

Minors Can Buy Beer In Iowa City, Daily Iowan Survey Shows

Underage Reporter Checks 9 Taverns; All Sell Him Beer

Minors can buy beer in Iowa City, a Daily Iowan survey disclosed Tuesday night.

A 20-year-old Iowan staff member toured nine taverns here and at each one was able to purchase beer.

Only two bartenders challenged the reporter about his age. In each case a simple excuse was sufficient to satisfy any doubts, and the illegal sale was made.

Interest has heightened in enforcement of laws governing sale of intoxicants to minors since Monday, when Atty. Gen. Robert L. Larson declared "open war" on violators and promised to prosecute peace officers who fail to do their duty in this regard.

"I'm going to stop beer and liquor sales to minors or know the reason why," Larson was quoted as saying.

Earlier reports Tuesday were that Iowa City tavern men were cautiously requiring every youthful customer to present credentials stating his age.

"I had to verify my driver's license with other identification," one SUI student reported.

The same student said that operators of one bar adjacent to the SUI campus were "turning down students who couldn't supply positive proof of their age."

In a story published Tuesday afternoon, City Manager Peter F. Roan was quoted as saying that tavern men were checking the ages of customers "more closely."

An unnamed police officer said, following a check of city bars, that all Iowa City tavern operators "are anxious to cooperate with efforts to eliminate the distribution of beer to minors."

"We certainly will not tolerate selling beer to minors," County Atty. William Meardon told The Daily Iowan Monday.

Minors buying beer face a fine from $300 to $1,000 and from three months to one year in jail. A person convicted of selling beer to minors faces similar penalties, along with the loss of his license.

"I presume you're 21," the Iowan's reporter was told by one bartender.

"Wish I could see those days again," the reporter replied.

At another establishment, the bartender apologized, "I guess I better see your identification."

Confronted by an ID card and other credentials, none of which stated the reporter's age, the man behind the bar replied, "Okay, we've got to be careful, you know. A detective might come in at any time."

In another tavern, the bartender, queried about the many empty booths and stools, admitted, "Something besides their school-work is keeping the students away tonight."

Abandoned Lifeboats Of Freighter Found

SEATTLE (AP) — Two overturned lifeboats, tossing on the stormy north Pacific, told Tuesday of the undoubted fate of the crew of the lost Japan-bound freighter Pennsylvania.

The lifeboats, with no signs of survivors, were sighted from the air by two coast guard planes in the early afternoon. Pilots of one of the planes radioed that the two boats were only about 16 miles apart.

The boats were about 125 miles south by southeast of the position last reported by the crippled freighter last Wednesday when its radio operator messaged during a wild storm, "leaving now."

The freighter, with a crew of either 45 or 46 aboard, radioed that a large crack had developed in its side during a heavy storm early last Wednesday. Later, an SOS call for help was sent out and then came the last terse message telling that the ship would be abandoned.

Local Tax Committee To Hold Meeting

The five-member committee appointed last week to investigate charges of inequality and unfairness in the tax assessment system here will hold its first meeting Friday night or early next week.

Mrs. George L. Horner, chairman of the group, said Tuesday that individual members have been studying the records in the city assessors office and hearing the views of Victor J. Belger, city assessor.

Mrs. Horner said the first meeting will probably be devoted to outlining a plan of investigation. She also said the committee plans to meet with the board of review at some future date.

The charge of inequality was contained in a report given to the taxing bodies in December by Miss Delta A. Grizel, local realtor.

Students Face Discipline After 'Kidnap' Prank

Victim Abandoned After 200 Mile Ride

Disciplinary action may be brought today against members of Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity after three of its members carried a college prank 200 miles too far Monday.

James Olson, P2, Spencer, member of the fraternity, was the butt of the gag that left him pantless and cold on an Illinois highway near Marengo, victim of a "kidnap" by three pledges in his fraternity and one other SUI student.

He identified the "abductors" as Richard Fiori, A1, Ames, Keith E. Winston, A1, Griswold, and Duane Nesetril, A4, Cedar Rapids, all pledges at the fraternity, and William Sumberg, A1, Ames.

Dean of Students L. Dale Faunce said Tuesday night that the executive council of the interfraternity council had met to discuss the incident but was still in the process of investigating and would probably make some ruling today.

Earlier Tuesday Faunce said, "It is not yet clear to us just what took place or who was involved but if these things are true, disciplinary action will be taken."

Olson told officials in Marengo he was "kidnapped" from the SUI campus Monday evening by four other students as part of a prank but that they did not release him until they had driven 200 miles east of Iowa City.

Olson said he had heard rumors Monday that some of the pledge class were planning on "giving him a ride" and he added that he had not gone to the basketball game that night because he feared the pledges would find him there.

The Spencer pharmacy student said he was just starting to walk into the library when the four students grabbed him and forced him into a car.

Fiori said the group had not decided how far to take Olson but that he had borrowed a tuxedo from a friend in Chicago and added "I decided I would take it back to him Monday so we drove out that way." Fiori did not say whether he drove to Chicago from Marengo.

Fiori said the group arrived at a point about 5 miles west of Marengo at 12:30 a.m. Tuesday and decided to let Olson out. He said he and other members of the party stripped Olson of his pants and shirt and took off his glasses.

He added that they also took away all of Olson's money, gave him two blankets and drove away. Olson said he had hidden one dollar bill in the car during the scuffle to take his clothes off.

He said he got a ride to Marengo and there told an officer what had happened. Olson said the officer called Illinois highway patrol officers and urged him to press charges against the students. He said he declined to prefer any charges.

Olson said he had no comment when asked if he intended to press charges against the students now.

Herbert Hetzler, A3, Muscatine, president of Pi Kappa Alpha, emphasized that the incident had nothing at all to do with "construction week" held annually in most SUI fraternities. He added that the fraternity did not in any way condone the actions of the pledges in taking Olson to Illinois.

Fiori said the 19 members of the pledge class had discussed the possibility of "kidnapping" an active member but had not decided on any particular one.

Asked why Olson was singled out for the "kidnap," Fiori said, "Well, I guess you more or less take the guy that has been passing out the most guff."

Jury Deadlocked On Costello Case

NEW YORK (AP) — The government failed by an eyelash Tuesday in another attempt to trap Frank Costello, this time for contempt of the senate.

A deadlocked jury reportedly stood 11 to 1 for conviction when it finally gave up after 23 hours and 20 minutes.

It was so hopelessly split, however, that it couldn't agree on a single one of 11 contempt charges. They were lodged against Costello as a result of last year's Keauver crime committee hearings, which millions watched on television.

Ever See a Stork Ski?

DULUTH, MINN. (AP) — Mrs. Robert Jackowiak of West Duluth is very happy that a neighbor is a skier.

Early Tuesday morning there were indications her expected baby would arrive soon. The family car was snowed in. Getting her to a hospital was a problem until a neighbor, Howard MacDonald, settled it.

He strapped on his skis, and carried Mrs. Jackowiak to a nearby street that was open to traffic. Then he put her in his car and took her to the hospital.

The baby, born about an hour later, and Mrs. Jackowiak are doing fine.

Rescuers Within Six Miles Of Snowbound Luxury Train

COLFAX, CALIF. (AP) — Snow-battling sixth army "weasels" tractors pushed late Tuesday to within 6 miles of a luxury passenger train in efforts to rescue 222 persons, including 60 reported sickened by gas fumes.

The train has been trapped by deep snows near Donner lake in the Sierra Nevada since Sunday.

But the remaining 6 miles, snow-banked and rugged, made it uncertain if the cold, huddling people aboard the streamlined City of San Francisco could be brought out Tuesday night.

The blizzard was so intense Tuesday night around the train.

The three army weasels from San Francisco carried two doctors, oxygen tanks, medical supplies and food.

The university has some funds to use on the expansion program, however. About $300,000 has been saved since the plan was proposed in 1938.

Tuition was raised from $72 to $78 for Iowa residents and from $178 to $188 for out of state students.

Harper said allocations from student fees may be used for the next quarter-century.

How much of the proposed plan can be built at one time depends a lot on how much money the university will be able to borrow.

Money is Factor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house approved a 10 per cent cost-of-living raise for the armed forces Tuesday, voting to boost military payrolls about $32 million dollars a year. The vote for passage was 262 to 89.

The bill now goes to the senate where Chairman Richard Russell (D-Ga.) of the armed services committee said his committee would take early action.

REDS SUGGEST BREAKDOWN

MUNSAN, Korea (Wednesday) — Communist radio broadcasts today hinted at a complete breakdown in Korean truce talks after Red negotiators balked again Tuesday at handing over South Koreans in the North Korean army.

Tuition Increase To Account for Loan Payments

By BOB HESS

The long-awaited addition to the Iowa Memorial Union seemed closer at hand this week than at any other time since it was first proposed 14 years ago.

Preliminary construction on the building program will definitely begin this spring and about one-half of the project's $3.5 million cost will come from allocations from tuition paid during the next quarter-century.

No Tax Money

Not a cent of Iowa's state tax money will be used for the much-delayed undertaking.

The financing of the addition was explained Tuesday by Prof. Earl E. Harper, Union director, following a meeting of the state board of education Friday.

The "break" university officials had been looking for came when the board gave its approval to the construction of a $60,000 service tunnel.

Critical Materials

Harper said critical building materials are involved in the construction of the tunnel, but university officials are satisfied they will be able to secure them.

Because of the question about critical materials, no definite time for completion of the service tunnel can be predicted. Bids will probably be let sometime next month.

Harper said that once construction on the tunnel has started, university officials hope to build the addition in one continuous operation.

Financial problems may hamper this.

Housing Unit

The new addition will consist of a student service unit and a guest house.

The housing unit, which will cost about $134 million and be placed under the supervision of the dormitory office, is expected to finance itself.

The money problem comes in financing the student service unit. Original plans called for borrowing the necessary amount from insurance firms, but this was held up by the necessity of an enabling act from the state legislature to satisfy the strict laws of the insurance companies.

Hotel Lobbyists Oppose

Chain hotel lobbyists opposed the measure on the grounds that it would involve the university, a non-taxed state institution, competing with private enterprise.

University officials decided to try borrowing money from other sources with the hope of securing enough.

The university has some funds to use on the expansion program, however. About $300,000 has been saved since the plan was proposed in 1938.

Tuition Increase

The university plans to repay the money it borrows from an increase in the student fees which went into effect last fall.

Tuition was raised from $72 to $78 for Iowa residents and from $178 to $188 for out of state students.

Harper said allocations from student fees may be used for the next quarter-century.

How much of the proposed plan can be built at one time depends a lot on how much money the university will be able to borrow.

Money is Factor

"It is possible," Harper said, "that when we begin excavating we may be able to do the whole thing."

If funds do not permit the building of the entire addition, he explained, just a portion will be erected. Maybe only the basement and first floor.

SUI President Virgil M. Hanmer explained the details of the financial program for the Union addition in a speech at the Union Tuesday night.

Whatever the financial condition, it seems certain that SUI students will have access to bowling, billiards and other recreation facilities as soon as possible. The completely air-conditioned recreation area is to be on the basement floor.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THERE are two Goldwyn pronouncements I enjoyed recently. A fellow-producer persuaded him to attend a preview of a blood-and-thunder picture, and at its conclusion enthused, "Isn't that a real, old-fashioned swashbuckler for you?" Goldwyn wisely pointed out, "The trouble is, it buckles where it should swash!"

And Moss Hart tells about the day Mr. Goldwyn asked how he was progressing with his script on the life of Hans Christian Andersen. "If you don't like the job I've done," proclaimed Moss earnestly, "I will emulate Van Gogh, cut off my ear, and present it to you." "My boy," said Goldwyn, "in my desk I've got a whole drawer full of ears. All I ask from you is a good box-office script."

Sonny Legro, the Butte wildcat, says that although winter temperatures in those parts often hit fifty below, he's never worn muffs since his disastrous accident. "What accident?" somebody always asks, and Sonny replies, "That black day someone asked me if I wanted a drink and I didn't hear him!"

Keep Out of the Cookie Jar

Red China Ready to Aid Vietminh Forces

By F. K. WU
Central Press Correspondent

HONG KONG — Complying with the orders of Generalissimo Josef V. Stalin to move Chinese troops into Indo-China and Burma early in 1952, the Peiping Communist regime has placed 250,000 troops under the command of Gen. Teng Hua, recently the Chinese delegate at the Kaesong ceasefire talks. The general was relieved of duty in Korea in order to lead troops in the projected invasion of southeast Asia.

Date Unknown

While the exact date of the invasion is not known here, reliable reports stated Gen. Teng Hua has established his forward headquarters at Lungchow in southwest Kwangsi province close to Indo-China.

On account of the reverses of the Vietminh Communist forces at the hands of the French Union troops, President Ho Chi-minh of the Vietminh insurgent regime has finally agreed that the Chinese Communist troops will enter his country as "volunteers" in similar manner as in Korea.

Objected

In view of the widespread destruction in cities and the countryside, and heavy losses in manpower in Korea, President Ho Chi-minh at first objected to the entry of Chinese "volunteers" demanded country and instead demanded more arms, ammunition and other provisions from the Soviet Union and Communist China.

Following the insistence of Premier Stalin, a recent conference in Kwangsi convened by Ho with other high ranking Chinese generals finally agreed that it was necessary to have a Chinese expeditionary force in Indo-China for the "liberation" of that state as well as Burma, Siam and Malaya.

Troops

Troops of the crack second and fourth field armies are deployed along south Yunnan province and southwest Kwangsi province. If necessary, the strength can be brought up to half a million men, about 250,000 recruits are under training in south China and will be ready to take the field by March regardless of whether there will be a ceasefire or not in Korea.

Radio Canton in south China recently broadcast several attacks on American and French imperialism in Indo-China to prepare the way for the coming push. The broadcasts said that France is spending an equivalent of United States $90,000 a day as war expenses in Indo-China which constitute a heavy burden on the impoverished Annamites, and that the people do not want to continue democracy and aid from Peiping war but seek "peace, independence, and Moscow."

"In view of the heavy drain in money and manpower, the French have obtained aid from the American imperialists," said Radio Canton. "American aid cannot save the situation owing to the low morale of the French and Annamite or native troops, who refuse to be cannon fodder."

Inspired

"On the other hand, the Vietnamese Liberation Army under Ho Chi-minh is much inspired by Sino-Soviet assistance and the virtue of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, who inspires the Vietnamese soldiers to continue the glorious struggle against the French and American imperialists."

The broadcasts ended by shouting longevity for Ho Chi-minh and Mao Tse-tung. This is interpreted here as refuting rumors from Saigon and Hanoi saying that Ho Chi-minh has been replaced by a more fiery and deep-dyed Communist such as the Vietminh commander-in-chief, Gen. Voo Nguen Giap.

While the Peiping regime is much exhausted by the loss of almost a million soldiers and considerable equipment, it is impelled to continue "liberation" of other countries in order to have a high-sounding excuse to continue exploiting the people and conscripting more men and women into the army, according to Peiping reports. Communism means continuous struggle.

Another Reason

Another cogent reason is that

Peiping is very much in need of the rice of Indo-China, Burma and Siam as well as the tin and rubber of Malaya. The venture in Korea has yielded no material advantage to the Chinese Communists, while the resources of southeast Asian countries are good inducements to overrun and occupy them.

In any event, there has been a steady supply of strategic goods and arms by railroads from Soviet Russia and China right to Chenanwan in southwest Kwangsi very close to Langson, a principal city in north Indo-China.

Other supplies are going by sea from Hainan island off the south coast of Kwangtung province and Weichow Island in the Gulf of Tonkin. French press reports admitted that a certain coast strip in Indo-China is accessible to ships from China to the Vietminh insurgents.

Chicago's Once-Famed Tin Pan Alley Tunes Up For Big Musical Comeback

CHICAGO — Chicago's once-great Tin Pan Alley is tuning up for a musical comeback and the smart young men who are plucking the strings say that Randolph street, which has been a musical ghost town, is about to become the liveliest ghost that ever danced a ragtime tune.

Thirty years ago, the golden age of tunesmiths was going strong and Chicago-written tunes included Memories, Pretty Baby, Sweet Sue, I'll See You in My Dreams, My Buddy, It Had to Be You, Jealous, My Blue Heaven, Sweethearts on Parade, Looking at the World Through Rose Colored Glasses, Sundown, and scores of others.

Then with the passing of years many of the workers in words and music passed from the scene, like Egbert van Alstyne who wrote Memories and In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree; Gus (Yes Sir, That's My Baby) Kahn; Walter (Isle of Golden Dreams) Blaufuss and Walter (My Blue Heaven) Donaldson.

Others moved to New York or Hollywood or into retirement. Came the depression and many of the music publishing firms, 30 of whom maintained branches in Chicago, retrenched their Windy City workshops out of business.

A musical hush settled down on the Woods building at 64 W. Randolph — Tin Pan Alley — where once songsmiths, song pluggers, singers and musicians made the air literally and figuratively hum, in the block between Clark and Dearborn streets.

This hush was hard to comprehend, for those who remembered the Thumping Twenties when song hits were scribbled on the backs of menus at Hendriks, when Charlie Newman scribbled Sweethearts on Parade in 1926 while bumping downtown on a bus, Will J. Harris and Victor Young whipped up Sweet Sue at the Granada theater, and Irwin Barg and Tommy Maile were driving on the South Side and saw a billboard which inspired them to write Happy Days Are Happy Ways.

They point out to you that Chicago boasts more pianos than New York and is headquarters for three of the largest music jobbing firms in the country — that it has developed some of the greatest bands in show business, the Lombards, Ben Bernie, Hal Kemp, Ted Fiorito and Isham Jones. Song and songwriters have a great tradition in Chicago.

Just to prove that the ghost is about to dance, loyal Chicagoan Archie Levington, husband of radio and television's Fran Allison, is opening Midway Music, a new company set to publish songs. Already he has hit big-time with the number Hitstity Hotsity recorded by Lola Ameche.

Irwin Barg, who represents Robbins, Feist and Miller, who has remained in Tin Pan Alley for three decades insists: "We'll come back strong as ever just as soon as New York firms realize that Chicago has even greater potentialities for song plugging than New York."

Plugging, he explained, boosts a song's popularity which is based on the number of "live" radio plugs, or number of times it is played on the air during a whole day. A check is made by two New York rating services which also check plugs on disc jockey shows.

In Chicago, however, only live radio plugs are counted.

"When New Yorkers include disc jockeys plugs on a song in Chicago, we would triple the number of plugs a song gets in Gotham. It would make us probably the most important song-plugging town in the country," he added.

Song-plugging, too, has undergone a complete change. In the days before network broadcasting, songs were plugged to popularity

Thompson Has Arrived—

Ask the guy with the road map and he'll tell you that it's not particularly far from Forest City (Iowa) to the field house here in Iowa City. Ask Herb Thompson, though, and you'll get a different answer.

Thompson ought to know, too, for it took him two years and part of a third to "travel" the rocky road between high school stardom and making the grade in college ball.

That he has finally arrived, however, is no longer in doubt, especially in the minds of some 15,000 fans who saw the lean forward play a leading part in the Hawkeyes' magnificent victory over Indiana last Saturday night.

That wasn't the first good game Thompson has turned in this season, and it isn't being too bold to say that it won't be his last, but it did emphatically bring out that there has been quite a gap between the time Herb was Mr. Big in the Iowa prep school ranks and his reaching maturity in Big Ten ball.

You'll recall that three years ago, Thompson, a skinny farm boy from Leland (population 250) led Forest City to the finals of the state tournament and set a tourney scoring mark in the process. And in view of his repeated demonstrations of scoring ability, rebounding strength, and all-around floor play, it was considered only a matter of time before he'd be doing the same thing at Iowa.

That wasn't to be, however—at least not right away—for the guys who figure out the form sheet hadn't taken the psychological factor into consideration.

Herb did well enough in his year on the freshman team and was a starter in almost every Hawkeye game last year, which, on the surface, isn't too bad at all. Actually, though, he was just another journeyman forward, averaging 5.9 points a game, and rarely showing any of his high school form.

"Tried Too Hard"

It's no secret either, as to what was bothering Thompson, and why he is such a vastly improved player this season.

"I guess I was just trying too hard all the time last year," Herb explained.

A lot of people have said that I was nervous and scared. You can say that if you want. I'd rather say that I just wasn't relaxed out there. I guess it's the same thing, though.

"It's really hard to explain. I was never nervous in high school, not even in the finals of the state tournament and there were big crowds for those games. If you want to put your finger on one anything I guess you can say that I was trying too hard to make good."

"That's gone now, though. I'm able to relax this season and that makes a big difference."

This psychological aspect wasn't the only thing Thompson has had to overcome. There have been some far more tangible things such as making the change from center to forward, a factor which Herb feels has been one of his biggest problems.

"I rarely shot from outside in high school and that's handicapped me a lot in learning the forward position. Even with 2½ years of practice, I'm still a pretty weak set shooter."

"I'll admit, though, that I spend most of shooting practice on my jump shot. That's always been my favorite. And now that I'm getting in better position for the jump shot, I'm able to score more than I did last year."

Thompson's emergence as a forward who'll hit double figures fairly regularly may eventually be looked on as the key factor should Iowa go on to the conference championship (or shouldn't we mention such things at this time). Everyone expected Chuck Darling and Bob Clifton to score well and Skip Greene to be a good floor man. Who would get the points at the forwards and take the pressure off Darling was another question.

Thompson, more experienced and more relaxed, has been supplying a good answer.

NCAA Hits Grid Roughness

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. VA. (P)—College football rule-makers tried to make it clear Tuesday they want unnecessary roughness stopped.

The NCAA rules committee rewrote the regulation to get across the idea it wants flagrant violators of roughing rules thrown out of the game.

It also acted to charge a team with a time out for sending in a player just to punt. This is the only change made in the substitution rules which are the basis of the two-platoon system.

Under the new rules, a player may be banned from the game and his team penalized 15 yards for striking with the forearms, elbows or locked hands. Before, 15 yards only was the penalty.

The rules committee also substituted the word "shall" for "may" in making a flagrant violator of the personal foul rules subject to disqualification.

"This makes it mandatory instead of discretionary," explained Fritz Crisler, chairman of the committee. "It also will impress on both officials and coaches that the penalty is meant to be severe."

The rulemakers also revised the section on clipping and plowing.

The former definition of a clip, hitting a player anywhere on the back, was restored. Since 1948, it has been illegal to block from behind only from the waist down.

Piling on was made illegal as soon as the ball becomes dead.

Kircher Takes WSC Post; Stavely Also To Stay

KIRCHER STAVELY

Say Evy After Elliott, Younce

PULLMAN, WASH. (AP)—The three-man "best in the world" staff of assistants which Forest Evashevski planned to take with him to his new grid job at Iowa was rent asunder Tuesday.

Alton Kircher, 41, Evashevski's no. 1 assistant, accepted a five-year contract as head football coach at Washington State college, thus filling the post Evashevski is vacating.

After talking the WSC offer over with Evashevski for three days, Kircher announced he has decided to stay and that Dan Stavely, who also was due to go to Iowa with Evashevski, would remain as an aide.

At Corvallis, Ore., meanwhile, the Oregon Journal said Tuesday that Iowa is seeking two Oregon State college coaches as assistants to Evashevski.

The newspaper said it had learned from Pullman, Wash., that Evashevski wanted Chalmers "Bump" Elliott, OSC backfield coach, and Len Younce, OSC line coach. The Pullman source was not named.

The newspaper said Evashevski wanted them as replacements for Kircher and Stavely who are staying at Washington State.

Pete Elliott, Too

The journal also said that Evashevski wanted to hire Elliott's brother, Pete, who left Oregon State last year to become assistant at Oklahoma.

Bump Elliott at Corvallis said he had been approached by a Big Ten school, but would not say that it was Iowa.

Younce was not available for comment.

The report from Corvallis dovetailed with reports in Cincinnati last week that Evashevski was seeking to add Elliott to his Iowa football staff. Elliott was a Michigan halfback in 1946 and 1947.

Iowa Athletic Director Paul Brechler, who was in Cincinnati to attend the NCAA meetings, said he knew Evashevski had been considering Elliott but did not know whether an agreement had been completed.

"I am sorry to be unable to go to Iowa with Evashevski," Kircher said here in announcing acceptance of the WSC contract.

"He is a brilliant coach, a fine friend and I have enjoyed working with him. However, the opportunity at WSC is so great that I cannot pass it up."

Salary Not Disclosed

WSC did not disclose Kircher's salary or the contract terms except to say "they compare favorably with salaries paid other coaches in the Pacific coast conference." Evashevski got $12,500 at WSC in 1950 and is to get $15,000 at Iowa.

Kircher's salary at Iowa had been set at $8,700 a year and Stavely's at $6,700.

So far as is known, Robert Flora, another Evashevski assistant, will go with him to Iowa.

Staff Up to Evy, Brechler Declares

Iowa Athletic Director Paul Brechler said here Tuesday that Coach Forest Evashevski "will have a free hand" in picking his assistants.

Brechler said he would give recommendations and advice on assistants, including present members of the Iowa staff, only if Evashevski asks for such recommendations.

"But I'm in no way going to tell Evashevski who he should or should not hire for his staff. That will be entirely up to him," Brechler declared.

planned. Flora, 35, former football player at Michigan, is to be $7,700 a year at Iowa.

Kircher, a Michigan State graduate, later was head basketball coach and assistant football coach at his alma mater before coming here with Evashevski.

At the time he accepted the Iowa job on Jan. 6, Evashevski disclosed he would bring Kircher, Stavely and Flora with him to Iowa. He has called the three-man staff "the best in the world."

Kefauver Silent After Half-Hour Truman Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) who is on the verge of running for the Democratic presidential nomination, talked with President Truman for 30 minutes Tuesday, but kept silent on any political decisions they may have discussed.

The tall, soft-spoken Tennessean declined to say whether he believes Mr. Truman will seek re-election. As for himself, Kefauver told newsmen:

"I will give a definite statement of my intentions about Feb. 1."

California Kefauver-for-president headquarters opened in Los Angeles Tuesday while the crime-hunting senator was conferring with President Truman.

Previous Indications

Kefauver had indicated in advance of his White House visit that he hoped to have a frank discussion with Mr. Truman touching on the question of his possible candidacy, although he had said his decision would not be influenced by the President's plans.

Later in the day, the former chairman of the senate crime committee was asked by newsmen on Capitol Hill whether his decision would be influenced if President Truman should announce before Feb. 1 that he had decided to run for re-election. Kefauver replied:

"Oh, yes. The attitude of the President is, of course, a factor in my decision."

Not Finally

He went on to say the President's attitude would not be the only factor, however, and he commented:

"I have fairly well made up my mind, but not finally."

Nothing in Kefauver's exchange with newsmen at the White House indicated he got any help from Mr. Truman toward making up his mind.

In other political developments:

1. Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-OHIO) was formally entered in the Illinois primary scheduled for April 8. Supporters said they plan to run a complete slate of delegates pledged to the Ohio senator.

Backers of Harold E. Stassen, another GOP candidate, said they also plan to enter a slate of delegate candidates on Stassen's behalf.

2. In Concord, N.H. Arthur Snell, a local Republican leader, said he had decided against entering the name of Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the New Hampshire primary election March 11.

Snell said he had planned to offer MacArthur's name, but had received word from MacArthur's for-president headquarters in Ashland, Wis., that the general has "ruled himself out."

3. A group of southern Democratic senators, whose decisions may wield powerful influence over the presidential election, held a closed-door "strategy meeting," but kept silent on the outcome.

4. In Louisiana, voters went to the polls to choose among nine Democratic candidates for governor.

The field included the first Negro to seek the governorship since post-Civil War reconstruction days, and the first woman ever to run for governor of Louisiana.

Davelis' Brother Removed As Estate Co-Administrator

District Judge James P. Gaffney Tuesday ordered the removal of Thomas Davelis, Rock Island, as co-administrator of the estate of Andrew Davelis, who died of stab wounds here in October, 1950.

The court found that Davelis, brother of the deceased had written $525 worth of checks on the estate's bank account and used the money himself.

His removal was ordered at the request of Atty. Edward W. Lucas, who represents the estate. The

Professor to Speak In Religion Series

George W. Forell, professor of philosophy at Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter, Minn., will be the second "Religion in Life" week speaker at the First Lutheran and Zion Lutheran churches.

The program, with a theme of "Men of God—Or Men?" is sponsored by the Lutheran Student Association and will run from Sunday until Wednesday.

Owen was arrested by Iowa City police about 10:20 a.m. Tuesday while soliciting money from a parked car near Brown and Governor sts. Police then learned that the car, a 1950 Plymouth, was stolen from a farm near Moline Monday night.

Iowa City authorities said they would not press charges against the youth since the car theft "is so much more consequential." They added that they were doubtful if he had received any contributions.

Professor to Exhibit 14 of His Paintings

An art exhibition of oil paintings by Prof. Byron Burford of the SUI art department will open in the main gallery of the Art Building at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The one-man show of 14 of Burford's paintings will be the first public exhibition of the artist's work at the university.

The exhibition is composed of paintings completed since the beginning of the first semester.

Burford was awarded the Julius P. Rosenwald fellowship in 1947-1948. He has done murals for the U.S. post office in Houston, Miss., Iowa City high school, Trinity Episcopal church of Iowa City and two murals in Sioux Falls, S.D.

Burford won the Purchase awards at the Iowa summer show in 1948 and at the High museum in Atlanta, Ga., in 1949. He was awarded first prize at the Iowa State Fair exhibitions in 1946 and 1947.

Included in Prof. Burford's past exhibits are: "Artists for Victory," at the Metropolitan Museum in 1947; 54th annual Chicago Art Institute in 1944; Virginia Biennial in 1948; Pennsylvania Academy Drawing show in 1949, and the Memphis Biennial at Brooks gallery in 1946 and 1948.

Burford has taught design, oil painting, Gouache and watercolor, mural painting, life drawing, painting techniques, and nitro-cellulose lacquer painting.

He served 3½ years in the air force, is married and has two children.

Student Will Conduct Orchestra —

Mitropoulos to Perform at SUI Again

Dimitri Mitropoulos, conductor of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, will be piano soloist for the second straight year with the SUI symphony orchestra.

Mitropoulos will appear with the orchestra in its third concert of the season, to be presented in the Iowa Memorial Union at 8 p.m. Jan. 23. He will be soloist in a number conducted by James Dixon, 23, senior from Iowa City.

A student of Prof. Philip G. Clapp, head of the SUI music department, Dixon will conduct the orchestra for its first two numbers. The third number will be conducted by orchestra director Clapp.

Mitropoulos to Play Toccata

Mitropoulos, who was conductor of the Minneapolis symphony for 12 years, will play Respighi's Toccata with Dixon conducting. He made a similar appearance with the orchestra on Apr. 25 of last year.

The philharmonic conductor has been interested in Dixon's career for several years. The university student first met him at a concert by the Minneapolis symphony in 1947. After a second meeting Dixon decided to become a conductor if possible.

In 1948, upon the advice of Mitropoulos, Dixon enrolled here to study the theory and practice of music under Clapp. Dixon will receive his bachelor's degree this year.

Both graduate and undergraduate students in music can receive credit toward graduation by doing creative work in conducting and composing.

Dixon's progress closely during his four years at Iowa and carries on a steady correspondence with him. Last summer Dixon went with Mitropoulos and the New York Philharmonic to the British music festival.

As pianist, Mitropoulos has given many performances of the Toccata both in this country and in Europe.

The symphony orchestra will open the concert with Bach's Fantasy and Fugue in G minor for organ. The composition was transcribed for orchestral presentation by Mitropoulos and will be conducted by Dixon.

In the second half of the program, Clapp will conduct the orchestra in a performance of Berio's Fantastic symphony, a story-telling number described by critics as "original and daring."

Alberty to Present Chemistry Address

Dr. R. A. Alberty of the University of Wisconsin will speak to members of the American Chemical Society at 7:30 p.m. today in room 300 Chemistry building.

His topic is "Moving Boundary Methods in Physical Chemistry." The talk will follow a dinner scheduled for 6 p.m. at the Jefferson hotel.

A business meeting will follow Alberty's speech.

GRADUATE FACULTY MEETS

The SUI graduate faculty will meet today at 4:10 p.m. in the house chamber of Old Capitol. This meeting has been postponed from last Wednesday.

Dr. J. H. Roe, Dr. R. E. Con-

well, Dr. Martha Spence, Dr. E. Leighton, Dr. A. K. Fisher, Dr. Duane Lovett, and Dr. William Ward. An ex officio member of the committee is Dr. H. H. Scott, president of the Johnson County Dental society.

The society has adopted a resolution approving and recommending that appropriate city officials be requested to take the necessary steps for the fluoridation of the public water supply. Waukon and Dubuque have programs that went into operation last November.

Only a small amount of fluoride is put in the water. Less than 1½ parts of fluoride is added per million parts of water to cut down tooth decay. When more than this amount is found in the water mottling or discoloration of the teeth is found.

Fluoride helps prevent tooth decay only when the teeth are in their formative stages, scientists assert.

Fluorides are present in all drinking water in Iowa. The content varies from trace amounts at some points in Benton county to six parts of fluoride to each million parts of water at one well in Dallas county. There is not a sufficient amount present in Iowa City's water supply to deter tooth decay.

The cost of the fluoridation of the city's water would be about 14 cents per individual per year.

Many medical and dental associations recommend that fluorides be added to the public water supply. Among them are the American Dental association, the American Medical association, and the U. S. Public Health service.

Members of the Johnson County Dental society committee appointed to present the resolution to the community are:

Dr. J. H. Roe, Dr. R. E. Con-

well, Dr. Martha Spence, Dr. E. Leighton, Dr. A. K. Fisher, Dr. Duane Lovett, and Dr. William Ward. An ex officio member of the committee is Dr. H. H. Scott, president of the Johnson County Dental society.

The Engineers club of Iowa City is scheduled to discuss its committee report on fluoridation of the water supply at its meeting Jan. 21.

County to Receive $16,688 School Aid

Johnson county schools will receive $16,688 as the county's share in the distribution of $3 million state transportation aid.

The state department of public instruction announced Tuesday in Des Moines that about 1,600 low-public schools will receive the funds for part of their cost of operating school buses last year.

Man Carrying $1,970 Caught in Dimes Theft

CEDAR RAPIDS, IA. (AP) — An elderly old age pensioner who police arrested Tuesday on charge of stealing from a March of Dimes wishing well was found to be carrying $1,970, most of it $100 bills.

The shabbily dressed man gave his name as Oral E. Wilgus, 73, Cedar Rapids. Police quoted him as saying he had taken 50 cents from the wishing well, a downtown place at which contributions to the National Infantile Paralysis foundation are made. They said he also admitted taking small change from the wishing well five or six times in the last week.
