Churchill Says Britain Has A-Bomb

Foreign Policy Is Approved By 33 Votes

LONDON (AP)—Winston Churchill told commons Tuesday that Britain has the atom bomb and won from the house a 318 to 285 vote of confidence on his foreign policy.

Fighting off Labor party attempts to ensure him for a controversial speech before the U.S. congress last month, the 77-year-old prime minister denied vigorously making any secret agreements in his Washington talks with President Truman.

He insisted that Britain's policy toward China remained unchanged.

Secret Bomb Production Churchill said the Labor government, defeated in last October's election, not only produced the atom bomb in secret but also set up a plant for regular production.

The program was so secret, the prime minister said, that he learned about the bomb himself only after coming back into power four months ago.

In the angry, bitter debate over foreign policy, Churchill lashed back at pacifist elements in the Labor party. He claimed the former Labor government itself had been ready as far back as last May to join in taking action "not confined to Korea" in the event of heavy air attacks on United Nations forces from bases in China.

Bevan Leads Protests Laborite Aneurin Bevan—who has led the anti-American policy group in the Labor party—led a howl of protests and demanded that Churchill produce proof on the statement.

The Laborite censure motion that precipitated the debate and its disclosure of the atom bomb charged that Churchill misled the U.S. congress in his declaration Jan. 17 that Britain would take "prompt, resolute and effective" action alongside the U.S. if a Korean truce, once reached, was broken.

Churchill's disclosure gave point to a British announcement 10 days ago that, later this year, Britain will test an atomic weapon on a vast desert proving ground in the heart of Australia.

The announcement did not specify that the weapon was an atom bomb. Churchill's majority was by a large 33-vote edge compared to the Conservatives' nominal majority of 14 votes.

Liberals and 'splinter' parties have supported the prime minister in previous test of strength.

Justice Probers Hit Housing Snag WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) declared Tuesday there appeared to be an attempt to block a budding house investigation of the justice department by denying the investigators space from which to operate.

Keating told reporters he was "very disturbed" over the inability of a special house judiciary subcommittee to find Capitol Hill quarters for itself and its staff.

He said there was a "feeling" the inquiry was being "upset over the apparent roadblock in the way of getting started."

ERWIN D. CANHAM (foreground), editor of the Christian Science Monitor, completed a two-day speaking and discussion session at SUI Tuesday night when he delivered the first John F. Murray memorial lecture. Canham also discussed "Problems in Mass Communications" Tuesday afternoon with a panel of professional newsmen and educators.

Canham Says U.S. Must Alert World to Freedom's Power

An endless task of keeping people alert to the dangers to freedom and helping them to understand the effectiveness of the instruments of freedom, lies ahead of the American people.

With this thought Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, summed up his views on "A Free Press in a Free World" for an audience of 500 students, faculty members and Iowa newsmen at the Iowa Union Tuesday night.

First Murray Lecture Canham delivered the first John F. Murray memorial lecture, provided by the widow of Iowa-born industrialist John F. Murray, for annual lectures in commerce, the college of law and the school of journalism.

Canham said the public has a basic right to be informed and to be helped to understand and maintain freedom in the U.S., and to further liberty throughout the world.

The capitalist system has added a new dimension of some 10,000 private, volunteer organizations in the trades and professions which provide a free exchange of ideas and methods, Canham said.

International teams organized along the lines of these organizations would be invaluable in expanding democratic ideas throughout the world.

Canham noted the decline of number of competitive papers, but asserted service to readers has become more effective, and newspapers throughout the country have exposed scandal and corruption, and prevented injustice.

Problems facing newspapers, according to Canham, are the severe shortage of paper in free countries and the need for extensive international organization in journalism.

FBI Nabs Holdup Man In Air Chase

Ex-Convict Learns Law at Alcatraz, Will Defend Self

NEW YORK (AP)—An Alcatraz-educated bad man acted as his own lawyer Tuesday, fighting prosecution in the $19,800 holdup only a few hours earlier of a California bank 3,000 miles away.

The ex-convict, John Richard Bayless, 36, said he studied law while serving time in Alcatraz prison for an earlier bank robbery and didn't need a lawyer. He represented himself at Tuesday's arraignment.

Bayless was seized as he stepped off an airliner at La Guardia field less than 15 hours after the hold-up of a Hollywood, Calif., bank. Waiting FBI men spoiled his coast-to-coast getaway. The smooth capture ended a fantastic air chase after Bayless was tracked by radio along his flight.

Holdup Netted $19,800 Bayless is wanted for the $19,800 stickup Monday morning of the Hollywood branch of the Bank of America.

Special FBI agent Edward Scheidt said Bayless carried the bank loot in a cowhide brief case as he stepped down from a plane at La Guardia.

The air chase began when a man stepped quietly into bank manager Gilbert R. Fox's Hollywood boulevard office Monday, pulled a gun and coolly directed: "Okay, start filling this brief case."

Manager Held at Gunpoint Fox was forced at gunpoint to dip into cash at each of six teller's cages to fill the briefcase. Then the gunman slipped from the bank and sped away in a car.

A witness caught the license number of the getaway car, which was found abandoned later in Hollywood, a sawed off shotgun inside.

The FBI said Bayless bought the car under the name of John R. Bennett. They were able to link this name to Bayless as his alias.

A check of airlines showed that a man named Bayless boarded a New York plane hours before FBI agents then rushed to the airport at Dayton, O., where the plane had a stopover, but it already had taken off again.

Bayless' description was radioed to the plane as it roared across Pittsburgh, an hour away from La Guardia field. Hostess, Joyce Eileen Starr, 21, of Kansas City, spotted Bayless as the man answering the FBI's description.

Crew members radioed a quick description of this passenger to anxious FBI agents in New York. As Bayless stepped from the plane at La Guardia, two FBI men pinned his arms to his sides before he could get his gun out.

The agents said his first words were: "I'm not trying to get away."

Communist Probe Balks in Michigan DETROIT (AP)—Balky witnesses slowed the progress of the house un-American activities committee inquiry into Communism in Michigan Tuesday.

Five of the seven men put on the stand in the second day of the non-televized hearing refused to answer virtually all questions. The bulk of them dwelt on Communist affairs.

Cops Get $10 Fine in Coppers

McKEESPORT, PA. (AP)—Abe Richardson walked into the McKeesport police station, spilled a pile of pennies in front of desk sergeant William E. Kreiling and put a $10 ticket for speeding on top of them.

Kreiling wasn't amused. He ordered Richardson to count the stack of pennies. Richardson protested but finally wound up doing as the sergeant directed. The count: 1,000 coppers.

West Germany Agrees To Share Defense Cost

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—West Germany has agreed to pay out 11 1/4 billion marks ($2.87 billion) a year to help bolster Western defenses against Red aggression, the Big Three foreign ministers announced Tuesday.

The United States, British and French ministers also sent orders to their high commissioners in Germany to start talks for unleashing many of the defeated nation's war industries.

The two steps open the way further for linking of West Germany's vast resources of men and machines to the Allied arms build-up.

Meetings Satisfy Ministers Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Britain's Anthony Eden and France's Robert Schuman headed home Tuesday night from one of the most business-like Allied parleys since the war.

A spokesman for the three said 1,050,000,000 marks of the West German defense contribution are to be used for internal defense, such as frontier guards and defense of Communist-ringed Berlin.

In Bonn, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government announced it had accepted the proposed total "with reservations." Adenauer met Tuesday with the three Allied commissioners, presumably to discuss the question.

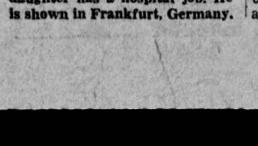

Must Work Out Details Diplomatic informants in Lisbon agreed that it was no more than a general accord. Many troublesome details will have to be worked out by Allied and German officials.

This, broadly, is what it looks like: The German defense budget—at the rate of 850 million marks a month and effective July 1—will be lumped into the funds of the projected six-nation European defense community, of which Germany is to be a member.

EDC will divide it up two ways: About 70 per cent will be paid out to help support United States, British and French troops in Germany, and about 30 per cent will be paid out to raise and run German forces.

CANADIAN INFLUX OTTAWA (AP)—Canada brought in 194,391 new settlers during 1951 in her biggest immigration flow in 38 years it was revealed Tuesday.

Windsor Visits Queen, May Be Seeking Job

LONDON (AP)—The Duke of Windsor had lunch Tuesday with Queen Elizabeth II amid speculation he might be sounding out his niece for a government job.

The duke went to Clarence house, the official royal residence, shortly after his return to London after a weekend in Paris. His Paris visit was described by an aide as a "business trip."

The young queen always has been regarded as extremely fond of her uncle, despite reports of a strained feeling toward him among some members of the royal family over his abdication.

Speculation that the duke may be in line for an official position has been rife here since his long talk with Prime Minister Churchill on Feb. 14.

Allies Charge Reds Concentrate Effort On Praising Russia

MUNSAN (WEDNESDAY) (AP)—The Allies told the Communists today they apparently were more interested in defining the merits of Soviet Russia than in making progress with the Korean truce talks.

Talks Are Stalled Allied rejection of Russia as an armistice observer has stalled the talks at the staff officer level for days.

Chinese Col. Chang Chin San reaffirmed that the Reds would reject categorically any proposal which turned down their nominations of Russia without justification.

The Allies have given as their reason for barring Russia that nation's prior participation in Korea. The reason was not defined further. However, Russia occupied North Korea at the close of World War II, and trained and supplied the Red Korean armed forces.

Besides Russia's nomination as a truce observer, the major unresolved issues barring a Korean armistice are voluntary repatriation of prisoners and Red insistence on rebuilding military airfields in North Korea during a truce.

Most non-controversial details have been cleared away by Communist and United Nations staff officers, leaving bare the hard areas of disagreement.

Compromise Needed Unless one side makes a compromise soon, colonels handling the lower level staff talks may send their unresolved problems back to the main armistice delegation of admirals and generals.

The number of ports of entry which neutral teams would inspect during a truce also remained an unsolved issue. The UN command wants six ports for each side. The Communists insist five inspection ports are enough.

Students Are Warned To Get ID's Embossed

About 200 SUI students missed Monday night's Iowa-Michigan State basketball game, because their ID cards lacked the treasurer's second semester seal.

Frederick Oliver, manager of the business office, said Tuesday that students who have paid their fees and have not had their ID cards embossed should bring them to the business office immediately.

SEN. ESTES KEFAUVER (center), candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, had a full "non-political" day in Iowa Tuesday. It included a breakfast and speech in Des Moines and three speeches in Perry where he was guest of the chamber of commerce. Shown here from left are Harry Edwards, Perry chamber of commerce president, Kefauver and Orvall Hall.

Kefauver Says Budget Contains Much 'Water'

PERRY (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) told a farmer-businessman audience here Tuesday night he's convinced there is a "great deal of water" in the $81 billion budget proposed by President Truman.

"Everybody is agreed," said the senator, "that we should squeeze out the water—all of it—and get down to bedrock."

In what he called a non-political talk, climaxing a busy day in Iowa, the tall Tennessee asserted that congress is doing the best it can to trim the huge outlay, which includes $15 billion dollars for defense, but is hampered by a handicap all citizens should study.

"As matters stand," the senator said, "the congress has not the proper facilities for dealing with the budget."

Claims Experts Needed It needs an adequate staff of experts to operate the year round, Kefauver stated. Such a staff would check thousands of individual budget items at their source and see that every penny requested was justified.

With such a safeguard, Kefauver said, congress and the people would know "when presented with an $85 billion budget, just what was absolutely essential and how much was padding."

Kefauver noted that a house of representatives committee has estimated waste in procurement for the armed forces is costing the nation as much as $5 billion a year.

Advices "Knocking Heads" "It might help if the secretary of defense knocked a few heads together," declared the Tennesseean. "But there can be no real and lasting cure until we raise our voices in chorus to demand a uniform armed services procurement policy."

He cited the case of the Ames manufacturer who submitted a bid $60,000 lower than any other for making some equipment for the air force. He was denied the contract "for the strange reason that his bid was too low and might jeopardize fulfillment of the contract," said the speaker.

GOP's Told To Work For Favorite Candidate

Ted Birdsall, chairman of Linn county Young Republicans, told his listeners to "Go out and work for the presidential candidate of your choice" at a meeting of the SUI Young Republicans Tuesday night.

Birdsall also advised young people to enter politics. He said he is a politician and is seeking a political goal. "I'm proud of it because I feel I'm doing something for my country," he added.

GOP Protests Mount on TV Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican protests mounted Tuesday against house speaker Rayburn's ban on radio, television and newsreel coverage of house committee meetings.

But Rayburn himself stuck by his suddenly announced ruling "I can't change it and I'm not going to," he told reporters.

The Texas Democrat ruled Monday that only reporters and still photographers may cover committee sessions. He said the house rules do not provide for radio, TV or newsreel coverage. Senate hearings were not affected by his ruling.

Rep. Harold Velde (R-Ill.) one of the Republicans to protest the speaker's edict, suggested Tuesday that politics might be involved in it.

Velde noted that the ruling came just in time to stop televising of a public hearing in Detroit by the house un-American activities committee, and added in a statement: "Is it because of the approaching senatorial election in Michigan that the ban was ordered?"

"Is it because some politicians in Michigan are afraid that my colleague on the committee, Mr. Potter, will enter the race for the senatorship and that he would be a most formidable candidate?" Potter, a Republican, has been mentioned as a possible opponent of Sen. Blair Moody (D-Mich.) in the November election. Had Monday's hearing been televised, he would have been seen and heard by large numbers of Michigan voters.

Rayburn's ruling forbids even the recording of committee sessions for broadcasting later.

editorial

Cries of "censorship" were heard from TV and radio officials and congressmen Monday after Sam Rayburn banned TV and radio from all house committee hearings.

However, we don't believe that this term is not used appropriately. If the speaker of the house had banned all forms of mass communications from the hearings, then we believe that it could rightfully be called "raw censorship."

Newspapers and radio will still be able to report on the committee hearings even though recordings cannot be made.

We also agree with the reasons for the ban, as put forth by Rayburn's colleagues. They said that they believed it was unfair to require a witness to face a camera continuously.

Many persons when confronted by a microphone or camera get what you might term a form of stage fright. It makes them extremely uncomfortable and they do not react as they would under normal circumstances.

This cannot give the millions of TV viewers an accurate and fair picture of the witness.

Not to reverse our field, but we believe that such hearings could and in some cases have been good for the public.

On the one hand, TV is an asset to democracy because it lets the people see how the government is run. The tragic part of it all is that having seen some of the hearings on corruption within our United States, the viewers accept it as something remote.

Were these millions of Americans to become alarmed over the serious aspects and join in demanding that we clean up the nation, then we believe that the good which TV and radio would have, would certainly offset the other aspects.

TO THE EDITOR:

Thursday, Feb. 21, Prof. Vernon Van Dyke addressed the SUI Young Democrats.

In his address Van Dyke told the Young Democrats that he felt Truman was a vigorous party leader, but doubted if Taft would do as well. He accused Taft of taking opposing views in Europe and Asia. Van Dyke said, "Taft is afraid of provoking Russia in Europe but wants to provoke her in Asia" (by bombing Manchurian bases and giving arms to Chang).

On the question of the United Nations Van Dyke said that Taft felt that "we were under an illusion as to the strength we could gain from the UN" and the "U.S. should break up the UN."

These comments were not meant to be derogatory of Mr. Taft. It was simply an effort to set forth Taft's views on matters of current interest and compare them with those of President Truman. Van Dyke refused to comment on Taft's sincerity, but remarked, "One of his most questionable stands has been his moral support of McCarthy, which makes you wonder how honest he is."

Fear of Red Invasion Felt in Southeast Asia

By FRED HAMPSON

HONG KONG (AP)—The governments and the peoples of southeast Asia, possible targets for Communism's next blows, for the most part do not think the Chinese Reds will invade them soon.

All are worried. Some are scared. The greatest danger points are Indochina and Burma. In Indochina the French and nationalist Viet Nam forces are fighting Communist-led Vietminh rebels. In Burma the newly independent union government is fighting various insurgent bands which the Reds are trying to unite.

These two nations are on China's southern border where the Chinese Communists have massed a reported 290,000 troops during the past 18 months.

The Associated Press asked its southeast Asia staff to sum up feelings and conditions in each nation. The reports:

INDOCHINA
No one seems to lose any sleep over a Red invasion. This is partly optimism and partly fatalism. If the Chinese strike in force many feel defeat is inevitable, so why worry?

The Viet Namese, Cambodians, Laotians and Chinese of Indochina wonder why there is so much talk about invasion of their country when it would be so easy to attack elsewhere and avoid stiff opposition from U.S.-supplied Viet Namese and French. They ask, "Why not Burma?"

BURMA
Responsible opinion is that the Chinese Reds could overrun the country in a matter of days if they came down the Burma road. The Burmese are frightened but they also are sick of war and trying to adhere to strict neutrality.

THAILAND
If the Chinese invasion actually comes, Thai military leaders opine it will come from across Burma, rather than Indochina.

There is no great fear. Thailand would fight the Reds because the Thais have an innate dislike for the Chinese and follow a type of Buddhism that is a great bulwark against communism.

MALAYA
The British are fighting a Communist revolt while keeping tin mines and rubber plantations at work earning the empire's biggest packet of dollars. If invasion comes in the north, Malaya's Red jungle fighters and their sympathizers would be a destructive fifth column.

There seems to be a feeling that Britain can hold Malaya even if Indochina, Thailand and Burma should go Communist but the local Chinese and Malaya populations are not so sure. They remember the Japanese.

INDONESIA
Indonesia would try to steer clear of war, but the place of aggression would be important. If Thailand or Burma, both independent states which Indonesia regards as sister nations, were attacked by Peiping, Indonesia would tend toward the anti-Communist camp. It would be different if the colonial French in Indochina took the brunt of an attack.

FORMOSA
Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist China holdout camp feels the Reds will not try to invade either southeast Asia or Formosa in the immediate future. Rather, it is expected that the Chinese Reds will continue to supply the Indochina Reds, continue subversive efforts all through southeast Asia and try to unify the Burma Communists to overthrow that government.

College Courses Via TV Gain Popularity

CLEVELAND (CP)—Television—complex child of an atomic age—today is making educational history in Cleveland. It is bringing college credit and college courses to a listening and looking audience of more than 50,000 persons in a pioneer experiment by Western Reserve university and a Cleveland television station.

Overnight it has focused the eyes of the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker on several unsuspecting professors who suddenly awakened to the fact they were "stars" on a TV show that featured neither plunging necklines nor vaudeville gagsters.

Public reaction to the new venture was a big question mark to President John Schoff Millis of Reserve and the TV station manager James Hanrahan when the telecourses began last autumn. Today they are laughing at earlier fears and cautioning potential sponsors to give the program a chance to prove itself.

Convenient Station Time

Station time posed no problem. Classes were scheduled from 9 to 9:30 in the morning—a blank spot for sponsors. Initial courses were offered in introductory psychology and comparative literature and four professors were picked to teach them.

Enrollment was slow at first, and when Dr. Elroy L. Stromberg, chairman of the Reserve psychology department, nervously cleared his throat and stepped on set for the first TV lecture only 50 students had registered.

By the time Dr. Stromberg had finished the telephone switchboards at the station and at Reserve were swamped. Credit registration shot up to 747 and university officials did a rush job of mailing class syllabi to the TV students.

A survey estimated that 50,000 persons watched the lectures without registering and they were immediately named "viewdents" by the professors.

"Back in School Again"

Student reasons for enrollment were as unique as the experiment itself. "I've been confined to a bed since an auto accident last February," said Donald R. Terry, first student to register. "It's swell to be back in school again."

"The birth of my four-year-old son stopped my college education but now I can baby sit and study at the same time. I'm going to get that degree," wrote Mrs. Wallace Judd, housewife from suburban Wickliffe, Ohio.

Wounded Vets Enroll

Dean Gives Approval

None of these men had had previous TV experience but they were surprisingly proficient. Dean John P. Barden explained it this way:

"Television, being visual and aural, conforms to the requirements of good teaching by lecture, demonstration and dramatic presentation."

The teachers themselves asserted they never had been so concerned with offering concise, to the point lectures. They had no time to digress with an irrelevant story; no chance to give a test if they hadn't prepared their lecture.

The studio set resembles a professor's study flanked with blackboards. The programs are directed and produced by Barclay S. Leatham, professor and chairman of the Reserve department of dramatic arts.

Psychology Lectures Popular

Psychology lectures drew two-thirds of the total credit enrollment. Dr. Remenyi, who, unlike the psychologists, uses few visual aids or "props" holds his literature students equally as well, judging from his mail, performance of his students, and a Videodex survey.

Two women TV professors are Dr. Marguerite R. Hertz, associate clinical professor of psychology, who joined the men in offering a child psychology course and Miss Mildred Danklefsen, geography instructor, offering a class in that subject.

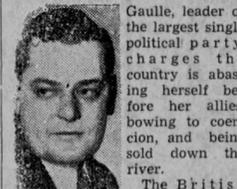

Interpreting the News — Is Being Too Friendly With U. S. Dangerous?

By J. M. ROBERTS JR., Associated Press News Analyst

People all over the world are showing a lot of fear of Uncle Sam these days.

If you're a politician in England, France, Indonesia, the Middle or Far East and even in some parts of the western hemisphere, about all you have to do to get in trouble is to appear too friendly toward the United States.

In the midst of France's extremely delicate negotiations with America and Germany over the organization of the European defense community, Charles De

ROBERTS The British Labor party is having a carnival in parliament with its attacks on the intimations in Winston Churchill's address before the American congress that Britain would go along with the U.S. policy in the Far East. Everybody knows that Churchill was just trying to be polite about a delicate matter between friends, but the serious thing is that the Laborites seem to know it is good politics in Britain to attack the prime minister for pro-Americanism.

Gaulle, leader of the largest single political party, charges the country is abasing herself before her allies, bowing to coercion, and being sold down the river.

No matter how much we emphasize the idea of common defense against a common danger, it doesn't seem to go over in a great many places.

It's reviving the most dangerous attitude of which Americans have ever been guilty — isolationism.

All over, people had rather be hungry than bought, rather run the risk of some vague degradation by Communist conquest than suffer the immediate threat of American economic leadership and political interference. The American effort to get pledges of cooperation in the conflict with Russia into the mutual aid contract has brought out this feeling at almost every point.

The Attitude

Millions of people — and not entirely the uninformed ones by any means — seem to feel that the cold war, and possible hot war, is between Russia and the United States, not between them and Russia. When the U.S. proposes stronger ties with their countries, they feel that instead of coming to their defense, the U.S. is recruiting them primarily for her own defense.

It's reviving the most dangerous attitude of which Americans have ever been guilty — isolationism.

Interest in Husband's Work Vital, Says Mrs. Canham

By NORMA SEXTON

Mrs. Thelma Canham, wife of editor of the Christian Science Monitor, who has traveled extensively with her husband in the United States and abroad, says part of the adventure of life is seeking something that the local citizens would get to tell a visitor about.

Mrs. Erwin D. Canham

Although her two-day stay has allowed her to see much of the City, she said she usually spends considerable time ferreting out a city by herself.

Mrs. Canham has been visiting SUI campus with her husband in D. Canham who delivered the first annual John Murray memorial lecture at the Iowa Union last night.

Mrs. Canham says she remembers two trips as particularly outstanding, one to the Far East in 1927 when they attended the inauguration of the president of the United States, and their latest trip to Switzerland, the country of her birth, and then spent time in England where they saw the royal family at a garden party.

A charming native Bostonian, Mrs. Canham says that a wife should be tremendously interested in her husband in a hundred different ways by making intelligent and appreciative comments on his work.

She added that a wife's first responsibility is being interested in her husband's occupation.

She says she reads all of her husband's speeches before he delivers them and has complete faith in his ability as a public speaker.

She attributes much of his success to the training received under SUI Prof. A. G. Baird when at Bates college in Maine.

Mrs. Canham home is in Waban, one of the many Newton suburbs near Boston. They have two daughters, one who is married and one at Cornell university, and are in their ninth year old.

Engineers Prepare For Mecca Week To Begin March 10

Men with advanced stages of five o'clock shadow roaming the SUI campus are students in the college of engineering getting ready for their Mecca week.

Mecca week is designed to emphasize all the engineering activities on campus. The word "mecca" is derived from the five departments included in the college of engineering: mechanical, electrical, civil, chemical, and aeronautical.

Activities during this week include a smoker, to be held Thursday night, March 13, a dance the following night, and an open house March 21 and 22.

Beards, which were started after registration, will be judged at the smoker. Other events will be the choosing of the Mecca ball queen and her attendants, the presentation of the barney stone, and skits by the engineering faculty and students.

Beards will be judged according to four categories with a winning beard in each. These are: the thickest, the lightest, the most ridiculous, and the most unique.

College of engineering seniors will begin the hunt for the barney stone March 10 when they receive the clues, in the form of engineering problems, leading to the stone. These clues were made out by last year's seniors who hid the stone. The stone must be found and presented at the smoker so that the class may have good luck.

Mecca week is also the period in which a feud between engineering and law students comes to a climax. Law students in the past have attempted to discover the names of the queen and her attendants and prevent their appearance at the ball.

Students from both colleges are responsible for many interior and exterior decorating effects in the buildings connected with the colleges.

The Mecca ball March 14 from 9 p.m. to midnight in the Union will climax the week's activities. Tickets are $2 a couple.

The college of engineering open house will take place March 21 and 22 and all the facilities of the college of engineering will be open to the public. Individual projects will be displayed and they will be demonstrated by students.

Invitations for the open house have been issued to all Iowa high schools, the parents of students in the SUI college of engineering, the daily papers in Iowa, and Iowa industries.

Who Ever Called It a "Blessed Event"?

Once there was a Sophomore who had a Sister. He also had a Girl. Both these girls had the Baptismal Handicap of Maggy. Small World.

The sister (call her Maggy I for the record) got married. In due process, she produced an offspring. So, fraternal-like, our Sapien Sophomore wrote her a letter of Congratulations, starting "I hear you have a Baby" - Trouble was, he forgot to mail it right away and went on vacation and left the letter on his desk.

His roommate spotted it and being a Soul of Honor, he didn't read the Blast. Just saw "Dear Maggy". So he addressed an envelope to Maggy II at Northampton, slapped on a stamp and dropped the Epistle in the box.

This Sophomore still has a sister named Maggy. No Girl. He still has no idea why.

Had he been Wise - he'd have sent his Sister and her Mate a beautifully decorated "Congratulations" Telegram. Telegrams get to the right destination... carry Good News, Invitations, Bids for Cash and Dates more resolutely than any other Form of Communication. When you have a message to send that means something to someone - just tell Western Union... or print to your Western Union office.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 35.. THE LARGEMOUTH BASS

I'm a sucker for a left hook!

Always a sucker for attractive bait, our aquatic brother went off the deep end and got caught on the quick-trick cigarette hook! But he wormed his way out when he suddenly realized that cigarette mildness can't be tossed off reel lightly. Millions of smokers have found, too, there's only one true test of cigarette mildness.

It's the sensible test—the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

Spivey Seeks a Clean Bill

BILL SPIVEY, SEVEN-FOOT center of the University of Kentucky, arrives at the district attorney's office in New York city for a meeting with officers in connection with the point-shaving probe. Spivey withdrew from the No. 1 team in the country because he said suspicion had been thrown on him in the fixes, and now seeks a clean bill so he can return to the game. With him are Attys. Elmer Lake (left) and John Young Brown.

Cagers Plead Guilty To Point-Shaving

NEW YORK (AP) — Three former University of Kentucky basketball stars, members of the great teams that won the National Collegiate A.A. championships in 1948 and 1949, Tuesday pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiring with gamblers to shave points in a National Invitation tournament game here in 1949.

Dale Barnstable, Ralph Beard and Alex Groza were permitted to plead to a conspiracy charge, a misdemeanor for which they may be sentenced to serve up to three years in the New York city penitentiary. A more serious charge of accepting a bribe was, in effect, dropped. Bribery, a felony, is punishable by a state prison term.

General session Judge Saul S. Streit paroled them until March 28, when sentence will be pronounced.

Conspired to Change Game

The three pleaded guilty of conspiring to influence the result of the invitation tournament game with Loyola of Chicago in Madison Square Garden, March 14, 1949. Loyola won the game, 67 to 56.

After that surprising "upset," Kentucky went on to win the NCAA championship, beating Villanova and Illinois in the Eastern Regional tournament and Oklahoma A. and M. in the East-West final.

Indicating that the investigation of games played by Kentucky teams has not ended, Assistant District Atty. Vincent A. G. O'Connor told the court that Barnstable and two other players, Wal-

Iowa Runners To Face Best Sprinter at NU

The Iowa track team runs into Olympic competition Saturday afternoon when the Hawkeyes close their indoor dual meet schedule at Northwestern.

The Hawkeyes will be running against Jim Golliday, America's best sprinter and an outstanding Olympic candidate for 1952.

Golliday, a sophomore from Wendell Phillips high school in Chicago, started this season by winning the 50-yard dash at the Milwaukee Journal relays in the record time of :05.2.

He followed it up with a victory in the 75-yard dash at the Michigan State relays, where the stocky Wildcat equalled the American record with a time of :07.4.

Has Long Win List

As a Northwestern freshman, Golliday first drew attention by winning the Central A.A.U. 60-yard dash. His time of :06.1 equalled the American record. He also captured the 50-yard dash title in the Chicago relays in :05.3, two-tenths of a second off the American record.

As a prep, Golliday tied the Illinois state record for the 100-yard dash in his senior year with a time of :09.6.

Outside of Golliday and letterman Art Kurtz, Northwestern's top high and broad jumper, the Wildcats lack the outstanding individuals or team depth to cause Iowa much trouble.

Hawks Favored

Iowa's showing in the victory over Minnesota last Saturday points toward another Iowa win this weekend. Coach Francis Cretzmeyer said Monday, "We should be able to repeat last year's victory."

The 1951 Hawkeyes beat Northwestern, 71-43.

Ted Wheeler and LeRoy Ebert turned in the top individual performances as Iowa dropped Minnesota. Wheeler raced to a 4:15.5 mile and a new fieldhouse, SUI, and meet record. Ebert also topped three marks in the half-mile with his time of 1:55.7.

DuWayne Dietz in the low hurdles, John Hall in the shot-put and Stan Levinson in the broad jump were other Iowans who showed well against the Gophers. All three placed first in their specialties.

Spivey Asks Clearance

Still another Kentucky star, Bill Spivey, visited the district attorney's office Tuesday for a conference. Spivey, who had denied any connection with the fixing of games, asked to be declared ineligible this season until his name was cleared of suspicion. He recently sought reinstatement.

Later Spivey testified for two hours before the grand jury. He is scheduled to go before the grand jury again today along with Hirsch.

Hirsch, captain of the 1950-51 team, has appeared before the grand jury investigating the scandal and is under $500 bond as a material witness. Line has not come to New York.

So far, the spreading scandal has involved 32 players from seven colleges. Five have been sentenced to jail, 13 sentenced to suspended terms, three others indicted and eight others are under arrest.

Tickets Nearly Gone

Only a few general admission and no reserved tickets are available for the Iowa-Wisconsin basketball game Monday night, it was announced Tuesday.

The total attendance at home games now stands at 112,376 for 10 games. The highest attendance was at the Illinois contest (16,204), and the Michigan State game Monday was second high.

8 Days, $36,000 Later

NOW A FORMER HOLDOUT, Sal Maglie checks in at the New York Giants spring training camp after he and the Giants' front office came to terms. Maglie, a 23-game winner last year, reported eight games late, but the wait did him good — he'll get $36,000 this season, highest ever paid to a Giant hurler.

Iowa Slips To 7th In AP Poll

Swimmers Optimistic About Gopher Meet In Iowa Pool Friday

By LEE CANNING

Iowa's swimming team gets another chance at victory No. 5 for the season Friday afternoon when the Hawkeyes meet Minnesota here and even pessimistic David Armbruster, Iowa coach, states that the Hawks stand an even chance of beating the Gophers.

Minnesota opened its season with a 51-42 victory over Carleton but has dropped three straight dual meets since. The Gophers lost to Michigan, 69-24, Northwestern, 67-36, and Illinois, 51-42. Iowa's record stands at four victories and one loss, that coming last week at the hands of Michigan. The victories have been over Purdue, Wisconsin, Illinois and Northwestern.

Not Like Wolves

Armbruster admits that Minnesota is "not quite as strong as Michigan." The Hawkeye coach still would go no further than to say that Iowa "has a chance of getting back into the win column."

The Iowa coach felt his squad turned in some good performances despite the decisive 55-38 victory scored by Michigan. He also thought that a week's rest would help four Hawkeyes who were not physically right for the Wolverines.

The four Hawks who were slowed by colds and flu included co-captain Wally Nicholson, who has been below his usual form in the last two meets. Dick Labahn, Ron Johnson and Don Watson were the other Iowans not up to par for the Michigan meet.

Bo a Highlight

Highlight of those "good performances" against Michigan was Bowen Stassforth's time in the 200-yard breaststroke. The Iowa co-captain broke his own American, national intercollegiate, pool and SUI records by nearly three seconds with his time of 2:19.7.

The old mark was 2:22.2 which Stassforth set the week before against Northwestern.

Freshman Dick Pennington also showed more improvement although he finished second to Michigan's Don Hill in the 50-yard sprint. Hill topped three records in the 50, breaking the American, national intercollegiate and pool marks.

Pennington also did his share of record breaking but on a smaller scale. Armbruster stated that the Hawkeye freshman's time of 25.7 for the 50 is a new national record for college freshmen.

netted only three field goals in the first half, but added 11 in the final two quarters to finish with 28 points.

In the first game Tuesday afternoon Pella Christian won its 24th consecutive victory.

The Pella team led all the way and Bernice Memmelar, Christian's hook shot specialist, rolled up 20 points in only three-quarters of play to lead the top scoring.

Bernice dropped in eight of 13 shots during the first half which saw Pella move ahead to a 31-14 lead. Dorothy Rozenboom, Pella's tall guard, held Jeanne Kellerman of Franklin to five baskets but Dorothy fouled out midway in the last period and Jean collected a game total of 19 points to pace the losers.

Valley, trailing by 20 points at one time in the second quarter, rallied in the final half to catch Little Rock in the final minutes of the third period.

Schoulte Scores 31 As Monona, Valley, Pella, Mallard Gain

DES MOINES (AP) — Monona, with 6-foot 4-inch Norma Schoulte scoring 31 points, downed Stubb Seymour, 56-42, in the first round of the Iowa high school girls basketball tournament Tuesday night.

In afternoon games, Pella Christian, the tournament's only undefeated team, ousted Franklin Consolidated of Latimer, 48-33, and Valley high of West Des Moines edged Little Rock, 56-51.

In the second night game Mallard edged by Farragut, 45-44.

Schoulte had trouble scoring against Seymour's tight defense, but on the other hand, Seymour had trouble guarding Schoulte. Four Seymour girls fouled out of the game before Schoulte herself left via the foul route with a minute and 22 seconds remaining.

Monona's own defense held Seymour to 16 points in the first half to 25 for Monona.

Joy Liggett, Seymour's 6-footer, netted only three field goals in the first half, but added 11 in the final two quarters to finish with 28 points.

Bo McMillin Fights — 'Until the Last Whistle'

— He Tells Ex-Coach

SAN ANTONIO, TEX. (AP) — Bo McMillin, critically ill in a Bloomington, Ind., hospital, has assured his former coach that he won't give up easily.

"They tell me that my condition is desperate," said the former head football coach of Indiana university in a letter disclosed Tuesday by Robert L. (Chief) Myers, director of athletic publicity at Trinity university here.

"I can still remember from boyhood your instructions were to fight until the last whistle blew," added Bo. "Rugged as it is, I plan on doing just that."

He Believes Him

Myers, remembering a little guy who used to do his tackling with a wrestling hold (Bo was also an excellent wrestler as a youngster), believes the famed coach will fight just as hard as he says he will. "I'd rather have him on my team than anybody who was ever connected with football," said Myers.

Bo was his quarterback and field general when Myers coached North Side high school of Ft. Worth, Tex., to a state championship in 1914. Myers had started the little scrapper out as a guard, but Bo tackled everyone who came near him whether he had the ball or not—and with a wrestling hold.

Myers insisted he didn't teach Bo much—that he didn't have to because it was instinctive with Bo. One Sunday morning Myers took Bo to a quiet spot and showed him some fundamentals of ball-carrying. He gave him the ball in the next game. From then on, Bo was regular tailback and signal-caller, and did a masterful job.

Starred at Centre

McMillin studied football day and night. At night he often walked the 2 or 3 miles across town to talk football with Myers. When Myers went to coach little Centre college in Danville, Ky., Bo and several other members of the Ft. Worth high school team went along. What with World War I and no freshman rule, he managed to play five years for Centre. Centre became a national football power.

In 1921, Centre defeated the mighty Harvard team that hadn't lost an inter-sectional game in 40 years. The margin was one touchdown — scored by Bo McMillin.

The score — 6-0.

Kentucky Holds 1st Easily; Illini Climb to 2d

NEW YORK (AP) — The University of Kentucky, already champions of the Southeastern conference, heads into tournament play Thursday, and victory as expected would cement for Coach Adolph Frederick Rupp's club rating as the season's No. 1 basketball team.

For the fifth week in a row, Kentucky was ranked on top of the cage heap Tuesday in the 12th weekly nationwide poll of the Associated Press.

Illinois, which just about clinched the Big Ten championship with its 78-72 victory over Iowa Saturday night, climbed from fifth to second in the standings and received 16 first place votes. The Hawkeyes dropped to seventh and got only one first place tally.

Kansas State, who lost to Colorado by 10 points, and Duquesne, whose 18-game streak was smashed by Villanova, both stayed near the top, getting third and fourth respectively.

Next week's poll will be the final of the season, and if Kentucky goes through the Southeastern conference tournament all victorious, Rupp's mighty team undoubtedly will be rated No. 1 again. This would make Kentucky the No. 1 outfit for three of four seasons that the AP poll of sports writers and sportscasters has been conducted.

Kentucky was voted the top team in 1949 and 1951. In 1950, when Bradley won the No. 1 honors, Kentucky finished No. 3, with Ohio State No. 2.

This week, Kentucky got 51 of the 133 ballots cast, and a total of 953 points — well ahead of the second team, Illinois, with 16 first place votes and 768 points.

The top 10 (first place votes in parentheses):

TEAM	Record	Points
1. Kentucky (51)	34-2	953
2. Illinois (16)	17-2	768
3. Kansas State (3)	16-4	496
4. Duquesne (3)	19-1	477
5. St. Louis (3)	20-3	338
6. Washington (0)	25-4	333
7. Iowa (1)	18-2	310
8. Kansas (2)	19-2	297

Ev's Dead on Both — Baskets, Bricks

By JACK JORDAN Sports Editor

A man whose accuracy on the basketball floor is matched only by his accuracy as a bricklayer has been the cause of many happy hearts in Iowa City.

Ev Cochran, who just Monday night pulled another Big Ten game out of the fire for our Hawkeyes, is the man — the sixth man, that is.

Cochran, a pressure shooter who's directly picked the team up and led it to safety in two clutch games now, spends each summer as a bricklayer in Des Moines. And the line of bricks he sets is no straighter than the line on which he tosses the basketball toward its goal.

Great as a Prep

Ev will long be remembered in the state as an all-time great high school football and basketball player at Tech high in Des Moines. He led his cage team to the city championship in his senior year, and led the capitol city in scoring in both football and basketball the same year.

Since those days, though, his career has run hot and cold. He spent a semester at Drake university, which only recently caused him to relinquish his spot on the starting team while his remaining eligibility was being checked.

When he finally became associated with the Iowa varsity, Ev ran into scholastic difficulties in the military department and sat out half of one whole season. But during these numerous layoffs, he didn't stop practicing that set shot for which so many of us are so thankful.

One of Best Shots

Ev has been invaluable this year. When Chuck Darling starts hitting his hooks and layups, the defense almost invariably drops back to help guard against them. Then it's the duty of the long shot artist to draw them back out with a few baskets, and Ev's established himself as an artist.

In the Michigan State game, Cochran hit six field goals in 11 attempts. Four of them came in the fourth quarter when the Hawks were trying to pull out of a deadlock.

His most significant contribution, however, came in the Illinois game here. Going into the game as a substitute, Ev made four of eight field goals he attempted and added three free throws for a total of 11 points. Add to that the seven rebounds he got, and the result is his great contribution to Iowa's 73-68 win, which kept them in the Big Ten race.

Ev will receive a commission in the army upon graduation next February, and later will get into high school coaching. There's too much talent there to waste on bricks.

Kentucky Forced To Ignore NIT

LOUISVILLE, KY. (AP) — Bernie Shively, athletic director at the University of Kentucky, said Tuesday the Wildcats must bypass the National Invitation tournament because of a new Southeastern conference ruling.

Shively said that under the ruling, passed last December during the SEC meeting at New Orleans, teams are forbidden to play more than one national basketball tournament.

When he finally became associated with the Iowa varsity, Ev ran into scholastic difficulties in the military department and sat out half of one whole season. But during these numerous layoffs, he didn't stop practicing that set shot for which so many of us are so thankful.

City Assessor Seeks Approval of Details On Tax Revaluation

Iowa City's tax committee will meet tonight with City Assessor Victor J. Belger at the Johnson county courthouse to discuss approval of specifications for revaluation of city real estate. Belger said Wednesday that he had drawn up tentative specifications and would be ready to send a final draft to appraisal firms Friday. Earlier this month, the city's three taxing bodies voted to have Iowa City real estate revalued by an outside firm of appraisal engineers. The specifications will contain details of the nature of the work to be done, the area to be covered, the time limit, the personnel to be hired locally and the type of system to be installed permanently in the assessor's office. Belger said that about six appraisal firms will be sent specifications and will be asked to submit estimates on the revaluation project.

VA Outlines Plan to Solve Hospital Area Smoke Problem

Prof. C. M. Updegraff of the college of law, said Tuesday he was "hopeful but pessimistic" that new steps planned by the Veterans administration will stop the rain of smoke and soot from the VA hospital. Updegraff made this reply in reference to a letter from Carl R. Gray, national administrator of veterans' affairs, to Rep. Thomas Martin (R-Iowa City) outlining steps that will be taken in an attempt to improve the situation. Updegraff, a resident of Manville Heights, had written Martin requesting his help in remedying the situation. Gray outlined five steps that will be put into operation before fall: (1) improved operation of the boiler plant; (2) installation of overfire steam jets; (3) re-designing and enlargement of the fly ash arrester; (4) installation of modulating zone heating con-

Iowa Union Addition Delayed Again

Proposed Development of the Iowa Memorial Union

By BILL CLABBY

The much-delayed construction of the new addition to the Iowa Memorial Union will be postponed again, possibly for a year and a half, Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the Union, said Tuesday.

Original plans called for the beginning of the project in spring, 1951, and it was scheduled to be completed sometime this year. But a series of delays have forced the beginning of actual construction to be postponed several times.

Shortages Halt Construction
The biggest stumbling block now, as in most construction, is the problem of obtaining the essential materials — particularly steel which is on the nation's critical list.

Problems in financing also have to be overcome, although this problem has been reduced considerably in recent months.

At one time, it had been decided to borrow the money in one lump sum from insurance companies. But this was changed when the state legislature refused to consider enabling legislation appropriating the funds.

At that time Rep. G. M. Ludwig (R-Tiffin) said the bill to authorize the borrowing of funds was sidetracked in the sifting committee because of pressure from hotel lobbyists.

Hotel interests opposed the passage of the bill because, they claimed it would put the university — a non taxable institution, in competition with private enterprise.

The hotel group was particularly referring to the hotel unit of the new addition.

This unit, however, will not be controlled by the union, Harper said. It will be under the direction of the dormitory service, but is being planned and built in conjunction with the student service addition to the Union.

Present plans call for the construction of the addition one floor at a time, as funds permit.

The basement and first floor are expected to be completed together from the money on hand, loans from banks, and present Union income, according to Harper, with the other floors coming later.

Tuition to Help Financing
Additional financing will come from tuition charges. The six dollar raise in tuition last fall is allocated to the building fund of the Union to help pay for the new addition.

The new student service unit will include enlarged student recreation facilities.

A bowling alley and several billiard tables, along with a ping-pong room, are to be included but present government regulations restrict the building of the bowling alleys and billiard tables.

In regard to the financing of the recreational facilities, Harper said that profits from this section would make the debt self-liquidating.

Browsing Library Planned
Also included in the new unit will be a music room, accommodating about 100 persons, and a modern browsing library.

The library will operate on the same basis as the present one which features magazines, novels, and other material for reading which are available for reading in the Union.

In addition, the service unit will have several conference, banquet and ball rooms, which may be enlarged or made smaller by the use of folding doors. This unit, too, will house the offices of the Alumni association.

A lost and found service and information desk are also to be provided.

More TV Sets Planned
The introduction of television within the last year has caused a slight change in plans. Provisions now are being made so that nearly 100 TV sets may be used at one time throughout the building if it becomes necessary.

The present system has been set up so that it will be possible for six stations to be handled at the same time.

But students will not have to wait too long for improvements to the present Union. Some will begin soon in the River room.

Two sets of folding doors are to be added to the room, thereby making it possible for a small banquet to be held while leaving another section of the room for students' activities. The doors will be arranged so that a corridor between the two rooms will be provided.

"We hope to have this work finished by commencement time," said Harper.

Steam Tunnel Bids to Be Let Plans are being completed and will be let on a $60,000 steam tunnel which will provide water and sewer service as well as heat, for the new addition. It will be financed from the $300,000 Union building fund.

Construction on the tunnel should begin sometime this spring.

Harper emphasized that should building material become available sooner than expected, construction on the addition itself could be started, no matter how far along the steam tunnel is.

When the new building is completed it will represent more than 15 years of planning and constructing. First proposed in 1939, the preliminary sketches were drawn up by George Horner, SEU architect, and in 1942 they were approved by President Virgil M. Hancher.

Internal Tax Bureau To Carefully Inspect Large Expenditures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap said Tuesday "special attention" will be given this year to "excessive and unreasonable expenditures claimed as deductions in tax returns."

Dunlap said reports both from within the revenue bureau and from outside sources indicate "numerous instances of excessive business expenditures, particularly those relating to lavish travel and entertainment expenses."

He said other abuses have been reported in returns listing executives' expense allowances, business gratuities, and disguised payments in the form of living expenses provided for corporation officials.

Dunlap said other reports have indicated excessive expenditures for advertising, research and development, and repairs and maintenance, in an effort to avoid taxes.

On another section of the tax front, the government is expecting to pick up some extra income tax money this year from professional gamblers and citizens who win big money from the gamblers.

An old law requires that all payments of $600 or more to individuals, except wages subject to withholding taxes, be listed with the revenue bureau by Feb. 28.

In the past, an official observed Tuesday, gamblers haven't paid much attention to this requirement. Big winnings by their customers have gone unreported — and frequently untaxed.

This year, however, more than 10,000 gamblers already have registered with the revenue bureau under the new federal gambling tax law. Now that these gamblers are out in the open, the government can insist they report all their payments of $600 or more to their customers.

Oathout, Webber Seek Board Re-election

Alva B. Oathout, chairman of the Iowa City school board, and Irving B. Webber have announced plans to seek re-election to the school board in the March 10 election.

Oathout and Webber, incumbents, are now serving their first terms on the school board.

Under Iowa City's bipartisan system for naming school board candidates, both men as incumbents are automatically approved as candidates by the selection committee.

In announcing his candidacy, Oathout said his primary reason for seeking re-election was to aid in the selection of a replacement for Iver A. Opstad, who Tuesday resigned as superintendent of schools effective at the end of the year.

Oathout said that as chairman of the school board, it has been his duty to contact and interview prospective candidates for superintendent. "All this information would be lost if I do not return," he added.

Other candidates for the school board will be named tonight, when the candidate selection board meets at the City hall at 7:30. The selection committee is made up of 10 Democrats and 10 Republicans who represent the nine city precincts, and the East and West Lucas territory outside Iowa City, which is included in the school district.

Polling places for the election have been designated as the Community building and the Hawkeye Awning company.

Commission To Study Airport Needs, Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission headed by famed flier James H. Doolittle Tuesday tackled the job of finding out the nation's airport needs, with heavy emphasis on safety.

President Truman appointed the commission Feb. 20. He said he was "seriously concerned" about recent accidents during the take-offs and landing, especially in heavily populated areas.

These accidents included three at Elizabeth, N.J., which claimed 119 lives and led to the closing of the big Newark airport.

The commission met for several hours Tuesday, its first get-together. Afterwards Gen. Doolittle told reporters the commission probably will visit the airports of the New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco areas, and that individual members will visit other places in the course of a nation-wide study.

The general purpose of the inquiry, Doolittle said, is to determine how many airports are needed, how large they should be, and where they should be located.

Listen!

... wherever women get together, the new motion picture, "Breast Self-Examination" is news! ... at neighborhood and civic centers ... in factories and business offices ... at social, fraternal and service group meetings, we are showing this film to countless thousands of American women.

Since 80-90% of those who have breast cancer could be cured, we are dedicated to showing every woman in this land what she herself can do to protect herself against death from this disease.

If you don't know where you can see this film, telephone the American Cancer Society office nearest you, or address your letter to "Cancer" in care of your local Post Office. An A.C.S. educational program may save the lives of many of your neighbors, fellow-workers or friends.
