Interpreting the News - Economic Experts Feel Aid to Tito Essential

By J. M. ROBERTS JR., Associated Press News Analyst

International economic experts from Britain, France and the United States are conferring in Washington this week about aid for Yugoslavia after next June. The present aid program runs out then. But Marshal Tito's government is not in shape to do by itself what the experts feel is needed in this Marxist outpost of opposition to Russian expansionism. As the conference was about to get under way, the experts had the assurance of George V. Allen, ambassador to Belgrade for the past two years, that unless the Allies play their cards stupidly, the likelihood of a Tito doublecross is "almost nil."

Was Split a Trick? SUI Students Like Their Animals 'Stuffed'

By MARY JO GARVEY

SUI students spent approximately $3,500 on stuffed animals in 1951. Each year, according to a survey of novelty stores in this city, college students help make stuffed animals the best seller in the novelty line. Aggregate sales in this line almost reached the 2,000 mark last year. College girls buy most of these novelties but occasionally a male will get up the courage to be seen purchasing one of the little black and gold figures and will walk down the less crowded streets with it under his arm. Iowa City novelty dealers have found that their biggest "animal" sales occur at the beginning of the year and on big game weekends. It seems that the visiting alumni can't resist the souvenir urge and, surprisingly enough, purchase almost as many "animals" bearing the Iowa brand as they do Iowa pennants. The little black fellow with the white stripe down his back has risen to the top of the popularity poll this season and is now being proudly displayed in several hundred student rooms. His closest competitors are the long-eared dachshunds and Australian kangaroos. Customer preferences vary from year to year. For instance, SUI school colors are not always most popular, and the tan models put on the market this year have sky-rocketed stuffed animal sales. In Currier hall, women's dormitory, there are approximately 600 such novelties adorning beds and dressers. If stuffed animals in all the SUI housing units were added to this amount, the total figure would be staggering.

Delighted by Painting In Window—No Wonder

By Central Press

EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL. — The screech of auto tires in front of his drug store between Belleville and East St. Louis startled Herb Nienhaus. Making a fast U-turn, a car stopped in front of the store. Two young men in U.S. air force uniforms clambered out. One, a blond private, first class, pointed to something in the window. The other, a sergeant, grinned. To the wondering druggist, the private waved his arm toward the window and said, "Mister, can we have that?" "That what?" asked Nienhaus. "That painting," the youth said. "That's me. My father painted the original of that sign when I was a baby and I'd like to have it, if you don't mind." The youth then identified himself as Pfc. Jarvis (Jerry) Rockwell, of nearby Scott air force base, and eldest son of artist-illustrator Norman Rockwell. The picture shows an old country doctor with a mother and three children. One child is sitting on the doctor's knee. "That's me on the doctor's knee, all right," young Rockwell said. "But that's not a doctor. That's the gardener, I think. I've seen magazine reproductions of the picture and heard father talk about it. But this is the first time I've seen a large reproduction and I'd like to have it." The druggist said Rockwell could have the picture when a new window display arrived. And he kept his word.

Washington Was an Engineer Gained Fame as 16-Year-Old Technician; Organized Army Corps of Engineers

By Central Press

WASHINGTON — You probably didn't know it, but George Washington, our first president, was an expert engineer. In fact, many of America's manpower experts are hoping that by publicizing Washington's reputation as an engineer, present day high school students can be induced to take up the profession in greater numbers. This would help ease the greatest pinch of the defense effort — the shortage of engineers. By 1954, America will need 100,000 more professional engineers than there is any prospect of getting at present. The engineering profession is paying special tribute to the great Virginian during "Engineers' Week," Feb. 17-23, in coast-to-coast celebrations in every state in the union. Helped Him Become President "Not many people know it," says Paul H. Robbins, executive director of the National Society of Professional Engineers, "but Washington achieved his first fame as an engineer. If he had not been a good engineer, he might never have built up the reputation which carried him to the presidency. In fact, his talent as a military engineer was a large factor in America winning the Revolutionary war. "Washington was only 16 years old when he got his first job as an engineer, surveying the estate of Lord Fairfax in Virginia. How highly the young man was regarded can be seen by his pay, more than a doubleloon a day, or $16. In purchasing power, that's equal to about $50 today. Organized Potomac Company "Washington organized a company to drain the Dismal swamp, and he also organized the Potomac company to build a canal from the Potomac river to the interior of the United States. "As a military engineer, Washington built roads through forests, erected bridges and built forts. He also organized the corps of engineers of the United States Army. "In the French and Indian war, Washington opened the first road westward across the Allegheny mountains. He crossed through the Cumberland Gap and built a road complete with bridges, through to the Monongahela and Ohio rivers. "Washington was acting under orders from Governor Dinwiddie of Virginia. The road was built for an army that never came, but it repaid its cost many times over as an artery of trade in peacetime. It is the same route now taken by U.S. 40. "Even as President, Washington kept an active interest in engineering. He played an active part in designing the city of Washington and issued its first building regulations."

GEORGE WASHINGTON is depicted as a 16-year-old engineer helping survey the estate of Lord Fairfax in Virginia colony in the old drawing.

House Without a Clock - Convicts Welcome Chapel Call on Sundays

Distributed by Central Press

JACKSON, MICH. — Somebody once told me the chemical elements in our bodies could be bought for 98 cents. Of course, this was before inflation when the dollar was as sound as a street-car's clang and hamburgers sold for a nickel. However, I've never yet heard of anyone trying to legal-tenderize our egos. Maybe it's because the mint can't make this kind of money—or hasn't found a substance flexible enough to be mud all week and sterling something or the other on Sunday. That's the kind of stuff lots of us are made of, though. All week long we're busy making a mess of things. Come Sunday, the dirt is swept into a neat little pile under the carpet—and we hie off to the chapel for a glimpse of the precious substance God included in us. "Need Week of Sundays" However, a week of Sundays is what we need. Then perhaps all the petty prison politics, gossip and hair sand wouldn't bother us so much. For, having a constant sound perspective of what God intends us to use this sterling stuff for, we wouldn't be too anxious to lose sight of it and return to our lowly state to be molded by daily frictions. Though most cons won't admit it—they still welcome the Sunday church with relish. Where, in the placid atmosphere of the chapel, the beautiful tones of organ music entice, then command, the inner man to come out, shake hands all around, rejoice, be one in the Spirit of God. In such a sanctified atmosphere it's impossible for anyone to remain a recalcitrant, aloof, antisocial spirit bereft of the feeling of at-onement with God and mankind. And this feeling, this part of us, is worth more than diamonds at black market prices. When the ego surges up declaring we're not a forgotten league alone in a timeless steel and concrete space of eternity—that if we persevere in honest efforts to reform, The Powers That Be will condone our mistakes...

RELIGIOUS SERVICES for Protestant inmates in the state prison of southern Michigan are well attended. Services are held in the prison's theatre.

Quilted Cotton

Rayon has greater tensile strength than acetate, though both fibers have sufficient strength for satisfactory wear. Unlike rayon, acetate melts under high heat. This is why only a warm iron should be used on acetates. It means also that with proper equipment, moire surfaces and fused selvages can be "heat set" into acetates.

Each fiber has its specific uses, both are important in today's garment industry, and each should have its own kind of care.

Home Economics Club Prepares Annual Supper

Know Fabrics

All Require Different Kind of Care

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

It's a good idea to know your fabrics, since each requires a different kind of care.

With today's increasing number of man-made fibers, the consumer may well be confused as to which is which and why.

Recently the federal trade commission ruled that fabrics formerly grouped under the generic name "rayon" now must be labeled either "rayon" or "acetate." The move is hailed with enthusiasm by manufacturers and consumers alike, since it will serve to provide additional identification and information for the benefit of the customer.

Rayon and acetate fibers are chemically different, and thus require different treatment. Rayon fabrics, as a rule, are more in the utility class, can take rougher treatment, while acetate fabrics, used in many high-fashion garments, require gentler handling.

Rayon washables, for instance, may be tossed in the washing machine, laundered with hot water and laundry soap and pressed with a hot iron.

Acetate washables should be washed by hand with luke-warm water and mild soap, and pressed with a warm—not hot—iron.

Rayon, like cotton and linen, is 100 per cent cellulose, and takes the same dyes as those fibers. Acetate is made by combining cellulose with acetic acid, and is a chemically different fiber.

Rayon absorbs more moisture than acetate, thus is slower to dry, but is more useful for athletic underwear and other garments where absorption is important.

For the same reason acetate is likely to shrink or stretch less than rayon and dries more quickly.

Rayon has greater tensile strength than acetate, though both fibers have sufficient strength for satisfactory wear.

Unlike rayon, acetate melts under high heat. This is why only a warm iron should be used on acetates. It means also that with proper equipment, moire surfaces and fused selvages can be "heat set" into acetates.

Each fiber has its specific uses, both are important in today's garment industry, and each should have its own kind of care.

Currier Cook Prepares 600 Bowls of Hot Chili

MRS. MABEL FULLERTON, HEAD DINNER COOK at Currier hall, says she enjoys cooking for large numbers of people. She has been at Currier since 1939.

By JO ANN PACKEY

Mrs. Mable Fullerton realizes what it is to have 600 guests for dinner every day.

As head dinner cook at Currier hall, she can put together six cases of red kidney beans, four cases of tomatoes, 120 pounds of hamburger, onions, and three cups of chili powder in such a way that it turns into 600 bowls of delicious hot chili, one of the favorite dishes of Currier women.

Mrs. Fullerton, who was taught to cook by her mother, has been cooking for large numbers of people for over 25 years. She started cooking for Currier in 1939 when the kitchens and dining rooms were still in the process of construction.

A cook for the past three summers for over 100 people at Iowa Lakeside Research laboratories at Lake Okoboji, she spends portions of her vacations traveling and visiting her two daughters, both graduates of SUI.

Remembering the summer she cooked for 12 carpenters, it is her opinion that "men really eat" whereas "women like the more fussy things," though she likes to cook for either sex equally as well.

However, she doesn't like to cook for just a few people.

Mrs. Fullerton says she enjoys eating someone else's cooking, although she qualified her statement with "Well, not everybody's cooking."

Crocheting, embroidering, reading recipes and cooking methods, occupies the free time of Currier's chef who likes her job mainly because "people like what I cook."

This is her recipe for chili for a serving of five:
1 lb. ground beef
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 tsp. salt
1 No. 2 can kidney beans
1 medium onion
Chili powder to taste
Brown the onions and ground beef together, add tomatoes and kidney beans, chili powder, salt and then simmer at least one hour before serving.

GUESS NO. 2: IOWA
I'm batting 1.000.
Three weeks ago, this column contained the first and only prediction of a future athletic contest. Strangely enough, it was right. Iowa beat Illinois.

Who Wants to Know?
That can't be done though, not when we're covering one of the great basketball teams of the country. Every one is interested and wants to know if the Hawks are again going to put the Illini in their place, which is second from our side.

Predictions are fallacious from the start, but behind them lies a semblance of reasoning that might be indicative of the outcome. It should be remembered, though, that the only thing that bounces crazier than a basketball is a football and the end zone is bigger than the basket. So here's the GUESS for Saturday's game.

Iowa has beaten Illinois by five points. In that game the Hawks had more poise than Illinois. In that game Iowa was the better conditioned of the two teams. In that game our boys controlled the rebounds. In that game Chuck Darling exceeded the combined efforts of two very good Illinois centers. And that game was played at home.

Still An Advantage
The home floor advantage is as important now as it was three weeks ago, with the exception that 16,000 people here can make more noise than 6,900 there. We have not won a game at Illinois since 1928, and are not expected to this time.

The foul situation connected with a home floor might well be the deciding factor in the game. Chances are good that if Darling gets four fouls in the first half, as he did against the Illini here, he wouldn't last out the third quarter in George Huff gymnasium in Champaign.

Offensive rebounding in the second half built up Iowa's safety margin three weeks ago, and will be equally vital in Saturday's game. Although the Hawks have hit on an unusually good .357 percentage of their shots from the field, many of them have been on second tries.

Illinois Has Height
Illinois has a slightly taller team without both of their big boys, Kerr and Peterson, in at the same time. In the game here they tried that combination for a short time but it didn't work too well.

Whether Darling can repeat his amazing superiority over the two big Illini will also depend on the foul picture. In the game here Peterson collected three personals in the first quarter which undoubtedly handicapped him. Against Indiana at Bloomington, center Don Schlund scored rather freely after Chuck had been called four times. A player has to be unusually cautious on a foreign court if he's threatened with fouling out.

The conclusion to all this follows: Iowa will start slowly, as it has in all but one or two of its games. Our Hawkeys will be behind at the half, but their superior poise, conditioning, rebounding, and possibly will-to-win will prevail. Iowa, and here's the GUESS, will beat Illinois.

Holds Record

RICH FERGUSON, IOWA'S 2-mile record holder, practices his stride for Saturday's dual meet with Minnesota in the Iowa field house. Ferguson set a new Hawkeye record of 9:35.5 for the event in the Wisconsin meet and is favored to repeat his win against the Gophers.

No Time for Handstands

IN A CHICAGO HIGH SCHOOL game, Tilden Tech's Bill Palka either takes time out to practice tumbling or is trying to get at the source of the trouble in a game last Saturday. Watching Bill's antics are two Pekin, Ill. players as the ball goes unnoticed out of bounds. Pekin won, 59-56.

Both Teams Undefeated —

Tankers To Test Michigan Strength

By LEE CANNING

Iowa's swimming team, undefeated in four dual meets, challenges Michigan, also unbeaten, Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Hawkeye pool.

Hawkeye coach David Armbruster has termed Saturday's meet as "the most important on our schedule and one of the top dual meets in the country for this season."

"It will take top performances by the team as a whole to beat Michigan but we might surprise them with some breaks," Armbruster continued.

Wolves Have Good Record

The Wolverines already have topped Northwestern, Bowling Green, Purdue, and Michigan State in dual meets. Minnesota and Wisconsin fell in a triangular match. Coach Matt Mann's men were especially impressive in beating Michigan State, which finished second in the 1951 NCAA championships.

Built around the best freshman and sophomore prospects in the Big Ten, Michigan also has 11 lettermen returning from 1951. The Wolverines finished third in the conference and eighth in the NCAA last season.

Biggest attraction of the meet will be the 200-yard breaststroke event with Iowa's Bowen Stassforth, holder of the American record for that event, meeting Michigan's John Davies. Davies was Big Ten and National AAU 200-meter outdoor champion in 1951.

Represents Australia

In winning the National AAU crown last summer, he broke Joe Verdeur's old record for the event with a time of 2:35.8. A member of the Australian Olympic team in 1948, Davies already has qualified for the Aussies' 1952 Olympic squad.

Veteran Stewart Elliot backs up Davies in the breaststroke. He won the conference 100-yard event and finished third over the same distance in the NCAA championships last year.

Most celebrated of the new Wolves is Bumpy Jones, a Detroit freshman. Holder of five city records, he can be used in the backstroke, individual medley or any of the free style events from 50 to 440-yards. Jones already holds the American medley relay record and was a National AAU champion at 18.

Iowa's Depth Good
In the sprints, Don Hill, a sophomore, has been the most outstanding Wolverine this season.

Iowa will counter Michigan's individual brilliance with team depth and the steady improvement of five Hawkeys during recent meets.

Buddy Lucas and Don Watson, Iowa's best at 440-yards, have dropped their times in each meet and could give Michigan trouble at that distance. Sprinters Dick Pennington, Dick Labahn and Keo Mana also have turned in better performances than was expected at the beginning of the season.

ST. LOUIS WINS VALLEY
ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis University clinched the Missouri Valley conference basketball title — and an automatic berth in the post-season NCAA tournament — by defeating the University of Houston Wednesday night, 63-55.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

POOR SHEEDY was in the soup with a turtle named Myrtle. "I'm in a tortizy," he wailed, "what shell I do?" "Well, it's your messy hare that parts you from all the girls," his roommate said. "Better get Wildroot Cream-Oil!" Non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Relieves dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test. Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil and now he's out turtle-necking all the time! So don't stick your neck out... get some terrapin-money and hurry to the nearest drug or toilet goods counter for a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. And ask for it on your hare at your favorite barber shop. Then you'll really be in the swim.

U.S. Woman Wins Again

Andy Lawrence Falls, but Puts America in 2d

OSLO (AP) — America's 19-year-old ski queen, Andrea (Andy) Mead Lawrence, picked herself out of the snow after a tumble in the Olympic slalom Wednesday and staged a great comeback to win her second gold medal of the winter games.

The victory — believed impossible after the Rutland, Vt., housewife skidded and fell on the first of two runs down Rodkleiva's hazardous slope — climaxed the greatest showing in history for a United States ski team in the Olympics.

The tall, slender New Englander became the first American skier, man or woman, to win two Olympic titles and she established herself as the world's greatest in her specialty.

Breaks Scoring Famine
The triumph broke a three-day scoring famine for the Americans and the United States picked up other points in the women's figure skating, won by England's world champion, Jeanette Altwegg.

Tenley Albright, 16-year-old schoolgirl from Newton Center, Mass., won second place behind the 22-year-old British girl in Wednesday's free figure maneuvers.

In all, the United States' ladies rolled up a total of 22 points Wednesday in skiing and figure skating to put America into second place in the unofficial team standings. With 15 of 21 events completed, Norway still leads with 101 points, followed by the U.S. with 56½. Austria fell to third with 51. Finland has 41 and Germany 28.

Gets Up and Wins
But these developments were completely overshadowed by Mrs. Lawrence's spill and her bold rally that won her the two-heat slalom championships in 2:10.6. Andrea won the giant slalom last Saturday.

Racing down the 508-yard slope

Big Ten Scoring

Here are the Big Ten's leading scorers, as compiled by the Western Conference Service bureau:

Player	Team	Points
C. Darling	Ia.	10.97
C. McNulty	Pa.	11.99
D. Schlund	Ind.	10.70
P. Ebert	OsU	11.80
A. Nicholas	Wis.	9.34
R. Leonard	Ind.	10.67
E. Petranek	Ia.	12.63
P. Morris	Wis.	9.15
C. Meneel	Minn.	12.64
E. Katsatz	Minn.	12.63
K. Stuckhouse	M.S.C.	12.35
J. Kerr	Ill.	10.31
R. Fletcher	Ill.	10.46
L. Bellefield	Ia.	12.36
R. Clifton	Ia.	10.45

at binding speed, Andrea tried to make a difficult right turn at one of the 49 control gates near the top of the hill. She skidded and went spinning into the soft snow.

The United States star picked herself up quickly and continued the run with a wild rush that brought cheers from the spectators. She finished in a creditable 1:7.2 — good for fourth place at the halfway mark.

Bests 14 Best
On the next turn she flawlessly weve in and out of the turns and then skied into the arms of her husband, David, a member of the men's ski team. She was timed in 1:03.4. Others in the field of 42 from 14 countries, representing the best feminine skiers in the world, failed in their tries to match it.

While championships were being decided on the ski ranges, tempers were flaring hot in the ice hockey tournament which produced the biggest controversy of the 1948 games at St. Moritz.

A Zurich, Switzerland, newspaper branded American and Canadian hockey players "rowdies" and suggested the sport probably should be deleted from the Olympic program. The criticism stemmed from the game Tuesday night between the United States and Switzerland, won by the Americans, 8-2. Bewildered by the rough and ready style of the North Americans, the crowd booed, threw orange peelings on the ice and yelled, "Chicago gangsters."

Say Ex-Kentucky Star 'Cooperates' With D.A.'s Office

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Hirsch, captain of the 1950-51 University of Kentucky team, "cooperated" with the district attorney's office Wednesday throughout a day of questioning regarding the college basketball scandals which have involved more than 30 players from seven schools.

There was no announcement as to the line of questioning, but it was learned Hirsch cooperated with Assistant District Atty. Vincent A. G. O'Connor and William Siriganio.

Hirsch arrived Tuesday night from Dayton, Ohio, in the company of two detectives. District Atty. Frank Hogan said Hirsch agreed to come to New York voluntarily after previously refusing to cooperate in the investigation while he still was in Kentucky.

Hogan said New York and Ohio have a reciprocal witness agreement. The former Kentucky captain will be questioned again today but no date has been set for his appearance before the New York county grand jury.

Work on Illinois Plays

Basketball Coach Bucky O'Connor had his players practicing defensive measures against Illinois plays Wednesday in preparation for the game this weekend.

Scout Ben Douglas, who has watched the Illini in several games this season, mapped out their weaknesses and helped in the drill.

Everyone was present at the session, and it was indicated that all will be physically sound for the game, which is expected to decide the Big Ten championship.

Chuck Darling and Deacon Davison showed no signs of their recent bad colds, and Bob Clifton's charley horse gave him little trouble. Chuck Jarnagin's wrist, injured in the Butler game, has completely healed.

4 Injuries Cloud Gymnasts' Chances

Coach Dick Holzappel and his Iowa gymnasts will meet Indiana here Saturday with four veterans on the injured list.

Co-captains Al Fienup and Frank LaDue are both expected to compete against the Hoosiers but will be below top efficiency because of injuries suffered in Wednesday's practice session.

Fienup, who has been handicapped all season with a sprained ankle, tore his hand on the high bar, and LaDue injured his hip on a fall from the trampoline.

Earle Duggan, a specialist in the parallel bar event, and Tom Witte, who competes on the horizontal bar, are nursing serious colds. Both, however, will see action in Saturday's meet.

Starting time for the Indiana battle at the field house has been moved up to 1:30 p.m.

Johnny Bratton Wins Over Cardell in '50

CHICAGO (AP) — Johnny Bratton, Chicago, former NBA welterweight champion, Wednesday night gained a split decision over rugged Vic Cardell, Hartford, Conn., in a nationally televised round bout in the Chicago stadium.

The victory moved Bratton, 33, into a more favorable spot for a return engagement with Cuba's Kid Gavilan, the 14-pound title holder. The triumph also rewarded Bratton with March 26 date in the stadium with Billy Graham, New York, other welterweight challenger.

REPRESENTING 75 DETROIT JEWS, Leonard N. Simons, (left) observes Brotherhood week by presenting checks totaling $7,500 to Rev. Celestin J. Lincoln Collection's Auction Brings Thousands of Dollars

NEW YORK (AP) — It's hard to say which would have amazed Abraham Lincoln most. He would have been startled, at least, that a copy of the emancipation proclamation — a discarded copy with an error in it—would be worth $18,000 mainly because it had his signature on it. But one could almost see Lincoln shaking his head and saying something dry about the prices fetched by such everyday things as a pair of old Indian moccasins, a battered silver watch and a fragile pair of spectacles.

Belongings Auctioned
The document and the personal articles were part of hundreds of items—all touched by the magic name of Lincoln—that brought big sums Wednesday in one of the most important Lincoln auctions in years.

It was a two-day sale of the famed Lincoln collection of the late Oliver R. Barrett of Chicago. At Wednesday's afternoon session the Parke-Bernet galleries sold some 230 lots for $63,130, making a total of $248,383 brought in so far.

About 300 persons gathered in the richly furnished auction room of the gallery.

Document Brings $18,000

Lincoln's signature on the first copy of the emancipation proclamation made the document worth $18,000 to Charles Scribner Sons of New York.

That particular document, also signed by Secretary of State William H. Seward, contained an error and another proclamation had to be drawn up. There is no record that Lincoln ever saw the copy again after signing it.

Given Watch Chain

When a group of western railroad men visited Lincoln, in 1863, one noticed his old, worn watch chain. They made him one of California gold and he promptly snapped it on his watch. That gold chain Wednesday sold for $1,300, and was bought by the Helms Athletic foundation of Los Angeles. His old silver watch—a Waltham—was worth a big sum to the Waltham watch company—$1,600. As for those Indian moccasins, Lincoln would never have believed it—they sold for $275, as did his spectacles.

Snowplows Save Boy In Ambulance

ROCHESTER, MINN. (AP) — An ambulance carrying a three-year-old boy to the Mayo clinic here was stalled in deep snow drifts for six hours Tuesday night during the storm that swept across most of Minnesota.

Little Kenneth Backen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Backen of Downsville, Wis., was being transferred to the clinic after doctors at Eau Claire, Wis., said they believed he had a brain tumor.

Mayo clinic doctors said Wednesday the boy was evidently "none the worse" after spending most of the night in the stalled ambulance.

When the ambulance became stalled about 11 p.m. last night, the driver went to a farm house near south Troy and telephoned Rochester, asking that snow plows be sent to clear a path.

Farmers turned out with shovels to try to dig through the 10 and 12-foot drifts, but were unable to make much headway.

State highway plows, a rotary plow and wrecker trucks that left Rochester as soon as the call was received were unable to chew a path through the deep drifts until dawn.

Kenneth slept through most of the ordeal.

Judge to Open Verdict Today

A sealed verdict was returned late Wednesday afternoon by a jury here in an auto accident damage suit and will be opened today by District Judge James P. Gaffney.

The case is one in which Frank M. Hunt Jr., asks $1,352.28 damages against L. R. Spencer and Spencer's Harmony Hall. Spencer seeks $352.75 in a counter-claim for damage to his truck when it struck Hunt's auto at the intersection of Burlington and Dodge sts., Feb. 22, 1951.

Death Row Inmate Appeals Sentence

DES MOINES (AP) — Attorneys for Max B. Martin, 25, Greenfield, occupant of a death row cell at Fort Madison state penitentiary, beat an appeal filing deadline with the Iowa supreme court by only a couple of hours Wednesday.

A month ago the court granted the attorneys a 30-day extension, to Wednesday, for filing printed briefs and arguments. The filings were made about mid-afternoon. The court closing hour is 5 p.m. Martin is appealing his sentence to be hanged for the fatal shooting of Mrs. Glenn J. Schrader at her farm home near Greenfield, Jan. 19, 1951.

Craftsmen To Strike At Cedar Rapids' Quaker Oats Plant

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—Skilled craftsmen at the Cedar Rapids plant of the Quaker Oats company will go on strike at 7 a.m. today.

A decision to strike was reached late Wednesday by approximately 93 members of the Cedar Rapids local of the International Association of Machinists after a breakdown of wage negotiations.

Cody Quinn, International representative of the union, said the craftsmen had turned down a company offer of settlement submitted earlier Wednesday. The company offered a wage increase of 10 1/2 cents an hour, retroactive to July 1 with a wage reopening clause after next Aug. 1. The union asked 22 cents an hour increase with a wage reopening period in six months.

Members of the union include machinists, electricians, welders, steamfitters, pipefitters, painters, millwrights and sheet metal workers.

Company officials said they hoped to keep the plant in operation despite the walkout.

Elizabeth Taylor's Plans For Wedding Hit Snag

LONDON (AP) — Screen star Elizabeth Taylor's plans for a quickie marriage to British actor Michael Wilding ran into a snag Wednesday night—she forgot her divorce papers.

If they get here on time, the marriage will be today. If not, well then maybe Friday.

The papers, required by the registrar of marriages, are the official record that Miss Taylor is divorced from hotel heir Nicky Hilton. She flew here from New York Tuesday to be married in a hurry. In her haste, she forgot to tuck the papers into her hand bag.

All was confusion as a result, but neither Wilding nor Miss Taylor, who dined Wednesday night at his Mayfair apartment, appeared very perturbed. A delayed marriage merely means a shortened honeymoon. They had hoped for eight days in Paris and Switzerland, and now may have to be content with a week. He must be back in London March 3.

"There have been frantic cables about the papers," Wilding said late Wednesday. "I think it will be all right — we are keeping our fingers crossed — but if not we shall have to wait until Friday to be married."

Film producer Herbert Wilcox will be Wilding's attendant. It was expected that Wilcox's wife, actress Anna Neagle, would be present as an informal attendant to the bride.

The formal marriage declaration gives notice that "Michael Charles Gauntlett Wilding, actor, the divorced husband of Kathleen Wilding, formerly Young, spinster," is to marry "Elizabeth Rosemond Taylor, otherwise Hilton, formerly the wife of Nicholson Hilton, from whom she obtained a divorce."

Her age is given as 19, his as 39.

Kitts Case Goes to Jury As Patrolman Testifies

NORTH PLATTE, NEB., (AP) — Testimony of a former North Platte policeman that he saw Kenneth Kitts and George E. Hart, 31, together here early in February, 1951, closed the government's case in the federal court trial of Hart here Wednesday.

Hart is charged with harboring Kitts, slick escape artist and convicted bank burglar, after Kitts fled from the Linn county jail in Cedar Rapids, Ia., Jan. 23, 1951.

The case is slated to go before the jury by noon today after prosecution and defense complete their summations.

Charged with Kitts Concealment

A sidelight to the trial was the charging of William Glenn Slankard of North Platte with harboring and concealing Kitts on Feb. 4, 1951.

Slankard, who was arrested in Granite City, Ill., during Kitts' 17-day period of freedom early in 1951, was sentenced at Springfield, Ill., March 30, 1951 to a year and a day in the Leavenworth, Kan., penitentiary on another charge of harboring Kitts.

The new complaint, signed by FBI agent Elmer Jacobson of Omaha, alleges that Slankard harbored Kitts in North Platte.

Slankard was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Horace Crosby Tuesday and was confined in the Linn county jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Slankard refused Tuesday to testify at Hart's trial, claiming constitutional immunity.

Former Policeman Testifies

The former North Platte policeman who testified Wednesday was Raymond Brown, who now lives in the state of Washington. He told the jury that he saw Kitts riding in an automobile driven by Hart in early February, 1951.

when he was a patrolman on the North Platte police force. He said he was in a patrol car with former police Capt. David Brown at the time.

He testified they tried to follow the car but lost it in heavy traffic. During cross-examination by defense counsel Milton C. Murphy, Brown said he had never questioned Hart about the instance.

He said he had searched for Hart the following day, but that Kitts had been captured before he located Hart.

U-High Pupils Offer Advice To Teachers

Memo to teachers: Lecture to your students, not the blackboard.

Stress discipline, but avoid the "behave-or-I'll-give-you-a-quiz" type of threat. It doesn't work.

Dress well, be friendly and never let your students see that you are scared.

These were some of the suggestions University high school pupils gave their teachers in a panel discussion on teachers at the school this week.

Gives Advice

Katy Johnson, grade 8, told her student teachers that they should not talk in a monotone, but they should have a sense of humor, dress well, and above all, never let their students see that they are scared.

Tom Kent, University high senior, felt that discipline was most important. He said that the "behave-or-I'll-give-you-a-quiz" type of discipline that some University student teachers use not only does not work, but also has a bad effect.

He also seconded Katy's opinion on dress, adding that student teachers who come to class in old army clothes did not command the respect from the pupils.

Wants 'Human' Effect Paul Martin, grade 9, said that his teachers should tell a little about themselves so that the pupils would look at them as people, not just as a teacher that was "here today and gone tomorrow."

Prof. John Haefner, head of the social studies at University high, was moderator of the discussion which was sponsored by the SUI Future Teachers association.

Speaker Calls Free Opportunity 'Sparkplug of Success' Here

Free opportunity, the chance to take a chance, is still the sparkplug of success, a personnel recruiter said here Wednesday.

The recruiter, C. W. Gammerding, of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, Akron, Ohio, talked before a session of the career conferences being held on campus this week.

Attendance at 15 sessions held Wednesday totaled about 700 persons.

Planned for the benefit of Iowa students who are looking forward to graduation and employment in the next few months, the careers conference features a series of 27 sessions in which students meet with business leaders.

The conference began Wednesday and continues until 4 p.m. this afternoon. A "kickoff" banquet was held Tuesday evening.

Tells Hiring Standards

Gammerding outlined 13 basic selection standards for applicants used by his company. Included in this list were character, attitude, aptitude, personality, knowledge, education and ability to do the job.

As fundamental requirements for applicants, concerning standards, he emphasized a broad outlook, an open mind and a willingness to work.

"It is refreshing to find men who have a clear conception of what they want to do and realize that it takes hard work to get there," he said.

Gammerding added that a man must be a good manager of himself and his personal affairs.

Stresses Broad Education
Herbert O. Tschudy, advertising manager of the Marshalltown Times-Republican, urged students to utilize their college days to get a broad education in human relations.

Tschudy reminded students that their individual success in the future will depend to a large extent upon personal initiative, the extent to which they produce results for their employers and the ability which they display.

Today's Sessions

Today's sessions will deal with selling and sales management, secretarial science, radio and television advertising, federal bureau of investigation, office management, foreign trade, government economics, industrial accounting,

2 Women Injured In Head-On Crash

Two women, injured Wednesday morning in a head-on auto collision on an icy curve at the east edge of Iowa City, were reported in "reasonably good condition" by University hospital officials late Wednesday.

The injured are Edith Smith, 37, Davenport, who suffered minor injuries and Mrs. S. Raymond Beck, 42, of West Des Moines, whose injuries were not completely determined, hospital officials said.

The car in which they were riding collided with one driven by Warren K. Wood, A2, Davenport, who was released from University hospitals after treatment for abrasions. His car, heading west, apparently skidded across highway 6 into the opposite lane, police said.

Damage to the Smith car was estimated at $1,400 and to the Wood car at $700.

Young Republicans, Demos, to Discuss National Candidates

Prof. Vernon Van Dyke, of the SUI political science department, will speak on "Truman and Taft Policy Toward Europe" at a meeting of Young Democrats at 7:30 p.m. today in 221A Schaeffer hall.

At the same time, in room 321 in Schaeffer hall, Young Republicans will hold an organizational meeting of a "Taft for President" club.

Members of the SUI Young Republicans said Wednesday that their constitution does not permit an endorsement of any particular candidate, but that they felt a meeting of this sort would stimulate student interest in the overall political picture.

Officers will be elected at tonight's Republican meeting and literature obtained from state "Taft for President" headquarters will be distributed. Jack E. Stoufer, A4, will be temporary chairman.

Iowa Trailer Home Destroyed by Fire

STORM LAKE (AP) — Fire destroyed the trailer home of the Joe Deray family at Lakeside near here Wednesday. The 35-foot trailer and contents were a complete loss, first chief Harold Stanton said. The family saved only the clothing on their backs.

Mrs. Deray and a 5-year-old daughter were visiting next door when the blaze broke out. It is thought the fire started in straw which banked the home.

A fund to help the Deray family has been started by the men's council of the Lakeside Presbyterian church.
