Surly Red Prisoners Seize U.S. General In Korean Camp

Ridgway Orders Stern Action to Free Officer

PUSAN, Korea (FRIDAY) (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway has ordered the U.S. eighth army "to take whatever action is required and to use whatever force is necessary" to free Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd, a hostage of Communist prisoners of war on Koje island for more than two days.

The Red prisoners today continued to ignore an army demand for his release.

Dodd, who was sent to Koje several months ago to tighten up control of the stormy prison compounds, was seized Wednesday by hot-head Communist prisoners.

Dodd Reported Well

He was reported well. Apparently Dodd was attempting to negotiate his own release.

Eighth army headquarters said that messages from Dodd were being received by telephone from the Communist compound on Koje.

It said American-cooked meals were being passed to the general through the compound gates. Prisoners in the compound were quiet Thursday night, headquarters added.

Ridgway, who leaves Tokyo Monday to become supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe, called the seizure of Dodd a flagrant disregard of authority.

Promises Fair Treatment

He said the United Nations command had given the Communist prisoners fair treatment and would continue to do so.

He gave his stern orders to Gen. James A. Van Fleet, eighth army commander, Thursday night before ending his farewell visit to Korea.

During an airport interview, Ridgway declared:

"To meet this flagrant and fundamental defiance of United Nations authority I have authorized and directed Gen. Van Fleet to take whatever action is necessary and use whatever force is necessary to recover Gen. Dodd — we pray, unharmed — without delay . . . to establish and therefore maintain unchallenged control of all Communist prisoners of war in our custody."

Ridgway said the Red prisoners had made no ransom demands.

Another officer was seized but escaped.

Brig. Gen. Charles F. Colson, who took over as commander of the southeast Korean island stockade when Red prisoners seized Dodd, demanded release of the general.

With a robust grin, the President declared that he feels like a man of 28. And he said that once he leaves the White House next Jan. 20 he proposes to spend 10 years having a good time and doing just as he damn pleases.

Truman said he'd like to travel abroad, among other things.

Asked if he might visit Russian Premier Joseph Stalin as a private citizen, he replied that he would go nowhere and see nobody that might embarrass the next president in his conduct of foreign policy.

Truman said he had no intention at this time of throwing his support behind any one of the Democrats who hope to succeed him. But he added that, as an American citizen, he doesn't propose to gag himself if he does decide to express a preference.

Truman wouldn't talk about the steel situation, saying that's before the supreme court.

Truman Says Cuts In Defense Funds, Strikes, Help Stalin

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman called the world situation very grave Thursday. He said congress' move to cut defense spending, and the current labor-management disputes, are right down Stalin's alley.

But the President added a flat prediction that World War III will be avoided if (1) congress votes all he asks for the defense of this country and its allies, and (2) American industrial production can be kept at a high level.

Truman offered these serious thoughts in a generally good-humored news conference on the 68th birthday and the seventh anniversary of Germany's military collapse in World War II.

Truman May Get Oil Strike Problem

DENVER (AP) — Despite intensified government efforts to settle a week-old strike of oil workers, a CIO union leader in Denver declared "We intend to intensify the strike."

The oil case has not gone officially to the White House but the chairman of the wage stabilization board (WSB), Nathan P. Feinsinger, said it probably would be sent to Truman if the WSB fails to end the strike.

Meanwhile in Washington the government Thursday forbade the delivery of aviation gasoline to re-sellers or consumers who have as much as a three day supply on hand.

Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman, who took the action, said it was "a further move to conserve scarce supplies" because of the nationwide strike of oil workers which has affected roughly one third of the industry.

Beardsley to Review 1800 ROTC Students

Iowa government and military officials will attend the 68th annual Governor's day review of the SUI military department today.

Gov. William S. Beardsley, guest of honor, will review the university's 1,800 army and air force ROTC cadets at 11 a.m., then present marksmanship and other awards to individual members.

Also expected to attend the review are Lt. Gov. W. H. Nicholas; Brig. Gen. Fred C. Tandy, Iowa adjutant-general; Col. C. G. Hubbert, Chicago, representing the commanding general of the fifth army; Col. W. B. Irish, Des Moines, chief of the Iowa military district.

Col. G. A. Finley, district engineer, Rock Island; Lt. Col. Robert G. Stutzman, professor of air science and tactics, Coe college, Cedar Rapids; Sen. LeRoy S. Mercer, Iowa City, and Rep. G. M. Ludwig, Tiffin.

President Virgil M. Hancher will attend the review, as will other administrative, teaching and military officials of the university.

Invitations to the review were sent to members of the state board of education, Mayor William Holland of Iowa City, and commanders of various military and naval units in Iowa and the midwest.

The 40-piece army ROTC marching band and the Scottish Highlanders, the university's 60-woman bagpipe band, will perform at the review.

After the review, Beardsley will lunch with senior ROTC cadets and university officials. His luncheon address will be broadcast by station WSUI at 1:15 p.m.

SUI students and staff members and residents of the Iowa City area have been invited by President Hancher to witness the review in the morning and attend an open house, to be held in Beardsley's honor in the senate chamber of Old Capitol at 4 p.m.

Saturday Last Day To File Test Forms

Midnight Saturday is the deadline for mailing applications to take the national college qualification test which will be given at SUI May 22.

Prof. Robert L. Ebel, head of examinations service at SUI, said Thursday that students may obtain an application blank from any local draft board. Blanks should be mailed to Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J.

Most local boards grant student deferments for test scores of 70 or better. The special test is being given for the benefit of students who were unable to take previous deferment tests because of illness, emergencies or other reasons.

Bailey Resigns Hawkeye Post

Sally Bailey, A3, Ottumwa, Thursday resigned as business manager of Hawkeye yearbook. She was named to the post last Tuesday.

In submitting her resignation to the Board of Publications, Miss Bailey said, "I have found that I will not be able to carry the responsibility of business manager and complete the hours necessary for graduation in June of 1953 and it is impossible for me to continue college after this date."

Tuesday Filing Deadline

The Board of Publications announced that it will accept applications until next Tuesday noon and expects to make the appointment later that day.

Applications should be submitted to the office of the school of journalism, N2, East hall.

Candidates must have demonstrated executive ability and must have good scholastic standing in the university. Experience on Hawkeye is not necessary.

To be eligible for the post, a student must have 78 semester hours or more of credit at the beginning of the first semester of the 1952-53 school year and must also be of senior standing during the second semester of that academic year.

Registrar's Note Required

The applications which should be written, must include a letter from the registrar certifying good scholastic standing, and stating cumulative grade point average through the first semester of 1951-52.

The Board of Publications will interview applicants after reviewing applications.

Miss Bailey was named business manager at the same time Donald Wallace, A3, Venetia, Penn., was chosen editor of the yearbook.

Young Demos to Attend Meeting at Cedar Rapids

About 45 members of the SUI Young Democrats will attend a state convention of the organization in Cedar Rapids today and Saturday.

Transportation for those who wish to attend will be available at 7 p.m. today and at 8:30 Saturday at the south door of Schaeffer hall.

New Editor Congratulated

Waterloo Man To Take Over Duties June 1

William Clabby, A3, Waterloo, Thursday night was announced as editor of The Daily Iowan for the 1952-53 school year. The announcement was made at Matrix Table, annual journalism awards banquet.

Clabby, a journalism major and Iowan reporter this semester, will take over his new post about June 1. He succeeds James MacNair, G, Iowa City.

The new editor is expected to choose a staff within the next two weeks.

The other editor candidates were Jack Bender, A3, Waterloo, and Phil O'Connor, A3, Sharon, Wis.

Associate Editor

Clabby transferred to SUI last fall from Iowa State Teachers college, where he served as associate editor of the student paper.

Wayne A. Danielson, Burlington, received the Brewer-Torch Press Key as the outstanding senior in journalism. The award was presented by Prof. Leslie G. Moller, director of the school of journalism.

Danielson was also awarded the Sigma Delta Chi certificate as the top male graduate in journalism. Phil O'Connor, newly-elected president of the SUI chapter of the national journalistic fraternity, made the presentation.

Named as the outstanding senior woman in journalism was Jacqueline M. Malloy, A4, Marshalltown, who received the Iowa Press Woman, Inc., award. Mrs. Wilma Collins, Grimes, a member of the association, gave the presentation, which included a $25 government bond.

Several journalism students received recognition for work on The Daily Iowan and at station WSUI during the past year.

Meyer Gets Award

Daily Iowan Staff Writer Joseph Meyer, A4, Iowa City, won the top J. Hamilton Johnson memorial award and $25 for excellence in reporting in connection with the vote for revaluation of real estate in Iowa City.

Prof. Walter Steigleman of the school of journalism, in presenting the award, said Meyer and The Daily Iowan were instrumental in bringing about the revaluation.

Others winning J. Hamilton Johnson awards were Staff Writer Ron Valline, A3, Story City, second place for political reporting, and Copyreader Robert Hess, A4, Schleswig, third place, for student council reporting. Hess was a reporter at the time he covered the council.

Miss Malloy, WSUI managing editor, won the top WHO radio news award and $20 for excellence in news bureau management.

Anderson Honored

Also receiving WHO awards were Alice M. Anderson, A4, Klemme, WSUI city editor, for excellence in city news coverage, and Charles A. Burdick, A4, Des Moines, for excellence in news-writing.

The awards were $15 each and were presented by Harold Jahnke of the staff of radio station WHO, Des Moines.

The Cedar Rapids Gazette Cup for Photography went to Charles Dorroh, who was a Daily Iowan staff photographer last summer. It was given by Jean Strong of the Gazette staff.

Frank Interlandi, A4, Elmhurst, Ill., received a certificate for consistent excellence in Daily Iowan cartoons. Steigleman presented the award.

Keys for service on campus publications were given to the following by the Board of Publications:

Iowa Youth Released From Texas Prison

AUSTIN, TEX. (AP) — Herbert Fletcher, the 15-year-old boy sent to prison as an adult, was free to return to his Iowa farm home Thursday.

His mother, Mrs. Edna Fletcher, of Onawa, Ia., won his freedom after 12 days of tussling the entanglements of Texas laws. Acting Gov. Ben Ramsey approved a conditional pardon recommended by the state pardons board.

George McBurney Chosen Iowa Law Review Editor

George McBurney, L3, Council Bluffs, was named editor-in-chief of the 1952-53 Iowa Law Review and George Feiwel, L3, Chicago, was presented as new president of the Law Student association at a banquet Thursday night, concluding Supreme Court day activities here.

Approximately 420 students, faculty, alumni and honored guests attended the three-hour dinner in the Iowa Memorial Union.

Portraits of Henry Shull, Sioux City attorney who served 25 years on the state board of education, and Prof. Clarence M. Updegraff, for the past 25 years a faculty member of the college of law, were presented to SUI.

Appellee Wins Case

Chief Justice G. K. Thompson of the Iowa Supreme Court announced that Wayne A. Brooks, Davenport, and Walter F. Johnson, Chillicothe, Mo., attorneys for the appellee in a hypothetical appeal case argued before the Iowa supreme court at 2 p.m., had won the decision.

Certificates were presented to them and to Albert C. McClain, L4, Iowa City, and McBurney, attorneys for the appellant.

These men were selected to argue on the basis of their work in two years of competition in Law club arguments and upon their scholastic standing.

Rider Gets Honorary Award

Earlier in the day, eight senior law students were initiated into the Order of Coif, law honor society, in ceremonies held in Old Capitol. Judge Dwight G. Rider, Fort Dodge, was made an honorary member of Coif and also addressed the society.

Other staff members to serve on next year's Iowa Law Review, published quarterly by Iowa law

No Honest Sweat Here

BALTIMORE (AP) — There can be a lot of hard work connected with grand larceny.

Somebody—or bodies—broke into an equipment shed belonging to the Essex Construction company sometime during the early morning hours and hauled away:

One electric planer.
One saw table.
Three electric hand saws.
Sixty-one kegs of nails.

A company official said the nails alone weighed more than three tons. He estimated value of the loot at about $1,269.

Dodd Seizure Clouds Issues At Panmunjom

MUNSAN, KOREA (FRIDAY) (AP) — Korean truce talks, near collapse over prisoner exchange, were clouded further today with the seizure of Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd by Red war prisoners on Koje island.

Communist negotiators are already angry over the large number of Allied-held prisoners who won't return to Red soil. They are expected to use the incident for new charges that the Allies mistreat prisoners.

The news that Dodd, Koje island commander, was seized Wednesday reached here at a time when the negotiating atmosphere was electric and no new sparks were needed. Dodd still is held hostage.

Spokesman Declines Comment

A UN command spokesman declined comment on what use he thought the Red truce negotiators would make of Dodd's seizure.

It is unlikely that any Red reaction will come so soon as Saturday's session of the armistice negotiations.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway Thursday paid a farewell visit to this truce camp but declined to say what he thought now of prospects for an armistice. Neither would his successor, Gen. Mark Clark, who accompanied Ridgway and Gen. James A. Van Fleet, U.S. eighth army commander.

Ridgway Leaves For Europe

Ridgway quits his United Nations command in the far east Monday and will leave to take over as commander of Allied Powers in Europe, succeeding General Eisenhower.

Clark, who takes command when Ridgway leaves, replied when correspondents asked his views on armistice prospects: "I'm thoroughly confused. I'm getting briefed, and one of these days I will begin to have some opinion."

Communist delegates Thursday accused the Allies of refusing to negotiate on the crucial issue of prisoner exchange.

Yet they brushed aside a second United Nations command request for an indefinite recess and called for another session today.

Allied Planes Blast Red Supply Base

SEOUL (AP) — Allied warplanes Thursday turned a big North Korea base into flaming ruin with the mightiest air blow of the entire Korean war, the fifth air force said.

The crushing dawn to dusk aerial assault followed by only 24 hours big Allied tank raids along the restless, 155-mile Korean front. Both sides appeared on edge as the armistice talks mired deeper in stalemate.

The base that felt the fury of Allied air power was Suan, a big supply complex 35 miles southeast of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital. It covers eight square miles.

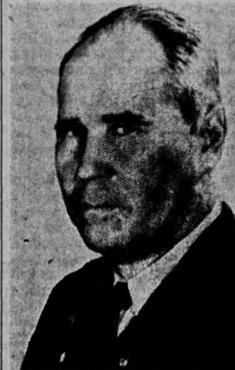

Apparently in response to distress calls from Suan, the Communists sent two flights of MIG-15 jet fighter down to challenge the attackers, but they were met by a protecting screen of U.S. Sabres and some Australian Meteor jets.

May Magazine X Sales Total 2,600 To Date

Magazine X announced Thursday 2,600 copies of the May issue have been sold so far.

The issue is expected to be on most newsstands for another week. Sales of the April issue — the first issue — totaled more than 3,000.

The June issue is scheduled to appear May 21.

Washington Is Nothing New To McGranery

AP Newsfeature

James P. McGranery is the Philadelphia lawyer who plans to give up a life-time seat on the federal bench for the "hot seat" job of U. S. attorney general in the wake of the recent sensational shakeup in the department of justice.

He's 56, a soft-spoken, neat, medium-sized man who would retire from his job as U. S. district judge for eastern Pennsylvania, a post to which President Truman appointed him in 1946.

McGranery has spent 10 years in official Washington. In 1936 he was elected to the first of his four terms as a congressman from the Philadelphia district. In congress he was a member of the important ways and means committee.

He is experienced in the work of the attorney general's office too, having served from 1943 to 1946 as assistant to the attorney general. In that post one of his duties was supervision of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Financial Problem Threatens Prospect Of TV in Colleges

NEW YORK (CP) — Now that the Federal Communications Commission has opened the floodgates and the first rush of enthusiasm over the expected expansion of television has passed, potential commercial broadcasters and the educators with a yen to run stations are suddenly given to painful second thoughts.

This is not to say that there is a lack of demand for the channels now made available by the FCC. Quite the contrary. However, the picture is developing some dark spots and the increasingly complex economic situation of television isn't helping any.

Commercial broadcasters are beginning to realize what it means to have to transmit in the ultra high frequency bands where ordinary receivers need an adapter to bring in the programs. That little gadget may run from $10 to $50.

Hearings Will Take Months
Also, where there is competition for a channel, it may take months and possibly a year or two before the FCC concludes hearings and makes up its mind to whom the frequency shall be assigned.

Educational institutions, whose spokesmen have clamored for exclusive channels devoted to spreading pure culture over the air, are showing a little pale color under a still exuberant exterior. Unless they pick up the options on their frequencies within one short year, the bands revert to the commercial broadcasters.

The educators are just beginning to consider the TV proposition in a half-way realistic light. Their accountants tell them that running a non-commercial station spells out "LOSS" in capital letters. Many institutions don't care for that prospect.

Here is what the FCC did: It provided for 2,053 new television stations in 1,291 cities. A good many of these outlets will be operating in the 70 ultra high bands just opened to television. The 108 stations now on the air in the very high frequency field will continue, but some channels are reassigned.

242 Educational Channels
A generous 242 channels — 33 more than originally proposed — were reserved exclusively for non-commercial, educational TV stations, with the understanding that unless applied for within a year, they would be lost to the educators by default. This allocation was made over the strenuous objection of the commercial broadcasters who feel they are better equipped to do the job.

Then the commission did something that considerably dampened the ardor of the proponents of culture TV. It decided that no educational station could operate on a commercial basis, not even part-time.

One university promptly announced that it would file for commercial rather than non-commercial facilities since, under such circumstances, it could not afford the upkeep of a station.

Expense Is Big Factor
Economic factors militate against the establishment of educational stations. Such an outlet costs about $350,000 to build and equip. It costs anywhere from $500 to $1,000 a day to run. And it must put on the air a minimum of 28 program-hours a week.

Because it carries the "non-commercial" tag, the station can not carry any sponsored shows, even if they are public events of national interest.

Significantly, even though there has been much talk about educational TV stations, only one such station is on the air. It is run by Iowa State college, which has a commercial license.

Only 24 Have Funds
Of the more than 8,000 educational institutions that have expressed an interest in TV, only 24 so far have come up with the funds necessary to run their own stations.

In New York state, where an 11-station educational network is proposed, the board of regents is suddenly talking about TV in a whisper where a few months ago it roared with enthusiasm.

Speculation is ripe on what lifting of the FCC's three-and-a-half year old ban on TV station construction will mean in the long run. Certainly, it will bring television to every part of the country, but it will mean little to the large cities that now already have television service.

There have been no applicants so far for New York's sole UHF channel. Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles will be the top TV cities with 10 channels each as against New York's eight.

As the networks grow, costs will go up, perhaps beyond the point where any one advertiser can afford them. On the other hand, with strength in numbers, TV may finally reach the point where it can come up with the dowry necessary for that long-advertised marriage with the Hollywood competition.

Interpreting the News — Truman Actually Worried About Funds, Resources

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

President Truman has a long record of optimistic off-the-cuff statements about international affairs. When he, in turn, says they are grave, he can expect to be taken at his word.

Once we were "nearer peace" than two years ago. Sometimes he has been "always optimistic." These expressions have always been made against the background of determination to do the hard things — rearm, fight in Korea, contain Soviet aggression.

Success of Program
It is only natural that optimism should be the President's mien when he is discussing the success of this program, and that he should adopt gravity when congress or the Allies are interfering with it.

At the moment, congress is in the process of denying some of the funds he thinks he needs, and labor-management disputes threaten vital defense resources. The context of his remarks, his statement that these things play into the hands of Stalin, show clearly that these are the things uppermost in his mind now.

It is also true that the Allies are now entering what they have long expected to be the critical period of the rearmament program. The next 18 to 24 months will see the end of the time when Russia might hope to conduct a successful war under present conditions. The odds all seem to be that if Russia does not strike within this period, she will have to take years organizing her eastern European and Asiatic satellites for a vastly greater effort than would be required now.

Change of Objectives
That would mean, very probably, that the time for a change of regime in Russia due to the deaths of Stalin and other top leaders of the moment would be bridged by a time of enforced military idleness and a time of opportunity for change in Russian objectives. The purchase of time for these changes, coupled with the hope that improved Russian economic conditions would reduce the pressure for continued expansion at the expense of others, has been a fundamental concept of the containment program. Everything now depends, therefore, on whether Russia's leaders will submit to this process, or whether they will take the last long chance while it still exists.

The pressure on Russia for what she would term a "preventive" war is going to be very great as she sees the power of West Germany being added to the growing Allied strength.

Not only is it a time of gravity. The very air is likely to scream with tension before the die is finally cast.

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP) — The U. S. army announced Wednesday American troops in West Germany now have new M-41 Patton II medium tanks. They are hailed by ordnance experts as the most maneuverable tanks in the world. The 48.5-ton tanks, reportedly capable of traveling 35 miles an hour, were named after the late Gen. George S. Patton Jr.

ACTRESS Marilyn Monroe stretches for the last time in her hospital bed in Hollywood before leaving for her home. She underwent an appendectomy a week ago. She'll get a four-week rest before making a picture at Niagara Falls.

CHICAGO (CP) — If the demand for political buttons is an indication, the current presidential campaign shapes up as the hottest in history.

Three concerns here whose production accounts for the overwhelming majority of lapel insignia which will be donned by enthusiastic partisans during the next few months are pouring out hundreds of millions of colorful buttons with catchy phrases.

The informal "straw vote" of orders puts Eisenhower and Taft far in the lead of the GOP, and reveals Keafauer as setting a blistering pace among the Democrats.

Two companies each are in the third million of "I Like Ike," and report that Taft supporters are matching Eisenhower's boosters order for order. They are being shipped into every corner of the United States.

Substantial support also is apparent for MacArthur, Warren and Stassen, while the withdrawal of Truman brought an instant boom for Russell and Stevenson colors.

Demand Increasing
Regardless of what the oldsters may say about current campaigns lacking the hoopla of the old-time political shows, the button makers report that the demand for lapel emblems has been steadily increasing and today surpasses anything in the past.

They acknowledge that present-day buttons may be less elaborate, blaming it on assembly lines which put a premium on simplicity of design.

Red, white and blue is almost standard now, the only marked departures so far being Taft orders for black and orange, which rates high as an eye-catching combination, and the Keafauer bend-over lapel tab shaped like a coonskin cap.

Slogans Standardized
Since the producers can hardly afford to set their machinery in motion for orders of less than 25,000, the trend is toward standardizing on a few set slogans early in the campaign.

"I Like Ike" now is "official" for Eisenhower, while Taft adherents still plug for "Taft for US." "Win With Taft," and "America Needs Taft," this last slogan being about as long as can be crowded in. About half the buttons bear portraits of the candidates.

The modern era seems to date from the early '30s when the process for stamping out millions of buttons from enameled metal sheets was perfected. The big producers now can punch press about 2,000 plates an hour, each bearing nearly 80 impressions, indicating how fast this "currency of the campaign" can be coined.

Celluloid Used in Past
Before that, the slower and more laborious process of making celluloid insignia was used. However, the designs in those days often were more elaborate and original.

The cost of modern buttons runs about $15 in lots of 25,000, and scales down to $7.50 when the quantities soar to a quarter of a million. One company alone expects to make 200 million buttons for all sides during the next four months.

Between campaigns they turn out membership badges for unions, and supply Red Cross and scores of philanthropic drives.

Take Matter Seriously
They take their unique role in the political campaigning seriously, and resist novelty — buttons which may be in bad taste, the "No Me Too, in '52" being about as pungent as they care to get.

What becomes of the buttons after the excitement is all over? There is a hobby of collecting them, since no matter how many millions are produced, they seem to become scarce collectors' items almost the moment the winner is determined.

The button-makers are pestered with requests for old buttons, but can be of little assistance. "To us they are like yesterday's newspaper," one explained. "We never catch up with the demand while they're hot, and then, suddenly, it is all over."

Button Sales Reflect Campaign Results

CHICAGO (CP) — If the demand for political buttons is an indication, the current presidential campaign shapes up as the hottest in history.

Three concerns here whose production accounts for the overwhelming majority of lapel insignia which will be donned by enthusiastic partisans during the next few months are pouring out hundreds of millions of colorful buttons with catchy phrases.

The informal "straw vote" of orders puts Eisenhower and Taft far in the lead of the GOP, and reveals Keafauer as setting a blistering pace among the Democrats.

Two companies each are in the third million of "I Like Ike," and report that Taft supporters are matching Eisenhower's boosters order for order. They are being shipped into every corner of the United States. Substantial support also is apparent for MacArthur, Warren and Stassen, while the withdrawal of Truman brought an instant boom for Russell and Stevenson colors.

Demand Increasing
Regardless of what the oldsters may say about current campaigns lacking the hoopla of the old-time political shows, the button makers report that the demand for lapel emblems has been steadily increasing and today surpasses anything in the past.

They acknowledge that present-day buttons may be less elaborate, blaming it on assembly lines which put a premium on simplicity of design.

Interpreting the News -

Truman Actually Worried About Funds, Resources

By J. M. ROBERTS JR. Associated Press News Analyst

President Truman has a long record of optimistic off-the-cuff statements about international affairs. When he, in turn, says they are grave, he can expect to be taken at his word.

Once we were "nearer peace" than two years ago. Sometimes he has been "always optimistic." These expressions have always been made against the background of determination to do the hard things - disarm, fight in Korea, contain Soviet aggression.

Success of Program

It is only natural that optimism should be the President's mien when he is discussing the success of this program, and that he should adopt gravity when congress or the Allies are interfering with it.

At the moment, congress is in the process of denying some of the funds he thinks he needs, and labor-management disputes threaten vital defense resources. The context of his remarks, his statement that these things play into the hands of Stalin, show clearly that these are the things uppermost in his mind now.

It is also true that the Allies are now entering what they have long expected to be the critical period of the rearmament program. The next 18 to 24 months will see the end of the time when Russia might hope to conduct a successful war under present conditions. The odds all seem to be that if Russia does not strike within this period, she will have to take years organizing her eastern European and Asiatic satellites for a vastly greater effort than would be required now.

Change of Objectives

That would mean, very probably, that the time for a change of regime in Russia due to the deaths of Stalin and other top leaders of the moment would be bridged by a time of enforced military idleness and a time of opportunity for change in Russian objectives. The purchase of time for these changes, coupled with the hope that improved Russian economic conditions would reduce the pressure for continued expansion at the expense of others, has been a fundamental concept of the containment program.

Everything now depends, therefore, on whether Russia's leaders will submit to this process, or whether they will take the last long chance while it still exists.

The pressure on Russia for what she would term a "preventive" war is going to be very great as she sees the power of West Germany being added to the growing Allied strength.

Not only is it a time of gravity. The very air is likely to scream with tension before the die is finally cast.

TROOPS GET NEW TANKS

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP) - The U. S. army announced Wednesday American troops in West Germany now have new M-4 Patton II medium tanks. They are hailed by ordnance experts as the most maneuverable tanks in the world. The 46.5-ton tanks, reportedly capable of traveling 35 miles an hour, were named after the late Gen. George S. Patton Jr.

Financial Problem Threatens Prospect Of TV in Colleges

NEW YORK (CP) - Now that the Federal Communications Commission has opened the floodgates and the first rush of enthusiasm over the expected expansion of television has passed, potential commercial broadcasters and the educators with a yen to run stations are suddenly given to painful second thoughts. This is not to say that there is a lack of demand for the channels now made available by the FCC. Quite the contrary. However, the picture is developing some dark spots and the increasingly complex economic situation of television isn't helping any.

Commercial broadcasters are beginning to realize what it means to have to transmit in the ultra high frequency bands where ordinary receivers need an adapter to bring in the programs. That little gadget may run from $10 to $50. Hearings Will Take Months. Also, where there is competition for a channel, it may take months and possibly a year or two before the FCC concludes hearings and makes up its mind to whom the frequency shall be assigned.

Educational institutions, whose spokesmen have clamored for exclusive channels devoted to spreading pure culture over the air, are showing a little pale color under a still exuberant exterior. Unless they pick up the options on their frequencies within one short year, the bands revert to the commercial broadcasters. The educators are just beginning to consider the TV proposition as a

Rice's Injury 'Indefinite'

By JIM COOKE

Halfback Dusty Rice still is listed as a doubtful starter for Saturday's intrasquad spring football scrimmage. Rice, who injured his knee in last Tuesday's drill, was examined by Iowa trainer Doyle Allsup Thursday evening and the verdict is "still indefinite."

Allsup said, however, that the injury is coming along much better than expected and no permanent effects are expected for the blond Oelwein star, who in addition to his football duties is one of the standouts on coach Don Klotz's fine tennis team.

Rice had been counted on heavily for Saturday afternoon's game between the Blacks and the Golds which will wind up Iowa's spring football drills. He had been listed as a starter in the Blacks' backfield along with veterans Burt Britzmann, Bobby Stearnes and Bernie Bennett.

The 75-man squad ran through signal drills Thursday afternoon in preparation for the contest that will give Hawkeye followers their first view of Coach Forest Evanski's Michigan-styled single wing offense.

The Gold team worked under the direction of assistant coaches Whitey Piro and Wally Schwank and featured a backfield of Paul Kemp, Chuck Daniels, Don Inman and Bob Keefe.

Saturday's scrimmage will begin at three o'clock at the stadium and will be conducted as a regular game with kickoffs and extra points. Admission will be free to all students and faculty with ID cards and regular I-club members.

Face 9 Events

The only outdoor home appearance of the track team. Hawkeyes beat Wisconsin last Saturday for the first time in history.

After the track meet, the final scrimmage of the football squad, closing spring drill, will take place in the stadium. Students, staff and "I" club members will be admitted free and others will pay one dollar.

Indiana, Purdue Diamond Hosts

A chance to rise in the conference baseball race will confront the University of Iowa team in its games with Indiana and Purdue this weekend.

The Hawkeyes now have a 2-4 record. Indiana will be host in a Friday game at Bloomington and Purdue will be the opponent in a Saturday double-header at Lafayette.

The Hoosiers and Boilermakers rank just below Iowa in the standing, each with 1-5 records, for a tie for the bottom spot.

Iowa fell just short of an even break in six games when Ed Lindsey lost a one-hitter to Michigan State. In the seven-inning second game of last Saturday's double-header, Lindsey had a no-hit game with one out in the seventh when a Spartan hit a triple and later scored on a long fly to centerfield.

The team has beaten Minnesota and Michigan State and lost two to Minnesota, one to Michigan and another to Michigan State. Failure to hit with men on base is one of the factors leading to Iowa's losses, although errors gave Michigan unearned runs.

Top hitter still is Ed Lindsey, pitcher and outfielder, with 51. Catcher Bill Vana has 324 and Duane Brandt 308. The team average is .235. Brandt with 10 and Tom Stenger and Lindsey with 8 lead in runs batted in. Lindsey's team fielding average is .957.

Diehl, lanky pitcher, has a record for conference games for the season. Lindsey (Diehl) has allowed 31 hits in 18 innings and Lindsey was 18 hits and only 6 runs in 32 innings.

Makeup May 20 For All Seniors Who Missed Exam

Dean Dewey B. Stuit, college of liberal arts, has sent letters to all seniors who did not take the graduate record examination battery April 29 and offered no reason for being absent.

A makeup examination will be given May 20 at 1 p.m. in room 111A Schaeffer hall. Students taking the makeup examination will be required to pay $2, a special rate worked out with the Educational Testing Service. The fee, in the form of a check or money order, should be made payable to the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J., and not to SUI.

Students who receive letters are requested to report to room 103 Schaeffer hall to explain their absence or to arrange for taking the makeup.

The letter stated that the registrar is being asked not to clear seniors for graduation until the examination requirement has been satisfied.

Rites to Be Saturday For C. Gallagher, 57

Funeral services for Clarence Gallagher, 57, 1018 Diana st., owner of the Gallagher Machine and auto repair shop, will be held Saturday at 3 p.m. at Beckman's. Mr. Gallagher died Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Veteran's hospital. He was a World War I veteran and a member of the American Legion chapter.

He was born on June 11, 1894, in Chicago, Ill., the son of Anthony and Salina Fowles Gallagher. The family lived in Johnson county during his boyhood and moved to Iowa City, when he was 19.

He married Frances Fisher on February 27, 1929, at Aledo, Ill. His wife is his only survivor. Dr. L. L. Dunnington will officiate at the services and burial will be in Memory gardens.

Voters Must Register By May 23 to Vote

Persons who have not yet registered to vote in the primary election June 3 have only until May 23 to register.

This is in accordance with a law which states that all voters must register at least 10 days before the election.

Iowa City residents should register at the clerk's office on the first floor of City hall. The office is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. It is open Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon.

To be eligible to vote, a person must be 21 years of age, have been a resident of Iowa for six months, a resident of this county 60 days, and a resident of his present precinct 10 days.

Methodist Students Will Show Movie

A motion picture, "Seeds of Destiny," will be shown at the weekly meeting of the single students of the Methodist church at 5 p.m. Sunday in the main lounge of Wesley house.

The picture is designed to provoke discussion of the sociological problems which face Christians today.

At the same hour in the north lounge Wesley supper club, married student group, will hear the Rev. Robert Sanks speak on "You and Your Church at Work."

Art Guild to Show Prize-Winning Film

The Student Art Guild will present the film "Man of Aran" tonight at 8 p.m. in the Shambaugh lecture room of the University library.

The motion picture has been awarded a "gold cup" at the Venice exposition and was termed "best film of the year" by the British film critics. Its director is Robert Flaherty, who previously produced "Louisiana Story" and "Nanook of the North."

40 Attend the Electrical Engineering Institute

Prof. E. B. Kurtz, department of electrical engineering, and three engineering students are attending the annual meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at the Michigan School of Mines and Technology, Houghton, Mich., today and Saturday.

Kurtz is counselor of the local student branch and is also senior member of the student activities committee of the Great Lakes district of the Institute.

Gary Moon, E4, Des Moines, local branch chairman will present the annual report on the SUI student branch of the Institute. C. E. Smith Jr., E4, Fort Madison, will enter a study entitled "Extra High Voltage Transmission," in the technical paper contest.

SUI's contest entrant ranked third place last year and the previous year the SUI representative won first prize.

James Culhane, E4, Des Moines, will also attend the meeting.

Iowa Justices Attend Supreme Court Day

(Daily Iowan Photo)

AMONG THOSE ATTENDING SUI'S Supreme Court day Thursday were, from left, Leo W. Baker, L4, Muscatine, chairman of the Supreme Court day committee; Judge Dwight G. Rider, Fort Dodge, who was made an honorary member of the Order of Coif, law honor fraternity; Justices Charles F. Wennerstrum, Ralph A. Oliver and W. A. Smith of the Iowa supreme court, and W. Stuart Charlton, L4, Manchester, a member of the committee. Eight senior law students were initiated into the Order of Coif at ceremonies held in Old Capitol.

3 SUI Grads to Run Stock Theater Group

Three SUI graduates Robert Sporre, Ray Beckett, and Ross Vaughn, will operate a summer stock theater group, to be known as the Ethan Allen Players, in Brandon, Vt., this summer. The group will present nine plays in the same number of weeks and will be the first summer stock presented in the area. Sporre will act as director.

Beckett is to be the technical director and will be responsible for designing, building, and lighting a different stage setting each week, and Vaughn will be company manager and serve as the group's leading man.

Sporre's theater experience was obtained here, at Grinnell college, at the Yale Drama school, as technical director of the Weisbaden Opera house in Germany, and in New York. In New York he studied dance under Anna Sokolow, Katherine Dunham, and Hanya Holm.

Beckett, a native of Sioux City, has done stage managing at the SUI theater and worked on the technical staff of campus shows. In New York he has done lighting effects for a Christopher Fry play, "Boy with a Cart," and a series of Saroyan plays. He has worked as stage manager for Kauffmann auditorium and has acted as technical advisor for productions at Brooklyn college.

Vaughn has appeared in productions at SUI and at Mason City high school. He received his BSC degree here in 1949. He has been on TV shows and has appeared in roles at the Cherry Lane theater. He has studied with Howard da Silva and Morris Carnovsky in New York.

Gene Kenny, A3, Ridgewood N. J. has been elected president of Roger Williams fellowship, student group of the Baptist church, for the year 1952-53.

He will take office in the fall. Other members of the committee elected Sunday are: vice-president and program chairman, James Taggart, A2, Des Moines; vice-president and contact chairman, Mary Lou Newnam, N1, Des Moines; secretary, Joan Crowley; treasurer, David Wik, A1, Sioux City.

The fellowship will be in charge of the Morning Chapel on WSUI May 12. The theme of the chapel will be "Making Christ Personal Matter," and a series of devotional studies.

Scholarship Awards

SDX scholarship awards to students in the top 5 per cent of the senior class went to Robert K. Hennesy, Cedar Rapids; Danielson, and Don Steffen, who graduated in February. James Morrison of the school of journalism announced the awards.

Introduced at the banquet were new Hawkeye Editor Donald Wallace and James Bowermaster, A3, Fairfield, business manager of Magazine X, campus humor magazine.

Also introduced were several winners of journalism awards made during the past year, new members of the Board of Publications and new officers of campus journalism groups.

Sponsor of the banquet was Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism fraternity.

$100 in Back Rent Asked in Petition

A $100 suit for back rent was filed in Johnson county district court Wednesday by Frank J. Bittner against Vincent R. Driscoll and Central States Steel, Inc. Prior to Jan. 1, 1952, Bittner said he orally leased to Driscoll part of a building in Solon as a business site for the Driscoll Heating company.

According to the petition the two agreed to $20 a month rent, in advance.

The plaintiff further states that no rent has been paid for January to May, inclusive, and seeks judgment of $100, interest, court costs, and asks a writ of attachment issued for enforcement.

SWISS BELL RINGERS

nationally known novelty musicians, will present a unique concert of sacred music at the FIRST METHODIST CHURCH, corner of Jefferson and Dubuque Streets, Iowa City, Iowa, Saturday, May 10th — 7:30 p.m.

The Mason Swiss Bell Ringers, who have presented concerts in almost every state during the past 20 years, are nationally famous for their interpretation of sacred music on many novel instruments. Their program will consist of familiar hymns and gospel songs played on instruments rarely heard on any entertainment platform. Some of the instruments they use include glasses, singing saw, Jenkins Vibrarap, piccolo sheep bells, and the world's largest set of triple octave chimes, and the instrument of mystery, the Victor Theremin. The latter instrument has no keyboard, strings, reeds, or pipes, and plays without being touched. Admission Free—Offering.

Air Force Offering 2-Year Enlistments

All SUI men students interested in enlisting in the air force as a pilot or air observer are urged to contact the recruiting officer in the Iowa City post office immediately. The recruiter is in Iowa City on Monday and Thursday.

The air force said Thursday students with two years of college may enlist in the service now for two years. Students who wish to take the mental and physical examinations will be forwarded to an air force base at government expense.

After they return they will be notified within three weeks if they have been accepted. Air force officials say students who take advantage of this offer will be in flight training within two months after their enlistment.
