After a Battle, Friendly Words

JOHN L. LEWIS (left) and Sen. Robert A. Taft were engaged in friendly conversation after a senate subcommittee hearing Wednesday but things weren't this quiet during the session. The namecalling argument was over the Taft-Hartley bill.

Lewis, Taft Battle Violently At Senate Committee Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — John L. Lewis and Sen. Robert Taft (R-Ohio) roared at each other face to face before a senate committee Wednesday in a long clash over the Taft-Hartley act's bearing on mine safety.

quit shafts over management's objections. The senator set off renewal of the long feud with answering testimony that Lewis' complaint was a "red herring," irrelevant to the subject before the committee, and "untrue" besides.

union leaders made the Taft-Hartley law a main issue. Between rounds of the Taft-Lewis exchange, Richard Maize, Pennsylvania secretary of mines, severely criticized the proposal to give federal mine inspectors the power to close diggings held to be unsafe.

Dr. C. D. May Named SUI Pediatrics Chief

Dr. Charles Davidson May of the University of Minnesota has been named professor and head of pediatrics in the SUI college of medicine, according to an announcement by University President Virgil M. Hancher late Wednesday.

The appointment of Dr. May to succeed Dr. Philip C. Jeans was approved by state board of education members Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Jeans will retire on June 30, 1952, and Dr. May will assume his new post on July 1.

Dr. May was born in St. Louis, Mo., in 1908. Currently an associate professor of pediatrics at the University of Minnesota, he received his doctor of medicine degree from Harvard university in 1933.

Successive Positions Held

From 1933 until he joined the University of Minnesota in 1947 Dr. May held successive positions as assistant, instructor, associate and assistant professor of pediatrics at Harvard. He was also physician at the Children's hospital and Infant's hospital, both in Boston, Mass.

Dr. May is a member of Sigma Xi, Society for Pediatric Research, New England Pediatric society, Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, Central Society for Clinical Research, Northwestern Pediatric society and the American Pediatric society. He is a diplomate of the National Board of Medical Examiners and was certified by the American Board of Pediatrics in 1941.

He served with the U.S. army medical corps from 1943-46, and was discharged with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Department Head Since 1924 Dr. Jeans received his bachelor of arts degree from the University of Kansas in 1904 and his doctor of medicine degree from Johns Hopkins university in 1909. He has headed the department of pediatrics since coming to Iowa in 1924.

He is the author of many scientific articles on pediatrics, and two of his textbooks are in current use.

A member of the U.S. army medical reserve for many years, Dr. Jeans resigned with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Chicago Nurse - Gets Shock Of Her Life

CHICAGO (AP) — Doctors at Presbyterian hospital reported Wednesday that they shocked a student nurse back to normal life with electricity after her heart had quit beating for an hour and 45 minutes.

A jolt of 110 volts was sent directly through her exposed heart after three doctors took turns "milking" it by hand to keep her blood circulating through her body.

The nurse, 21-year-old Darlene Finke, discussed her experience with newsmen Wednesday at the hospital, where she is a senior student nurse.

The hazel-eyed, brown-haired nurse was back on duty, but she said she suffered from temporary amnesia after the operation in December and for a while was living two years in the past.

Dr. William G. Hibbs, medical director at Presbyterian, gave this account of the operation.

Cotton swabs, saturated with a local anesthetic, were placed in her nose in preparation for her operation.

In a few minutes she appeared to go into convulsion. Her breathing stopped and there was no pulse.

Artificial respiration was started immediately. A general surgeon was summoned and he cut open her chest. Within four and a half minutes after heart arrest the team of three surgeons had assembled to take turns at massaging her heart.

When the surgeons became convinced that hand pumping would not restore heart function, a small electrical device built by the hospital's research laboratories was brought in.

Electrodes were placed on either side of the heart and the electrical charge was sent through her heart for a half second.

Fire Demolishes Iowa City Home

Fire late Wednesday night completely demolished the 3-room home of Roy Farrier, R.R. 5, Iowa City.

Coralville Firechief Bryce Wolford laid blame for the blaze on faulty wiring near the electric meter. Malcolm Lewis, who owns the property and lives next door, estimated damages at $2,000.

The fire was first seen by Jake Blakely, 329 1st. st., a friend of Farrier.

Blakely said Farrier and his 16-year-old daughter, Leola, had left for Texas in the first part of December. The house was unoccupied at the time of the fire.

2 KILLED IN CRASH

COUNCIL BLUFFS (AP) — Two persons were killed Wednesday in a truck-car collision at the intersection of highways 59 and 6 east of Oakland in Pottawattamie county.

Students Obtain Registration Materials

Taft to Test Ike's Popularity In N.H. Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft Wednesday agreed to a "popularity" test with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the nation's first presidential primary election, on March 11, in New Hampshire.

Taft indicated he is entering the race with some misgivings. He said the "political machine" there is for Eisenhower, but nevertheless declared he is going ahead "win, lose or draw."

Truman's Name Also Entered

On the Democratic side, President Truman's name was also entered in the New Hampshire primary during the day—thus confronting him with a 10-day deadline for accepting or rejecting a bid for reelection. The White House declined comment on the move, which was made without any known word from the President.

New Hampshire law gives a candidate 10 days to withdraw after his name has been entered by supporters.

Kefauver Also Enters

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), the only avowed Democratic candidate, quickly announced that he also would enter the New Hampshire primary. His name was filed at Concord late in the day.

"We decided some days ago to go into New Hampshire," Kefauver told newsmen on Capitol Hill.

Meanwhile, a new straw in the wind as to the President's intentions came from former Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia who told newsmen after a White House visit that Truman sounded very much like a candidate for reelection.

Arnall Questions Truman

Arnall said he asked Truman point-blank whether he would run again. He said he could not quote the President directly, but got "the very definite impression" that Truman talked like a candidate.

Arnall's comment gained possible significance from the fact that he "called the turn" on President Franklin D. Roosevelt's bid for reelection in 1944 after a White House visit early that year. That was a time when Roosevelt—like Truman today—wouldn't say whether he was a candidate.

There was no guarantee, even if Truman tacitly allowed his name to go on the New Hampshire ballot, that it would mean he was definitely a candidate for another term in the White House. He could withdraw from the national race later.

Germans Ask Curfew on U.S. Troops

STUTTGART, Germany (AP) — "A growing number of incidents" prompted the parliament of the West German state of Wuerttemberg-Baden Wednesday to ask American authorities for a curfew on U.S. occupation troops.

Sixteen reported cases of assault, rape and robbery in Mannheim alone in the last three weeks involved U.S. army personnel, the parliament learned from police statistics.

The state legislators suggested that American soldiers be prevented from spending the nights in the cities and urged that they be paid in installments instead of once a month. Pay day multiplies the reported offenses by the troops, they said.

U.S. army headquarters had no immediate comment.

The Wuerttemberg-Baden action is the latest of a series of official German protests against misbehavior of American troops.

Earlier this month, the Bavarian state government appealed to U.S. commanders to take immediate measures to curb incidents of violence in which Germans were the victims.

House Backs Truman Plan For Tax Bureau Cleanup

U.S. Makes Progress In European Defense Acheson Declares

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Acheson, responding to a new foreign policy challenge from Herbert Hoover, declared Wednesday the United States has made tremendous progress in strengthening the defenses of Western Europe. He said it should stick unflinchingly to the task until it is finished.

Former President Hoover had said in a speech in New York Sunday the U.S. should serve notice that Europe must "rapidly" relieve this country of the burden of keeping ground troops in Europe except where needed to protect air bases outside the territory of America's Atlantic treaty allies.

Hoover Opposes Plans

A year ago, Hoover had opposed the dispatch of American forces to Europe. He contended this country should concentrate on defending the western hemisphere, the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and important islands in those oceans.

Acheson told a news conference in response to questions, that he did not want to comment directly on Hoover's speech which he said restated views the ex-president had held for some time and which he was entitled to make known.

But so far as American policy is concerned, Acheson went on, it would be well to look back at the past year and see how things have developed.

Military Reports Progress

On the military side, he said, both the North Atlantic Treaty organization commander in Europe, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, and his chief of staff, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, have recently reported very substantial progress in the formation of a NATO defense force. Moreover, Acheson said that plans prepared by a special committee of the NATO council will lead to further substantial progress in 1952 and 1953. He did not detail those plans but it is known that they aim at the formation of an initial battle-ready force this year.

Stretching Things a Little Far

ASSISTANT DISTRICT ATTORNEY James P. McGrath showed an all male jury in New York Wednesday how the girde at left was used to steal the Persian lamb coat at right. McGrath pulled the two-way stretch affair over his trousers and demonstrated how the coat could be stuffed into it and carried away. The jury was convinced and convicted two women of grand larceny.

Light Flood Damage Seen As Ohio River Moves South

PORTSMOUTH, O. (AP) — The crest of a weekend Ohio river flood crept towards this south-central Ohio city Wednesday night but left most of the damage strewn along the first half of the river's 981-mile length.

Comparatively light damage was foreseen in the remaining 625 miles before the Ohio empties into the Mississippi at Cairo, Ill., as plunging temperatures clipped several feet off projected crests.

In Washington, the White House announced that President Truman will fly over sections of Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky today to survey the flooded area. He made a similar aerial inspection trip of the Kansas-Missouri flood last summer.

Flood Causes Inconvenience

The turbulent flood waters of the Ohio caused more inconvenience than damage in Portsmouth and neighboring New Boston, O., where a new crest of 57 feet was expected early Thursday morning. A new flood wall protects most parts of the two cities up to 77 feet.

So far the flood has caused at least 10 deaths, chased upwards of 10,000 persons from their homes and caused millions of dollars damage to homes and industries. Many industries, particularly around Steubenville, O., and Wheeling, W. Va., closed or had their operations slowed down.

Evacuations Listed

The Red Cross in Washington said 2,265 families in West Virginia had been affected by the flood and 728 of them evacuated. It said 2,128 families in Ohio had been affected and 880 removed from their homes. It termed Marietta, O., the worst spot with 1,100 families affected.

Overall cost could not be counted with accuracy. But it is estimated to run into the millions.

Optimism continued to grow from still more downward revisions of expected crests by slide-river prophets at the U.S. They cut the crests they anticipate from Portsmouth westward by another 18 inches.

Station WHO to Aid In Civilian Defense

DES MOINES (AP) — At the request of the civilian defense administration, radio station WHO Des Moines, will become a 24-hour station six days a week, starting Saturday at 12:30 a.m.

The new schedule affects only WHO-AM, a 50,000-watt clear channel station. WHO-FM is not affected by the change and will stay on its regular schedule.

Resolution To Kill Bill Is Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house gave a thumping endorsement Wednesday to President Truman's plan to remove political patronage from the internal revenue bureau and convert it into what he termed a "blue ribbon" civil service organization.

A resolution to reject the reorganization plan—the first reform proposed by Truman in the wake of the tax scandals—was defeated by a voice vote.

This completes house action on the plan. If the senate does not reject it by March 14, it will go into effect automatically under provisions of the government reorganization act.

Would Abolish Regional Collectors

In addition to centralizing operations of the nation's tax collecting service, the plan provides for abolition of the 64 regional collectors of internal revenue. These jobs have been political plums for many years.

The collectors would be replaced by 25 district commissioners and all employees would be placed under civil service except the top commissioner, who would be appointed by the President with the consent of the senate.

The house debated the plan briskly for several hours before indicating its endorsement.

The plan already had been approved by the house expenditures committee.

Ask Action Against Grunewald

Before the reorganization debate began, the house ways and means committee voted to ask the house to cite Henry W. (the Dutchman) Grunewald for contempt of congress.

Grunewald, a "mystery witness" in the tax investigation being conducted by a ways and means subcommittee headed by Rep. Cecil King (D-Calif.), has persistently refused to talk about his friendship with federal tax officials and his interest in tax fraud cases they were handling.

While the full ways and means group followed its subcommittee's recommendation in the case of Grunewald, it took no action immediately on a second recommendation that Grunewald's attorney, William Power Maloney, be cited for contempt.

Maloney was ejected from the hearing room Tuesday after he clashed with the committee over whether Grunewald should testify. He had noisily advised his client not to talk.

Probe of McGrath to Begin

A seven-man subcommittee of the house judiciary committee probably will be appointed this week to begin an investigation of Atty. Gen. McGrath and his administration of the justice department.

McGrath is Mr. Truman's choice to direct the presidential campaign against wrongdoers in government. Thus he presents a case of the investigator being investigated.

McGrath has been severely criticized in congress for the manner in which the justice department handled some tax fraud cases.

New Egypt Premier Seeks Way to End Conflict with Britain

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Premier Aly Maher Pasha was represented Wednesday as seeking political support for a scheme to end the guerilla war with the British in the Suez canal zone on the basis of a collective security pact.

For the first time since the new premier took over rule under martial law from Mustapha Nahas Pasha following the destructive riots of Saturday, public demonstrations were attempted.

Two versions of Maher Pasha's intentions available here left open the possibility that one of two schemes was being considered to settle the bloody dispute with Britain over defense forces for the canal.

One version quoted him as saying he favored undertaking talks with Britain, the United States, France and Turkey on their proposal for a middle east command.

The other version, from a foreign office spokesman, said he believed Maher Pasha favored a "defensive middle east pact" which could mean either an alliance of the Arab league nations alone, or an arrangement with western powers.

Reds Approve Rotation Plan

MUNSAN, Korea (THURSDAY) (AP) — The Communists Wednesday agreed to an increase in the monthly rotation of troops from 5,000 to 25,000 but vetoed any ban on the massing of military power during an armistice.

The Red proposal to ease troop rotation limitations during a truce caused lifted eyebrows on the United Nations side of the conference table at Panmunjom. Previously the Communists had objected any rotation but finally agreed reluctantly to a monthly rotation of 5,000 men.

The UN wants a minimum of 75,000 troops rotated monthly if rest and recreation leaves in Japan are counted, or 40,000 a month if such leaves are not regarded as rotation.

Staff officers and a subcommittee of the main armistice delegation were scheduled to meet again today in separate tents at Panmunjom at 11 a.m. (8 p.m. Wednesday, CST).

In Wednesday's session UN staff officers pulled a little closer to agreement with the Reds on truce supervision details. They were considering, point by point, an 18-page UN draft.

In a nearby tent, however, a higher level session by armistice subdelegates on prisoner exchange remained miles apart on fundamental issues. The Reds continued their adamant opposition to the UN principle of voluntary repatriation.

The Allies proposed two safeguards at the truce supervision session and the Reds rejected both. These were:

- 1. Report weekly the location of all major ground, naval and air units.
2. Refrain from concentrating military forces, supplies, ammunition and implements of war "in such a manner as to increase their offensive capabilities against the other side."

SUI Will Offer 'Briefhand' Course

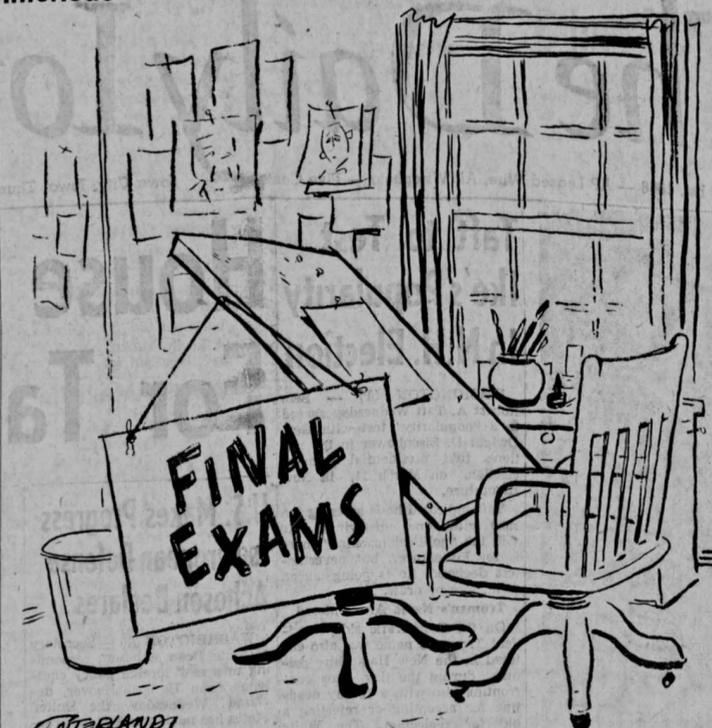

A new type of shorthand course, designed for personal rather than secretarial use, will be offered this semester to SUI students.

Dr. William J. Masson, head of the office management and business education department, said the new shortcut in writing is called briefhand and is just the thing for doctor, lawyer, journalist or businessman—anyone who must do a great deal of writing. Students will especially find briefhand desirable for taking lecture notes, copying material from references and composing themes, Dr. Masson said.

Briefhand was invented by the late Dr. John Robert Gregg and developed by his colleagues. According to the authors, the student can master the theory of briefhand in about one-fourth the time required for regular Gregg shorthand.

The briefhand class will meet at 10:30 on Tuesdays and Thursdays under the instruction of W. Arthur Allee, department of office management and business education. Enrollment will be limited.

Interlude

School of Religion Will Offer Course in Arabic

The SUI school of religion for the first time is offering a course in Arabic to be taught starting the second semester by Dr. Frederick P. Bargebuhr.

Bargebuhr, instructor in the school of religion, said student requests for the course prompted its inclusion in the curriculum. He said five students are now enrolled and anyone else interested should contact him before registering for it. It is not listed in the schedule of second semester courses.

Classical Arabic is the language used in the Koran and other Moslem literature and also is the written language of the modern Arabic world.

Among those registered for the course are some students with Arab background whose parents speak the language fluently. The students indicated an interest in learning it so that they might become familiar with family traditions.

Others, Bargebuhr said, will take the course for its academic value. He said the course will be of value to those interested in entrance into regional study of the middle east.

Two other courses, Bargebuhr said, will be of value in such a study. His course, living religions of mankind, includes study of the Koran and the religious development of Islam. The other related Hebrew.

Arabic literature contains much of value which can be found in no other language. Bargebuhr said there are some texts of the Greek classics which today exist only in Arabic translation, as the writing of the Hellenistic physician, Galen. The language is also rich in poetic literature and scientific writings, he added.

Situation in Washington 'Incredible'; Can't Last

By J. M. ROBERTS JR. Associated Press Analyst

Washington now presents us with the spectacle of the chief investigators being investigated.

The senate judiciary committee is going to take a look into the justice department, which itself is assigned to investigate general corruption in government but hasn't been able to get started because it can't get a lawyer to take charge of the job.

Is Major Result

This, plus a bill designed to take some of the politics out of the internal revenue department, is the major result to date of the fanfare with which President Truman broke off his Florida vacation some weeks ago to get after people in government who, as his friends put it, had "sold him down the river."

The senate committee felt so strongly that some nonexecutive agency should get into the matter that it even refused to hear Attorney General McGrath, who was waiting outside its door, an extremely unusual way of treating a cabinet member.

Expected Ouster

It was McGrath, you will remember, who was generally expected to be ousted because of revelations of favoritism in tax fraud prosecutions in his department.

But he made his peace—at least temporarily—with President Truman and instead was given the job of looking into general office holder crookedness. That was after the President had difficulty finding a chief for a special prosecution setup. McGrath hasn't been able to, either.

Had Effect on Committee

The executive failure to make quick progress probably had some effect on the senate committee, which unanimously agreed that something had to be done. The Democrats did water down the enabling resolution to avoid a "fishing expedition," but there was no effort to block the inquiry.

The situation now has become so incredible that it can hardly last even in present day Washington. The campaign for McGrath's removal, to which the President was reported almost resigned several weeks ago, will undoubtedly be resumed. Regardless of his own faith in his ability to clean up justice and other departments, and of the President's faith in his integrity, the political burden of the whole business is becoming more than the Democrats can afford.

H-Bomb Plant to Cost More than $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The atomic energy commission Wednesday made its most specific announcement about the hydrogen super-bomb project: That the plant to produce it is going to cost more than double the originally guessed figure.

A semiannual report of the commission said the current estimate for constructing the huge Savannah river plant in South Carolina is "more than 1 1/2 billion dollars."

A year and a half ago, after President Truman had ordered the commission to go ahead with building a bomb potentially a thousand times more powerful than "conventional" atomic bombs, a preliminary calculation set the cost of the plant at perhaps 600 million dollars.

The commission disclosed Wednesday that two of Canada's top atomic figures have conferred with American atomic chiefs about the recently announced easing of information exchange between the two nations.

They also discussed "the uranium production program," the AEC said.

Full Schedule For Canham

Two days of meetings with students, faculty and Iowa newsmen are scheduled when Erwin D. Canham, editor of The Christian Science Monitor, visits SUI Feb. 25-26.

Canham, who will come to the campus to give the first annual John F. Murray Memorial lecture, will take part in a discussion Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 26, of "Problems of Mass Communications." Newspaper and radio newsmen from Iowa and surrounding states are now being invited to the discussion, which will be held in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

An afternoon symposium for students, sponsored by the Associated Students of Journalism, will be held Monday, Feb. 25, in the Shambaugh lecture room at the university library. Canham will participate in the symposium, which will be open to all students.

University executives and journalism faculty members will meet Canham at a dinner Monday evening, and members of the press will be invited to attend an informal luncheon the next day. Monday noon Canham will lunch with student executives of The Daily Iowan and WSUI. A public dinner for Canham will be held at the Iowa Memorial Union Tuesday evening.

Reservations for the Tuesday luncheon and dinner may be made through the school of journalism, according to Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the school.

Canham's lecture, "A Free Press in a Free World," will be given at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the main lounge of the Union. It will be open to the public without charge.

The annual Murray lectureship was established with funds from the estate of the late Bessie Dutton of Wheatland, widow of John F. Murray, Iowa-born industrialist and advertising director. An endowment of approximately $125,000 provides for an annual lecture in commerce, law or journalism and for five scholarships of $500 to students in the university's colleges of commerce, the college of law and the school of journalism.

SUI Balloons Found By Centerville Man

Balloons, sent aloft by the SUI physics department Saturday in a cosmic ray study, fooled the experts and traveled southwest instead of southeast as had been predicted.

A farmer near Centerville, 120 miles from Iowa City, Wednesday notified the physics department that he had found the experimental balloons hanging from a tree. Members of the physics department kept radio contact with the balloons during their flight.

They said the balloons reached the top limit altitude for balloons — 100,000 feet. For about 100 miles the balloons traveled north-northeast, they said, but they apparently were blown in the opposite directions by high winds common at that altitude.

The experiment is being conducted by Leslie H. Meredith, G, Iowa City, as preparation for a master's thesis. Profs. James A. Van Allen and Melvin B. Gottlieb are directing the experiment which is part of basic research into cosmic rays.

Dark, Kerr Hold Trade Spotlight —

Calls Baseball Trades 'Ironical'

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP) — There is a bit of irony in the fact that the same day Alvin Dark signed for a reported $30,000, highest salary ever paid a Giant shortstop, the Braves shipped Buddy Kerr to Milwaukee.

The situation is ironic in that Dark and Kerr were the rival shortstops involved in the six-player Giant-Brave swap Dec. 14, 1949; a transaction which had the cracker barrel experts yackety-yacking for months and months.

The Giants got the best of the deal. The Braves got the best of the deal. Neither got the best of the deal. There was no sense in making the deal in the first place.

Giants Called Balm
Those who believed the Giants were getting a worn-out oldcogder vined the club couldn't afford to part with the power of Willard Marshall and Sid Gordon, and were getting a worn-out old cogder in Stanky and a player in Dark who couldn't make a move without first consulting the worn-out old cogder.

The critics of the Braves pointed out that Gordon and Marshall had lead in their hip pockets; that Kerr, a slick fielder, couldn't bat his way through a swarm of flies, and that pitcher Sam Webb was just the suspenders tossed in with a new suit.

Well, Webb turned out to be of no value to the Boston club, and Kerr, after hitting a sensational .186 last year, has been sent to the minors. Marshall has been an in-and-outer. Gordon has been the solid man the Braves received in the deal, performing up to the standard expected of him.

So right now it seems that the Giants came out buttered-side up in the trade. Dark has just signed for a whopping salary, indicating the value the club puts on him. Stanky has gone to St. Louis as manager. Between the two of them they had a great deal to do with the Giants' rise to the pennant in 1951.

Durocher Wins on Deal
You might say, also, that the New York club also got Max Lerner and Chuck Diering in the deal, as the Cardinals sent the pitcher and outfielder to the Giants in the deal for Stanky.

It now is apparent that Leo Durocher, the zippered lip, knew what he was talking about when he moaned that the Giants he took over were not his kind of a ball club.

The New York club had power to spare at that time, which is the reason he felt he could spare Marshall and Gordon. He wanted speed and aggressiveness. In Dark he got speed, in Stanky aggressiveness.

Explain 'Lippy' Change
Incidentally, we were intrigued by his explanation Tuesday of his reason for his abrupt switch in character last year from a loud-mouthed, swashbuckling, belligerent guy with chips on both shoulders to a mild, considerate, peace-loving citizen on the live-and-let-live order.

Leo explained that with college men well-sprinkled in the major leagues now, a manager must be more of the gentleman, or words to that effect. That is, college men are sensitive, and just won't respond to mule-skinner language and the crack of the whip.

Which is pretty good reasoning, at that, and a tribute to Durocher as something of a homegrown psychologist.
But would you take his explanation as an indication that the reason he was a truculent, uninhibited popoff in preceding years was just because he was managing a herd of roughnecks who didn't understand any other treatment? The Dodgers won't like that.

3 NYU Fix Suspects Indicted; Investigate Shakedown of One

NEW YORK (AP) — A former Long Island university basketball captain and two other men were indicted Wednesday on charges of bribing a New York university player to fix a game at Madison Square Garden a year ago.

At the same time, an assistant district attorney said one of those involved had been "shaken down" for several thousand dollars by the other two to keep his name out of the mushrooming scandal.

Named in a two-count indictment were Jackie Goldsmith, 32, a former LIU star from Brooklyn; Daniel Lamont, 44, of Altoona, Pa., and Joseph Serota, 38, of Brooklyn.

Accused of Bribe
The three are accused of having given Harvey (Connie) Schaff, former NYU player, $2,000 to hold down his team's score with Cornell Jan. 1, 1951. The favored NYU was upset by Cornell, 69-56.

Schaff is now serving a six-month prison term for his part in the conspiracy. Lamont, whose real name is listed as Donato Lamorte, is free on $25,000 bail while Serota is held in protective custody.

Goldsmith has been free on $50,000 bail on another indictment, charging that he bribed players who followed him on the LIU team.

Says Lamont Paid
Assistant District Atty. Vincent A. G. O'Connor accused Goldsmith and Serota of taking money from Lamont to keep Lamont's name out of the conspiracy.

O'Connor said Goldsmith went to Altoona last August and received $2,000 from Lamont. On two subsequent occasions, the assistant district attorney said, Goldsmith received payments of $2,500 from Lamont which were delivered by a man named William Belskin.

Belskin, according to O'Connor, also saw Lamont give Serota $1,250 in Altoona, Pa. Belskin, now free on $7,500 bail, has been held as a material witness in the case.

The three defendants surrendered Wednesday morning to District Atty. Frank S. Hogan.

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox Wednesday became the first major league club to sign its entire roster of 38 players for the 1952 season for the third successive year.

General Manager Frank Lane announced that Marvin Grissom, a pitcher, and Rocco Kranich, third baseman, agreed to terms via long distance telephone. Grissom, 33, was bought from Seattle where he won 20 and lost 11.

Kranich, 24, also up from Seattle, appeared in 152 games last season, batting .254.

Henry Stops Bob Satterfield On TKO in 1st

CHICAGO (AP) — Clarence Henry, Los Angeles, No. 3 contender for the world's heavyweight championship, Wednesday night scored a technical knockout over Bob Satterfield, Chicago, in 1:41 of the first round of their scheduled 10 round bout in Chicago Stadium.

The heavy-fisted Satterfield, wobbly after three explosive knockdowns, was out on his feet. Referee Freddie Gilmore humanely waived Henry to his corner to save Satterfield from further punishment. A big gash was ripped in Satterfield's left eye lid at the start of the fight and his face was a blood smear.

The spectacular triumph added prestige to Henry's heavyweight ranking. It was the 14th consecutive victory for the 23-year-old contender and his 17th knockout in 32 professional bouts.

Henry weighed 187 pounds to 180 for Satterfield.

Satterfield dropped Henry to his knees in a furious opening exchange, but Clarence got up and fought back furiously.

Henry knocked Satterfield across the ropes along the side opposite Clarence's corner and split a cut over Bob's left eye. Up at the count of eight, Satterfield tried desperately to trade blows but there was no match for the two-fisted Henry.

Twice again Satterfield was dropped, once for the count of nine and the last time — from a devastating right cross — for the count of eight.

When he rose, bleeding and groggy, referee Gilmore called a halt.

For Fight with Kid Matthews —

Walcott Offered $250,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tentative agreement—weighted down by a number of ifs—was reached Wednesday for a title bout between heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott and Harry (Kid) Matthews.

If an incredible number of loose ends can be tied together, the bout would be put on by Harry Hunt, who describes himself as a Los Angeles promoter. He said he'd like to stage it in May, but that he had no particular site in mind, and added he'd guarantee Walcott $250,000.

The announcement was made at a three-way news conference attended by Hunt, Felix Boechchio, Walcott's manager, and Jack Hurley, who manages Matthews, a Seattle light-heavyweight.

Boechchio said he accepted on this condition: He first must get a release from the International Boxing club, which has an exclusive contract on Walcott's services.

Boechchio said he will fly to Coral Gables, Fla., to meet with Jim Norris, head of the IBC, on Saturday.

He said that if Norris could meet or better Hunt's offer he would sign with the IBC.

As for Hurley, his comment was: "The minute he (Hunt) shows me he's got Walcott, he's got Matthews for sure."

Earlier Wednesday Hunt had said that Las Vegas, Nev., was a possibility for the championship fight, but at the news conference late Wednesday afternoon he said no city has been picked. Los Angeles and Philadelphia also were suggested as possible sites.

Walcott has been given until Feb. 5 by the New York Boxing commission to sign a contract to defend his title. The New York commission suggested that Ezzard Charles, from whom Walcott has won the championship, should have first crack in a rematch bout.

Bonus Boy Plans — Comeback At 'Ripe' 18

MARION, N.C. (AP) — A Marion restaurant owner with a left arm worth in excess of $100,000 is planning a baseball "comeback" at the ripe old age of 18.

Billy Joe Davidson, the husky southpaw who signed eight months ago with the Cleveland Indians for a bonus reported at between $100,000 and $120,000, says he has his fast ball hopping again and is ready to go.

At the time the big fellow signed, Hank Greenberg, Cleveland general manager, who flew to North Carolina from Cleveland for the big event, said it was "the Bob Feller story all over." He predicted big things for the strapping southpaw whose teenage pitching feats had become a Tar Heel legend.

But things didn't work out quite that way last year.

The Indians sent Billy Joe to their Class B Cedar Rapids farm team of the Three-I league in June and he didn't burn up the league. After a few weeks of trying to find his control and get into playing shape he left Cedar Rapids with a 1-4 record for Class C company at Ft. Smith, Ark., of the Western association.

There was the usual talk of a sore arm and another parade of "bonus baby busts."

Actually, Davidson said, "I just wasn't in shape." He'd pitched very little last spring before signing with Cleveland and was not in top condition. He was ineligible for junior college conference competition with the Oak Ridge (N.C.) Military institute team for which he starred the two previous seasons.

Thus, he was well behind his Cedar Rapids mates in conditioning when he joined them.

Cleveland has ordered him to report to Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 20 for some preliminary training. Actually, he's on the roster of the Indianapolis American association farm of the parent Indians and may train with the Triple-A club later on.
