Guest Instructors Meet

THREE FORMER GUEST INSTRUCTORS of the SUI school of religion were united for the first time when Dr. Howard Thurman (left) spoke at university vesper services recently. Dr. Thurman is pastor of the Church for the Fellowship of All Peoples in San Francisco. Dr. O. D. Foster (center) of Iowa City, who formulated the plan for the school of religion 25 years ago, and Dr. T. Z. Koo (right), director of SUI Oriental studies, have also lectured to religion classes.

School of Religion Stresses Harmony Between All Men

SUI's school of religion presently observing Brotherhood Week with the rest of the nation, is a living, year-round witness to the ideal of harmony between all men.

From its inception 25 years ago it has had a regular faculty consisting of a Jew, a Roman Catholic and two Protestants. In addition it has had three guest teachers during its history and it is of some significance that these men were of different races.

Dr. O. D. Foster, who formulated the plan of the school when he was university secretary of the old Council of Church Boards of Education, was a guest teacher from 1945 to 1947. A Congregationalist reared in a rigid tradition, he early outgrew the bounds of sectarianism. He includes among the "ten men who have meant most to me in my life" a Jewish rabbi and a Catholic archbishop.

Dr. Foster is now in Iowa City where for the last year he has been writing his memoirs.

The second member of the trio is a Negro, Dr. Howard Thurman, pastor of the interracial Church for the Fellowship of All Peoples in San Francisco. Dr. Thurman, a Baptist, served as guest teacher during the summer of 1946 and the spring of 1948. One of his classes during the latter period numbered 330 students.

The last member is Chinese. He is Dr. T. Z. Koo, who for 20 years was traveling secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation. An Episcopalian, Koo came to SUI a year and a half ago as head of the department of oriental studies. Prior to that he had been guest lecturer at the school of religion.

'Love Nest'

Frank Fay Charms Wealthy Widows

By JIM WELLS
The brother-sister team of "Harvey" is in town, at the same theater, but in different features.

Frank Fay — with many aliases, occupations, and addresses — makes a good living by charming wealthy widows in "Love Nest." The setting for his rarely rejected advances is New York city in 1945.

Josephine Hull mismanages a piece of wide-open space in the Texas of 1888 in "Lady from Texas."

"Haven't you any cattle?" asks her new ranchhand, Howard Duff. "Cattle? Oh, I believe they're shy. They stay back in the hills. I haven't seen them for years," is the reply of the Oscar-winning voice of "Harvey" and "Arsenic and Old Lace."

The "love nest" is a run-down apartment house that June Haver bought so husband William Lundigan would have a place to come home to after the war.

With all a landlord's conventional problems and some unconventional ones too, it's not exactly peaceful.

Monday Marks SUI's 105th Birthday

By GENE HOFF

SUI will be 105 years old Monday.

An act of the first general assembly established the university Feb. 25, 1847, just 59 days after Iowa became a state. The purpose was to provide teachers for pioneer schools.

The establishment act located the university at Iowa City with provisions for "such branches as public convenience may require." This resulted in confusion as legislators clamored for branches in their towns.

Fairfield, Oskaloosa, Mount Pleasant, Keokuk, and Andrew (the governor's home) all had branches of the school. Appropriations had to be parceled out to provide for all.

Branches Abolished
The state constitution of 1857 clarified the situation by backing Iowa City, then 18 years old, "without branches at any other place." One stalwart legislator held out for a "quiet, rural place."

Early students were attracted to SUI by a circular with these glowing terms:
"The university is beautifully situated upon the Iowa river at the very point of junction between an extensive forest on the north and rolling prairies on the south."
Iowa City was said to possess "at all times a fine, bracing atmosphere and a degree of health rarely, if ever, enjoyed by any other city of its size."

"Perfect Quietness"
Another pamphlet described study hours at SUI as being "in perfect quietness."

It is clear that study was emphasized, as university regulations prohibited visits by students to "saloons, gaming houses, billiard rooms and theaters."

Tuition fees were reasonable: from $7.75 to $8.50. Late payments were assessed a one dollar fine.

The university then had nine departments, dealing mainly with languages, philosophy, history and science. Students were required to do work in three departments.

B.S. degrees were granted after two years' work. Four years were required for a B.A. degree and six for a Ph.D.

First Class Had 19 Students
The first class had 19 students, 15 of them men, and a faculty of seven.

The school was not immediately successful, and in 1858 was forced to close due to lack of

From Other Colleges

MICHIGAN
Legalized gambling got a boost from a University of Michigan political science professor last week. He went on a limb to protect gambling and declared "Since it is evidently human nature to gamble in one way or another why pass laws to restrain it?" He concluded that "gambling is so deeply rooted in modern man's personal makeup that nothing, not even woman, can restrain it."

MISSOURI
A University of Missouri student won top honors in the annual Mahan poetry contest but probably got his feelings hurt in the process. The graduate student was one of 15 entries in the contest and won only second prize although the $25 he received was actually first place. The judges ruled against awarding a first prize since it was decided that none of the entries came up to the high standards set by previous prizewinners. Last year the field included 120 poems.

OHIO STATE
The college of agriculture at Ohio State will award two scholarships next week in memory of former students killed in automobile crashes. A $300 fund has been set aside through gifts from friends of an economics junior killed last fall. Students eligible for this award are required to be in the college of agriculture and must have completed a year and one-half of college work.

A similar scholarship is to be awarded a member of Pleiades, an independent women's organization. The recipient is required to be in the college of education and at least a sophomore. This fund was arranged after the death of an education sophomore killed when the car in which she was riding was struck by a train.

MINNESOTA
Thirty-six members of the Phi Delta Chi fraternity at the University of Minnesota are awaiting action by the disciplinary committee following a mix-up which directly involves the fraternity. It was known that four of the students would no longer be permitted to attend classes, while the fate of 32 others is yet undecided, as the latter group was only indirectly involved.

The action was started when one confessed stealing answers to a mid-quarter exam and the other three to stealing furniture for the fraternity house.

KANSAS
A University of Kansas professor has completed another map for Rand McNally and Co., showing the detailed natural plant life throughout the country. The professor modeled this map from a vegetable map of the world he published two years ago in the Encyclopaedia Britannica atlas. The map gives the classification of all plant life, height and density of the vegetation in any territory, the regional habitat as well as floral aspects. The map will appear in "Goode's School Atlas" and will begin its use in geography courses at Kansas.

More than 130,000 students have attended SUI and degrees have been granted to 60,000.

Interpreting the News —

French Rearmament Spurred by U.S. Aid

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.

Approval by the North Atlantic Treaty organization of the unified army planned for Western Europe is more of a psychological than a material factor in the U.S. campaign to get Paris and Bonn moving.

Probably of much more real significance was the announcement at Lisbon that the United States had agreed to provide France additional aid—$500 million worth—in her rearmament program.

France has been moving crab-fashion for some weeks in her effort to support the unified army plan—now to be known as the European defense community—and at the same time prevent German participation from reviving that country's continental mastery.

The new aid, plus less formal assurance that British and American troops will be right there reinforcing the Europeans—and incidentally guaranteeing France against Germany—is designed to help the French internationalists carry along their parliament and people.

Involves 13 Nations
NATO's interest in the form of continental Europe's contribution to the general defense program. The unified army plan involves troops of France, Germany, Italy, Luxembourg, Belgium and Holland. It will be allied with the forces of the U.S., Britain, Norway, Denmark, Canada, Greece and Turkey.

The European defense community would consist of the army under a joint department of defense, with a cabinet and six-nation council, acting in defense matters as the national governments of the noncontingent powers acting in connection with NATO.

Germany's voice in this unified defense organization will thus give her voice in NATO, although she may not become an actual member of the parent organization for some time. This is expected to lessen some of the "equal rights" pressure on Chancellor Adenauer who, like Foreign Minister Schuman in France, appears to have gotten ahead of his own country's public thinking.

Some estimates have been made that a final agreement can be made within the next six weeks. There is fear, however, that a lot of the sweetness of the last few days has been due to the presence in Europe of high American officials, and that France and Germany will resume their squabbling over the Saar, German war production, and other nationalistic fears and jealousies as soon as things settle back to normal.

Ike's Position Important
General Eisenhower's great prestige among the Europeans could prove an important factor.

They know he is not going to stay there indefinitely to run the organization he is working so hard to start. The next best thing for them, if the United States is to change presidents, would be to have him get it. His friends in America are urging him to come home and get busy on his campaign for the Republican nomination.

He might consider that final agreement on the European defense organization would mark completion of his European assignment and so release him from his promise not to participate actively in politics until his present job is finished.

The Europeans are bound to think at least a little bit about this as they go ahead in the search for final agreement.

House Without a Clock — Convicts 'Escape' Through Prison Library

(This is the last of a series of stories written by an inmate of the state prison of Southern Michigan, the world's largest correctional institution. It is designed to describe a few light and heavy sides of prison life by an inmate — No. 77615 — who will soon be seeking newspaper work on the outside.)

Distributed by Central Press

JACKSON, MICH. — The cartoonists and movies do a good job of putting the hacksaws in the cake and the "roscoes" in the cotton bale, but maybe I can sneak a scoop by saying convicts sometimes have sensible means of escape — via the prison law library.

I guess most of these cons here didn't have time to think about laws when they were "outside" breaking them at doubletime for overtime and social security if they got caught.

Now with Uncle Michigan paying the freight, quite a few guys study law under the "Canned Manpower Bill of Rights."

It's Free, Anyway
Our legal crams—berries—by padding their noggin with habeas corpus mandamus—are getting the education for free that Abe Lincoln had to split logs for.

"facts" are busily gnawing the bone of extracurricular legal mumbo-jumbo whose voodoo marrow might someday spring them like pogo sticks. . . . But I doubt it.

Still, the studying these guys do can't harm 'em. For it helps mentally and physically by making them run back and forth to the dictionary.

The belly-laughs in this legal beaver stuff start just 25 minutes after the scholars commence snorting into a tome of compiled laws — then come out in a semi-dignified air of propriety and sudden revelation of brain power.

They strut around, amazing people with their pawings about the alleged aggravation of de facto subpoena non vult defendant of first degree slaughter!

If you still don't believe it they refer you to Compiled Laws, volume four, Blackstone and Noah Webster. If you still misbelieve — you might expect a peremptory challenge at Oyer and Terminer — or bet a pack of cigarettes.

These Harvard fugitives, I find, are rarely serious about their studies. Instead, the majority of them use the law library facilities mostly for reasons bordering on curiosity — they're curious about the principles of deep freeze and the laws that put them on ice.

Search Law Books
Occasionally though, some really serious boys come along and settle down to business. Day in, day out, they haunt the place perusing tons of law books in search of some clause, phrase or term that may well enunciate the difference between doing time, and timely doings.

Now, I don't say these guys haven't got a point — maybe they did get "bum raps" — I don't know. For justice hasn't as yet proven infallible.

Anyway, the tonnage of hope the library offers is immeasurable. However, I consider it sort of a barometer of emotional storms and drop around solely to study physiognomy instead of law, usually pretending interest in a huge volume, and sneak a peek at the faces of other convicts lost in dark mazes of legal jungles.

I search for clues to the inner man by scanning eyes, frowns or foreheads, the set of lips. Often I wonder if they know their thoughts, their emotions are manifested.

Even though absorbed in a grueling search for trapdoors to legal tunnels of escape — their faces still tell the story of men marking time.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A LADY who cannot resist the lure of roulette wheels and slot machines stopped off at Reno on her way home from the coast, and bumped into Walter Clark, author of The Ox-Bow Incident. "Fancy meeting you here," exclaimed Clark. "What hotel are you staying at?" "Hotel," echoed the lady, as she bought a new stack of chips. "My dear boy, I've only been here four days!"

"McDonald," rasped the head of a machine tool company, "I thought you told me you were deathly ill yesterday." "That's right," agreed McDonald, "I was." "Hmph-h," snorted the boss, "I'm damned if you looked deathly ill when I caught sight of you at the Belmont Race Track yesterday afternoon." McDonald, thinking fast, countered, "Gee, Boss, that must have been EARLY in the afternoon. You should have seen me after the fifth race!"

Club Cabaret Friday Will Feature 3 Bands

CABARET GIRLS give a preview of some of their activities during the coming week when they will be on campus handing out the cigarettes to students. They are (left to right) Toni Rhombert, Davenport, Ann Groethe, A3, Des Moines and Pat Foster, Davenport. Although they won't be dressed just like this while appearing on campus, the Club Cabaret dance at the Union Friday night will feature appropriately dressed cabaret girls. The girls appearing on campus will be dressed in light blouses and dark skirts with bright scarfs and berets.

The Club Cabaret all-university party will be given Friday evening from 9 to 12, in the Iowa Memorial Union, with three orchestras, two floorshows, and the crowning of Miss SUI all featured on the program.

The entire union will be decorated to symbolize the theme, "Streets of Paris." The "streets" will be represented by the hallway to the main lounge which will assume an air of authenticity with streetlamps, and a flower vendor, played by ballet instructor Mrs. Carolyn Morgan, who will sell flowers for a reasonable price. Signs on the streetlamps will serve as guides to the various "cafes."

The main lounge will be the "club" in which Bill Meardon's orchestra will play framed by a backdrop of a huge champagne glass surrounded with "fleur-de-lis." The edges of the dance floor will be set with candle-lighted tables.

The cafeteria will be decorated to resemble "le cafe de la trottoir" or "sidewalk cafe," complete with tables shaded with umbrellas, a street scene backdrop, and Leo Cortimiglia's orchestra.

The River room, titled "Petit Pigalle," will represent a "basement cafe," with wax-covered wine bottles on checkered table clothes, a backdrop of two Apache dancers, and music by Les Burford's dixieland combo.

The first floorshow will start at 10 p.m. in the River room and will then move to the main lounge, at 10:45, for a second showing. The show will be emceed by Bob Price, G, Greenfield, Ill., and will feature a piano solo by June Rotman, A1, Dubuque, a comedy-blues song by Peggy Madden, A2, Des Moines, and a dance number by Jerry Mason, A1, Milwaukee, Wis., and Angeline Thomas, A3, Cedar Rapids. All numbers are being directed by Jerry Mason.

Following the second floorshow, Miss SUI and six attendants will be selected from a field of 20 candidates and will be crowned by Pat Hauser, A4, Decorah, Hawkeye editor.

Heads of the committees planning the party are Jim Grotenhuis, and Sally Irish, decorations; Terry Skelley and Chuck Wheeler, publicity; Tom Olson, programs; Dale Hayworth, distribution of posters; Peggy Lutz, guests and chaparrones; Ann Lawson, entertainment, and Rosemary Goetzmann, decorations.

Election Workshop 1st Meeting Tuesday Will Be on G.O.P.

The Election Workshop, sponsored by the YWCA committee on effective citizenship, will begin Tuesday at 4:10 p.m. in conference room 2 of the Iowa Memorial Union.

The program "Who's Who in the GOP" will feature three student speakers discussing presidential aspirants.

Bill Ebert, L1, Mount Pleasant, will speak on Eisenhower. Ralph Cockshoot, A4, Atlantic, has Tait as his topic. MacArthur will be discussed by Forrest W. Rosser, L1, Shaker Heights, Ohio.

This program is the first in a series of four. Subsequent programs will be "Who's Who in the Democratic Party" on March 4, "Campaign Issues and Party Stands" on March 11, and on March 18 "Stat eElection."

Diana Hitchings, A3, Davenport, is chairman of the committee.

COSTUME PARTY TONIGHT

The pledges of Alpha Chi Omega are entertaining the active chapter at a Mardi Gras costume party at the chapter house, tonight from 8 to 12 p.m. There will be entertainment and dancing during the evening and refreshments will be served. Geraldine Stover, A2, social chairman of the pledge class is in charge of the arrangements.

Demand Increases - Women Will Work More

— As Prices Rise

Women are likely to contribute a larger share of the nation's family income this year than at any time since World War II, the Institute of Life Insurance reports this month.

Even though a serious labor shortage may not develop in the next eight or 10 months, the demand for women workers in 1952 will undoubtedly increase. High prices are leading wives to supplement family income by outside earnings and there is now a growing number of "war brides" in our population again, whose husbands are overseas or in faraway training camps, and many of whom will want to work. These pressures raised the total women's labor force by more than half a million during 1951 and they will add hundreds of thousands of women to the labor force in 1952. With more and more women shouldering part or all the responsibility of bread-winning for their families, women will undoubtedly increase their share in family saving and family protection in 1952. In World War II, a large proportion of savings was made possible through the efforts of working women, and their purchases of life insurance and annuities and war bonds were particularly important factors in the nation's fight against inflation at that time.

On several scores, the women who have jobs or are self-employed today are different from the women's labor force at the beginning of World War II. For one thing, as a group, today's women workers are older and for another, there are more managers, officials and proprietors of business, and more women employed in the "white collar" fields.

Still another difference between today and 1940 is that so many of the women who are in the labor force today are married, 55 per cent compared to about 35 per cent in 1940. In one marriage out of four in the United States now, the wife earns some outside income.

New Products

From Shock Absorbers To Fender Covers

NEW YORK (AP)—Do you have delicate surfaces or valuable mechanisms to protect? There are a lot of new products on the market this week for that job.

Gilman Brothers company of Gilman, Conn., has a cotton-base shock absorbing material tailor-made for wrapping just about any thing requiring protection.

It is called Celluliner, and the favorite test is to drop an egg from 25 feet on a pad two inches thick. The egg bounces but doesn't break.

The material is used to protect radar and other such delicate instruments in shipment or when dropped by parachute in combat.

It can be made absorbent for wrapping liquids or it can be made moistureproof, mildewproof and flameproof. It is chemically so neutral it won't tarnish anything, and it insulates against heat and cold. The outside covering can be paper, cloth or plastic, depending on end use.

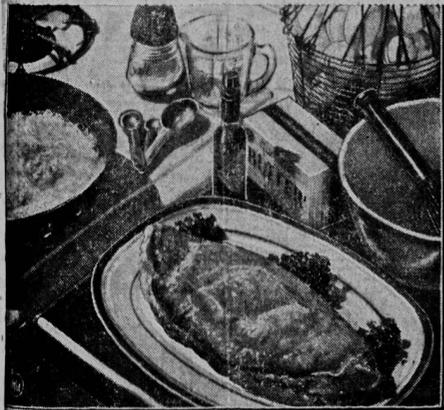

Industrial Covers company of Akron, Ohio, is making a rubber cushioned fender cover to be used by servicemen when repairing your car. The cover is made of greaseproof vinyl film backed by the airfoam rubber cushioning so that greasy tools can be placed on the car without marring the finish.

General Electric at its Owensboro, Ky., plant is producing a new television receiver tube (6BK5) which when used with a second tube (6BN6) will eliminate two additional tubes, other components and several assembly operations. GE said the new tube "may lead to a considerable reduction in television receiver manufacturing costs."

Vinylite plastic sheeting is used by the U.S. Fiber and Plastics corporation of Sterling, N.J., to make a new type of water bucket, drinking cup, wash basin, and dishpan for campers and picnickers. All are folded flat for packing. When unfolded they become a one-gallon bucket, a dishpan 14 inches in diameter and 6 inches deep, a wash basin 10 inches in diameter and 4½ inches deep, and a 6 ounce drinking cup that can hold hot coffee.

Empire Brushes incorporated of Port Chester, N.Y., is making an 8 by 2½ inch scrubbing brush with bristles of bakelite styrene plastic which it says will outwear five ordinary brushes. It can be used either as a hand brush or at the end of the long honey maple handle for anything from scrubbing floors to rugs. The bristles won't rot, mildew or mat.

Omelet's As Good As Its Seasoning

One of the first lessons that a cook should learn is how to make a perfect omelet. Whether using the Cordou Bleu method or slipping out a French omelet, the more general American practice of producing a mouth-watering fluffy omelet, you can reap the rewards of your culinary efforts by following a few simple rules.

Omelets are filling and versatile enough to be served at breakfast, lunch or dinner. Boasting the nutritional reinforcement in seasoning of milk, butter, salt and Tabasco for that little lift on which gourmets insist, the whole family will find omelets one of their favorite foods.

Tabasco of course goes well with omelets; Britishers (and many of Americans) refuse to eat eggs without a few drops of the famous old southern hot sauce. Tabasco scrambled eggs are becoming increasingly popular. Now see what a big help this pungent flavoring is to the omelet.

For breakfast, serve with bacon, eggs or jelly. For lunch, a tomato sauce is in order, and for dinner, an omelet can take over the course duties when served with tender canned mush-

6 eggs, separated
6 tablespoons water
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
2 tablespoons butter
Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Without rinsing beater quickly beat egg yolks with water, salt and Tabasco. Fold into beaten egg whites. Melt butter in a heavy frying pan. Add mixture and cook over low heat, until omelet is slightly brown underneath. Place in a moderate oven (350° F.) about 10 minutes, until dry on top. Cut part way through center. Fold and slip from pan on plate or platter. YIELD: 6 servings.

French Omelet

¼ cup butter
6 eggs
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
Melt butter in heavy frying pan over low heat. Beat eggs and Tabasco until light and foamy. Pour into frying pan and cook over low heat, pushing back the edges and tilting the pan to allow the uncooked egg to run into the bottom of the pan. Increase heat and shake the pan until the omelet loosens. Fold omelet in half. Place a warm platter over pan and invert quickly. YIELD: 6 servings.

ONE FOR THE ROAD!

One more drink—"one for the road!"

It was the Toast to Death for thousands of men and women, and innocent children, too—last year.

The records do not show how many lives were needlessly sacrificed because of alcohol-clouded driving, but they do show that over 6,000 drivers involved in fatal accidents had been drinking. Another 2,000 pedestrians met death in traffic, while in an alcoholic haze.

Ask the man who has just had one or two drinks and he'll probably defend his ability to drive. Perhaps he can—but not safely. Alcoholic stimulation breeds carelessness, speeding, recklessness. In another stage it courts drowsiness. Tests have proved that even a moderate number of drinks lowers a driver's reactions to the danger point. Quick response and alert judgment fail in the emergency.

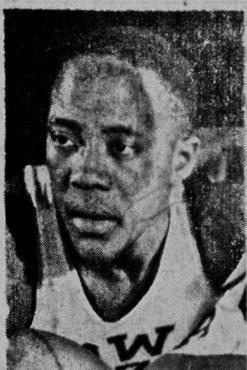

The irresponsible drinking driver is to blame for a particularly heavy share of night-time traffic accidents. Tragically, he endangers not only his own life, but the lives of those riding with him—innocent people in other cars and pedestrians.

So before you take "one for the road," consider the consequences. If you drink, don't drive. You'll never hear better advice.

Big Ten Title Is On Line At Illinois Tonight

DARLING

Quite Certain That Darling Will Compete

By JACK JORDAN Sports Editor

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. — Iowa's contending basketball team should know tonight if it is to be the Big Ten champion or runner-up when the Hawks engage Illinois here.

The Hawkeyes took a short warmup that included shooting and running Friday afternoon, and Chuck Darling was again absent from the drill, still nursing a bad head cold that had hospitalized him in Iowa City Thursday. It's quite certain, though, that Chuck will start against the Illini.

Darling is the key of the Iowa attack that has brought it a 9-1 conference record, which is identical to that of the Illini.

Add TV Sets at Union

Additional television sets at the Iowa Memorial Union will enable more students to see the Iowa-Illinois basketball game tonight.

Six extra sets will be placed in the main lounge on a platform in the center of the room. They will be arranged so that one will be visible from any angle.

The extra sets were donated by local dealers. The loop champion is eligible, and both are expected to sail through their last three games.

In addition to a probable clear claim on the conference title, the winner of tonight's game will be an odds-on favorite to capture an NCAA tourney berth.

The Hawkeyes finish out against Michigan State, Northwestern and Wisconsin. Illinois will still have to face Purdue, Northwestern and Wisconsin.

Illinois will go with the same lineup that opened against the Hawks at Iowa City three weeks ago. That staff included Bob Peterson at center, Clive Follmer and Irv Bemoras at forwards, and Jim Bredar and Rod Fletcher at guards.

There is a possibility that Red Kerr will start at center in place of Peterson.

In those two the Illini have the only hope of stopping the record smashing scoring of Chuck Darling. Standing 6-3 and 6-9, they have seldom been used together.

Peterson's main worth has been on defense. On the other hand, Kerr has shown spots of good scoring ability, including 20 points against that only a third of the student body has an opportunity to witness the game.

Illinois has a system whereby each student gets tickets to a third of the games. So those who won't be able to see this one aren't getting too worked up about it.

Another factor in the lack of interest might be the fact that winning conference championships is not a rarity at Illinois, which has an enrollment of approximately 20,000.

The Illini won the title last year, and have taken it four times in the last 10 years.

The game is generally regarded as a tossup, with Iowa's superior statistics being balanced by its terrible record on the Illinois court. The Hawkeyes have not won here since 1928.

Capable Supporters Skip Greene stands alone as a playmaker and steady influence on the Hawks.

Herb Thompson at forward is one of the best rebounders in the country, and has supplied some of the early scoring that keeps the Hawks within striking distance until they can get warmed up.

And the other forward, Deacon Davis, is one of the best freshman players in the country on the basis of his clutch shooting. The man Illinois probably remembers most vividly is Ev Cochrane, sixth man on the team.

He came into the last game in the third quarter when the Hawkeyes were trailing and quickly broke Illinois' back with four baskets in eight tries. He'll probably see a lot of action tonight, being qualified as both guard and forward.

Must Watch Fletcher In the Iowa City game, Darling exhibited complete mastery over the two. He outscored them combined by two points and fouled them both out while he stayed on.

Capt. Fletcher is the Illini's candidate for all-American, and has played like one all season. He is a great rebounder and scores very well for a guard.

On the Iowa side of the ledger stands Darling, the leading Big Ten scorer who's well on his way to a new record, aided and abetted by a very capable group of guards and forwards.

Runners Favored Over Gopher Team

After a nine-year break, the Iowa track team renews its indoor series with Minnesota today when the Gophers come to the field house for a dual meet with Coach Francis Cretzmeyer's runners.

Starting time for the mile run and high jump, opening events, is 2:30 p.m.

Although the Hawks dropped their opener to Wisconsin last Saturday, Iowa has an edge over the Gophers. Both teams depend heavily on freshmen and sophomores but Iowa's showings in losing to Wisconsin and in workouts this week put the Hawkeyes in the favored role.

Has Better Balance

Cretzmeyer is one of the first to admit this. Thursday he stated, "Iowa probably has greater team balance and more power in the 400 and 800-yard events than Minnesota. Outside of the pole vault and high jump, our overall strength is better. In those events, we might have trouble with the Gophers."

Comparative times turned in by both teams in their seasons' openers back up Cretzmeyer's statement. The Gophers started their 1952 season last Saturday in the Minnesota College Open Invitational meet.

Iowa's performances in eight of 12 events last Saturday topped Minnesota's best. The Gophers were better in three events and times for both teams in the 60-yard dash were equal.

3 Outstanding Events

The 60-yard dash, the mile and the low hurdles shape up as the best events. Iowa's Glen Hessel-tine and Minnesota's Dick Gregory both were timed in :06.3 for the 60-yard dash last Saturday. The Hawkeyes' Ira Murchison finished second to Hessel-tine against Wisconsin and could beat both Gregory and Hessel-tine this week.

In the mile, Minnesota's Dennis Hanson could push Ted Wheeler, Iowa sophomore, to a new meet and SUI record for that distance.

Wheeler finished second in the Badger meet but his time of 4:17 tops Hanson's best mark of 4:21. Wheeler's time also is better than the Minnesota-Iowa meet and SUI records.

Threaten Hurdle Mark

The meet record for the 70-yard low hurdles, :08.4, also is in danger of falling. DuWayne Dietz, veteran Hawkeye, placed first against Wisconsin with a time of :08.1 and is expected to repeat against the Gophers.

Rich Ferguson, who last week set an Iowa record for the 2-mile, has a chance to break the Minnesota-Iowa meet mark for that event. The stocky Canadian edged into the top spot with a time of 9:35.5, 10 seconds better than the Gopher-Hawkeye record.

Wakefield Impressive In Comeback Attempt At Cleveland Camp

TUCSON, ARIZ. (AP) — One of the big surprises of the Cleveland Indians' batting school is Dick Wakefield, ex-Detroit Tiger trying to begin his baseball life anew at 30.

Wakefield, who received one of the biggest bonuses on record, has impressed Cleveland observers from the first time he stepped in the batting cage. He was in good physical shape when he reported for the tryouts that may return him to the majors, and he's been pounding the ball out of the park with regularity.

"He has been a pleasant surprise," Al Lopez, Tribe manager, said Friday. "We all know he has the ability. It is entirely up to him if he sticks. We're all pulling for him."

The 6-foot 5-inch, 218-pounder left the campus of the University of Michigan as a highly touted hitter. He produced for a couple of seasons. Then he developed into something of a problem child and failed to live up to early promises. He finally wound up in the Pacific Coast league before being made a free agent.

Villemain Decisions Danny Nardico in 10

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Villemain of France staged a blistering rally in the last two rounds Friday night for a split decision over wild swinging Danny Nardico of Tampa, Fla., in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Villemain, a 6 to 5 underdog, weighed 167 1/2 to Nardico's 172. A crowd of 6,492, which paid $20,508 for this nationally broadcast and telecast scrap, cheered the game, stocky 28-year-old Frenchman as he took all of Nardico's pover punches and smashed right back.

2 Medals Hike U.S. Olympic Team Chances

OSLO (AP) — America's bobsledders and figure skaters picked up 11 points and silver medals in two events Friday, but the U.S. relinquished all hope of catching Norway as the winter Olympics moved toward their climax.

Representatives of Germany, competing in their first games since 1936, snuffed out strong U.S. bids with a sweep in the hazardous four-man bobsled race and the figure skating pairs.

The dare-devil innkeeper of Garmisch, Andreas Ostler, won the bobsled crown, his second of the current meet, with two more lightning runs down Frognerseteren's icy chute. America's No. 1 sled, piloted by Stan Benham of Lake Placid, N.Y., was held to second place.

Washington Couple Loses

Later in the Bissett stadium, before a crowd of 15,000, Germany's Ria and Paul Falk, a graceful wife and husband team, beat out their keenest rivals, Karol and Peter Kennedy of Seattle, Wash., for the figure skating pairs championship.

Another American team — John Nightingale and Janet Gerhauser of Minneapolis — placed sixth in the standings for a single point. These performances raised the United States point total to 84 1/2 in the race for the unofficial team championship and strengthened its hold on second place. But Norway, with 101 points, stands to prosper in the men's and women's ski races today and the ski jump Sunday that close out the games. America is weak in these specialties.

Hockey Team Recoups

Austria is third in team standings with 58, followed by Germany, which pushed up to fourth on its two championships, with 48. The United States ice hockey team, beaten by Sweden, bounced back for a 5-3 victory over Poland. It was the fifth win in six games for the Americans and kept them in the running, although their chances are remote for the championship.

Canada virtually clinched the ice hockey title when it turned back unbeaten Sweden, the European titleholder, in a bitter battle, 3-2. The Canadians, defending champions, now have six victories and no defeats with only Norway and the U.S. left to play. The game with the United States Sunday is a major test, but the Canadians can lose and still take the title in a complicated playoff system.

Armbruster Must Solve Puzzle to Win Today

By LEE CANNING

Iowa's swimming coach, David Armbruster was still looking for an answer Friday to the "biggest question mark" on the Hawkeyes' 1952 schedule as his squad finished workouts for today's important dual meet here with Michigan.

Starting time is 2 p.m. The big question mark is the Wolverine's entry list in general and where Michigan coach Matt Mann will place freshman Bumpy Jones in particular.

Jones Well Established Jones already has established himself as the best all-around swimmer on the Wolverine squad.

As a prep at Redford high school in Detroit, Jones set five of the city's seven individual records. Mann could use the stocky freshman in almost any event on the dual meet schedule, if the rule book wouldn't interfere.

A Big Ten swimming rule allows a competitor to enter only three races. Jones is a specialist at the individual medley and is rated one of the best in the Big Ten in that event. He also could be entered in the backstroke, relays or any free style race from 50 to 440 yards.

Armbruster's problem is to figure out in which three events Jones will be used and then juggle his squad accordingly.

Must Counter with Balance The Iowa coach will have to counter Michigan's individual standouts like Jones, breaststroker John Davies and sprinter Don Hill with Iowa's balanced strength.

The Hawkeyes' balance was shown last week against Northwestern. Sprinters Dick Perthington and Dick Labahn finished one-two in the sprints and Buddy Lucas and Don Watson grabbed second and third in the 440-yard event.

Ron Johnson and Bud Higgins also showed top form in the individual medley by placing first and second. Co-Captain Bowen Stasforth and Higgins gave Iowa another one-two in the breaststroke.

Both Michigan and Iowa enter the meet with perfect records. Iowa has clipped Illinois, Purdue, Wisconsin and Northwestern in its four starts. Michigan has topped Northwestern, Bowling Green, Purdue and Michigan State in dual meets. The Wolverines also defeated Wisconsin and Minnesota in a triangular meet.

Gymnasts Favored Against Hoosiers Despite 4 Injuries

Iowa's gymnastic squad will meet the underdog Indiana Hoosiers here this afternoon at 1:30 in a dual meet at the field house.

Iowa has broken even in meets with conference foes this year with a victory over Northwestern in its opener and a 50-46 loss to the strong Minnesota team two weeks ago.

Indiana has beaten only Northwestern in its five starts this season, but has competed against some of the best teams in the conference.

Hawk coach Dick Holzhaepfel has stated that Iowa's regular lineup will compete, but four men will be below top efficiency because of injuries and colds.

At Flensburg is still suffering from hand and ankle injuries but will compete in both the horizontal and parallel bar events.

Frank LaDue will see action on the trampoline in spite of a hip injury suffered in practice this week.

The two Hawks still nursing colds are Earle Duggan and Tom Witte. Duggan is entered in the parallel bars competition while Witte is slated to see action on the horizontal bar.

Holzhaepfel expects his Hawks to hold their own in four of the day's six events, but gives a slight edge to the Hoosiers in parallel and horizontal bar competition where Iowa has been hardest hit by injuries.

Bargain Day

Three contests for the price of one: it's the Hawkeye sports bargain of the year in the field house this afternoon.

This is the lineup of the contest between 1:30 and 3:35 p.m., which Iowa teams meet Big Ten opponents in gymnastics, swimming and track:

1:30 p.m. (in gymnasium): Gymnastics meet with Indiana featuring three Iowans with perfect records and a team which has won five of six dual meets. Meet will finish about 2:30 p.m.

2:00 p.m. (in pool): Unbeaten teams. Top race probably will be between Iowa's Bo Stasforth and Michigan's John Davies, Australian Olympic swimmer, in the 200 yard breaststroke. Meet will be about 3:30 p.m.

2:30 p.m. (on track): Strong Iowa track team vs. Minnesota a contest which may see five meet records broken. Meet will begin about 3:35 p.m. Admission price is 60 cents for adults and 30 cents for children, or "I" cards.

$500 for Children's Hospital

A $500 grant from the estate of Flora M. Wilson, Centerville, will be placed in a special fund for use at the children's hospital. Exact use of the fund has not yet been determined.

Staff and faculty members of the university's college of engineering and the Institute of Hydraulic Research established a $200 Dean's Loan fund in the college as a memorial to Rosa Hubbard Jones, mother of Phillip G. Hubbard, instructor in mechanics and hydraulics.

Mrs. L. E. Collins, Topeka, Kan., established a $130 scholarship for the second semester in the college of medicine for Donald Butler, a sophomore student from Dows.

The Rev. George W. Turner, Cresco, gave $12 to begin a new fund for research in multiple sclerosis in the college of medicine's department of neurology. Rev. Turner set up the research fund in memory of the late James E. McKittrick Jr.

Parisian Policeman Gets Liz's Autograph

They were on their way to the Alps where Liz wants to ski. Wilding's movie contract prohibits him taking a chance of injury. He'll watch her.

Mystery Writer Becomes Preacher

NEWBURG, N.Y. (AP)—Mickey Spillane, popular mystery story author, said Friday he was through writing about slayings, sadism and sex and would devote himself to "preaching the establishment of the kingdom of God."

He said he had "become one of Jehovah's Witnesses."

This is a group opposed to "graven images" and widely known for its court battles over refusal of its members to salute the flag or to permit their children to do so. They insist their loyalty is to God, not to a state.

Spillane is author of fast-moving, racy books like "I, The Jury," "My Gun Is Quick" and "The Big Kill."

He said any writing he did henceforth would be in line with his new-found beliefs.

The young, broad-shouldered author lives with his wife and two children in a house he built himself at Orange Lake, about 6 miles from here.

Revised Lenten Rules Suggested by Heads Of Catholic Church

WASHINGTON (AP)—A uniform set of relaxed Lenten rules has been suggested to Roman Catholic bishops throughout the United States for use in their own dioceses if they see fit.

This was disclosed Friday by high church officials.

The suggestions are designed to relax Lenten regulations on a uniform pattern and eliminate some of the confusion of the past when the rules varied from diocese to diocese.

A highlight of the new proposals is to allow Catholics throughout the country to eat meat once on Wednesdays during Lent, except on Ash Wednesday. This privilege previously applied in some U.S. dioceses but not in others. The Lenten season this year runs from Feb. 27 to April 13.

Lenten regulations for this year are due to be announced in most dioceses this week-end.

Church officials gave this explanation of the situation: The Catholic Church has general rules for fast and abstinence during Lent applying to the faithful throughout the world.

One of these rules has called, generally speaking, for abstinence from meat on Wednesday in addition to Friday. (On Friday meat is forbidden throughout the year.)

Freedoms Group Honors Oskaloosa

VALLEY FORGE, PA. (AP)—The Freedoms foundation Friday honored 11 "outstanding contributions to the American way of life," including one by the Oskaloosa chamber of commerce. The foundation noted "a buoyancy and resurgence in the ranks of those who are speaking their ideas on freedom and God."

The award winners received $1,500 checks and bronze plaques. In its third annual prize list the foundation also awarded cash to 247 other persons and organizations, including 32 high school publications.

The foundation, chartered in 1949, describes itself as "a non-sectarian, non profit, non political awards organization" honoring Americans "who make outstanding contributions to a better understanding of freedom." Public subscription support provides the finances.

Youth group winners for public addresses each received $200.

Rites Wednesday For F. R. Hamilton, Former Bradley Head

Services will be Wednesday in Hinsdale, Ill., for Frederic R. Hamilton, 70, former president of Bradley University and Iowa City resident since 1947.

Mr. Hamilton died of a heart disease Tuesday aboard the ship "African Enterprise," traveling to New York from South America. He had been on a two-month cruise to that country.

Mr. Hamilton lived here with his daughter, Mrs. Merrill F. Heiser, 136 Golfview drive. Her husband is an assistant professor of English at SUI.

Mr. Hamilton became president of Bradley university in 1925. He was born at Richland Center, Wis., July 31, 1881. He received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Wisconsin and his Ph.D. degree from Columbia university.

Burial will be in Hinsdale. A memorial service will be conducted at the Presbyterian church here at a later date.

SUI Prof Taught Canham

By WAYNE DANIELSON

When Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, visits the SUI campus Monday and Tuesday, he will have a chance to renew an old friendship with one of his former college professors.

Prof. A. Craig Baird, head of the SUI speech department, was Canham's debate coach and teacher at Bates college, Lewiston, Maine, during Canham's undergraduate days there from 1921-1925.

Baird said Canham was a varsity debater for three years and took home almost every speaking honor the college offered, including the freshman and sophomore prize speaking contest awards and the junior exhibition speaking honors.

In the fall of his senior year, he upheld the negative in a Bates debate with Cambridge on the resolution "that all countries should recognize the present government of Russia." A vote following the debate showed the audience favored the negative 800-150.

Debates in England

In the spring of his senior year, Canham went to England with the college debating team and competed at seven British universities.

Baird remembers Canham as one of the outstanding figures in a campus literary society of which Baird was faculty adviser. The youthful journalist, who was college correspondent for several metropolitan papers at the time, presented many short stories and poems at the club meetings.

Canham was also president of the college outing club, Baird recalled. The group participated in many outdoor sports such as hiking and skiing.

Edits College Paper

He was editor of the college paper and yearbook. The latter publication printed the following motto over his graduation picture: "Turn him to any cause of policy the Gordian knot of it he will unloose."

Canham was born in Auburn, Me., a town right across the river from Lewiston, in 1904. He began his start in newspapering while still in grammar school.

When school let out in the afternoon, Canham hurried to the local paper where he set type and folded and sold papers. His father was agricultural editor of the Lewiston Sun and Journal.

During the summer of his 14th year, he worked in the composing room of a local daily. America was then in World War I and because of the manpower shortage Canham got to be a regular reporter.

But after the war the older men came back and Canham returned to the composing room as a galley boy.

Studies at Oxford

After receiving his B.A. in 1925 from Bates, he worked as a reporter for the Christian Science Monitor for a year. Then he went to Oxford as a Rhodes scholar for the years 1926-1929. (He applied for and received the B.A. and M.A. degrees from Oxford in 1936.)

While at Oxford, Canham continued to report for the Monitor during his vacations. His first important assignment was covering the League of Nations general assembly in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1926, 1927 and 1928.

In 1929, he returned to America to report the U.S. tour of Ramsey MacDonald, British prime minister, for the Monitor.

Also in 1930, he was chief correspondent for the Monitor at the London naval conference for three months and the for two years he again reported League of Nations activities from Geneva.

Washington Bureau Chief

In 1932, he became chief of the Washington bureau of the Monitor, a post he held until 1939.

He left Washington often during this period on assignment. He covered the London economic conference in 1933 and was one of a group of 20 to report the inauguration of the Philippine commonwealth government in 1935. At this time he wrote extensively on the Far East.

Also during his Washington period he handled several nationwide political surveys and covered the trips of presidents and presidential candidates.

Appointed Editor in 1944

In 1939, he stepped into the position of general news editor at the Monitor and in 1941 became managing editor. His appointment as editor came Dec. 31, 1944.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Delta Sigma Rho, the Gridiron club, the Association of American Rhodes scholars and the American Society of Newspaper Editors. He was president for two years of the Overseas Writers club and is a trustee of Bates college.

Variety of Activities Planned for Canham

Two busy days are in store for Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, when he visits the SUI campus Monday and Tuesday.

While the main purpose of his visit is to deliver the first annual John F. Murray Memorial lecture Tuesday evening, Canham will utilize the rest of his time to meet with students, faculty members and Iowa newsmen.

After a tour of the Iowa campus Monday morning, Canham will lunch with staff members of The Daily Iowan and university station WSUI. He will then appear at a vocational meeting for journalism students, followed immediately by a session in which he will be quizzed by students on the responsibility of the press toward making democracy work.

Canham will attend an afternoon coffee hour and dine with members of the university administration and faculty before attending the Iowa-Michigan State basketball game Monday evening. Prior to his Tuesday night lecture, he will speak to members of a journalism class, meet with faculty members, appear at a public luncheon and participate in a panel discussion on "Problems in Mass Communications" with Iowa newsmen and university faculty members Tuesday afternoon. That evening he will appear at a public dinner.

Tickets to Canham's lecture are now available without charge at the Iowa Memorial Union.

Lee Simon Award Applications Due Before March 15

The purpose of this award is to promote greater understanding between city workers and farmers. Contestants may limit the scope of their paper to any aspect of the subject and may approach it from the point of view of any of the sciences.

Students desiring to compete for this award should notify the Lee Simon Memorial award committee, 605 Capital City Bank Building, Des Moines, before March 15. Papers must be submitted on or before June 1 to this committee.

The candidates will be screened to 12 by a Mecca queen committee, and the queen chosen by the entire engineering college at a smoker March 13, the night before the ball.

Lin Lenhart, E4, Evanston, Ill., publicity chairman for the ball, said about 40 candidates were submitted last year.

SUI Police Bureau Gives Berthal Shuck Lie Detector Test

Berthal Shuck, 49, Des Moines, accused of raping a 20-year-old expectant mother, submitted to a lie detector test Friday at the SUI police science bureau.

Preliminary hearing for Shuck, who has pleaded innocent of the charge, will be resumed in Des Moines today before Justice of the Peace Alvin Hoard.

The lie detector test, which was approved by Hoard with the consent of attorneys, was conducted by Prof. Richard L. Holcomb, chief of the university bureau.

Holcomb said that on the basis of questions he asked in a series of six tests it appeared that Shuck was telling the truth.

He said that among the questions asked was whether Shuck had ever been in the apartment home of Mrs. Conn Hutzell, who identified Shuck as her assailant, whether he had stolen any money from the apartment and whether he had raped the young woman.

Shuck was arrested in Des Moines nine days after Mrs. Hutzell had identified him as her attacker. Because of the time lag in apprehending Shuck, Police Commissioner Jack Brophy was suspended and demoted.

Shuck's attorneys, Ted Sloane and Ralph L. Sowers said they were pleased with the outcome of the test. They were present when the questions were asked, along with Polk County Atty. Clyde H. Herring and two of Herring's assistants.

Hoard signed an application permitting the test after it had been agreed to by Herring and the defense attorneys, who suggested it.

Editor, Ex-Marine Support Truman's Propaganda Claim

EUGENE, ORE. (AP) — A marine corps reservist, recently returned from Korea where he was a combat correspondent, told Oregon's newspaper publishers Friday that "President Truman was right about the marines' propaganda machine."

"A well organized and hard working department of public information starts the marine corps legends, some of which are true," said Donn Bonham, 26, who last December returned to his position as editor of the Sweet Home, Ore., New Era after a year of active duty, much of it in Korea.

His reference to the President was in connection with a letter written by Mr. Truman in 1950 for which the President later apologized. In it he had said that the marines have a "propaganda machine that is almost equal to Stalin's."

Bonham, opening speaker at the annual Oregon press conference at the University of Oregon, said that "When something doesn't happen in fact, the public information office often makes it happen on paper anyway."

He said that the marine corps issued considerable information and photographs on a claim of being first to transport troops to the Korean front by helicopter. Bonham said that was partly true — but it was first only with a test maneuver, in a safe sector, not under fire.

But, he said, the PIO let go with all barrels to show "the marines had done it again."

Bonham was called to active duty as a private first class in September, 1950, for a year's tour.

Labor Conference Will Be June 20-21

The annual labor-management conference sponsored by the SUI bureau of labor and management will be held at SUI June 20-21. More than 150 Iowa industrial and labor leaders are expected to attend.

Prof. Karl E. Leib, acting director of the bureau, said Friday that wage and salary stabilization will be one of the main topics discussed. In view of current inflationary trends, a hot debate on the present system of stabilization is expected.

Leib plans to have an experienced safety engineer discuss "Making the Safety Program Effective." The impact of labor-management relations on residents of farm, town and city will also be a major subject.

A limited number of students will be allowed to attend free of charge.

Local Police Sharpen Their Aim

IOWA CITY POLICE Chief E. J. Ruppert (right) and Assistant Chief Joe Dolezal examine a target which Dolezal practice-fired Thursday on the police firing range, located in the basement of police headquarters building on S. Linn st. Earlier this week, Dolezal shot a score of 97 out of possible 100. Ruppert said it is the highest score made by a member of the force since they began firing for record Jan. 21. The 45-foot range was restored in January by members of the force after being in disuse since 1945. Ruppert said the biggest difficulty in reconditioning it was shoring up the coal bin adjacent to it.

The debating topic will be "Resolved: The federal government should adopt a policy of permanent wage and price controls." Approximately 60 visiting students and 40 from SUI will participate.

Visiting schools will include Buena Vista college, Cornell college, Drake university, Grinnell college, Iowa State college, Simpson college and St. Ambrose college, all from Iowa.

For Both Men, Women —

Excellent Job Chances

— With College Degree

"Know how to get along with other people."

Armed with that advice and a college education, the ambitious and sincere young man or woman of today should have no trouble landing a job and building a successful career in modern commerce and industry.

At least that's the consensus of opinion held by more than two dozen business leaders who spoke during the seventh annual careers conferences at SUI this week.

These experts represented fields ranging from accountancy and advertising through television and traffic management. They came from 10 Iowa cities and as far away as Akron, Ohio, to describe job opportunities at the special student sessions sponsored by the university's Collegiate Chamber of Commerce.

College Training Necessary

Seven out of every eight of the speakers mentioned a definite demand for college graduates in their particular industries, and several said university training is an absolute prerequisite for entering certain phases of modern business.

In fact, almost half of the visiting lecturers said that university study at the graduate level can be valuable in preparing for numerous positions in industry.

The business world is not just a man's world, either, according to at least a score of the job authorities who specifically referred to the demand for women employees in many areas of commerce.

Iowa Opportunities Good

Furthermore, job opportunities in Iowa for both men and women tend to be comparable to or even better than those for other parts of the nation. Four out of five of the businessmen who visited the campus gave this appraisal of conditions within their fields.

College graduates with no previous experience generally may expect beginning salaries ranging from $200 to $325 per month in today's business world, students were told.

They were reminded, however, that they may expect substantial raises in income, depending upon individual initiative and the practical grasp of business affairs which they display.

"Constructive imagination," "knowing where to get information," "maturity," good personality," "willingness to work hard," and "interest in your company and your job" are other factors affecting business success, conferences speakers told the 1,700 students who attended the various sessions.

Winter Lauds Conference

Dean Sidney G. Winter of the college of commerce called the conference "certainly a success in the consensus of the many visiting speakers with whom I had an opportunity to confer."

"Fortunately," he said, "only three of the 28 speakers scheduled were prevented from keeping engagements." Attendance, exceeding the 1,700 mark, was even greater than we had anticipated.

"I wish to say again that full credit for the success of the program belongs to the students. The board members of the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce and their able helpers have served the college very well indeed."
