$3 A Ton Steel Increase Ordered

New Leader Seizes Control Of Mutinous Prisoners

GUARDS FROM THE SOUTHERN MICHIGAN PRISON, Sgt. Eugene Dolby (left) and Hiram Leister, take stock of weapons seized since the start of the riot Sunday. Most of the objects, picked up in the prison yard and cell blocks, were raided from stores during the general riot Monday.

Warden Fears Danger To Hostages Increased

JACKSON, MICH. (AP) — A new convict leader reportedly seized control of Southern Michigan prison cell block 15 Wednesday night and threw out the window the personal effects of two guards being held as hostages.

Prison officials at once interpreted this bold move as evidence that the guards' lives were in danger.

Jack (Crazy Jack) Hyatt was reportedly to have taken control of 189 mutinous prisoners who have been barricaded since Sunday night in cell block 15, the isolation center of the huge prison.

Formerly the prisoners were reported under control of Earl E. Ward, a smooth-talking and apparently less hysterical riot leader than Hyatt.

Warden Julian N. Frisbie hastened back from dinner and raced into an office in a state of high excitement. Moments later he took a telephone call from Hyatt who screamed a demand that Gov. G. Mennen Williams be brought to the prison at once.

The two guards whose effects were sent out were identified as James Akins, 39, and John W. Holmes, 34.

Claim Guards Unharmd

Prison officials including Warden Frisbie held a hurried series of conferences just outside the cell block and said they received assurance from the convicts that neither guard had been harmed.

The convict's new leader apparently took over the reins without any disorder. Prison officials said they had talked with Ward after the transfer of leadership and were satisfied that he was unharmed.

Four mobile stretchers were rolled into a corridor across from cell block 15. Scores of state policemen rallied to an armed alert in the rotunda of the administration building where they waited further orders.

No Attack Planned

State Police Commissioner Donald Leonard said he merely wanted the men on hand for any emergency but that he had no present plans to storm cell block 15 unless and until any of the hostage guards were mistreated.

Earlier Wednesday another guard was given his freedom. The liberated guard, 43-year-old Harold S. Carrier, said as he emerged from four days of imprisonment that the rebel convicts have "plenty of weapons and enough food to hold out for a couple of weeks."

Carrier was one of the first of 13 prison guards seized after the convicts ran riot in the 6,500-man state prison, largest walled prison in the world.

He was the fourth released. Prison authorities quoted the riot ringleaders in cell block 15 as saying Carrier was released "because of our courtesy to them."

Hancher, Cramblit, Feiwell Are Elected To Council Posts

Town Men Wednesday elected three representatives to the new student council organization, and Union board named an interim representative, thus completing council membership until the Union board elects a permanent councilman in May.

Those elected by Town Men and the number of votes they received were: George Feiwell, L3, Chicago, 88; Virgil Hancher Jr., A3, Iowa City, 86, and Lue Cramblit, L3, Ottumwa, 86.

John Hays, C3, Iowa City, was named interim representative from Union board until that group holds an election at their organizational meeting.

Of 700 Town Men, 146 voted in the election which was supervised by Prof. Robert Ray, director of the institute of public affairs, and his staff.

Other candidates and the votes they received were: George Bolden, 64; Harold Roddy, A3, Indianapolis, Ind.; and Hardison Geer, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., with 54 votes.

Newspaper Publisher Condemns Truman's Attitude on Seizures

NEW YORK (AP) — Condemnation of President Truman's seizure of the steel industry and his implication that a President also could take over the nation's press and radio was expressed Wednesday in a resolution placed before the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

The resolution declared the press would "resist and defeat" any attempted seizure "by any president."

A number of publishers immediately expressed support of the resolution, introduced by Maj. Ken. Julius Ochs Adler, vice president and general manager of the New York Times, but association by-laws deferred a formal vote until today.

Adler said he was prompted in introducing the resolution by the government seizure of steel and President Truman's recent press conference statement "implying that he has power to seize the press."

The resolution said "This association deplores and condemns this recent action and assertion by the President of the United States under the guise of the inherent power of office."

The resolution expressed association belief "that no such inherent power exists."

Open House Held For GOP Candidates

Despite Wednesday's dreary weather more than 100 Iowa City area residents attended the open house sponsored by the Johnson County Council of Republican Women to meet local and state Republican candidates.

Gov. William S. Beardsley notified council officials by phone Wednesday morning that he would be unable to attend due to business regarding the flooded areas of the state.

U.S. Gov. William H. Nicholas was attending a previously scheduled open-house in the Clinton area Wednesday.

Both men had been expected at the local gathering. Kenneth Evans was the only gubernatorial candidate present, although some of the other offices were represented. They were: for lieutenant governor, Alden Douds; for secretary of state, David Long; and Melvin Sydnor; for secretary of treasurer, M. L. Abramson, and for secretary of agriculture, Clyde Spry.

Candidates for the Iowa State Commerce Commission present were John S. Tallman, Louis Jolley, John Ropes and Carl W. Reed.

MEDIATIONS FAIL

NEW YORK (AP) — Mediators tried again Wednesday to settle the final phase of the Western Electric strike. But after four hours of negotiations they gave up until today, saying "there has been no further progress."

62 to Take Deferment Test

The national college qualification test will be administered this morning to about 62 SUI male students in room 121A Schaeffer hall.

Prof. Robert L. Ebel, head of examination service at SUI, said each examinee should bring:

1. His ticket of admission from Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J. No student will be allowed to take the test without this form.

Senate Votes Dubuque Flood Down Motion To Kill RFC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators backing a bill to abolish the Reconstruction Finance corporation were set back on their heels Wednesday night after scoring an initial victory.

After first giving tentative approval to the measure, the senate backtracked and voted to send it back to its banking committee. The vote was announced as 39-36.

The motion instructed the committee to bring back an RFC bill by June 2, but Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) shouted that the effect was to kill the measure to abolish the huge government lending agency.

Earlier in the day the senate, by a vote of 42-37, approved a motion by Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) to substitute his bill to liquidate the RFC for a rival measure which called for reforms in its operations.

But after this a storm of debate broke out, and a parliamentary tangle developed.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation was the target of a sensational investigation into influence peddling last year.

The initial vote Wednesday in favor of the Byrd bill was the second slap taken by congress during the day at President Truman, who wants the RFC to carry on under a reorganization plan he put into effect after the 1950 senate investigation of its activities.

Seven Democrats and 35 Republicans voted for the Byrd bill. In addition to Byrd, the Democrats included Sen. Guy Gillette of Iowa.

Dubuque Flood Perils Homes

DUBUQUE (AP) — More than 300 families were homeless and 2,700 persons were out of work here Wednesday as lowland plants shut down in the face of the Mississippi flood.

Elsewhere along the flood front, the little village of Sabula, which lies below the river level was having a hard fight. Waves washing against the dikes caused constant leaks.

All but two north-south streets were closed in Clinton as sewers backed up.

Mississippi Towns Hit
Sewer eruptions also troubled Davenport. Sandboils bubbled up in Muscatine from the river's pressure beyond the dikes. Plans were made to clear lower Muscatine if the dike failed. Thousands of acres of farmland below Muscatine were threatened.

A crest four inches above last year's all-time high held steady at La Crosse, Wis., where more than a fourth of the city was under water. Of the 1,500 families, 220 had been forced from their homes.

Downstream, forecasters raised their sights on expected Mississippi crests because of heavy rains to the north. But they clung to their prediction of no major flood at St. Louis.

Raise Kansas City Dikes
On the Missouri river scene 3,000 flood fighters rushed to raise the dikes at Kansas City as a pile-driver crest bore down from the north.

Forecasters predicted that the crest, expected at Kansas City tonight, would be 31.5 feet. This would still be well under last year's level of 36.2 which spelled disaster.

But it was close enough to make the engineers want a little extra protection. So they started building "flashboarding"—the kind of temporary wooden barriers on top of the dikes that saved Omaha and Council Bluffs last week.

Dean Ladd Tells Need For Standard Law

DES MOINES (AP) — Dean Mason Ladd of the law college, chairman of the National Safety Council's committee on tests for intoxication, Wednesday said Iowa needs a uniform law on presumption of drunken driving.

He said 14 states have passed laws establishing scientific standards for the effect of different amounts of alcohol in the blood of drivers. The tests have been used extensively in Iowa courts, Ladd said, but there is no uniform law.

Wage Increase Figure Now Being Framed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government ordered an increase of about $3 a ton in steel price ceilings Wednesday. At the same time Economic Stabilizer Robert L. Putnam said he sees no justification for any further price increases to pay for wage raises.

The move came only a few hours after the Truman administration had taken the next-to-last step toward a pay rise order for the seized industry by putting up to Putnam the question, "How much?"

Putnam said it will be next week before he can make the pay recommendation.

Sec. of Commerce Charles Sawyer, operator of the mills for the government, referred the pay issue to the stabilization office and said that when he gets the answer he will take it to President Truman for final action.

May Boost Prices

Putnam then announced at a news conference that he had directed Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall to get out an order under which the mills may, if they choose, boost prices by the amount allowed under the Caphart amendment to the defense production act.

That provision allows price adjustments to reflect cost changes up to last July 26. Officials have estimated it would give the steel industry about $3, which is about a fourth of the amount some industry spokesmen have said they would need to meet wage raises recommended by the wage stabilization board.

Putnam told the newsmen that the steel industry some time ago asked that action be held up to its Caphart price allowance.

"I think it was for bargaining purposes," he answered when he was asked why the companies wanted delay.

"Because the steel companies have not applied for this increase for their stockholders, I don't know of any reason why we should hold it up," the stabilization chief said.

Decision Up to Companies
But he stressed that it will be up to the companies to decide whether to make an actual price boost — "We're not going to force Caphart on anyone."

In connection with his statement that he does not expect pay recommendations to be ready before next week, Putnam said framing them is a very complicated task, and they must be cleared with the justice department for legality.

The stabilization chief's letter to Arnall asked for the Caphart price order "as promptly as possible" but Arnall's office said the job will take until Monday at the earliest.

The administration actions were announced as the boiling controversy produced:

1. A second resolution in the house for impeachment of the President over his actions in the steel crisis. The resolution was sponsored by Rep. Bender (R-Ohio).

2. An informal team-up of CIO President Philip Murray and Sen. Morse (R-Ore.) before a senate committee to denounce steel and other big business. The senator said big business is trying to saddle America with a "feudal system." The labor leader said steel had evaded a wage settlement hoping to "perpetrate a fraud" and obtain greatly increased prices.

Say Ex-Tax Head Falsified Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two treasury agents said Wednesday they had "discovered" that Joseph C. Nunan, former commissioner of internal revenue, banked $161,609 more than he reported in his income tax returns from 1945 to 1950.

The agents made their report in testimony before a house ways and means subcommittee which has uncovered a long series of tax scandals.

They testified that Nunan, now a lawyer with a flourishing practice in New York and Washington, was unable to explain how he came by $97,328 of the amount involved.

Unreported Earnings

More than $90,000 of the earnings, they swore, was received by Nunan between March 1, 1944, and June 30, 1947, when he was the nation's chief tax collector.

"No part of those amounts was reported as income?" Adrian DeWand, committee counsel, asked Andres Soldana, one of the agents.

"That is correct," Soldana replied. "We simply have no explanation for it," he added.

Nunan Keeps Silent

Soldana said that after a federal grand jury in Brooklyn began digging into Nunan's affairs, Nunan, on advice of counsel, refused to talk about his finances.

Nunan was supposed to appear before the committee himself Wednesday to untangle the figures. But for the second time he pleaded illness and did not appear. Two doctors sent word that he was bedridden in New York with a heart ailment.

The committee voted to appoint their own physician to examine Nunan and then to decide, in the light of that physician's report, whether to cite the lawyer for contempt.

Manufacturer Charged in Record Tax Case

CLEVELAND (AP) — In the largest income tax evasion case here on record, Poncet Davis of Akron was charged in a grand jury indictment Wednesday of dodging $738,249 in taxes in a four-year period.

Davis has been described by Charles Oliphant, ex-chief counsel of the bureau of internal revenue as his "Dear Friend."

A grand jury charged Davis, a tire inner tube manufacturer, paid only $80,067 when he actually owed $818,316. The jury set his taxable income at $1,030,828.

Davis' name came up in Washington during a senatorial quiz of Oliphant last Dec. 15. Oliphant, who quit under pressure as the revenue bureau's counsel, told of flying trips with Davis.

Davis is president and chief owner of Robbins Tire & Rubber Co., Inc., of Tusculum, Ala.

Annual 2 Day Iowa Welfare Institute to Start Here Today

The Iowa Welfare institute convening today will place considerable emphasis on the opportunities of welfare board membership, according to Wayne Vasey, director of the university's school of social work.

An entire section of the two-day institute has been given over to outlining the importance of the welfare board in welfare development. Vasey called the five-member boards a two-way channel between the welfare office and the county community.

He said the section at the institute is designed to reach the local board members and directors who are responsible for converting state and federal policies to meet community needs.

Glick Will Lead Section
Dr. Frank Glick, director of the University of Nebraska school of social work since 1939 and former executive secretary of the Illinois board of public welfare commissioner, will serve as discussion leader for the section.

Ten sections, in all, will hold continuous meetings during the institute to discuss various welfare problems.

Joseph P. Anderson, executive secretary of the American Association of Social Workers, principal speaker at a banquet meeting tonight in the Iowa Memorial Union, will talk on the subject of "Public Dollars—Private Lives."

William H. Burke, director of Iowa State industries, will speak to a discussion section on correction and guidance in crime and delinquency this morning on "The Renaissance of Penal Labor."

Don't Be an Amateur Mechanic

We never cease to wonder at the man who will rush the family car to the repair shop at the first sound of an engine sputter and call in the heating expert when the oil burner acts up, and yet when something goes wrong in his own, infinitely more complicated system, indulges in self-diagnosis and home remedy. A small sore on his lip . . . and he applies salve from the family medicine chest. When the sore refuses to heal, he blames it on the salve and buys another brand. Or maybe a mole that he's had since childhood starts changing in color or size. He studies it in his mirror while shaving, and decides it's "nothing to worry about. They say those things change as you get older."

Familiar? Alarmingly so . . . because these are symptoms that might mean cancer. They do prompt diagnosis and, if cancer is indicated, mean an immediate visit to the doctor for prompt treatment. The appalling loss of life to this, the nation's second chief killer, could be cut one-third today if men and women came to their physicians in time. The American Cancer Society lists the seven danger signals of cancer that call for prompt action on your part.

1. Any sore that does not heal.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
4. Any change in a wart or mole.
5. Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
6. Persistent hoarseness or cough.
7. Any change in normal bowel habits.

It's your job to know and act upon these danger signals. If you can't remember them, cut them out and paste them on the inside of your medicine cabinet.

At the first sign of any of these symptoms, take yourself down to the man who knows what to do about it — your doctor. Give yourself the same break you're giving your car or toaster or lawn-mower. And give to the 1952 Johnson County Cancer Crusade which begins Monday.

TO THE EDITOR:
At the time of writing this letter, we, the undersigned, candidates for Town Men representatives to student council, do not know the outcome of the Town Men elections held Wednesday. However, we feel that in all fairness to Town Men who voted in that election, an answer to the letter of Messrs. Bigelow and Spear is forthcoming.

As Messrs. Bigelow and Spear point out, the first Town Men election was voided because "the candidates elected did not represent the interests of all town men but rather a small group who belonged to the association." They continue by saying that our purpose was not to hold a democratic election but to put ourselves in office by means of an election which we could easily control in Town Men association.

In answer to this assertion, it should be pointed out that, in a unanimous motion proposed by Virgil Hanchee Jr., it was decided to interpret the ambiguous membership provisions of the Town Men constitution in such a way that all single men living in town would have a right to vote in the coming election. A new nominating committee was set up consisting of the old members with the addition of Philip Bigelow, George Bluestone, and Jacob Leed. This committee was to nominate

3 Films About F.D.R. Scheduled

By JIM GOLTZ
THE STUDENT ART GUILD will show the superb Danish film "Day of Wrath" at 8 p.m. Friday in Shambaugh lecture room of the library. The recipient of several "best foreign picture" awards, the film is concerned with the witch-burning apocys of past centuries.

NOTES FROM CINEMA-LAND: Stanley Kramer will produce his long-planned "The Roosevelt Story" as three full-length pictures. One will deal with F.D.R.'s youth, the second his pre-war years, and the last the war period. MGM will re-do the operettas "Maytime" and "The Student Prince" as vehicles for tenor Mario Lanza. Laurence Olivier will be coached in singing and dancing in preparation for the British technicolor version of "The Beggar's Opera" in which he'll play the Macheath role.

CAPSULE REVIEW: The producers of the hilarious comedies "Tight Little Island" and "Passport To Pimlico" have done it again with "The Galloping Major." Starring Basil Radford, Britain's top comedian next to Alex Guinness, the picture makes for rollicking film-fare.

ALSO SHOWING are a surprise "sleeper" — "The Girl on The Bridge" starring master-actor Hugo Haas and Hollywood's newest blond bombshell Beverly Michaels. . . a re-issue of Walt Disney's first full-length animation "Snow White" which spells magic for film-goers of all ages.

HELEN BAIRD, G. Indianapolis, currently handling the "Mrs. Loman" lead in "Death Of A Salesman," provided theater-goers with a surprise shock Wednesday night in her brilliant reading of the role. Whereas Nancy Burnam's interpretation was "poetic," Miss Baird adds strength to the part, making the production a thing worth studying twice.

Incidentally, Miss Baird memorized the entire part, complete with actions and inflections, in one weekend, being notified of Miss Burnam's unforeseen injury during dress rehearsal week. Mastering a part which would ordinarily require weeks of careful study, her feat is an inspiration to inhibited thespians.

IN THE PUBLISHING are "The State of Latin America" by German Arciniegas. A country-by-country survey of the decline of democracy in our 20 neighboring countries. Those who are amused by such things will like the title Arciniegas has given to his discussion of Argentina: "The Ego with Two heads."

Interpreting the News — Harriman Adds To Hodgepodge Of Demo Slate

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

Averell Harriman's candidacy, with strong New York backing, brings a new air of reality to democratic pre-convention campaigning, which fell into a hodgepodge with President Truman's announcement of retirement. Estes Kefauver has been conducting a whirlwind campaign and getting a lot of primary votes and delegates. Yet it has been in a never-never atmosphere. The other Democratic candidates, Russell of Georgia and Kerr of Oklahoma, have made only a slight stir. Kefauver's personality and the showing he has made in the absence of important opposition in some primaries have not shown any signs of unlocking the organization doors which are expected to be closed against him when he gets to the convention.

The incongruities of the Democratic campaign are by no means cleared up through the Harriman entry. Harriman has been a New Dealer and a Fair Dealer, and there is certainly nothing in his conscience to interfere with his running on the Roosevelt-Truman record, as he proposes.

Oxford Dispute Left Unsolved By Beardsley

DES MOINES (AP) — Gov. William S. Beardsley said Wednesday that although Atty. Gen. Robert L. Larson has advised him of his appointive powers he still is unable to solve municipal official situations at Oxford and Calmar.

M. E. Baker of Oxford, in Johnson county, asked the governor last week to appoint a mayor, city council and city treasurer for that town. A generally similar situation has arisen at Calmar, in Winneshiek county.

Baker said Oxford municipal officers elected last November failed to qualify in the required time, and that the holdover officials also failed to requalify within the legal time limit. He took the position that all of the offices thus are vacant.

Beardsley said Larson has ruled that the governor has the authority to make appointments to fill any such vacancies. But, the governor said, in view of the fact there is controversy over the situation at Oxford it will take court action to determine whether there are any vacancies there. Beardsley said he had not been advised as to whether there is any controversy over the situation at Calmar.

Canadian University Officials Tour Library

LIBRARIAN D. C. APPELT (left) and A. C. McEwon (right), assistant to the president of the University of Saskatchewan, Canada, are shown talking with Prof. Ralph Ellsworth, director of SUI libraries during a tour of University library Wednesday. The two are touring midwestern and eastern university libraries in this country, seeking ideas for a new library which will be built on their campus at Saskatoon.

SUI Receives Grants of Money, Books

The finance committee of the state board of education has accepted $12,591.50 and two book collections in gifts and grants for SUI, President Virgil M. Hancher announced Wednesday.

Largest of the grants was $11,124 from the National Institute of Health. It will be used for research on experimental scoliosis by Dr. I. V. Ponseti, assistant professor of orthopedic surgery.

The Iowa State Education association granted $250 to be used for expenses of the governor's day conference on education here April 29-30.

Grants of $200 each came from the Iowa Association of Chiefs of Police and Peace Officers, the Iowa State Policeman's association and the Iowa State Sheriff's association. The $600 will be used for the annual peace officers' short course at the university July 7-11.

A total of $542.50 was given by various donors for the Beth Wellman Memorial fund to purchase research tools, current journals and scholarly publications to facilitate students' work in the Iowa child welfare research station.

The 400-volume personal library of the late Beth Wellman, professor of child psychology at the Iowa child welfare research station, was received for inclusion in the Baldwin-Wellman Memorial reading room in the research station. Baldwin was the first director of the station.

Seven leather-bound volumes, "Source Records of the Great War, 1917-18," were given the library by H. I. Jennings, Denver, Colo., formerly of Iowa City. They were given in memory of Jennings' foster son, Donald M. Bush, who was killed in World War II. Bush, a student at the university in 1937-38, originally owned the volumes.

Pi Lambda Theta gave $50 for the purchase of books for the Perkins school of the children's hospital.

Civil Rights Lawyer Opposes Rulings Backing Loyalty Oaths

Court decisions on recent attempts to impose loyalty by law are discouraging to those who believe that such legal devices endanger liberty of the mind, civil rights Atty. Osmond K. Fraenkel declares in the new issue of the Iowa Law Review.

At the same time, "there is a growing awareness . . . among judges of the harm done society by such restrictive measures," Fraenkel says in an article on "Law and Loyalty."

The New York attorney's article is part of the "Civil Rights Symposium" of the Review, quarterly journal edited by SUI college of law seniors.

FBI Director Contributes

FBI director J. Edgar Hoover, SUI labor economist Walter L. Daykin, and professors from Southern Methodist university and the University of Maryland also contributed articles to the "Civil Rights Symposium."

Declaring that in times of international stress, "the herd instinct asserts itself by an urge to conformity," Fraenkel cites test oaths and loyalty investigations as evidence of restrictive measures aimed at those who hold extreme opinions.

He recalls that Justice Black of the United States supreme court called test oaths "implacable foes of free thought" inspired when "the fog of public excitement obscures the ancient landmarks set up in our Bill of Rights."

Fraenkel Cites Ruling

However, a majority of the supreme court "felt that the restrictions on freedom were slight and the danger of political strikes by Communist-led unions great," Fraenkel explains in describing the court's support for the non-Communist oath required of union officers if their unions are to take advantage of the Taft-Hartley act's provisions.

Fraenkel recalls that the supreme court also upheld a Maryland law requiring every candidate for public office to swear that he did not advocate overthrow of the government by force and was not a member of an organization that did so. In addition, it upheld a Los Angeles oath of similar nature applying to city employees.

Of the national loyalty program, which involved public listing by the U.S. attorney general of "subversive" organizations, Fraenkel reports that Justice Douglas objected to the listing because it would create "guilt by association." Other justices said the measure denied due process of law when organizations were placed on the list without first having some kind of hearing.

Case Splits Justices

However, at least one dismissal of a federal employe prompted by the loyalty program found the supreme court divided, 4-4, thus permitting a lower court's support of the executive order to stand, Fraenkel notes.

The possibility that the supreme court may reverse its rulings on some of the restrictive measures is more promising than the possibility of political opposition to the measures, Fraenkel believes.

He states that while Thomas Jefferson led the political battle against the Alien and Sedition acts of 1798, critics of present-day "compulsions to conformity" have "no one round whom to rally."

Top Billiard Artist To Appear Today

Clarence E. Anderson, world champion trickshot pocket billiard artist, will display his bag of tricks in an exhibition at 8 p.m. today in the Iowa Memorial Union.

Students and the public will be admitted without charge. A bleacher seating system will be constructed to enable spectators to see all action on the billiard table.

Anderson says he took up trick shots to break the monotony of teaching billiards. He now can perform more than 250 trick shots.

Services Saturday for Mrs. Nellie Kelso

Mrs. Nellie Kelso, 62, 919 Roosevelt st., died at 6 a.m. Wednesday at Mercy hospital, after a long illness.

She was born on Dec. 8, 1889, in Newport township, the daughter of Frank and Emma Michel, pioneer residents of that area. She was married to Myron E. Kelso Feb. 26, 1908.

Mrs. Kelso was a life-long member of the Methodist church. Surviving are: her husband; one son, Amos Kelso, Iowa City; one daughter, Mrs. George Angerer, Grandview; three sisters, Mrs. Zack Henderson, Iowa City; Mrs. Maggie Cox, Iowa City; Mrs. Joe Pohler, Solon; four brothers, Fred Michel, Iowa City; William Michel, Des Moines; Frank Michel, Cedar Rapids, and six grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the McGovern Funeral home with Dr. L. L. Dunnington officiating. Burial will be in the Oakland cemetery.

Registrar's Office To Help Students Seek Deferments

Male students who plan to appeal to their local draft boards for educational deferments and wish their class rank and student status certified by the registrar's office after spring semester grades are recorded should fill out a special blank at the registrar's office about mid-May.

J. Harvey Crox, assistant registrar, said Wednesday that those students who had similar rank in class forms sent to their draft boards from SUI last spring need not fill out the blank. The registrar's office will automatically send forms to local boards for students who requested them a year ago.

Adequate request blanks will not be available until about May 15, so the registrar's office prefers to have students wait until then before stopping in to fill out blanks.

Dixieland Jazz Combos Being Revived On Campus

A reincarnation of the 1920's is underway on the SUI campus with the revival of Dixieland jazz, a type of music first popular in the "roaring '20's" and lately coming back into favor with collegiate groups all over the country.

Dixieland "combos" are being organized by members of SUI housing units to play both informal and professional engagements. The distinguishing trait of these musical groups is that their members play strictly for the love of jazz, as content in a basement "jam session" as in a private club.

The combos on campus are in much demand for fraternity and sorority dances as well as for late-night gatherings at the nearest available spot. An informal "session" is always unrehearsed and spontaneous, the musicians gathering only for the enjoyment of playing.

Jazz originated in the south, its outstanding trait being the African "jungle beat." Dixieland jazz evolved from the music played by marching bands in the south, eventually moving up to Chicago where it caused a musical revolution.

Following the '20's, it lost public favor for a period of 10 or 12 years but was revived around 1945, probably because of the public's lack of interest in "bebop."

Some of the top musicians responsible for its revival were George Brunis, Muggsy Spanier, George Whetting, Eddie Condon and Louis Armstrong, all considered "greats" in this field.

Jazz is thought by many to be America's greatest contribution to music. It is definitely recognized as being one of the more important forms of contemporary music, its greatest collectors and connoisseurs being the collegiate groups responsible for its new success.

Typical of the SUI jazz fans is Dick Cauffman, A2, Cedar Rapids, who considers jazz a "chief hobby."

Cauffman, who plays the trumpet, organized a Dixieland combo several years ago. The members of the combo, which consists of a clarinet, trumpet, trombone, drums, and piano, are from both Iowa and Illinois, but gather at frequent intervals to play at night clubs in both states.

Cauffman says: "Jazz will never leave because it's part of the American way of life."

DIXIELAND JAZZ IS PLAYED by these five members of various "combos" on the SUI campus who gather at all-night sessions to play for the personal enjoyment they obtain from the music. Cedar Rapids City Workers Reject 'Back to Work' Offer

CEAR RAPIDS (AP) — Striking American Federation of Labor city employees Wednesday rejected the city's "go back to work" offer.

AFL spokesman James D. White said the workers turned down the city's request by a vote of 54 to 18. The workers' action came after a stormy meeting between the city council and AFL members.

At the meeting the striking employees heard the council consider their strike illegal.

The council indicated that if the workers do not settle for an offered 16 cents an hour wage increase on their present 44-hour week they can expect a "come back or lose your job" order.

The AFL men have been out for a week. Congress of Industrial Organizations city workers, observing AFL picket lines, also have been off their jobs.

There has been no garbage pickup since last Thursday. All street work has ceased. The waterworks has been operating, and also the sewerage disposal plant, but with skeleton crews.

CIO spokesmen said Wednesday that they would submit the city's 16 cent offer to their union membership — probably today. They indicated they would cross picket lines if they accept the city offer.

A Wednesday afternoon meeting between council members and AFL members resulted in bitter argument.

City Attorney C. W. Arberson quoted to union men a 1945 U.S. supreme court opinion in the case of the Railway Mail Association vs. Murphy. The opinion said in part:

"The formidable and familiar weapon in industrial strife and warfare — the strike — is without justification when used against the government. When so used it is rebellion against constituted authority."

The city attorney said: "I don't want to say to these men 'you have to go back to work or else...' but if it (the strike) goes on long enough, it's going to happen."

Sewage Crisis Forecast for 3 Iowa Towns

SPIRIT LAKE (AP) — The trustees of the Iowa Great Lakes sanitary district said Wednesday that an injunction suit to prevent them from assuming control of the lakes' sewer system may bring about a sewage disposal crisis.

In a public statement, the trustees said that if as a result of the suit the sewage treatment plant and lift ceases to operate, the towns involved will be faced with the problem of providing their own disposal facilities.

Disposal Problem Foreseen

The trustees said the plaintiff towns have made no provision for disposal facilities in the event the operation of the sewer system is halted.

The sanitary district was scheduled to take over operation and maintenance of the sewer system May 1 in order to qualify for a $350,000 state appropriation for extension of the system.

The state conservation commission, which has been operating the sewer since it was built, will have exhausted all funds for sewer operations by May 1.

State Aid to Stop
The trustees quoted Sen. Jay Colburn (R-Harlan), chairman of the legislative interim committee as saying:

"Definitely, no more state funds will be made available to the conservation commission for the sewage disposal system."

The three cities asked the court to restrain the district from extending the sewer system to the entire lakes area, as was planned, and to order return of all taxes collected for operating the sewer, to the individual taxpayers.

Judge Declares Mistrial Of Kitt's 'Accomplices'

SIoux CITY, IA. (AP) — Federal district judge Henry N. Graven Wednesday declared a mistrial in the government's case against two Omaha men because of the testimony of Kenneth A. Kitts, 35, widely known bank robber.

Testimony in the case against Frank Ellsworth, 33, and Charles C. Taylor, 29, began only Wednesday morning. They are charged with burglary of the Granville, Ia., bank.

Kitts charged that U. S. attorney Tobias Diamond made a promise to him regarding his sentence last March in Waterloo. In that instance Kitts pleaded guilty to a grand jury indictment charging that he, Ellsworth and Taylor broke into the Granville bank May 25, 1950.

Kitts said the only reason he pleaded guilty was because Diamond informed him that Diamond "would take him out of the hole at Nebraska state penitentiary" and would place him "in a federal penitentiary instead."

Kitts Charges Story
On the witness stand Wednesday Kitts said that Taylor and Ellsworth were not with him at Granville at the time of the break-in, in which nothing was taken. Kitts' sentence at Waterloo was made concurrent with others he already was serving.

The witness refused, despite orders of the court, to say who was with him. Judge Graven asked Kitts whether he had been asked at Waterloo if anyone held out any promise to him to induce him to plead guilty, and whether Kitts at any time had replied "no."

Kitts replied that was true but added that the reason he said so then was because he was told by the FBI and Diamond to make such a statement despite Diamond's alleged promise of a lighter sentence.

Diamond denied all of Kitts' accusations and said: "In 11 years as a U. S. attorney this is the first time that anyone has ever accused me of unethical practices." The attorney declared that Kitts had been "a hostile" witness.

"Not Them Two At Granville"
Of the two men who were with him at Granville, Kitts said that was his business, "and anyway it was not them two fellows."

He admitted that he lied in court at Waterloo. Then Judge Graven asked Kitts whether, in view of the circumstances, he wanted his Waterloo plea set aside.

"That's up to the court," Kitts replied. The court then declared the Ellsworth-Taylor case a mistrial.

Afterward the judge asked Kitts to get an attorney and explained "There's a good chance that the Waterloo plea will be set aside."

Judge Graven also advised Kitts of the possibility of a perjury indictment. Kitts was brought here last Sunday from the Leavenworth, Kans., federal prison where he is serving a 25-year term.

Flying Arms, Legs, Mitt Result in Out

ARMS, FEET AND A CATCHER'S MITT all go sailing in this action of Wednesday's game between the New York Giants and the Boston Braves. Wes Westrum, Giant catcher, represented only by his legs in the picture, has made good on an attempted tag of shortstop Jack Cusick of the Braves, who tried to score from first on Gene Conley's single. The throw came from Willie Mays. Watching the action are umpire Augie Guglielme and Bill Reed (6), Boston second baseman.

Only 2 Hits As Browns Top Tribe, 1-0, Take 1st

Cain Defeats Feller; Each Gives 1 Blow

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Cain out-pitched Bob Feller here Wednesday night in a unique duel in which the upstart St. Louis Browns whipped the Cleveland Indians, 1 to 0, and took over first place in the American league race.

Feller, like Cain, allowed only one hit, but the safety off the Cleveland veteran was a first-inning triple by Bobby Young, good for a run, whereas the only hit off Cain's delivery was a harmless single by Luke Easter in the fifth inning.

Young's triple opened the Browns' first inning, and when third baseman Al Rosen fumbled Marty Marion's grounder, Young scored the only run of the game.

Cain, who came to the Browns last Valentine's day in a seven-player deal with the Detroit Tigers, hasn't known a winning season as a major leaguer since breaking in with the Chicago White Sox in 1949.

With Wednesday night's excellent performance, he now has a 2-0 record, one of three Brownies as yet undefeated.

In two games the Browns have topped the Indians out of a one-and-a-half game lead, breaking up a seven-game winning streak by Cleveland.

Ironically, Cain was Feller's victim when Bob pitched his third no-hitter last year. The Cleveland right-hander defeated Cain and Detroit last July, 2-1, holding the Tigers hitless. Cain allowed six hits.

It marked the second time in modern baseball history that each pitcher allowed the opposition only one hit.

The 33-year-old Feller and Cain, 27, battled on even terms all the way through the contest which goes into the record books as the lowest-hit game in the 51-year history of the American league.

Cain, a southpaw, fanned seven, walked three. Feller struck out five and gave up two passes. The big strike out for Cain came when he sent Harry Simpson down on strikes to end the game.

Just four Brownies reached base. The Tribe got on base the same number of times. When photographers made a rush for the Indians' dressing room after the game, they were greeted by a dejected and reticent manager Al Lopez who shut the door to after-game visitors.

"We don't want our picture taken when we lose," Lopez said. Feller backed him up. There was much debate following in the game as to whether Young's all-important triple could have been caught. Most writers believed it could have been.

Perhaps in the belief that the wind would stall the ball in flight, Jim Fridgeley moved to his left in left field and stood helpless as the ball sailed over his head.

The lone run was ruled an earned tally by the official scorekeeper despite the fact Rosen muffed Marion's grounder to allow Bobbie Young to cross the plate.

Arbiter Involved in Rhubarb —

Giles Fines Umpire

— 1st Public Action in 13 Years

CINCINNATI (AP) — Warren Giles, a much-interested spectator at Tuesday night's showing fray at Crosley Field, decided Wednesday that umpire Douglas (Scotty) Robb was guilty of the pushing around.

And, even more remarkable, the National league president let the public in on his decision.

He leveled a $50 fine against Eddie Stanky, fiery little manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, but told newsmen that Robb got the worst of it — very much so — as far as fines went.

Hemus Starts Ruckus Redbird shortstop Solly Hemus, whose gesture of disgust over a called third strike touched off the mess, was ordered to pay a $25 fine.

The combined fines were peanuts compared to what Robb had to pay, Giles indicated.

Giles, who was watching the game between Cincinnati and St. Louis when the third-inning donnybrook occurred, reported:

"For pushing manager Stanky, umpire Robb has been disciplined and fined an amount which, in my judgment, is commensurate with the act. The fine is a sizeable amount and much greater than the combined fines of the players.

No Precedent "The amount is not revealed so as not to establish a precedent of a fine for an offense usually punishable by suspension.

"Had a player committed the same offense, it would involve suspension. While players should not be subject to a different standard of discipline than umpires, no useful purpose would be served by suspending the umpire in this particular instance. The suspension of a player has an entirely different disciplinary effect."

It was the first disciplinary action Giles has taken since his elevation last year from boss of

Giants Thump Braves, 9-5, On 4 Homers

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants cut loose with four home runs Wednesday to outslug the Boston Braves, 9-5, for their fourth straight win.

Al Dark, Don Mueller and Wes Westrum rapped homers off Gene Conley, the Braves' 6-foot-8 rookie, who was shelled from the box in the fourth inning for his second loss. Relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm hit the fourth Giant homer off reliever Dick Hoover.

Rookie Ed Mathews of the Braves, snapping out of a slump, lined his second home run of the season into the upper right field seats with Walker Cooper on base in the sixth.

Manager Leo Durocher tried to give the Braves the same left-handed medicine that worked so well for Brooklyn five straight times. Rookie Roger Bowman, in action for the first time since an April 9 exhibition game at Shreveport, La., was the starter. He gave way to Wilhelm, the knuckle ball expert from Minneapolis, in the third.

Wilhelm scooted through 5 1/3 innings until Durocher lifted him in the eighth to bring on lefty Dave Koslo to pitch to pinchhitter George Crowe with two on base. Wilhelm was credited with his first major league win.

Bosox Whip Yankees, 3-1, Behind Kinder

BOSTON (AP) — Given only his third starting assignment since the 1950 season, Ellis Kinder, the veteran relief specialist Wednesday hurled the Boston Red Sox to a 3-1 victory over the New York Yankees with a five-hit performance.

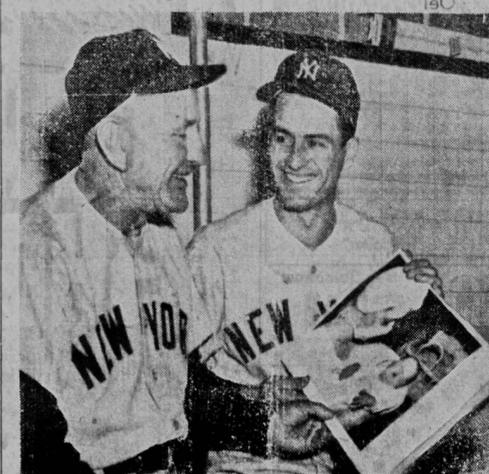

And while he was so doing, the Red Sox slugged Allie Reynolds for eight safeties, including a homer and a two-bagger by Ted Lepcio and a pair of doubles by Jim Piersall, another rookie infielder.

Kinder was in trouble only once. Gil McDougald opened the fourth by hitting a topped ball that pulled Walt Dropo in from first base. It went for a hit because the initial sack was left uncovered.

Johnny Mize then dropped a bleeder single behind second base and McDougald scored as Gene Woodling hit into a double play. Lepcio's two-bagger and Sammy White's single provided the first Boston run in the second. In the next frame, the Soxers bunched Piersall's first two-bagger with singles by Don Lenhardt and Vern Stephens for their second marker.

Lepcio's four-bagger, his second major league blow, came in the seventh.

Another Yankee?

AN OLD TRADITION IS TO show the boss a picture of each new baby and Gerry Coleman is no exception. The Yankee second baseman shows manager Casey Stengel an AP wirephoto of a nurse holding his son, which was born Monday. And Casey, like all good bosses, beams his approval. The baby's name will be Gerald Jr.

Cagers to Get Fundamentals

Head basketball coach Bucky O'Connor indicated Wednesday that the emphasis would be on fundamentals and scrimmages during Iowa's spring basketball practices.

The drills opened Tuesday and will continue through a 12-day period, ending May 3.

O'Connor and assistant Bob Schultz had a squad of 16 players work out with more players likely to report later in the week.

Topping the list of three returning major lettermen is captain Herb Thompson. A regular forward on the 1952 Big Ten runner-up squad, Thompson was Iowa's third high scorer during the full season with 187 points.

"Deacon" Davis, Iowa's other starter at the forward spot, also reported for the spring workouts. Davis finished as Iowa's No. 4 scorer during the complete season and edged Thompson for third place in Big Ten play.

Reserve forward Chuck Jarnagin is the other returning letterman. The Newton sophomore played in 20 of 22 games and was noted as an excellent rebounder.

Stassforth, Labahn Training for Olympics

Bowen Stassforth and Dick Labahn, two of Iowa's top swimmers during the past season, began preliminary workouts Wednesday for Olympic trials to be held early in July in New York.

Diver Otto "Bunny" Broder also had planned to start practicing but is being held out until he can get a go-ahead sign from the ROTC department. Broder is scheduled to go to summer camp and needs permission from the military department to get away. Stassforth, holder of seven American breaststroke records, is regarded as one of America's best chances in the 200-meter breaststroke. Stassforth's toughest competition should come from Princeton's Bob Brawner and Ohio State's Gerry Holtan.

In Wake of Tax Evasion Charge —

Saigh Will Consult Officials On Retaining Control of Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Fred Saigh, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, said Wednesday he will let baseball's top officials decide whether he should relinquish active control of the club pending settlement of income tax evasion charges against him.

The 46-year-old club owner was indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on five counts charging he evaded $49,620 for the years 1946 through 1949.

He expressed confidence Wednesday that he will be cleared when all the facts are known. "I can only ask in all fairness that the public withhold final judgment until that time," he said in a prepared statement.

Will Consult Officials "I shall get in touch with Ford Frick, national commissioner of baseball, and Warren Giles, president of the National league, as soon as possible and outline my views to them," Saigh said.

"I shall be guided completely by their recommendation and judgment as to what I should do personally about active participation in the Cardinals until such time as these charges have been settled after a hearing in the courts."

One possibility is that active direction of the club will be turned over to Bill Walsingham, its vice-president, pending settlement of the tax case against Saigh. Walsingham, nephew of the late Sam Breadon, Cardinal owner, was indicted by Federal Judge George H. Moore.

Saigh was in Cincinnati for a Cardinal game Tuesday night when he learned of the indictment. He appeared stunned, almost in tears, and told a newsman "I don't have this coming to me."

He did not remain for the game in Cincinnati. He canceled a speaking engagement Wednesday in Evansville, Ind., and flew back to St. Louis.

Under the charges, Saigh could be sentenced upon conviction on all five counts to a maximum of 25 years in prison and fined $50,000. He was accused of failing to report $108,823 in income for the period.

The club owner, an associate of or for many years, is the club's most experienced front office man.

Before arrangements were made for Saigh to surrender on the indictment, his bond was fixed at the late Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan, a comparatively obscure lawyer less than 10 years ago. He bought an interest in the Cardinals in 1947 after becoming a successful big-time real estate operator. Early in 1949, he acquired the controlling interest in the club.

16 Runners Entered at Drake

By LEE CANNING Weather replaced the injury list as Coach Francis Cretzmeier's main trouble Wednesday as the Iowa track squad got set for its trip to the Drake Relays.

A squad of 16 Iowans will leave today for Des Moines and the Relays. Trials will begin in the 440 and 880-yard and mile relays Friday along with the spring medley final.

Finals in the distance medley, the 440, 880 and mile relays will be held Saturday.

Kept Indoors Cretzmeier's squad was limited to an indoor workout Wednesday because of rain at the Iowa coach thought his squad might be hindered by the track change.

Cretzmeier did receive encouraging news from Stan Levinson, sophomore broad jumper and quarter-miler, who said that he would be in top physical condition for the Relays. Levinson has been hampered by a leg injury suffered in the Big Ten indoor meet.

Iowa's greatest strength will be in the 440, 880 and sprint medley relays.

Strong Sprint Teams Cretzmeier will have Ira Murchison, Glen Hesselstine, Len Sykes and Gary Scott running in the 440. This group placed second behind Texas at the Kansas Relays with a time of 41.5 and is rated as one of the favorites at Drake.

Iowa's 880-yard relay team of Murchison, Hesselstine, Scott and LeRoy Ebert has a good chance of repeating its high finish of the Record Throings Pack Concerts Here

More than 3,000 persons—a record throng—attended the three concerts of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra here Tuesday and Wednesday.

This was the 25th consecutive year the orchestra has performed at SUI. Conductor Antal Dorati is known both for his talent as a program-arranger and for his individual interpretations.

The programs he selected for SUI audiences consisted of music varying from the classical to the contemporary.

The orchestra's tours have included some 3,000 concerts in 425 cities in the United States, Canada and Cuba.

ANTAL DORATI, conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, talks with Prof. Charles B. Righter, director of the university band, before one of three concerts presented Tuesday and Wednesday. The concerts were well-received by SUI audiences, drawing more than 3,000 persons at the three performances.

Korean Talks Still Jammed On 2 Issues

MUNSAN (AP)—Korean armistice negotiations appeared today to be heading toward climax with no sign of a break in the critical deadlock on prisoner exchange.

The meetings at Panmunjon today were scheduled, as usual, for 11 a.m. (8 p.m., CST, Wednesday). There was no announcement concerning Wednesday's secret session on prisoners, but the feeling persisted that the negotiations were snagged on the number of prisoners to be exchanged.

Pessimism was apparent both in Washington and Peiping. U.S. officials privately expressed belief the talks were moving through the most critical phase in many months with a decisive turn expected soon.

Washington's pessimism seemed to stem from the Reds' failure to react favorably to still-secret Allied proposals aimed at easing Communist acceptance of voluntary prisoner return.

The Peiping radio reported the talks "entered a new perilous stage" because of Allied insistence on the principle of not returning a prisoner against his wishes. Staff officers considering truce supervision met only 19 minutes Wednesday while Allied shells exploded less than a mile from the Panmunjon neutral zone. Neither side yielded on the two main issues. Communist nomination of Russia as a neutral truce inspector, and Allied insistence on military airfield construction restrictions.

Army's Flood Control Plan Called Unsound by Peterson

The Pick-Sloane plan for flood control along the Missouri river was dubbed "conspicuously unsound" and "tremendously wasteful" by Dean Elmer T. Peterson, head of the SUI department of education, in an article appearing in the May issue of Country Gentleman.

Appearing at a time when the rampaging Missouri is causing some of the greatest flood damage in history, the article rejects the much publicized Pick-Sloane plan and in turn supports another plan which calls for the construction of several smaller dams and more widespread use of conservation methods.

Hits Army Plan

Peterson tells of the bitter fight now shaping up between the big-dam and little-dam advocates in the Missouri valley.

"On one side," he says, "are the army engineers, driving hard to put across a costly high dam program before the memory of last summer's terrible floods grows thin." These groups are drawing support from hard-hit cities which want protection as quickly as possible, regardless of cost.

But even though the army plan would cost an estimated three times that of the soil conservation service proposal, Peterson says that it affords less flood protection.

Criticizes Big Dams

Case histories have proved that "the bigger the dam the less it is able to control floods," he said.

If the backers of big dams have their way, the huge reservoirs that would result would inundate some of the country's richest farmland. The article points to a proposed army dam construction at Turtle Creek, Kan., where this "flood protection" would itself flood 55,000 acres of fertile farmland, along with several villages and homes. Permanently lost, too, would be an area which produces more than $8 million worth of crops each year, Peterson said.

Backs Wasteland Reservoirs

The soil conservation service plan, on the other hand, would use only wasteland for its reservoirs.

The silt problem is also another argument against the big-dam plan. In time the amount of silt deposited in the reservoirs causes the big dams to lose much of their effectiveness and also clogs up the river upstream where it is narrower. This clogging often causes the river to change its course, thereby wasting more farmland.

The final flood control program must make more productive use of the soil, and thereby help pay its way, Peterson said.

FBI, CR Police Nab Forger Wanted for $11,000 Bad Checks

OMAHA (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation said its officers and Cedar Rapids police Wednesday arrested a man wanted in Iowa and Nebraska in connection with check forgeries which in 18 months have amounted to $11,000.

James L. Dalton, head of the Omaha FBI office, identified the man arrested as Russell L. Dalrymple, 26. Dalton said the 280-pound man used more than 20 aliases.

At the time of his arrest, Dalton said, Dalrymple was unarmed although he had in his possession a .45 caliber automatic, a 22 caliber pistol, a 30-30 rifle and an automatic shotgun. Dalton said Dalrymple had previously tried to run over an officer who was attempting to arrest him.

The officer said that in the past 18 months Dalrymple is known to have passed $11,000 in bogus checks. His arrest, however, was on a federal warrant from St. Paul, Minn., charging interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle.

Dalrymple was arraigned in Cedar Rapids before a U.S. commissioner who set bond at $10,000.

Dalrymple is wanted on check charges at Fremont, Neb., and Fort Dodge, Fort Madison, Keokuk and Clinton, Iowa, the FBI said.

2 Stowaways Arrive On Ship from Istanbul

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Two teen-age Turkish ballet dancers and two seamen charged with aiding and abetting stowaways were arrested Wednesday by the FBI on a ship that put in here from Istanbul.

J. M. Lopez, agent in charge of the FBI, said a mystic dance staged at sea, with the accompaniment of Indian war whoops, led to the discovery of the shapely dancers, who were hidden out in the aft gear locker of the SS Columbia Heights which docked in New Orleans Tuesday.

House Test Vote Defeats Truman Judgeship Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House took a slap at President Truman Wednesday by defeating a bill that would have let him appoint 23 new federal judges.

In the first House test vote since the President seized the steel mills and evoked some demands for his impeachment, the chamber sent the administration-backed judgeship bill back to its judiciary committee.

The action, taken by roll-call vote of 165 to 149, means that the bill probably is dead. Few bills re-committed survive to become law.

Vote Follows Party Lines
The voting that defeated the measure followed party lines with but few deviations and came after some Republicans said that now is not the time to give the President more power.

Had the bill been passed and become law, the President would have had the power to nominate the 23 judges, subject to Senate confirmation.

Keating Protests Seizure
The motion to recommit the bill, which was similar to a measure already passed by the senate, was made by Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.)

Keating said President Truman's seizure of the steel mills, an act that the New Yorker insisted was illegal, demonstrated that now is not the time to give the President additional power, even to appoint federal judges.

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) said there was no reason to believe the new judges, if appointed by President Truman, would be men of the highest integrity. Some of the President's appointees to high office, Hoffman said, have not been of that caliber.

Chairman Celler (D-N.Y.) of the judiciary committee insisted that the new judgeships are necessary because of congested court dockets.

New York Would Get 5
The bill would have permitted appointment of additional district judges in southern California, Nevada, western Washington, eastern Virginia, Colorado, Delaware, south Florida, northern and southern Indiana, northern Ohio, eastern Pennsylvania, eastern Texas, eastern Wisconsin, Alaska, middle Tennessee and Arizona. The latter two would have been temporary judgeships.

Communion for 1,000 At Church Meeting In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A holy communion service in which nearly 1,000 persons took part opened the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist church here Wednesday.

Seventy bishops filed into the civic auditorium for the ceremony as several thousand delegates and visitors watched. The communion was administered by 21 bishops, many from abroad.

At committee organization sessions which followed, the 7th delegates representing 10 million Methodists, re-elected the Rev. Dr. Lud H. Estes of Milan, Tenn., as secretary of the conference. He has served in that post since the unification of Methodism in 1939.

Wednesday night, Bishop Paul B. Kern of Nashville, Tenn., will deliver the episcopal address, a two-hour review of the state of the church and the world which took months to prepare. Gov. Earl Warren of California welcomed the delegates at the evening session and Bishop Fred P. Corson of Philadelphia, president of the council of bishops, gave the response.

Water Skiers Prepare for Trip

TESTING THEIR EQUIPMENT for their attempt today to water ski non-stop from Nassau, British West Indies, to Miami, Fla., are Bruce Parker and Evelyn Wolford, both of Amityville, N.Y. Their trip, which is expected to break the distance mark for water skiers, will cover 196 miles. The white plastic shin guards will protect them from spray. Parker wears a wooden-handled knife, which he plans to use in case a curious shark comes too close.

Safety Council Officers Elected

DES MOINES (AP)—Claude V. McBroom, director of manufacturing at Meredith Publishing company, Des Moines, was elected general chairman of the Iowa Safety Council at the final general session Wednesday of the council's annual assembly.

McBroom is the first popularly elected chairman of the council. The retiring chairman, Alfred W. Kahl, secretary-manager of the Iowa Auto Dealers association, was appointed by the board of governors.

Kahl was elected a member of the board of governors to represent state wide associations. Mrs. Blanche Allbee, Des Moines, and Howard Hill, Minburn, were re-elected to the board.
