Taft, Ike Battle In New Jersey For Vote Today

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — An election campaign, scorched with bitterness and deep-seated anger, ended Monday in New Jersey where upwards of 750,000 voters will ballot today in another great test of strength between Sen. Robert A. Taft and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Eisenhower is the indicated favorite but his backers say they believe the race will be close.

The New Jersey primary selects 38 Republican convention delegates. Taft, Eisenhower, and ex-Minnesota Gov. Harold E. Stassen are competing for them.

Sen. Estes Kefauver is the only candidate in the Democratic election, which names 36 delegates with 32 convention votes.

Important Popularity Contest

More important, a preferential section of the ballot — the "popularity contest" — is at stake this year, for the first time since 1940. In this, the people vote directly for the presidential candidates, as against the votes cast for delegates.

Although the results of the preferential poll are merely advisory, Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll has said GOP delegates will be "morally bound" to support a decisive winner.

The election is pivotal, and for these reasons:

1. It is the first since the announcement that Eisenhower has requested to come home before the Republican convention, an action his lieutenants believe will give a powerful lift to his whole campaign.

2. Since the New Hampshire primary, today's election is the first in which Taft and Eisenhower both have been on the same ballot. Eisenhower was not entered in Wisconsin or Illinois. Write-in contests alone marked the Nebraska and Minnesota elections.

Taft Tried Withdrawal

Taft's name is entered in New Jersey against his will.

He tried to withdraw from this race several weeks ago when Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll announced he would support Eisenhower.

A New Jersey court denied Taft's request to have his name taken off the ballot. Taft then closed his Newark headquarters and cancelled his plans to campaign in the state.

Much of the fire and smoke of the pre-election campaign swirled around the tall, lean figure of Driscoll.

Taft's backers claim that, along with announcing his personal support of Eisenhower, the governor put the whole state organization behind the drive for the general.

UN Security Council Denies Consideration Of Tunisia Question

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations security council refused Monday night to consider an Asian-African complaint against France's treatment of Tunisia.

This was the first time the council had ever refused to take up a question brought to it by UN members.

The text was on a compromise proposal by Chile that the issue be placed on the council's agenda but that discussion of the complaint be postponed indefinitely.

The vote was five in favor of the Chilean proposal, two against, and four abstaining. Seven affirmative votes are required to get an item on the council's work sheet.

By abstaining, the United States departed from its traditional position. In the past — except in the Moroccan case in the general assembly last winter — the U.S. has always favored including all items offered for the agenda even when they were attacks on the U.S.

France and Britain cast the negative votes against the Chilean proposal. Abstaining along with the U.S. were Greece, Turkey, and the Netherlands. The affirmative votes were by Pakistan, China, Russia, Brazil, and Chile.

TV At SUI Unlikely In '52

Although the 3½ year ban on new television stations has ended, it appears unlikely that SUI will be able to have a station for at least this year.

This was the outlook Monday, after the federal communications commission Sunday gave the green light on 70 new channels and made possible an eventual 2,053 TV stations in nearly every part of the country. At present there are 108 stations in 63 communities.

The commission allocated two channels to Iowa City — 12, for non-commercial educational use, and 24, open to commercial use.

No Grants Until July 1

Although the university has had its station application on file with the FCC since 1948, an actual grant would not be made until after July 1. This is because most of the 521 applications now pending will have to be resubmitted in the next 78 days, according to the commission's announcement Sunday.

There also could be some delay in the actual construction of a TV station here, since some materials in building and equipping a station may be scarce.

(The national production authority has said, however, that there will be no restrictions on the building of TV stations.)

Planning Stages

Actually, an SUI TV station is just in the planning stages. Committees of university officials have for some time been studying the possibilities of a TV station here.

U.S. Grants Higher Rates For Freight

WASHINGTON (AP) — New freight increases estimated to cost the nation's shippers about $678 million a year were granted Monday by the government.

An order by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) increases rates 15 per cent above levels of a year ago, but 6 per cent in the south and west and 9 per cent in the east. Therefore the new increase for the south and west will be 9 per cent and for the east 6 per cent. Some exceptions apply to a short list of commodities.

Effect on Iowa

The Iowa State Commerce Commission said Iowa carriers must get permission from it to increase intrastate freight rates.

The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) order granting railroads the full 15 per cent increase in rates above those of a year ago applies to interstate shipments only.

The commission said it assumes the carriers now will apply to it for permission to increase rates on shipments within Iowa to correspond to the increase granted on interstate shipments.

The ICC order gave the railroads the right to raise interstate rates by 9 per cent in the south and west and 6 per cent in the east.

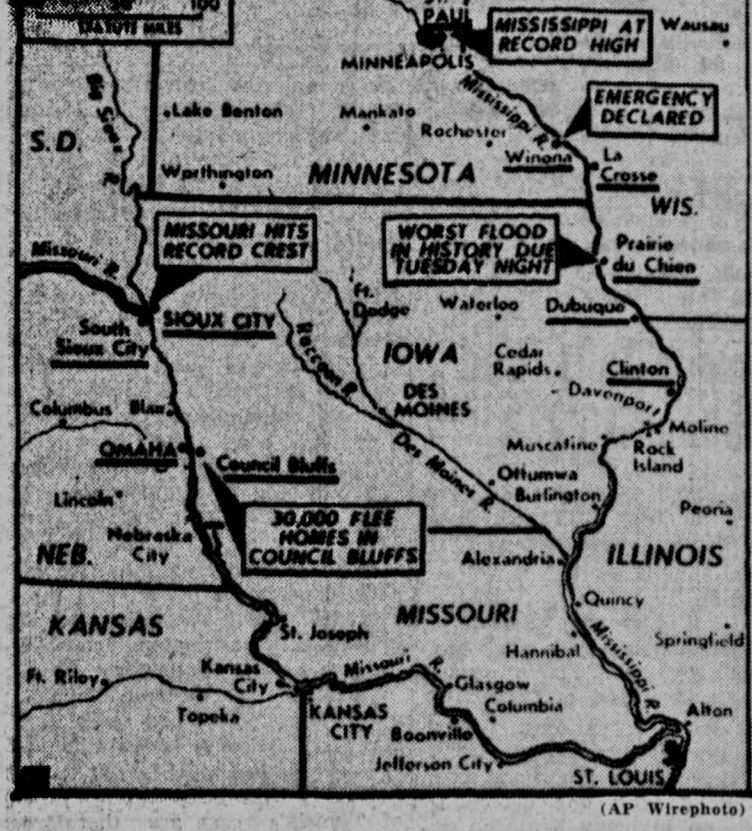

The railroad had asked a 15 per cent increase last year, claiming their revenues have failed to keep pace with rising labor and material costs. Only a part of this was granted originally, the remainder being approved Monday.

It was the 12th general freight rate increase allowed since the end of World War II and applies to water carriers as well as railroads.

SUI Classes Resume At 7:30 A.M. Today

SUI students return to their studies beginning at 7:30 a.m. today, after a five-day Easter vacation.

The final test of the no-cut rule on classes will be completed Wednesday, and after studying the results, university officials are expected to reach a decision on whether the rule should be eliminated.

Critical Area in Flood Disaster

THE ABOVE MAP SHOWS THE MAJOR AREAS involved in the disastrous flooding of the Missouri and Mississippi rivers. Monday the Missouri hit a record crest at Sioux City while the Mississippi drove 5,000 from their homes in St. Paul, Minn. and threatened Wisconsin and Iowa communities to the south.

Company Maps Action Against Phone Strikers

NEW YORK (AP) — A West Virginia company mapped Taft-Hartley action against telephone strikers Monday, while a sister firm went to court in Kansas and got an injunction.

The twin legal attacks were the first in a week-old strike of 16,000 Western Electric company installers in 43 states.

Both were aimed at the CIO Communications Workers of America. The union's Western Electric pickets have kept some non-striking telephone operators away from their switchboards.

Claims Violation of Taft-Hartley

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. in West Virginia claimed the union is "violating the Taft-Hartley act by engaging in violent, coercive, mass picketing and physical assaults upon the company's employees."

The company added that it is filing charges of unfair labor practices with the National Labor Relations board in Pittsburgh.

The C. & P. is a subsidiary of the nation's overall telephone firm, American Telephone and Telegraph.

Iowa Service Normal

Telephone service in Iowa was back to normal Monday after pickets had popped up Sunday in Davenport and Des Moines.

A Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. spokesman said no exchanges in the state were being picketed Monday.

Phone operators are on strike in New Jersey, northern California and Nevada. But their strikes are not directly linked to the Western Electric walkout.

A separate strike against Western Union of 30,000 AFL commercial telegraphers remained deadlocked. The telegraphers struck April 3 in a demand for 50 cents an hour in wages and other benefits. The union said wages now average $1.80 an hour. Western Union has refused to make any offer.

'No Progress' in Steel Wage Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — New peace talks went forward Monday in the big steel labor dispute — with "no real progress" — but an increased willingness to negotiate reported. These were the developments:

1. On Capitol Hill, Chairman James Murray (D-Mont.) of the senate labor committee announced that public hearings will begin today on a pro-administration bill setting forth the conditions under which the President could seize an industry to avert a strike.

In effect, the bill would give the President legal authority which some of his critics contend he has already "usurped" by seizing the steel industry.

2. Two of the nation's most powerful business organizations set the stage for a meeting here today of 170 industrial and business leaders from all over the country to study Truman's steel mills seizure.

Steel spokesmen have bitterly disputed the President's seizure authority, and four big steel companies have begun court action seeking to oust the government from the seized mills.

However, Steelman said he could report "no real progress" at the end of the day, negotiations were adjourned until 1 p.m. today.

$70 Million Flood Project In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $70 million flood control program for the upper Missouri and Mississippi rivers for the coming fiscal year is in the works in congress.

A spokesman for the army engineers said Monday that if all the big reservoirs planned and authorized along the Missouri river were complete and in operation there would be no flood on that stream today.

"These projects were planned for just such a purpose," he said.

The army plan involves construction of six big reservoirs on the Missouri — Fort Peck, Mont.; Garrison; Oahe, S. D.; Randall; Gavins Point, Neb.; and Big Bend, S. D.

Fort Peck Reservoir Complete

Fort Peck is complete and in operation. Randall is nearing completion but not yet in operation; Garrison and Oahe are under construction; Gavins Point has just been started and Big Bend hasn't yet begun.

Below Omaha, Neb., the army plan involves dikes and levees plus reservoirs on tributary streams, such as Tuttle creek dam in Kansas.

The $70 million is included in the recent civil functions appropriations bill passed by the house for major flood control works in the two valleys. This money would be available in the year starting July 1.

Bill Before Senate Group

This bill now is pending before the senate appropriations committee. In past years the senate has increased rather than decreased the civil functions funds, and several senators from the flood-affected states have served notice they will ask more funds for planned Missouri river projects.

The $70 million in the house bill compares with President Truman's recommendations of $114 million for the area.

House Cuts Appropriations

The house committee eliminated from the budget 15½ millions for Tuttle creek; 13 millions for Gavins Point; and one million for flood protection at Cape Girardeau.

The program, for the upper Mississippi valley consists principally of local protection works — dikes, levees and the like. The bill provides in excess of $5 million for this work — much of it in Illinois.

The President is reported ready to ask congress to take away from the army engineers their 128-year-old job of river and harbor flood control work, and give it to the interior department.

Mississippi Swelling To Record Depths

Iowa was caught between roaring rivers on both the east and west borders Monday as the Missouri river continued its unprecedented onslaught on property while the Mississippi built up to record depths.

The Red Cross said the Missouri flood appears well on its way toward becoming one of the 10 most damaging and costly floods in U.S. history.

If the flood breaks through the defenses of Omaha, Neb., and Council Bluffs, some 20,000 families will have been driven from their homes, the Red Cross said.

The statement also said that only the most optimistic feel that the two towns have a chance to defeat the river which is expected to crest in the area on Thursday.

St. Paul Hit By Mississippi; Iowa Menaced

ST. PAUL, MINN. (AP) — Swollen to its greatest depth in recorded history, the Mississippi river poured muddy flood water through low areas of St. Paul Monday night, affecting more than 5,000 persons and millions of dollars worth of river front industries.

Downstream 125 miles the Mississippi posed a serious threat to Winona, Minn., a city of 25,000. If a dike falls there, one-third of the city will be flooded.

Gov. C. Elmer Anderson, saying that conservative estimates place probable damage well into millions of dollars, asked President Truman to declare Minnesota a disaster area.

The river level here was 21.85 feet, 7.35 feet above flood stage and 2.15 feet above the worst previous flood of 1881. U.S. army engineers said the river will probably stop rising when it reaches 22.5 feet Thursday.

The Red Cross estimated 1,500 homes, chiefly on St. Paul's west side, had been flooded and that 5,000 persons were either driven out or forced to move to upper floors.

Holman municipal airport was closed. All but one plane had been removed from Northwest Airlines' main overhaul base. A large section of the St. Paul railway freight and passenger switching yards was inundated. The American Hoist & Derrick company was pumping flood water from its big factories. The sprawling south St. Paul stockyards were closed as 300 trucks, 25 bulldozers and 1,000 men worked on a four-mile diking system.

Police and the Red Cross, using four amphibious vehicles and many small boats, hurried evacuation of more homes on the west side as water rushed across approaches to two principal bridges linking the area with the rest of the city.

The city council, in special session, asked Governor Anderson for state guardsmen to aid in a rapidly-developing transportation crisis.

Business Shutdown

Monday morning, Mayor Ralph Henderson ordered a shutdown of all Sioux City business places except drug stores and eateries to ease the strain on sanitary sewers.

Downstream the river, normally only a couple of stone throws wide, spread out 10 miles and more.

Gobbled up in the surging wash of silt laden water were hundreds of farms. Towns — perhaps a dozen of them in the flatland valley — were deserted by all except a few hardy stay-behinds, relief workers — and still rising water.

For sheer drama, however, the situation at Omaha and Council Bluffs, about 100 miles downstream from Sioux City, was unrivaled.

Boosts Crest Forecast

While water in unprecedented volume strained against dikes protecting the cities, river forecasters increased by a foot and a half the crest expected in the metropolitan area Thursday morning.

That means a 31.5 foot crest — 12½ feet over flood stage, nearly seven feet over the known record high in 1881, nearly five feet over the crest which levees and flood walls were designed to handle.

"The Missouri is coming with a rip and a roar," said Brig. Gen. Don G. Shingler, Missouri river division engineer. "We're in a hell of a lot of trouble."

Asks No Sleep

The general said he hoped there would be no one sleeping in the threatened Omaha-Council Bluffs area Monday night.

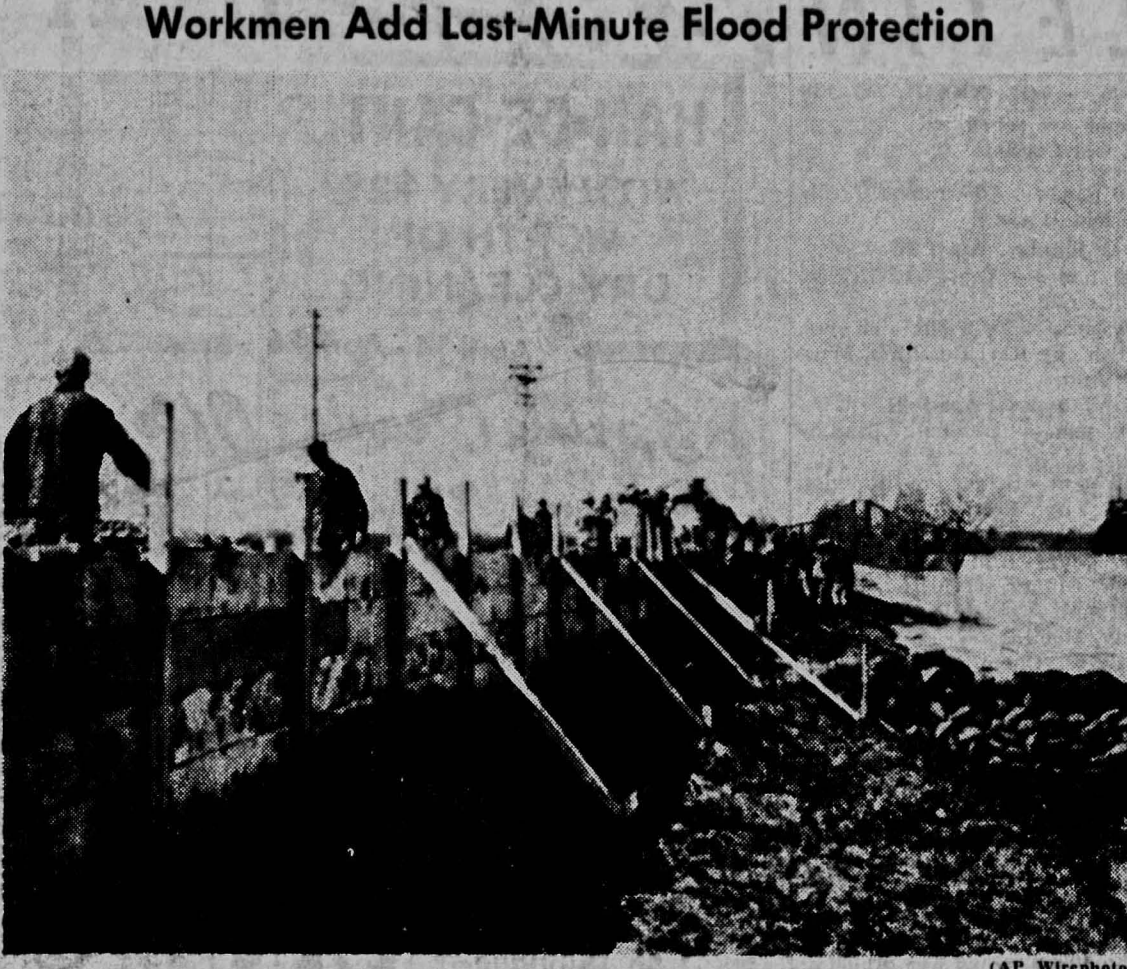

This wish apparently was being fulfilled.

In one of the greatest mass evacuations in the memory of experienced relief workers, more than 25,000 in Council Bluffs and perhaps 5,000 or more in Omaha had abandoned their homes.

City officials in Council Bluffs broadcast pleas to all southwest Iowa towns to organize 25-man work groups "immediately and now" and to truck them there to battle the Missouri.

The ghost areas included nearly two thirds of Council Bluffs, a city of 45,429.

The number of Iowa National Guard units on flood duty rose to 18. Another four from Nebraska had been thrown into the fight.

WORKMEN HASTILY INSTALLED FLASHBOARDS on top of the Council Bluffs flood wall Monday in an effort to safeguard against water blowing or lapping over the wall when the Missouri river's record crest arrives.

Short Course for Water Works Study Opens Here Today

Iowa water works personnel are in Iowa City today for this year's Water Works short course at SUI extending from today through Thursday.

Thirty water works employees registered this morning for two days of classes to study some of the basic problems of water works operation. Today's meetings in the university engineering building will concern such topics as ground water supply, well maintenance, plant records and contamination of wells.

Registration for Thursday's sessions is unlimited, and a further number of water works personnel are expected to take part in the discussions of new developments in the field, planned for the final day.

Four of the sessions will be devoted to discussions of the special problems of fluoridation installations. The conferees will also see demonstrations of a number of new water analysis instruments.

The short course is sponsored by the Iowa state department of health, the Iowa section of the American Water Works association, the SUI extension division and colleges of medicine and engineering, and the state hygienic laboratory.

U.S. Strategy Wins Or Alienates Friends

By J.M. ROBERTS JR., Associated Press News Analyst
The United States was busily engaged last week making friends with one hand and alienating them with the other.

In Washington, before the national conference on international development, policies for the administration of point four aid were explained in terms of the utmost altruism.

The prime objective was to help underdeveloped peoples to help themselves. There was to be no coercion. No exploitation. Just show people what they could do, and, if they want to, let them adopt the projects for their own, not something foreign.

It sounded fine. It was a reaffirmation of traditional American attitudes.

Right to Complain
At the United Nations another traditional American attitude was being revised. It involved the right of anyone to air his complaints and make himself heard. Heretofore, with the exception of last year's Moroccan complaint against France, the U.S. has insisted on this right, even to the point of letting the Chinese Communists and others be heard against the United States.

In the case of Tunisia, however, which is complaining against French colonialism, the United States has been abstaining as the Tunisians try to get their case before the security council.

In this case it is known that the American delegation to the UN is an unwilling advocate of state department policy, and that there has been wide division of opinion in Washington, too. UN observers are presuming that, under the circumstances, the decision has had to be made by Secretary Acheson himself.

Mad at U.S.
The 11 Asian-African sponsors of Tunisia's case are therefore mad because the U.S. has not helped them, and the French,

Iowa Citizens Aid in Missouri River Flood Operations

Engineers, amateur radio operators and National Guard medical corpsmen from Iowa City have been lending a helping hand to the emergency flood operations along the Missouri river.

Six men from the local guard unit are in Glenwood, Ia., giving antitoxin injections to guards and civilians who have not been vaccinated.

Many persons in and around this area have been using the amateur radio sets in Iowa City to check on the health and whereabouts of relatives and friends in the flooded areas.

Members of the amateur radio club here have been working in shifts at the emergency sending and receiving set recently purchased by the local Red Cross and set up in the home of Lee F. Blodgett, emergency co-ordinator, 747 Grant st.

Emergency Network Cleared

The local station also operates as a relay station for those sets in more distant areas in the U.S. "Hams," amateur radio operators, throughout the nation have been asked to keep the emergency network clear for use in the flood operations.

Two Iowa City engineers, V. R. Bennon and SUI Prof. M. C. Boyer, were in the flooded area over the weekend determining the daily rate and flow of the river.

The information they gathered will be used to predict future flow and crest of the flood and will be used in a report of the flood to the U.S. Geological survey.

Bennon is district engineer of the Water Resources division of the U.S. Geological survey and Boyer is associate professor of mechanics and hydraulics at SUI.

Flood Evacuation Orderly

Boyer said evacuation of flood victims was orderly and coordination of the flood-fighters was excellent. He attributed this to experiences from the Kansas City, Mo., floods last year.

Boyer reported that the flood crest at Sioux City will have about 450,000 cubic feet of water per second flowing through that area.

He said this amount of water would cover an area 1,500 miles square, one foot deep every 24 hours. He also said gasoline storage tanks were emptied of fuel and flooded with water to avoid fires and explosions.

Department Offices Moved from Statehouse

DES MOINES (AP) — The state department of public instruction began Monday transferring its offices from the statehouse to the new state office building nearby.

The department is expected to be set up in its new quarters sometime next week. That will complete the moves of the large departments into the new structure.

Hawkeyes Vs. Notre Dame Here; Major Leagues Open Today

3 Iowa Posts Undecided for 2-Game Series

By JACK JORDAN
Sports Editor

Iowa's baseball Hawkeyes open the home season today at 3:30 p.m. against Notre Dame after losing five out of six games to powerhouse Arizona, but coach Otto Vogel is convinced they "can do better."

Although declining to name either the starting pitcher or two of his outfielders for today's game, Vogel indicated that the starting mound assignment will go to one of three men — Ed Lindsey, Merle Jensen or Bob Getting.

Most of Positions Filled

He added that Lindsey will play left field if he doesn't pitch the opener of the two-day series with the Irish. Otherwise, Iowa's lineup will read:

Shortstop, Tom Stenger; second base, Jack Hess; third base, Don Waldron or Jack Lundquist; first base, Frank Bok or Jerry Hilgenberg; catcher, Bill Vana, and center field, Gus Brandt. Rightfield and leftfield were unannounced, with the exception that Lindsey may perform in left.

Vogel said Monday during hitting practice that any failings of the team on the Arizona junket were the result of poor hitting and the greenness of the players in one or two spots.

Hitting Somewhat Improved

He said, "The hitting was very weak at times, but improved toward the end of the week as the boys became accustomed to outdoor light. Errors due to inexperience beat us several times, including the two games on Saturday, which we just blew." The Hawks dropped both ends of a double-header to the Wildcats Saturday, 3-2 and 8-7 in 10 innings.

Also included in Vogel's plans for today and Wednesday are pitchers Al Lenski and Bob Diehl, and outfielder Bob Scheyll. Both saw action against the Wildcats.

Irish Have Few Vets

Notre Dame, which has seven returning lettermen, has only two pitchers back and only two of the other five were 1951 regulars. Top Irish hurlers are Stan Konopka, righthander with a 1951 record of 5-4, and Southpaw Jerry Ledwidge, who has a 0-1 mark to show for his appearance in 12 games last year.

The Irish do have their leading slugger from the 1951 squad, Joe Ridge, veteran outfielder, led the team in RBI's and extra base hits a year ago.

Grid Drills Open Today

Evy Welcomes All Candidates

By STAFF WRITER

Football coach Forest Evashevski will get a look at all those interested in spring practice today at 4 p.m.—and that includes ALL interested.

Evashevski said Monday that he expects 80 men, but will definitely welcome any Iowa student to the drills, indicating that all positions on the team are open. And recently, when the Big Ten sent out a questionnaire about spring practice that included a query as to how many would be invited, Evy filled in, "The whole student body."

Taking over the Hawkeye squad after a successful two-year reign at Washington State, Evashevski is faced with the problem of changing the players from T formation performers to advocates of an attack based primarily on the single wing. And he has only 20 days to line up next fall's prospects.

Last year's Iowa team won two while losing five and tying two. Twenty lettermen will not be available because of graduation. Those who are left constitute a large question mark, because it is not known how many of the 17 who have remaining eligibility will be left by next fall.

Some Not Available

Lettermen expected for full spring workouts include ends Bill Fenton and Don Bjork, tackles Don Chelf and Pete Spanjers, guard Dick Frymire, quarterback Burt Britzman and halfbacks Harold Reister, Bernie Bennett, Bob Phillips and Bobby Stearnes.

Some in spring sports will be limited in workouts, including baseballers Jack Hess, Ed Lindsey and Jerry Hilgenberg, and "Dusty" Rice of the tennis team. Also conspicuously missing will be Binky Broeder, outstanding freshman halfback of last year's team. Broeder recently underwent a knee operation and his football future is uncertain.

Bums, Indians Rated Top Flag Contenders

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn and Cleveland, both beaten in the stretch run last fall, are the pennant favorites as the major leagues head into today's opening day program.

Some 250,000 fans are expected to turn out for the openers if the weatherman gives the clubs a break. Detroit's sellout crowd of 52,954 undoubtedly will be tops.

Although the memory of Bobby Thomson's pennant-clinching home run still is green in the Polo Grounds, the New York Giants

National League
Philadelphia at New York
Brooklyn at Boston
Pittsburgh at St. Louis (Night)
Chicago at Cincinnati

American League
New York at Philadelphia
Boston at Washington
Cleveland at Chicago
St. Louis at Detroit

find themselves second choice to the Dodgers. In an unofficial run-down, the morning line shows the Brooks 8 to 5 and the Giants 5 to 2.

Odds-makers Desert Yanks

Three straight pennants and world championships weren't enough to make Casey Stengel's New York Yankees the chalk horse in the American. The odds-makers deserted Boston, their perennial spring choice, but swung to Cleveland as the 9 to 5 pick with the Yanks 2 to 1.

Freshmen dot the rosters of all 16 clubs and many of them will take part in the openers. But the managers plan to stick to the veterans for pitching, leading with their aces in most cases.

Such familiar names as Monte Irvin, Don Newcombe, Hoot Evers, Bobby Doerr and Joe DiMaggio will be missing from the box scores for reasons ranging from injuries to the army draft and retirement.

Leo Shoots Best

Leo Durocher will shoot his best—Sal Maglie (23-6)—against the Phillies' No. 1—Robin Roberts (21-15) when they raise the National league pennant before 35,000 at the Polo Grounds.

Bob Elliott, the ex-Boston Brave, will replace the injured Irvin in left and Davey Williams, a kid from Minneapolis, takes Eddie Stanky's place at second base in the Giant order.

Brooklyn's favored Dodgers will field the same club that lost the flag last October 3 with Preacher Roe (22-3) doing the pitching against Boston's rookies at Braves field.

Like Brooklyn, Cleveland will count on virtually the same team that missed last year to do the job on a second try. Rookie Jim Fridley in left field will be the only important change in the Indians' lineup when Early Wynn (20-13) faces Chicago's Billy Pierce (15-14) at Comiskey park.

Jensen in Center
Jackie Jensen has inherited DiMaggio's old centerfield job with the champion Yankees and third baseman Gil McDougald takes over the Jolter's old No. 4 spot in the batting order. Until Gerry Coleman leaves for the marines, May 2, there will be no newcomers in the Yank lineup. Manager Casey Stengel sends Vic Raschi (21-10) against the Philadelphia A's, a team he has beaten 20 of 22 starts. His opponent at Shibe park will be lefthanded Alex Kellner (11-14). The A's count on veterans to continue their September spurt of last year. The National will have one night opener at St. Louis where 30,000 are due to see Eddie Stanky make his managerial debut against Pittsburgh's rebuilt Pirates. Stanky finally decided on Gerry Staley (19-13) to oppose Murry Dickson (20-16). Stanky managed to keep his secret of "where will Red Schoendienst play" right down to opening day.
