Vote Revaluation Of City Real Estate

New Powers Asked For Cleanup Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Truman, countering charges that his clean-up-the-government program is really a "whitewash," asked congress Thursday to give cleanup chief Newbold Morris the power to subpoena witnesses and records from outside the government.

Mr. Truman's government housecleaning program shared interest with his political plans at the news conference although he sought to head off political questions - and also to disavow the predictions that various persons have made after talking with him in his office.

Asks Congressional Action The President announced at the outset that he was asking congress to vote subpoena powers for Morris - who has said he doesn't want them - so that the New York Republican lawyer can make a thorough search for any "illegal or improper conduct in the transaction of government business."

And he declared that Morris will get all the funds and all the government cooperation he needs for a thorough investigation.

The President quickly followed through with a special message asking congress to give Morris for the rest of this year "the power to compel the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documentary evidence, and the authority to administer oaths."

This authority is needed, the President said, because much of the evidence needed to prove misconduct by a government employee must come from outside the government, and only congress can grant the power to require such evidence to be produced.

Denies 'Whitewash' Charge Mr. Truman told a reporter his action would answer newspapers' charges that he was "whitewashing" the government.

Truman 'Undecided' On Political Plans WASHINGTON (AP) - President Truman, in an apparent turnabout, said in effect Thursday that he hasn't made up his mind whether to run for another term, and he declared: "It is a difficult decision for me to make."

Nearly a year ago, on March 29, 1951, Truman had said he knew what he was going to do about running for reelection, but would not say what decision he had reached. He has since repeatedly told his news conferences essentially the same thing.

But Thursday he clearly indicated to reporters that he still doesn't know himself the answer to the big question.

Truman also sought to discourage newsmen from taking too much stock in what visitors to the White House say about his plans. Some of them have carried out widely varying impressions.

"Well," Truman said, "you know everybody is entitled to have his say when he comes out of the President's office, but I want to tell you fellows that whenever I get ready to make an announcement I will make it to you."

"It won't be through a third person."

which have charged - as many Republican members of congress also have done - that the clean-up program actually is an attempt to "whitewash" the administration.

Chicago Calls for New Commissioner To Fight Crime

CHICAGO (AP) - Five aldermen Thursday called for a new police commissioner "of outstanding national reputation" to fight organized crime in Chicago.

The plea was made at a special session of the city council called to consider the implications of the shotgun slaying, nine days ago, of Charles Gross, 56, acting Republican committeeman of the 31st ward.

The aldermen approved an ordinance which: 1. Set up a nine-man committee with power of subpoena to investigate the Charles Gross slaying Feb. 6. Gross was believed slain for not heeding hoodlum warnings to get out of politics.

2. The special committee also will study the recommendation that a new police commissioner "of outstanding national reputation" be named to head Chicago's police.

3. Revived a 16-months old resolution calling for a federal grand jury investigation of the slayings of former police Lt. William J. Drury and Attorney Marvin Bas on Sept. 25, 1950. Alderman Nicholas J. Bohling, who originally introduced the resolution, said the two were slain because they were to give information on organized crime to a senate committee.

The Chicago police department has reported no progress in its investigation of the killing of Gross.

1st Issue of New Humor Magazine Set for March

Students in SUI's school of journalism are preparing a new humor magazine, the first issue scheduled to appear late in March.

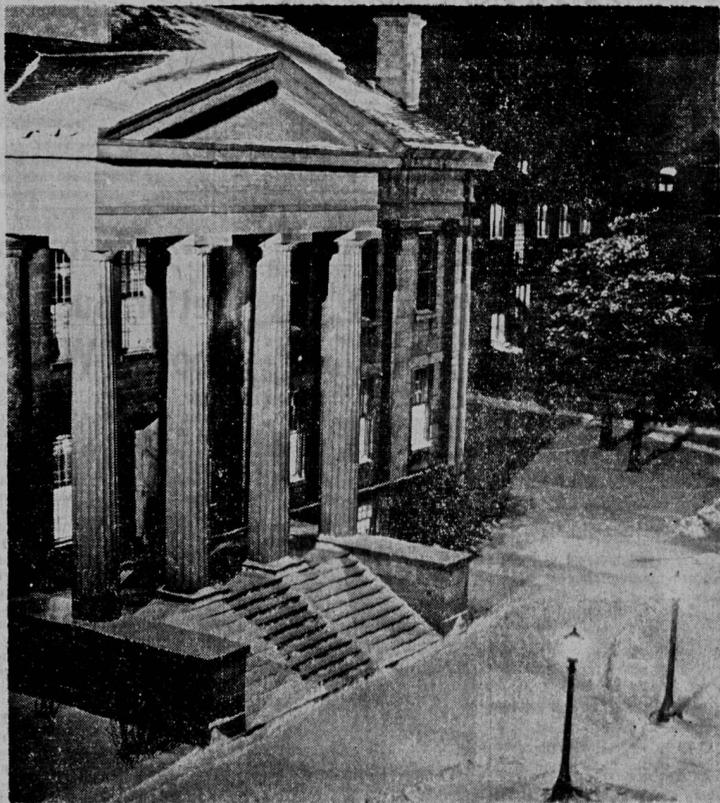

Sponsored and supported by the Student Board of Publications, the magazine will be tabloid size selling for 10 cents a copy. Students enrolled in a newly-organized "Magazine Laboratory" class will produce the magazine, staff members being chosen from the class enrollment. Contributions will be welcomed.

Dean Norman, A3, Cedar Rapids, has been chosen editor; Helen Ann Rohrer, G, Oxford, managing editor, and Jim Bowermaster, A3, Fairfield, business manager.

The tentative working title, "Platyphus," has been suggested. Other titles under consideration are "Spook," "The Riparian," "Talon," and "Scream."

The magazine plans to use much photo work, Norman indicated, but the major focus would be on humor. He declared that he did not intend to follow any set pattern in the production of the magazine.

It announced that its "77 cent burger, including french fries, cole slaw and other trimmings," will be served "absolutely free to the public" from 6 a.m. today until 2 a.m. Saturday.

Old Capitol Dressed in White Again

STREET LIGHTS AND NEW SNOW are reflected against Old Capitol as winter ended the preview of spring enjoyed in Iowa City earlier this week. Students pulled on their boots and turned their collars up a little higher, Thursday, while motorists slowed up for snow packed streets and slippery hills.

Prison Camp Inspection 8-Inch Snow Here Is Approved by Reds

MUNSAN, Korea (FRIDAY) (AP) - Communist staff officers, Thursday agreed to United Nations terms permitting joint Red Cross teams to visit prison camps and assist in prisoner exchange after a Korean armistice.

The Reds capitulated on this Allied point in submitting a new plan for exchanging prisoners. But they still balked at the major issue - voluntary repatriation.

The Communists continued to demand that both sides release and repatriate all prisoners within 60 days after a truce becomes effective - forcibly if necessary. The Allies have insisted that prisoners be given the right to reject repatriation.

The main armistice delegations will resume their plenary session Saturday on recommendations to governments, following the return of Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy from Tokyo.

The senior UN truce delegate conferred Thursday with Gen. John E. Hull, army vice chief of staff; U. Alexis Johnson, deputy assistant secretary of state for the Far East, and Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander.

Large Red Attack Shattered by Allies

SEOUL (FRIDAY) (AP) - The Communists Thursday night broke the quiet of the Korean battle-lines with a 1,100-man attack that was shattered by a storm of Allied fire on the eastern front.

It was the largest Communist attack in four weeks or more. The struggle in the east raged in Mundung valley for an hour. One Allied unit was almost surrounded. It hurried back the Reds without a casualty of its own.

8-Inch Snow Here Is High for State

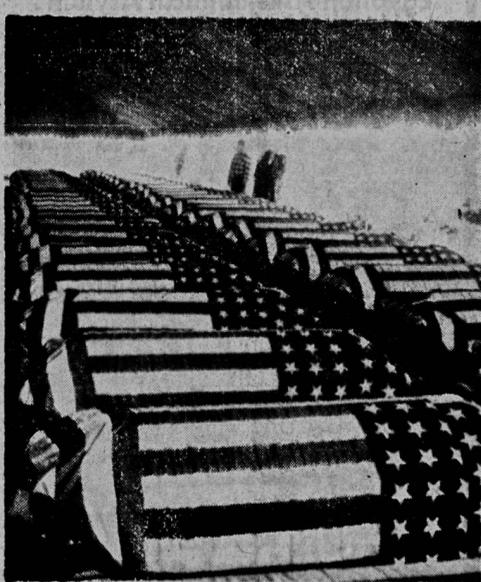

Iowa City settled down to a normal wintery pattern Thursday, after an unexpected storm dumped 8 inches of snow in this area, the most in the state.

Early this morning, the snow had faded to a drizzle, and the CAA weather station here said it would end later this morning. The early spring weather ended late Wednesday and by midnight 4 inches of snow had fallen. Four more inches fell Thursday.

Streets and highways in the area remained hazardous this morning, even though city, county and state road crews had worked throughout Thursday.

The snowstorm hit most of southern Iowa, but only in this section of the state did most streets and highways remain slippery.

Mass Rites for Massacre Victims

FLAG-DRAPED CASKETS of 123 American service men were lined up for mass burial at Jefferson Barracks, (Mo.) national cemetery Thursday. The men were victims of a Japanese prisoner of war massacre in the Philippines in December, 1944. More than 300 relatives from 40 states, the Philippines and Hawaii attended the military services preceding the burial.

Windsor Burial Planned Today For Monarch

LONDON (AP) - Britain buries George VI at Windsor castle today with the trappings and words of ancient ritual climaxing 10 days of mourning since the monarch's death.

The last somber journey from London to the old seat of Britain's kings was set to begin from Westminster hall at 9:30 a.m. London time (3:30 a.m. Iowa time), only a few hours after the great iron-studded doors shut on the public lying-in-state of the dead sovereign.

Up to midnight, 283,394 persons had filed past the purple-covered catafalque which for three days has held aloft for public homage the closed coffin with the body of "George the Good."

Queen Pays Homage The reigning Queen Elizabeth II, unnoticed by the thousands streaming in homage past the bier, stood silently for 10 minutes obscured in a shadowy doorway of the great hall Thursday night, joining in the people's reverent farewell to her father.

Shortly before midnight, the widowed Queen Mother Elizabeth also visited Westminster hall on a pilgrimage of sorrow.

Thousands to View Procession Throughout the city, thousands of people, talking in whispers, moved about. Others squatted in doorways and under trees for shelter from the rain and the wind, to hold their vantage points for the London procession from the hall to Paddington railway station for the train journey taking the king's body 21 1/2 miles west to Windsor.

Other thousands are expected to line the narrow road from the railway to the castle to watch the king's last journey.

Inside St. George's chapel, a vault before the altar will receive the coffin as the Anglican prayer of committal is intoned.

Council Designates April 2 for Annual All-Campus Elections

The student council Thursday night set April 2 as the date for the annual all-campus elections. Ralph Cocksfoot, A4, Atlantic, was named to head a committee to draw up rules and regulations to present at the next council meeting Feb. 28.

His committee will consist of representatives of campus groups participating in the elections.

In other action, Carl Zimmerman, A2, Waterloo, chairman of the student book exchange reported that the exchange had taken in $3,725 and had paid out $3,000 during its operation the past two weeks.

He said that $375 must still be paid out and that 125 books have not yet been picked up by students. Zimmerman's figures were preliminary.

The council also Thursday night: 1. Heard a report from Peter Van Oosterhout, A3, Orange City, that casting for the 1952 Panacea was nearly complete. He said settings have been finished and practice will begin Monday. The show will run from March 19-22.

2. Voted $376 for use in establishing an international student house, where foreign students may gather. Jim Turk, A3, Waukegan, Ill., was named chairman of a committee in charge of the house.

3 Taxing Bodies Agree After Month-Long Probe

By JOE MEYER

Iowa City's three taxing bodies voted unanimously Thursday night to have real estate property here revalued by an outside firm of appraisal engineers.

This was the recommendation of a local five-member investigating committee that has spent the past month surveying tax conditions in the city.

Ends 17 Year Fight The action by the school board, city council and county board of supervisors marked the end of a 17-year fight for better tax conditions by a local woman real estate dealer.

The appointment of the tax investigating committee by Mayor Holland on Jan. 10 was the result of a report filed with these taxing bodies in November by Della A. Grizel, 1530 Sheridan ave.

The committee, headed by Mrs. George Horner, told the taxing groups that it had solicited the advice of Prof. Robert H. Johnson of the SUI economics department, the Iowa City real estate board and George Cosson, head of the state property tax division.

Obsolete Records Revealed They said that their investigation had revealed the presence of obsolete records in the city assessor's office and definite inequities in the property tax assessments.

Individual investigators said that they had made personal inquiries of property owners concerning the advisability of revaluation and had been unable to find anyone opposed to the proposal.

The investigating committee will remain intact to assist City Assessor Victor J. Belger in preparing the necessary specifications to be forwarded to appraisal firms who will be requested to submit estimates on the work.

Discuss County Revaluations The taxing bodies discussed the possibility of having a revaluation of all county real estate. But two members of the county board of supervisors, Marvin Stahle and J. E. Pechman, said that they felt the mayors of other towns in Johnson county would have to be consulted on such a proposal.

Mayor William J. Holland, presiding officer of the joint meeting, advised the group to include in their specifications for the appraisal firms a clause stipulating that money for the revaluation project would not be available until next year.

Mayor Holland said that he would call another joint meeting of the taxing bodies after cost estimates have been received from the appraisal firms and at that meeting a firm would be designated to do the work.

More Help Approved The taxing bodies approved a recommendation by the state tax commission to provide more permanent help in the city assessor's office. The recommendation was made because the committee said it believed that the greatest fault in the local tax setup was a failure to keep records properly.

Miss Grizel, who had spent 17 years compiling data on tax assessments in Iowa City, called the system "unfair" and inequitable in her report.

She said that the present situation was due to the fact that Iowa City continued to use a type of assessment system that had been discarded in most taxing districts 20 years ago.

The summation of her report said, "In my opinion, Iowa City's 1949 quadrennial real estate assessment was unfair to hundreds of local taxpayers because it was not made in accordance with the laws as written into our statute books and as interpreted by our courts."

Evidence of Inequalities Representatives of the state tax commission, meeting here with the investigating committee last week, said that they had found evidence of inequalities in assessments here and that the system was not up to minimum standards.

They also told the committee that if the same procedure was followed here in 1953 as in the past that the commission would consider ordering a revaluation.

At the conclusion of Thursday night's meeting Miss Grizel made this statement, "The investigating committee has done a thorough job. The final action of these groups is ample proof that the projects of average citizens will result in greater civic improvement. I am more than pleased with the final results of this investigation."

Department Decides To Continue Classes Of Prof. John Briggs

Classes of the late Prof. John E. Briggs will be distributed among members of the political science staff.

The decision to continue the classes under other members of the department rather than to close them was announced Wednesday by Prof. Kirk H. Porter, head of the political science department.

A visiting professor from Ohio State university, Francis R. Aumann, will conduct the class, "American Political Ideas." Prof. Vernon Van Dyke will take over another one of the classes, "The Foreign Service."

Prof. Russell M. Ross has already assumed direction of the graduate course, "Men and Materials," while Porter will direct thesis work of all graduate students formerly under Prof. Briggs.

No additional instructors will be hired this semester.

Prof. Briggs, a member of the political science department since 1916 and associated with SUI since 1914, died last Saturday afternoon, following a heart attack at his home at 336 Beldon ave.

Local Demos Select Convention Delegates

Government at the grass roots got under way locally Thursday night when Johnson county Democrats met in party caucus in the court house and selected 318 delegates for the county conventions, March 24 and June 27.

Although snowpacked roads prevented many rural Democrats from attending, more than 100 persons, including a sprinkling of SUI students, turned out for the first party caucus to be held this year.

In all 318 delegates will be sent to the county presidential convention in March and to the regular county convention in June.

Because delegates to those conventions are selected on the basis of one delegate for every 25 votes cast for Lester Gillette in the 1950 election, the 318 delegates will have 1/2 vote each.

Does Our Youth Know True Democracy?

Apparently many of our American liberties which most of us seem to prize so dearly are not considered particularly important by a cross section of high school students.

A recent Purdue university survey of 15,000 high school seniors showed a surprising and almost frightening disregard for the American way. For instance, only 45 per cent of those questioned thought the press should be free to print anything other than military secrets.

Others believed that brutality by police was entirely justified. Still others considered many other liberties we tend to take for granted but which are being constantly challenged by external and internal forces as either unimportant or unnecessary.

If ever there was a time for a consolidated effort to preserve our way of life this is it. We, with a few other nations, stand on the side of freedom with enough physical strength to back up our convictions.

There are too many forces working against us passively and actively not to have solidarity among ourselves. If the youth of our country isn't so ingrained with a belief in a democracy that it will do almost anything to protect it then the future is indeed bleak.

Most young people in this country will say that they oppose communism. They are probably sincere in that statement. But by the indifference these people seem to show for many of our institutions, they are working for a radical governmental change just as surely as if they were demonstrating with Communist banners at the intersection of Washington and Dubuque sts.

Admittedly the present youth of our country has been raised in a difficult period. The difficulty hasn't by any means passed. Rather we are in the midst of it. Young people of today have known little else but war or a threat of war.

They have been raised in a period of limitation and semiprivation. They have lived in a period where the tremendous burden of armament and defense has called for increasingly great taxes with subsequent complaints against the government and the way it is run. There have also been the scandals which haven't contributed to the faith of citizens.

It is also certainly true that youngsters have lived in an era of disillusionment and cynicism. These attitudes have apparently been transferred to their conception of government and the whole democratic system if the results of the above mentioned survey are valid.

Our government and even our way of life is not perfect. Only a fool would say it was. There is too much evidence and personal experience of graft, corruption, insincerity, and lack of good judgment on the part of officials to say that our union is perfect.

Minority groups are still being discriminated against and there are many other injustices and imperfections in our society. Yet the fact remains, at least in our way of thinking, that no other way of life, whether in use or proposed, has so much to offer in the way of personal dignity and opportunity. No other system can match our economic well-being or production capacity and potential. We think our country is great and we want the next generation now approaching adulthood to feel the same way. We want them to feel so strongly this way that they will make it a primary goal to maintain our country and improve it.

Everything said in this editorial has been said thousands of times before. But we think that it is so important that it bears repeating another thousand times.

Armless Man Denies Charge of Forging Tax Refund Check

CHICAGO (AP)—An armless man was charged with forgery Thursday.

Clifford J. Blount, 49, Negro, surrendered to secret service agents Thursday morning and was charged with forging an endorsement to a government income tax refund check.

Blount, who denied the charge, was released on $500 bond and the case was continued to Feb. 19. He has a hook attached to the stump of his right arm and only several inches remain on his left. He said he lost his arms in an accident.

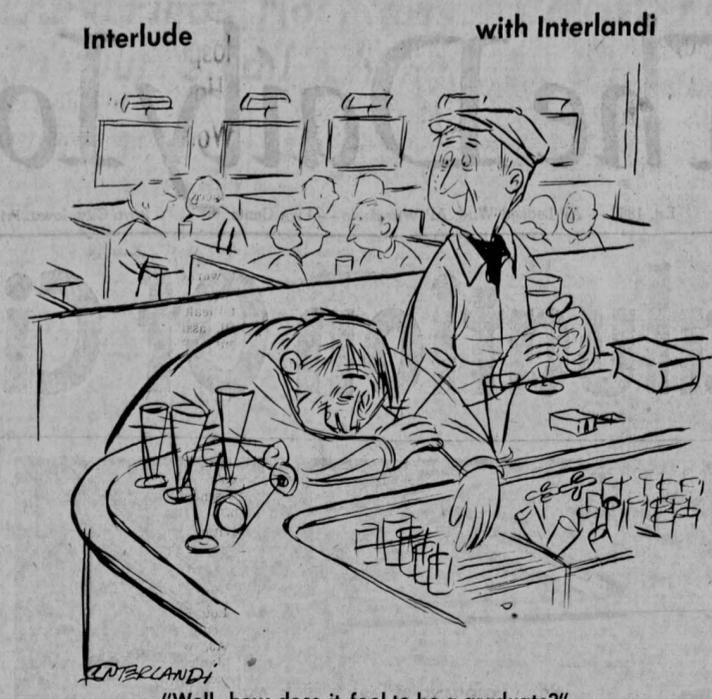

At the secret service office, Blount grasped a fountain pen in the hook and demonstrated how he writes his name.

Blount said he is a certified public accountant.

Harry Anheier, head of the secret service in Chicago, said Blount assisted persons in filling out income tax returns and arranged to have refund checks sent to the taxpayer at Blount's address. Anheier said Blount forged an endorsement on a check sent to J. J. Mason, 33, a wounded Korean war veteran, and his wife, Coraleen, as a refund on their joint income tax payment for 1950. Anheier said the check was for slightly less than $50.

Without Funds, Council Plans Defense of Johnson County

By DON MAPES

The Johnson county civil defense council is busy making sure that Iowa City and Johnson county won't be caught unprepared in case of enemy attack.

The council is set up to work with state and national civil defense organization in a coordinated effort designed to give aid to disaster areas in the event of enemy attack.

Thus far civil defense has no funds with which to operate on the county level. This places definite limitations on the organization's activities.

Even writing paper and stamps used in correspondence must be paid out of the council member's pocket.

'Like Insurance' William Tucker, chairman of the Johnson county council, regrets that the public doesn't take civil defense more seriously. He feels civil defense "is much like insurance. It's protection and you'll buy it if you believe in it," Tucker believes in it.

Despite the lack of funds, the council has already taken a big step toward assuring local defense.

Information on all trucks in the county is being collected. Owner's name and residence, make, model and year of each truck is recorded in an effort to have such information at civil defense fingertips in case of an emergency need, for transportation.

Emergency Living Quarters Churches, public schools, university buildings, fraternities, sororities and the Elks club can provide emergency living quarters for an estimated 3,685 persons.

The feeding rate of the county's eating establishments has been estimated at 10,786 per hour. The Red Cross, working with the council, has names and qualifications of all doctors and nurses, both those in practice and those who have practiced in the past.

In addition, the Red Cross is

Bettor Sues Bookie, Wins

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—The book-making fraternity—jockeyed from pillar to post time by the federal tax law—got another jolt Thursday.

A bettor sued the man he called his bookie for lost wagers and won.

The bettor, John Zabady of Caldwell, a convicted embezzler, was declared the winner in his unusual civil suit to recover $9,740 in bum bets from Paul Spitz of Paterson.

Zabady—serving 18 months for embezzling $19,299 from St. Barnabas' hospital where he was employed—claimed he lost the money betting on the nags, part of it with Spitz.

Zabady's attorney, Cuddie E. Davidson Jr., said that the suit was brought under an 1877 New Jersey statute based on Old English law.

The statute provides, Davidson said, that any person losing money in bets in violation of the state's gaming laws may sue to recover the money from the winner.

Canadian-Built Jets To Strengthen NATO WASHINGTON (AP)—Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter Wednesday announced a three-nation agreement under which Canada will build Sabre jet fighters equipped with U.S. engines to be flown by pilots of the British royal air force.

Finletter said the planes will be used to strengthen the North Atlantic Treaty forces commanded by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Up to this time, he said, Canada and the United States have been the only countries to use the Sabre jet.

By CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON—The romantic and adventuresome days of the hard pioneers who staked out the claim for a piece of undeveloped land and then moved in to work and cultivate it aren't gone; not quite anyway.

There are still something like 180 million acres of vacant, or public domain, land left in the United States, along with 290 million acres in Alaska, and the government is frankly anxious to have the citizenry know about it so that it can be leased or sold.

Acting as the federal government's "real estate" agent is the bureau of land management, which operates as a unit of the department of the interior.

Any American citizen over 21 or head of a family can acquire a small tract, which is a parcel of surveyed public land not exceeding 1/4 acre. These lots are classified for home, cabin, camp, health, convalescent, recreational or business use.

Yearly Rent Usually $5 The nonbusiness tracts are usually leased for a three to five-year period at a flat rental of $5 per year. In most cases, there is an option to purchase at the end of the first year. Prices may vary anywhere from $10 to several hundred dollars.

Availability of tracts is limited to the public domain states. This automatically excludes Texas, which retained her public lands when she joined the union, and the territory of the original 13 states. The small tracts act, passed in 1938, applies mostly to states in the west, midwest and south.

These include Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, California, Montana, Wyoming, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Utah, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma. East of the Mississippi are Wisconsin, Even writing paper and stamps used in correspondence must be paid out of the council member's pocket.

'Like Insurance' William Tucker, chairman of the Johnson county council, regrets that the public doesn't take civil defense more seriously. He feels civil defense "is much like insurance. It's protection and you'll buy it if you believe in it," Tucker believes in it.

Despite the lack of funds, the council has already taken a big step toward assuring local defense.

Information on all trucks in the county is being collected. Owner's name and residence, make, model and year of each truck is recorded in an effort to have such information at civil defense fingertips in case of an emergency need, for transportation.

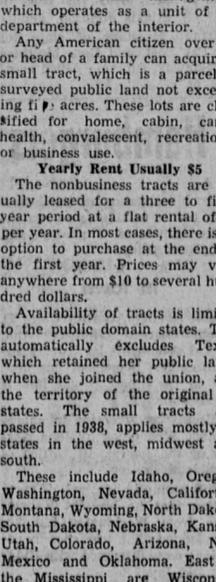

Emergency Living Quarters Churches, public schools, university buildings, fraternities, sororities and the Elks club can provide emergency living quarters for an estimated 3,685 persons.

The feeding rate of the county's eating establishments has been estimated at 10,786 per hour. The Red Cross, working with the council, has names and qualifications of all doctors and nurses, both those in practice and those who have practiced in the past.

Egyptian Asks Political Asylum

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mohammed Ali Nassef, former press attache of the Egyptian embassy in Washington, is shown with his wife as he announced he is seeking political asylum in the United States. He said he and his wife will offer their three children for adoption rather than return to the "tyranny" of Egypt. "I employed my constitutional right to speak up against something I thought was wrong in the embassy's affairs," he said. His pay was stopped Jan. 15 and he has been reduced to selling personal belongings for money, to buy food. His wife is expecting another child.

Interpreting the News — Setbacks to the Kremlin Outnumber Its Victories

By J. M. ROBERTS JR. Associated Press News Analyst

You hear a lot these days about the victories that Soviet Russia has won since the war.

Allied victories, because they are defensive, attract less attention.

The small sputtering-out of Communist-led strikes in Italy and France this week serve, however, to remind of the vast progress made by the free countries, too.

When you actually boil it down, communism has won only one major victory. In China. Elsewhere she has merely consolidated a sphere which was virtually handed her on a silver platter at Yalta because Allied officials had not yet realized how cynically circumventing the Kremlin could be.

Forced from Iran

The war was hardly over when Russia tried to take over Iran. The free nations stood up against her, and she was forced to retire from that position. Czechoslovakia was a borderline case in which the fumbling Allies put up no real resistance. The Czechs had signed their own death warrant during the war with a treaty of cooperation, without realizing that their part of cooperation would be to lie down and be eaten.

Communism was in a fair way to take over internally in France and Italy. America went to their aid financially, and in Italy helped pull about the only really good job of shifty policies the U.S. has ever staged abroad. In those days the Communists could just about close down France and Italy at will. Now they represent merely a lunatic fringe.

Russia mapped out a careful campaign to win Greece by a war which could not be traced directly to the Kremlin. It failed in the face of American aid.

Turks Stood Firm Russia made some passes at Turkey, but the Turks stood firm, with the backing of Allied power, and the Kremlin backed down again.

The great Russian propaganda machine kept at it busily, but imperialistic communism has lost ground steadily, being completely without success except where its desires could be enforced by armies. There have been no ideological victories for the Kremlin.

And finally the armies were checked, too. Two American battalions and a few airplanes set the stage for real resistance in Korea, and South Korea has not fallen.

Finland Almost Fell

Finland was caught in an exposed position and nearly went by the boards. But Russia had the stage in Czechoslovakia for her greatest disaster—the organization of the West for defense. She chose not to multiply the mistake in Finland.

She tried to choke the Allies of Berlin, and fought them for leadership in Western Germany. She met a solid and unyielding wall of resistance.

Russia created her own enemies out of nations who at war's end were eager to cooperate with her for her own and the world's advantage. By her very actions she molded them into a ring of steel encirclement, the very thing she had always feared the most.

There is less chance that Russia can take over the world now than at any time since she decided to try it.

Plenty of Room for Modern Dan'l Boones

Michigan, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. In Iowa, Too

There is public land too in the tier states lying immediately west of the Mississippi—Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana. The small tracts act was extended to Alaska in 1945.

There are two ways to acquire one of those parcels of land which are never available in national forests, national parks and monuments, military reserves, etc. Either the government has already surveyed and classified the land, in which case all you have to do is apply to the local land office and send along a $10 filing fee; or else, if you know a tract that appeals to you, furnish a description of it to the land office and it will be classified in due time.

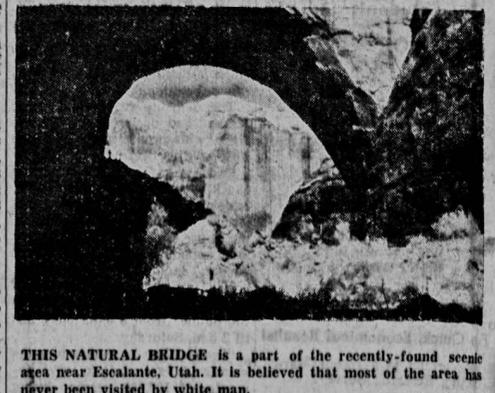

The bureau of land management receives something like 5,000 inquiries a week from prospective settlers, with many eyeing Alaska. The government will not provide any utilities, but most of the sites classified for residential or business use are located near cities anyway. You are free to use the water on the land and the timber obtained from clearing operations.

Sites Ideal for "Roughing" The hunter and fisherman should be particularly intrigued by what the government has to offer. In Idaho, Washington and Oregon there are a number of ideal sites for log cabins where one could really "rough" it; boating, hiking, hunting and fishing to one's heart's content.

Utah and Colorado offer some fine and scenic areas in the public domain, and quite a few acres remain in Florida. Alaska offers many suitable places on lakes and streams, some far from civilization and not approachable by conventional means.

Scenic Archland Found in Utah Wilderness

THIS NATURAL BRIDGE is a part of the recently-found scenic area near Escalante, Utah. It is believed that most of the area has never been visited by white man.

County Red Cross Prepares to Open Rural Drive Monday

Preparations for the Johnson county chapter of the American Red Cross annual fund drive are now under way. The rural section of this campaign will begin Monday, while the SUI and city drive will start March 3 and continue through March.

Thursday afternoon several members of SUI's Red Cross unit stuffed envelopes to be used in the campaign. These envelopes contained pledge cards and lapel buttons to be distributed by solicitors.

Township chairmen of the rural drive will meet at 2:30 p.m. Monday to pick up supplies and instructions about soliciting.

Otis Walker is chairman of the Johnson county fund campaign.

New Resuscitation Methods To Be Shown at Clinic

A clinic on artificial respiration will be held at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 23, in the field house swimming pool. James Counsilman, Red Cross first aid chairman for Johnson county, announced Thursday.

The back pressure-arm lift method of artificial respiration is now being used by the National Red Cross, the Boy Scouts, the YMCA and many other organizations in place of the Schaefer prone pressure method.

The advantage of the back pressure-arm lift method is the higher ventilation rate achieved, Counsilman said.

This method differs from the Schaefer prone pressure method in that the operator kneels at the head of the victim and applies pressure on the shoulder blades rather than straddling the legs of the victim and applying pressure at the rib cage.

Other methods of resuscitation approved by the Red Cross involving the use of apparatus will be demonstrated by members of the Iowa City fire department. Anyone interested is encouraged to attend the clinic. There will be no charge.

It is especially important that any persons who are qualified Red Cross life savers or first aiders become acquainted with the new back pressure-arm lift method of resuscitation.

Anglo-U.S. Teamwork Peace Key, Says Barff

The only way for America to win the cold war with Russia is to cooperate with Great Britain. This was the opinion of Stafford Barff, director of the midwestern office of the British Information Service, who spoke Thursday at an SUI Information First lecture in Old Capitol.

Speaking on "British-American Relations," Barff said that although the relationship between America and Britain has grown worse during the last years, a definite change for the better is taking place.

That is due, he said, to a change of government and increased rearmament in Britain, and the effect of Churchill's visit to this country.

"Britain is something to be reckoned with," Barff said. "With a million men under arms, troops in 19 different areas around the world, and an airforce which is one of the most powerful and up-to-date in the world, the combined power of our two countries guarantees that Communism will never dominate the world."

Just when the standard of living in Britain was showing signs of improvement (before 1950, the standard of living in Britain was lower than the German standard of living), rearmament increased the burden on British economy, he said.

Those who had waited for three years to get a car in 1952 would have to wait three more years. Imports had to be limited to essential war materials and to sufficient food stuffs to keep the country "ticking over."

The Russians are subtle, clever and patient in their methods to achieve world dominance, he stated. In Berlin last October, the Communists made the statement, sanctioned by Joseph Stalin, that they were going to use any and all methods to divide and "bedevil" the U.S. and Britain.

"The United States and Britain will always continue to have different methods in reaching common objectives," Barff said.

"But minor squabbles, minor criticisms, if they don't go too deep, are healthy. However, if they get out of hand, and if either country disputes the integrity of the other, that can lead to a real disruption. That will be the beginning of the end," he said.

Don't sell the little one short

THEY'RE both good basketball players. But if we were to judge them the way we judge telephone equipment, we'd take the small one.

You see, telephone equipment occupies valuable space, uses costly materials. Paring down its size helps keep down the cost of telephone service. Take voice amplifiers, for example. Telephone engineers put the squeeze on size, came up with a new small type. When 600 of these new amplifiers are mounted on a frame two feet wide and eleven feet high, they do a job which once required a roomful of equipment. Size was cut—but not performance!

This is one of many cases where the Bell System has made big things small to help keep the cost of telephone service low.

CHUCK EARNS TRIBUTES

Chuck Darling will receive many honors and awards at the end of the basketball season, but none will equal the tribute he earned during last weekend's games against Illinois and Michigan.

In the contest with the Illini, Chuck was matched against two very good centers, one a really tough man defensively and the other one of the sharpest shooters in the conference.

His record was amazing. He outscored the two combined, 26-24. He played the entire last half with four fouls on him, as the two opponents fouled out. He took a large share of Iowa's rebounds off the boards, the "enemies" got a total of five.

Against Michigan, Darling got off to a slow start, making only four points in the first quarter. He warmed up to the basket in the second quarter, and put on an exhibition in the third that few have seen before.

He shot from all angles, using beautiful fakes to score on seven of his nine shots, and finished out the period with 14 points. The fourteenth point broke the school's season record established by our last all-American, Murray Wier, of 399 points, and in three less games than the red head played.

Charlie left the game with six minutes remaining and the crowd shouting, "No, no!" He had 29 points, which gave him an average of 30.2 for the last five games. He's threatening another record now, the conference mark also set by Wier.

Incidentally, the tall one from Denver has had one of his own records broken. As a two-year all-stater in Denver's South high school he set a record that figured to stand for years, but reports from the mile high city say that an even taller boy has broken them, and in two less games.

Records are made to be broken, and, like points and rebounds, Chuck Darling will get more than his share.

One of the most important facets of a tip-in artist like Darling is the acquisition of "soft" hands, meaning the touch to control the ball once the man gets that high.

Soft hands are the dilemma of all big centers, and can be developed only through an incredible amount of practice. Add that to hours of rope-skipping, exercise and scrimmage, and you'll know how richly Darling deserves every post season honor he gets.

SOME AREN'T SO POST

Speaking of postseason honors, some of them aren't post. Because of publication difficulties, balloting for the mythical all-American teams is sometimes done around the half-way mark in the season.

For example, we have been privileged with a vote on Look magazine's dream team, as have sports writers and editors all around the country. The fallacy that arises is illustrated by Look's setup.

The deadline for voting was Feb. 8. Many of the 36 sports writers who attended the Iowa-Illinois game on Feb. 9 had not had a chance to see Chuck Darling before that, and it is fairly certain that all there would pick him after that game.

The same magazine ran into difficulty last fall when it picked a man for the all-America football team — and he was dead before the magazine came out.

If Darling doesn't make some of the all-America teams, that necessary setup may be the cause.

POSTAL POT LUCK

It's a well established fact that students and others in a Big Ten town know athletics forward and backward. On street corners there is a lot of talk, as well as in dorms, fraternity and sorority houses. Sound ideas come from such discussions as those.

If you have anything pertinent to say about anything in the realm of sports, put it in a letter or on a post card and send it to this department. Then, when the mail warrants it, this space will be reserved for comment on the thoughts you send.

Lew Worsham's 63 Leads Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Lew Worsham came in late with the least Thursday to lead the $10,000 Texas Open first round with an eight under par 63, after a bristling 64 by the comparatively unknown Walter Romans of Baltimore had topped the par-blasting field most of the day.

Seventy of the field of 169 smushed par over the dusty 6,400-yard Brackenridge Park course. It was the greatest day of clipping regulation figures in the 22 years of the tournament.

U.S. Housewife Wins Olympic Ski Crown

Gets 1st Medal In Games; U.S. Has Early Lead

OSLO (AP) — America's 19-year-old wizard of the flashing skis, Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence, sped to victory in the women's giant slalom race Thursday to send the United States off to a roaring start in the sixth winter Olympic games.

The lean young housewife from Rutland, Vt., streaked down Norway's twisting, hazardous 1,640 yard precipice in two minutes and 6.8 seconds to outclass 44 of the world's finest feminine skiers from 15 countries.

Best American Showing It was the first gold medal of these famous snow and ice games and it topped off America's greatest Olympic ski showing in history.

Katy Rodolph, a 21-year-old beauty from Denver university, was fifth in the final official ratings and Jeannette Burr of Seattle, Wash., one of the advance favorites, was 20th.

Dagmar Rom, a comely 23-year-old movie actress from Innsbruck, Austria, was second in 2:09.

On another sleek-coated hillside near here, America's daring two-man bobsledders ranked second to Germany's favored world champions after the first two heats of a four-heat championship.

Sledders Finish Today The final two heats are scheduled today, along with the men's giant slalom ski race and four hockey games, but there appears little hope of catching Germany's great sledder, Andreas Ostler.

Ostler and his brakeman, Lorenz Nieberl, streaked down the 1,500-meter (metric mile) Frogerstereen bobsled run in one minute, 20.76 seconds on the first trip and 1:21.64 on the second to hang up a half-way total of 2:42.40.

The United States No. 1 sled of Stan Benham of Lake Placid, N.Y., and Pat Martin of Massena, N.Y., was second with a total time of 2:44.15, representing runs of 1:22.03 and 1:22.12.

With only one event completed, the United States led in points on the traditional 10-5-4-3-2-1 basis with 12, against eight for Austria, five for Germany and one for Norway.

City High, Clinton To Furnish Point Battle by Centers

By TOM KLECKA City high's top point producer, Jim Freeman, will face his rival for second place Mississippi conference scoring honors tonight when the Little Hawks meet Clinton in the City high gymnasium.

Opposing 6 foot 2 inch Freeman in the center spot will be Clinton's Charles Vogt. Both boys have so far collected 129 points in conference play.

Coach Howard Moffitt Thursday night expressed a lot of confidence in Freeman's shooting and rebound work. With the big center in good form, Moffitt felt his squad's chances for a victory would be better than average. "He's a fast boy, moves around very well," he declared.

Freeman's hottest nights so far have been against McKinley of Cedar Rapids, 29 points; Waterloo, 28, and Anamosa, 25.

Don Brennan, probable starting forward in tonight's contest, trails Freeman's output with a total of 62 points. Along with Freeman and Brennan, Moffitt indicated that forward Andrews and guards Ellis Kondora and John White would be first on the court for City high.

The Little Hawks have won four and lost five in conference play and own an eight-six record for the season. Clinton has lost only two games, both of them to first-place Davenport.

Even though Moffitt's boys have taken a loss from the down-river opponent, 66-36, the coach thinks "we've got a pretty good chance."

"We've been improving and playing better as a team," he pointed out. "We play much better on our own floor. We'll fast-break against Clinton, a mighty fast-opening team itself, and if we get stuck we can revert to working patterns."

Such Form Deserves a Medal

ANDREA MEAD LAWRENCE, who received the first gold medal presented in the 1952 winter Olympics, exhibits the style that enabled her to defeat 44 of the best women skiers in the world Thursday at Norefjell, Norway. Only 19 years old, Mrs. Lawrence put the U.S. off front in the team standings with her victory.

Iowa Track Chances Brighten As Badgers Withhold 2 Stars

By LEE CANNING

Iowa's chances for a victory against Wisconsin in Saturday's dual track meet improved considerably Thursday with the news from Madison that the Badgers' best two-mile and pole vaulter would not be able to compete against the Hawks.

The first events of the meet, the pole vault and the one mile run, will start in the Hawkeye field house at 2 p.m.

Leo Shillinglaw, the Badger's top rated pole vaulter, was ruled ineligible for scholastic reasons and will not be able to compete this semester, Wisconsin officials revealed. Shillinglaw, a southpaw, has hit 13 feet, 10 inches in practice. He was Wisconsin state high school champion in 1949 and 1950.

2-Mile Ace Injured Walt Deike, Wisconsin's best at the two-mile distance, has been handicapped by a leg injury suffered in cross-country and Badger coach Riley Best definitely decided not to run his distance ace against Iowa.

From the Iowa side, Coach Francis Cretzmeier reported a boost in Hawkeye sprint strength with the second semester registration of Ira Murchison. The stocky freshman from Wendell Phillips high in Chicago was an Illinois state sprint champion in 1951. He will compete in the 60-yard dash Saturday.

Although on the official schedule of events it is listed as a dual track meet, some of the entries from both schools will give the meet a definite football slant.

Gridders Will Compete Wisconsin will have six members of its 1951 varsity football squad and Iowa will have seven former varsity or junior varsity gridgers from the past season.

Sophomore Jerry Witt, the Big Ten's leading grid scorer in 1951, will be entered in the 60-yard dash for the Badgers along with Harland Carl, another halfback from Wisconsin's football squad.

Freshman Don Voss, who finished the season as second string defensive end for the visitors, will run in the 70-yard high hurdles. The other three Badgers are Ken Peters, Mark Hoegh and Bill Brandt, all shot putters.

Five members of the Iowa junior varsity plus football letterman Mike Riley and Binkey Broeder are representing Iowa. John Hall and Mike Kornis will help Riley in the shot put, and Jim Milani, Frank Schwengel and Dick Fowler have been picked for the high hurdles. Broeder will run the 60-yard dash.

University high school's basketball team will be vying for an undisputed second place berth in their conference when they play Wilton Junction here tonight.

If the Blue Hawks take this game they will have a clear lease to the spot. If they lose, they must share it with Durant.

So far Coach Lou Alley's quintet has won seven and dropped three in conference play. Alley was optimistic Thursday night about his team's chances. "We've been doing very well," he said, "and we have beat 'em down there once before."

"However," he added, "they play nice, have a good set offense and hit well from outside."

Starting for the Blue Hawks tonight will probably be forwards Tom Kent and Gardner van Dyke, center Craig Perrin, and Mel Ritterger and Bruce Miller at guards.

Tigers, Browns Trade 7 Players in Attempt To Strengthen Clubs

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Browns announced a Valentine's day deal involving seven players, which both clubs say will strengthen prospects for the 1952 season.

The deal, a straight trade, was announced by Tiger General Manager Charlie Gehringer. It moves Tiger pitchers Bob Cain and Gene Bearden and first baseman Dick Kryhoski to the Browns.

St. Louis' catcher Matt Batts, outfielder Cliff Mapes, pitcher Dick Littlefield, and infielder Benjamin Taylor will join the Detroit club.

An all-night dickering session between Gehringer and Bill Veeck of the Browns preceded the announcement and climaxed long-standing hunts for talent by both clubs.

In Batts, a 29-year-old right hander, the Tigers feel they may have the catcher they have sought for so long. And the Browns feel Bearden and Cain may prove answers to the quest for more pitching strength.

Gehringer expressed pleasure in Batts, a "proven major league catcher." He hit .285 last year for the Browns and the Boston Red Sox, and sports a .277 lifetime mark in the major leagues.

Cain, a 27-year-old lefthander, posted a 12-12 record last year.

Musial Writes Own Ticket at Same Price

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stan Musial, five-time National league batting champion, got to write his own 1952 salary ticket Thursday and signed at last year's figure of $80,000.

Cardinal owner Fred Saigh surprised even newspaper and radio men by making his contract meeting with his star outfielder-first baseman an open affair which was broadcast by local radio stations.

Hawks Leave For Purdue In Good Shape

Iowa's Hawkeyes ran through a light scrimmage Thursday afternoon against a predicted Purdue offense in preparation for their game with the Boilermakers Saturday night at Lafayette, Ind.

If weather permits, the team will leave Iowa City by plane at 8:30 this morning. Otherwise, the Hawks would leave by the 9:15 a.m. train. Coach Frank "Bucky" O'Connor planned Thursday night to hold another warm-up workout once the squad reached Lafayette.

O'Connor estimated that last place Purdue would employ "some concoction of a zone" defense to bridle Chuck Darling's game-smashing shooting. "With as short a team as they have," O'Connor observed, "they might put three, maybe four, men on Charlie."

O'Connor said the team was in fine spirits and physically fit for the contest, except for two or three bad colds which have been plaguing the squad this week.

Chuck Jarnagin's wrist was re-bruised several days ago and O'Connor was skeptical whether the sophomore ballhawk would see much action Saturday.

Despite Purdue's spot of tenth in the conference with a 2-7 record, the Riveters are dangerous on their home court. In Carl McNulty, center, they have the shot-maker second to Darling in Big Ten scoring, with a 21.4 per game average. Purdue has averaged 67.7 per game to opponents' 75.6 and in five of their seven defeats yielded 82 or more points.

Plan Dinner for Retiring Men

E. G. (Dad) Schroeder and Harold (Mike) Howard will be honored at a testimonial dinner here April 30, marking their retirement to part-time service.

Schroeder, former director of athletics at Iowa, has served on the athletic staff for 45 years and as coach of seven different athletic teams. He will be 70 years old the day of the banquet.

Coach Howard has been the wrestling coach here for 30 years, and his team hoies a .600 mark for all meets. His squads have been runner-up for the Big Ten title five times. Now 68, he has also developed 25 individual Big Ten champions.

Announcements of the dinner have been mailed to approximately 2,000 alumni by the sponsoring athletic department. Letters of greetings from friends and alumni will be bound in book form for presentation at the banquet.

The department Thursday urged all friends of the retiring Iowans to attend the dinner. Tickets may be secured from Athletic Director Paul Brechler until April 23.

Polio Victim's Hobby Raises $1,700 for March of Dimes

A fund campaign that sprang from a hobby has resulted in the collection of more than $1,700 for the 1952 March of Dimes.

What's more, it has provided a kind of much-needed, quiet activity and a deep sense of satisfaction for the polio patients in University hospitals.

It began when Betty Young, Cedar Rapids, in the polio ward at University hospitals since August 1950, started collecting autographed one dollar bills as a hobby. When she decided to give her collection to the March of Dimes, a "Bills for Betty" campaign sprang up and persons from all over the country began contributing.

Paralyzed from the neck down, Mrs. Young is helpless and must do her breathing with the aid of a portable chest respirator. Other patients in the polio ward spend their idle hours in bed or in wheelchairs, and time sometimes hangs heavy.

Other Patients Helped

When correspondence began arriving at a rapid rate, Mrs. Young was overwhelmed and it became an almost full-time job to handle it. Other patients, realizing Mrs. Young's situation and needing something to do, joined in the spirit of the campaign and volunteered to help.

Gerald Bunn, Conrad, now home, opened mail and kept track of names and counties from which contributions came. Margaret Louk, Wilton Junction, and Janan McCarthy, Dubuque, wrote letters and addressed envelopes in answer to each letter or contribution received.

Others—like Jeanne Hendryx, long-time polio patient from Cedar Rapids and still unable to use her arms—gave moral support and advice and generally helped out where they could. Many wrote their own friends at home and solicited contributions.

Mrs. Young and her "campaign workers" plan to redistribute the contributions received, sending them to Iowa's county chapters of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Collections to date have reached $1,720.70. Another $90, promised but not yet received, would push the total above the $1,800 mark.

$188 from Johnson County

Dubuque county has contributed $82, Polk county $39, Johnson county $188. The bulk has come from Mrs. Young's home county, Linn, other contributions coming from points throughout Iowa and the U.S.

Cedar Rapids VFW post 78 collected $177 for the drive; workers in a Webster City restaurant sent $32; Link-Belt Speeder company in Cedar Rapids, $75.70; Killian's department store in Cedar Rapids, $40, and the Iowa City Northwestern Bell Telephone office staff sent $35.

Several prominent persons have recently added their names to the growing list of celebrities who have contributed to the "Bills for Betty" drive.

They include Pete Stinchomb, 1920 all-American football player from Ohio State university; Dick Larkins and Woody Hayes, athletic director and head football coach respectively at Ohio State; George Spencer, New York Giant baseball pitcher; George Trautman, president of baseball's minor leagues; Frank Lausche and G. Mennen Williams, Ohio and Michigan governors respectively; Marie Wilson of "My Friend Irma" radio fame; "Gentleman Jim" Dobbie, wrestler and former polio victim who also gave Mrs. Young a television set; and Jimmie Bloodworth, Cedar Rapids Indians' baseball manager.

Polio Fund Hits 50 Per Cent Mark

Johnson county's March of Dimes drive has raised $5,554.26 so far, according to Mrs. J. K. Schaaf, county chairman.

The campaign has been indefinitely extended although it ended officially Jan. 31. The original goal for the drive in Johnson county was $10,000.

Donations for the drive may be sent to post office box 425, Iowa City.

The county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is sponsoring the drive.

SALES DECREASE

For the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, the total reached $1,189,177,944, or 5.5 per cent less than the 1950 total of $1,258,125,266.

DiSalle Forecasts Economic Stability

TOLEDO, O. (AP) — Michael V. DiSalle, making his last major public address as director of price stabilization, said "the threat of inflation will remain with us as long as we are living in a defense economy."

"We have every reason to look forward to 1952 as a year of continued price stability," he said in a speech before the Toledo transportation club. "But we must stay on the job and make 1952 a year in which we expand our military and economic strength to new heights."

37 Traffic Tickets Net Fine of $373

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police came across an abandoned car Thursday and towed it off. They had seen it before.

In fact records showed they had placed 37 traffic summons on it during the last 10 months—without ever hearing from the owner. Monday Steve Koslov, 19, of Bridgeton, N.J., walked into the station and inquired about the car. He was arrested.

Chief Magistrate James J. Clother conducted a hearing and levied a $373.26 fine. Koslov's father paid the fine and Koslov went off with the car.

Koslov told officials he had recently moved from Wilmington, Del., but offered no reason for ignoring the tickets.

Township Divided Into 3 Precincts

With the division of West Lucas township into three precincts for voting purposes, two new polling places have been established there, Johnson county officials said Thursday.

They will be located in University Heights at the Nate Moore wiring service, 1000 Melrose ave., and at the school house located on the county home road between University Heights and the county home.

The polling place at Coralville, formerly used for the entire township, now will be used primarily by Coralville voters.

The board of supervisors, which this week authorized the two new precincts, said their addition was made necessary by the increased population of both Coralville and University Heights.

Coralville Tenants Sued for Eviction

Eugene and Lois Stanfield were named defendants in an eviction suit filed Thursday in Johnson county district court by Vern Moore.

Moore seeks to evict the defendants from a home he owns at 294 Ewald st., Coralville, on the grounds that the couple has failed to pay rent totaling $106.50. Moore claims the property was leased from him in August, 1951.

English Student Discusses SUI Drama

DISCUSSING THE DRAMA SITUATION in American universities is Stephen Joseph, a graduate student from London, England, and an experienced actor who is currently appearing in the University theatre production of "The Beggar's Opera." His listeners are Joan Witte (left), G. Cedar Rapids, and Liz Engrav, A.S., Iowa City.

Student Fellowship Plans Schedule of Religious Lectures

The United Student Fellowship, which is comprised of Congregational-Christians and the Evangelical and Reformed students, plans a series of religious discussions this semester.

The purpose of the discussions will be to make students aware of the relation between their faith and the professions they intend to follow. Faculty members from various departments are expected to participate.

During Lent, the fellowship is sponsoring lectures on the media of worship.

Norval Tucker, Iowa City, graduate art student, will speak on the place of art in worship, and William Clendenin, Iowa City, a Ph.D. student in music, will speak on the relationship of his field to worship.

Subsequent lectures will be on religious drama and devotional literature.

Collapse Victim Better

The condition of Bill O'Hanlon, R.R. 5, who collapsed Thursday afternoon in the lobby of the Jefferson hotel, is much improved, according to his physician, Dr. Harry D. Jenkinson.

Jenkinson said an electrocardiogram was made after O'Hanlon was taken to Mercy hospital, and complete diagnosis is yet to be made. Mercy hospital officials said O'Hanlon is resting comfortably.

INN KEEPER HELD

STORM LAKE (AP) — N. C. Steincamp, owner of the White Cap inn here, was held to the grand jury Thursday in justice court on a charge of selling beer to minors. Steincamp was released on $500 bond to the grand jury.

Connally Asks Break in Hungarian Relations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Tom Connally (D-Texas), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, accused Communist Hungary of "blackmail" and "extortion" Thursday and moved for a break in diplomatic relations.

Connally, usually an administration backer in the foreign policy field, criticized the administration for paying $120,000 in fines to obtain the release of four American airmen who landed on Hungarian soil last November. He said he regretted that the "American government rose to the bait and dutifully paid the blackmail."

After five years in the navy, he went on to finish his schooling at the University of Cambridge. With his degree completed, he appeared in a technicolor musical, which starred Jean Kent, for Two Cities films.

He then joined a repertory company for six months, directing and acting in some 25 productions. Returning to motion pictures, Joseph's first professional appearance was in Eugene O'Neill's "Marco Millions." His career was interrupted by the war, and, in joining the British navy as a seaman, met England's matinee idol Michael Redgrave. Joseph collaborated with Noel Coward in writing a revue script and, together with Redgrave, performed the revue for the ship's company.

English Actor — Comes to SUI Stage

— Likes U.S. Drama

By JIM GOLTZ

Any theatre-goers who attended the SUI production of "The Winslow Boy" were apt to notice a tall, dark man in the leading role of Sir Robert Morton, the criminal lawyer, an actor who played the role with a British accent.

The accent not only sounds authentic, but is authentic, for the actor was born in London and, from the time he was 16, has been trained in the why's and wherefore's of the British theatre.

His name is Stephen Joseph, whom you may also have seen in the title role of "The Beggar's Opera."

Joseph has been associated and performed with many of England's greatest and most revered thespians and is now in this country to obtain a Britisher's viewpoint of the American stage.

Before he had started school, his mother was doing Shakespeare with the Old Vic Players, playing "Jessica" in "The Merchant of Venice" to Edith Evan's "Portia."

Joseph's mother, Hermione Gingold, who recently returned to England from a trip to New York, is, as called by the London Daily Mail, "England's most famous stage satirist." Two of Miss Gingold's closest friends are Gertrude Lawrence and Noel Coward, with whom she trained for the stage at the age of five.

War Interrupts Career

Joseph's first professional appearance was in Eugene O'Neill's "Marco Millions." His career was interrupted by the war, and, in joining the British navy as a seaman, met England's matinee idol Michael Redgrave. Joseph collaborated with Noel Coward in writing a revue script and, together with Redgrave, performed the revue for the ship's company.

On Instructorship Leave

Turning to radio, he played in the World Theatre's broadcast of "Macbeth" for the British Broadcasting radio network. Joseph is now on leave of absence from his instructorship at the Central School of Speech Training and Dramatic Arts, in London, where he has directed Greek and Shakespearean tragedies along with experimental new plays. Before leaving England, he lectured at the University of London on British films.

Joseph's wish to study the drama situation in America plus the fact that Iowa's department of dramatic arts is regarded with respect in England, was responsible for his coming to SUI.

He is extremely impressed with the physical equipment of the SUI dramatic arts department and the way that drama is treated as a scholastic field. In England, drama is not a university subject, and drama schools are most vocational training places for young actors and actresses, unattached to universities.

He considers the actual standard of acting in British schools higher than in American schools but says that the scholastic standard in England is much lower than here.

In sharp contrast is the fact that the London college where Joseph teaches produces 300 plays a year, an overwhelming schedule that would not be attempted by any American university.

Fluoridation Program Gaining Support Here

By JERRY HARGITT

Fluoridation is flourishing. The process by which fluorides are added to a city's water supply has been discussed at length on a national and state scale, and now plans for bringing this program to Iowa City are gaining momentum.

This method of retarding dental decay in children has been the topic of discussion in many Iowa City civic organizations.

7 Groups Favor Plan

Seven of these groups have passed resolutions favoring the program recommended by the House of Delegates of the American Dental Association. These resolutions are tentatively scheduled to be presented to the city council next Monday.

Parents have always dreamed of the day when their children wouldn't have to undergo the "truderies" of grinding, filling and extracting. Fluoridation is the first step toward that goal.

Proponents of fluoridation say that Iowa Citizens could reap the fruits of such a process for a price of 5 to 14 cents per person a year.

Initial Expense Reduced

They add that the initial expense of installation would be greatly reduced, because the fluoride can be incorporated with other salts already added to the public water supply and piped directly to the homes.

Some opponents of the plan say that too much water is "wasted" on washing cars, sprinkling lawns and other household tasks. This amount would only be a negligible portion of the cost of consumption, fluoridation backers assert.

Government Inspection

Overdosage of fluorides in the water would cause trouble, but a routine system of checking and sampling the water at all distribution points to maintain the desired fluoridation concentration would solve this. Government inspection and regulation would maintain the necessary standards, it is asserted.

102 Cities Adopt Plan

Illustrating the rising popularity of this program is the fact that in July, 1951, 102 cities, one county, and two schools were known to be using fluoridation.

It must be remembered that fluoridation isn't a cure-all. It is most effective in children, that is, when teeth are still growing, though it will aid older people.

Dentists say there is no reason to worry about the taste of any harmful results of this mixture. In weak solution the fluoride can't be seen, smelled or tasted, and in some areas people have used water containing fluoride for decades without any noticeable effects, they have pointed out.

In fact, they say, many areas now are consuming water containing more fluoride than is recommended in the A.D.A.'s program. Authorities agree that 1 to 1.5 parts of fluoride to 1 million parts of water is the right concentration for community supplies.
