She Won't Forget Her Family's Birthdays

FAMILY BIRTHDAYS WON'T BE HARD for Mrs. Marie McGee, 25, of Philadelphia to remember. Her week-old daughter, Kathleen, her son, Patrick, and her husband Charles, 25, all share the same birth date, March 5. Both children and the father were born within the same hour—5 to 6 a.m.—, a coincidence that doctors said was "more than just a bit unusual." Mrs. McGee was born in July.

GOP Elated Following Truman Defeat In N.H.

Republican leaders Wednesday hailed the upset defeat of President Truman in New Hampshire as a "complete repudiation of Trumanism" and an omen for GOP victory in November. As for the man who beat the President, soft-spoken Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee told newsmen: "I have won a very wonderful victory, but I don't think this is a protest vote against President Truman. In general, I agree with Mr. Truman."

Hampshire primary would have absolutely no effect on Truman's ultimate decision whether to seek re-election. Short said Truman himself had made that comment after reading the election results. On the Republican side, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower greeted the news of his victory over Sen. Robert A. Taft with this comment: "Any American who is honored by so many other Americans considering him for the presidency should be proud or, by golly, he is not an American."

disappointed" over his showing in the New Hampshire race. "We thought we would do better than that," he said. Stassen, who still hopes a Taft-Eisenhower deadlock will see him emerge as the compromise choice at the GOP national convention in July, had this to say: "I am pleased and encouraged by the New Hampshire vote which is stronger for me than I thought it would be."

Fischer Case Expected to Go To Jury Today

WEBSTER CITY (AP) — The killing of Al Fischer was called without justification by the prosecution and an act in self-defense by defense attorneys in final arguments to the jury Wednesday.

The case of Robert Fischer, 15-year-old son of the late Jewell superintendent of schools, charged with second degree murder in the fatal shooting of his father, is expected to go to the panel of six men and six women jurors for decision today.

Defense Counsel Stewart Lund reviewed the early life of Robert, whom he called a "boy with a broken heart" and asserted the boy's had been the life of an "unwanted son" of a father who had characteristics of a "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" — "one person to the public and another at home."

Robert feared father. Lund followed Hamilton county attorney Lawrence Kayser who asserted that the April 18 slaying of the school superintendent and popular schoolboy sports official had been proved "murder beyond reasonable doubt."

This was attacked in Lund's argument. He declared that Robert had lived in continued fear of his father and had reasonable grounds on the fatal night to believe himself in grave danger from his father. Robert never intended to shoot his father, Lund asserted. His purpose was accomplished, the lawyer said, when Al Fischer left Robert's bedroom the first time. When Fischer returned to the room, after the first shots, the father became the aggressor, Lund said.

Defense protests statement. When the statement from Robert was introduced by the state Lund declared that it didn't describe the incidents of the night of the shooting clearly nor in the language of a 15-year-old and argued it could not be introduced as evidence. This brought an immediate prosecution objection from special prosecutor's assistant Lloyd Karr, who contended Lund's reference was prejudicial. The court sustained the prosecution.

Morris Shouts Angry Charge Of 'Diseased Minds' In Senate

Demos Attack Truman's Tax Clean-Up Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bitter attacks on President Truman Wednesday marked the opening of senate debate on the Truman plan to reorganize the nation's scandal-jarred tax system, but several Republicans crossed party lines to support it.

Leading the attack, Sen. George (D-Ga.) noted that Truman has challenged the senate to vote on the issue as a clear-cut choice between corruption and clean government — and the Georgia legislator declared: "The most charitable thing I can say of the President is that concerning his personal honesty and character, I have no comment. But he is the poorest advocate of a cause—good, bad or indifferent — that the world has ever produced."

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) joined in criticism of Truman but told the senate she would vote for his plan because "It is at least a start on preventing corrupt officials from picking the tax pockets of Americans."

Republican Senators Dirksen of Illinois and Aiken of Vermont also spoke out for the President's plan. The senate is expected to vote on the controversial measure today. The house has already approved it.

President Truman, Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder and other administration officials have repeatedly urged congressional approval of the plan on the ground that it would remove the key internal revenue bureau posts from the realm of political patronage and put them under civil service.

Morris Smiles, Then Shouts

NEWBOLD MORRIS holds up a sign reading "Keep your shirt on" given to him by his wife before he testified Wednesday before a senate committee investigating his part in alleged deals giving oil ships to Chinese Communists. His smiles turned to anger during the heated hearing.

Appears Before Group Checking Oil Ship Deals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Blowing up at a senate inquiry into his surplus ship deals, Newbold Morris Wednesday shouted a denunciation of the "diseased minds in this chamber" where, he charged, an attempt had been made to destroy his character.

President Truman's cleanup chief aimed his remarks at three Republican senators: Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin, Carl Mundt of South Dakota and Tom Nixon of California.

"Down here in Washington in the last three years you have created an atmosphere so vile that people have lost confidence in their government," he declared. Morris' outburst, the like of which has rarely been heard in a congressional hearing room, provided an explosive ending to his testimony before the senate's investigations subcommittee.

Subjected to questioning for hours the New York lawyer, who describes himself as an "Abraham Lincoln Republican," had been subjected to an examination as to his responsibility for the oil trade which the United Tanker corporation carried on with Communist China until a month before the Korean war.

Morris claimed the traffic had the sanction of the state department. But under questioning by Nixon he acknowledged that if he had known then what he knew now he would not have permitted the oil to go to Red Chinese ports.

His temper blazed repeatedly under the senators' inquisition, and at the end he said: "Over a period of months I've resented aspersions you have cast at me. I'm glad of this opportunity to tell you to your face. "I can't think any man with red blood in his veins could sit here and take the insinuations and innuendoes that have come from these diseased minds in this chamber."

With his voice rising to a shouting pitch, Morris charged that because of the manner in which some investigations, including this one, have been conducted, the people "have lost faith in their government."

Calls government clean. "It's a good, clean, fine government," he said. Then, pointing a finger at McCarthy, he said he was not talking about the misconduct he was appointed to investigate. "It's what you people have done — to Mrs. Rosenberg and David Lillenthal, and to Acheson. "It's your business — character destruction," he told the Wisconsin senator.

"I'm referring to the way a lot of decent people have been treated—Averell Harriman and Acheson and the President." He said it was making "a lot of other decent people" afraid of taking jobs with the government. McCarthy told reporters later that he had thought briefly of recommending a contempt of congress citation against Morris, but that he believes the witness was "so emotionally upset he was not responsible for what he was saying."

Pilotless Bombers Collide Over Texas; 15 Believed Dead

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two B-29 bombers carrying 15 crewmen and flying blind on instruments collided and crashed six miles apart in the hilly ranch country of south central Texas Wednesday. First reports from the scene said all aboard perished.

One plane was shattered when it struck. The other remained intact but exploded and burned after gliding to earth. Constable Bill Hancock of San Antonio said. He said no survivors were found, although a search continued. No parachutes were seen, he said.

Both planes were on training flights from Randolph air force base. They were being flown by mechanical pilots with their cabins blacked out. Lt. Bill Adams, public information officer, said.

The air base first reported that a B-25 bomber sighted the wreckage of one plane and radioed that it was scattered over a quarter of a mile. Hours later it confirmed that two planes had collided.

The accident occurred about 2 p.m. 40 miles north of San Antonio in rugged country. The base said a special investigating board was flying to Randolph Wednesday from San Bernardino, Calif.

Hancock said a ranch hand told this story of seeing the crash: "One B-29 went under the other and tore off its tail section. The one without the tail went straight down and crashed. "The other kept flying as if nothing happened, then all of a sudden it went straight down."

Baby Comes in 5-Gallon Sizes

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I'm just baby sitting, honest I am," the young man said. "Okay, where's the baby?" Police Capt. Fred Brewer wanted to know.

Brewer and two of his men had gone to an apartment to check up on a report of bootlegging. The policemen searched the place, found no baby, nobody else at all. But they said they did uncover in a closet nine five-gallon cans of untaxed alcohol.

Korean Parleys Still Deadlocked On Inspections

MUNSAN Korea (AP) — The Reds changed their tune at the Korean truce talks Wednesday, apparently because of the stern Allied warning against further threats, but there still was no progress.

The sessions deadlocked on truce supervision and exchange of prisoners were scheduled at Panmunjom again today. In sharp contrast to their tirades of several days ago, the Reds Wednesday suggested mildly that neutral truce inspectors — including Russia — be permitted to examine secret military equipment.

Regarding Russia as one of the neutral inspectors, the Allies previously said no — finally and irrevocably. In an adjoining tent at Panmunjom, Allied truce delegates told the Reds again they could not accept the vaguely-worded Communist proposal of March 5 to exchange prisoners on the basis of lists already traded. Meanwhile, a North Korean battalion supported by artillery and mortars attacked Wednesday night along a 2½ mile front at Seoul but the veteran U.S. 25th division stopped the Reds cold. And in the air, U.S. jet pilots shot down four MIGs Wednesday in the third straight day of hot aerial fights.

5 Dead in Bombing Of Tunis Rail Station

TUNIS, TUNISIA (AP) — A bomb hidden in a waiting room of the station at Gabes exploded Wednesday as a train pulled in. The blast killed five and injured 17 persons. Two of the dead were Europeans.

The explosion was the latest of a series of incidents in Tunisia but Nationalist circles, blamed for previous bombings, disclaimed any connection with the explosion. Persons close to the office of the French Resident-General indicated they believed the National Neodestour party was not to be blamed.

Council To Discuss Parking Tonight

The city council will meet tonight at 8 p.m. in a special session to consider the city's enforcement policy against parking of autos between the sidewalk and curb along local streets.

The special meeting, called by Mayor William J. Holland, came as a result of a petition filed Friday asking that the city council repeal the parking law forbidding the curb-to-sidewalk parking.

The petition was signed by more than 100 persons who claimed that the law was "detrimental to our business."

The appeal to the council came after it had authorized the police department to enforce the parking law at its last regular meeting, March 3.

Court in Kentucky Orders Slot Machines Returned to Owners

COVINGTON, KY. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Mac Swinford ruled Wednesday owners of more than 900 slot machines are entitled to regain possession of them.

The machines are among 2,000 seized by FBI agents in January raids in northern Kentucky. Another 2,000 were seized in other parts of Kentucky.

Judge Swinford's ruling turned down a government claim that the owners were dealers and that, as such, their machines could be destroyed as contraband.

The government's suit to have the machines declared contraband was filed against 93 machines in particular, but also against others. The confiscated machines are stored in Fayette county and Scott Reed, county attorney there, said he would proceed in county courts to have the machines condemned. He said he would act under a Kentucky law which makes it permissible to proceed against machines that can be used for illegal purposes.

BULLETIN

CLEVELAND (AP) — Railroad strikers in Elkhart, Ind., voted Wednesday to return to work on the New York Central, wiping out the last obstacle to resumption of normal service on the line.

The Toledo strikers had asked assurance that no "disciplinary action" would be taken against them.

The railroad, through vice-president James J. Frawley, said it would give a written guarantee no action would be taken against the strikers.

Workers Defy Orders. The Toledo and Elkhart groups had defied orders of their union officers, issued Tuesday night, to end the strike. This had blocked service on NYC's main line between here and Chicago.

Officials said the conditional vote to return was based solely on the fact a federal court here had demanded an immediate end

Britain Named NATO Secretary General

LONDON (THURSDAY) (AP) — Lord Ismay, a square-jawed general who is one of Prime Minister Churchill's closest advisers, today was named secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

At least three top-ranking diplomats had turned down the secretary generalcy, a new, hot spot job that nobody seemed to want. It got so NATO finally stopped announcing its nominees.

A soldier for 41 of his 64 years, Lord Ismay finally agreed to take it after prodding from Churchill.

He now becomes the Eisenhower of the political, economic and financial side of the 14-power Atlantic Pact, a tough coordinating job which he will handle from a consolidated headquarters in Paris, starting next month. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower retains full control of the military side.

editorial

The SUI student council is to be commended for its approval of an amendment adopting a new plan for representation.

Under the new system 28 instead of 17 delegates will be elected to the council.

More important is the manner in which these representatives will be chosen. Unlike the past, when they have been chosen as delegates-at-large in an all-campus election, the new delegates will be chosen by housing units.

Generally speaking, the present members of the council seem to be highly capable individuals.

However, at times in the past, persons have served on the council who were more interested in the prestige of having one more extra-curricular activity placed after their name than they were in the general betterment of the student body.

A certain amount of pressure can now be asserted on council members by their constituents because these members will be closer to the students they represent.

This not only is going to lead to fairer representation, but also many groups or individuals who have felt that they did not have a representative who was interested in their problems, now will be able to confact and consult the person representing their housing unit.

Also at a recent meeting John Bunce, L-3, Des Moines, president of the council, said that the council may expect new powers.

Though he did not disclose what the new powers might be, Bunce said that they are the results of months of "bargaining" with faculty and administration.

We feel that this is important since it seems to reflect the council's desire for more efficient handling of, and a greater student voice in student affairs.

To all the student council members and to its former president Jack Whitesel, L-4, Davenport, who laid the groundwork for reorganization during his 1950-51 term, we commend you for your progress.

"Hate to interrupt, Al, but I have to take m'date home!"

In Pittsburgh They Tell Tall Tales of Big Joe

By WILLIAM SWARTWORTH PITTSBURGH (AP) — Know why America has the best steel mill in the world? It's because a fellow named Joe Magarac jumped into a bath of molten metal.

At least that's what some steelworkers in the Monongahela river valley tell you. They spin tall tales about big Joe — how he was the toughest steelman who ever walked a mill floor and how he used his giant muscles to help build this land of steel.

He flattened steel ingots the way a housewife rolls pie dough and made cannonballs the way a youngster packs snowballs.

Joe Magarac is a legend. What Paul Bunyan is to lumbermen, Joe is to steelworkers. Like Paul, too, tales of his fabulous exploits grow just a little bigger with each recital.

His Fame Spreading Magarac — that's Slavic for "donkey" — is best known in the giant steel mills which dot the Monongahela valley near Pittsburgh. But his fame gradually has spread to wherever men make steel. His name is known in mills along the Allegheny and Ohio rivers, in the great steel centers of Youngstown, O., and Gary, Ind., and even in such far-flung places as California and Alabama.

Thousands of Pittsburghers want to erect a monument in honor of the legendary hero and the mighty industry he represents. They have signed a petition to have a statue of Joe set up in the proposed Point park where the Allegheny and Monongahela merge to form the Ohio.

An Italian-born sculptor, 64-year-old Frank Vittor, got the idea for such a memorial about 20 years ago. But it wasn't until recently that the right location became available with the redevelopment of the business section at the apex of Pittsburgh's golden triangle. Three skyscrapers are under construction and a large park is planned for the area.

120 Feet High Last year Vittor unveiled a clay model of his Magarac statue. The finished product is to be made of steel, aluminum, bronze and several kinds of stone. It will tower 100 to 120 feet.

No one can say for sure just how the Magarac legend started. His origin—like all folklore—is lost in history. However, Joe's birthplace can be traced with some certainty to the J. Edgar Thomson works built in 1873 at nearby Braddock. It's now part of the U.S. Steel empire.

Tale Handed Down One way the legend is kept alive is by the re-telling of Joe's feats to new millworkers. Oldtimers repeat the tales as they heard them from a man who in turn heard them from a man who knew Joe. Or so they say.

Great as Joe was, he couldn't live forever. According to one version Joe died soon after his mill shut down for a brief time. His boss found him sitting in a ladle of molten steel one day.

"I don't like sitting around idle," Joe explained. "I hear new mills will be springing up all over the country shortly and that old ones will be needing repairs. I figure if I melt myself down I can become a part of the steel that goes into them. Then I can work all the time."

Melted Away Then Joe sat back, held his chin in the bubbling metal and melted away.

The steel from that ladle was the best ever poured. It was made into channels, beams and angles and shipped to all the new mills and all the old ones being rebuilt.

And there is Joe Magarac to this day.

Interpreting the News — Don't Bank Too Much On Ike's Win in N.H.

By J.M. ROBERTS JR., Associated Press News Analyst.

Barring unforeseen developments such as softening of the brain, my career as a political expert ended in 1948.

I was out of the country during a good part of that campaign, and dropped a buck to a friend in Paris because I listened to a lot of experts who, reaching out to grasp straws in the wind, came up only with a handful of chaff.

So, watching the New Hampshire returns come in Tuesday night, the first thought was of the night of straws, and of the furor created around an expression of views by one small group in one small state.

The experts call it a sweeping Eisenhower victory, and I guess he did very well for an inactive candidate. But he had Governor Sherman Adams and the states top Republicans carrying the ball, whereas Taft's campaign was brief and largely personal.

ROBERTS Taft's chief reliance is in the party machines over the country, and the significant thing is whether Eisenhower can capture enough machines. That is not infrequently an entirely different matter from popularity with the public.

What Will Truman Do?

There doesn't seem to be much room for argument with the premise that President Truman took a kicking around from New Hampshire Democrats. He probably wishes that his political advisers had not argued him out of his original feeling that preferential primaries are eyewash.

But the first question to mind, remembering how he got his dander up in '48, is whether he will now feel that he must run again rather than let folks say he quit in the face of possible defeat.

His press secretary says New Hampshire will have no effect on that decision. If I hadn't quit political experting, I'd ask, "Wanna bet?" Even eyewash has its effect on vision.

Kefauver on Spot

Kefauver showed the Yankees the type of campaigning which gave him his senatorial victory over the Crump machine in Tennessee. But he's sunk with the national Democratic party, and Russell of Georgia supercedes him with the anti-Truman Democrats of his native south, so at best he seems to be merely laying the foundation for a future voice—and perhaps future candidacies.

One cannot but wonder in a sort of aside what MacArthur would have done as an avowed and active candidate with a slate of delegates. The New Hampshire Democrats went to town with scattered write-in protests against the Truman administration. MacArthur, who did not choose to run got nearly 3,000 Republican votes.

Tattle Party

Reds Confess 'Sins' In Public

By FRED HAMPSON HONG KONG (AP) — Come on along to one of those public confession blowouts they are holding now all over Communist China.

It is part of an anti-corruption, anti-waste, anti-bureaucratic campaign that preoccupies the Peiping regime. It is something to see.

The Communists don't like to have Westerners prowling back of their bamboo curtain, so we'll have to look through the eyes of a private correspondent for Wah Kiu Yat Pao, an independent newspaper here in Hong Kong.

The setting for this confession party was Canton. There was quite a crowd around — party faithful of all degrees and probably quite a few just plain ordinary curious Chinese.

The bigger local shots sat on the mourners' bench up front. Ma Ping-shan, deputy director of the south China party secretary, spoke up first.

Spent Too Much Money He confessed that while in Peiping last year for the national conference of the party secretaries-general he spent more than 1,300,000 Red dollars (about $60 U.S.) of government money.

More than 400,000 ($18) was whooped off for entertainment and gifts to friends. These bargain-basement peccadillos, he realized, were a terrible sin. He was sorry and could see now the error of his ways.

After this 10 cent pump-priming, he called "upon all corrupt elements to make a clean breast of their malpractices and upon everybody to criticize those who know to be guilty."

At this point, the meeting displayed great confessional enthusiasm. By the end of the first session the list of the accused was growing fast.

No Punishment Ordered, But . . . So far, no punishment had been ordered. The crowd seemed to have been uplifted by the stimulant of a confession that turned out to be mostly accusation. Everybody seemed to feel good.

Everybody, that is, but those accused of taking too much money. They were worried.

They know these confessions are supposed to be for one's good, lift the burden from the soul and make everyone happy.

Trouble is, a week or so later people began to get arrested and put in jail, or on work projects like driving spikes on a Sinking desert railroad, or making little rocks out of big rocks in a Manchurian mine. That is, if they aren't shot.

Ridgway Rebukes Red Charge

GEN. MATTHEW B. RIDGWAY, wearing his customary battle dress, including grenade strapped to shoulder, tells newsmen at Munsan, Korean peace camp, Red accusations of bacteriological warfare are "known falsehoods." He said it was impossible for him to guess what would happen next in current peace talks with Reds. Vice-Adm. Turner C. Joy (left), chief UN negotiator, listens as Ridgway talks.

Bearded Engineers Will Be Judged Tonight at Smoker

Bearded engineering students will make their last appearance on the SUI campus this year today. The beards will be shaved after the beard judging contest at the Mecca smoker tonight at 7:30 in the Community building. Beards will be judged by the 12 candidates for Mecca ball queen. Local barber shops are offering free shaves to the winners. Awards for scholarship will be presented by the following engineering fraternities: Pi Tau Sigma, mechanical engineering; Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary; Eta Kappa Nu, electrical engineering; and Theta Tau, engineering professional. The new Transit staff will be announced at this time also.

'Adjusting To Future' Is Topic of 1st Career Talk

Meeting newspaper deadlines, lecturing to women's groups in the middle west, and studying the newest trends in child development would hardly seem like retirement from professional life to most women. But to Mrs. Edith Thomas Wallace, author of the syndicated column "Points for Parents" who will speak at an Information First lecture at 4:10 today, it means gradual withdrawal from a more active career. Mrs. Wallace will introduce the UWA Vocational Conference with her talk "Adjusting to an Unpredictable Future" in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. Her illustrated column "Points for Parents," which is syndicated by the Des Moines Register and Tribune, appears in 56 newspapers throughout the country. She began writing the column 21 years ago after raising four children. Sue Osborn, A4, Red Oak, is the oldest of her eight grandchildren ranging from toddler to college age. She is also the author of the column "Home Counselor" a Sunday feature of the Oklahoma Daily in Oklahoma City where she makes her home. She once gave radio lectures two and three times a week and taught parent education classes. Working three months in advance of release dates for her columns, she writes the solution for a problem situation and sends the information to the artist who draws the illustrations. She uses as a background for her column her experiences as home-maker and material suggested by her reading. "The problem of most parents," she says, "is that they don't relax and enjoy their children. The relaxed parent who has a sense of humor will create a happy home atmosphere that will not cause as many problem situations." She added that punishment of a child should only be resorted to as a last device. "Parents should try everything else before applying any form of punishment," she said. "Praise will accomplish more than punishment." She suggests games and stories to teach a child the correct way to do a thing. Before her marriage, Mrs. Wallace taught kindergarten and pri-

Plastics Industry Exhibits Fancy Catsup Dispenser

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Are you a frustrated catsup bottle thumper? Or a harassed housewife who simply cannot make the muffins or the bread come unstuck from the pans? If so, the Society of the Plastics Industry has welcome news. The society opens its first national exhibition here Thursday, showing off a variety of new products. A total of 135 firms have exhibited. The show, closed to the public, is for the benefit of an expected 10,000 executives, engineers and management specialists. A prime eye-catcher is a catsup dispenser the size and shape of a prize-winning beefsteak tomato. It is designed to do away with the business of pounding the bottom of a bottle which so often results only in a few wayward squirts of catsup. All you do with the gadget is remove a small plug, then squeeze the dispenser. Conspicuous among the products intended to make kitchen work easier are non-stick muffin and bread pans that need no greasing.

Falling Causes Most Accidents in Home

DES MOINES (AP) — Mothers who worry about their children getting hurt when the spring outdoor-play season arrives, might devote some of their concern to themselves. Blue Cross officials said Thursday. The health insurance organization pointed out that spring housecleaning is just ahead and it may be as dangerous as the spring outdoor-play season. "About 10 per cent of our Blue Cross hospital cases each spring are due to accidents, and of these accidents, the great majority occur right in the home," F. P. G. Lattner, Blue Cross director for this area, commented. He added: "The most frequent cause of these home accidents last year was falling. This emphasizes the danger to housewives who use stepladders, footstools, or stand on chairs during spring housecleaning. "But last year in Des Moines alone, nearly 2,000 children were injured in homes. This was nearly 10 times as many children as were injured in Des Moines traffic accidents."

Davenport, McKinley Triumph

Become Foes In Final Round Of Sub-State

By LEE CANNING

Davenport, defending state champion, mauled Clinton, 62-42, and Cedar Rapids McKinley edged Wilson, 44-42, in an overtime Wednesday night in the field house as the victors moved into the final round of the Class AA sub-state tournament.

McKinley and Davenport met in one-half of the sub-state finals Friday at 7 p.m. A berth in the state tournament goes to the victor.

Second Quarter Decisive

Clinton pushed Davenport for the first quarter. During the second period, Coach Paul Moon's state rulers outdistanced Clinton and then maintained a comfortable lead the rest of the way.

In the decisive second quarter, Davenport outscored Clinton 18-3. The River Kings pulled up to a 20-17 margin once, but Davenport scored 16 straight points and finished with a 36-17 halftime lead. Center Carl Widset with eight points led Davenport's scoring in the second period.

Blue Devils Rally

Clinton center Chuck Vogt scored nine points in the first period as the River Kings twice held a two-point lead. With two minutes left in the quarter, Davenport's Widsch, Frank Sebolt and Don Robbins scored from the field to put the Blue Devils ahead. Davenport stayed in front the rest of the way. Clinton managed to pull within 12 points early in the fourth quarter but the Blue Devils finished with a rush for the victory.

It was Davenport's third win of the season over Clinton and gave the Blue Devils a 19 win, three loss record. Clinton finished with a 16 and 7 mark.

Ploen Gets 20

Clinton forward Kenny Ploen led the scorers for both teams with 20 points. The River Kings' center Vogt finished with 17 points, and got scoring help from forward Sebolt with 14 counters. The McKinley-Wilson game saw the smaller Wilson team hold a large edge during the second and third quarters but fold under pressure in the overtime.

Tom Mims, substitute McKinley forward, scored the winning field goal with three seconds left in the overtime.

JARRED INTO WIDE-EYED ASTONISHMENT, McKinley center, Bill Elam (14) sprawls on the boards during Wednesday night's contest as teammate Bill Happel (12) follows Elam's stare. Dick Hamilton (44), Wilson, looks amused by it all.

From Hot Duquesne —

'D' Teams Tops In NIT

— To Dark Horse Dayton

NEW YORK (AP) — There's every indication that the National Invitation basketball tournament is going to the D's—which doesn't mean dogs—when top-seeded Duquesne plays LaSalle and third-ranked St. Bonaventure clashes with Dayton in tomorrow's semifinal games.

Off their performances so far, the Dukes, beaten only once this season, and the unheralded Dayton Flyers are the most impressive teams in the tournament. But nobody is conceding them certain victories.

Although the D teams have looked best so far, Coach Eddie Melvin of St. Bonaventure summed up the general feeling when he remarked: "The nice thing about this tournament is that the teams are so even. In past years there usually has been one standout, like Kentucky, to take the edge off it."

Coach Dudes Moore didn't think Duquesne looked like a top-ranking team when it had to come from behind to beat Holy Cross, 78-68, Tuesday.

"The boys were a little nervous," he explained.

LaSalle, which beat Seton Hall and St. John's on the way to the semi-finals, lost to Duquesne during the regular season—a beating which prompted Coach Ken Loeffler to moan: "I'd rather play any team than Duquesne—even the pro Philadelphia Warriors."

Unseeded Dayton, a dark-horse finalist in last year's tournament, has turned in a couple of impressive victories over New York university and second-seeded St. Louis.

6 Iowans To Compete In NCAA Gym Meet At Boulder March 21

Hawkeye gym coach Dick Holzapfel announced Wednesday that Iowa will send a six-man squad to the NCAA gymnastics meet at Boulder, Colorado, March 21 and 22. Those named by Holzapfel to make the trip are Al Fienup, Bob Hazlett, Jim Sorenson, Frank LaDue, Dick Dohrmann, and Bernie Westfall.

Co-captains Fienup and LaDue will compete on the high bar and trampoline respectively. Westfall will be entered on the flying rings, Sorenson on the trampoline and Dohrmann on the side horse. Hazlett, who grabbed third place in the tumbling division at the recent Big Ten championships, will go in both the tumbling and trampoline events.

LaDue is tabbed by Holzapfel as Iowa's brightest hope for an individual championship in the meet.

The field at the Colorado tourney will include representatives from the top gym teams in the country, including powerhouse Florida State, Temple, Army, Navy, and Big Ten champion and runnerup, Illinois and Michigan State.

Iowa City Chosen For Iowa Junior Golf Tournament

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Golf association Wednesday announced the dates and sites of 40 tournaments to be held in Iowa this year.

The big three on the calendar, the Iowa Amateur, Iowa Open and Iowa Junior, were awarded to Waterloo, Mason City and Iowa City, respectively.

The tournament season will open with the annual "Chinese" Open at Clover Hills in West Des Moines May 26 and continue for approximately four months.

The $15,000 Open to be held in Davenport this year was not included in the program because officials had not been advised definitely on the date. The $15,000 Sioux City Open was scheduled for July 24-27.

Western League Clubs Prepare for Drills

OMAHA (AP) — It's off to the beach, Fla., on Friday, and this Saturday, Wichita opens camp at Daytona Beach, and Denver at Seguin, Tex.

Omaha plans its first workout on Monday. Des Moines reports the same day at Macon, Ga., and Colorado Springs at Victoria, Texas.

Lincoln will wind things up when they check in at Savannah, Ga., next Thursday.

Exhibition Games

For the first time in the post-war Western league, a few of the clubs will tangle in spring training exhibition contests and post-season home games. For instance, Omaha and Des Moines will meet twice during their four weeks in camp, and Denver and Colorado Springs will meet in Texas.

Just before the season opens, Denver, Pueblo, and Colorado Springs plan exhibitions in their home parks, a series with each other.

The Wichita park will be the site of major league exhibitions.

Carter Wins Bout On Split Decision

CHICAGO (AP) — Jimmy Carter, World's lightweight champion, Wednesday night knocked some of the steam out of Luther Rawlings' championship aspirations by winning a split 10-round decision in a non-title bout.

The nationally televised bout was fought in the Chicago stadium before a slim crowd of 3,627 paying ringsiders with gross receipt at $12,267.

The two judges, Harold Marovitz and Arthur Oberg, voted 51-49 in favor of Carter with Referee Norman McGarity, favoring Rawlings, 52-48.

Carter's 135 pound championship was not at stake since the bout was an overweight affair. Carter weighed 136½ pounds, while Rawlings sealed 138.

Missouri River Detours; Leaves Bridge Stranded

DECATUR, NEBR. (AP) — The Missouri river is a flighty, double-dealing and unpredictable dame. She's got curves like a bathing beauty and if you don't think she's a heartbreaker, ask the folks who built the $2 million Missouri river bridge here.

It's a bridge-without-a-river, built over dry land to save an estimated $400,000 in construction costs. Builders planned on getting the river back under the bridge after they got it up.

Dry Land Bridge The bridge has just been completed. But it has yet to carry its first toll-paying vehicle. The river still flows several hundred feet away.

Army engineers, who handle channel stabilization work, intended to bring it back to its proper channel. They still do.

Local interests, who long had wanted to build a bridge to link this town of 800 persons with the Iowa town of Onawa, across the river, decided to capitalize on the river's channel-hopping escapade.

Church Members Ask Resignation

GREENSBURG, PA. (AP) — Elders of the Greensburg First United Presbyterian church have asked for the resignation of their racket-fighting minister, the Rev. William Cooke.

Mr. Cooke Wednesday blamed an "internal matter" in the church and said he was told he did "too much outside work." He added he didn't think his work in fighting rackets had anything to do with the elders' request.

The Presbyterian minister took part in "Operation Crusade," a drive by Protestant ministers on Westmoreland county rackets. The group, headed by the Rev. Allan J. Howes of Monessen, was credited with closing down gambling in the county.

Lawyer Enters Race For Commerce Job

DES MOINES (AP) — Leo J. Tapscoff, 31, Des Moines attorney, announced Wednesday his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for state commerce commissioner to fill a vacancy.

He is the first Democrat to come out for that position, to succeed former Commissioner B. M. Richardson, resigned.

Tapscoff's announcement means that there now is at least one Democratic candidate for each state office in the June 2 primary election.

After Tapscoff spent five years in the navy in World War II he entered Drake university and was a law graduate there in 1949. Until early last year he was in the legal department of the Iowa employment security commission. Since then he has practiced law.

Loveless Files Papers As Democratic Nominee

DES MOINES (AP) — Mayor C. Loveless of Ottumwa filed with the secretary of state Wednesday his nomination papers as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

He will be opposed for the nomination by Otha D. Wearin, Hastings farmer, who Wednesday formally announced his candidacy.

Money Not Available

Army engineers estimate it will cost $7.9 million to move the river back into its channel.

"This figure will undoubtedly increase with further delay in getting the work under way," says Col. H. J. Hoefler, Omaha district engineer. He estimates a 16-mile stretch of the river upstream from the bridge will have to be tied down.

From the current fiscal year, the engineers have had less than $4 million for river stabilization work for the entire several hundred mile stretch between Sioux City, Ia., and Kansas City. The money is being spent on more critical downstream areas. President Truman has asked congress for $5 million for such work in the fiscal year starting next July 1.

In other words, the money is not in sight.

Interest Payments Due

Meantime, interest payments keep coming due on the $1,970,000 worth of revenue bonds issued by the Burt county bridge commission. Money has been set aside to handle interest payments to April 1953.

PLAY TICKETS AVAILABLE

Tickets are still available for the University theatre production of "The Great God Brown." Seat reservations may be obtained by students by presentation of I.D. cards at room 8A Schaeffer hall. Tickets for the general public are $1.25. The play ends Saturday night.

'Shy Guy' Author To Vie with Orson

PREPARING PANACEA for its Monday opening are director Robert Randolph, G. Centerville, and dance choreographer Jean Draegen, A3, Chicago, Ill. They are shown discussing a drawing of one of the settings for the musical. Randolph, besides acting as director, wrote the script, song-lyrics, and designed the sets for this year's production, "Shy Guy."

Robert Randolph, author of this year's Panacea show, "Shy Guy," will attempt to duplicate the successes of such prodigies as Charles Chaplin and Orson Welles by employing his talents as playwright, musician, scene-designer and director.

Randolph, who worked as assistant director and scene-designer for last year's Panacea production, became interested in the theatrical field while a student at Centerville high school, where he designed the sets for the student productions of "Junior Miss" and "Blithe Spirit."

He continued by writing an adaptation of "Alice in Wonderland" for a children's theater, also designing the sets and costumes.

Formed Stock Theater He has originated a summer stock theater, the Randolph Players, in Centerville, where he has directed, acted, and designed scenery, while producing such plays as "Charley's Aunt" and "Dear Ruth."

One of his productions, a melodrama titled "Only an Orphan Girl," was taken on tour to neighboring cities.

While at SUI, Randolph has designed and helped build the art department's "Model House," an ultra-modern construction put on exhibit, and the set for the University theater production of "Goodbye My Fancy."

Last summer, he was employed as scenic designer at the Salt Creek summer theater in Chicago, providing effective stage-back-grounds for such noted thespians as Miriam Hopkins, Lillian Gish, and Richard Carlson.

Caplan Writes Score

The musical score for "Shy Guy" was written by Richard Caplan, M1, Des Moines, who collaborated with Randolph, writer of the song-lyrics.

Caplan, who has a master's degree in music and is now in medical school, has directed musical productions for Iowa State college and has written several concertos and sonatas.

Dance choreography for the show is being directed by Jean Draegen, A3, Chicago, Miss Draegen danced for two summers at the Chez Paris night club in Chicago, and previously has been employed as an instructor for the Arthur Murray studios.

Tickets for the production, which will be given March 18 through 22, are on sale for 75 cents at the Iowa Memorial Union desk and Whetstone's.

Singer Captivates Audience

Lucile Cummings Performs 7 Encores Before Near-Capacity Crowd

Lucile Cummings, who performed to an almost-packed house at the Memorial Union Wednesday night, is an artist whose rich contralto voice requires no microphone to carry its full tones to her audience.

Her linguistic ability was proven with difficult German, French, and Spanish numbers, all enunciated with faultless articulation and supported with superb accompaniment by Frederick Schauwecker.

A selection of four Strauss numbers ranged from a dignified hymn of love to the fluttering of a nightingale intermingled with the rippling of a brook. In "El Vito," a fiery Spanish air, she mixed dramatic intensity with the spirit of an ancient Spanish melody.

Massenet's "Air de Salome" consisted of a tranquil melody rising to plaintive chords of despair, the song depicting the Biblical scene of the dancer Salome professing her love for John the Baptist.

Miss Cummings interpreted the subtle dissonance of Christie's "Journey" with flawless beauty. A number of poignant and colorful Negro spirituals were performed with precision, an excellent transition being made between the lofty power of the opening phrases to the gentleness of the later verses.

Outstanding among the spirituals were Boatner's "Oh What a Beautiful City," Miss Cummings' voice displaying joy and tenderness in the song's primitive beauty, and Duke's "I Can't Be Talkin'". One of her encores, "Hard Trials," demonstrated her ability as an actress, combining an amusing satire on revivalism with the soaring sweep of a Creole ballad.

Miss Cummings' strong contralto voice contained the necessary timber to perform many difficult selections. On only one, Strauss' "Cacilie," did her voice seem overly-strained, her high notes suffering in comparison to the velvet qualities of her lower octave range.

The loveliness of Miss Cummings' voice was fully displayed in "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," one of seven encores. Also among the encores were a Scotch folk song in dialect, a semi-jazz number, "File for Future Reference," done in modern tempo, a lullaby, "Slumber Boat," and a number from Romberg's "The Desert Song," in which she accompanied herself on the piano.

The concert served as a "rich dessert" to the often inadequately-nourishing supply of this season's concerts.

Lawyer Says Hiss Was Incriminated by 'Fixed' Typewriter

NEW YORK (AP) — Alger Hiss' lawyer charged Wednesday that an old typewriter which helped imprison Hiss was faked and planted evidence.

Said Attorney Chester T. Lane in a new affidavit:

"It can only have been planted on the defense by or on behalf of Whittaker Chambers as part of his plot for the false incrimination of Alger Hiss."

Hiss is serving a five year federal prison term for lying. He has denied he ever gave government secrets to Chambers to turn over to a prewar Russian spy ring.

The former high state department aide has been in prison about a year after two historic jury trials, seldom paralleled for drama in American legal history. The first trial ended in a hung jury.

In January, Attorney Lane sought still a third trial, saying he had evidence Hiss' old Woodstock typewriter might have been doctored against him.

In the supplemental affidavit Wednesday, Lane went much further and called the typewriter "a deliberately fabricated job, a new typeface on an old body."

A hearing on Lane's new trial motion has been set for April 8.

SUIT TO END TODAY

Defense testimony in a $25,000 district court damage suit against Eldon Miller, Inc., is expected to be completed this afternoon or early Friday.

The suit, arising from a car-truck collision Feb. 2, last year is brought by Harold E. Colwell, who claims he was a passenger in an auto which struck a truck belonging to the Iowa City firm.

Stove Blast, Fire Take Lives of 8 In Mountain Home

WALKER VALLEY, N.Y. (AP)—An exploding kerosene stove turned a mountain home into a fiery furnace early Wednesday taking the lives of six children and their mother and father.

Three other children in the family of 11 got out. But two of them were badly burned.

The father, Harry Polhamus, a 43-year-old lumberjack, was fatally burned trying to save his trapped youngsters.

Mrs. Evelyn Polhamus and six of her children died in the flaming home. They were Norma, 12, Lawrence, 11, Stamey, 10, Donald 6, Theresa, 4, and Rida, 2.

Two others, Rose 15, and Henry, 5, were in poor condition at a Middletown, N.Y., hospital.

Only one child, Louis, 13, came through unscathed, his father dropped him from a window and he escaped injury.

Walker Valley is a village in the mountains inland from Poughkeepsie and the west bank of the Hudson river.

The family was asleep when the stove exploded. Rose Polhamus told police her father tried to kick out the front door. But high winds forced the flames back into the front room.

Missing Camera Turns Up in Dump Near Cedar Rapids

A camera found in a dump near Cedar Rapids Sunday has been identified as one stolen in Iowa City the night of Feb. 20, Sheriff Albert J. Murphy said Wednesday.

The camera was found with tools, an auto robe and other items by two boys who turned them in to Cedar Rapids police.

The sheriff said the camera belongs to Dean Siessner, North Liberty, but that none of the other items were identified as having been stolen in this area.

Two Cedar Rapids youths, now being held in the county jail on a charge of auto theft, admitted to Deputy Sheriff Don Wilson that they broke into a number of cars in Iowa City and Coralville the night the camera was taken.

The youths are in custody pending action by the Johnson county grand jury.

U.S. To Ask Franco For Military Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson said Wednesday that the United States is ready to start negotiations this month with the Franco government for American naval and air bases in Spain.

Newly-appointed Ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh will carry on the negotiations with the assistance of a $100 million bank roll, already voted by congress as aid to Spain.

He will be assisted by a four-member military mission headed by Maj. Gen. August W. Kisser of the air force.

Acheson announced this development in the western defense buildup at a news conference.

The negotiations with Spain will start immediately after the arrival of MacVeagh in Madrid, Acheson said. The new envoy expects to reach Madrid March 23.

The $100 million already available for Spain is expected to be offered for economic assistance. As for the bases, officials said the aim is to put them on a standby basis for use if and when needed.

Extensive highway and rail development and probably harbor dredging is contemplated.

Pope Celebrates Date of Coronation

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII Wednesday observed the 13th anniversary of his coronation. Robed in white, he attended a pontifical acappella at the Sistine chapel.

The Pope, born Eugene Pacelli, was elected March 2, 1939, on his 63d birthday. The coronation came 10 days later.

White and gold flags of the Vatican flew over Vatican buildings Wednesday. The Pope received messages of greeting and good wishes from many parts of the world.

THIEVES GET DIAMONDS MIAMI, FLA. (AP)—Two thieves looted the Miami Diamond Center of between $100,000 and $125,000 in cut diamonds Wednesday. They escaped afoot into the busy downtown section. Police said one robber decoyed one of the store owners out of his office on the pretext of a sale while the second robber slipped into the vacant office, lifted a large jewelry box from a desk drawer and fled.

From TV to Films

MARY SINCLAIR (above), called one of the country's most beautiful television actresses, is right back where she started from, but this time with a movie contract. Born in San Diego, she tried but failed to crash Hollywood after leaving high school. Then she went to New York and success on television where Paramount studio talent scouts "discovered" her and signed her to a contract.

Marines To Cease Use of Draftees After June Quota

WASHINGTON (AP)—The marine corps said Wednesday it doesn't plan to take any more men through the selective service system after June 30.

The corps has been taking drafted men since last August when volunteers failed to meet needs for replacements and an authorized increase in strength.

So far marine corps quotas from the draft have totalled 73,430. It plans to take 4,000 in April. A marine corps spokesman said he could not say what would be the size of the May and June quotas.

He said the reason for taking no more draftees after June, is that the number of volunteer enlistments has been increasing. He said also that the corps is getting close to its authorized strength. The strength of the corps on Jan. 31 was 225,528. The planned strength for June is 233,320.

Truman Gets 1st Buddy Poppy

TRUMAN BUDDY POPPY OF 1952 is presented to President Truman in the White House by Mrs. E. A. Campbell, Homer, La., national president of the American Legion auxiliary, to herald coming annual sales, which get underway the last week in May.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

"Take your hat 'n goat and scr-r-ram!" Sheedy's girl said. "I won't give you a date, but your hair sure gives me a billy-laugh!" But-but-but—he butted. Said she, "Haven't you heard of Wildroot Cream-Oil? For well-groomed hair it can't be beat! Non-alcoholic. Contains Lanolin. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test. Relieves dryness. Removes loose dandruff." So Sheedy got Wildroot Cream-Oil and now every gal wants to horn in on his time! Better milk 29¢ out of your roommate and hoof it to the nearest drug or toilet goods counter. Buy Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's favorite hair tonic. And ask for it on your hair next time you go to your favorite barber shop. Then no other goat will get your nanny!
