27 Die In New Jersey Plane Crash

Midwest Hit By Wind, Snow

Gusts of wind up to 50 miles an hour, most of them pushing snow, whistled through Iowa City Tuesday and increased already hazardous driving and walking conditions.

However, this wasn't the only midwestern city hit by the latest reminder that spring is still far off, and the 10 degree low was an indication of the colder weather promised areas from the Rockies to the Great Lakes.

A crippling blizzard whistled across the northern states Tuesday. A cold wave followed on its heels.

Missing in South Dakota - Nine persons were missing in the Mitchell-Pierre-Murdo areas of South Dakota where driving snow piled up on the highways faster than snow plows could push it aside.

Two motorists were killed on icy streets in Chicago, while Senator Taft, Republican presidential aspirant, had a narrow escape on his Wisconsin tour.

Winds reached 50 to 60 miles an hour in South Dakota, 50 miles an hour in North Dakota and 30 to 45 miles an hour in Iowa.

Highways Blocked - Most highways were blocked tight in North and South Dakota after 5 to 10 inches of new snow. Snow plowing was halted in many South Dakota areas until winds subsided.

Hundreds of schools were closed in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

With visibility cut to zero in parts of North Dakota, the state highway department issued this warning for motorists:

'Stay home today. Practically everything is blocked. We're sending plows out, but don't know what good they can do.'

The Great Northern railroad's east-bound Empire Builder was running five hours late in the Dakotas, its headlight smashed twice by strong winds and buffeting snow.

Sweden Returns Money

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sweden has given back 11 million dollars she received from the United States under the Marshall plan.

The agriculture department reported this Tuesday in a statement saying Sweden has no serious dollar shortage and is planning to increase her imports of American cotton.

Hot War With Russia Is Not Imminent: Ike

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED POWERS IN EUROPE (AP) - Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower published officially Tuesday his belief that war with Russia is not imminent.

But he declared North Atlantic forces must be built up and a constitutional convention should be called to unify Europe as part of a great combination of spiritual, economic and military strength to gain permanent security and end the cold war.

He believes Russian leaders realize it would be "very foolish" to start a global war now, but cannot say what they might do in the future.

Mum on Politics

Eisenhower said nothing about the fact he has been made a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, and the reporters were asked to put no questions on political matters.

He spoke without notes and answered all questions "off the cuff."

He made these other points: 1. No nation can expect any other, including the United States, to carry the "entire burden" of the North Atlantic Treaty organization (NATO).

Iran Rejects Hankey As English Minister In Anti-British Move

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Iran slammed the door Tuesday in the face of Robert Hankey, former private secretary to British foreign secretary Anthony Eden, and refused to accept him as Britain's ambassador.

The rejection was announced on a national "patriotic" holiday called by nationalistic Moslems to celebrate another blow at the British - the closing Monday of all nine British consulates in this country.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's government was expected to use the latest anti-British gesture as a propaganda weapon in the elections which began in Tehran Tuesday and will continue today and Thursday.

The government offered no reasons for the rejection in its brief note to the embassy.

Hankey's name obviously had been submitted in the hope that a man with expert knowledge here could do something to solve the festering dispute growing out of nationalization of Anglo-Iranian oil company assets in Iran and the drying up of the industry.

Truman Urges Bills For Miners' Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) - Declaring that coal miners are being killed "needlessly" almost every day in this country, President Truman asked congress Tuesday for adequate laws to make the mines safe.

Bills are pending to give the interior department power to enforce its mine safety regulations. Mr. Truman urged that they be acted on at once to help prevent the "shocking fatalities."

He cited the death of 119 miners in a disaster at West Farnkfort, Ill., last Dec. 21 as a vivid example of the need.

In letters to Vice-President Barkley and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, he recalled that four years ago 111 men were killed in another mine disaster at Centralia, Ill., and that in the years between thousands of others have been killed or injured in less spectacular mine tragedies throughout the country.

2. He does not consider Britain a part of Western Europe, and efforts to include her in a federation of Europe and a unified European army would be a "stumbling block rather than a help" because of her world-wide responsibilities.

Ike Sums Up Opinion - On the possibility of Communist aggression in Europe, Eisenhower summed up his opinion in these words:

"We know something about their industrial limitations, their problems of transport and communications. We know many of the weaknesses they have as well as we know the terrifying strength they are building up in the form of military power."

But he cautioned against the attitude that "we will simply sit back and retaliate if they attack."

In coming out for a constitutional convention in Europe, the American general joins the more advanced advocates of European unity. Some of these want decisive action now to create a federation or united states of Europe.

If such a convention actually adopted a constitution, and the various countries ratified it, it would mean they would be surrendering much or all of their individual sovereignty and begin living under a central government such as a united states of Europe.

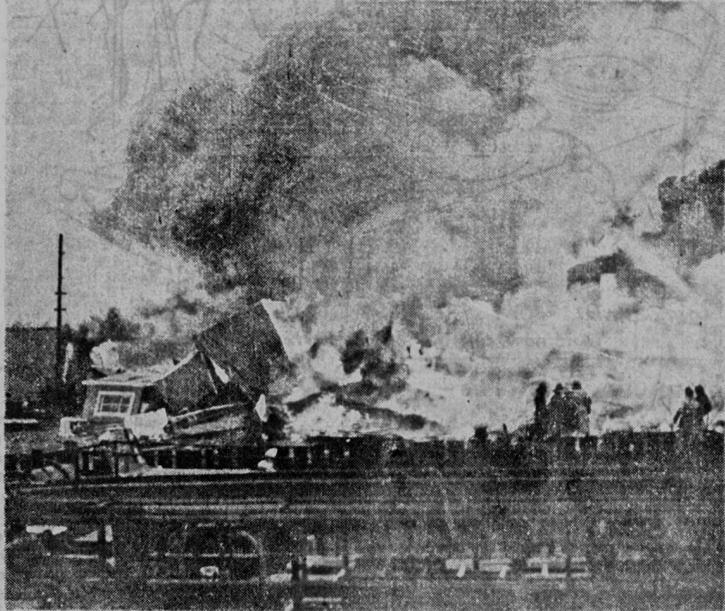

28 Dead in Riots At Tunisian Port

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) - Rioting at the port of Sousse Tuesday boosted to 28 the known death toll in a week of clashes between independence-seeking Nationalists and police of this French North African protectorate.

Col. Norbert Durand, Arabic-speaking French military commander of the Sousse region, and nine Tunisians fell at that city of 25,000 on the Gulf of Hammamet 70 miles southeast of Tunis.

French sources gave this account of the outbreak: Durand tried to calm a crowd of demonstrators bent on attacking the European quarter. He had almost succeeded when two revolver bullets dropped him to the ground. Tunisians then rushed on the colonel with clubs. Police and troops fired.

MILLIONAIRE CHARGED - GRANBY, Quebec (AP) - George DuBois, 26, known here as "the millionaire of Granby" because of the lavish parties he gave, has been arrested and charged with fleecing an aged farmer of $87,150, police said Tuesday.

27 Perish When Plane Misses Airfield

FLAMES DEVOUR BUILDINGS IN Elizabeth, N.J., where an airliner crashed Tuesday afternoon, killing all 23 aboard and four others. The plane, inbound from Buffalo, carried former Secretary of War, Robert Patterson. Due to the heavy fog, the plane was being landed with the aid of radar. This is the second major air crash in this area in the last month. A C-46 crashed Dec. 16 killing all 56 persons. The New Jersey senators called for a full investigation of the crash and facilities at the Newark airport.

U. S. Reviews Truce Talks; Hopeful of Future Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) - United States officials taking a new look at the Korean truce negotiations came up Tuesday with the conclusion that there is still a reasonable prospect for agreement.

That view takes account of these opinions: 1. The present deadlocks over prisoner of war exchange and a ban on air field buildup are not necessarily hopeless.

The Reds have given up on tough issues in the past, and American concessions on some points may be possible.

2. Despite the irritation of many sessions of repetitious talk and sometimes insulting behavior on the part of the Reds, patience on the United Nations' side will not run out for many weeks.

The talks, according to the best estimates here, may go on as much as two months or more, so far as the UN are concerned.

These ideas lead to a third possible conclusion which authorities seem to prefer not to go into at the moment.

This is that in the spring, unless there is a cease-fire in Korea, there will be a new Korean crisis requiring major decisions as to what the UN Allies want to do about the war.

Fully informed officials here say that even at present there is no positive political limitation on Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway with respect to military operation within the Korean area.

If he wanted to, he could start a major offensive tomorrow.

But there are some physical or implied restraints: 3. Limitations Listed - First, there is the winter weather which has put ground operations pretty much in a deep freeze and drastically limited aerial fighting.

Second, there is the fact that under their present objectives and commitments, the UN has about exhausted the possibilities of the Korean war.

To put this last point another way, as some officials do, Ridgway is without any military objective for such a drive.

The purpose of wresting the whole peninsula from Communist control was given up more than a year ago at the time of Chinese Communist intervention. The purpose of making peace in the general area of the 38th parallel - thus assuring only the freedom of South Korea - replaced the earlier objective and still stands.

3. Winnie Sails for Home Following Official Visit - NEW YORK (AP) - Winston Churchill boarded ship Tuesday night to leave the United States after what may have been his last visit.

The 77-year-old British prime minister went aboard the liner Queen Mary a few hours before the ship's scheduled departure after midnight.

Churchill was nursing a slight cold as he wound up his third official visit to the United States.

Autry Cuts Tot's Birthday Cake - MUNSAN, Korea (WEDNESDAY) (AP) - A United Nations command spokesman Tuesday said the Communists must make "some substantial gesture" toward compromise or the Korean truce talks will remain in deadlock.

2. Graduation Notices To Be Sent to Students - Students scheduled to receive degrees in February will be notified by Thursday or Friday if they've made the grade.

Registrar Ted McCarrell said Tuesday that special delivery letters will be in the mail by Thursday to all students who have not fulfilled degree requirements. Letters to students who can graduate will be mailed Monday.

Commencement ceremonies will begin at 1:45 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 2, in the field house.

Pilot of N.J. Plane Dies Near Residence; Newcombe at Scene

ELIZABETH, N. J. (AP) - The American airlines plane which crashed here Tuesday carried the pilot into a mass of flaming wreckage just three blocks from where he had been residing.

Capt. Thomas J. Reid, 31, a native of this city, had been planning to move to a new home on St. Valentine's day, his father-in-law, Alexander Poczkowski, said.

Reid, his wife, Henrietta, and their two children, Mirande, 3, and Robin, 18 months, had been living with the Poczkowskis while the new house was being built in Point Pleasant, on the North Jersey shore. Reid had been with the air line for 11 years.

Don Newcombe, Brooklyn Dodgers pitcher awaiting induction into the army, was among the volunteers at the scene of Tuesday's plane crash here.

Newcombe, a member of nearby Colonia volunteer fire department, was working in a television shop at the time of the disaster.

Officials fingering through a pile of debris at the scene of Tuesday's airliner crash came across a book.

Its title - "Passport into Peril."

2. SUI Psychiatrists Term Bogard Insane - DAKOTA CITY, IA. (AP) - Two Iowa City University hospitals psychiatrists testified at a sanity hearing Tuesday that Clyde Bogard, Renwick pool hall operator charged with murder, is insane.

The hearing was delayed more than two hours Tuesday morning by near blizzard weather conditions which made both witnesses and members of the jury panel late in arriving.

The jury of five men and seven women was completed during the afternoon.

Bogard is accused of fatally shooting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bogard, at Renwick last Nov. 24.

Dr. Frank E. Coburn, state psychiatrist at the University of Iowa psychiatric hospital at Iowa City, and Dr. Ada R. Perel, also on the University hospitals staff, said Bogard is suffering from a type of insanity known as "schizophrenic paranoia."

They testified that in their opinion Bogard is so devoid of reason that he is incapable of cooperating with lawyers sufficiently to prepare a defense.

The two psychiatrists said persons suffering from this type of mental disease are likely to become violent at times. They added that in Bogard's case the disease is progressive, and he will grow worse instead of better.

County Atty. Harlyn Stoebe said the hearing will continue today. If Bogard is found insane, he will be committed to the psychiatric ward of the men's reformatory at Anamosa until he is sane enough to stand trial on the murder charge.

3. Miami Plane Crash Kills 5 on Take-off - MIAMI, FLA. (AP) - A private-owned Lockheed Lodestar plane attempting a takeoff at Miami International airport swerved off the runway to avoid other planes and burst into flames late Tuesday, killing all five persons aboard.

The plane belonged to Aerodex incorporated, a maintenance firm. The first body removed from the wreckage was identified as that of Ben Terry, vice-president of the company.

A. B. Curry, port director of the airport, said the pilot apparently lost altitude when his right engine failed and attempted to land on the busy runway but saw other aircraft there and swerved off to avoid them.

4. U.S. Cracks Down on Torch Sweater Firm - WASHINGTON (AP) - The government cracked down on a Philadelphia firm Tuesday in its campaign against "torch sweaters," accusing Fisher & De Ritis of selling garments "dangerous and unsafe to wear."

A complaint was issued by the federal trade commission against Albert H. Fisher and Vincent De Ritis, doing business as Fisher and De Ritis at 12th and Carpenter streets, Philadelphia.

It was the first result of an investigation launched by the commission after newspapers all over the country began reporting cases of sweaters igniting and burning almost explosively when touched by lighted match or cigarette.

The commission directed Fisher & De Ritis to answer the complaint within 20 days and appear for a hearing before FTC examiner Everett F. Haycraft in Washington March 3. If the complaint is substantiated, Fisher & De Ritis will be ordered to cease any illegal practices. There is no fine levied in cases of this nature, a commission spokesman said.

Federal investigations are continuing in Philadelphia and six other cities, New York, Baltimore, Providence, R.I., Chicago, Kansas City, Mo., and Los Angeles.

5. Taft Receives Boos At Assembly Plant - JANESVILLE, WIS. (AP) - A mild chorus of boos greeted Sen. Robert Taft when he walked into the Chevrolet assembly plant here Tuesday.

The sounds were not repeated in other sections of the building where several thousand members of UAW-CIO unions are employed.

One workman declined an introduction to the Republican presidential aspirant.

"Not for me," he said, turning his back, when a shop steward asked if he'd like to meet the Ohio senator.

6. Buildings Burn As Diving Plane Hits, Explodes - ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) - A rain-lashed airliner dived into a heavily populated residential area here Tuesday, killing all 23 aboard including former War Secretary Robert P. Patterson.

At least three other persons - and probably a fourth - perished in their homes when the silver plane rammed into a small apartment house, bringing the total death toll to 27.

The bodies of three children were recovered Tuesday night from the charred debris. A mother of two of them is missing.

The twin-engined American airlines' Convair, attempting to land by radar, thundered out of the fog and smashed into the three-story frame building at 2:45 p.m. (Iowa time). The plane exploded like a bomb.

7. Residential Section Burns - Flames shot through two adjacent buildings and turned the entire closely-built residential section into a crackling inferno of fire and flying debris.

Screams came from the burning buildings. The Buffalo-to-Newark plane, caught in heavy fog and rain, narrowly missed Battin high school for girls as it rocketed down over Williamson street, 2.8 miles short of Newark airport.

The crash ripped the frame dwelling into splinters, and turned an adjoining three-story brick apartment house and a frame duplex house into a sea of flame.

Great, fiery clouds blossomed high above the area, about half a mile from the heart of this city of 112,000. Elizabeth is about 12 miles southwest of New York city.

8. Major Plane Crash - The American airline crash was the second major plane wreck in this city.

Two New Jersey senators immediately called for a full investigation of the crash and facilities at Newark airport.

Just 38 days ago, a big Florida-bound, nonscheduled C-46 caught fire after a takeoff from the airport and crashed into the shallow Elizabeth river, killing 56 persons. It was the nation's second worst commercial plane disaster.

For some time, residents of Elizabeth and communities near the airport have complained about low-flying planes coming in and going out of Newark airport. The Port of New York authority, which operates Newark airport, has announced that it is building new runways to take the traffic out from the uninhabited meadowland nearby.

9. Major Air Accidents Listed - Since Dec. 15 major air accidents include: Dec. 29 - A C-46 went down near Little Valley, N.Y., with 26 persons killed. There were 14 survivors.

Dec. 30 - An air force C-47 crashed into a mountain near Phoenix, Ariz. Twenty-eight persons - including 19 West Point cadets - perished.

Jan. 14 - A two-engined North-east airlines Convair crashed into the East river here, but all 36 aboard were rescued.

Jan. 19 - A Korean airlift DC-4 plunged into the North Pacific off British Columbia, killing 38 persons. Three others died when a B-17 rescue plane crashed en route back from the area.

Jan. 19 - A B-25 crashed onto a guardhouse roof at a California air base, killing six people. (Eyewitness account on page 6)

Patterson, Former Secretary of War, Dies in Plane Crash

NEW YORK (AP) - Robert P. Patterson, killed in a plane crash in Elizabeth, N.J. Tuesday, was on kitchen police duty at Plattsburgh, N.Y., when President Roosevelt called him to become assistant secretary of war in 1940.

He was an infantry captain in World War I and had gone to Plattsburgh from the U. S. circuit court of appeals bench for a reserve officer's "refresher course."

Actually he was dumping garbage cans when the President's telegram arrived.

Patterson relinquished a $12,000-a-year lifetime judgeship to take the $10,000 temporary job.

Within six months, he became undersecretary of war and supervised the army's 100 billion dollar World War II procurement program.

Throughout the war he was considered "the strong right arm" of War Secretary Henry L. Stimson.

President Truman appointed him war secretary when Stimson resigned in 1945. Patterson resigned in 1947.

Often at odds with some congressmen, Patterson urged passage of the lend-lease bill early in 1941. "By aid to England, we borrow time to prepare," he argued.

When World War II ended, Patterson called upon the nation to maintain its armed strength.

"If we dissipate our military strength, we shall be asking for another war, a war more fateful than any we have yet known," he said.

Patterson knew war at first hand. He served as a buck private on the Mexican border in 1916 and was wounded and decorated in World War I.

He was born at Glen Falls, N. Y., on Feb. 12, 1891, and was graduated from Union college, Schenectady, and received a law degree from Harvard. He engaged in law practice in New York.

Can We Break the Texas Tradition?

The Daily Iowan prides itself as one of the nation's finest college newspapers. More important, it takes pride in representing as well as serving the students of the State University of Iowa.

We believe that whatever any other student body can do, the SUI student-body can do better!

We further believe, as has been shown during this basketball season, that when it comes to student spirit we stand second to none.

We have just as much to brag about as any one — and that includes the Texans.

But, to keep this prestige, the students of SUI must respond to every opportunity to show the spirit which is contained here.

Texas now holds a new record. The University of Texas is leading all other colleges in the country as a blood donor champion, with a record of 2,810 pints.

Texas was spurred on after the University of Idaho, with a student body of only 3,047, claimed a new collegiate record of 1,014 pints of blood in a 3-day drive.

Looking at some of the other campuses, we find that Princeton claims it has the best blood donation record of any college in the country with 58 per cent of the students pledged to a pint each.

The University of Michigan has taken up the challenge of Texas University and, in a recent feature, declared that they are "getting set to beat their (U. of Texas) record."

So what? So let's see the State University of Iowa break the old tradition so popular in Texas that no one is as good as a Texan.

Your blood is needed badly. Sign a pledge!

Interlude

"And now, another request from a listener . . . !"

Interpreting the News — Unification Plan for Europe Has Material Working Base

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR., Associated Press News Analyst

General Eisenhower has called on Europe to hold a constitutional convention looking toward unification, an idea which would have seemed purely visionary only a short time ago, but which now has a material base from which to work.

The idea was working in Europe even with the close of the war. The first step was Benelux, a Belgian-Dutch-Luxembourg customs union which even now is not yet working fully, but which is a rather amazing experiment being pursued with goodwill and some practical results.

Then came the Benelux military organization, an international defense planning program including Britain.

Council Formed
A Council of Europe was formed as a non legislative advisory body for cooperative effort among the governments.

Under the American economic aid program, numerous areas of international cooperation were set up in the financial field.

Then came the Schuman plan, a supra-national pool of the steel and coal industries, with all of its implications for denationalization of the sinews of war.

When the French and German parliaments ratified that plan, a step was taken which, if it can be made to work, will be one of the greatest turning points of the twentieth century.

Unified Army Probable
Now, unbelievable as it seems, it looks very much as though there's going to be a European army in which French, German, Italian, Dutch, Luxembourg and Belgian divisions will serve together.

The deal isn't yet complete. The Belgians and the Dutch, especially, are protesting certain organizational and financing plans.

But when the Germans decided they should have selective service, patterned closely after the American system, to provide between 600,000 and 400,000 men for such an army, and when the French agreed that the Germans should be admitted in divisional units, the major barriers to the plan were hurdled. Other objections are expected to be compromised within the next month.

Appeared Visionary
When the United States first produced the idea, it was looked at in Europe as entirely visionary.

But as North Atlantic treaty defense plans developed and Russian pressure increased, unity became the watchword. And an arrangement for using German strength had to be made without raising the bugaboo of recreation of a German national army. Eisenhower provided much of the leadership which has brought the plan along the road to its present point.

If these things can be done, he says in effect, then there is no reason for not trying the rest of the job.

Some long day in the future, when the strays are all branded and counted, the historian may look at the Russian acts after World War II and say that they produced something, however unforeseen by the Kremlin, which changed the face of the world.

Polk County Pair Arrested for Sale of Beer to Minors

DES MOINES (AP)—The current drive in Polk county against sale of beer to minors has resulted in the arrest by the sheriff's office of a Des Moines grocery operator and a county tavern operator.

Charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor were filed Monday against Mrs. Olive Price, operator of Price's Grocery and Harrison McKinney, operator of Ole's Tavern.

McKinney was released under $500 bond after pleading innocent before Justice of the Peace Alvin Hoard. Mrs. Price pleaded innocent in municipal court and was released on her own bond.

Sheriff Thomas L. Reilly said a 16 year old boy identified McKinney as the man who sold him 12 cans of beer at 11 p.m. last Saturday.

In the grocery case, Reilly said Mrs. Price is accused of selling 12 cans of beer on Jan. 14 to two Carlisle youths, one 16 and the other 18.

The two boys, according to Reilly, were arrested near Indianola on charges of drinking beer on a public highway.

Royal Family Will Begin Cruise March 11

LONDON (AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth will sail from Britain on their two month summer cruise to South Africa on March 11, Buckingham palace said Tuesday.

They will travel aboard H.M.S. Vanguard, Britain's largest battleship. The Vanguard is due to arrive at Capetown on March 26.

The cruise is part of the king's convalescence from his lung operation last September.

Although the palace announcement did not mention Princess Margaret, it is understood she will accompany the king and queen.

Witch Cult Reappears In Staid Old England

By JERRY KLEIN
Written for Central Press and This Newspaper

Church and civil authorities in England are alarmed at the growing popularity of a cult which meets regularly for the practice of witchcraft.

But actually the authorities are not so much alarmed that cult members may be witches as they are that the members convene in the nude.

Dr. G. Gardner, one of Britain's leading witchcraft authorities, says the group meets four times a year under the command of a nude high priestess. They gather to worship the "old gods" of love and fertility—and members say they cannot draw "full power" from the meeting unless they doff their clothes.

Cecil N. Williamson, a student of witchcraft, says many intelligent persons belong to the cult and that he knows "a number of practicing witches."

That's strange because just recently the house of commons decided there aren't any more witches in Britain and voted to abolish the witchcraft act of 1735. That a coma and regained consciousness only when Jane was brought into the courtroom.

"This convinced the mob of spectators that here was a true case of witchcraft."

Another witness accused Jane of flying. However, the judge, a man "of learning and experience" declared, "There is no law against flying."

Nevertheless, Jane was found guilty and condemned to die. Whose news of her case spread, however, sympathy arose for the doomed woman.

One official cited the "waste of human blood in every village upon the wild testimonies of a parcel of brain-sick people."

Anne Thorne behaved queerly not because she was bewitched, but because she had epilepsy, said another, advising judges to study medicine so as not "to ascribe those diseases to the devil when nature is primarily concerned."

The bed-lifting and wall-knocking were ascribed to "the best of spirits, a thing which no man can deny, though he doth not believe it."

Before the trial, a neighbor of Jane's said he'd burned a pin to see if she—like a true witch—would be attracted to it. She had immediately come to his home, said, convincing him of her guilt.

Now a critic of the trial roared and declared: "For my part, that can draw a poor decrepit wretch out of her chimney-corn in cold weather, too, merely by burning of a pin, I should look upon him to be the greatest conjurer of the two."

Reverend Bragge was angry with those who pleaded for Jane. "A wicked old witch," he fumed, "is on a sudden become a precious saint."

Eventually, Jane's sentence was lifted. In later years, she led such a "sober and inoffensive life" that the village became "fully convinced that she was innocent."

Four years after Jane's trial another woman was executed for witchcraft, the last death sentence for the offense to be carried out. However, England's laws against witches weren't removed from the statute books until just the other day.

Each state representative would have one vote, and the federal representative would have 10 votes.

Since the general plan was disclosed, the council of state governments has been working on the actual form and wording of such an interstate compact. A preliminary presentation of the possible content and outline of such a compact is slated for attention at the Hastings meeting today.

There are several alternatives to the interstate compact type of control as suggested.

Proposed Alternatives
One alternative is a Missouri Valley authority, a federal corporation similar to the Tennessee Valley authority (TVA).

Another alternative is adoption of a Hoover commission recommendation that the department of interior be reorganized along more "functional and major purpose lines," establishing it as a control agency.

Still another alternative would leave control pretty much as now set up in the construction stage, with the department of interior and corps of engineers sharing responsibility under the guidance of the Missouri Basin-Inter-Agency committee, a group consisting both of federal agency representatives.

The day of Jane's trial finally arrived. A village farmer, John Chapman, said she'd put a death spell on his animals. Chapman's servant, Matthew Gilston, made similar accusations.

A 16-year-old servant girl, Anne Thorne, said Jane bewitched her making her run out of the house jump over the front gate and climb a hill. At night, said the girl, her bed would rise from the floor and there would be strange knocking in the walls. Anne then fell ill.

Woman Will Take 'Solo' Honeymoon

OMAHA (AP)—What was planned as a wedding trip to Arizona is going to wind up as a solo trip, Mrs. Leone Lee, of Omaha, said Tuesday.

The man she married in Council Bluffs Saturday night and "lost" within a few hours will not go along, she said.

The marriage, she said, "is what I always wanted. But now I wouldn't have him. I couldn't trust him."

Mrs. Lee, 42, and Leonard W. Lee, 23, of Council Bluffs, were married at a Council Bluffs church. A reception was held afterwards at a club. Differences developed—the versions were conflicting. Anyway, less than five hours after the ceremony, Mrs. Lee returned to her home—alone. Mr. Lee went to his home, also alone.

Mrs. Lee asked police help to locate her "missing" husband. Omaha police found him at home. He said he hadn't been missing at all.

Under the American economic aid program, numerous areas of international cooperation were set up in the financial field.

Then came the Schuman plan, a supra-national pool of the steel and coal industries, with all of its implications for denationalization of the sinews of war.

When the French and German parliaments ratified that plan, a step was taken which, if it can be made to work, will be one of the greatest turning points of the twentieth century.

Unified Army Probable
Now, unbelievable as it seems, it looks very much as though there's going to be a European army in which French, German, Italian, Dutch, Luxembourg and Belgian divisions will serve together.

The deal isn't yet complete. The Belgians and the Dutch, especially, are protesting certain organizational and financing plans.

But when the Germans decided they should have selective service, patterned closely after the American system, to provide between 600,000 and 400,000 men for such an army, and when the French agreed that the Germans should be admitted in divisional units, the major barriers to the plan were hurdled. Other objections are expected to be compromised within the next month.

Appeared Visionary
When the United States first produced the idea, it was looked at in Europe as entirely visionary.

But as North Atlantic treaty defense plans developed and Russian pressure increased, unity became the watchword. And an arrangement for using German strength had to be made without raising the bugaboo of recreation of a German national army. Eisenhower provided much of the leadership which has brought the plan along the road to its present point.

Eisenhower Political Situation Similar to That of Hughes in 1916

By HENRY C. NICHOLAS
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's position in regard to his possible Republican nomination for president, Washingtonians see as one of the most striking political parallels in American history. This parallel is one of the chief subjects of discussion at cocktail parties and political gatherings in Washington.

The presidential bee now buzzing around the head of General Eisenhower is facing the same situation as that which existed in 1912 and 1916, when the supporters of Supreme Court Justice Charles Evans Hughes were urging him to resign and accept the nomination for president.

Hughes, like Eisenhower, occupied a high position that precluded all political activity—a dedicated position for life which from the birth of the nation had been regarded as above and beyond and apart from all political ambition.

Both men, as their records show, were keenly aware of the ethical considerations involved in the acceptance of these high appointments, and both repeatedly stated that neither the army nor the supreme court must ever be allowed to be dragged into the political arena.

However, the pressure upon Hughes was so continuous and so strong, even after he had declared that even if nominated he would decline, that when the lightning finally struck he thrust all else aside and welcomed the call to greater service in the most powerful position on earth.

In accepting the nomination he said, "It is your right to summon and my duty to respond."

to his change of views is largely a matter of speculation. Merlo J. Pusey, the close friend and biographer of Hughes, suggests that he was influenced by the existence of a national crisis and the need for healing the split in the Republican party. He also reveals another circumstance that must be given weight in view of the Puritan conscience of Hughes.

Shortly before the Republican convention, Hughes was visited by Chief Justice Edward D. White, who is said to have advised him not to accept the nomination and forsake the court because he (White) was about to retire and he knew that President Woodrow Wilson had in mind to name Hughes presiding justice.

Hughes, says Pusey, was deeply disturbed by this suggestion. It had the smell to him of a political deal, and he felt the people would so regard it. Hughes recoiled from the suggestion, resigned from the supreme court and accepted the nomination when it was offered him.

There is indeed a striking similarity in the position of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the professional soldier, and Justice Charles Evans Hughes, the professional jurist. Due to the nature of the high positions they held they were both barred from speaking out like the average citizen or evidencing any interest or taking any part in the great American game of politics.

However, this did not prevent the conscientious Hughes from accepting the presidential nomination when offered, in spite of his previous statements that he would refuse the nomination.

Justice Charles Hughes

'Simplicity' for Homemaker with Heart Disease

"Simplicity" is a key word for the homemaker with heart disease. By simplifying her household tasks and the arrangement of her home she can conserve her energy and make her work easier and more enjoyable. For a woman whose capacity to work is limited by heart disease, time and energy saving is a necessity.

Cardiologists in the SUI college of medicine fully endorse the many labor-saving suggestions made in a bulletin distributed by the Iowa Heart association entitled "The Heart of the Home".

Since exertion does not directly affect the heart muscle except when the work is very difficult or prolonged, the way a homemaker does things rather than what she does is more important.

The woman who sits while ironing or baking or peeling potatoes isn't lazy—she's smart! She knows that by taking a load off her feet she is also taking a load off her heart.

She also knows that to be able to do her work while sitting she must anticipate and plan for each step in whatever task she is performing. This planning of her work will save hundreds of wasted steps and leave her fresher at the end of the day.

A homemaker's work chair should be sturdy, with supports for the back and feet. Small wheels can be mounted above floor level on the back two legs so when tilted it can be wheeled from place to place, yet will rest solidly while in use.

Doctors advise letting wheels do as much work as possible around the home. A portable table mounted on wheels saves time and energy when used to transport dishes and utensils for setting the table and cleaning materials for "putting the house in order." Small wheels also can be mounted at the head of the ironing board so it can be rolled in and out of storage.

Another work-saving plan for any homemaker is the careful selection of storage places for equipment and supplies. Time-study engineers call this "storage at point of first use."

Things that are used first with heat should be stored near the stove. This could include canned goods that can open saving cooking utensils serving dishes and platters.

Items such as vegetables that don't need refrigeration and soaps, knives and strainers ordinarily used first with water should be stored at the sink. This could also hold true for a saucepan or two. The garbage pail should be the step-on variety to eliminate stooping.

Within easy reach of the table where the mixing and baking is done should be all of the utensils necessary for these operations. These utensils should be hung on the wall, with sugar and flour stored in gravity-feed bins also within reach.

Such careful planning would enable the homemaker to avoid much of the "trotting around" that leaves her limp and exhausted at the end of the day.

Other tips:

Work surfaces should be low enough to enable performance of routine tasks without raising the hands higher than elbow level.

Arrange dishes and utensils on shelves to eliminate "reaching behind" and "getting out from under." Adjustable dividers in shelves will allow flat pieces like pins and frying pans to stand on edge.

Use long-handled brooms and dust pans to avoid stooping.

When cleaning use dusting mitts so both hands can be put to work. The practice of sharing the burden with both hands is good to follow in all housework whenever possible.

"The Heart of the Home" describes many other work-saving steps and includes the plan for a model "heart kitchen" developed by the American Heart association.

The bulletin can be obtained from the Iowa Heart association, 2124 Grand avenue, Des Moines 12, Iowa.

Engaged

Nancy Zadek

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Zadek, Winnetka, Ill., announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Jo, to Howard M. Stein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Stein, Rochester, N.Y.

Miss Zadek was graduated from the SUI college of liberal arts in February, 1951.

Will Princess Marry?

Past Week's Events Give Indication Of Marriage with Earl of Dalkeith

LONDON (P) — Has Princess Margaret finally decided to marry the young man she teased and tormented during their growing-up days?

It looks that way.

Events of the past few weeks give every indication that Britain's lively princess has said "yes" to the Earl of Dalkeith, rangy Scottish forester and dog-breeder.

The earl is 28 and has just about everything in his favor for marrying into the royal family. He is heir to the Duke of Buccleuch, one of the richest peers of the kingdom. His aunt, the Duchess of Gloucester, is a sister-in-law of King George VI.

Walter John Francis Montagu-Douglas-Scott is the Earl's full name. He has known Margaret since she first began to have birthday parties in the schoolroom she shared with Princess Elizabeth in Buckingham palace.

She calls him Johnny.

Margaret Old Enough

Margaret is 21 — old enough and forthright enough to speak her own mind. Since her 17th birthday she has been dated and squired by countless young bloods. Some of them gave up the chase and married other girls.

But Johnny was always in the background — the faithful suitor.

It's almost a classic case of the shy, adoring boy next door being kept on the hook by the most popular girl in town — except that Margaret and Johnny were usually separated by hundreds of miles.

But there were always family parties to bring them together. At these, the merry-eyed young princess would stay up half the night dancing, distributing her favors impartially.

But in the morning, her petite figure covered in a heavy coat

Trebark Pleating

INTRODUCED IN A 1952 evening costume designed by Ceil Chapman, the loose coat and midriff moulding dress are both designed in "blond Corinthian" silk taffeta. Plain taffeta lines the coat, and makes the shoulder straps and deep flounce of the dress. The skirt is lined with starched net.

Interfraternity Pledge Prom To Be Feb. 8 at Union

The Interfraternity Pledge Prom will be held on Friday, Feb. 8 in the main lounge of the Iowa Union, publicity chairman, Jack Goggin announced. Music will be by Jimmy Smith's ten piece orchestra.

At the dance the Interfraternity Pledge Queen and her four attendants will be announced. Pictures of candidates selected by each fraternity on campus will be sent to Gardner Cowles, president of the Cowles Publishing company, Des Moines, for judging.

Committee chairmen for the dance are: program, John Jameson; social, Kent Nesbitt; publicity, Jack Goggin; queens, Bob Noecker; band and decorations, Ray Ryden and intermission, Jerry Purdum.

Fraternities Hold Elections

Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity held an election of officers for the coming semester Monday night.

They are: President, Bill Mermer, A3, Cedar Falls; vice-president, Don Kallenberg, A3, Des Moines; treasurer, Don Daughton, A3, Mt. # Red Cross Announces Basic Requirements For Blood Donors

Can you give blood?

Recruiters for the Red Cross "Blood for Defense" drive are going to ask this question many times between now and Feb. 19 when the bloodmobile arrives in Iowa City for a three-day stay.

The Red Cross has set up several requirements that a donor must meet.

He or she must be between the ages of 18 and 59, weigh at least 110 pounds and must not have donated blood in the last three months.

Parents' OK Needed

If the donor is between the ages of 18 and 21, the parents' written consent must be obtained. Consent forms and pledge cards may be obtained from housing unit recruiters.

Persons are not acceptable as donors if they have had any of the following:

Serious illness or immunization during the past month. Major surgery, blood or plasma transfusion, or contact with jaundice during the past six months. Jaundice or pregnancy during the past year. Undulant or prolonged fever, malaria or antimalarial drugs during the past two years.

Eating Fats Prohibited

Persons accepted as donors must observe the following regulations before donating blood:

Donors must not eat any foods containing fats for a four-hour period before their appointments. Included in this classification are pork, soups, pastries, peanut butter and mayonnaise.

The Red Cross recommends that donors eat only light foods before their appointments. These foods include fruit juice, tea or coffee (without cream), fruit, toast with jam, jelly or honey (but no butter).

manager, Buddy Pickus, A4, Aberdeen, S.D.; historian, Jerry Bloch, A2, Newark, N.J. and publicity chairman, Jerold Wolfson, A2, Des Moines.

Completes Courses

Second Lt. Richard R. Brawner, son of Clarence P. Brawner, 2103 H st., completed an associate infantry company officer course at Ft. Benning, Ga. Jan. 11. He was commissioned on June 8, 1951 and ordered to active duty on Aug. 24, 1951. A City high school graduate who spent four years at SUI, he is currently attached to the 87th infantry regiment of the 10th division.

Pi Lambda Theta Holds Initiation

Theta chapter of Pi Lambda Theta, national education honorary for women, will hold an initiation dinner in the Iowa Union this evening, Mrs. H. L. Harbison, publicity chairman announced.

The speaker will be Carol Gatzke, a representative from Younker's department store, who will talk on "How Fashionable Is Your Future?"

Bump Elliott Added To Grid Staff

Was Backfield Coach At Oregon State

By JACK SQUIRE
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

The addition of Chalmers (Bump) Elliott to the Iowa football coaching staff became official Tuesday but the identity of Coach Forest Evashevski's third assistant remained unknown.

The official confirmation of Elliott's appointment came after the story was released from Oregon State where Elliott has been backfield coach for the past three seasons.

It came as no surprise, however, since reports have been circulating from the West coast for the past two weeks that Elliott would join Evashevski.

Elliott, like Evashevski, is a Michigan graduate, and is thoroughly familiar with the single wing attack Evashevski will install here.

Will Coach Backs

Although Evashevski does not distinguish as to backfield coach, line coach, etc., Elliott's duties will be concerned mostly with the backs. He was a standout halfback on the great Wolverine teams of 1947 and '48.

Elliott's position was originally slated for Alton Kircher, Evashevski's chief assistant at Washington State, but that was changed when Kircher accepted the head coaching job at Washington State.

There was no mention of Elliott's salary but it is believed to be approximately what Kircher was going to receive, $8,700.

Announcement of the remaining assistant is expected to come shortly, and it is believed that he will be a line specialist to work with Bob Flora, who came from Washington State.

Pete Elliott Mentioned

There has been mention of Pete Elliott, Bump's brother, currently on the Oklahoma staff. The name of Len Younce of Oregon State has also come up, but chances are it will be neither of these.

It also will not be any members of Leonard Raffensperger's staff, Evashevski said Monday, although Raff's aides will be considered for the freshman and junior varsity positions.

Elliott, 27 years old, is expected to report early in February.

In addition to his three years at Oregon State, he was on the Michigan staff for a year. Before that he earned all-American honors as a Wolverine halfback and also played two seasons at Purdue in '43 and '44 as a marine trainee.

Leading Scorer

He had his greatest year in 1947 on the Michigan championship team when he was the leading Big Ten scorer with 36 points and top pass receiver with 14 catches. His rushing average in conference games that year was 5.5 yards.

In his senior year at Michigan, Elliott weighed 170 pounds and was 5-10. He came from Bloomington, Ill.

He is married and has one child.

Christenberry Boosts Charles; Matthews Out

NEW YORK (AP) — State boxing boss Bob Christenberry Tuesday followed up his "fight or else" ultimatum to Heavyweight Champion Jersey Joe Walcott by designating Ezzard Charles as his logical opponent. At the same time he dismissed Harry (Kid) Matthews as a possible heavyweight challenger as far as New York is concerned.

Monday the fast-moving chairman of the state athletic commission warned Walcott to agree within 15 days to a title defense, and Tuesday he announced that Charles had forwarded a formal challenge and a $5,000 forfeit check. Comanager Jake Mintz handled the details for Charles, the former champion.

This all resulted in statements and counter-statements by Walcott, Jack Hurley, manager of Matthews; Marty Weill, manager of undefeated heavyweight Rocky Marciano, and the International Boxing club, among others.

Here's what happened Tuesday:

1. Christenberry said Charles was the logical contender; that he did not consider Matthews, as a heavyweight challenger and, that, in his opinion, Matthews doesn't want to fight light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim.
2. Christenberry said that Charles was universally regarded as the No. 1 contender and deserving of the title shot, and that he thought Walcott should make his title defense by late March or early April.
3. Marty Weill said "Marciano will not attempt to get a championship fight with Walcott unless Charles wants to step aside."
4. Walcott told newsmen he was "ready to fight right now against any fighter that the IBC should pick as my opponent."
5. Hurley, in Seattle, predicted Matthews would sign within a few days to meet Walcott. He said Harry Hunt of Las Vegas, Nev., was trying to arrange the bout.
6. The IBC insisted that it had a solid contract for a return bout between Charles and Walcott.
7. Jim Morris, president of the IBC, said Walcott's manager had never said to him (Morris) that Walcott won't fight Charles. "If they decide to walk out, I'll do all in my power to block Walcott from fighting anyone else."

Hawkeye Tankers Get Purdue Next

Victories over Illinois and Wisconsin by identical scores closed first semester competition for the Iowa swimming team. The next meet is with Purdue at Lafayette Feb. 9.

Hawkeyes in the second semester will be strengthened by the presence of Co-captain Bowen Stassforth, holder of several U.S. breaststroke records; and Buddy Lucas, New Zealand distance champion who arrives here to enter the university late this month.

Coach Dave Armbruster said that Iowa showed considerable improvement in the 55-33 win over Wisconsin last week in the 20-yard Badger pool. Most of the swimmers bettered their performances of the opening meet with Illinois, also a 55-38 win.

He said that Co-captain Wally Nicholson, who missed the opener because of illness, looked good in quelling the pool record for the 60-yard freestyle and also winning the 100 freestyle.

Dick Labahn won the 220 and 440-yard freestyle races in good time. It was the first 440 Labahn ever had entered in intercollegiate competition. Keo Mana finished second to Labahn in his first attempts at 220 and 440, because he usually swims the 50 and 100.

Admission Price Raise Granted to Baseball

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball got a cost of living price increase Tuesday—specific boosts in ticket ceiling prices for six big league clubs and 8 per cent for all the minors.

The office of price stabilization said the major league outfits affected by the order are clubs which have not raised the tariffs in recent years. The raises were granted to cover cost increases in such items as player pay, traveling expenses and park maintenance.

The increases range up to a top of 50 cents a seat, granted to the two Chicago teams on both reserved and box seats. For both the Cubs and the White Sox that would permit a box seat charge of $2.50 and a reserved rate of $2.00. Their general admissions could go up 25 cents to $1.50.

It is up to the teams themselves whether they apply the boosts, and the Chicago managements indicated they were undecided.

Here are the other permitted increases in the minors:

- Philadelphia Phillies and Athletics — Box seats up 25 cents to $2.75.
- Detroit Tigers — Reserved seats up 25 cents to $1.75.

Cleveland Indians — Box seats up 25 cents to $2.25, reserved up 15 cents to $1.65, general admission up 5 cents to $1.25.

The charges in the other league parks are unchanged.

Minor league clubs have no objection in how to apply their price increase.

Combes Admits — Illini Good, Getting Better

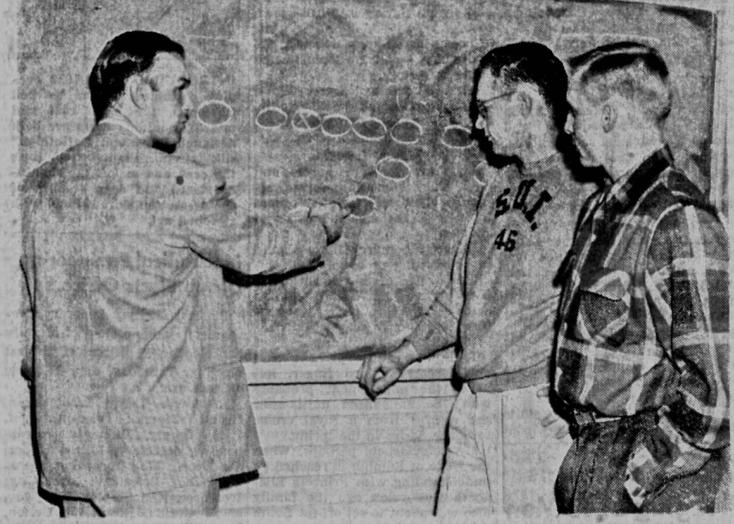

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach Harry Combes Tuesday conceded his unbeaten Illinois team, ranked No. 1 in the AP's national basketball poll, was a "coming club."

Combes, whose Illini have won 11 straight and this week nudged Kansas from atop the AP ratings, told the Chicago basketball writers:

"I think we're going to get better. We got where we are because of defensive play, although certainly we didn't plan it that way. Our offense, our shooting certainly should improve. We're only sixth in the Big Ten in scoring."

Combes, however, is afraid the poised and deliberate Illini, who lead the Big Ten with a 4-0 record, may be "riding a little too high."

Evy Explains System to Hawks

FOREST EVASHEVSKI, Iowa's new football coach, had an attentive audience Tuesday night when he held a "get acquainted" meeting with the Hawkeye football squad at the field house. Evashevski did some explaining here to tackle Don Chelf (left) and halfback Dusty Rice about his single wing type of offense. He also showed movies of the Washington State-California game to further illustrate his formations.

4 Big Ten Marks in Danger — Cage Records? Darling Nearing Loads of 'Em

The linotypers will get in a lot of work just setting new type for the basketball record books if Iowa's Chuck Darling continues his scoring at even less than his present pace.

It's a situation full of interesting possibilities. All on the IF side, however, since many things can happen in the nine remaining games, six in the conference.

The big center, who scored 65 points in the last two conference games, to date has a season's total of 319 for an average of 24.5 in all 13 games. In the six conference games, his total is 153, for a 25.5 average. He tied the Big Ten single game free throw record of 16.

But here's a rundown of the endangered Big Ten records:

1. Most points in one season: 277 by Ray Ragelis of Northwestern in 14 games; Darling now has 153 and needs 125 in 8 games, average of 15.6 (his current average is 25.5).
2. Most field goals in one season: 97 by Carl McNulty of Purdue in 14 games; Darlings total is now 54 and he needs 44 in 8 games, average of about 5 per game (current average 9).
3. Most free throws in one season: 99 by Ragelis in 1951; Darling has 45 and needs 55 in 8 games, average about 7 per game (current average 9).
4. Most points in college career: 628 by Don Rehfeldt of Wisconsin. Darling now has 440 and needs 189 in 8 games, or average of 23.6.

Iowa records appear certain. In fact he already has broken two. He set a new single game free throw record of 16 and every game he adds to his career total record for he now has 881 as compared with Murray Wier's mark of 824 in three seasons.

Others menaced:

1. Season's total: 399 by Wier in 19 games, 1948; Darling has 319 in 13.
2. Most field goals in one season: 152 by Wier; Darling has 116 in 13.
3. Most free throws in one season: 95 by Wier and Franklin Calsbeck; Darling has 87 in 13.

Darling's highest point output in one game is 34 vs. Minnesota, which is nine less than Dick Ives' single game Big Ten record of 43 made against Chicago in 1944. Ives had 19 field goals, an Iowa and Big Ten record. Those were in the conference record 103-31 game.

Davenport Golfer Leads Phoenix Field

PHOENIX, ARIZ. (AP) — George Getchell of Omaha, Neb., and Jack Fleck, Davenport, fired three-under-par 69s Tuesday to lead a field of 160 seeking berths in the $10,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

The pair, whose scores were best of the day over the 6,573-yard Arizona Country club layout, were closely followed by Bob Duden, Portland, Ore., and Harry Todd, veteran Dallas, Texas, shot-maker, with sub-par 70s.

Although the tournament committee hasn't announced what score it will take to qualify, four topflight Negro golfers apparently were assured of berths.

They are Ted Rhodes, Nashville, Tenn., who carded a 71; Bill Spiller, Los Angeles, 72; Eural Clark, Los Angeles, 72, and Charles Sifford, Philadelphia, 75.

Joe Louis, former world's heavyweight boxing champion who accompanied the four here, appeared out of the running with an 81.

Between 40 and 50 of those playing Tuesday are expected to qualify for the tournament proper Thursday. It will be played on the Phoenix Country club course.

Great Pressure

"Naturally, I'm happy for the honor that goes with being top-ranked in the nation," he continued. "But the pressure of trying to win the Big Ten title, trying to stay unbeaten and trying to stay first in rankings is bound to tighten up the kids."

Idle since beating Indiana 78-66 Jan. 14, the Illini make their next start in a nonconference joust with DePaul at the Chicago stadium, Saturday night.

"That's a 12-day layoff and it could hurt against a team that had us down 32-18 at one stage the last time we met," said Combes. He referred to DePaul's Dec. 22 visit to Champaign, Ill., which ended with a 70-61 Illini victory.

8-Man Team

Combes describes his team as an eight-man club "without depth."

Besides the excellent floor-work of senior guard Rod Fletcher, the white-hot competition at center between 6-8 sophomore Johnny Kerr and 6-7½, 240-pound Bob Peterson, and the development of junior guard Jim Bredar have mainly steered the Illini to their top ranking.

The player the Illini had to replace for a spot in the basketball sun this year, observers agreed, was their graduated floor ace, Don Sunderlage. However, Bredar, only 5-11 and weighing 167, has been coming by leaps and bounds. "He may be a better all-around player than Sunderlage when he graduates," said Combes.

2 Sharp Shooters

For sharp-shooting, Combes counts on 6-3 Irv Bemoras, a one-hand shot specialist, and Clive Follmer, perhaps the squad's fastest man, who has been slow starting this season.

Rival coaches regard Fletcher as the hub of the Illini attack, but they are impressed by the team's great poise, alertness, and ability to grab rebounds off both boards.

"They simply give you one shot and they get two," said one mentor.

Another summed it up: "They know they're good and you just don't get them rattled."

Iowans Score High In Table Tennis

An Iowa table tennis team entry bowed to Kansas City, Kan., in a championship playoff of the Missouri Valley Inter-Cities tournament held in Kansas City last weekend.

The Iowa team, sponsored by the Memorial Union, won five of six matches before bowing in the playoff. Decisive duel in the playoff was a 24-22, 25-23 victory of Joe Gragoch over Iowa's Chuck Windle. Gragoch was the outstanding player of the tourney.

Dean Norman of Iowa received the tournament's sportsmanship award and was third in individual score with a 14-4 mark.

Other Iowa records were Leonard Hipphen, 11-6, and Windle, 10-8.

Engineer's Club Considers Water Problems — Okays Fluoridation Plan, Creek Control Program

The Engineers' club has agreed to the proposal of the Johnson County Dental association which suggested the addition of fluorides to Iowa City's water supply. They have also recommended measures be taken to reduce the flooding of Ralston creek.

Regarding the fluoridation, the sponsors of the plan indicated that although they were not sure of where the responsibility of the cost would lie, it would probably be borne by either the city or state health department, or both.

Water Company Silent
There was no comment on the fluoridation issue from Dwight W. Edwards of the Iowa Water Service company.

The content of sodium fluorides in Iowa City's water supply, which is obtained from the Iowa river, is about one-tenth to two-tenths per million parts of water.

One to one-half parts of this chemical to water is the proportion that will bring about the reduction of children's tooth decay which is the aim of this plan.

The club agreed with a suggestion by Prof. Ned L. Ashton, engineering department, that a survey of the difficulties of improving the city's water supply be made.

Plan Flood Control
The committee that surveyed the Ralston creek situation presented a report including five recommendations for the alleviation of the problem.

These recommendations, in brief, are: prompt repair of the main channel; removal of channel obstructions; landscaping areas within the flood plain; forbidding property owners along the creek to dump trash in the channel, and the straightening and smoothing of the channel.

An ancient sewer system was reported to be preventing normal flow of water in this area.

Financing of the improvement of these conditions might be

B. A. Fuller, district governor of district 9-B of Lions International, will be a guest of the Iowa City Lions club at its meeting today in Reich's cafe.

Fuller will assist and advise the Iowa City club on matters concerning Lions administration and the humanitarian service program.

He is a graduate of the SUI college of engineering and is a former deputy district governor and president of the Centerville club. Fuller is president of the Fuller Manufacturing company at Centerville.

Mitropoulos, Student Perform Tonight

By GEORGE YOUNG

As the time for beginning of final rehearsal before tonight's symphony concert drew near Tuesday, a man — Dimitri Mitropoulos of the New York Philharmonic orchestra — stood in a corner of the half-filled room of the Music building surveying the scene.

While the room filled with the sounds of musicians tuning their instruments, the famed conductor strode nervously around the room.

Suddenly he walked to the piano in the center of the room. Within the turmoil of sounds from drums, brass and strings, he sat himself at the grand piano. The tumble of tuning instruments all but rendered the sounds of the piano inaudible.

Is Unaware of Bedlam

He appeared to be surrounded by a cloud of concentration, unaware of the bedlam of final preparations going on about him.

The first number rehearsed was Bach's Fantasy and Fugue in G Minor for Organ conducted by James Dixon, A4, Iowa City. Mitropoulos sat in the rear of the room watching his protege. He appeared to be going over the musical score in his mind. Again he seemed to be enveloped in a sheath of concentration as he watched.

Next on the program was Respighi's Toccata with Mitropoulos as soloist. When he sat down at the piano, all eyes were focused on his figure.

Moods Fit Music

His fingers leaped from key to key. His mood seemed to change to fit the mood of music. At one time he was forceful, a moment later, gentle.

When Mitropoulos was not actually playing, he appeared to mentally conduct the orchestra. The final piece rehearsed was Berlioz' Fantastic symphony con-

Delaney, Ousted Tax Collector, Convicted Of Accepting Bribes

BOSTON (AP)—Denis W. Delaney, ousted Massachusetts collector of internal revenue, Tuesday night was convicted on all of six counts in two indictments charging he accepted $7,500 to influence tax decisions and falsely certified as paid $180,497 in tax liens.

The conviction carries a possible maximum sentence of 18 years imprisonment and fines of $37,500.

The jury deliberated seven hours and 15 minutes. The balding 58-year-old Delaney stood staring at the jury while the verdict was reported.

Delaney was the first revenue official of his rank brought to trial in the current federal tax scandals.

The jury considered evidence on two indictments: one charged Delaney falsely certified as satisfied tax liens totalling $180,497; the other, that he received $7,500 from Daniel Friedman, New York insurance man.

Delaney insisted he believed the fees were paid in connection with insurance business. He said he and Friedman had planned to open an insurance office in Boston.

SUI Credit Offered — European Tour Planned

By DELIA WISHNEW

SUI students will have an opportunity this summer to see Europe and earn six hours of academic credit as well.

Prof. Oscar E. Nybakken, department of classics, will lead a six weeks tour which will stress the classical backgrounds of six countries: Italy, Switzerland, France, Belgium, Holland, and England.

Sponsored by Intercollegiate Tours, Inc. of Boston, the tour is for anyone interested in the classical backgrounds of Europe. Students may take the trip without credit, Nybakken said.

He said "this is the only tour accredited by SUI and students may receive six hours credit if they make arrangements for doing so in advance."

The advance arrangements include reading books from a list given out beforehand, as background for the trip. There will be orientation lectures on shipboard as well as a comprehensive exam after the student returns.

Nybakken explained that although the trip is titled "classical backgrounds," the contemporary elements of the countries visited are not entirely ignored.

Tour Costs $1,367
Some of the features of this tour are visits to Capri, Naples, Rome, Florence, Venice, Milan, Bern, Paris, Brussels, The Hague, Amsterdam, and London Nybakken said.

The tour group is limited to about 25 persons and the list is usually completed by the middle of March. Final payment for the trip is due May 15.

The price of this tour, $1,367, includes ocean passage, European transportation, hotel accommodations, meals, sightseeing, and luggage.

"A European tour," Nybakken concluded, "is an invaluable addition to an all-round education."

Will He Run? Hint Kefauver To Tell Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), encouraged by reports of a Kefauver boom in the northwest, said Tuesday night they expect he will formally announce his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination today.

National Kefauver-for-president headquarters here strongly hinted the crime-hunting senator will make the announcement at a news conference called for 2 p.m. (Iowa time) today.

In another political development, Price Director Michael V. DiSalle announced a 24-hour postponement in disclosing whether he will seek the Democratic nomination for the U.S. senate seat now held by Republican John W. Bricker of Ohio. He had been expected to speak out Tuesday.

DiSalle, wise-cracking former mayor of Toledo, Ohio, told newsmen he will announce his decision at 9:30 a.m. today.

New reports circulated that the White House was (A) urging DiSalle to remain as price chief and (B) offering him another important post to keep him in the government.

Kefauver himself did nothing to discourage predictions that he would toss his hat into the ring quickly.

Returning to the nation's capital by plane from Miami, Fla., Kefauver noted that both his name and that of Sen. Brian McMahon (D-Conn.) were entered Monday in the Illinois Democratic primary April 8.

Kefauver has been going through all the motions of a potential candidate for several weeks, but so far has limited himself to saying he was "not running away from the opportunity of running."

Taft Hits Controls On Farm Products

MONROE, WIS. (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft said Tuesday that agricultural production controls, when necessary, should be carried out by farmers themselves and not vested in Washington. "In an emergency it may be absolutely necessary to impose production controls, but when it is done, it ought to be kept as far away as possible from Washington and in the hands of the farmers themselves," Taft said in a speech prepared for delivery at a Chamber of Commerce dinner.

The Ohio Republican presidential candidate addressed his audience in these words: "I think there is undoubtedly a point at which the government must step in to protect the farmers against the kind of depression which let them go through the wringers so many times in the past."

It was Taft's second major address in his bid for Wisconsin's 30 Republican delegates to the election is April 1, one of the earliest in the nation, and Taft has declared his plans to make Wisconsin the major battle ground in his campaign.

Enroute from Janesville to Madison Tuesday morning, the automobile in which Taft was riding spun completely around twice on the glare of ice which coated the highway. Taft's comment: "I was scared."

Cowboy Star Gives 'Bill for Betty'

(Daily Iowan Photo.)

ANOTHER "BILL FOR BETTY" goes to the March of Dimes campaign as Gene Autry gives an autographed dollar bill to Mrs. Betty Young, Cedar Rapids polio victim who was stricken with the disease 18 months ago. Mrs. Young, who is donating all of her collection of famous autographed dollar bills to the polio drive, met Autry after he visited the school for handicapped children Tuesday.

Movieland Cowboy Braves Ice-Covered Roads To Cut Handicapped Tot's Birthday Cake

By ARLENE KING

Not many little boys can boast of having a real cowboy at their birthday parties, especially when the cowboy is Gene Autry and he cuts your birthday cake!

When the famous cowboy of radio and screen came to visit the Iowa School for Handicapped Children Tuesday, he was just in time for Jimmy Sloan's seventh birthday celebration. Jimmy, a bright-eyed youngster from Dubuque, sat at the middle table with a cake decorated with cowboys in front of him. Autry greeted him with, "Hey, fella, are you the head man here?"

After the candles were lit, Autry warned Jimmy "to make a good wish" and helped him blow out the candles.

Braves icy roads

The cowboy, who is appearing on tour in Cedar Rapids this week, was delayed by icy roads despite a police escort to Iowa City, and arrived at the school at 2:30 p.m. The highway patrol had warned him of bad weather, but Autry said, "I didn't make it last year, so I'm coming today for sure."

The children, many of whom wore cowboy suits and carried toy guns, sat in awe as the cowboy sang "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer," and his theme song, "Back in the Saddle Again." "Where's your two guns, Gene?" and "Where's your horse?" were questions fired at Autry, as he shook hands with the children and talked to youngsters in wheelchairs.

Promises to Return

"I couldn't bring Champion along this time, but I will when I come back again, kids. By then, I hope all of you are out of those wheelchairs and well," he told them. "But you can't bring horses in the school," one little girl told him brightly.

Autry, dressed in a blue cowboy suit, complete with boots and ten-gallon hat, signed pictures of himself astride his horse, Champion.

U.S. Rejects Red Play for New UN Seats

PARIS (AP) — The United States Tuesday rejected as "blackmail" a Russian proposal that five more Communist countries be given United Nations membership in return for clearance of nine applicants favored by the West.

The American stand was announced in the 60-nation political committee by U.S. Ambassador Ernest A. Gross despite increasing pressure on the United States behind the scenes to accept the Russian program for such a one-package deal.

Debate Peru's Plan

The political committee is debating a Peruvian proposal which would ask the security council to reconsider applications for membership, and have the applicants present evidence showing their qualifications.

The Soviet Union favors the admission of Outer Mongolia, Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania and Albania. None of these five has received the majority required to pass the security council.

The Soviet Union previously has vetoed eight applicants named in the proposed deal—Italy, Austria, Finland, Ireland, Portugal, Jordan, Ceylon, Nepal. The 14th applicant is Libya. Her case has not been acted upon.

South Korea Neglected

Gross reminded the committee that Russia's proposal left out the Republic of (South) Korea, which also has been vetoed by Russia.

Other applicants, not mentioned in this latest debate, are the North Korean regime, voted down in the security council in 1949; French-sponsored Viet Nam and a rebel Indo-Chinese regime, the Communist-backed democratic republic of Vietnam.

17 Allied Nations Still in Korea Fight

PARIS (AP) — Secretary General Trygve Lie reported Tuesday that 17 countries have armed units in action in Korea for the United Nations, but no new offers of aid have been made during the past six months.

The falling off occurred almost immediately after Soviet delegate Jacob A. Malik made his suggestion for truce talks last June.

Since that time the United States, in its role as UN unified command, has made numerous public and private appeals for more contributions to the fight against aggression in Korea.

Lie's official summary made no appeal for further assistance, nor did it refer to a circular letter he sent UN members last year making such a request.

3 Candidates Seek Soil Conservation Post

Plans for the election meeting Feb. 12 of the Johnson county soil conservation district have been drawn up.

Candidates for the commissioner post are Frank Colony, John Winborn and A. W. Sievers.

Dog Lost, Beardsley Offers Reward

DES MOINES (AP) — Gov. William S. Beardsley Tuesday offered a $25 reward for return of his 12-year-old Collie dog "Dagger" after trying unsuccessfully to find the pet.

Dagger, the governor explained, "is just a plain country dog" from the governor's farm at New Virginia. The dog is white, with brown markings and brown ears, he said.

Brought to the governor's home in Des Moines about a month ago, the dog seemed unhappy, so a maid took him to her home where he could run in an unused fenced chicken yard. Dagger disappeared a few days later.

Residents Tell of Flaming New Jersey Plane Crash

(See Story on Page 1)

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — "I'll never forget the screams of the dying."

"I was there in a minute but I couldn't do anything. The flames . . ."

Peter Lesniak, a foundry worker, wrung his hands, wiped the rain from his face and tried to talk about the American airlines plane that crashed in flames near his home Tuesday.

"It was a miracle any of the people got out of those houses. I knew many of them and I couldn't help them," he said.

Lesniak said he counted three explosions, followed by the screams of women and children.

As Lesniak talked in halting tones, flames licked the dreary, rain-soaked night air. Smoke and steam gushed skyward.

Searchlights played on the shells that were once two houses and the twisted, flame-seared wreckage of the plane.

Firemen and rescue workers stumbled through the rubble, looking for bodies.

They were carried on stretchers over wooden planks hastily laid on a sea of red mud in an empty lot. The Rev. John Meyer of St. Mary's church intoned the last rites of his church.

A jagged wingtip lay in front of a garage to the rear of the gutted buildings. Scattered about were a child's toys.

A few yards away Albert Ragone, 34, wandered about dazed. He came home from work to find his home in ruins, his wife and two young sons missing.

"I can't find them. I can't find them," he stammered. No one knew where his family was.

Mrs. Mary Kaspar, whose home was destroyed, said of the crash: "It sounded like a whoosh, like when the oil burner goes on at night."

She said she wasn't frightened and was able to gather up her child and lead her aged mother out of the flaming house to safety. There were tales of heroism. A policeman said 21-year-old

Mother, 5 Children Rescued from Storm

SOUTH SIOUX CITY, NEB., (AP) — A young mother and her five children, four of them less than 4 years old, were rescued from their stalled automobile along snow swept route 77 2-miles south of here Tuesday.

F. E. Baumer, chief of police, said Mrs. Mable Lena Eagle, about 30, told him that she and the children were on their way to Winnebago, Neb., from their Wisconsin home when the car stalled.

The oldest of the five children, a girl about 13, walked about a half mile through heavy drifts and a biting wind to a motor coach operated by A. Rosengartner to place a call to police. Officers said the children frayed in age from a 2-month-old baby to the 13-year-old girl. The other three children were about 1 1/2, 2 1/2 and 4 years old, police said.
