Truman Refers Oil Dispute To Wage Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman sent the nation-wide oil and gas wage dispute to the wage stabilization board Thursday night in an effort to head off a strike threatened for midnight Sunday.

The President asked the wage stabilization board to recommend terms for settling the dispute.

A coalition of CIO, AFL and independent unions, claiming to represent more than 250,000 workers, has threatened to strike to back their demand for a 25 cents an hour pay boost and other concessions.

10 Cent Raise Offered

Employers are reported to have offered up to 10 cents an hour.

Although the case sent to the wage stabilization board named only eight oil companies, it is regarded as a pilot case for both the oil and gas industry. It is expected that the names of other companies will be added before the case is completed by the WSB.

Asking the wage stabilization board to look into the merits of the case usually has the effect of halting the walkout.

The wage board will not handle a dispute during a strike and usually asks both sides to preserve the status quo until it can investigate and make its recommendations.

Truman Sends Letter

In asking the board to intervene, the president said in a letter to Chairman Nathan P. Feininger:

The report of the federal mediation and conciliation service indicates that the unions and the leading oil companies have made no progress in resolving their differences. Strikes in various parts of the industry are scheduled for Monday, March 10, and the shutting down of some operations would begin on or about Friday, March 7. It appears that further mediation and conciliation would not be effective in time to avoid production losses. The work stoppage which is threatened by these disputes would close down the greater part of the petroleum industry."

Fall Grade Averages Show Slight Decline In Most Departments

Fall semester grade point averages released Thursday by the registrar's office show a slight decline in nearly all departments compared to those for the first semester of last year.

Fraternity and sorority averages ranged above all-university averages for men and women. Women ranked higher than men in the final standings.

Men's all-university grade point average for the fall semester this year was 2.224 compared to 2.28 a year ago. Women attained a 2.463, a slight dip from last year's 2.50.

The mean, or all-university grade point average for both men and women, was 2.304 this year compared to 2.34 a year ago.

Fraternities Average 2.29

Fraternities were the only group of those for which statistics were available to raise their grade point average, moving up to a 2.29 compared to last year's 2.28.

Graham Marshall, counselor for fraternities, said that this is the third semester in a row that fraternities have ranked higher than the all-men's average — 14 of the 19 being above it this year.

The five fraternities with the highest grade point averages were: Phi Kappa, 2.475; Acacia, 2.465; Phi Delta Theta, 2.406; Phi Kappa Psi, 2.367, and Phi Gamma Delta, 2.367.

Sororities Average 2.57

The all-sorority average is 2.566, also above the all-women's average. Individual sorority averages will be announced March 18 at a meeting of Women's Panhellenic Association. The sorority pledge class with the highest grade point average will also receive an award at the meeting.

J. Harvey Croy, recorder at the registrar's office, commented on the drop in grade point averages. He said, "It's kind of surprising. I definitely expected it to be higher this year."

Statistics for dormitories and town men and women are still being computed. Grade points listed here do not include dental, medical or law schools.

Morris Leaves White House

NEWBOLD MORRIS, government corruption prober, is shown leaving the White House after a conference with President Truman. He carries with him a questionnaire on personal incomes intended for 25,000 higher bracket government workers.

McGrath Will Be 'No. 1' On Morris' Probe List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal anti-corruption sleuth Newbold Morris said Thursday that when he sends out income questionnaires to 25,000 top-bracket government officials, Attorney General McGrath will get questionnaire "Number 1."

Morris, selected by President Truman to weed out graft in the government, made the statement to newsmen on emerging from a 15-minute talk with Truman at the White House.

Probe Financial Gains

Morris' questionnaires are reportedly designed to find out if McGrath or any of the other 24,999 top government officials have benefited by any sudden financial windfalls since entering the federal service.

Morris' crisp and cheerful comment on McGrath, posting him as No. 1 on the questionnaire list, raised a question whether Morris or a house judiciary subcommittee would get to McGrath first.

The house group, headed by Rep. Frank L. Chelf (D-Ky.), has been tinkering with the idea of calling the attorney general to answer charges by Harold E. Stassen, Republican presidential aspirant, that McGrath has become a millionaire since entering public office.

Stassen said in a New York speech on Feb. 21 that he had received "confidential reports" about McGrath's "accumulated wealth," and demanded an immediate congressional investigation.

Thanks for Compliment

At the time, McGrath said dryly he had no comment "beyond thanking candidate Stassen for the compliment."

McGrath, a lawyer, has been active in banking and real estate along with his political career which has run from three-times governor of Rhode Island to U.S. senator and now a Truman cabinet officer.

Ray said more people should understand the tools of government; the ballot, caucus, convention and election; and try to interest others in them.

As examples of non-participation, Ray said only 20 per cent of Iowa voters vote in primary elections; and that 8 per cent of Iowa City voters participated in the last school board election.

2 Quad Men Ask Rehearing On Expulsion

Two SUI students who were expelled from the Quadrangle dormitory have appealed for a rehearing of their case, Marion Huit, SUI men's counselor, said Thursday night.

Humphrey Cox, Al, Lynn Grove, and Byron H. Hoffman, A2, Des Moines, were expelled after they seized the Pi Beta Phi candidate for the "Miss SUI" beauty contest and carried her toward a shower room in the Quadrangle, a judiciary committee statement said.

A proctor intervened and the girl was released, the statement continued.

Gulty on 3 Counts

The committee specifically found the two guilty of conducting themselves in a manner not in accordance with university regulations, of excessive noise and of taking a woman into the living area of the building.

Huit said he has asked the boys to submit today in writing their reasons for asking a rehearing of the case. He said it may be several days before the university rules on the request for a rehearing.

Until a final decision is reached Cox and Hoffman may continue to live at the Quadrangle, Bob Newman, C4, West New York, N.J., president of the dormitory said.

Committee Deliberates 5 Hours

The judiciary committee said that they met Monday and deliberated more than five hours on the matter before adjourning.

On Tuesday evening, by a unanimous vote, the two defendants were found guilty and expelled. They were requested to leave the Quad by March 10, the committee said.

Shower Suggested by Onlooker

"As they approached the archway to the tower, someone yelled for them to throw her in the shower. So the two men proceeded to carry the girl down the hall to the shower in the northwest corner.

Shower Suggested by Onlooker

"As they approached the archway to the tower, someone yelled for them to throw her in the shower. So the two men proceeded to carry the girl down the hall to the shower in the northwest corner.

Before they got to the shower someone shouted that there was a man in the shower. At this point the proctor arrived and escorted the girl back to her friends and led the group out of the Quad area.

Sunday, after a thorough investigation, the proctor officially filed the charges against the two residents.

New Humor Magazine To Appear April 2

April 2 was set Thursday as the date for the first issue of SUI's new humor magazine. The magazine was scheduled to appear late this month.

After the first issue, students will be asked to submit names for the magazine.

In addition to a staff of 16, a marketing seminar class will give advice in promotion, advertising and circulation.

The seminar meets under the direction of marketing Profs. Wendell Smith, head of the department; William Knote, and Ellis Newsome, who is also a member of the school of journalism.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The army disclosed Thursday night it is delving deeper into the curious case of an American major general who jotted down his personal views about war with Russia in a diary which was photographed later by Soviet agents.

DES MOINES (AP) — An Iowa marine in Korea, returned his income tax questionnaire to the federal bureau of internal revenue here with the following assets and liabilities listed:

Assets — Thompson machine gun, hand grenades, steel helmet, knife, many dead Commissars.

Total liabilities — one homesick marine, tired of war.

Seats Crash, 277 Hurt At Baltimore Ice Show

BALTIMORE (AP) — An entire section of seats in the fifth regiment armory here collapsed Thursday night and more than 277 persons awaiting the start of an ice show were injured.

First reports were that no one was critically hurt and a crowd of 7,000 got out of the big stone building without causing panic.

The seats in the eastern end of the armory collapsed about 8:30 p.m., a few minutes before Sonja Henie and her ice show were scheduled to make their opening appearance.

The injured were taken to 10 hospitals for treatment of bruises and broken bones but busy doctors were unable to give accurate counts of the total hurt.

Some of the victims were trapped beneath timbers and flooring that supported the seats. Some were under the wreckage for as long as 30 minutes before they could be extricated.

Jack Mulcahy, public relations representative for the ice show, said the section that collapsed held 350 persons.

Shuck Is Acquitted By Justice Court Of Rape Charge

DESI MOINES (AP) — Justice of the Peace Al Hoard Thursday dismissed the case against Berthold Shuck, 47, charged with the beating and rape of a 20-year-old expectant Des Moines mother.

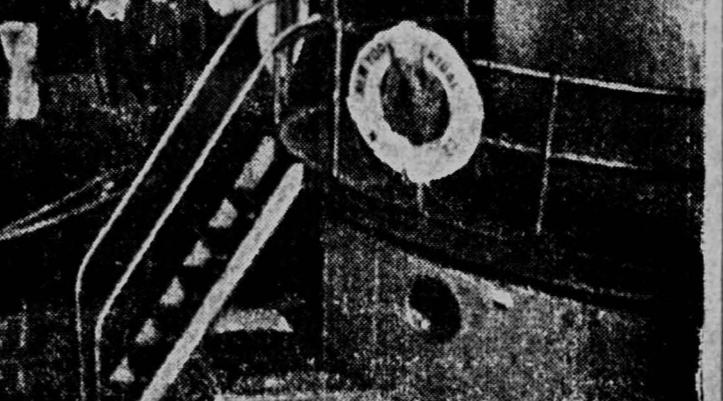

Hoard, in making his decision, said the state's evidence was not conclusive enough as to the true identity of the assailant.

Shuck, who pleaded innocent to the charge when arraigned before Hoard Feb. 7, was identified by Mrs. Conn Hutzell as the man who forced his way into her apartment Jan. 28, severely beat her, then raped and robbed her before leaving the apartment.

The arrest of Shuck, which came nine days after Mrs. Hutzell said she identified him from police department pictures, stirred up an investigation of the detective bureau by City Manager Leonard Howell.

Hoard, who took the case under advisement last week, Thursday night said the defense lacked evidence with which to connect Shuck to the crime.

Hoard said he placed little importance in a lie detector test given Shuck by Prof. Richard Holcomb at the police science school at SUI.

AN AUTO WHICH SLAMMED THROUGH the closed gates at the Weehawken, N.J., ferry terminal early Thursday carried one and possibly two persons to their death. When police pulled the car out of the Hudson river it was empty but they later found the body of a woman in the water. Witnesses said a man was also riding in the car.

Plea to Nation Follows Talk To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman appealed to the nation Thursday night to support his foreign aid program against an election year economy drive, saying "we'd better be off to win the fight against communism than to win any particular election."

Earlier in the day, the President formally asked congress to vote $7.9 billion in new foreign aid funds. He said every penny of that is needed to meet a Russian threat against the "survival of civilization."

In that message, Truman said a policy of "retreat" — of concentrating on defending the Western hemisphere and on building up sea and air power — would raise an eventual threat of "bloody battle on our own shores."

While he mentioned no names in either the message or his speech, this was obviously a reference to the policy advocated by former President Herbert Hoover.

Legislators Oppose

Many legislators of both parties immediately called for cuts ranging up to one-half the total. Chairman James Richards (D-S.C.) of the house foreign affairs committee said the administration would be "doing pretty darn well" to escape with a billion dollar cut.

Truman, in an address broadcast and televised from the White House Thursday night, in effect accused those who advocate reductions in the program of putting political motives above concern for the welfare of the nation and the free world. He said they are really helping communism, no matter how much they denounce it.

"It is awfully easy to 'demagogue' in favor of economy and against what is scornfully referred to as 'foreign aid,'" he said. "Congressional action on our Mutual Security program will be a real test of statesmanship."

Plan Could Block War

What congress does with his request, the President said, "has a great deal to do with our chances of avoiding another world war."

He said the $7.9 billion figure was not "just taken out of the air," but was arrived at after months of study as the exact amount which national security requires.

It would finance military aid, both direct and indirect, to this nation's allies in the fiscal year which starts July 1. There is also a relatively small amount for technical assistance to underdeveloped areas — the Point Four program.

Tells of Real Threat

Noting that the total is less than 2½ per cent of the national output for a year, Truman said there are many persons both in and out of congress who say the foreign aid program is a fine thing but who advocate that it be cut by several billion dollars.

The real threat to this country's security, he said, isn't the danger of bankruptcy, "it's the danger of Communist aggression."

In a 7,500-word special message he sent congress earlier, Truman had cautioned against "false economy" and said:

"I would not counsel the congress to spend one dollar more than is necessary to support our policy of peace. But there is no economy more false than that which is summed up in the tragic phrase, 'too little and too late.'"

2 Alternatives in Struggle

The President said there are two alternatives to helping the free world in the struggle against communism:

1. "Premeditated and deliberate war" to crush Soviet Russia.

WASHINGTTON (AP) — Some policy making officials of the state department are wishing congress would ease the policy requirements which other nations must meet to receive U.S. military assistance.

The stipulation in military aid legislation that to receive help a nation must state flatly it is on the side of the Western powers in the struggle against the Soviets is embarrassing some friendly governments, they say. This might make it impossible for the administration to strengthen some weaker nations which are in strategic locations.

Only one nation, Iran, has definitely turned down U.S. offers of military assistance, according to state and defense department spokesmen. Premier Mossadegh has not been unfriendly to the Western cause, but he said he could not sign up definitely as a Western ally.

The Indonesian government, which did sign such an agreement, fell immediately because of it. It is not known what the fate of that agreement will be when a new government is formed. Indonesia as a whole has been thoroughly friendly and cooperative with United States policies; but there was strong opposition to fully lining up with the West against Russia.

Negotiations for a military aid pact with Mexico have been "temporarily suspended due to conditions beyond our control," said administration officials. They explained only that they hoped negotiations would be resumed after the Mexican presidential elections this summer.

Negotiations now are being discussed with Chile, Columbia, Brazil and Cuba.

Congress' point of view has been that any nation that wants free U.S. help should be ready to stand up and be counted among the Western Allies. It's not likely, state department officials concede, that congress will change its mind about this.

The father, Frank J. Klemm, a draftsman, was at work in New York city when the tragedy occurred.

He later said his wife had been "acting nervous" and had been under a doctor's care, according to Inspector DeMott.

Trouble Stirs in Her Colonies To Threaten Defense of West

(Editor's note: This is the second of three stories seeking to answer the question "What's wrong with France?" Today's, written by the chief of the AP bureau in Paris, deals with France's colonial difficulties and the dangers they impose for the West.)

There is an independence movement in all the North African colonies, and various local leaders have been exiled or locked up. However the immediate danger to the African possessions could be exaggerated.

Too Much Unrest at Home

A major problem is that the French central government is so little able to cope with its own serious problems of defense, inflation, housing and reconstruction that it can not deal successfully with the overseas areas.

For instance, the recent unhappiness with Tunisia might easily have been avoided had the central government been able to impose its will on the French inhabitants and officials there. Orders for governmental reform were issued offering the Tunisians part of what they wanted. But there was something akin to a sit-down strike of French residents and French job holders.

New contradictory directions dribbled out, the peaceful negotiations were broken off and Tunisia appealed to the United Nations. Now all the Arab Middle East is backing up the case, a great embarrassment to France.

SUI Mock Trial Begins In Manslaughter Case

(Editor's note: This is one of a series of mock trials being held at the college of law. The case is a fictitious one constructed to give law students courtroom experience. The witnesses are students of the law college, but their names used at the trial and in this story are fictitious. The jury is made up of students. Atty. Albert Habbab and George McBurney are law students.)

PROTESTING heavy taxes, a "mail your shirt to congress" campaign is snowballing through California. It started at a meeting in Marysville, near Los Angeles, of the state farm bureau. Someone roared, "They're taking the shirts right off our backs." William Staiger, ex-Los Angeles county farm bureau officer, peeled off his shirt to mail.

Interpreting the News —

Military Service 'Owed' To Nation, French Feel

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

While the argument over universal military training is still fresh, and since it is expected to come up again after the election, maybe it's just as well to recall what America's chief Allies do about it.

In France it has been part of the national life since 1798. Military service comes as surely as death, and much more surely than taxes, to the able bodied man.

Compulsory military service begins in high school, with physical education and rudimentary training in arms. In his nineteenth year a youth is called for his physical and classified. During his twentieth year he begins 18 months as a private, after which he is liable for three years to be recalled into immediate service. Gradations of activity continue for 28 years—for 15 years in the case of officers.

Similar to Our ROTC

If a boy goes to a university he passes from the rudimentary high school military training into something much like the American ROTC.

If he passes his tests in this work, he can defer his tour of actual duty until his schooling is complete. If he fails, it's the army for him right away.

Be he a doctor, lawyer or atomic physicist, when his schooling ends he gets that 18 months in the army. Afterward, if he is in essential work, he may be assigned to continue it in an emergency but the decision is the nation's not his.

During military service he will draw mighty little pay, by American standards, even if he stays in the army and becomes a general. He will be kept according to rank. A private gets about three cents a day pocket money.

This is not a matter of circumstance. It is part of a different idea that military service is something owed the nation.

Britain has had UMT for 12 years. Since the war more than a million men have trained, at first for 18 months and now for two years, and then returned to 42 months of active attachment to auxiliary services.

The play is concerned with a struggle between a man of genius and a man who attains material success. It contains 12 scenes, with an epilogue and a prologue, and covers a span of 20 years.

The leading characters wear masks to emphasize their complex personalities. While wearing their masks the characters express their superficial, outward personalities. Without their masks they express their genuine emotions.

The set is abstract, composed only of a group of wooden blocks. The theatre's revolving stage is used to suggest scene changes. Because of the simplicity in setting and costuming, the importance of the acting is accentuated.

John Harkins, A3, St. Louis, Mo., will appear in the leading role of William Brown, the man who attains success. This Harkins' ninth play at SUI.

Richard Gillespie, G. Baltimore, Md., will appear as Dion Anthony, the man of genius who finds only disillusionment. Gillespie was in the American Home Economics delegation to promote greater understanding among the peoples of the world.

Mary Van Fleet, G. Upland, Calif., will play Anthony's wife, Margaret. Miss Van Fleet starred as Mary Stuart in the play of the same name last fall. She also appeared in University theatre productions of "The Heiress" and "Goodbye, My Fancy."

In the part of Cybel, an embittered woman, is Gail McClintock, who failed to shake Getz' testimony on cross-examination.

Dale Johnson, 40, bar tender at Pat's Tavern in Tiffen, witness for the state, testified that the defendant was in Pat's Tavern from 8 until 11 p.m. the night of the accident.

Johnson told the court that he heard a crash as Crosby was leaving the tavern. He said he looked out the door and saw that the defendant had backed into and ran over the mail box. He added that he had thought Crosby was intoxicated before he (Crosby) had left the tavern.

Petersen, a Tiffen filling station operator, was struck and killed while walking to his pickup truck after answering a service call three miles east of Tiffen.

Crosby, operator of the vehicle that allegedly struck Petersen, has been charged with manslaughter by County Atty. Albert Habbab.

Patrolman Testifies

The whiskey was taken from Crosby's car after the accident by Charles Getz, 33, Iowa state highway patrolman.

Getz, testifying for the prosecution as the state opened its case in the law building, said he first noticed the Crosby car when it passed him and nearly forced him off the road.

He said the car continued down the highway "at high speed and in a wreckless manner. Then I followed him." Getz added that the Crosby car was "never more than 30 feet in front of me."

Getz testified that he was hit by Crosby when the accident occurred.

Found Whiskey

He said he apprehended Crosby after the accident and it was at that time that he took the partly filled bottle of whiskey from the defendant's car.

The state will conclude its case today.

The car continued down the highway "at high speed and in a wreckless manner. Then I followed him." Getz added that the Crosby car was "never more than 30 feet in front of me."

Getz testified that he was hit by Crosby when the accident occurred.

Big Ten Confirms Darling's Dominance Of Scoring Records

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten officially confirmed that all-American center Chuck Darling of Iowa virtually rewrote the conference record book this season.

The superb, 6-foot, 8-inch pivot star set five new major individual marks, tied one record, and missed menacing only one, official statistics disclosed.

The one record that eluded Darling was the single game high of 43 points, set by another Iowan, Dick Ives. Chances are, however, that Darling could have bettered that one, too, if he had a shot at the same feeble 1944 Chicago team that gave Ives his record.

Overshadowed by Darling's record-shattering antics was the fact that two other conference players topped previous records.

Ohio State's brilliant sophomore, Paul Ebert wound up with 300 points, while McNulty scored 289, both topping the 14-game mark of 277. Ebert and McNulty also bettered the old field goal total of 111 with 112 and 114 respectively. Darling's marks were 364 and 132 in those categories.

ROTC Rifle Teams To Fire in Tourney

Two Iowa ROTC rifle teams left Thursday morning for the Midwest Indoor Camp Perry meet at Kemper Military School, Bonneville, Mo., scheduled for today and Saturday.

The Hawkeyes' basic ROTC and advanced course ROTC teams will be competing against approximately 60 teams in the 17th annual meet. Other teams entered include Iowa State, University of Illinois and last year's winner, University of Tennessee.

Iowa will fire captain Jim McLaughlin, Stan James, Bob Doctor and Jim Hertig on the advanced team, Lt. Col. Harold E. Dilley, SUI director of marksmanship, said.

The basic team men will be Don Green, Art Boerner, Jack Westwick and Don Groeneweld, he added. M. Sgt. Emmett Baumann, rifle coach, will also accompany the shooters.

Illini Wolves Track Favorite

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. (AP) — Again, it's Illinois vs. Michigan for the Big Ten indoor track title in the 42nd annual conference championships which start here tonight.

The Wolverines, who have taken 16 conference crowns, are favored to dethrone the defending champion Illinois, pursuing their 13th title, although it looks like another battle to the finish between these two perennial track powers.

Iowa and Ohio State appear destined for a third-place scrap, while Michigan State, Wisconsin, Indiana, Purdue, Minnesota and Gary Scott in the 440-yard dash.

Northwestern will be slicing from the favorites.

Six individual champions are back, but only two-mile runner Don McEwen of Michigan safe bet to repeat.

The other five title-holders include Ohio State's Len True, 60-yard dash; Joe Gonzalez of Illinois, 440, and Indiana's Jim Parker and Illinois' Tom Floyd, 100-yard jump champions.

Illinois' best chances are given to Ted Wheeler in the mile and to Gary Scott in the 440-yard dash.

Ashton Writes Text on Steel Girder Bridges

Prof. Ned L. Ashton, department of civil engineering, has written a 31-page booklet entitled "A Modern Steel Girder Highway Bridge," which is to be distributed to 400 world-wide colleges and universities.

JAMES F. LINCOLN ARC WELDING FOUNDATION, CLEVELAND, OHIO, IS THE PUBLISHER OF THIS BOOKLET WHICH IS TO BE USED FOR TEACHING ENGINEERING STUDENTS.

Ashton, who designed Iowa City's Benton st. bridge, wrote the booklet about this bridge. The Benton st. bridge is distinguished, because it is one of the few bridges in the United States built with prefabricated steel parts, and a floor of welded steel plates.

This construction is unique in bridge building since the process of riveting, which is costly, was replaced by welded and prefabricated parts.

Ashton has also done the designing for a new 22-foot steel deck for the MacArthur bridge across the Mississippi river at Burlington. The design was completed last summer and construction work is expected to begin in June.

The MacArthur bridge is the twelfth Mississippi river bridge on which Ashton has worked. At present Ashton is working on a bridge at Ironton, O.

His work on bridges in this vicinity can be seen at Clinton's north bridge and the Centennial bridge at Davenport.

The ordinance is open to the public and tickets may be purchased at the door.

The plaintiffs were granted permission to post a sign proclaiming the driveway private. They also were ordered to remove a gate that had been put up at the west end of the road.

Kane's appointment and the instituting of the purchasing system was announced by City Manager Peter F. Roan.

The new purchasing system will be co-ordinated with the city cost accounting system, which began operation here a short time ago.

Was Election Issue

The setting up of the new system came a little more than five months after Roan took office last Aug. 1. The promise of the system was one of the prime issues of the council-manager election held a year ago.

Previously each of the city's departments has usually purchased its own equipment with orders going out through the clerk's office for small quantities of materials as needed.

Under the new system, all departmental requisitions will go through the central purchasing office, where orders of similar materials needed by the various departments will be co-ordinated by Kane, with the purchase of these items in larger quantities resulting in savings to the city.

Savings will also be made with the elimination of the purchasing procedure that is now being handled by each department.

Reasons Cited

Two reasons were cited by Roan for the adoption of the new system. Besides the economy, it would enable the city to keep a better account of how the city's money is being spent.

In addition, the combined purchasing and accounting system will be of great value when future city budgets are under consideration.

It will enable the city to estimate very closely what expenditures will be needed for a coming year by the city's governmental services.

Hall Sees West Europe Stronger Than Soviet

Western Europe soon will have a stronger military potential than the Communist nations, W. Earl Hall, editor of the Mason City Globe-Gazette, said here Thursday.

Hall spoke at "Information First" on "A Reporter Reports," describing observations he and a group of 14 other newsmen made during a recent five-week tour of Western Europe.

In his thumbnail sketches of the countries visited, he showed that the possibility of an invasion by Russia of Western Europe soon will disappear if the west continues to make the progress like during the past year.

Hall offered two alternative ends for the present world situation: The end of communism or a world continuing to live in a state of armed truce.

"We simply have to have some system of law and order in this world," he said. He added that because he feels men are not inherently warlike, the nations will find a way to lasting peace through world government.

Says Ike Won't Return to Stump

General Eisenhower will not leave his work and come home to campaign for the Republican nomination for president, W. Earl Hall, editor of the Mason City Globe-Gazette, said Thursday.

Hall, who recently returned from a tour of Western Europe, spoke before an SUI Students for Eisenhower meeting on the subject "Why Eisenhower Should Be the Next President of the United States."

"Eisenhower's position in history is secure," Hall said. "He need lose no luster in a campaign for the nomination."

Hall believes Eisenhower to be the best qualified man for the presidency, and the only possible Republican candidate with a chance of winning. He said the general is doing a "great job" in Europe and that he is extremely popular there.

Worker Survives — Ever Fall 7 Stories?

CLEVELAND (AP) — How does it feel to fall seven stories — and live to tell about it?

Windows flashing by. A helpless feeling of turning over and over. A fear of sudden death. And then a surprised and happy feeling when the fall ends and you are still alive.

These are the sensations burned into the memory of Walter Garrity, a 40-year-old construction worker. He fell from a wing of St. Vincent Charity hospital earlier this week and landed in a shallow excavation after crashing through planks covering the opening.

Despite the 97-foot drop, amazed doctors found his most serious injury was a fractured left ankle. "It happened so fast, I didn't have time to pray or think about my wife," Garrity said from his bed at St. Vincent Thursday.

"I was pretty well padded," the 190-pounder grinned. "Both with flesh and clothes. I had heavy trousers and overalls, a heavy shirt, a jacket and special safety shoes."

"The most painful moment came after the fall before my buddies were able to move the planks from my leg."

On the way down he grabbed a plank and twice felt it scrape the wall. He believes this broke the fall somewhat.

The fall was the first in his 10 years of construction work. He is anxious now to get out of the hospital and return to work.

Roan estimated that 30,000 gallons of gasoline will be used by the city's cars and trucks each year. More than seven cents a gallon will be saved by the new system.
