THE DAILY IOWAN Defines Its Function

The Daily Iowan sent a reporter out on January 15 to see what the existing conditions were relative to the sale of beer to minors in Iowa City.

This was done after a meeting of staff members at which time there was a consensus that, in view of Attorney General Larson's ultimatum against beer violations, conditions in Iowa City had changed for the better.

The staff anticipated a report to the effect that anyone who could not prove he was over 21 years old would be refused beer at any of the local taverns.

The reporter returned with a different story, however, after finding it possible to buy beer in every tavern he visited.

The story was printed with the intention of pointing out the existing conditions. The grand jury followed with an investigation to find out whether there was a case against the reporter or not.

Four members of The Daily Iowan staff were subpoenaed and testified before the grand jury. The grand jury turned in its final report to the court Friday night in which it stated that no indictment was returned because of "insufficient evidence."

The report criticized The Daily Iowan for failure to preserve evidence used as a basis for the news story.

The report went on to say that "while no criminal charge could be supported by the evidence, that the student members of the staff of said newspaper have utterly failed to perform their duties as citizens of this community in that they made no attempt whatsoever to preserve the evidence allegedly obtained by one of their reporters and acting under their supervision and control."

To reiterate, it was the intention of the editors of The Daily Iowan to present to its readers a report showing actual conditions in Iowa City.

We believe that it is the function of a newspaper to report these conditions. However, we are not a law-enforcement agency and therefore we do not feel that we are responsible for the collecting of evidence.

We leave that up to the proper officials, who, within the past week, have shown by the investigation of three local instances of sales of beer to minors that they are acting in the capacity which the public can expect.

'Demos Will Clean Up Sin,' Kerr Says

Sen. Robert S. Kerr played the role of the politician at his best in his brief visit here over the weekend.

Elasting the Republicans in general and Sen. Robert Taft in particular, the lanky Oklahoma oilman, who has been mentioned as a possible presidential candidate, delighted 150 fellow Democrats at an Iowa first district rally Saturday night.

His stay in Iowa City produced an assortment of remarks, which he whipped off in the following manner:

On whether he will become a candidate for the presidency—"If Mr. Truman is a candidate, I will not be a candidate." He said his name has been entered in the Nebraska primary with his consent and his participation was precipitated solely by the Nebraska Kerr-for-President organization.

On whether he thinks Truman will run again—"I have sincere no more information on that than anyone else does."

On who would be the better Republican candidate for president, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower or Taft—"I would have no preference. I do not think the American people will elect any one of them."

The only thing that would put Eisenhower in worse shape would be for him to start talking. Every time Taft opens his mouth, he puts his foot in it."

On how the Democratic party could be improved—"The Democratic party is composed of human beings, all of whom make mistakes. We will try to profit by those mistakes that have been made and make fewer in the future."

On his stand on universal military training—"I am for it. It would mean greater preparedness for less cost."

On unification of the armed forces—"We have triplication rather than unification in the services. I would be in favor of adequate effort to effect unification."

On U.S. foreign policy—"I propose (1) continued and more effective cooperation with other free nations in the United Nations and with other nations consistent with the purpose of the United Nations and (2) a continuation of military preparations which would ensure the security of our own nation and enable us to meet the responsibilities of leadership."

On his domestic policy for the U.S.—"I am basically a Jeffersonian, Roosevelt, Truman Democrat."

Among those present at the rally Saturday night were Jake More, state Demo chairman and a number of SUI Young Demos.

On President Truman's proposed budget—"We can make considerable savings in the military budget without reducing the amount of security required."

Interpreting the News — Sheng, Klan Incidents Threaten Our Dignity

SING SHENG, airline mechanic of Chinese birth, talks with reporters after losing the decision in voting which he suggested of Southwood district residents regarding his living in the area at South San Francisco, Calif. His American-born wife, Grace, brushes a tear. They have a 2-year-old son. When Sheng learned of resentment against his moving into the community after he had made a down payment on a house, he attended a meeting of residents, proposed a referendum and promised to abide by the wishes of the majority.

By J. M. ROBERTS JR., Associated Press News Analyst

Sing Sheng, when but a boy in China, heard about America. At 20, an officer in the Chinese Nationalist army, he came here to study for his country's diplomatic service. When the Communists took over in China he stayed, married an American-born girl, and prepared to become an American citizen.

He believed in democracy. He believed in it so strongly that, when he prepared to buy a house in an all-white neighborhood of south San Francisco and the neighbors objected, he asked them to conduct a secret ballot. It went against him. He is abiding by the decision, although protected against it by law.

Columbus county, in southeastern North Carolina, has been plagued off and on by night riders for 15 or 20 years—Ku Klux Klansmen or their moral kin. Their weapons have been the club and the lash, the anonymous threat, the fiery cross.

Assistance Offered The FBI has stepped in to clean up that situation. Warm-hearted Americans from all over are offering assistance to Sheng. He will probably come out of the whole business far better off than he could have hoped.

But neither the FBI nor new-found friends for Sheng can erase these two blood-kin exhibitions from the American record.

The good people of the San Francisco district merely saw a threat to the values of their property and reacted against it. They didn't stop to think of all America, values rooted directly in the subsoil of tolerance which made the founding of the nation possible.

The night riders of North Carolina operated in an area known for its violence, and in their own consciences defend themselves as enforcers of their own brand of moral conduct.

Clean-up is Dirty Job There are people in North Carolina who know how to handle such expressions of intolerance, but it's a dirty job, and frequently gets one involved with religious bigotry. So the state has been inactive, and its fine reputation for progressiveness in many matters is shamed by federal intervention.

But these, you will say, are incidents. They are un-American. They are not truly related. They, and the long list of others like them—race troubles in both North and South, lines scribbled on New York synagogue walls—lead to a grave thought.

Does it all add up to more intolerance, to more un-Americanism than Americanism? And if so, what happens to this nation, supposedly dedicated to the dignity of individual life and thought? And what happens to its pretensions to leadership of a world where such dignity is threatened as it has seldom been threatened before?

Iowa Farmers Call For Hired Hands As Shortage Looms

DES MOINES (AP) — Definite indications of a shortage of farm hands in Iowa are evident this year, the state employment service said Monday.

Calls for this type of help are arriving in greater numbers than usual and considerably earlier than normal, the service added. Offers range up to more than $200 a month, plus housing, meat, eggs, and milk for a farm hand with a family.

"The situation is due to three factors," Fred R. Fisher, the service's farm placement representative related. "It's the turnover, selective service, and how to keep 'em down on the farm."

"The over-all demand might not be any greater. It usually doesn't start until March 1. But the demand has been growing for several weeks. Farmers are recognizing the situation earlier," Fisher said.

"They figure that if they start looking early, they have a better chance to get good men."

House Without a Clock

(This is the first of a series of stories written by an inmate of the state prison of southern Michigan, the world's largest correctional institution. It is designed to describe a few light and heavy sides of prison life by an inmate — No. 77615 — who will soon be seeking newspaper work on the "outside.")

JACKSON, MICH. — No, no clocks here in the world's biggest "big house" — we just wind our calendars once a year — then hang around the gymnasium to dope out the seasons. That's done by a process in calculation requiring few mathematics if a con knows the difference between a baseball, football and basketball.

Say a guy's doing five years — he merely counts off five basketball or football seasons, or whatever he likes, to keep tabs on the day he gets uncanned.

Of course, some convicts do things the hard way. They play ping-pong all year 'round. Which makes time a little harder to figure. But then, maybe I had their hitches to do I wouldn't be too anxious to know which end is up either.

Athletics Without 'Fixers' From the time the man unlocks the man who unlocks the gym in the morning, until half-past supper time — the place is a bedlam of gymnastic racket (legitimate rackets — I think. There's no basketball "fixers" I know of, here).

Everything goes. Handball, basketball, ping-pong, chess, bag punching, weight lifting, boxing, and clowning!

We've got the biggest bunch of clowns in captivity.

Bronx Cheer Specialists Every gym session brings together 100 or so of the world's best, who are Bronx cheer specialists. We guys excel in this notorious Brooklynese brand of humor of rib tickling sports participants with verbal stiletos — Ah — what a sport.

Ribbing is such a clean, invigorating sport — politicians outside do it all the time.

Naw, we don't waste our talents just on basketball. We tickle the leather pushers, the ping-pongers, the handballers, the other clowns.

So all in all... the gym is the slap-happiest locale in this wacky-go-lucky prison.

Finds Middle East 'Afraid or Jealous' of America, Russia

FORT DODGE, IA. (AP) — To people in much of the world, today's bowl of office seems more important than tomorrow's form of government, in the opinion of Dr. L. M. Martin of Fort Dodge.

Dr. Martin has just returned from a three-months trip around the world in which he covered 45,000 miles by air. His actual flight time was only about seven days. The remainder of his time was spent in close inspection of conditions in foreign lands.

The retired physician and surgeon said he made a special attempt on this trip to get a realistic view of the economic situation of the average person in the lands he visited. He traveled through back streets and alleys and talked to camel drivers and houseboys. It was his 25th trip abroad.

He said he found Israel to be "a non-productive land that will have to have help from the United States for at least 10 years in order to keep going. Cities such as Tel Aviv and Haifa are new and modern and contrast sharply with the thousands of destitute refugees who camp on their outskirts," he said.

She then danced for two seasons with the St. Louis Grand Opera Ballet corps under the guidance of Rita Delaport, the premier danseuse with the Metropolitan Opera ballet.

Mrs. Morgan has since danced in concert groups with the team Fanchon and Marco, taught interpretative free dance and made concert tours for the Tennessee Technological college, and has taught on the island of Guam at the Guam Academy of Fine Arts.

Mrs. Morgan spent two years teaching the natives of the island some of the fundamentals of the dancing done in modern civilizations. She says that during this time she was both an instructor and a student, for she learned much about the traditions of the natives and witnessed many of their primitive dances.

Mrs. Morgan decided to return to college because she wanted to complete work for her degree and because her 17-year-old son will enroll at SUI next year. Her twin boys, 12, are attending University high school.

Working in the University theatre, she was instructor for the bows, curtsies, and swashbuckling in "Mary Stuart" and for all of the dancing scenes in "The Beggar's Opera." She will also coach the dancing for the future production of "Streets of New York."

She is now instructing 35 students in private and class lessons in dance, upon completing her degree, to organize a children's ballet theatre. She has written children's ballets, two of which she has produced.

Mrs. Morgan says that ballet is the basis for all other kinds of dancing, and almost all dancers, particularly those in the modern field, have had ballet training.

She says that an artist cannot build the necessary endurance for professional work except through ballet, and, although it is the most strenuous of all types of dancing, preserves an artist's strength.

AN EXPERIENCED ARTIST in the ballet is Mrs. Carolyn Morgan, here executing a graceful "posse-French satirical dance." She acts as both instructor and student in the SUI dramatic arts department. Mrs. Morgan coaches the dancing scenes for the University theatre productions while studying for a B.A. degree.

SOUR GRAPES?

After Skip Greene's fantastic shot closing the first half of Iowa's 90-67 win over Purdue Saturday, it was reported that Purdue center Carl McNulty "didn't approve of all the fuss being made about Greene's shot."

The report followed that McNulty was just in his criticism. I doubt it.

Carl is second in the Big Ten in the scoring column, at least was until the game with the Hawkeyes. He was held to 15 points for the evening, most of them coming after his keeper, Bob Clifton, was taken from the one-sided game.

His scoring feats this season have earned him the title of the best small center in the conference, perhaps in the country. They have also placed him as a candidate for all-American basketball honors.

Why? Because people have made a "fuss" about the shots and the number of them he's made this year. He said in an interview that the shot will haunt Purdue the rest of the season, that the team will never hear the end of it. I doubt that he or the team will ever hear the end of Carl McNulty's great scoring this year.

McNulty was undoubtedly under a strain when he made this quote, shortly after his team had come out second best to the Hawkeyes and he had come out second best in a publicized duel with the best college center in the country.

He is still an outstanding player, and was recently voted for as one of the top five players in this NCAA district by this department. Eut way should he worry about the publicity Skip Greene gets for an amazing shot?

His own coach thought the shot worthy enough to say that it broke the collective backs of Carl and his teammates. And if he'd outscored Chuck Darling, Iowa would be "haunted" by the fact for the rest of the season. Probably without complaint.

WON'T SHOW IN RECORDS

Skip's shot, which has been estimated at anywhere from 60 to 70 feet, is the longest that anyone connected with the game could remember. There are no records on the subject. Reports are that the easiest way to picture the shot is to imagine a man running up to the free throw line at the opposite end of the court and letting fly with no apparent aim.

It was the kind of a shot that's tried two, three or four times in every game, and which the average fan never sees made. In a state high school tournament game here a few seasons back, Greene made a similar shot from the center of the floor, but that time it was intended as a pass to teammate Jim Stange, not as a shot.

IS GEHRMANN GREAT?

Don Gehrmann, ex-Wisconsin ace miler, broke an old (1939) 1,000-yard run record Saturday night, sprinting the distance in 2:08.2. Acclamation quickly rose to the effect that Gehrmann had finally proved his greatness.

One criterion for greatness should be that a competitor give everything he has each time he performs. Everyone who has seen Gehrmann race Fred Wilt in the mile doubts that he does. Much has been written recently about the fact that he apparently allows Wilt to set the pace and runs only hard enough to win, when he might be giving the U.S. new records.

There is no doubt that he's the outstanding runner in the country. As for the greatest, there is doubt. If there was a Fred Wilt in the 1,000-yard run, we might see the same trick.

Don ran against the clock Saturday instead of just to win, showing there is a potential greatness there, but it hasn't yet been proved to a lot of fans.

City High Changes Times

Iowa City high announced Monday that, because of conflict with the Iowa-Illinois game Saturday, it will hold its varsity game with Newton at 6:30 p.m.

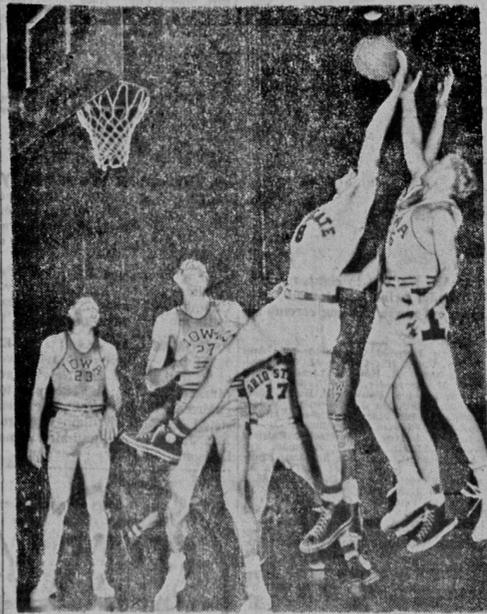

Coach Howard Moffett said that the great interest in the Big Ten game prompted the school to reverse its varsity and sophomore games. "We expect the first game to be over by 8 o'clock," he said, "and this will allow local fans to see our game and still hear the Iowa contest."

— As Gymnasts, Swimmers Win

Iowa's track, swimming and gymnastic coaches Monday expressed satisfaction over performances of their teams in Saturday's competition which brought Iowa two victories and one loss.

Swimming Coach David Armbruster named two individuals, sprinter Dick Pennington and breaststroker Bowen Stassforth, for special mention in Iowa's 58-35 victory over Northwestern.

The track meet saw five new records set as Iowa fell to Wisconsin, 61 2/3 to 52 1/2. The gym team posted a win in a quadrangle meet by outscoring Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas State. The scores were Iowa 66 1/2, Nebraska, 43 1/2, Colorado, 20, and Kansas State, 2.

FENCERS TRIM CHICAGO

Iowa's fencing team trimmed Chicago here Saturday night in a close meet, 14-13. The Hawks took the sabre event by a 7-2 score, lost in foil competition by the same margin, but came back in epee competition to slip by, 5-4. Feldman in the epee and Minnick both took three wins for the Hawkeyes in their respective divisions.

Kerr Hits 22 As Hawks' 9-1 Record Is Tied

BLOOMINGTON, IND. (AP) — Illinois, led by John Kerr's 22 points, kept up with Iowa in the torrid Big Ten title race Monday night by beating Indiana, 77-70. The victory gave the Illini a 9-1 conference record and dropped the young Hoosiers to 5-5. The Hawkeyes beat Ohio State, 75-62, for their 9-1 standing.

Indiana's whole starting five fouled out in the last two minutes in a desperate attempt to get the ball from the stalling Illini.

The last quarter was a fight all the way. It was tied three times. Illinois jumped into a 35-30 halftime lead after a 20-all first-quarter tie. Indiana had trouble getting the ball into Don Schlundt, its big freshman center.

Bob Leonard, who ended high man for the Hoosiers with 20 points, led a third period drive which gave the Hoosiers the lead at the end of the quarter, 55-52. Illinois tied it up, 56-55, on a tip-in by Kerr but Indiana came back to tie it 63-63 and 65-65. Then Kerr and Rod Fletcher hit to put the Illini four ahead with less than three minutes and they went into their stall.

Fletcher and Erv Bemoras added 18 for Illinois. Schlundt ended with 14, followed by Bob Masters with 11 and Sam Esposito with 10.

Minnesota 60, MSC 58

EAST LANSING, MICH. (AP) — Forward Dick Means dropped in a Climatic basket with three seconds left to play to give Minnesota a 60-58 basketball win over Michigan State Monday night and run the Gopher win streak to seven in a row in Western conference play.

The victory gave Minnesota nine wins against three losses in Big Ten competition and kept them in the running for a "theoretical" chance for a tie for first place in the league race.

Purdue 72, Wildcats 65

LAFAYETTE, IND. (AP) — Center Carl McNulty's 24 points and a four-minute stall lifted Purdue out of the Big Ten basketball cellar Monday night with a 72-65 victory over Northwestern.

Northwestern outscored Purdue from the field, 26 baskets to 23, but Purdue made 26 of 36 free throws to Northwestern's 13 of 24.

Michigan 56, Badgers 55

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan put on a successful four-minute stall Monday night and defeated Wisconsin, 56-55.

Michigan came from behind in the final period on a basket by Capt. Jim Skala and then controlled the ball for its third conference victory in 10 starts.

Wisconsin, now beaten seven times in nine league starts, got the ball for one last furious try with 15 seconds remaining. The Badgers got off four shots that drove the fans frantic but none connected as the horn ended the game.

Iowa Ranks 4th in Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — Iowa climbed from fifth to fourth as Kentucky's basketball team, already assured of a berth in the NCAA post season tournament and virtually certain of a spot in the National Invitation, was named for the fifth straight week as the top college team in the country Monday.

The Southeastern conference champions, winners of 16 straight and owners of an overall record of 22-2, were listed first on 36 ballots. In all, 104 sports writers and sportscasters from coast to coast participated in the Associated Press poll.

Here is how the teams ranked behind Kentucky in the 13th poll: Kansas State, Duquesne, Iowa, Illinois, Washington, Kansas, St. John's of Brooklyn, St. Louis and St. Bonaventure.

Darling's Records

Here are the records that Chuck Darling has broken during his career at Iowa, including Monday's game. He has four games left in which to extend them.

1. Most points for Iowa player in one season, formerly held by Wier with 324. Darling has 169.
 2. Most free throws for Iowa player one season, formerly held by Wier and Frank Calabrese with 95. Darling has 121.
 3. Most free throws by Iowa player for one game, 16 (also equals Big Ten record).
 4. Most points by Iowa player for 3-year career, formerly held by Wier with 924. Darling has 922. Also beats Wier's 4-year record of 988.
 5. Best free throw percentage for Iowa player, one game, 1.000.
 6. Best field goal percentage by Iowa player for one season, 376.
 7. Best field goals by Iowa player one season, formerly held by Wier with 152.
 8. Tied Big Ten record of number of field goals for one season, 97, formerly held by Carl McNulty of Purdue.
- Barring disaster, he should break the following Big Ten records:
1. Most points one season: has 362, compared to present record of 277.
 2. Most points for three years: has 614, compared to present record of 628.

Norwegians Reach 1st In Olympics on Triple Win; U.S. Now in 3d

OSLO (AP) — Hjalmar Andersen, streaking to his second speed-skating victory, and two Norse teammates pulled off a triple slam in the winter Olympics Monday to send Norway far ahead in the race for team honors.

Americans couldn't muster the staying power for the 18-kilometer (11 1/4 miles) ski marathon nor the speed to match Andersen's flying skates and, as a result, suffered their second blackout in a row.

The host Norwegians piled up a lush total of 42 points on three gold medal firsts, two thirds, one fifth and two sixth places to stretch their overall score for the games to 74.

Austria, the leader Sunday, also experienced a discouraging shutout and fell to second with 41 points, followed by the United States with 34 1/2. Finland moved into contention with 21 points Monday alone.

The lean, 28-year-old Andersen, a truck driver who is the sports idol of this nation of winter sports lovers, became the games' first double gold medal winner when he won the 1,500 meter speed skating race in 2 minutes, 20.6 seconds.

Sunday he carved out a new Olympic record in the more rigorous 5,000 meters, winning in 8:10.3.

A heavy snowfall interfered with the ice hockey match between the United States and Finland, making the puck at times resemble a snowball, but the Americans scored their third straight victory, 8-2.

Hawk Malmen Gain 2d Tie

Heavyweight George Myers won a 10-3 decision in the final bout of the evening to give Iowa's wrestling squad a 12-12 tie with a highly-favored Illinois squad here Monday night.

The tie was the second in Big Ten competition for the Hawks, who have lost three in their five starts, and was the final home meet for retiring Coach Mike Howard.

The meet was featured by Phil Duggan's fifth consecutive victory in dual meet competition this season. The Iowa captain took a 4-1 win over Lou Kachiroubas in their 130-pound scrap.

Other Hawkeye winners were Arnoia Schnoecelen, wrestling at 157 pounds, who decided Vic Locascio, 3-2, and dependable 167-pounder Don Heaton, who took his fourth victory against one defeat this year with a 4-0 win over Illinois' Ken Nordquist.

Iowa's John Engelby lost to John Ontiveras, 10-3, at 123-pounds; Dick Salome dropped his 137-pound match, 7-0, to Pete Compton; Chuck Woodruff was beaten by 147-pounder Bob Lutz, 9-2, and Dean Lansing lost an 11-3 decision to Marty Schwartz at 177-pounds for the four Hawkeye losses of the evening.

Illinois, who had previously beaten Wisconsin, Ohio State, and Purdue in the Big Ten, now owns a record of four wins, four losses, and one tie.

New Method of Artificial Respiration Demonstrated

THE BEST MEANS OF ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION, the back pressure-arm lift method, will be demonstrated in Iowa City, Feb. 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the field house swimming pool. Here, James Counsilman, physical education instructor, and Ronald Johnson, A.S., St. Louis, Mo., show the first step. Counsilman applies pressure to the shoulder blades of the "victim" causing air to be expired.

THE OLD METHOD IS LEAST EFFECTIVE of any of those tried. It is the Schaefer prone method which has been used in the United States since 1902. It allows only active expiration by pressure applied to the rib cage as demonstrated here. Other methods, the Sylvester and the hip-lift method also have serious disadvantages. Other advantages which led to the adoption of back pressure-arm lift resuscitation are: the victim can be easily treated for shock while artificial respiration is being administered; it can be performed effectively by a small operator on a larger victim, and there is less chance of bodily injury.

SECOND AND FINAL STEP INITIATES AIR INTAKE as the operator grasps the victim's arms above the elbows and pulls forward and slightly upward. This step produces the main advantage of the back pressure-arm lift method, because it results in active inspiration. The Red Cross, boy scouts and the armed forces have adopted the method illustrated here.

Herbert Hoover Wants Civil Service Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover Monday night called on congress for civil service reforms to remove what he called the "humiliation" of "sickening conduct" by federal officials.

Addressing a national conference of persons supporting the government reorganization proposals which his bipartisan commission handed congress three years ago, declared:

"Surely the nation has a right to a better system of choice and management of its employees than one which has produced these months of humiliation."

The 77-year-old Hoover said in a speech prepared for the citizens committee for the Hoover report, sponsor of the one-day meeting, that:

"No one can ignore the food of exposures of less than sacred honor or real patriotism by employees in many agencies of the government during these recent years. Daily, congress and grand juries are turning up sickening conduct of federal civil officials. These exposures can mean only one thing: that our method of selection and organization of federal employees is badly at fault somewhere."

Had the commission's recommendations for a stronger career service system been enacted promptly in 1948, Hoover declared, "They would have saved great grief to our country."

City High Bands To Give Concert

The Iowa City High school music department will present the junior and senior concert bands, under the direction of John E. Green, in a concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the high school auditorium.

The junior high band will play Verrill's "Holiday Moods," Fred's "I've Been Workin' on the Railroad" and Chenette's "Promotion March."

The senior high band's selections will include Ketelbey's "Fanfare for a Ceremonial Occasion," Ganne's "Father of Victory March," Rossini's "Overture to Barber of Seville," Vinter's "The Dover Coach," Richards' "American Symphonette No. 2," Anderson's "Serenata," Almann's "Whistling Bobby," Lang's "Circus Time" and Sousa's "U.S. Field Artillery March."

Banquet Opens Commerce Week

A banquet scheduled for 6:30 tonight at the Iowa Memorial Union will be the opening gun for the 1952 SUI collegiate chamber of commerce "Careers Conference."

The banquet will be a prelude to a two-day, 27 conference schedule beginning at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday and continuing throughout Wednesday and Thursday.

The last conference is scheduled for 3:10 p.m. Thursday. The event will close Friday night with a dance in the main lounge of the Union.

J. D. Cox, office manager and chairman of the selection and training committee for the Maytag company of Newton, will speak at tonight's banquet.

Held Early This Year
The conference is being held two months earlier this year to enable graduating seniors to get an insight into various fields prior to arranging for interviews with prospective employers.

Most commerce classes have been suspended to enable students to attend the conferences. Junior and senior commerce majors will be excused from all classes; freshman and sophomores from commerce classes only.

However, introduction to business, principles of accounting, and principles of economics classes will be held as usual.

Features Industrial Speakers
Various phases of the business and industrial world will be represented by such speakers as C. W. Gamberding, personnel department, Firestone Tire and Rubber company; Clyde Harden Jr., employment manager, Meredith Publishing company; H. G. Jubberville, sales promotion manager, W. A. Scheaffer Pen company, and Scott McIntire, president, United Fire and Casualty company.

Two speakers will represent the federal government. Ambrose Strittmatter, special agent, federal bureau of investigation; and James McGuire, personnel officer, Veterans administration.

John E. Cosgrove, director of education and research, Iowa State Federation of Labor, will discuss labor unions.

Winter Praises Committee
Dean Sidney Winter of the college of commerce praised the conference committee for "arranging a program which should prove to be very interesting and highly informative, especially to commerce students and particularly to those graduating this year."

He added, "Much of the program should be of interest to those from other colleges."

Helen Barnes, director of the SUI business and industrial placement office, emphasized the opportunity the conference offers for students to become acquainted with job qualifications necessary to enter the business and industrial fields.

She also said the conference "offers a wonderful opportunity for students, freshmen through seniors, to become well-informed about entry job opportunities" in these fields.

All conferences will be held in the house and senate chambers of Old Capitol and in the library auditorium.

Tonight's banquet is open to all

County Grand Jury Returns Indictments Against 9 Persons

Robert L. Dahnke, Iowa City, has been released on $500 bond, after being indicted on a charge of selling beer to a minor.

The indictment was one of nine returned by the Johnson county grand jury Friday.

Dahnke, employed at the Brown Derby tavern, is charged with selling beer to William K. Butler, A2, Atlantic, on Feb. 6. Butler is one of three youths who obtained beer in Iowa City by using a false identification card, an altered draft card and another's liquor permit.

Also indicted was Earl M. Ingalls, who is accused of breaking into a Moorehead Construction company tool shed with intent to commit larceny. Ingalls is being held in the county jail in lieu of $2,000 bond.

The other indictments will remain secret until the defendants are taken into custody.

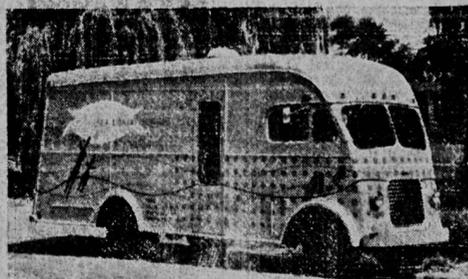

A grand jury report stated that no indictment was returned against a Daily Iowan reporter because of insufficient evidence relative to a Daily Iowan story published Jan. 16.

The 20-year-old reporter had toured nine Iowa City taverns and purchased beer at them all.

The story said, "Only two bartenders challenged the reporter about his age."

In the report the Daily Iowan staff was criticized for failing to preserve the evidence allegedly obtained by one of their reporters under their supervision and control."

The Daily Iowan has introduced a program of recognition for those individuals that make the publication of a newspaper possible, the advertising salesmen. Iowans Warned of Disease-Carrying Birds

DES MOINES (AP) — The state health department Monday recommended that any parrots, parakeets or certain other birds brought into Iowa recently from Florida be destroyed.
