Senate Kills Seaway Legislation, Votes for Further Study on Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate, paying no heed to a plea by President Truman, Wednesday killed legislation authorizing this country to join with Canada in construction of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

It ordered, by a vote of 43 to 40, that the bill be returned to committee for further study. The action doomed any possibility of the measure again being considered at this session of congress.

Canada, which months ago announced it would construct the seaway by itself if congress again refused to let the United States join in the development, reacted swiftly.

Chevrier Says No Interference

Lionel Chevrier, Canada's minister of transport, reporting the senate action to the House of Commons, said it would not interfere in the slightest with Canada's intention to proceed with the development on its own side of the St. Lawrence river.

Chevrier added that a joint Canadian-American application to the international joint commission for permission to develop the river's hydroelectric potential would be submitted forthwith.

Congressional permission for American participation in the power project alone is not required. The procedure in this case will be for the Canadian and American governments to ask the international joint commission to approve an application to build a power dam across the St. Lawrence river.

U.S. Will Apply

If the commission approves the application, the participating U. S. agency — most likely New York state — will then apply to the federal power commission to construct its half of the power project.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) told the senate most opposition to the seaway arose from "a handful of big eastern railroads" he said control the American Association of Railroads.

A letter from Truman to Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), asserting that failure of this country to participate in the $818 million international seaway — power development would be "one of the worst economic mistakes" it has ever made, was read to the senate shortly before it voted to kill the bill.

Kefauver Urges Measure On

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), seker of the Democratic presidential nomination, also urged his colleagues not to send the measure back to the senate foreign relations committee. A similar plea was made yesterday by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), a candidate for the Republican nomination.

Journalist Shortage Boosts Job Offers

There is a serious shortage of workers in the field of journalism, Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI school of journalism, said today.

Moeller said some spring graduates had received as many as five or six job offers.

Salaries offered the June graduates ranged from $2,600 to $4,600 a year. About half of those placed will receive salaries above $3,000 and several will draw over $3,500, Moeller said.

Taft Talks with Future Voter

SEN. ROBERT A. TAIT takes time out from campaign speeches and political conferences in Washington, D.C. to shake hands with a future voter. The friendly interlude came Wednesday after Taft had spent most of the day outlining his proposed federal tax cut and military program, and criticizing his rival for the Republican presidential nomination, General Eisenhower.

15 Per Cent Tax Cut Added To Taft's Campaign Promises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Taft promised Wednesday that if he is the next president he will cut taxes 15 per cent and ask Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's advice on military problems.

But for the most part Taft criticized Eisenhower. The senator and the general are the top rivals for the Republican presidential nomination.

Taft's day of campaigning around the nation's capital included a speech and question and answer session with a conference of business paper editors in the morning, he turned up for lunch at the national press club and another speech and more questions and answers in the afternoon.

Taft Wants Ike's Advice

About the most positive thing the senator could find to say of Eisenhower was that he "would be most anxious to secure Eisenhower's advice on the matters with which he (Taft) would have to deal in the military field." He said he didn't think he should answer a question as to whether a professional soldier is qualified to be president.

The business paper editors heard first that Taft is "willing to pledge a straight 15 per cent cut in the taxes" if he moves into the White House.

Whereas President Truman's budget proposes the spending of $85 billion in the year beginning July 1, Taft said he thought spending could be whittled down to $70 billion in his first year as president, and to $60 billion in the second year.

"I think that can be done," he said, "if so, we can have a 15 per cent cut in taxes."

The reduction in spending, Taft suggested, must come largely at the expense of the military. But, he contended, there is waste, and therefore room for economy. "Land generals," he claimed, control the thinking of the Pentagon.

Idaho U. Professor Named to Faculty

Prof. Wayne F. Young, chairman of the department of journalism at the University of Idaho, has been appointed by the SUI school of journalism to serve during the current summer session in conference and laboratory work with students in reporting.

A full professor in the division of humanities at the Idaho institution, Young has had 10 years of practical journalism experience, including work on the Chincinati Enquirer, and a two-year hitch as combat correspondent for the United States marine corps in World War II.

In addition to his teaching activities at SUI, Young will engage in a special program of study in advertising layout and production under the direction of Prof. Ellis Newsome, head of the advertising sequence in the SUI school of journalism.

Reid, Blakely, Will Address Conference

Two SUI graduates, Loren Reid and Robert Blakely, will give major addresses Monday and Tuesday at a two-day conference on the role of speech and dramatic art in education.

Now head of speech at the University of Missouri, Reid will open the conference with an address, "The Teaching of Speech," at 9:10 a.m. Monday in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. He earned his master of arts degree at SUI in 1930 and his Ph.D. in 1932.

Reid has been secretary of the Speech Association of America for the past five years. His latest book, "The Teaching of Speech in the Secondary Schools," was published last month.

Blakely A Writer

Blakely, a 1937 graduate of SUI and now vice-president of the Ford foundation's fund for adult education, will give the final address at the conference Tuesday at 2 p.m. His topic is "Mass Communication and Community Leadership in Discussion."

A native of Onawa, Blakely was formerly an editorial writer for the Des Moines Register and the St. Louis Star-Times. During the war years, he first worked with the office of war information's domestic branch, and later was commissioned in the marine corps, seeing action in the Far Eastern theater. He has contributed numerous articles to Foreign Affairs, Far Eastern Review, and the American Library Association bulletin.

Following Reid's talk Monday, Philip H. Falk, superintendent of schools at Madison, Wis., will speak on "Fitting the Teaching of Speech into the School System."

A discussion will precede the two talks, with E. C. Mable, A. Craig Baird, and John Haefner of SUI serving as commentators.

Paul Davee, professor of dramatic arts at SUI, is scheduled to open the Monday afternoon session at 2 p.m. "Needed, a New Setting for the Teaching of Dramatic Art" will be his subject.

Commentators for the discussion following his address will be Lawrence Tucker, school of drama, Illinois Wesleyan, and Earl E. Harper, director of the SUI school of fine arts.

From New York Times

Conference delegates will attend a speech by Robert A. Smith, New York Times editorial writer, in Macbride auditorium at 8 p.m. Monday. Smith's speech, "What Makes Men Free" is a part of the regular university summer lecture series and is open to the public.

Harold Westlake, of Northwestern university's department of speech, will discuss "Problems of Certification of Speech Correctionists," in opening the Tuesday program at 9:20 a.m.

7th Iowa Readership Survey Completed By SUI Professors

The seventh in a series of studies of newspaper readership in Iowa was completed Tuesday night by Prof. Arthur M. Barnes, head of the research division of the SUI school of journalism, and Prof. Wilbur Peterson, head of the bureau of newspaper service in the school of journalism.

The paper surveyed was the June 12 issue of the Adams County Free Press in Corning, Iowa. The surveyors took a sample of 327 from a total circulation of 3,500. The sample was divided evenly between men and women and proportionately between town and rural readers.

The survey was made possible by cooperation between the Iowa Press association; the paper's publishers, Paul and Robert Gauthier; and the SUI school of journalism.

The first of the series of surveys was made in 1946. The tabulation is scheduled to be completed by August 1.

The purpose of the survey is to determine which items are most thoroughly read in weekly newspapers. The paper surveyed will print 1,500 copies of the tabulated report. These will be distributed to the members of the IPA, leading advertising agencies and the Weekly Newspaper Representatives, the national sales organization of the weekly newspapers.

The Free Press is the largest paper ever surveyed in this state. Prof. Barnes said. This issue had 18 pages.

The interviewers were all local people, no SUI students were employed in the survey.

The editor of the study is Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI school of journalism.

Danes Join Swedish Threat To Fight Back If Fired Upon

Swedes Jeer at Reds Outside Soviet Embassy

POLICE HOLD BACK A SHOUTING, jeering crowd outside the Soviet embassy in Stockholm. The enraged demonstrators yelling "We will see Stalin hanged," and "Down with the Communist war-mongers," were protesting the shooting down of an unarmed Swedish air force plane by Soviet jet fighters while on a search mission over the Baltic. A subsequent order Tuesday by the Swedish government directing Swedish airmen and sailors to return fire if fired upon was followed Wednesday by a similar order by the Danish government to her air force.

May Pardee Youtz Honored, Conference Discusses Crafts

May Pardee Youtz was honored Wednesday for her 28 years of service to SUI and her work with child study groups of the Iowa Congress of Parents and Teachers throughout the state. Mrs. Youtz, who will retire July 1 from full-time work on the staff of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station, received the recognition at the Iowa Conference on Child Development and Parent Education.

President Virgil M. Hancher of the university paid tribute to Mrs. Youtz for the faithfulness and diligence with which she has pursued her work at the station and among parents of the state. Luella Fatland, Colfax, president of the Iowa Congress of Parents and Teachers, presented to Mrs. Youtz in behalf of the congress a life membership in the organization.

Others Pay Tribute

Others who paid tribute to Mrs. Youtz were Boyd McCandless, director of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station; Mrs. S. E. Lincoln, Des Moines, past president of the Iowa congress who worked with Mrs. Youtz in setting up child study groups; and Wylma Mumford, Council Bluffs, state chairman of parent education for the Iowa congress.

President Hancher also honored the memory of the late Lucy Beth Wellman, professor of child psychology on the staff of the research station before her death in March of this year. He said that in the death of Miss Wellman, the university had lost a distinguished scholar and a faithful friend.

Crafts Discussed

Bernice Setzer, director of art education in the Des Moines public schools, discussed the place of the crafts in child training at a morning session of the conference. She stressed the need to make children more sensitive to the subtle beauty of objects and materials which they see and use every day, and emphasized the importance of opening up to the child the joy of sharing with others the things he creates.

Practical suggestions for guiding the child in the arts were offered by the conference lecturers in their capacity as consultants during discussion periods.

Simple Planning Urged

Mrs. Setzer urged the planning of simple things within the grasp of the small child in interesting him in crafts. As an example, she showed a small apron made from a square of material with apron strings of tape sewed on by uneven childish stitches. The stitches were hidden by turning down a corner of the square over the tape. This device avoided making the child "gather" the top of the apron before stitching on the tape.

Winifred Ward, professor emerita of the Northwestern university school of speech, warned the teacher and parent not to be too "directive."

Boyd Asks Leave to Serve At New Orleans VA Hospital

Dr. Julian D. Boyd, professor of pediatrics at Children's hospital, has requested a year's leave of absence to become the director of the radiology unit of the new Veterans Administration hospital at New Orleans, La. It is expected that the requested leave will be granted by the state board of education.

At New Orleans Dr. Boyd will also serve as executive secretary of the research committee of the surgical division of the hospital. The work will be largely in the field of research organization and direction.

Dr. Boyd will, in addition, continue his studies on the cause and control of tooth decay, with the aid of recently developed radioisotope techniques of investigation.

Before reporting at New Orleans, Dr. Boyd will visit various Veterans Administration hospitals where active radioisotope units are now functioning. He and Mrs. Boyd plan to leave Iowa City within the next 10 days.

Dr. Boyd has been with SUI since 1922, and a member of the senior staff of the department of pediatrics since 1925. A graduate of SUI, he received his M.S. degree in 1919 and his M.D. in 1921. He also took post-graduate work at the University of Minnesota and Washington university.

Known widely for his clinical

and experimental studies in carbohydrate metabolism, he has since 1945 been working under a grant of more than $35,000 from the Sugar Research foundation. His investigation has been on a controlled long-term study of rates of dental caries progression among teen-aged inmates of a school for the feeble-minded. The Boyds live at 607 N. Temple road.

Both Countries Alarmed At Red Baltic Strength

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Denmark joined Sweden Wednesday in alerting her air force to fight back if fired upon by Soviet planes.

Both nations, alarmed at the rapidly increasing Soviet force in northern Europe and the shooting down of a Swedish plane this week, served notice that they do not intend to bow to any long-range Soviet plan to make the Baltic a "Stalin lake."

Sweden Wednesday night, flatly rejected a Moscow protest that the Swedish Catalina flying boat, shot down by two Soviet jets Monday with seven men aboard, had invaded Soviet territory and started the shooting. Two of the Swedish plane's crew members were wounded.

Note Says Plane Unarmed

The Swedish rejection note said only two Catalina's were flying anywhere in the area at the time, and that both were unarmed and could not have shot at anybody. The note continued that investigation had established that both planes stayed within international waters. The plane that was shot down never got closer than 15 miles to Soviet territory, the note declared.

Adm. E. J. C. Quistgaard, chief of the Danish joint chiefs of staff, gave the alert orders to the Danish air force which matched similar instructions to Swedish airmen.

Quistgaard recalled that standing orders were issued last March for any Danish military units fired upon by Soviet planes or ships to shoot back at once. He said the orders applied to an attack either inside or outside Danish territory.

Acheson Blames Reds

U. S. secretary of state Dean Acheson told a news conference in Washington Wednesday that the incident was an indefensible Soviet action. The United States lost a navy four-engine privateer in the same general area more than two years ago, and charged the Russians with shooting it down.

The Swedish Catalina was searching for a Swedish air force DC-3 transport, with a crew of eight, which has been missing since last Friday. When last reported it was in the middle of the Baltic east of Stockholm, and headed toward an area where vast Soviet naval and air maneuvers have been in progress.

Moscow Tuesday night lodged a protest with Sweden charging that a Swedish plane invaded Soviet airspace over Ristna (Dagoe) island, about 50 miles off the Estonian coast, and was chased away after opening fire on Russian fighters. This was said to have happened early Monday.

To most Swedes, the Soviet note added insult to injury. The Swedes have a longer history of wars with Russia than most people, and suspicion of Russia is deeply ingrained.

Swedish crowds have attempted to stone the Soviet embassy in Stockholm, and 40 to 60 policemen have been posted to guard the embassy.

Student Receives Medal for Heroism

An SUI student, Cpl. Vernon E. Witte, G. Williamsburg, Wednesday night in the office of the Iowa City organized reserve corps unit instructor received the bronze star medal for heroism in action near Okkye-ri, Korea.

Witte, a June graduate who plans to enter the SUI college of law next fall, was a member of the eighth cavalry regiment of the first cavalry division.

On August 16, 1951 Witte's platoon was attacking a preliminary objective in its struggle to take hill 216 near Okkye-ri when it was subjected to an intense cross-fire.

Witte, a radio operator, was wounded so that it was impossible for him to move without assistance. According to his citation, Witte "refused evacuation, fearlessly remaining by his radio in an exposed position, relaying fire orders for the platoon leader."

He maintained communication until an enemy counterattack forced the unit to withdraw. He was evacuated by the platoon leader.

The medal was presented to Witte by Col. C. F. Coulter, of Iowa City.

Korean Veteran Gets Bronze Star

Fees Due from Summer Students

WEDNESDAY WAS THE FIRST DAY SUI students could pay their summer session fees. Today will be the last day students can pay fees without having a late registration fine assessed against them. The fine is $2 for the first day and $1 for every additional day until the fees are paid. Students with last names beginning with M to Z are scheduled to pay their fees today. Fees may be paid in the basement of University hall from 8:30 a.m. until noon, and from 1 to 5 p.m. The two students shown paying their fees above are Lou Ann Leccoq, Pella, and Hood Garner, G. North Dakota. The woman behind the counter is Mrs. William Walsh, an SUI employee.

PERSONALITIES ON CAM-PUS:

CHARLES BEYE, an SUI grad and now an employe of the University Children's hospital, should be awarded a bronze star for "outstanding valor in every possible line of duty."

Beye has fast established the position of "chief comedian" at the hospital. At the hospital Xmas party last year, he danced a Charleston on stage which had patients and medical faculty rolling in the aisles—malicious rumor has it that more appendectomy stitches were ripped in the course of that party than in the entire course of medical history. He also did a fabulous skit on "a typical day in the life of an M.D." which so closely typified a real "day in the life of an M.D." that it came close to being libelous.

Beye is quite a gala person in his own right. While a married undergrad student at SUI, he carried a full time job, majored in Greek, and still managed to accumulate a 3.69 grade average and a Phi Beta Kappa key at graduation.

While in school, he was also noted for his bizarre house-parties. His most noted lasted for a total of three days and nights with a guest list of 87 people—(rivaling Lorelei Lee's weekend party in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes.") The party began on a Wednesday night when a huge cauldron of soup was concocted. As the party progressed, people both consumed from and added soup to the enormous bowl. On Sunday night, when the cauldron was emptied, Beye found three cigarette butts in the bottom.

Beye now lives in a small, and as he calls it "institutional yellow," apartment on S. Madison st. with his charming, blonde wife Mary, four gigantic oil paintings, a 18th century French map traced on hand-made rag paper, a monstrously-large library of books, and a collection of 5,000 records.

MOVE OVER, GIRLS! — Another potential home ec. major has just joined the fold and this time it's a male!
Bob Smith, an SUI student, entertained 20 guests at a dinner in his home last week, providing a menu which would have had Elsa Maxwell gnashing her teeth!

Among the gastronomical delights served were Hop To Guy Ding, a Chinese dish of fried walnuts, bamboo shoots, chicken, and water chestnuts; sweet and sour pork, and for dessert—Mantego Bay Rum Ice, a French sort of custard, made with rum, lime juice, and mint.
A "CAREER GIRL" with a career in every known field is Martha Hale, senior from Burlington, who is currently in New Mexico on some kind of a field trip, digging-up Indian heads and studying cryptic symbols — whatever they are. Martha, who taught guitar lessons at West's music studio and can out-sing and out-play Burl Ives or Susan Reed at American folk ballads, headed almost every campus-welfare activity in existence last year, including the U.W.A. foreign student's committee. Recently appointed to Mortar Board, she can point to Mortar Board, she can the future leaders of America."

PETER WITWER, art department grad student, has an exhibit of non-objective paintings by Jack Roth, also of the art department, now hanging in his living room. The exhibit, which reaches the extreme in modern art, has the tenants of the "Commonwealth" apartment house agog.

VERSATILITY MARKS the name of Byron Burford, Beginning Painting instructor and more popularly known as the leader of a much-in-demand "Dixieland Jazz Combo." Burford left his summer home in Dubuque Tuesday to visit Iowa City and confirm plans for a new art gallery, composed of the works of five Iowa resident painters. This will be the first time such a gallery has been attempted in Iowa City.

HERBERT ZWIG, also a graduate in art, is in New York City for the summer establishing a career in magazine illustration. At the last count, no less than five national magazines, including "Mademoiselle" and "Harper's Bazaar," were bargaining for his artistic talents.

DOUGLAS HUDDLESON, graduate in creative writing, can very well consider himself associated with one of the "greats" in modern theater. Huddleison acted as personal business manager for Martha Graham, one of the greatest path-blazers in modern dance

The Complete Angler

Radio Hams Try in Vain to Pierce Iron Curtain's 'Zone of Silence'

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (CP)—"Dit da da da da..."

The signal faded. Then, the staccato code sounded a friendly "Seventy Three"—which means "the best of luck"—and the Iron Curtain rolled down with finality to end the last bit of two-way communication between the people of Russia and satellites and their colleagues in the United States. That was last July. Since then, radio "hams" in San Diego have worked overtime to re-establish contact, hoping desperately that the silence had been caused by poor weather conditions. Now the verdict is: Censorship!

For the past few years, while diplomats, journalists and government officials were complaining about the inaccessibility of Russia, a number of California radio operators were in constant touch with enthusiasts in that country. Their calls went through with no more difficulty than it takes to deposit a coin in the slot and dial a number. And, less expense.

Call Signals Received According to Dick Shanks, president of the San Diego Long Distance club "you could hardly turn a radio on without getting a call signal from Russia."

As a result of the ensuing chats Shanks and other "DX" club members got a pretty good idea of what the Russian people were like. The "calling cards" which the Russian hams sent provided them with a technical picture of the country.

Most of their code-and-conversation correspondents turned out to be government officials and all but a few were able to speak English fluently. With the exception of political discussion, they proved valuable on most subjects. Sometimes, they were quite disarming.

Amateur Tells Stories One amateur told Lee Sheridan a lot of engaging stories about his family. He was proudest of his very small daughter. Unable to walk yet, the child could ski "pretty good" and so he and his wife allowed the youngster to wear her skis around the house to prevent her from falling.

However, a less happy and enthusiastic picture of life behind the Iron Curtain was given by a young Czech lad, who first called Dick Shanks several years ago. With astonishing frankness, he revealed the austerity of Czech life—the shortages of food and clothing, of labor and, most especially, of freedom. His education was cut short when he was "drafted" into a Prague automobile plant. His contention that many others felt as he did may have been the reason his letters stopped abruptly last summer.

Military Sets Used Frank Kemper, another enthusiast, reports that all his contacts used United States military surplus sets and from their conversation they seem to be "standard operating equipment." The power, however, was limited to 100 watts in contrast with the 1,000-watt power generally used here.

Despite the surprising freedom, Russia radio amateurs were subjected to some controls even before July. They were not permitted to give home addresses on the calling cards, which hams send each other as proof of communication. The cards, themselves, were obviously provided by the government. Designed to impress the recipients, they contain spectacular color photos of the Russian museums, theaters, government and military headquarters, the Dynamo sports stadium, apartment buildings, the cathedral-like interior of the Moscow subway. And, of course, there are plenty of portraits of Russian heroes—including A. S. Popov, who is proudly identified as "The Inventor of Radio."

Hams Lament 'Curtain' Quite naturally, radio hams in San Diego as elsewhere in the nation lament the curtain close, since it cuts sharply into their proud records of countries contacted. Nor are any of them deaf to the implication that one of the last avenues of peaceful communication and individual friendliness has been barred and an ominous "No Admittance" sign hung before it.

Record Number of American Tourists Will Fly to Europe NEW YORK (CP)—Sky lanes between Europe and America are jammed with a record number of planes and tourists who are forming a dollar-spending army of Americans on vacation.

Part of this record throng is due to a low-cost trans-Atlantic air flight; a "tourist" package that cuts the top price flight by 30 per cent, from $711 to $486. At the same time, the air lines have stepped up their first-class flights until they are the luxury trips of travel.

Eleven airlines, flying the flags of 10 nations, are participating in the new trans-Atlantic tourist venture aimed at helping the two-and-three-week vacationer realize his visit to Europe.

With ocean-going vessels booked months in advance, the new air flights open up both a cheaper and quicker travel service that already shows advance reservations exceeding the most optimistic forecasts.

Since its inauguration on May 1, tourist reservations have been growing steadily and airlines now believe that by the peak August demand, there will be 71 flights going each way each week, with a weekly capacity of 8,000 passengers in both directions.

Cutting plane costs was made possible by the elimination of all frills, including free meals; by cutting baggage allowances from 66 to 44 pounds; by adding seats so that, as in the case of one line, each can carry a maximum of 88 passengers.

However, there is no difference in either safety or speed between ships flying tourist or first-class. Furthermore, same personnel are used to fly the huge airliners in both classes.

Early Memoirs Recall Capitol's Social Whirl

WASHINGTON (CP)—Socially, Washington isn't what it used to be.

Lively confirmation has been put in the archives of the congressional club, to which only feminine members of a senator's or representative's family may belong.

The early memoirs of Daisy Woodruff, wife of a Michigan congressman with the No. 7 long-service record in the house, recall the days when a woman immediately packed a suitcase full of calling cards if her husband managed to get elected to congress.

Calls Were 1st Duty Back in 1912, she said, one of the first duties of a congressman's wife was to make the round of calls — on the right days. Only on a Wednesday would the newcomer dare to call on a cabinet lady. On Thursday she could call on a senator's wife; on Friday on a diplomat's wife; on Monday on an army or navy man's wife; on Tuesday on a house member's wife.

Mrs. Roy Woodruff, a former career singer, first wrote down some of her experiences to amuse her husband's constituents back in Bay City. That happened so long ago there were Republicans living at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue.

Her first bigger-than-big thrill came with an invitation from Mrs. Warren Harding to come aboard the presidential yacht The Mayflower for a ride down the Potomac river.

Exercises Exhibited Daisy recalls, "As we entered the presidential suite, Alice Roosevelt Longworth hastily reached for a pillow, placed it upon the floor, tied her skirts about her ankles, and stood on her head to show us how she exercised to keep her girlish figure." (She still has that figure.)

Mrs. Harding confided to her that same day, "My corset string has broken. The President says I am getting stout and now I know I am."

Another big event was the dinner for 20 at the White House during the Hoover administration. Although it "kills" her eyes to sit close to a movie screen, she happily sat that night alongside President Hoover in the front row to see the premier of "Cimarron" shown after dinner in a little theater room of the White House.

President's Pipe Odorous At another party, she again demonstrated mind-over-matter by ignoring the evil odor of Vice-President Charles Dawes' famous underslung pipe in order to enjoy being seated next to him at a dinner given by the late Senator and Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg.

Daisy debunks those lovely, gossip stories of the feud between Alice Roosevelt Longworth and Dolly Gann. Greatly "exaggerated" she says "were the newspaper yarns over the question of who ranks higher—the wife of the speaker of the house or the "mere" sister of a vice-president (Charles Curtis).

Daisy is more than slightly Republican. After all, her GOP husband has been in the house 34 years!

Eleanor Roosevelt Popular

However, she found Eleanor Roosevelt "very popular and tremendously capable." She made a hit with Mrs. Woodruff and other members of the Congressional club by expressing a wish to attend some club function and meet the wives of the new members of congress. "That pleased the ladies immensely," said Daisy.

The only other woman "with as much vitality" Daisy ever knew was Mrs. Clarence C. Dill, an ardent feminist who led a small army of suffragets in a triumph march from New York to Washington during the Wilson administration.

As Daisy leaves Washington, because her husband is retiring, she is proud that her modest hometown memoirs are to be honored by her Congressional club. President Mrs. James C. Davis of Georgia (a Democrat mind you), says, "They are social history."

French-Red War in Indochina Is 'Hit and Run' Struggle

HANOI, Indo-China (P)—If you want to know when the second biggest war in Asia — that of the French Union forces against the Communist-led Vietminh in Indo-China — is going to end, consult your own crystal ball.

You'll get as accurate an answer there as anywhere.

There isn't even a glimmer of hope of victory for either the French or the Vietminh. The bitter struggle between the armies of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh and the French Union already has dragged on for six years and, barring intervention by Red China, could go on for many years to come.

Why don't the French launch a full-scale offensive and try to force a decision?

Hit and Run War There's a good answer in a single sentence. There isn't any front in Indo-China. This is a "hit and run" war.

The Vietminh attack French or Vietnamese military posts, villages or towns when they think they have the defenders outnumbered and see a chance of a quick, local victory. They flee to the mountains the moment they know French reinforcements are arriving for a showdown battle.

On the other side of the picture, the Vietminh can't win, either.

They lack the modern equipment to put on a big show. They studiously avoid committing any large number of forces against the French.

They're tying up 276,000 French Union troops which France badly needs to supplement her contribution to NATO in Europe. They are forcing the United States to send almost a billion dollars of war assistance to Indo-China that might well be used elsewhere.

Rumors of Invasion

The big question mark in the war in Indo-China — with neither side apparently capable of winning — is Communist China. Never a week, or day passes without wild rumors of a Red Chinese invasion of Indo-China. A Vietminh-Chinese Communist assault with tens of thousands of troops — could make the situation in Indo-China untenable for the French in short order.

There's no possibility of a negotiated peace in Indo-China. Ho Chi Minh has made no move in this direction. As for the French, it's strictly out of the question to even think of talking with Ho Chi Minh.

Every war must someday end — but there's no finish in sight for this one.

War By Error Likely If Blunders Continue

By J.M. ROBERTS JR., Associated Press News Analyst

The Russians have stirred up a nice little hornet's nest for themselves in Scandinavia by their latest brutal display of jealousy for the secrets of their military preparations in the Baltic.

No new evidence has been needed of Russia's disregard for the conventions of civilized conduct between people and nations. But the shooting down of a Swedish plane has produced new evidence on two points.

One, the spiritual position of Sweden regarding the East-West conflict, sometimes obscured by her stubborn clutch on the neutralism which has kept her out of war for more than 100 years, is made clear.

Shoot to Kill Second, we are newly reminded of the danger of war developing through pure error when international conditions are so strained as at present. The Danes reemphasized orders issued weeks ago to their airmen to shoot to kill if attacked by Russian planes. Denmark, unlike Sweden, is a member of the North Atlantic pact. If she shoots to kill, and the Russians retaliate, the Western powers are bound to consider whatever happens as happening to all of them.

Sweden has reacted bitterly against the plane incident which, with the now proverbial Russian affinity for acting at just the right time to create sentiment against herself, coincides with the prosecution in Sweden of a Communist spy ring much like the one broken up in Canada several years ago.

The two affairs have brought long-suppressed Swedish hatred of Russia boiling to the surface.

Sides With Allies I don't think there has been much doubt among Westerners as to where Sweden stood all the time. If she could stay out of any war she would do so. But if she were to be involved wily-nilly, she would be with the Western Allies. Influential Swedes have been saying that privately for years.

Sweden ranks with Yugoslavia and Switzerland among the best armed countries in Europe for their size. And, for its size, her aircraft industry is one of the finest anywhere. It has been operating in high gear ever since the war.

For Russia to push Sweden toward active cooperation with the anti-Communist coalition is foolishness of the first order. Yet it is only a relatively minor piece of foolishness in the long list of things she has done to mobilize the free world against her.

The terrifying question is whether, one day, she will finally do something that pulls the trigger for the war that nobody wants.

REMEMBER Firpo, "the Wild Bull of the Pampas," who almost won the heavyweight championship of the world from Jack Dempsey, in a wild and woolly fight at the Polo Grounds? Shortly after that event, he was introduced to President Coolidge in Washington, and won the hearts of every reporter on hand by whispering immediately thereafter, "Who was that fellow?"

With motion picture producers devoting more and more of their time and assets to revivals of old successes, Goodman Ace thinks Hollywood should now be known as "the land of remake-believe."

Mrs. Goldschmidt is never going to let her husband talk her into vacationing at sumptuous Morpheus Arms in the Catskills again. "In the first place," she explains, "all the young girls did all day was look for husbands, and in the second place, all the husbands did was look for young girls."

Conventioneers Told To Plan Now

CHICAGO (AP) — Persons coming to Chicago for the political conventions next month should be sure of two things:

1. That they can get a ticket to the convention.
2. That they have a room reservation.

Charles Hacker, chief sergeant-at-arms for the Republican national convention, told a reporter Wednesday.

"If any individual hasn't got a ticket promised to him by now, I'd advise him not to come to Chicago."

"If I were writing a convention story, I'd stay at home and watch it on television."

Hacker Gives Outlook

Hacker, who has been working for months on preparations for the Republican national convention opening July 7 in the International Amphitheater, was talking about the central public—the plain run-of-the-galley folks who just want to watch the goings-on.

Hacker figures the public's chances, such as they are, this way:

The Amphitheater's main hall seats approximately 12,000 persons.

3,000 Seats for Public

Nine thousand of these chairs will be occupied by delegates and their alternates; newsmen from newspapers, news services, and radio and TV stations, and party leaders, governors, congressmen and other special guests.

This will leave room for only 3,000 other persons at any one session.

Although there will be no admission charge for the sessions, persons must have a ticket to get in. The only cost is in effort or ingenuity.

Tickets Promised at Home

Hacker says the best place to get a ticket is the Republican national committee or committeewoman in your home state.

He says the tickets are being distributed to the members of the national committee. These members will distribute them, in turn, to delegates and guests from their home states.

After persons contact their national committee member now, and are promised a ticket, they can reach him at convention time in the Chicago hotel where his state's delegation will have headquarters.

Rooms Are Available

There normally are 35,000 hotel rooms for the transient trade in Chicago.

The Republican convention housing staff has already assigned 10,000 of them, these being, for the most part, in the better known hotels in or close to the Loop.

The Greater Chicago Hotel association says an adequate number

Chicago Amphitheater to House Conventions

THIS IS THE BIG ARENA of the International Amphitheater in Chicago as it looked a month before the two 1952 political conventions begin. In left background are the radio and television booths, now being constructed. The speakers' platform will be built directly beneath the radio and TV booths, jutting out onto the arena floor. The Republicans open their convention on July 7; the Democrats take over July 21.

of rooms will be available in hotels located farther from the Loop.

Hotels Ask Deposits

Convention-goers who want a five-day reservation, lasting through either convention, rate a priority. Hotels are asking advance deposits of $50 per room for a five-day stay. This money will be applied on each party's account.

Persons wanting rooms during the Republican convention may contact: the subcommittee on housing of the Republican arrangements committee, Conrad Hilton hotel, 720 S. Michigan ave. or the Greater Chicago Hotel association, 105 W. Madison st.

For rooms during the Democratic convention, persons may contact: William Neale Roach, Democratic convention arrangements manager, at the Conrad Hilton hotel before Saturday. After that date requests should be sent to the hotel association.

The method of getting tickets for the Democratic convention, which starts July 21, is the same as for the Republican rally.

Local Bus Drivers Accept Pay Raise, Return to Work

After a three and a half hour strike, 11 bus drivers of the Iowa City Coach company returned to work at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday accepting a five-cent per hour increase "with possible additions" offered by Joseph H. Negus, company manager.

Negus refused to say anything definite concerning the possible additions to the raise, Wednesday afternoon.

Drivers have been receiving one dollar per hour and were believed to be seeking a raise of 25 cents per hour.

An audit of the coach company's books to determine if a raise could be granted was advocated Tuesday night by the drivers at a meeting with City Manager Peter P. Roan.

U.S. to Increase Military Aid To Red-Threatened Indo-China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States agreed Wednesday to increase American arms aid to Communist - threatened Indo-China.

This decision was disclosed by the state department after a three day conference with Jean Leclercq, French cabinet minister for Indo-China.

The promise of bigger and faster American arms shipments also came a few hours after Secretary of State Acheson said Communist aggression in Indo-China has been checked and "the tide is now moving in our favor."

department at the end of the Leclercq talks said stepped-up American aid will be granted "within the limitation set by congress." It will be especially devoted to helping France build up the national armies of the three associated states in Indo-China—Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

Four divisions of these loyal native troops are now helping battle the Communists in the 6-year-long war. The French plan to double their strength by mid-1954.

No estimate as to the amount of American military aid to be shipped to Indo-China was given.

Temporary Jobs Available to Youth

Temporary jobs are available this summer for Iowa City teenagers, a survey by the Iowa City Woman's club reveals.

Mrs. John Schuppert, chairman of the club's youth employment program, emphasized that the youths must be willing to work however.

All job openings are listed with the Iowa Employment Security agency in the Community building.

The club's survey shows that most of the jobs would last only for periods of several weeks. Mrs. Schuppert said there is a constant demand for youths to do general yard and house work.

Dodgers Nip Cubs In 10th, 6-5

Score Winning Run Without Hit; Sauer Gets Homer, Double

BROOKLYN (AP) — Scoring the decisive run without the aid of a hit, the Brooklyn Dodgers Wednesday nipped the Chicago Cubs, 6-5, in a 10-inning struggle to retain their National league lead of four games over the New York Giants.

Jackie Robinson, because of some brilliant base-running, carried over the winning run in the 10th, scoring from third on a long fly by Gil Hodges with two out.

Robinson had opened the last of the 10th by coaxing a walk from Dutch Leonard. The flashy second baseman immediately stole second for the third time in the game and went to third when catcher Toby Atwell dropped a third strike on Roy Campanella that permitted the Brooklyn catcher to reach first.

The Cubs apparently had the game won when pinch hitter Bob Addis hit a home run with two mates aboard in the top of the ninth to give his team a temporary 5-4 lead. The Dodgers however, bounced right back to knot the count at 5-5 when Furillo and Snider hit back-to-back-doubles in Brooklyn's half of the ninth.

Leonard, who had replaced starter Bob Rush after Furillo's two-base hit, then loaded the bases with one out but fanned Bob Morgan and got Peeewe Reese to hit into a force play.

Hank Sauer, who had been battling a slump that had carried through 24 straight hitless times at bat, paced the Cubs 11-hit attack with a single, double and his 19th homer of the season. Hal Jeffcoat of the Cubs and Bobby Morgan of the Dodgers, also hit homers.

The loss was the fourth in succession for the Cubs, making the losing streak their worst of the season.

Yanks Crush Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Gene Woodling and Billy Martin of the New York Yankees crushed Art Houtteman with successive eighth-inning home runs and Yogi Berra powered a six-inning homer to push the first place Yankees to a 10-6 victory over the last place Detroit Tigers Wednesday.

Vic Wertz, who feasts on the pitching of winning hurler Johnny Sain, blasted a three-run Tiger homer in the eighth to narrow the score to 7-6. But the Yanks parlayed three walks, a wild pitch and Gil McDougald's two-run single for the cinching runs in the ninth inning.

Sain had held the Tigers to three hits, including Walt Dropo's two-run homer in the fourth, until the Tigers opened up in the eighth inning. Bob Hogue replaced Sain after Wertz's homer and held the Tigers scoreless.

The Yanks battered Houtteman for 11 hits and added one more off Hal White to win their 10th game in their last 12 starts. It was the eighth straight game that Houtteman, the ex-soldier who won 19 games in 1950, had been driven from the box.

Giants 5, Pirates 2

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Thomson rapped four hits, including a pair of homers, and Jim Hearn pitched seven-hit ball to give the New York Giants a 5-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday.

Thomson's two circuit smashes, each with nobody on base, were his third and fourth in three days and boosted his season's total to 12.

The slugging third baseman also slapped a pair of singles, and bated in three runs during the afternoon to give him a total of 54 runs batted in, second only to Hank Sauer's 60 RBIs.

Hearn, who contributed three hits himself, had a shutout until the ninth when George Metovich followed Pete Castiglione's single with a home run. It was Big Jim's seventh success of the year against a single defeat.

The Cardinals teed off on starter Russ Meyer and reliever Ken Heintzelman for a total of 15 hits. The Phils could get only five off Joe Presko, who gained his fourth win against three losses. By contrast, Presko was the only St. Louis player to go hitless.

Hemus and Musial accounted for both the St. Louis runs scored in the fifth inning. Solly walked and Musial homered over the right field wall.

Browns Clip Red Sox

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A leadoff double by Dick Kryhoski and a single by manager Marty Marion gave the St. Louis Browns a 4-3 ninth-inning victory over the Boston Red Sox Wednesday night as the Marion-led Brownies stretched their winning streak to four games.

Marion's game-winning hit nudged the right field line and barely dropped safely as Jim Piersall made a game but unsuccessful try to haul it in.

It was the Browns' second win in as many nights against the second place Red Sox. Duane Pillette got credit for the victory, scattering 11 hits for his sixth win against four losses.

The Browns tagged rookie Bill Henry for only nine hits, but bunched them to come from behind after Boston took off for an early 3-1 lead.

Reds Sweep 2

BOSTON (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds overcame lefty Warren Spahn's 11-strikeout pitching to take the second game from the Boston Braves, 3-1, Wednesday night after gaining the opener of a two-night doubleheader, 7-6. Spahn now leads Chicago's Bob Rush, 79-70, for top honors in the league's fanning department.

While losing a heart-breaking mound-out to Ken Raffensberger, Spahn permitted the Reds to bunch four of their seven hits for two runs in the fourth inning after Sid Gordon had given the Tribesmen a 1-0 lead by stroking his 10th homer of the season in the second session.

The Reds added their final marker in the ninth when Joe Adeock doubled and, after Cal Abrams ran for him, Wally Westlake singled.

The win was Raffensberger's eighth against four losses and the setback reduced Spahn to a 6-6 record.

Indians Drop to 4th

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Washington Senators dropped the Cleveland Indians into fourth place Wednesday night with a 3 to 2 decision. The Tribe, which never had been lower than third, suffered their fifth straight defeat and fell behind the Chicago White Sox on percentage points, .544 to .542.

Frank Shea, who hadn't won a game since he hurled a two-hit, 2-0 shutout here on May 18, held the Indians to six blows. Al Rosen's two-run homer in the eighth cost him a shutout.

The Nats, who now have beaten the Indians six times in 10 engagements and five times by one run, pinned the loss on Mike Garcia. They scored a run off him in the first inning and two more in the second.

"Oops! Is That My Wheel?"

WALTER RAGAN, CONOWINGO, MD., stock car racer, turns to watch his left front wheel fly past. The wheel he is looking so wonderingly at did belong to his auto, becoming separated from the brake drum and the car. Ragan promptly pulled into the pits without serious mishap.

Afraid of Dissension — Boros, Open Champion, Pulls Out of PGA Meet

LOUISVILLE, KY. (AP) — National Open champion Julius Boros abruptly pulled out of the PGA golf tournament Wednesday and a towering, little-known assistant pro from Detroit, Bob Gajda, seized the lead for the qualifying medal with a sizzling six-under-par 66.

It was a day of wild confusion, reversed decisions, and par-wrecking rounds as the nation's professionals began the 36-hole preliminary test to their match-play championship. Matches open Friday.

Defending champion Sam Snead, exempt from qualifying, at first said he wouldn't try for the $250 low medal prize and then, at the last minute, decided he would. He shot 72 with an aching back.

Boros, not a PGA member, Boros, sensational winner of the Open last weekend in Dallas, planned to play in the event as an invited guest of the organization. He isn't a PGA member.

Then, an hour before time to tee off, he walked out, announcing he had taken the move to prevent possible dissension.

Chaos reigned generally, but none of it seemed to affect the 35-year-old Gajda, a six-foot-three Oakland Hills aide playing in his first PGA. Gajda fired 35-31-66 over the par 36-36-72 course to take a one-stroke lead going into today's final 18 holes of qualifying.

Middlecoff Tied for Second Tied at 67 were Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, 1949 National Open champion who is making his PGA debut; Henry Williams Jr. of Kutztown, Pa., and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Ardmore, Okla.

Boros dropped his bombshell an hour before his scheduled 12:52 p.m. (CST) tee-off.

After a series of conferences

Castellani Winner On Split Decision

CHICAGO (AP) — Rocky Castellani, a rough aggressive middleweight from Luzerne, Pa., Wednesday night was awarded a split decision over Chicago's Johnny Bratton in their 10-round battle in the Chicago stadium.

Dr. Ellen Frankel, one of the judges, voted 52-48 in favor of Castellani, while the second judge, William O'Connell, voted 51-49 for Bratton. Referee Norman McGarity voted 54-46 for Castellani.

Castellani, in scoring his second consecutive triumph over Bratton hopes to move into the middleweight championship picture. He first defeated the shifty Chicagoan by unanimous decision in New York's Madison Square Garden last March 10.

Castellani had a seven pound weight advantage for the nationally televised spectacle, scaling 156 to 149 for Bratton. He made the most of this advantage by shoving Bratton into the ropes and outroughing him.

These tactics paid off in the final rounds to overcome an edge Bratton had built up earlier by masterful boxing. Bratton opened a slight cut in Castellani's left eye lid in the second round and attempted to make this damage worse, but had no success.

Berg Hard Pressed In 1st Round Match Of Western Tourney

CHICAGO (AP) — Defending champion Patty Berg had to turn on pressure for a 2-up victory Wednesday to join four other pros in advancing to the third round of the Women's Western Open golf tourney.

Miss Berg, seeking an unprecedented fifth Western crown, vanquished amateur Carol Dinger of Tiffin, O., in a stirring scrap carried to the final green of the wind-swept Slokie country club course.

Medalist Betsy Rawls, top gal money-winning pro, had an easier test in the day's eight-match, second round, whipping Mrs. Louise Anneaux of Hinsdale, Ill., 4 and 3.

Two pros fell by the wayside. Marilyn Smith succumbed to Louise Suggs, three-time meet champion, 3 and 1 in a scrap between two play-for-pay lassies.

Amateur Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., knocked out pro Betty MacKinnon, 1 up, in a bulldog battle.

Pro Betty Jameson, 1942 Western champion, shared the day's best golf in registering the most top-sided victory, a 7 and 6 lacing of Pat Devany of Grosse Isle, Mich.

Cards Dump Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Soly Hemus and Stan Musial were the big thorns in the sides of the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday night as the St. Louis Cardinals took a 7 to 1 decision at Shibe Park. Hemus bunted one of the St. Louis runs home and scored twice himself on Musial's single and homer.

The Cardinals teed off on start-
