned in a strongly-worded letter to President Truman.

"I find it beyond the limits of my endurance to protect my name and reputation and the prestige of the office I hold in the face of baseless and scurrilous charges," he wrote in part.

Oliphant's name was connected with the shakedown story, but the 42-year-old attorney, who has been with the revenue bureau since 1939, told Mr. Truman that it was "fantastic" to infer that he had anything to do with the alleged plot.

The shakedown story was told to the inquiry group - a house ways and means subcommittee - Tuesday by Abraham Teitelbaum, a well-to-do attorney and real estate operator in Chicago.

Teitelbaum swore that at Miami Beach, Fla., last winter he was approached by Nathan and Bert K. Naster, a Hollywood, Fla., electrical manufacturer, and told that if he would shell out half a million dollars they would "make it easy" for him in a tax fraud case which is still pending.

The two men, Teitelbaum said, hinted that there was a clique in Washington looking for "soft touches" like him. He said they rattled off the names of Oliphant, T. Lamar Caudle, Jess Larson, George J. Schoeneman and Joseph Nunan.

Caudle was an assistant attorney general in charge of all tax fraud prosecutions for the justice department before he was ousted by Mr. Truman Nov. 16. Larson heads the general services administration, the government's "housekeeper" in buying supplies and maintaining public buildings. Schoeneman and Nunan are former internal revenue commissioners.

O'Neill's Condition Reported 'Critical'

BOSTON (AP) - Eugene O'Neill, Nobel and Pulitzer Prize winning playwright, is in critical condition at Faulkner hospital.

The 63-year-old dramatist, whose home is at Marblehead, returned to the hospital last weekend after several previous visits. He has Parkinson's disease, described as a deterioration of the nerve centers.

15-Year-Old Boy Sentenced To 50-Year Prison Term

KNOXVILLE (AP) - Fifteen-year-old Bobby Weldon pleaded guilty in district court Wednesday to second degree murder and was sentenced to 50 years in the Fort Madison state penitentiary.

He had pleaded innocent last Friday to a murder charge in connection with the fatal shooting on Nov. 1 of George Lister, 67, of Des Moines, who was hunting in the Knoxville area. Lister was killed and robbed of $70. Trial had been set for Dec. 7.

The Weldon boy apparently is one of the youngest persons ever sentenced to the penitentiary. In 1945, Dorn Machovec 17, of Renwick, was sentenced to Fort Madison for slaying his step-father, Paul Voss.

District Judge Stanley E. Prall commented that Weldon is the "youngest murder ever to come before me."

The judge recommended no early release of the Weldon boy, and suggested that before any consideration be given to a parole, that the boy be given another psychiatric examination.

Weldon had been classed some time ago by the district court as a delinquent. His parents are divorced.

He was taken to Iowa City last week for a mental examination. The findings were not made public.

To Subpoena KXIC Newsmen

County Atty. William Meardon said Wednesday that William Baxter and Robert Shafer, the two KXIC reporters involved in the beer-on-Sunday recording, will be subpoenaed today to appear before the grand jury as witnesses in the Amvets club investigation.

The grand jury investigation was prompted by a recorded telephone conversation between Shafer and Baxter, the latter speaking from a local club unidentified in the broadcast.

All the officers of the Iowa City Amvets post resigned after post officials turned in their beer permit to the city council Monday night.

Reds Name Countries To Police Armistice

MUNSAN, Korea (THURSDAY) (AP) - Communist truce delegates dodged or gave evasive answers Wednesday on terms for supervising a Korean armistice but the United Nations command indicated it was ready to probe today for areas of common agreement.

In exploratory talks Wednesday the Communists cited two Russian satellites, Poland and Czechoslovakia, as suitable to serve on the Communist proposed neutral inspection teams to police a Korean truce.

The Reds also mentioned Switzerland, Denmark, and Sweden as qualified to serve because they had not sent troops to Korea.

An Allied spokesman told news correspondents that the fact neutral countries were discussed was no indication that the UN command had accepted the Red proposal for truce inspections by neutral nations.

The UN command communique Wednesday night said it was "important to note" that the countries mentioned were "merely given as examples of the type which the Communists considered within their definition of 'neutral nations.'"

Allied Jets Score 10-0 Air Victory

TOKYO (THURSDAY) (AP) - Outnumbered Allied jet pilots scored a 10 to 0 victory over the Red air fleet Wednesday in the 10th consecutive day of bitter aerial fighting and an officer warned today that the enemy is "capable of a new ground attack at short notice."

American and other UN pilots reported five Russian-built MIG-15s shot down and five others damaged in a series of swirling air battles above Korea. No damage to UN planes was reported.

The ground warning came as Allied officers expressed concern over the growing challenge of the Reds to UN air supremacy. They said Communist fighters and bombers now are capable of striking from new bases at Allied positions anywhere in Korea.

Manufacturers Allowed To Seek Higher Prices

Part Homing Pigeon?

MEMPHIS, TENN. (AP) - Roosters, it seems, get homesick, too. This one did—hoofing it through three miles of city streets to get back home.

Mrs. Roy Newman, attorney and chicken fancier, told this story Wednesday:

She gave a friend, G. A. Robinson, a white rooster earlier this week. The next day Robinson reported the bird missing.

Mrs. Newman glanced out her window. The gift rooster—wet and bedraggled—was wandering around the yard.

New Ceilings Would Reflect Cost Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government authorized manufacturers and processors Wednesday to seek higher price ceilings on thousands of products including coal, clothing, meat, milk, canned foods, cigarets, liquor, drugs and cosmetics.

The Office of Price Stabilization issued an order bringing nearly all the nation's manufacturers, processors, mines and oil firms under the Capehart amendment to the controls law, effective immediately. The amendment permits ceilings to reflect nearly all cost increases between the start of the Korean war and last July 26.

OPS officials were cautious about predicting any general price increase as a result of Wednesday's order. The agency said, however, that in specific cases where applications for higher ceilings are approved the effect will be to raise prices.

The price agency previously applied the Capehart formula to some 70,000 manufacturers of such products as furniture, hardware, rubber goods and machinery. Special orders will be issued later to extend the formula to the automobile industry and service firms such as banks, dry cleaners, laundries and repair shops.

Whatever the effect of the new order, price chief Michael V. DiSalle warned Wednesday that prices apparently are starting another upward swing. He flatly rejected congressional suggestions that he remove controls on products now selling below ceilings.

In a memo to the senate-house "watchdog" committee on controls, he said if controls are removed on under-ceiling items, prices of those items soon may shoot skyward too fast to reimpose them in time. In addition, he said removal of price controls would bring a demand for elimination of wage controls and another push to the inflation spiral.

Other developments: 1. The agriculture department warned that feed grain reserves for livestock have dipped to a new low which may mean a cutback in livestock production in 1953. The department said this would mean a "bite" out of present living standards and "great additional inflationary pressure."

2. Federal Reserve Board Governor Oliver S. Powell said the government's voluntary curbs on money-lending by banks are playing a big role in fighting inflation. He said they figure prominently in next year's anti-inflation planning.

3. The national production authority said the rubber shortage is over and virtually all controls on production of tires and other rubber goods will be abolished by the end of this year.

BOARD GETS $10,000

DES MOINES (AP) - The Iowa parole board Wednesday was given an extra $10,000 with which to expand its force of parole agents from five to seven.

Man Tells Police Of $1,500 Swindle During Card Game

Henry C. Brun, 35, a Hills farmer, told Iowa City police Tuesday he was swindled out of $1,554 as a result of a $5,308 card hand here late Tuesday afternoon.

Brun told police he put up the money to help cover a bet in a local hotel room card game. Brun said two of the three other men involved identified themselves as George Frantz and Leland Hoffman.

Brun said he never learned the name of the third, but described him as blond, about 20 years old, 150 pounds and wearing brown pants and a light brown sport jacket.

Brun was visiting Iowa City with his wife after having made a $1554.75 sale of hogs to the Farmers Livestock company.

According to police, the following is the story told then by Brun.

He said he was carrying a check for $1554.75 when the man identified as Frantz stopped him on the street and asked for directions to a certain rooming house.

A second man, whose name Brun did not learn, came up to the two, and after Frantz had offered them $20 apiece to find the rooming house, the three started off together.

When the party reached a local hotel, the unidentified man suggested Frantz get a room there, as the lodgings he was originally seeking had a rough-house reputation.

The blond-haired youth offered to get Frantz the room and after being gone about 10 minutes, Brun said, he returned with the key.

The three went up to the room where Frantz pulled a roll of big bills and bet the unidentified man $10 he could not buy a deck of cards anywhere in town.

The man took the bet and left, coming back soon with the cards.

Brun joined in the game, but said he quit after losing ten cents.

However, Frantz produced $7,000 from his wallet and offered the unidentified man a chance to cover the wager if he could.

The unidentified man said he didn't have that much cash. He then called the man identified as Leland Hoffman, who arrived at

Slavs Free Bishop Stepinac 'Conditionally'

ARCHBISHOP ALOJZIJ STEPINAC is shown at left as he looked in 1946 when he was sentenced to a Yugoslavia prison for collaboration with Axis powers and at right as he looked Wednesday when he was released from confinement. Archbishop Stepinac is head of the Catholic church in Yugoslavia.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) - Marshal Tito's Communist government Wednesday gave conditional freedom to Msgr. Alojzije Stepinac, the Roman Catholic primate condemned in 1946 to 16 years imprisonment on charges of collaborating with the Nazis in World War II.

The announcement, made through official news agency Tanjug, did not say what the conditions were. But it referred to Msgr. Stepinac as the "former archbishop," making clear that the government does not recognize him as the head of the Catholic church in Yugoslavia or in any other official capacity.

It seemed obvious that Tito hoped to make public opinion in Western countries more friendly to his regime by the release. But a new element of controversy may now be introduced.

Vatican sources already have declared that "the mandate Archbishop Stepinac received upon his consecration remains intact even if the Yugoslav government should not recognize it."

The strong-featured, spare-framed Stepinac (pronounced Step-peen-ats), was sentenced to hard labor on Oct. 11, 1946, while still declaring his innocence.

He never was required to work. He spent the last five years in two simply furnished cells, one of them turned into a chapel, in Lepoglava prison near Zagreb. He is now 53.

The announcement said that, by his own decision, he will live in the local parish house at Krasic, his native town near Zagreb.

The brief Tanjug statement said the decision to release the archbishop has been taken by the Croatian minister of the interior, Ivan Krajsic, and was based on articles 67 and 68 of the law on punishment, security and educational correctional measures.

Campus Chest Gets $201 in 1st Day

Contributions to the 1951 Campus Chest totaled $201 Wednesday evening at the end of the first day of the campaign.

Donations were running about the same as last year. Solicitations on campus amounted to $140 compared to $115 last year while faculty members contributed $61 against $66 in 1950.

First day donations totaled $600 last year, but this included reports from all sources. No money was turned in Wednesday from any dormitory, fraternity or sorority.

Chest officials plan to boost the campaign today by erecting a large "I" of fiberboard in the Union lobby. The letter will be covered with adhesive tape and students are asked to "cover the 'I' with silver" during the two remaining days of the drive.

Bootlegging Charge Filed by Constable

DES MOINES (AP) - Constable Basil Grossnickle filed a bootlegging charge Wednesday night against Jack Steinel, business manager of the Iowa Sheriffs' association.

The Allen township constable filed the charge in justice of the peace Harry Stone's court.

Grossnickle's charge grew out of his seizure Monday night of four full cases of whiskey in room 529 at Hotel Fort Des Moines while sheriffs and county attorneys from over the state were holding their annual conference here.

Attorneys Argue Definitions, Rights in Newsman's Trial

LAKE CHARLES, LA. (AP) - Rival attorneys wrangled over definitions and constitutional rights as the first of five newsmen went on trial Wednesday charged with defaming 16 public officials and 3 admitted gamblers during an anti-gambling crusade.

The newsmen, members of the Lake Charles American Press staff, were indicted while leading a law enforcement campaign in this southwest Louisiana city of 50,000.

Kenneth L. Dixon, 35-year-old managing editor accused of defaming a district attorney, an assistant district attorney, and 13 members of the parish police jury (county governing body) went on trial Wednesday.

M. E. Culligan, assistant attorney general of Louisiana and the specially appointed prosecutor, said the state contends that Dixon defamed the officials in an editorial "Legal Double Talk," and in an editorial column "Charley Lake Says."

Culligan attempted to introduce in evidence two definitions of the phrase "Legal Double Talk" seeking to link the definitions to the defamation of the public officials.

District Judge J. Bernard Coker of New Orleans, appointed to hear the cases in the absence of Lake Charles District Judge Mark C. Pickrel, sustained Defense Attorney Clement Moss' objections and ruled that Culligan would have to produce the dictionary as evidence.

Court officials hoped to complete Dixon's trial Wednesday night. The trial of James Norton, the paper's city editor, is set for 10 a.m. today.

BERLIN-KREMLIN

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is one of a series of 12 articles, telling starkly and bluntly the truth of life for a Russian soldier in the Soviet-controlled zone of Germany as told by Maj. Gregory Klimov, a former member of the Russian general staff in Germany. Disgusted with the system under which he lived, Major Klimov fled to the western (Allied-occupied) zone of Germany. Here is his own story, told for the first time.)

Staff in Germany

BERLIN — No method was too dirty for use by the Soviet Secret Police (MVD) in its dealings with Russia's wartime Allies in Berlin, especially with the United States.

The Berlin headquarters of the MVD set up a network of "love agents" whose duty it was to ferret out information from Allied soldiers and to lead Allied personnel into compromising situations which could later be used to blackmail them for future service.

I had the occasion to see the catalogues of German women who were employed in this activity. The files contained the standard, personal record together with the pictures of a number of very pretty girls. For each of them there was a separate sheet entitled "Compromising Facts."

Under the photograph of a smiling blonde was written, for example, "fiance served in the SS, since 1944 Russian prisoner of war; 1946—VD." Attached to the picture of a young girl with deep brown eyes was the notation: "Father — member of the Nazi party, interned in Russia, 1944—illegitimate child."

This particular group of girls were under the direction of the "Baroness," who before the war had conducted a marriage brokerage service among the upper German classes and had run a couple of bordellos for select clients.

Gestapo Agent
From 1936 to 1945 she had been a Gestapo agent. Her sons were prisoners of war in Russia, and she was working for us in the hope of effecting their release.

For the MVD the Baroness had set up a new "House of Pleasure" in the American sector.

Together with the file of the girls there were folders containing the pictures of American soldiers in uniform, with their serial numbers and service records. Also there were a number of love letters which had been solicited for handwriting specimens.

Purpose
I asked the purpose of the home addresses in America which were also included, and was told by the NKVD agent in charge: "When we interest ourselves in someone it is easier to make contact with him there, at home, than here."

He showed me a batch of photographs of a girl and an American lieutenant. They were of excellent quality and reflected all the stages of their relationship; some had been made with a hidden camera and showed the couple in most intimate situations.

"This boy is working for us now," the MVD officer said. "When he returned to America he became engaged to a young and quite wealthy girl. We gave him the choice of performing some services for us, or having his future wife see the pictures. He preferred the former, and is now turning in some very valuable material."

Specialists
Under the Baroness were a total of 26 women, all of whom were specialists in making certain types of acquaintances, and 34 street walkers. The Baroness was only one of many doing the same work in all the Western zones.

While in Berlin I had the opportunity of seeing some of the innermost workings of the MVD. I shall never forget the interrogations which I witnessed. One involving a Red army soldier is especially vivid in my memory.

Confessions
A filthy, tattered uniform hung from the prisoner as he was brought in. "Listen to me," the captain in charge said. "One time you were a model citizen of the Soviet Union, a Hero of the Fatherland in the war. Admit your guilt and the Fatherland will forgive you. Sign this confession and I give you my word you will be free."

"The Fatherland? Do you blood-suckers embody the Fatherland?" The words came from a bloody, jagged gash that was the prisoner's mouth. His swollen tongue moved with difficulty among the stumps of his teeth.

He grabbed the statement of confession which the captain held out to him, and spat on it: "There you have a genuine Communist signature," he screamed.

The captain signalled to the guard who beat the man to the floor with the butts of his tommyguns. As they moved to take him away he lunged toward the captain, who leaped aside with a shriek of rage crashed the butt of his pistol on the prisoner's head.

Background
Later I learned that during the war the man had been an outstanding soldier. A short time ago he had returned home on furlough and found his aged mother had been sent to Siberia on charges of "collaboration" because she had washed dishes for some German soldiers occupying her house.

The soldier's two young brothers who had been deported to Germany in 1942 for slave labor had been repatriated and sentenced by the Soviet regime to 10 years in the mines on the same charge as his mother.

Told of Experiences
When he returned to his unit in Germany he began telling about what he had experienced at home, and was arrested on grounds of "anti-Soviet agitation."

Could this man really be considered a "state enemy?" He had no definite goal, the MVD reasoned, "but he was in opposition to the existing order of things."

He was one of the millions of Russians representing a vast powderkeg. Throw in an inflammatory idea and everything is likely to blow up.

Espionage
A primary job of the MVD was espionage among the Allies.

Soon after arriving in Germany I received a "top secret" dossier containing reports made by several members of the Reichs Institute for Economic Research. Attached were two copies in English of interviews they had made earlier with American Intelligence officers in Wiesbaden.

The American documents were not stamped nor did they contain any number or address; it was obvious that they had not been obtained in any official way.

It was clear that Soviet agents had spun their threads around the heart of the United States administration.

Regular Exchange
A few days later a package arrived from the Americans, addressed to General Shabalin and containing exactly the same material from the Economic Institute men that I had already seen in English. It was being turned over to us in accordance with a Four Power agreement on a regular exchange of economic information.

When I showed the material to the general and explained that it had come through official channels he merely grunted: "We can't afford to take any chances in this business."

To Grandma's House We Go—Or Do We?

"Over the road and through the woods, to grandmother's house we go," will not be true of the 1951 holiday traveler.

Today's streamlined Buicks and Cadillacs have retired the old dapple mare to the back pasture but "grandmother" can still point her finger. For the "old mare" was never a contributor to the huge number of fatalities which today's automobiles are.

The automobile has been with us for a comparatively short time but this Christmas season, we are already approaching a milestone—the millionth traffic fatality.

National Safety Council statisticians have produced figures to bear out this prediction and the only remaining alternatives lies with the nation's drivers.

Each driver who slides behind the wheel should remind himself of the approaching tragedy which will bring notoriety to its victim. He should remind himself and then do his part to help prevent it.

Unlike "grandfather" who realized that the horse must be kept in rein, the driver of today's "speed miracles" often forgets that he too must be on guard if he is to control his car.

Now is a good time to chalk up a list of grim warnings against the dangers of (1) unfavorable road surfaces, (2) poor visibility, (3) the haste occasioned by the hectic holiday season, and (4) the danger of alcohol.

Like grandfather, today's driver should always remind himself, that there are always precautions to take to keep the vehicle under control.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

NOBEL PRIZE winner William Faulkner gave a flash of the kind of man he is when a brash girl reporter flung a string of questions at him at La Guardia airport (he was flying to Stockholm to collect his prize). "What do you think is wrong with modern civilization, Mr. Faulkner?" was her opening gambit. Faulkner answered quietly, "Just what you're doing now, ma'am." "What do you mean?" she asked. "The invasion of privacy," snapped the author.

Don't Be Naive

TO THE EDITOR:

It's fortunate that we live in the United States and not in one of the "People's Democracies" because if we did, Mr. Prescott Harmon Jr., would not have written his letter; or if he had, by now he would be contemplating the world affairs from a prison cell.

There are a good many Americans today that do not fully realize what they have here and what they might not have under a communistic government.

Because they have never tasted the kind of life on the other side of the fence, they are unable to compare ways of life and therefore don't appreciate their own.

Nobody tries to neglect the fact that two different ideologies co-exist today. All the talk about compromising and living peacefully are fine — as long as we know the people we are dealing with and what they stand for.

Mr. Harmon says both American Democracy and communism are "civilized attempts" to better living conditions.

May I ask in what respect is communism a civilized attempt? For instance, in my country I saw the Communists "kill a few thousand people" — to "better conditions" for some others by distributing to them what they took from the innocent victims.

Has Mr. Harmon been in Poland or some other country where communism exercises its authority? Has he ever stopped to think how life would be here if the Communists were to rule this country?

I am sure he hasn't or he would not be talking about the "steady rise of living standards."

The examples of the past are numerous and still fresh in our memory. Let's not be so naive about communism.

Midnight Oil

TO THE EDITOR:

In Tuesday's Iowan, the director of libraries says, "We are particularly pleased to see so many readers staying 'till midnight.'"

Maybe we'll eventually become habituated to such hours of study — but why should we?

Is there any good reason for having to postpone our library study until 8:30 a.m.? That makes it pretty rough on us "early-to-bed, early-to-rise boys."

Every morning you see students standing out in the cold waiting to get into the library. I think the students would be better served if the library opened at 7:30 a.m. and closed at 11 p.m.

At least, it's worth a try.

By the Law

TO THE EDITOR:

In reply to the letters of Marvin Grosz and Harold Kepner pertaining to the recent activities of the Daily Iowan and KXIC in regards to the conduct of the Amvets club, I would like to offer a few thoughts for their consideration.

Mr. Grosz assumed the position that the investigation was (1.) yellow dog and (2.) why should the Amvets be crucified instead of some other organization indulging in like activities.

The fallacies of his argument are apparent on the surface. Using his line of reasoning, recent congressional investigations concerning tax collectors, big time gamblers, the RFC etc. are yellow dog because the investigators don't stand up and screech to the high heavens that, "We are going to look into your activities and hence you better be a good boy while we are doing such so that we can give you a clean bill of health."

Secondly if Mr. Grosz is correct in his assumptions, those men conducting such investigations should earn the contempt and not the commendations of the American people. Such isn't the case.

Using Mr. Grosz's logic, no one should be investigated unless all are investigated and nothing should be done to any violator of the law unless something is done to all violators. This is a rather vacillating approach to existing conditions.

Supposing that other organizations are violating the law, never have two wrongs made a right.

But it is obvious that Mr. Grosz isn't too interested in right and wrong on an ethical basis and hence I would like to refer him to Sec. 124.20 of the Iowa Code, 1950, which expressly prohibits the sale of beer by Class B and C permit holders on Sunday.

Mr. Grosz would do far better to attack the law which he considers to work an injustice to his thirst and thereby get the law changed, than those who are fulfilling their responsibilities as citizens and journalists.

As for Mr. Kepner, if he equates, as he obviously does, maturity with sanctioning an apparent violation of the law, then his brand of maturity should certainly not be one of the aims and purposes of a college education.

It may be hoped that Mr. Kepner will, in the time remaining during his formal education, re-evaluate and develop his concept of maturity so it is more consistent with that of a mature concept of maturity and the purposes of a college education.

If we are to condone the contempt of responsible citizenry and journalism, the sanction of an apparent violation of the laws of Iowa and the supercilious attitude shown by these writers toward those who don't, a rather dim future is ahead for those who not only reflect on the nature of what is right and wrong but also those few who have the courage of their conviction to do something about it.

Attendance Count Continues; No-Cut Issue Still in Doubt

Tabulation of attendance figures for the no-cut issue continued Wednesday and no definite time had yet been set to decide the matter.

Dean Dewey B. Stuit, liberal arts, said Wednesday compiling attendance comparisons proved to be more difficult than first anticipated.

Previously, the deans of the colleges of liberal arts, commerce, and engineering thought the tabulation could be finished early this week.

Stuit said the college are now winding up the tabulation process and he hoped to meet with the other deans Friday and then discuss the matter with the student council committee.

"This date is not definite, however," he said, "and the meeting may have to be postponed until next week."

The deans and the student council members will use the attendance figures on the day before and the day after Thanksgiving vacation to decide if the no-cut rule should be suspended at Christmas vacation.

Atomic Weapons Expansion Planned

NEW YORK (AP) — Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission said Wednesday night that tentative plans are now being developed for a vast new expansion of America's atomic weapons output—the third since 1949.

Dean said the proposed expansion was spurred by the threat of the "Communists colossal" towering over the world's free nations and was made feasible, at least in part, by fresh discoveries of uranium deposits in Canada and Colorado.

"There has recently been a very decided improvement in the uranium supply outlook," Dean said in a speech prepared for the annual mobilization dinner of the American Ordnance association.

U. S. Protests Seizure Of 4 Fliers in Hungary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department Wednesday formally protested to Communist Hungary the seizure of four U.S. airmen whose plane was forced down by Russian fighters, but admitted it had no idea when they might be released.

Undersecretary of State James E. Webb said this government also demanded the immediate release of the fliers who have been held "incommunicado" since Nov. 19 when they became lost over Hungary on a flight from Germany to Yugoslavia.

Circulates Magazines, Books —

University Hospital Library

—To Recovering Patients

By ARLENE KING
Magazines, books, and papers help to pass idle hours for recovering patients at the University hospitals.

The patient's library, located on second floor of University hospitals, circulates more than 4500 books a month among patients at children's hospital and the adult patients at general hospital. This represents almost two-thirds of all the books owned by the library.

Nearly all the books are light reading material, principally for patient rehabilitation purposes.

All books are circulated free of charge, and ambulatory patients may come in to select any book or magazine they choose. For bed-ridden persons, however, books are brought to the patient on a cart twice a week by the librarian. For many children and adult patients who are unable to read by themselves, the Y.W.C.A. members volunteer time each week as "readers." The Storytellers' League of America also holds story hours on Sundays for the child patients at general hospital.

Microfilm books and projectors are available to patients too weak to hold books or unable to sit up. Polio patients make good use of these books when convalescing in respirators. Braille books for the blind are also available.

Books and magazines are provided for in the university budget, but many organizations contribute books and magazines and scrapbooks for children.

Plan for Easy Yule Shopping

With a little organization and planning, Christmas shopping can be fun instead of a hectic ordeal that leaves you with shattered nerves and a collection of ill-sorted presents.

Here are some suggestions that will smooth out both the task and your nerves:

First, do your shopping in installments. Try not to shop more than two hours at a time.

Shop in the morning if at all possible. Leave the breakfast dishes, if necessary, and get to the store as soon as it opens. Then you can leave before the store gets crowded.

Do some pre-shopping at home. Store as soon as it opens. Then you can leave before the store gets crowded.

Study the ads and stories in newspapers and magazines to see what is being offered and where. Then make up your list away from the crowds and confusion.

Make up an itinerary for each day's shopping, listing each thing you plan to do. Be sure to take your pen with you so you can make additions or deletions on the list as you go along.

Most important for frayed nerves—take a few minutes out every hour or so to relax and get your thoughts in order.

You are always welcome.

Hawkeye Hard to Guard—

Shot Variety Boosts Clifton

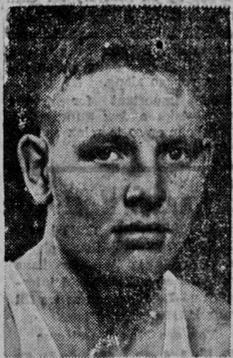

By LEE CANNING

Bob (Pinky) Clifton, co-captain and regular guard on the Iowa basketball team, has played every possible position but he doesn't let these shifts cut his scoring power.

The tall redhead has developed at least two shots to fit every position and by adroit mixing he can use as many as five different methods from each spot to bother his unsuspecting guard.

His favorite basket-makers are the jump and "underhand scoop" shots but he doesn't neglect one or two-handed set shots, hook or pivot varieties.

How sharp he is with that jump shot is shown by a look at the Big Ten's record for single game percentage. Using the jump shot most of the time, he hit on 9 of 12 attempts against Northwestern's pressing defense to become co-holder of that conference mark of .750.

Bob Clifton Likes Jump Shot on the Hawkeye squad in rebounds last season and should be one of Coach Bucky O'Connor's best men in that department this year.

Clifton also gained third in scoring during his junior and sophomore seasons. In 1949-50, he totaled 186 points and last season, he upped that to 198 counters. Both totals were made in 22 games.

Smooth, Fast, Smart

A smooth and fast man in the back court, he also rates praise

It's DePauw . . .

Iowa's opponent at the field-house Saturday night will be DePauw university of Greencastle, Ind., and not DePaul of Chicago as erroneously reported in the schedule in The Daily Iowan last week.

Coach Bucky O'Connor said Wednesday that he will again start the veterans who opened against Western Michigan last week as the Hawks seek their 53d straight non-conference win at home.

for his ball-handling and defensive work. Clifton is well instructed in Coach O'Connor's style of play, having had Bucky as a coach for two seasons at Boone and also while Pinky was playing freshman basketball at Iowa.

Virginia Wants Change in Phys. Ed. Degrees

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA. (AP) — The University of Virginia senate Wednesday unanimously approved a proposal to discontinue the granting of a Bachelor of Science degree in physical education at the university.

Judge Dismisses Cases Against Reserve Clause

CINCINNATI (AP) — Baseball's reserve clause survived another test Wednesday when U. S. District Judge John H. Druffel dismissed two cases attacking it.

He based his action on the opinion of Chief Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who in 1922 held that baseball is a sport and not a commodity in trade or commerce.

Therefore, Judge Druffel said, he had no jurisdiction to hear the suits of Walter J. Kowalsky, New York city, and Jack Corbett of Los Angeles.

He added, however, that he dismissed the actions with the understanding that an appeal would be taken to the court of appeals, sixth district.

Kowalsky, the baseball property of the Brooklyn Dodgers, asked for $150,000 damages, charging that use of the reserve clause by the officials kept him from advancing in his profession.

Corbett sued for $150,000 on the ground that he was compelled to release several players from his El Paso club because they left the Mexican league to join it in violation of the clause.

Joe Jackson Dies Of Heart Attack

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — "Shoelace Joe" Jackson, a prominent figure in the 1919 Chicago White Sox World Series scandals, died of a heart attack here Wednesday night.

Jackson, along with seven other White Sox players, was barred for life from organized baseball by the late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis. Involved with Jackson in the scandals were Oscar Felsch, Arnold Gandil, George Weaver, Charles Risberg, Fred McMullin, Eddie Cicotte and Claude Williams.

Jackson hit .357 in the 1919 White Sox-Cincinnati series. Cincinnati won the series five games to three.

Pennsylvania Man Arrested for Cage Fix

ALTOONA, PA. (AP) — The "richest man in Blair county" was arrested Wednesday and charged with fixing the Cornell-New York University basketball game last New Year's day.

Daniel Lamont was charged Wednesday with teaming with ex-Long Island University star Jackie Goldsmith and Joseph Serola to bribe NYU's Connie Schaff to fix the New Year's day game. Cornell won it in an upset, 69-56.

Schaff, now serving a six-month jail term for a previous fix conviction, was supposed to get $4,000, $2,000 for himself and $2,000 for a fictitious cohort he said he had on the team.

He received only $2,000 because, Lamont said, the game was played in the afternoon and there wasn't time to lay "heavy bets."

Color TV Spans Nation In Closed-Circuit Test

NEW YORK (AP) — Color television was relayed coast to coast for the first time Wednesday.

The Columbia broadcasting system conducted a test transmission over the Los Angeles-New York TV network hookup in preparation for the televising of a delicate heart operation in color Friday.

Although it was the first transcontinental transmission of color television, there have been a number of relays of several hundred miles. The transmission was over closed circuits, as Friday's also will be.

In the Friday demonstration, the heart operation in Los Angeles county general hospital will be viewed by medical men on color TV sets in the University of Chicago medical center and at CBS headquarters here.

The color television demonstration will be conducted by the CBS laboratory division and Smith, Kline and French laboratories, Philadelphia pharmaceutical firm.

The Philadelphia firm has been demonstrating color television as a medical teaching aid for two and a half years. The Friday demonstration is part of a four-day color TV session for the American Medical association meeting in Los Angeles.

Such uses of color TV are not affected by the government-imposed ban on manufacture of color sets for home use for the duration of the defense emergency.

Not a Fly!

Fly Paper Outfit Wades Through Work

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH. — Employees of the Tanglefoot Fly Paper company got stuck with extra work Wednesday when 2,000 gallons of glue used to catch flies and other insects flowed from a broken valve, seeping through two floors and flowed into the street.

"I never saw such a goopy mess in all my life," plant foreman Neal Van Dine said. He had to step out of his shoes, which stuck to the floor, and hop, skip, and jump to safety.

"Dozens of boxes and bags that were packed for shipment are stuck tight. This mess probably can't be cleaned up until next summer," he added.

The thick fluid, a mixture of resin and castor oil, stuck several inches deep on the second floor of the plant and dripped through the ceiling of the first floor running in a sticky stream out the door and across a sidewalk.

Several dozen employees worked overtime to lay an elevated walk across the pond of stickum. There wasn't a fly in the place.

Civil Service Seeks X-Ray Technicians

The United States civil service commission Wednesday said it will receive applications for medical X-ray technicians to fill positions in the U.S. public health service.

Full information and applications may be obtained from Lester J. Parizek, the commission's local secretary, at the Iowa City post office; the civil service regional offices, or from the U.S. civil service commission, Washington 25, D.C.

New $205,000 Methodist Student Center Opens Sunday

DEDICATION WEEK FOR THE new $205,000 Wesley house, Methodist student center, will be December 9 through 15. The new structure is located at 120 N. Dubuque st. The center includes a 30-foot by 40-foot recreation room with a portable stage at one end and a 30-foot by 50-foot lounge.

Student Center Opening Planned for Sunday

The new $205,000 Wesley house, Methodist student center, will be dedicated at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Bishop Charles W. Brashares, Des Moines, will give the main address of the ceremony, and Hiel Bollinger, secretary of the department of college and university work of the Methodist church will give the dedication prayer.

The ministers of the local Methodist church will also participate in the program. They are the Rev. L. L. Dunington, the Rev. Robert R. Sanks and the Rev. C. G. Austin.

Next week all groups of the Wesley foundation and the Methodist church here will hold their meetings in the church. It will also be open house week for visitors.

The new building stands on the same ground at 120 N. Dubuque as did the former Wesley foundation house, which had been there since 1925. Wesley annex acquired by the foundation in 1945, is joined to the new building and will be used primarily by the married students' groups.

Construction of the new building began in December, 1950, and the cornerstone was laid in April this year.

Following the dedication ceremony, open house in the afternoon and a banquet at 5 p.m. will be held. Bollinger will be the principle speaker at the meeting.

Paintings by Lechay To Go on Display On Campus Saturday

Prof. James Lechay of the art department announced Wednesday he will exhibit 35 of his recent oil, watercolor and casein paintings in the main gallery of the art building from Dec. 8 to Dec. 31.

An opening reception at the art building from 8 to 10 p.m., Saturday, will be sponsored by the Student Art guild. The public is invited and refreshments will be served.

Lechay has won prizes and awards at the Metropolitan museum, New York city; the Corcoran gallery, Washington, D.C.; the Carnegie institute, Pittsburgh, Pa.; the Pennsylvania academy, Philadelphia, Pa.; the Palace of the Legion of Honor, San Francisco, Calif.; and the Chicago Art institute.

He has had 10 one-man shows in New York city and six others. His most recent exhibition was in the Des Moines art center.

The current show will include paintings never shown before and works exhibited in Macbeth gallery, New York city.

Lechay was graduated from the University of Illinois. He has taught at SUI since 1945, except for a summer session at Stanford university as a visiting professor.

143-Wing Goal Set for 1953 By Air Force

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert Lovett disclosed Wednesday that the air force has set a new goal of 143 wings—somewhere between 4,200 and 10,700 planes—in planning the military budget for 1952-53.

The new figure overshadows the current strength of about 90 wings. Pre-Korean strength was 48 wings.

Lovett told a news conference that the defense department is asking President Truman and congress to authorize the extension. He emphasized that the emergency calls for prompt action.

The defense chief said 126 of the proposed 143 wings would be combat planes and the remainder troop carriers.

So far, Lovett said, neither the White House nor the budget bureau has set a ceiling for the military budget to be laid before congress when it convenes in January.

He said, however, the defense department and the national security council have been using a tentative figure of $45 billion to start from in calculating what should be asked for the 1952-53 budget.

Fear Further Volcano Blasts

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—Deep rumblings from Hibokhibok, the volcano which erupted twice Tuesday, killing at least 169 persons, raised new fears among natives of another deadly rain of rock and flaming ash on tiny Camiguin island.

Latest press dispatches from the island 450 miles south of Manila—said 500 bodies had been recovered from the ashes and boulders spewed by the volcano. But the Red Cross disaster committee, in charge of rescue and relief operations, said only 169 deaths had been confirmed.

It was admitted, however, that the figure may soar when cooling lava flows permit relief workers to reach several small villages reported devastated by Tuesday's eruptions.

Mambajao, the principal town on Camiguin island, was almost completely evacuated Wednesday. Most of its 25,000 residents fled in terror to Mahinog, on the island's east coast, as the deadly shower of ash and stone fell on the outskirts of the city.

NEW PRODUCT

A new type felt is now available which may be applied to the bottom of vases, ash trays, figurines, and lamps simply by cutting a piece to fit and ironing it on. According to a national magazine, the green felt protective pad sticks permanently to metal, glass, or wood.

City Offers Junk Cars At Public Auction

Seven old-model cars, none in running condition, will be auctioned off by the city at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Police Chief Edwin J. Ruppert said.

The cars will be sold at the city vehicle impounding lot south of the Community building. Ruppert said they have been either abandoned or hauled in by police.

He said that the cars should be bought for junk parts only due to their deteriorated conditions. The city will give no warranty or guarantee as to condition or ownership of the cars.

All sales will be cash, he said. A bill of sale will not be issued until the buyer files a statement with police that the car is to be junked, or a certificate from a reliable garage that the car meets requirements for safe driving.
