Spud Shortage Hits Potato Belt

AFTER CUSTOMERS griped for weeks about being served rice instead of scarce potatoes, the proprietor of this Littleton, N.H., restaurant obtained 50 pounds of spuds out of a 500-pound order. He celebrated by offering a baked potato for $1.39 with the rest of the dinner tossed in "free." Waitresses Rita Leonard (left) and Julia MacDougall hold sample plates containing the precious tubers. Littleton is in the center of the Connecticut valley potato area.

Military Pay Hike Bill Approved by President

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than three million men and women in uniform got a raise Tuesday when the White House announced that President Truman has signed a bill increasing military pay and allowances by $484 million a year.

Everybody from buck private to five-star general gets a 4 percent boost in base pay beginning this month.

Allowances for food and rent in the armed services go up 14 percent.

The increases were voted by congress to help offset higher living costs. They apply to all ranks in the army, navy, air force and marine corps, including retired personnel.

They also extend to cadets at West Point, midshipmen at Annapolis, aviation cadets and members of the public health service, the coast guard and the coast and geodetic survey. In all, an estimated 3½ million persons are affected.

Under the new law, the raises range from $3 a month for privates and seamen to $65 for two-star generals and rear admirals, the equivalent flag rank in the navy.

Most low-ranking enlisted men have no dependents and their food and lodging is furnished by the government. Consequently they will not be affected by the increase in allowances. For enlisted personnel with dependents, the monthly increase in pay and allowances will range from $13 to $19.

While the bill was in congress the senate voted to give an extra $45 a month combat pay to participants in the Korean fighting and veterans of the action there.

Staffers Slant Magazine's Content to Conform To Survey of SUI Student Opinion

This year's final issue of Magazine X, an experimental campus humor magazine, goes on sale today. Its price: 10 cents.

The magazine will appear in its tabloid form, unique among campus humor magazines, which has been used to cut production costs and keep a humor magazine in existence at SUI.

Staff members say that today's issue is the best this year. They reveal that they have tried to incorporate those features that students favored in a campus survey of opinion about the new magazine.

New Outbreak of 'Undie' Raids Sparks College Riots, Brawls

By The Associated Press

Spring madness swept another batch of college campuses Monday night, turning thousands of feverish young men into baying, brawling panty raiders.

Nearly a dozen schools witnessed riots or near-riots as the males stormed coed dormitories in search of sexy souvenirs. It was the biggest outbreak yet in the snowballing weeks-old fad.

The panty raids, weirdest collegiate fad since the goldfish swallowing 1930's, have been blamed by psychiatrists on everything from sex to simple-mindedness.

Some 3,000 Missouri students went wild on their own campus and then raided two nearby girls' schools, Stephens and Christian colleges.

The four hour rampage left many windows broken. The students reportedly looted furniture, bedding and even jewelry and money.

Panties were reported stripped from the person of at least one girl. Police said a group of girl students trapped a boy on a fire escape and stripped him of his clothes, returning his pants only after he begged for mercy.

At Boulder, Colo., Robert Bakko, 20, of Des Moines, Iowa, broke his hip as 1,500 Colorado men stormed girls' sorority houses and dormitories.

Firecrackers exploded during a three-hour siege of girls' dorms by 1,000 University of Alabama men. Police arrested 10 students, but coeds egged the men on and a few tossed out panties as bait.

State police were called to aid local cops at Burlington, Vt., when 600 University of Vermont men roamed the campus. Rocks and tear gas filled the air and at least two students were injured. Others were locked up in jail by the carload.

Coeds sparked a fairly good natured demonstration at Northwestern university by serenading in front of men's dormitories. Some 1,000 males responded with a panty raid on the girls' residences.

Pickings were scarce at the University of Minnesota where 500 students netted only four bras, four pairs of pants, one silk slip.

More than 1,000 panty-intrigued University of Wisconsin men made their way into three coed halls but there were no incidents.

Professor Gets Grant For Hydraulics Study At French University

Prof. Hunter Rouse, director of the institute of hydraulic research at SUI, has been notified by the state department that he has been awarded a Fulbright research scholarship at the University of Grenoble, France, for the 1952-53 academic year.

Rouse and his family plan to leave for Europe early in August. After establishing residence in Grenoble, he plans to travel to Istanbul, Turkey, for the Eighth International Congress for Applied Mechanics, Aug. 20-28. There he is expected to present a paper based on an investigation conducted for the U.S. navy's office of naval research.

Plans Hydraulic Research

During the coming year he will conduct research in turbulent diffusion and sediment transportation at the University of Grenoble and the nearby Neyric hydraulic laboratory, the largest of its kind in Europe.

In anticipation of his work there, the faculty of sciences of the University of Grenoble recently elected Rouse exchange professor.

He has been professor of fluid mechanics at SUI since 1939. He held earlier teaching and research positions with Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Columbia University and California Institute of Technology.

5 European Trips

The August trip will be Rouse's fifth visit to Europe. He spent two and one half years in post-graduate study at Karlsruhe, Germany, following graduation from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The Rouses expect to return to Iowa City in time for the opening of the 1953-54 academic year.

Western Union Offers Strikers 7-Cent Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western Union Telegraph company offered its striking workers an average raise of seven cents an hour Tuesday but made the boost contingent on a rate increase to pay for it.

The offer also was made dependent upon union agreement to drop the union shop clause, provisions for overtime pay for weekend work, and some other items of the old contracts.

There was no sign the Commercial Telegraphers union would accept the formula but the parties were called together again by the federal mediation and conciliation service.

It was the first cash offer from the company so far reported in the negotiations to end the 48-day walkout by about 31,000 employees. Up till Tuesday the company had insisted that negotiations on the amount of a pay raise wait until rates had gone up.

The workers started out with a demand for a 25-cent hourly boost. They have cut that back to 18 cents, which they say is needed to offset the take-home pay reduction that would result from adoption of the 40-hour week for employees who now work longer.

Special Council Session Scheduled for Thursday

The student council will hold a special meeting Thursday in Old Capitol to consider the threatened withdrawal of the Quadrangle association, Peter Van Metre, L3, Waterloo, president of the student council, announced Tuesday night.

The time of the meeting Thursday has not been set but is expected to be either 4 or 7:30 p.m., Van Metre said. The definite time of the meeting will be decided today, he added.

The special meeting was called after two of the largest dormitories on campus, Currier, and the Quadrangle, asked that such a meeting take place.

Right of Recall

The prime issues at the meeting will be whether or not an organization can instruct its delegates how to vote on proposals before the student council, and whether these organizations have the right to recall their delegates.

The student council ruled last Thursday night that only it could depose a council member, and that none of its members could be bound to vote as instructed by the organization which they represented.

The Quadrangle general council in a special meeting Monday night passed a resolution asserting that these powers are only in the hands of each separate organization.

The group threatened to withdraw "its delegates and its recognition" from the student council if the council did not reverse its stand on the disputed issues.

Ordered Negative Vote

The whole affair started when the Quadrangle council ordered its three delegates to the student council to vote against a proposed amendment to the council's constitution.

But one of the Quad's representatives, Kent Forney, A2, Sibley, voted for the adoption of the amendment instead of as instructed by the Quad association. Forney is vice-president of the student council.

James McGranery Overcomes Critics

Korea Paving Way for Peace, Truman Says

52-18 Vote Makes Judge Att'y General

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate Tuesday night approved President Truman's appointment of Federal Judge James P. McGranery of Philadelphia to be attorney general.

The nomination of the 56-year-old jurist to succeed J. Howard McGranery in the cabinet post was confirmed by a vote of 52 to 18.

Action had hung fire since April 3 when President Truman named McGranery just after he had let McGranery out of the cabinet in a followup to McGranery's firing of Newbold Morris as government corruption investigator.

Assailed by Opposition

Senators Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Arthur Watkins (R-Utah) led the opposition to McGranery's nomination. They assailed him as a man of "most questionable" integrity, ability and veracity. They criticized him for past actions on investigation of public officials—a job he has inherited as attorney general—and for his current views on the emergency powers of the President.

Settlements are being made on the basis of a 15-cent hourly wage increase plus higher extra pay for night work, as proposed last week by the wage stabilization board.

With sober but unmistakable optimism, he held out hope there may still be an armistice in Korea but insisted "we must also be alert and ready to meet treachery or a renewal of aggression if that should come."

The President spoke at the U.S. military academy's 150th anniversary celebration. He told West Point cadets—the nation's future generals—that "as a result of Korea, the free countries are definitely better prepared to defend themselves than they were two years ago."

Truman Words Grim

But he tempered his optimism at points and, in words as grim as the gray sky above the academy, told the cadets:

"But I don't want anyone to get the impression that there is any basis for relaxing or letting up. No one should assume that the possibility of world war has become remote."

He struck out from the prepared text, however, the reference to Russia's possession of the atom bomb. There was no explanation.

To match the Kremlin's might, Truman said America has a booming defense program, a growing air force, modernized tanks, and an expanded navy.

President Came by Train

Truman came to West Point by train. He spoke from a flag-decked platform in the academy's huge field house, driven indoors by a cold, driving spring rain.

Earlier in the day, the President, ignoring the downpour, toured the academy, peeking with an old artilleryman's curiosity into the muzzle of a howitzer still hot from a 21-gun salute.

And with an old piano-player's curiosity, he hit one or two sour notes on an organ in the chapel. Then he let the 70-year-old organist, Frederick C. Mayer, show him how to do it right.

Roan Says By-pass Around Iowa City Not Feasible Now

CITY Manager Peter F. Roan Monday night told Johnson county Americans for Democratic Action that a by-pass in Iowa City is "unfeasible and economically impossible" at the present time.

Roan spoke on "Municipal Problems in Iowa City" before members of the newly-organized group in a study room at the SUI library.

Roan said figures show that only 5% to 10% of all traffic through Iowa City would be affected by a by-pass. Traffic congestion originates and ends in cities, he said, and "most people don't want to avoid going through them."

Other problems Roan discussed included garbage disposal, city zoning, utility rates, bus franchises and municipal housing.

Roan said the present municipal building was adequate for the needs of 1881 when it was built, but it is "functionally all wrong" today.

The group voted to hold another meeting in early June and, if possible, to hear first district congressional candidates.

"Interlandi With Interlandi," a book containing 125 of the Interlandi cartoons, many of which have appeared in The Daily Iowan since last September, will be released Thursday, its author said.

Interlandi designed the cartoon for the Iowa division of the American Cancer Society earlier this year. He also was a first place winner in a nationwide college newspaper safety contest.

Interlandi's cartoon, featuring a figure with a large head and small body, was widely popular in college newspapers across the country.

Red Riot Stopped At Pusan

The army said a small group of fanatical Reds who served as hospital attendants defied orders to leave the compound for transfer elsewhere.

Combat-seasoned U.S. infantrymen went into the compound to get them, and the fighting erupted.

The Communists were armed but they fired no shots in the battle of clubs and fists.

One soldier was injured slightly. About half of the 85 prisoners injured received only minor hurts, the army said. It did not say how one prisoner died.

For two and one-half hours the fighting swirled across the compound. The soldiers used riot tactics in rounding up the prisoners.

The army gave few details, and correspondents were not permitted to enter the camp, known as Compound 10. It was not known whether the prisoners were North Koreans, Chinese or both.

The hospital enclosure at one time housed 10,000 prisoners. Some rabid Communists have been moved since to Koje island. It is possible the rebellious prisoners were resisting transfer to Koje.

The Peiping radio virtually predicted the revolt. A broadcast heard Tuesday night in Tokyo said "Korean and Chinese prisoners (in mainland camps) who are alleged not to want to return are thinking of rioting." That was before the news had reached Peiping.

The army said the rebels had been strengthened to prevent further outbreaks by the surly prisoners.

ARMED UN GUARDS pay no attention to the crudely worded protest signs raised by prisoners as they patrol the compound at Koje island under the close observation of the inmates (upper right). Fortifications on the island have been strengthened to prevent further outbreaks by the surly prisoners.

Letters to the Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

I have a splendid idea. Why don't the editor and staff of The Daily Iowan and the student council secede from SUI, taking with them, of course, the present administration, and set up an institution of their own? This course of action should suit all three parties. The administration for years has pursued a policy of treating the student body as children and the student council and the Iowan seem to approve heartily of this policy.

Under the arrangements I suggest the council and the Iowan could alternate as high mucky-mucks of this new institution (always, of course, subject to the mandate of the administration), and everyone would be oh-so-happy. The proposed school might call itself Toadying To U.

VERSATILITY, ANYWAY

These are days when not too many good things are being said about the Iowa baseball team, but one thing is certain — the Hawks are a versatile bunch.

In fact, five of the eight most regular performers have played at least two positions during the 1952 season.

Jerry Hilgenberg, currently doing a good job at first base, played about half the schedule in right field. Gus Brandt has seen most of his action in centerfield, but has also worked at first. Jack Lundquist has alternated between third and left field, and Frank Bok is a combination first base-man-outfielder.

The most surprising combination of all, though, is that carried on by Ed Lindsey. Lindsey has the rare distinction of being capable of pitching a one-hitter and still bat cleanup for the team.

Although he has a deceiving easy method of hurling, Lindsey has compiled one of the best earned-run averages in the history of the school as he has allowed seven in 36 innings for a 1.75 average.

So that mark, which is the fairest way to judge a pitcher, ranks him among the best college pitchers this year. His record is a mediocre 3-3, but some of his losses were heartbreakers. Take, for example, the seven-inning game with Michigan State, in which he allowed only one hit (a triple) but lost the game, 1-0.

Offensively, Ed is a dangerous hitter and has a .301 average for the season. His two home runs lead the club, and he has five doubles and 10 runs-batted-in to speak for his power.

He's not only versatile in baseball, but won fourth and second-team all-state honors in football and basketball, respectively. A football end, he will probably go out for coach Forest Evashevski's grid squad next fall.

TITLE OUTLOOKS

With the spring season nearing an end, it looks as if Hawkeye teams will have a better-than-average record to show for their efforts. To date, Iowa teams have won 30, lost 21, and tied one dual meet in all competition. In the Big Ten, Iowa has a 13-10 edge. Remaining meets include three for the baseball team, one for the trackmen, and one in tennis.

At the end of the month, the track, golf and tennis squads will compete in the Big Ten championships, and the outlook is brighter than it has been in years.

Coach Francis Cretzmeier's runners have been very impressive this spring. They have taken outdoor meets from Wisconsin, Northwestern, and Minnesota, and picked up many firsts in the Kansas and Drake Relays.

They haven't been defeated in a dual meet thus far, and should know this weekend whether they can expect to finish second or third in the conference run. Saturday they have a triangular with Michigan and Northwestern, and, although the Wildcats will offer only token resistance, the Wolverines are considered about on a par with Iowa. The winner will be conceded the best chance of placing second-to-powerful Illinois in the loop championships.

The golf team has displayed considerable talent despite its 8-5-1 record. Not that that record is really bad, but at times the Hawks have looked as if they were world-beaters. The key to success, of course, is to have every man good on the same day. A 69 by one man can easily be nullified by another's 82.

In the conference meet, six men play and the best five are counted in the standings. So if Bucky O'Connor's boys can all play their good games on the same day, they should be among the top three in the results. There is also hope in the fact that the Iowans have taken five out of seven Big Ten duals.

Coach Don Klotz' netmen are also considered strong contenders for the title, providing Dusty Rice is in top shape. The Hawks recently lost three in a row without him, and had figured on dropping only one. The difficulty that arises when a No. 4 man is missing is that other players must be moved up a notch to stronger competition, and so the team loses matches in Nos. 4, 5, and 6.

The netmen have a 9-3 season's record and a conference mark of 2-1 with the Minnesota dual meet remaining. Few concede the Hawks much chance to knock off Indiana in the title matches, but stranger things have happened when a team got hot.

Majors' Salary Reports Kill 'Cheapskate' Myths

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran John Sain, the New York Yanks' winningest pitcher, weakened after a sharp start but notched his fourth victory with a 6-hitter as the Yanks shaded the Chicago White Sox, 4-3, Tuesday night.

The Yanks' 10-hit attack against two Sox hurlers included four singles by Mickey Mantle.

The 33-year-old Sain, who has lost one game in five starts, pitched no-hit ball in the first four innings and retired the first 12 batters in order. The loser was Ken Holcombe, his fourth defeat in his fifth try for his first win. He left the game in the fifth.

Holcombe Loses

Holcombe gave the Yankees a 4-0 lead and was yanked in favor of lefty Charlie Stobbs.

A walk, sacrifice, Mantle's single and Gene Woodling's two-bagger put New York ahead 2-0 in the first inning.

The Yankees made another walk pay off, a run in the fourth, as Billy Martin and Sain followed with singles.

Successful singles by Phil Rizzuto and Mantle opened the Yankee fifth and finished Holcombe.

Yogi Berra greeted Stobbs with a fly to right which scored Rizzuto with what proved to be the deciding marker.

Nats Not Lowest

Among the myths dissipated by this array of figures are that the Washington Senators are the poorest-paid major leaguers; that Branch Rickey invariably kept his players "hungry" for victory by holding down salaries and that Larry MacPhail was a free-handed spender in the payroll department. They do uphold the belief that it's good — financially speaking — to be a Yankee.

Only one of the six tables fail to show the New York Yankees at the top of the payroll list. The exception was in 1945, when they dropped behind the Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers, the first clubs to go over $500,000 a year for salaries. Similarly, the Chicago Cubs generally have been the top-pay club of the National league with the New York Giants close behind.

Rickey Paid Record High

The survey shows Washington never has been last, nor first, in the American league salary totals. The St. Louis Cardinals of the Rickey era were about in the same spot, but in 1950 the Cardinals of Fred Saigh moved to the top of the National league with a $495,683 payroll. The only year Brooklyn topped the list was 1943, when General Manager Rickey laid out $271,424 in salaries.

Byrne put together a creditable job, walking three and fanning the same number. But he couldn't match Marrero, who struck out eight in giving up just two bases on balls.

The loss evened Byrne's record at 3-3 for the season.

Castoffs Continue to Shine —

2 Rookies Lead AL Fielding

NEW YORK (AP) — Two rookies who weren't wanted — Hector Rodriguez of the Chicago White Sox and Clint Courtney of the St. Louis Browns — are giving American league veterans a lesson in the fine art of fielding.

Rodriguez, whom Brooklyn peddled to Chicago from its Montreal farm club, has committed only two errors in 102 chances at third base to top the league with a .980 percentage.

Courtney, an ex-Yankee farm hand, has done even better. The bespectacled catcher, traded to the Browns last fall, is fielding a perfect 1.000.

McDougald Ties Hee

The figures, released Tuesday by the Associated Press' new statistical bureau, include games of Sunday, May 18.

Actually, third baseman Gil McDougald of the Yankees is tied with Rodriguez on a percentage basis, but the White Sox rookie has handled more chances.

Likewise, catchers Yogi Berra of the Yanks and Jim Hegan of Cleveland boast the same percentage as Courtney — 1.000 — but both have participated in fewer plays.

Giants, Bums Top NL

In the National league, fielding laurels are shared by those heat rivals — the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants. These two currently battling for first place, lead in five of the individual positions.

But doctors said she should be all right in 10 days, and the Babe said she was going to be ready for bigger and better golf games.

Her husband, George Zaharias, was detained in Denver, but expected to come here within a few days.

New 'Rifles' Leaders Confer

MAPPING PLANS for the future are two SUI ROTC cadets recently chosen for the staff of the 2d regiment of the Pershing Rifles. Bill Robison, C4, Cedar Rapids (left), was picked as Regimental Commander and George Waller, A3, Sioux City, was chosen as executive officer of the regiment. Another SUI student, Matthew Vaughan, A3, Leon (not pictured), was appointed to the position of operations and training officer of the group. The selections were made at Pershing Rifle drill meet held recently at the University of Minnesota.

House Okays $10-Million For Hoof-Mouth Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house approved Tuesday a $10 million appropriation to start construction of an authorized $25 million foot-and-mouth disease research laboratory.

The amount was included in a supplemental appropriation bill sent to the senate.

The appropriations committee recommended the money be made available on condition that the department planned to build the laboratory on Prudence Island, in Narragansett Bay off Rhode Island. Options were taken but these lapsed when congress failed to provide construction funds.

The chairman of the agriculture appropriations subcommittee and department officials have said the new condition — that the island must be federally controlled — rules out the possibility of Prudence Island being reconsidered. A department spokesman said the site selection would now "have to start from scratch."

The report noted recent outbreaks of the disease in Mexico and Canada and the possibility of its spread to this country. It said the cost, in this event, would far exceed any laboratory and research costs.

Canadian Newsprint Prices Increased

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsprint hit the highest price in history Tuesday and threatened to add $50 million or more annually to the costs of United States publishers.

Prices to customers other than those in the United States were unchanged. The present Canadian base price is $112 plus sales tax.

Two of the big Canadian base producers announced price increases of $10 a ton, bringing the New York cost to $126.

Higher Prices in June

Consolidated Paper Corporation, second largest producer, and Abitibi Power and Paper company, the third largest, notified their customers of the price hike, effective in mid-June.

It is traditional, however, that when one or two of the large Canadian companies make a price change it's only a matter of time before the others follow suit.

U. S. Producers Uncertain

It was uncertain what action United States producers of newsprint might take.

The general feeling was that under the Price Stabilization act they would have to go to Washington for approval for any increase in their price tags.

The price of newsprint varies according to the point of delivery.

This is the highest price in history and is the second increase within a year.

$86 Lower in '30s

It compares with a low of $40 a ton during the depression years of the early 30's and with a previous high of $120 in the early 20's.

It comes at a time when American newspaper publishers are already being squeezed by costs to the point where it is difficult in many instances to get out a daily paper.

Chicago Professor Hits U.S. Schools

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A university professor declared Tuesday that America's schools are turning out principally students "with crippled minds, trained only in memorization or blind, unreasoning rote-learning."

Dr. W. Allison Davis, professor of education at the University of Chicago said pupils, teachers and administrators are "caught in the toils of unrealistic, unfilike and boring curriculums and tests over which they have no control."

Also referred back to the parties for collective bargaining were all other union demands. However, the WSB was primarily concerned only with the master-contract or company-wide bargaining feature of those demands.

President Truman sent the dispute to the WSB last Oct. 10 when a strike broke out at the 10 plants. Their production includes airplane parts needed in the defense effort. The union called off the strike Nov. 3.

The plants are located in Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Tennessee.

Wage Board Sends Dispute Back to Borg

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wage stabilization board Tuesday refused to make any recommendation on a union demand for company-wide bargaining at 10 Borg-Warner manufacturing plants in five states.

With its labor members dissenting, the WSB sent the dispute over bargaining back to the parties — the company and the CIO United Auto Workers, representing 10,000 employees.

The WSB majority said it "declined to issue a recommendation" because a recommendation either way would be "inconsistent with the provisions of the labor management relations

Journalism Students Edit Iowa Weekly

BOB HENNESSY, A4, Cedar Rapids, shows his wife, Marge, how the linotype machine operates in the "back shop" of the Eureka. Hennessy was feature editor of the edition. His wife visited Anamosa on Sunday and received the "guided tour" around the newspaper plant. Little work could be done Sunday but on other days the group worked long hours, but felt their efforts were well rewarded when publisher Tom Powell congratulated them on their work.

THE END OF A LONG WEEK'S WORK is almost here as the group pitches in to help prepare the edition for the mail. Besides "stuffing" the paper, the aspiring journalists helped roll single papers into mailing wrappers and took them to the post office—ready for delivery. Participating in the final work are (from left) Hennessy, Owen Nickels, A4, Elgin; Harris, Joan Eilers, regular society editor of the paper, and Barnes, who is taking papers from the press. Nickels was student society editor of the edition and was in charge of news from correspondents around the county. The group worked so effectively that the papers were ready to go in record time.

DISCUSSING THE FINISHED PROJECT are (from left) Len Strasburg, A4, Iowa City, Powell and Hess. Strasburg was advertising manager of the edition. The group met the deadlines for each of the three sections of the paper and managed to have the last one rolling on the press an hour and a half earlier. Thursday evening, May 8, the publication date of the paper, Publisher Powell fed the group to a steak dinner with the Eureka's regular staff. Then—back to school.

Treasurer, Gerald Middents, A2, Kamrar; personnel secretary, Kathryn Beckman, A3, Grundy Center; faith and life commissioner, Ray Joseph, M1, Hopkinton; outreach commissioner, Jane Woodburn, A3, Iowa City; stewardship commissioner, Bernie Oyaas, L3, Clinton.

$45,000 Damage Suit Will Continue Today

Trial of a $45,954 auto accident damage suit is expected to continue today before District Judge Harold D. Evans in Johnson county district court.

John Stahle, plaintiff in the case, requests the damages, claiming he was a passenger in a car owned by the defendant, Richard J. Thompson, when it was involved in an accident about April 1, 1950.

The trial began Monday with the selection of jurors and preliminary arguments.

Saturday Proclaimed As City Poppy Day

Mayor William J. Holland Tuesday issued a proclamation declaring Saturday as Poppy day.

Poppy day is generally observed throughout the nation on the Saturday before Memorial day, was pointed out by members of the Iowa City American Legion auxiliary who will supervise the sale of the paper flowers.

The mayor urged all citizens to wear memorial poppies in honor of those who have given their lives for America in the two world wars and the Korean conflict.

The idea of the poppy as a memorial flower for world war dead was inspired by the blooming poppies "between the crosses row on row" in the battle cemeteries of World War I.

Swimmer Predicts 80 Iowans To be Drowned This Summer

More than 5,000 persons will die in the U.S. this year from accidental drownings and over 80 of them will drown in Iowa during June, July and August, according to James Counsilman of the SUI physical education department and assistant swimming coach.

Counsilman has just completed an investigation into accidental drownings that has turned up some interesting statistics.

Two-thirds of all Iowa drownings occur in the summer months and two-thirds of the victims were people under 10 years of age.

8 Drowned While Wading

Of the 94 accidental drownings in Iowa in 1950, 77 were males and 15 drowned while swimming, 8 while wading, and 17 occurred in boating accidents.

Other deaths were caused by falling in wells, etc.

Counsilman hasn't been able to find statistics to show whether those drowned were swimmers or non-swimmers but he says there is no doubt that the large majority of them are non-swimmers or poor swimmers. Statistics show only 10 per cent of the 80 million Americans who annually participate in swimming are skilled swimmers.

Both swimmers and non-swimmers to follow to reduce the number of drownings.

1. Watch for drowning hazards such as open cisterns or wells. When children are near water maintain a fence to keep them from getting to it.

2. Always swim in a supervised area. (Over 95 per cent of all drownings occur in unsupervised areas.)

3. Don't go boating unless you are a skilled swimmer. (But if you should go anyway, be sure and wear a life preserver and if the boat turns over, be sure and hang on to it.)

4. Few Iowans are Skilled

Because Iowa is an inland state and is lacking a large number of lakes and swimming pools, its proportion of skilled swimmers is estimated to be somewhat lower.

Iowa has a higher death rate due to drownings than most of the east and west coastal states in which the rate of participation in water activities is more than double.

But Iowa is gaining ground as to the number of skilled swimmers according to tests given to incoming freshmen at SUI.

5. 75% of Freshmen Can Swim

Five years ago almost half the newcomers could not pass an elementary swimming test. Last fall this figure was reduced to less than one-fourth.

Twenty public swimming pools have been built in the state since 1947 and supervised swimming is on the increase.

Counsilman recommends more pools in the state's high schools. He says, "There are only seven swimming pools in all Iowa high schools, but for example, in the Chicago area alone, over 30 high schools have pools.

St. Mary's Student Given Scholarship By Kiwanis Club

A St. Mary's high school senior Tuesday was awarded the sixth annual Kiwanis scholarship in any area of study offered at SUI at the club's high school honor day at the Jefferson hotel.

The award winner is Arlene Sladek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Sladek, 508 E. Bloomington st.

The one-year scholarship is rotated alphabetically among the city's four high schools and is given on the basis of scholarship, good character and benefit to be derived from the award.

Following the presentation of 39 honor students from the city's four high schools, Prof. George Glockler, head of the SUI chemistry department, spoke to the seniors on "Your Educational Career."

Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger of the SUI speech department presented the scholarship and introduced high school representatives.

5th Hydraulics Meet To Be Held Here

From June 9 to 11 Iowa City will be the gathering place for many of the best-known hydraulics engineers in the nation, who will meet in the fifth hydraulics conference of the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research.

Held every three years, the conference will this year emphasize the general transportation of sediment.

Reports on research will be read by 14 experts from government departments concerned with river control, from various universities, and from the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research.

A resume of the reports will be published by the institute, but Prof. Hunter Rouse, director of the conference, emphasizes that the principal value of the meetings is the informal exchange among the men in the field. In 1949, at the last conference, 425 hydraulics specialists were in attendance.

Final session of the conference will be devoted to a tour of institute laboratories. In addition to research apparatus related to studies of sedimentation, general research equipment such as air and water tunnels, instructional apparatus and electronic instruments will be demonstrated.

Bound to Grand Jury

Lloyd A. Torpa, 31, Mt. Prospect, Ill., has been bound over to the Jo Daviess county grand jury on a charge of drunken driving.

He was arraigned in police court and waived preliminary hearing.

Final session of the conference will be devoted to a tour of institute laboratories. In addition to research apparatus related to studies of sedimentation, general research equipment such as air and water tunnels, instructional apparatus and electronic instruments will be demonstrated.
