Angry Reds Tighten Berlin Crisis

Senate Demos Face New Rift Over Aid Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders in the senate staved off new cut of a billion dollars in the foreign aid bill Tuesday, but face a tough fight today to defeat a half billion dollar reduction.

President Truman recommended a $7.9 billion bill to strengthen foreign nations against communism in the year starting July 1, 1952. The senate foreign relations committee decided that $6.9 billion was enough, and reduced the measure to that amount.

Sen. Herman Welker (R-Idaho) and 10 other Republicans called for another billion dollar slash, which would have chopped the mutual security program down to $5.9 billion. They were defeated 35 to 27 on a rollcall vote.

Seek Half Billion Cut
Defeated in that, Welker and his associates are sponsoring a proposal for a cut of a half billion, which may draw significantly more support when it is voted on today.

Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.), one of the leaders of the Eisenhower-for-President movement, said he will vote to cut $500 million from the bill. He voted against the billion dollar cut.

Carlson's statement to a reporter aroused special interest because Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower retiring chief of the North Atlantic treaty forces, has said, with reservations, that any further substantial reductions in the foreign aid bill might threaten American security.

Met With Ike
Carlson has just returned from a conference with Eisenhower in Paris, but he said they did not discuss the bill.

The house has authorized $6,162,800,000 for military and economic aid to friendly nations during the next fiscal year.

Sen. Walter George (D-Ga.) argued that any further reduction would open the way for the Russians to say "we told you so" to Western European nations allied with the United States against communism.

Winston Named to Post On Board of Publications

Harold Winston, A2, Griswold, has been appointed to a one-year post on the Board of Publications, succeeding Charles Reilly, L4, Chicago, who has resigned.

Winston, who was defeated in a bid for the board during the all-campus election, was vice-president of the YMCA in 1951 and was on the staff of station WSUI during the summer of 1951.

This year he was appointed to the student council reorganization committee and the Student Christian council.

Dr. S. B. Barker, associate professor of physiology in the college of medicine, will leave Sept. 1 for a position on the staff of the University of Alabama college of medicine.

Dr. Robert E. Leighton, assistant professor and acting head of preventive dentistry and pedodontics in the college of dentistry, has resigned effective July 16 to enter private practice in pedodontics in Des Moines.

Michaelsen Goes to Yale
Robert S. Michaelsen will leave his position as assistant professor in the school of religion Aug. 31 to become assistant professor of American Christianity at the Yale university divinity school.

The board also accepted the resignation of Lorissa Sheldon as head of women's dormitories and head of Currier hall effective May 26.

Heads of four university departments were among the five faculty members granted leaves of absence during the board session.

Prof. George Glocker, head of chemistry, will leave June 1 for one year to serve as director of the science division of the U.S. army's office of ordinance research at Durham, N.C. Glocker's duties will include evaluation of army contracts with universities throughout the country.

Theresa O'Connor Relates Love Story At Masterson Trial

DES MOINES (AP) — Pretty Theresa O'Connor Tuesday related the love story that ended last September when John A. Masterson stabbed her twice in St. Ambrose cathedral here.

Masterson, 24, is being tried before a district court jury on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder.

During her day-long testimony, Miss O'Connor told of how she fell in love with Masterson shortly after they met in June, 1949 on a blind date arranged by friends.

Nervously the attractive brunette told the jury that prior to the stabbing, Masterson had threatened to kill her and twice had attempted to assault her.

During cross examination by Defense Attorney John L. McLaughlin, three love letters written by Miss O'Connor months before their breakup were introduced into evidence.

McLaughlin repeatedly asked Miss O'Connor if she thought Masterson was mentally ill during the latter part of their relationship. She testified that she didn't know whether Masterson was insane — only that his attitude had changed.

She said that she had loved Masterson, but began to have doubts when she heard of his arrest on a morals charge in January, 1951.

15 Western Nations Sign Pacts Cementing Free Europe's Defence

PARIS (AP) — Statesmen of the West signed Tuesday a series of historic agreements cementing free Europe's defense and solemnly warning the Communist world to keep hands off.

In a day of momentous events, the representatives of 15 nations signed a series of treaties and protocols linking the full power of the North Atlantic alliance with a European army, including West Germany, and pledging the combined might of the West to fight if any one nation should be attacked.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson hailed the signing as "one of the most important and far reaching events of our lifetime."

Six western European nations signed a pact committing them to build a million-man army under unified command. The United States, Britain and France issued a portentous declaration in support.

Russia Warned
The big three warned the Soviet Union that any attack on any part of free Europe — including Berlin or West Germany — would be received as a threat to the security of the Big Three.

The Communists obviously were gathering strength throughout Western Europe for the assault against this grand alliance. Germany was their main concern and Berlin the key spot.

In Moscow the press thundered with anger. The Literary Digest printed a telephoned dispatch from Berlin suggesting that the German people one day would place West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on trial for signing the Bonn agreement. The commentator indicated a Soviet belief the contract would never be ratified, saying it was easier to sign such treaties than to put them in operation.

Parliaments Must Approve
The signing of the agreements does not mean that the European defense community has come into existence yet. A hard fight awaits it in the parliaments of the member nations and it may be many months before Germany begins recruiting the 400,000 men who will make up the German contribution to the European army.

West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg signed the treaty pooling their armed strength. When this is ratified by the parliaments, perhaps by year's end, the armed forces of these countries will become a single army of a million men or more, under NATO orders. This first peacetime international armed force in history will be dedicated to defending all free peoples of Europe from aggression.

Beardsley Claims Tax Smear
DES MOINES (AP) — Gov. William S. Beardsley declared Tuesday night in a campaign speech that his recent income tax troubles were "obviously an attempt by certain people to destroy my reputation. And this I can prove very easily."

Former Lt. Gov. Kenneth A. Evans, one of Beardsley's two opponents, said last week that Beardsley, because of his income tax difficulties, would be a liability to the party in the November general election if renominated.

Beardsley said in remarks prepared for transcriptions to be broadcast over six Iowa radio stations his friends had warned him almost a year ago that certain people opposed to him would in fact be in income tax trouble

Ike's Victory In Connecticut Cuts Taft Lead

By The Associated Press
Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower pulled within 20 votes of Sen. Robert A. Taft in the contest for Republican presidential nominating delegates Tuesday by grabbing at least 20 of Connecticut's 22 ballots.

In Texas, meanwhile, bitter divisions within both Republican and Democratic parties erupted in disorder and convention walkouts that will send contesting delegations to the Chicago conventions in July.

On the Texas Republican side Taft supporters took over the convention at Mineral Wells and named 38 uninstructed delegates of whom 35 favor Taft and three are for Eisenhower. Most Eisenhower supporters, however, walked out yelling protests when the convention seated Taft delegates from many parts of the state, and held their own meeting. They named 33 uninstructed delegates known to back the general and five who are definitely instructed for Taft.

At San Antonio the state Democratic convention led by Gov. Allan Shivers named uninstructed delegates to cast the state's 52 convention votes. Shivers, a bitter critic of the Truman administration, favors Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia for the Democratic nomination.

Officials Meet Over Korean Political Crisis
PUSAN, Korea (WEDNESDAY) (AP) — A deepening political crisis in South Korea prompted secret conferences Tuesday between President Syngman Rhee, Gen. James A. Van Fleet and top diplomatic officials.

Results of the session were not disclosed. A source close to the United Nations commission for the unification and rehabilitation of Korea said members expressed "deep concern" about the situation.

In a statement earlier, Rhee said he declared martial law Saturday because of (1) the killing of five American soldiers in a guerrilla ambush Friday and (2) increasing public political demonstrations.

Nine assemblymen have been arrested since Rhee declared martial law. Six others are wanted for questioning. More than 40 members were detained briefly Monday, preventing a quorum in the 183-member body.

A government spokesman said the Communists were sending "secret operational funds" into Pusan and that "several national assemblymen are involved."

Meanwhile army engineers are working around the clock to complete separation stockades for the rebellious Communist war prisoners on troubled Koje Island.

Smoke Bomb Forces Coeds From Dormitory

TUCSON, ARIZ. (AP) — A military smoke bomb was set off in a girls' dormitory on the University of Arizona campus Tuesday, and 30 coeds were overcome as 175 occupants fled the sickening fumes.

Sheriff's deputies arrested three male students and were hunting a fourth.

One of the girls, Shirley Bledsoe, 18, of Hobart, Oklahoma, apparently had stopped breathing when she was brought to a hospital. She was revived with oxygen but remained in a serious condition for several hours.

Twenty-nine other girls were treated at hospitals.

Masterson, 24, is charged with stabbing Theresa O'Connor, 24, (seated at table, right) in St. Ambrose cathedral in Des Moines last Sept. 11. Seated to Masterson's left is Frank Brown, Polk county jailer who is acting as a guard. A defense motion for a mistrial as a result of testimony Monday was turned down by the court in a decision Tuesday. Masterson was a patient at the Psychopathic hospital in Iowa City for a short time following his arrest in Des Moines.

A 'Bad' Example — Doris Nixes Warnings

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's school vacation time again and time for the movie industry to make its annual plea to young girls everywhere—please, please, stay away from Hollywood, that capital of heartbreak.

But how can you keep them away when they hear what happened to Doris Day?

Here's the girl whose Hollywood success has every producer in town scratching his head—and wishing he had her under contract.

Doris, a freckle-faced girl out of Cincinnati's little Rhineland, came to town with only one dramatic role behind her — as a duck in a school Mother Goose play. She still hasn't had a drama lesson.

Of course she was widely known as the singer with Les Brown's orchestra but nine out of 10 girl band singers fall flat on their faces in the movies.

Among Top 10
By the time she had made nine movies in four years for Warners, most of them musicals, the nation's movie exhibitors picked her among the top 10 boxoffice stars of 1951.

Most puzzling to the usual Hollywoodite is that this boxoffice success was accomplished without the usual publicity gimmicks.

Warners' veteran dance director, Leroy Prinz, best sums up Doris Day appeal with movie goers:

"It's the old self-identification appeal. Every girl in the United States between 18 and 25 can look up on the screen at that freckled blonde and see an average American girl and say to herself 'Why, that could be me.'"

Sang Without Pay
Doris was born Doris Kappelhoff 28 years ago in Cincinnati. She was singing on a local radio station for no pay when band-leader Barney Rapp heard her.

He offered her $25 a week. He's the fellow who rechristened her Doris Day, after hearing her sing "Day by Day."

She started latching onto big name bands, Bob Crosby, Fred Waring and Les Brown. During the war, she and Les recorded one of the top hit records, "Sentimental Journey." She now sells millions of records of her own.

EXPORTS NEAR RECORD
WASHINGTON (AP)—With two months to go, exports of U. S. grain this marketing season appear likely to come close to the record set in 1948-49 — a season of dire hunger abroad.

Indian Braves Take Battles To Courts

Land, Money Disputes Continue in Northwest

AP Newsfeature

HELENA, Mont. — The tactics have changed — but the Indian wars continue in the West.

The war dance has been replaced by a meeting of the tribal council, members of which are elected. And the brave who, wearing a breechclout and smeared with warpaint, formerly lifted scalps with a knife, has been replaced by a gentleman in a slack suit who goes on the warpath armed with a lawyer.

There are at least three current examples of 1952 Indian warfare in Montana.

The Blackfeet, on and off, tell the U.S. Indian service to get out of 34 buildings on their Northwestern Montana reservation. Another group of about 6,000 Indians are getting ready to hand Uncle Sam a bill for $25 million. And the Crow Indians of southeastern Montana have argued with the federal government over a proposed multi-million dollar dam on their land.

The Blackfeet got the biggest headlines.

Buildings in Dispute
Last year they told the Indian service to get out of the buildings, claimed by the tribal council on grounds they were built with $150,000 of Indian money.

The council based its claim on a 1935 judgment resulting from a law giving the Blackfeet the right of self government. The federal government withheld more than $4 million of that $5 million judgment for so-called "equities" given the tribe between 1855 and 1927. The "equities" included cost of buildings and equipment.

The tribal council's order went to the Indian police. They hung shiny new padlocks and big black "No Trespassing" signs on five of the buildings, among them a house.

The Indian service came right back. Superintendent Guy Robertson of the Blackfeet agency at Browning, ordered the padlocks and signs removed. Paul Fickinger, Indian service Billings area director, sent a special agent to investigate, and issued a statement saying the Indians' act "constituted a forcible entry into government property."

New Moves Mapped
The tribal council, then headed by George Pambrun, retreated to a previously-prepared position. On advice of counsel — Felix Cohen of Washington, D.C. — Pambrun announced the council would move a war veteran into the house. This, he said, would "force the government to get a court order to evict the veteran. Then we can get the case into court and have the issue decided."

This action still is hanging fire. At about the same time, 200 miles southeast of Browning, at Great Falls, Mont., an organization known as "Montana Landless Indians, Inc." was formed. This group wants $2.50 an acre for 10 million acres of land in North Dakota.

"Sold Illegally"

The Indians claim the land was sold illegally to the United States in 1802 for 10 cents an acre.

Their story goes like this: There was a sub-chief named Kakenwash in Chief Thomas Littleshell's band of Cree and Chippewa Indians. Kakenwash made the deal without approval of Littleshell or the band after Littleshell stood pat on his asking price of $2.50 an acre, the amount for which the government later sold the land.

And in southeastern Montana, Fickinger also has his hands full with the Crow Indians, on whose land the government proposes to build a $90 million multi-purpose dam.

Dam Is Opposed

Among opponents of a congressional appropriation to start work on the dam is Robert Yellowtail, for whom the dam would be named. He is chairman of the Crow tribal council.

The government offered the Crows $1,500,000 outright for title to the land on which the dam would rise. That figure was arrived at by the Reclamation bureau and the Indian service after independent surveys.

No dice, the Crows replied, basing their decision on their own engineers' survey, which valued the tribe's rights in the proposed dam at not less than $3 million.

As a "compromise," the Crows offered Uncle Sam a 50-year lease on the land; with the dam and other improvements reverting to the tribe when the lease ran out.

In addition to these major engagements, there are any number of minor skirmishes.

Staff Jobs Assailed

In a statement to congress, the Blackfeet say one way to economize in government would be to "abolish various useless jobs" on the reservation staff.

And Mrs. Walter O. Green of Crow Indian agency has a suit pending in federal court in which she seeks to test constitutionality of an Internal Revenue bureau move to tax income of Indians from lands held in trust for them.

History Repeats Itself —

Ike's Popularity Rise Likens Zach Taylor's 104 Years Ago

By Central Press

History repeats, a wise man once said, because human nature hasn't changed.

Be that as it may, history—political history, that is—has been doing a pretty consistent job of repeating this year—up to now, anyway.

The upsurge of popularity which has put Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the front rank of presidential possibilities, had its counterpart just 104 years ago.

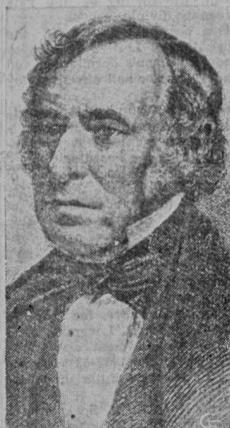

In 1848, Gen. Zachary Taylor, "Old Rough and Ready" as he was affectionately called, was Eisenhower of his time. In fact, in view of his success as a candidate, some might wish to call him a super-Eisenhower.

Much Is Similar

There were many points of similarity in the careers of General Ike, World War II hero, and Old Rough and Ready, one of the most popular figures to emerge from the Mexican war.

In the beginning, as in the case of Eisenhower, there was some question as to just what political faith Taylor belonged. Many Whigs were sure he was one of them but quite a few Democrats thought he would make a fine candidate for their party. To complicate matters the general admitted he had never voted.

In 1848 there was a Democrat in the White House, as is now the

Gen. Zachary Taylor He Snowballed, Too

(because, it was said, they "hunkered" after office) and disappointed Van Burenites who were tagged the "Barnburners" (because some had boasted they were willing to "burn their barns" to rid the party of its "opposition rats.")

The Whigs themselves were not solidly united—they had too many presidential aspirants for that among them the famous Daniel Webster and the perennial candidate, Henry Clay.

The campaign to put General Taylor in the White House began in Feb., 1848, when a Louisiana convention mentioned him strongly. Next, the Alabama legislature named him formally. The snowball began to roll downhill and enthusiasm for the Mexican war veteran spread rapidly.

Taylor's Stand

General Taylor stood early and often that he would not be just the "president of a party" and that he would administer the government unhampered by party dictates. He did say that he was a Whig but added that if the party gave him the nomination it would be with no pledges from him.

Many Whig politicians would have preferred a stronger party man. However, they wanted to win. And a solid, dyed-in-the-wool Whig, opposed to the Mexican war, looked like a sure way to lose another election to the Democrats.

Right up to convention time, General Taylor's popularity continued to swell. People started calling him the "Thunderer of the Cordilleras" and other fancy names of heroic proportions.

When the Whigs convened in Philadelphia on June 7, General Taylor's nomination was almost a foregone conclusion. Those vigorous old fighters, Webster and Clay, put up a battle but on the fourth ballot the general was in. Millard Fillmore was named to run as his vice-president.

Not Even a Platform

The successful candidate had put such a damper on the Whig partisan spirit that the convention laid down no platform or outline of principles. It attempted to establish no issues—did not even mention slavery, a very hot potato at the time, indeed!

The 1848 Democrats came up with a candidate, Lewis Cass of Michigan—AND a platform they denounced interference with slavery and defended the Mexican war.

Many barnburner Democrats bolted the party and with anti-slavery Whigs joined the new "Free Soil" party, of which the only historical significance today is that it was an ancestor of the present Republican party. The Free Soilers' candidate: Martin Van Buren.

Came November and election day. General Taylor won over Cass and the Democrats by 49,337 out of some 2,600,000 ballots.

Eisenhower backers may take hope from that for in 1848 voters continued to "Like Zach"—right up to the finish.

Fashion Packages Provide Complete Travel Wardrobe

Fashion, like food, is being packaged these days. Resort collections have many pretty "packages" of cottons that make weekend and vacation traveling a joy.

Complete groups of separates are designed to give you mix-and-match items for every occasion. With one easy-to-pack group you have a traveling outfit plus costumes for the beach, street and date.

Buy the separates separately, of course, and make up your own package just the way you like it! You might choose the bare minimum — a strapless, one-piece playsuit with a sleeveless coat-dress.

The playsuit is in ribbed cotton ottoman and the dress in matching, satin-striped sheer cotton — pretty enough for informal dining.

Another small but complete package might be made up of blouse and skirt in coordinated plain pique.

Four and six-piece packages include such extras as bras, dusters, ponchos and stoles, to give variety to the basic outfit. For these, newsy cottons are used: native prints, denim coupled with seersucker, and charcoal grey chambray woven with a red stripe.

For those who like their packages brim-full, one group includes nineteen — count 'em! — "tuxedo denims." Braid-trimmed and decorated with shiny black shoe buttons, they feature colors like bronze, coal black and bleached white. Into the package go such innovations as a Capri overblouse, spencer jacket, patio dress, halter-top overall and Italian-inspired tapered pants.

Special Hair Care Needed Under Summer's Hot Sun

This is the time of year when the sun brings out the best in nature — and the worst in a woman, if she's not careful.

Hair, unprotected, becomes crisp and frosty. Skin, unprotected, becomes parched and peeled. Every grooming fault we may have slipped by with from September to April is now magnified under Old Sol's increasingly watt-hot spotlight.

Actually, good-grooming is a simple, inexpensive matter, calling for more sense than cents. Cleanliness is still the most important step to beauty. Dermatologists will tell you that there is no greater beautifier than water. That goes for the hair as well as the skin — the cleaner, the better.

To keep hair healthy and shining, it should be washed at least once a week with a good bland soap, in liquid form.

To keep the scalp in healthy condition, before each shampoo part the hair, lock by lock, and apply a few drops of a pure, non-drying hair tonic directly to the scalp. With the fingertips, massage gently in a rotary motion. Then, wrap the head in towels that have been wrung in hot water and "steam" for 15 to 20 minutes. Persons with dry hair can help remedy their problem by massaging the scalp with hair tonic twice a week.

And, whether your hair tends to be dry or oily, always — always wear a hat or some type of head covering whenever you are apt to be exposed to the direct rays of the sun for any prolonged period.

No matter how prettily you are "made-up" and dressed, the overall picture is marred if your eyes look tired and strained. Make it a part of your beauty ritual to lie down for a few minutes after your bath with a couple of cotton pads dipped in witch hazel covering your eyelids.

Then — relax. And that will be easy to do. With the proper care, any woman can face whatever's "new under the sun," confident she is facing it at her best.

He's listened to the weak thread of so many shallow claims he's fed-up! His point is—there's a thorough test of cigarette mildness. Millions of smokers throughout America concur.

It's the sensible test... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke—on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste) you'll see why...

JACK BENDER'S COLUMN

BASEBALL PROBLEM

What's happened to the caliber of college baseball, not just here and in the Big Ten in general, but throughout the United States? As recently as three or four years ago, Iowa and the Big Ten looked upon itself as playing baseball comparable to class B in the profession at large. However, the way the ball players have been floundering around recently, it couldn't possibly stay on a par with anything higher than class D.

It used to be that ball players would play their three or four years in college, depending on local eligibility rules, sign to play high-class minor league ball for a season or two, then graduate to a long career in the majors.

Now even the all-America selections have a rough time ever making the grade. Take Jack Bruner and Jack Dittmer, for instance. Both were all-America picks in 1949. Bruner on the first team and Dittmer on the second.

Neither are in the majors as yet, although Bruner spent a year as a reliever for the White Sox and Browns, but that was because he was a bonus player and rules said he had to be retained after one year of seasoning.

Bruner currently is pitching good ball in the Class A Western league, settling down after a rather poor 1951 season in several higher classification minor leagues. However, Jack must be nearing 30 now, because of his long stint in military service, so he probably never will get another chance to stick.

Dittmer, on the other hand, has played well enough professionally. Right now he's among the leading hitters in the American association, but he never seems to quite be able to stick with his big league owner, the Boston Braves.

He may make it yet because he's still plenty young and has a 4F draft classification. But don't forget, Bruner and Dittmer are only two of the many recent college stars in this predicament.

Why haven't they made the major league grade — I feel that most of the outstanding young ball players are now signing with pros as soon as they are graduated from high school. The good college ball players then look great by comparison.

Colleges make little attempt to interest the fine prep baseball player in coming to their institutions. Many of these young men do attend college on their off-season, but, of course, aren't eligible.

Most of the players are interested in coming to college, but they can make faster steps toward the majors by playing organized ball. And as long as schools keep running baseball on a minor sport basis, the caliber will be low.

A few suggestions for raising the caliber of college ball, offered by the current Newsweek magazine, include—
1. Night baseball.
2. A rule — already observed by the football pros — that would prohibit the signing of a player before his class graduates.
3. More scholarships for baseball players. ("Most of the colleges have only one or two or none at all for baseball players," says the article.)

I'm emphatically inclined to agree with these suggestions — the result of not having enough top-flight ball players has certainly been in evidence here at Iowa the past year. I can remember the good teams and I'd like to look forward to some more in the future.

Incidentally, on this same subject, Omaha, Neb., is giving the National Collegiate baseball another try this week. The city has $43,000 plus a new million-dollar municipal stadium to give it all to making the college world series a success.
Omaha lost $7,500 on the show two years ago and $3,897 on it last year, so this probably will be its dying gasp — unless the fans turn out in droves. Let's hope they do for the sake of re-building the sport.

27 Strike-outs —

Pirates Test Whiff King

— In Class D No-Hitter

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates put their minor league strikeout king through the paces on the home diamond and got word Tuesday from Catcher Joe Garagiola that there's just one thing wrong with him.

"He wants to strike out everybody," Ronnie Neccia showed up for a physical examination, got a clean bill of health and then went to Forbes field to display a fine repertoire of stuff during an hour on the mound.

This is the 19-year-old right-hander who lately whiffed 27 batters in a no-hitter with Bristol in the Class D Appalachian league. He is moving up to Burlington, N.C., in the Class B Carolina loop where he'll hurl Thursday night.

Neccia — it's pronounced netch-eye — was a first baseman in high school. The Pirates signed him as such. He did a little pitching on sandlots at nearby Monongahela. An old Cleveland player, George Detore, made a pitcher of him at Salisbury in the North Carolina State league.

Here's Ron's record this year with Bristol: 43 2/3 innings pitched, 109 strikeouts, 10 hits, four runs, 14 walks. He won four straight.

On Forbes field Ron was all business but in the clubhouse while dressing he made no bones about having that tired feeling.

Garagiola thinks this kid phenom anything but a freak.

"He's got a lot of stuff," said Joe. "He's big and lean, 6 feet 5 and 180 pounds, the whippy Ewell Blackwell type, and he can throw as hard as anybody in this league."

Then Ron was asked how it felt to strike out 27 in a nine-inning game and replied:

"I didn't think much about it until the next day when everybody seemed to be talking about nothing else but that."

There wasn't much use asking how he felt to strike out 20, 19 and 24 in other games down there in Bristol.

Hawk Teams Set Dual Meet Victory Mark

Seven of the 11 teams finished with .500 or better. Leaders were gymnastics, with 10-1; basketball, 19-3; swimming and track, each 5-1; and tennis, 10-3.

The complete record shows 75 wins, 47 losses and 5 ties for .610 in conference competition it is 39 wins, 34 losses and 3 ties for .585.

Favored Americans Advance in British Amateur Golf Meet

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP) — America's favored triumvirate — Dick Chapman, Billy Maxwell and Frank Stranahan — surged ahead Tuesday in their bids for the British Amateur Golf championship, but Stranahan almost didn't make it.

The young Toledo, Ohio, millionaire, winner of this historic event in 1948 and 1950, teetered on the brink of disaster before he rallied his game for an extra-hole victory over Joe Gent, 53-year-old Briton and probably the most surprised subject in the kingdom.

Roland Advances MASON CITY (AP)

— Roland scored six runs in the first inning and went on to whip Ruthven 12-5 Tuesday night to enter the finals of the Iowa High School Baseball tournament.

Maglie Wins 9th Straight, 3-0

BROOKLYN (AP) — Sal Maglie registered his ninth straight victory without a defeat Tuesday night as he pitched the New York Giants to a 3-0 four-hit victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. Willie Mays, who reports for induction Thursday, led the Giants to their sixth straight triumph and their second in a row over the Dodgers with a home run and two doubles.

Don Mueller also homered off loser Ben Wade. The victory increased the Giants' first place lead over the interborough rivals to a game and a half.

Maglie's only troublesome inning was the sixth when he walked Duke Snider on a three and two pitch and Jackie Robinson followed with a looper into center that fell for a single and advanced Snider to third. But Maglie forced Andy Pafko to raise a soft pop to Dave Williams for the last out.

Phils, Braves Split

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 10th inning triple by Del Ennis and a fly ball by Willie Jones gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 5-4 win in the nightcap of a two-night twin bill Tuesday night after the Boston Braves had won the 12-inning opener 4-2.

Neither Robin Roberts nor Warren Spahn, the starting hurlers, was in on the finish, although Spahn outlasted a parade of Philadelphia pitchers before giving way to a pinch-hitter in the 12th. A sixth inning homer by Sam Jethroe with none on gave the Braves a temporary margin before the Phillies deadlocked the count in the eighth.

Authorities Nab Window Peeker

County authorities Tuesday nabbed a youth who had reportedly been window peaking in University Heights.

The youth, whose name was not revealed, was picked up after a chase in which his car, traveling at a high rate of speed on a county road south of Iowa City, crashed into a ditch. Damages to the car were estimated at about $800.

No charges have been filed against the youth, who was bruised in the accident, authorities said.

He was visiting his brother, Oren McDowell of Wellman, at the time of the accident.

Iowa City Airport to Receive Federal Aid

Federal aid in the construction of new facilities at the Iowa City airport became official Tuesday following the approval of Civil Aeronautics administration on a bid submitted by the Horrabin Contracting company of Iowa City.

The CAA approval of the bid means that the federal government will pay for half the cost of the improvement, Graham Marshall, airport commission chairman, said. The other half of the cost, is to be paid out of airport commission funds, which come from city taxation.

Involved in the construction at the airport is the erection of a concrete apron for planes and stone surfaced parking lots. A new concrete roadway is also being built into the administration building.

The Horrabin company bid for the work was $41,174.65.

The firm submitted the low bid at a meeting of the airport commission April 26. The firm has 30 days to complete the work but it is not known when it would begin.

John Tallour, resident assistant, art department, was bought by the Art Institute of Chicago.

Court Upholds Advertisers Rights In New Orleans Newspaper Case

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — U.S. District Judge Herbert Christenberry held Tuesday that jointly published morning and afternoon newspapers cannot require advertisers to buy space in both papers in order to buy space in one.

More than 170 jointly owned morning and afternoon newspapers in the nation presently have such a requirement.

Judge Christenberry's decision was on a government civil anti-trust suit filed against the Times-Picayune Publishing Co., June 14, 1950.

Practices Charged Injurious
The government contended that business practices of the Times-Picayune Publishing Co., operated to the injury of the competing afternoon New Orleans Item.

It was the first suit in civil anti-trust history in which one daily newspaper organization was accused of business practices injurious to a daily competitor.

The Times-Picayune Publishing Co. publishes the week-day morning Times-Picayune, the week day afternoon New Orleans States and the Sunday Times-Picayune and New Orleans States.

Claim Papers "Single Unit"

Judge Christenberry said in his decision that the defendants "contended throughout the trial that the Times-Picayune, The States and the Times-Picayune States are editions of a single newspaper published by the Times-Picayune Publishing Company," and thus unable to conspire with itself in violation of anti-trust laws.

"However, the evidence establishes beyond question that the defendant corporation publishes two separate and distinct newspapers," Judge Christenberry declared.

Judge Christenberry also wrote "that the Times-Picayune is the dominant newspaper of New Orleans and its trading territory there can be no doubt." He went on to say, "Enjoying as it does a monopoly position in the morning field, and an enormous advantage in circulation, advertising lineage and number of printed pages, newspaper advertisers who desire to cover the New Orleans market must, of necessity, use the Times-Picayune as a medium for their advertising."

Says Ad Buyers Coerced

Judge Christenberry held that "the Times-Picayune, because of its monopoly position, has been able to force buyers of advertising space to purchase what they do not want, space in the States, in order to obtain what they require, space in the Times-Picayune."

The item was not a principal in the suit. But an affidavit supporting the government's complaint was filed by publisher David Stern, III, in which he said the item lost nearly $400,000 in 11 months of 1950 as a result of the forced combination advertising contracts.

Attorneys indicated during the trial that the decision would be appealed to the U.S. supreme court and the Times-Picayune said Tuesday this would be done. Under anti-trust procedure, the appeal can be taken directly to the high court without going through the U.S. circuit court of appeals.

Refugee Doctor Held For Helping Fiancee Enter U.S. Illegally

MALONE, N. Y. (AP) — A 40-year-old Polish refugee doctor was ordered held for federal court action Tuesday on a charge of attempting to help his 23-year-old Austrian fiancee enter the U.S. illegally from Canada.

U. S. Commissioner Milton J. Valois ordered Dr. Sigmund Milke held after a closed hearing in the Franklin county jail. Dr. Milke, an intern at Mercy hospital in Davenport, Ia., had demanded the hearing.

Miss Editha M. Kowar, charged with crossing the border illegally, was arraigned Friday before Valois and waived examination. She was ordered held at that time.

Both remained in custody for lack of bail, set previously by Valois at $1,000 for Dr. Milke and $500 for Miss Kowar.

The U. S. commissioner said the charges against the pair were "indictable offenses," but declined to say whether the cases would be presented to a grand jury.

Miss Kowar was found walking along a road near Malone, immigration officials said. Dr. Milke, they said, was arrested at the Trout river immigration office when he inquired about Miss Kowar. Officials said Dr. Milke and Miss Kowar had met in Europe, and that she arrived in Canada from Austria on May 12. She had been staying in Toronto.

Democratic Delegates Meet In Des Moines

DES MOINES (AP) — Leaders of the Kefauver-for-president organization in Iowa met late Tuesday to decide whether they will ask the Democratic state convention today to send a Kefauver instructed delegation to the national convention.

They met with S. J. Galvin of Hampton, head of the organization, to map strategy for today's state Democratic convention which will pick delegates to cast Iowa's 24 votes at the Chicago convention in July.

Some members of the group were reported insisting upon putting the issue to a vote in the eighth district caucuses which will precede the opening of the convention today.

Those arriving early for the state meeting also heard reports of a move to instruct the national convention delegates for U.S. Senator Guy M. Gillette.

Senator Gillette to Speak
Senator Gillette will deliver the keynote speech at the state meeting.

Democrats will select 16 delegates from the congressional districts and eight delegates at large, to be chosen by the convention itself.

District delegates will be named at caucuses starting at 9:30 a.m. today. Each district will pick delegates to cast two votes at the national convention. Efforts may be made at several of the caucuses to name four, instead of two delegates, allowing them a half vote each.

5 Caucuses To Be Held In Hotel
Five caucus meetings will be held at the Fort Des Moines hotel. They are the first, second, third, seventh and eighth district meetings.

School Costs Rise 149.15 Per Cent In 7-Year Period

The cost of operating Johnson county schools increased 149.15 per cent during the period from 1944 to 1951, Iowa Taxpayers association figures show.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1944, $517,612 was spent for operation. In the year ending June 30, 1951, $1,289,646 was spent.

Figures stated here do not include school bonds and interest, but cover costs of salaries, instruction, transportation of pupils, operation and maintenance.

Johnson county's increase is below the seven-year period of the entire state. For the state as a whole, costs increased from $49,853,911 to $120,489,478.

Daily school attendance in Iowa increased 11.37 per cent or from 382,633 to 426,182. Teachers declined in number, though, from 23,401 to 23,399.

How Dry He Is . . .

DES MOINES (AP) — A Clinton man who had five liquor purchasing permits until recently doesn't have any now.

The Iowa liquor control commission Tuesday suspended all the permits indefinitely. Duplicate permits are issued only to replace lost ones.

The commission thought it unlikely the customer had lost four permits so they suspended all that had been issued to him.

Merger Plan Studied For Westmar, York Colleges, Bishop Says

YORK, NEB. (AP) — No date for a get-together of boards of trustees of York college and Westmar college of LeMars, Ia., to discuss a possible merger has yet been set, York college officials reported here.

Setting of a meeting date probably will be considered next month at a meeting of the executive committee of the York college board, it was explained.

Kansas conference of the Evangelical United Brethren church went on record last week as favoring a study of a possible merger.

Bishop C. H. Stauffacher, chairman of the two college boards and presiding officer of the Kansas conference, said this does not mean the conference is withdrawing its support of York college.

"The Kansas conference will continue to send its students to York and will aid in the present $500,000 fund drive to build a new administration building at York," the bishop was quoted as saying. "We don't want the colleges to merge unless they are mutually agreed."

Earlier the Rev. Paul Life, public relations director of the Kansas conference, said the conference resolution probably means that York college will be abandoned.

Had He Read It Before the Show?

DENVER (AP) — Mayor Quigg Newton usually opens his Sunday afternoon radio program with a few letters from his fellow citizens.

He read one from a feminine correspondent recently who said her husband had "asked her not to write when I threatened to do so at 1 a.m. this morning."

The writer then protested against the noise that street cleaners' shovels make on the pavements at midnight. The letter was signed: "Virginia Newton." That's "Mrs. Mayor."

DES MOINES SCHOOL ROBBED

DES MOINES (AP) — A safe was carried from the principal's office at Stowe school here Monday night by thieves who took $101 from it after prying open the door, police said.

They said the safe was carried by the thieves from the second-floor office to a spot about 200 yards east of the school. The safe was discovered by a man passing through the school yard this morning.

300 to Officiate At June Primaries

Approximately 300 persons will serve as officials at Iowa City and Johnson county polling places for the primary election next Monday, the county auditor said Tuesday.

A few vacancies remain to be filled.

There are nine Iowa City precincts and 24 rural and township precincts for the election.

West Lucas township has been divided into three precincts—Coralville, University Heights and the rural area.

2 Charges Filed Against Local Man

H. A. Fry, 75, 521 S. Johnson st., has been charged in police court with failure to have a driver's license and failing to yield the right of way to a pedestrian in connection with a woman and child being struck by a car he was driving Monday afternoon.

His case has been continued until 8 a.m. Saturday.

The car he was driving struck Lorna Chadek, 10, who suffered bruises, and Mrs. Freda Chadek, 40, 515 Third ave., injuring her right ankle, police said.

"Remember Me, Mac?"

"I was on the front pages about six months ago.

"No, you didn't see my name, because it wasn't there. The story was about my outfit and some trouble we ran into on a mountain in Korea.

"Well, I'm not on the front page any more. My front-line fighting is over. I'm strictly a hospital case. But they tell me my biggest battle is still ahead . . . the battle for my life."

Quietly, doggedly, the painstaking job of rebuilding broken bodies goes on . . . in hospitals abroad and at home, wounded fighting men will need your blood as desperately as when they first fell on some foreign field. Yet, because the war news may be off the front page, blood donations dwindle disastrously . . . become a thin trickle, imperil the life line of thousands of your men.

Remember this about the war news: tomorrow may bring its new Iron Triangle, its new flare-up in Korea. So the need is twofold . . . it is for the men who have already fallen and for the men who will be injured in future combat. Please help them. Give your blood. Give it today.
