200 Expected Here For Stuttering Meet

Nearly 200 speech pathologists, students and parents are expected to attend the conference on stuttering to be held at SUH today and Saturday.

The conference, "Twenty-Five Years of Stuttering Research and Its Clinical Application," will be open to the public, and will feature discussions by the country's first speech pathologist, Lee Edward Travis, and three of his early pupils. Travis, presently director of the speech and hearing clinic at the University of Southern California, received his training at SUH and was the first director of the Iowa speech clinic.

Johnson To Participate

Wendell Johnson, director of the SUH speech clinic and one of Travis' first stuttering students, will also participate in the two-day conference.

The three pupils that will participate in discussions with Travis are Charles Van Riper, director of the speech clinic at Western Michigan college of education; John Knott, associate professor of psychology in the SUH department of psychiatry, and Wendell Johnson, chairman of the council on speech pathology and audiology at SUH.

The conference will give the four men an opportunity to discuss and defend in open meeting their various theories about the basis of stuttering and ways in which stutterers can be helped to overcome their handicap.

First Time Together
This will be the first time the four men have come face to face, openly discussing their varying views, theories and methods developed over the past 25 years, according to Jacqueline Keaster, chairman of the conference and assistant professor of speech pathology at SUH.

Today each of the four principal participants will have an opportunity to present his views. Saturday they will join in a roundtable discussion of the problem of making the stutterer an accepted member of society despite his handicap. The conference will be held in the senate chamber of Old Capitol on the SUH campus.

Harriman to Meet Iowa Democrats

DES MOINES (AP) — Averell Harriman, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, will meet Iowa national convention delegates and party leaders here today.

About 30 Iowa delegates and alternates are expected to come to confer with Harriman, who has held numerous diplomatic and representative posts in the administrations of both Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

Noted Writer to Talk Here

Robert A. Smith, editorial writer with the New York Times, will be the second of a series of SUH summer lecturers Monday at 8 p.m. on the South Iowa Memorial Union campus.

He will speak on "What Makes Men Free?" In case of rain, the lecture will be held in Macbride auditorium. The summer lectures are a part of the 14th annual SUH

Robert A. Smith

Fine Arts festival. The festival, which lasts until August 6, includes four more lectures.

SUI Workshop In Management To Open Today

Four wage and salary stabilization authorities will tackle problems and questions posed by more than 125 persons attending the opening session of SUI's Labor-Management conference in the house chamber of Old Capitol at 9 a.m. today.

The four-man panel will include Marvin M. Schmidt, Des Moines, industry member of the regional wage stabilization board at Kansas City; Luther M. Slinkard, labor member of the regional WSB; Louis M. Solomon, vice-chairman and public member of the regional WSB, and James D. Marshall, Washington, D.C., industry member of the construction industry stabilization commission.

Sponsored by the university's bureau of labor and management, the two-day conference will also feature a study of safety in industry. W. A. Eggert, chief psychologist, Lumbermens Mutual Casualty company, Chicago, Ill., will speak on "Selling the Safety Program" at 1:30 p.m.

Saturday the conference will turn its attention to "The Public Interest in Labor-Management Relations," an address by Maj. Charles T. Estes, special assistant to the director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation service, Washington, D.C.

After roundtable discussions on the impact of labor-management relations of the community, on the farmer, and on prices, the Saturday luncheon program will feature "The Changing Pattern of Labor-Management Relations," a talk by Herbert Heneman, assistant director of the University of Minnesota's industrial relations center.

Clothing Union Head To Speak at Opening Of Econ Conference

H. H. Bookbinder, assistant research director of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers union, now on leave with the national production authority, Washington, D.C., will speak at two sessions of SUI's Workshop on Economic Education today.

Bookbinder will review "Economic Issues and Attitudes of American Labor" at a morning meeting in the Law Commons, and he will participate in a panel on the same subject in the afternoon.

Alexander Black, of the Solar Aircraft company, Des Moines, will speak on "The Role of Economic Education in a Free Society" at the workshop's dinner meeting this evening in the Iowa Memorial Union.

House Strikes 2 Blows At Administration Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house struck two blows at administration policy Thursday as it began voting on a bill to extend wage, price and rent controls for another year.

First it voted 169 to 102 to ease current restrictions on the importation of critical and strategic materials. This was a blow at the controls system set up by the International Materials Conference.

Then it adopted an amendment to hold down imports of foreign goods when the domestic production of similar goods is limited by allocation of raw materials. The vote was 112 to 43.

Rep. Abraham J. Multer (D-N.Y.), opposing the amendment, declared it would injure this nation's trade ties with friendly countries and force them to trade with Russia.

Meanwhile support developed for a proposal to abolish the wage stabilization board and replace it with a body stripped of all authority to intervene in labor disputes. The new group would be limited to policy functions.

House leaders hoped to dispose of the controls extension bill Thursday, but after five hours of

Taft's Arrive at GOP Dinner

SEN. ROBERT A. TAFT places a hand on the arm of his invalid wife as they arrived at the Republican senatorial committee dinner in Washington. The Ohio senator, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, discussed campaign plans with party leaders at the closed meeting. Mrs. Taft, still confined to her wheelchair after a recent illness, is pushed by the Taft chauffeur.

Taft Rips Ike's Aims, Criticizes Marshall

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft, starring in a nationally televised political feature, ripped into Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's foreign and domestic policies Thursday night and said he does not believe "the New Deal wing of the Republican party can win the coming presidential election."

Taft also made the direct statement that Gen. George C. Marshall was among those "responsible for" the loss of China to the Communists.

Marshall, former army chief of staff and secretary of state, was sent to China by President Truman as a special representative in 1945.

Taft, answering a question concerning Eisenhower's attitude toward the Far East, replied, "It is very difficult to tell because Gen. Eisenhower has not expressed his opinion about the Far East, as far as I can find, except that he condemned the loss of China in very general terms, refusing to name names like Gen. Marshall who were responsible for the loss of China."

Taft also said: "I do not believe Eisenhower understands the Taft-Hartley act but 'I feel he is hostile to it.'"

2. Eisenhower seems not to understand either the elements of a farm program, or the problem of government spending.

3. The general has gradually come around almost to the position which I have occupied on some domestic questions.

Taft Promises Tax Cut
4. He (Taft) would reduce taxes by 15 per cent in the second year after he is elected, but Eisenhower does not promise any reduction even in the second year.

5. He (Taft) has gained 58 or more delegates since Eisenhower's return from Europe, but "I can't find any that Gen. Eisenhower has gained."

The program was carefully rehearsed, with all principals present for more than an hour before the cameras focused on Taft.

It was carried over three major TV networks (CBS, ABC, and NBC) and was labeled "answer to Abilene."

Eisenhower's homecoming, including a speech and a news conference, at Abilene, Kan., was televised several weeks ago.

The "Answer to Abilene" program showed Taft delivering a prepared address; answering questions from several individuals and four newspapers; a group of girls known as "Belles for Bob" an adding machine ticking off the total delegates, by states, that Taft's organization claims for him; and a final brief sign-off talk by the senator.

Wins $12,000 on 70-Cent Bet

LONDON (AP) — Three numbers, 7-1-26, are the numbers on the record of three winning horses at the Ascot track Thursday which won $12,059.60 for a little man in a blue suit who bet 70 cents.

But the little man did not show up to claim his winnings. The manager of the totalisator waited for nearly an hour after the last race had been run, and then closed down the machine.

The little man in the blue suit, the only one of 19,146 bettors to pick the day's Ascot treble has nine days in which to claim his winnings.

Striking Union Agrees to Move Defense Steel

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The striking CIO United Steelworkers dispatched orders Thursday to local union officials to co-operate with company executives in moving defense-vital steel into the hands of the military.

David J. McDonald, secretary-treasurer of the steelworkers, telegraphed USW locals to pass defense material through picket lines. He acted after receiving a government list of warehouses and mills in which the needed types of steel are stored.

Elsewhere on the strike front: Murray Declined Comment
1. USW President Philip Murray declined to comment on President Truman's statement he is considering use of the Taft-Hartley Act to end the crippling 18-day-old steel strike. Some union officials and union members hinted they would balk at returning to work under a presidential order.

2. The independent steelworkers, a non-USW group which represents 13,000 employees of Weirton Steel company, in Weirton, W. Va., and Steubenville, O., reported it is near contract agreement with the firm. Those workers received an average of $2.11 an hour in May, compared to approximately $1.95 an hour paid USW members.

3. Striking unionists are feeling the financial pinch now that pre-strike savings have been eaten up. The USW does not pay strike benefits but does aid hardship cases.

Lay-Offs Pose Threat
4. Lay-offs in allied industries pose a growing threat to more and more workers. Several companies disclosed that furloughs of thousands of workers loom if the steel strike continues. The number already idled has risen past 100,000.

Progress was made in plans of government, industry and union to keep the military machine rolling by getting out steel needed by the armed forces and the Atomic Energy commission.

Ike's Views Expected On Delegates, Dams

DENVER (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower prepared Thursday for a flying weekend trip to Texas and Nevada, where he is expected to speak out on the contested Texas GOP delegates and on western reclamation.

The general kept the day free of appointments. His office said he worked on mail and on ideas he will develop in five free-wheeling meetings, speeches and news conferences during the trip.

The Republican presidential aspirant said Wednesday, in talking to the Oregon delegation, that he will speak out on the Texas delegate situation. Contesting groups support him and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the nomination. Both groups seek seats at the Republican national convention.

Methodists Invite Negro Churches To Join Conference

DAVENPORT (AP) — In what is believed to be the first action of its kind, Negro Methodist churches have been invited to join the North Iowa Methodist conference.

The conference passed a motion at its annual convention here late Wednesday, inviting the Negro Methodist churches within the conference bounds to "live within the framework of our state ecclesiastical organization."

There are only two Negro churches within conference territory — at Marshalltown and Mason City. They have a combined membership of about 100.

Ike Clarifies View On Budget Cutting

DENVER (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower made it clear that he was referring to a cut of $30 billion to $40 billion in the federal budget — not in taxes — when asked by a visitor to clarify a statement made a week ago in New York.

The statement was made in his closed visit with the New York delegation. It has been quoted in several forms. Wednesday a member of the Oregon delegation which visited the general asked him to clarify it.

Silent About Next Step In Solution of Deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman took the position Thursday that congress cannot compel him to seek a Taft-Hartley injunction to stop the steel strike. He said that even if he did so, the 650,000 CIO strikers might not obey a back-to-work court order.

The President said, in response to a question, that use of the Taft-Hartley Act has been under consideration all along, but indicated he is still extremely reluctant to invoke the law he has repeatedly denounced.

He said the strike is becoming more and more serious, and will affect every industry in the country unless production is resumed. But he was silent on his next move. He has asked congress for power to seize the industry but has been turned down.

The senate has requested him to use the Taft-Hartley Act, which provides for court injunctions to stop such strikes for 80 days, and the house is expected to follow suit.

Says T-H Is Permissive
But Truman said congress can't tell him what to do. The law is permissive and not mandatory, he said. He added that he is pretty hard to force when he doesn't want to do something, and pretty hard to hold back when he wants to do something.

Asked why he didn't seek a court injunction to postpone the strike 80 days, he said the strike previously was postponed 90 days and 80 more would only prolong the agony.

When one reporter remarked that production would go for 80 days, the President asked sharply how the newsmen knew that.

Implies Injunction Useless
Asked whether he was implying that the strikers would not obey an injunction, Truman replied, "Sure." He remarked that the strikers did work when he seized the industry. The supreme court later ruled that he lacked power to seize.

The Taft-Hartley Act provides no penalties for refusal to return to work, but courts have power to punish persons who flout injunctions.

The steel dispute, which started last November, is locked in a struggle over the union's demand for the union shop. This would require all workers to be members of the union. The industry has offered to meet most other union demands.

Congress Boosts Marine Strength To 400,000 Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate and house Thursday unanimously approved legislation setting the top strength of the U.S. marines at 400,000 enlisted men and giving the leathernecks a stronger voice in military policy.

The corps now has about 214,000 enlisted men.

The senate quickly passed a house-approved version and sent the bill to the White House. Both actions were by voice vote.

For many years the marines have had no direct voice in military high command. They have been represented by the navy.

Under the house-approved legislation, the marine commandant for the first time would be permitted to sit-in with the joint chiefs of staff — the heads of the army, navy and air force — as a co-equal on matters affecting the marines.

The measure now goes to the senate for expected approval.

Reds Want Evidence In 'Germ War' Charge

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Russia was reported by anti-Reds Thursday to have asked Communist China and North Korea to make a better case to back up charges that UN forces are using germ warfare in Korea.

Russia was said to have upbraided the two countries for not producing more satisfactory evidence up to now on alleged bacteriological weapons.

The reports of Russian displeasure with the conduct of the germ warfare propaganda campaign came from non-Communist delegation sources in the UN, which specified they must not be identified.

Top POW Leader Discovered

IDENTIFIED ONLY AS LT. COL. RHEE, (hands behind head) who had been sought for weeks as the number one Communist POW leader of compound 606 on Kojé island, leaves the compound after he had been pointed out by an escaping North Korean prisoner. He had apparently been masquerading as an enlisted man.

ON A SHOPPING SPREE: An Iowa City music store has available almost every record ever recorded—a statement made with no trace of exaggeration. Their phenomenal collection ranges from classical cuttings now extinct to discs straight out of a jazz-fiend's paradise—all are "collector's items."

Now on sale at the store are the MGM album "Lovely To Look At" ("Roberta") 45 rpm, 33 rpm, and 78 rpm... an album of scenes from Verdi's "Otello" with Eleanor Steber and Ramon Vinay... a new album, "As You Desire Me," featuring Jo Stafford singing type of songs which established her fame before hill-billy tunes and Frankie Laine duets reared their ugly heads. Included are "Don't Worry 'Bout Me," "September In The Rain," "East of the Sun," "Something To Remember You By," and Rodgers and Hart's "Spring Is Here."

Also available at the store are books on music, including a new biography of Verdi—a musical subject-matter always engrossing. A department store seems to be the only merchandise market in town to handle white swimming trunks—in case any potential life-guards insist upon white as the best contrast to that golden brown or, if you insist, parlor grey—summer pigmentation. In another department, a new sun lotion, "Copper Tone," is being marketed which is probably the only chemists, burn-preventer devised which actually prevents that lobster red shade. Formerly sold only in Florida and California, the miraculous lotion is now available to we of the middle west.

IN THE CURRENT ISSUE of "Quick" magazine, in case you haven't noticed: "The Aberdeen city council refused to foot the bill for chorus girls with nothing on." Later a councilor explained, "we can get the real McCoy free right here." ... Real, live, 100 per cent chorus girls for free? OMISSIONS that should not have been omitted in my recent cataloging of "Who's Who in the University Theater"—Mary Van Fleet, the regal "Mary Stuart" of stage fame, Nancy Burnam, noted for her sincere performance in "Death Of A Salesman," Stan Moody, an old hand at "old skinflint" roles (i.e. "The Beggar's Opera") and a perfect choice for the lead in "Second Threshold," (providing it hasn't been cast yet), Jean Ogden, the best "stage hand" in the business, and Gerald Tippit, a natural "hero" type from the deep south. Last, but by no means least, is Sue Wood, and who could forget her "Queen Elizabeth" in "Mary Stuart." Miss Wood is back on campus and ready and willing to emoté again.

"ART DIGEST," the "good book" of art-minded enthusiasts, has, in its latest issue, a summary of "New York Gallery Groups" with the type of exhibits they will show, a column of "Who's Who" in the fine arts area, a summertime guide for "New York City Museum Visitors," and a well-written editorial on "Art Education and TV Antennae." BELIEVE IT OR NOT, Iowa City's summer "sub tropical" climate bears an amazing resemblance to the climate of India, as described in Sinclair's "Night In Bombay"—sudden spurts of rain followed by oppressive heat followed by more rain. If one were of an imaginative nature, one could close one's eyes and imagine a harem of geisha girls doing the dance of the several veils. The only assets we haven't got are India's red clay and the Taj Mahal hotel!

Prisoners of War

U.S. Medium Tank Was Home, Workshop and Weapon for G.I.'s

Tank 61—Ready for Battle in Korea
THIS U.S. MEDIUM TANK WAS THE HOME of five American G.I.'s in the Korean war. In action near Chip-yong-ni, it carried the five through enemy lines to relieve the American 23d infantry and a French battalion. Shown here is Sgt. Rudolph E. Kardynal of Springfield, Mass., who mans the 50-caliber machine gun. (This is a U.S. army photograph.)

By Central Press
SOMEWHERE IN KOREA — Tank, Medium, M-46, USA 30163-381, U.S. Army Serial No. 525, and assigned No. 61 by D Company, 6th Tank Battalion, attached to IX Corps, was more than a hulk of steel stamped with various confusing numbers. It was both home and workshop for five men. Yes, five men would heat their rations over its exhaust, sleep on its back, bathe beside it, and fight from it. These five formed a compact little unit which was taught to fight as a team. Leader was 2nd Lt. Jesse O. Giddens from Perry, Fla. He joined the regular army 10 years ago when he was 18 and had been a master sergeant until he got his battlefield promotion.

Gunner From Poland
Second-in-command was the gunner, Sgt. Rudolph E. Kardynal, originally from Karkov, Poland, and now from Springfield, Mass.

He arrived in the United States in 1947, when he was 20, and in 1948 joined the Regular Army. Driver of No. 61 was Sgt. John A. Calhoun from Laona, Wis. Another regular army man, Calhoun has been in since 1947, when he was 17 years old. Next man on the team was Pfc. Lovan K. Knutson, the assistant gunner and radio man. He hailed from Inwood, Iowa, and is now 25 years old. Cpl. Emery Dotson, 19, from Majestic, Ky., completed the team. He was BOG gunner and assistant driver.

Action in February
Illustrative of their combat job is an action that took place on two February days. The whole show, started on the 13th with a field telephone jangling at their company command post and a voice barking: "You are to move up and relieve the 23d Infantry and the French battalion at Chip-yong-ni — they are completely surrounded. You are to get through at all costs." "At all costs!" "At all costs!" Those three short words packed a tremendous amount of meaning to the crew.

Infantry Leaves Tanks
About 1,000 yards south of Kookuri the small arms and mortar fire became so heavy the infantrymen riding on the tanks had to leave them and go afoot. Chinese were well entrenched on both sides of the road.

This wasn't the first time the crew of Tank 61 had encountered the Chinese — they had been surrounded themselves at Wonsan and been without food, water and ammunition until supplied by air-drop. But Dotson claims he had never seen as many Chinese as he saw that afternoon. The chief danger was the numerous rushes the enemy made toward the rear of the tanks with pole and satchel charges. And bazookas at short range were a menace. They accounted for two American tanks that afternoon.

Snows All Night
The weather remained cloudy and cold. It snowed all that night. The crew buttoned up the hatches in the tank, ate their rations cold, and catnapped. They took turns at guard, manning the .50-caliber machine gun. Next morning they moved toward the trapped unit with the infantry riding on the tank decks. As their ammunition was used up the infantrymen would jump in the ditches with the Chinese — beating them over the head with their entrenching tools. Knutson uttered a quick prayer when a round of bazooka ammunition failed to explode and bounced off the turret. "There were so many of them and so much of their equipment all around us, that anywhere I pointed the 90-mm. I could hit something," says Sergeant Kardynal. "We knocked out at least three bazooka teams.

Bullet Pierces Helmet
Lieutenant Giddens was lucky. A bullet passed through his helmet but didn't even touch him. But Sergeant Calhoun didn't have the same luck. Some ammunition exploded in the ready rack and he received first, second and third degree burns. He was evacuated with other American wounded. (He recovered and later rejoined his crew.) Shortly thereafter the task force succeeded in making contact with the 23d and the French battalion. In just the small area that D Company fought, Knutson counted 1,200 enemy dead. The tankers had accomplished their break-through mission.

BALKS AT DISHWASHING
MALLING, ENG. (P)—A judge Wednesday sentenced Charles Mackay to 14 days in jail because he refused to wash dishes. A reception center for homeless people said Mackay had gotten free lodging in return for a promise to wash 'em.

TO THE EDITOR:

Friday the 13th may be a bad day for the appearance of one's letter-to-the-editor in The Daily Iowan. But Mr. James MacNair's answer to my letter on the case of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg is much more unfortunate. What is most unforgivable is that Mr. MacNair, a supposedly responsible journalist with a professed concern about "checking all the facts," should have written his letter on the basis of one second-hand inflammatory article without checking back into the case itself. A sober evaluation of the issues, not name-calling or ignoring my arguments, will decide whether the Rosenbergs deserve to die.

As I see it, Mr. MacNair, ostensibly presenting those "aspects of the case" which I fail to see or else do not care to acknowledge, makes two main points: that the issue of anti-Semitism has been unjustly introduced into the defense of the Rosenbergs, and that those who are taking the initiative in bringing the facts to light (the National Committee to Secure Justice in the Rosenberg Case) are either Communists or members of a "front." These "aspects of the case" are, at best, irrelevant to my letter.

I said nothing at all about anti-Semitism in the Rosenberg trial, yet Mr. MacNair devotes more than half his communication to it. Since he brings it up, however, it should be pointed out that anti-Semitism was pertinent in the trial. It is significant that leading Jewish publications like The Sentinel, American-Jewish magazine published in Chicago, said Judge Kaufman "was carried away to an extent by the hysteria which has overtaken our country," and that the Jewish Daily Forwards found the death sentence "too horrible" and "too cruel," and added, "every Jew feels the same way." Furthermore, the government's chief prosecuting attorney, Irving Saypol, was reprimanded after the trial by the court of appeals for anti-Semitism in another case. Finally, it is strange that in a city (New York) which has a Jewish population of more than one-third there was not a single Jewish juror on the trial panel. Against such a background, it is not inconceivable that anti-Semitism would prejudice a jury. But this is hardly the main point of the defense.

At a time when everyone from Owen Lattimore to George C. Marshall is accused of Communist sympathies, it is not surprising that the charge should come up here. The accusation has become an occupational hazard for those who act, as well as talk, against injustice. What is more important is that no amount of frantic name-calling can hide the central issues of the trial. It is significant that the Anti-Defamation League, which sponsored the Oliver Pilat article quoted by Mr. MacNair, has taken no position on the guilt or innocence of the Rosenbergs. Furthermore, it is appalling that Mr. MacNair makes no attempt to come to terms with the key points I made about the trial. The testimony by David Greenglass, self-confessed spy, and by some 20 other witnesses was so unsupported by documents and conventional material evidence that in normal times the prosecution's case would have been ridiculed out of court. Again and again, competent observers have refuted Judge Kaufman's statement that the Rosenbergs were guilty of "putting into the hands of the Russians the A-bomb." Of the hundreds of examples that could be quoted (I mentioned two in my letter of June 13th), I add one: in December, 1951, in the opening paragraph of a news story dated in Washington, D.C., the International News Service reported, "The atomic energy commission Friday bared secret documentary proof that Russia has known the scientific secrets of atom bomb manufacture since 1940, the year the United States began attempts to develop the missile." The overt acts charged against the Rosenbergs supposedly occurred in 1944-45.

Nor does Mr. MacNair face the fact that never before has a death sentence been imposed by an American court for espionage. Even in the wartime spy case known as U.S. vs. Molzahn, four men who gave vital aircraft secrets to Germany in the fall of 1941 were let off with 5 to 15 year sentences. Finally, Mr. MacNair overlooks my point that the judge and prosecutor prejudiced the jury by introducing, extraneously, the assumption that the Rosenbergs were Communists, the fact that not a gnat of evidence was introduced in support and that the Rosenbergs were not being tried for their ideas. In short, Mr. MacNair dodges the major issues. But that the Rosenberg case has all the earmarks of a 20th century Dreyfus case seems to concern him not at all.

Mr. MacNair mentions my reference to the pamphlet, "To Secure Justice in the Rosenberg Case" by William A. Reuben. Since he didn't bother to read it before disparaging it, I recommend it to him again. Mr. Reuben's model reporting job is documented, honest as it is shocking, and still unanswered by those who fear it. I challenge Mr. MacNair to write for it (246 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y.) and answer it point by point, in as competent a way as Mr. Reuben has done. George Bluestone 617 E. College

Army Secretary Pace To Call for More Men

WASHINGTON (P)—Secretary of the Army Pace said Wednesday "it will be imperative... to ask congress for more men" if the war in Korea continues. He did not say how many more men would be required. The United States now has nearly 3 1/2 million men under arms in the army, navy and air force.

The secretary gave his appraisal to a senate appropriations subcommittee in a prepared statement made public by Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.). O'Mahoney is chairman of the group, which met behind closed doors. Pace appealed to congress for more money and more freedom to spend it for arming than the house has voted. He said the army has only 20 of the 21 divisions it needs, and could not afford to expand until the $46 billion ceiling the house has voted on military spending. In being, we have eight divisions. "Of the 20-division army now in the Far East and five in Europe," he said. "Of the remaining seven in the U.S., we have been able to maintain only one as a strategic reserve, ready and capable of immediate deployment overseas."

"If we are called upon to continue the war in Korea into fiscal year 1953 (starting July 1), as now appears virtually certain, the support requirements placed on our forces here at home will be greater and their state of readiness correspondingly even less favorable. "If the war continues in Korea, it will be imperative under these facts to ask congress for more men."

Autonomy in Indo-China Is Help to Allied Cause

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

Increased U.S. aid for the anti-Communist forces in Indo-China is going primarily to the three young national states there rather than to France.

Insofar as conduct of the war is concerned, that doesn't mean a thing. Laos, Cambodia and the chief belligerent, Vietnam, although given some technical autonomy in 1949 as members of the French union, actually are completely controlled by France in all war matters and in most other things too.

Their governments were imposed by France and their leaders owe their jobs to France. Opposition to French colonialism was the beginning of and still is the chief strength of the rebellious Vietminh party, now Communist controlled.

Thus many of the rebels are of a type which once were called patriots in the United States. The United States could hardly enlist in a war against them except that they first accepted Communism, aid, and now have been taken over as one of the weapons of imperialist Communism in the Russian effort to dominate the world. The complexity has a close parallel nearby in British-controlled Malaya.

French Want Improvement
France shows some signs of a desire to improve Indo-China's situation as soon as she can without turning the area over to the Communists. It's just a cold fact, though, that the more involved the United States becomes, the more she is considered throughout southeast Asia—throughout the Orient—as a partner of imperialism.

The effort, then, to act as far as possible through native rather than European institutions, is an important one. It tends to strengthen the local states for their eventual time of real autonomy and diminishes the talking points of the opposition.

By building up the armies of the three states the drain on France will also be reduced, and she will be able to contribute more to the European defense program which the U.S. considers so vital.

U.S. Contribution Heavy
The United States is now contributing about one third of the material, costing a billion dollars, which goes annually into the Indo-China war. This is about three times what it was two years ago, when France was primarily holding on rather than trying to clean up the situation once and for all.

That effort is now being made, and both French and American authorities are expressing optimism that it can be done. Vietnam has been badly kicked around this year. It will reassemble its forces during the next few rainy months, but the Allies are hoping one more campaign season will do the job.

Then, if the job is to remain done, France, with considerable American help, is going to have to start doing for Indo-China what the U.S. did for the Philippines.

Try and Stop Me

IN No People Like Show People, Maurice Zolotow adds a choice item to the Jack Benny saga. Jack was once so down on his luck that when his agent heard a New Jersey pop vaudeville palladium was offering $25 for a novelty animal act, he cried, "I'll take it." He borrowed two mangy Pekinese pups from a friend, carried them on-stage in the Jersey theater, tied them to a piece of scenery, and proceeded to wow the audience with funny stories and wheezings on his fiddle. The manager forked over the $25 with the reservation that this certainly was the most peculiar animal act he ever did see. "Don't those pups do any tricks at all?" he demanded. "They sure do," said Jack airily, "but not at these prices."

A noted savant, addressing the Academie Francaise in Paris, assured his audience that civilization would last another fifty thousand years. "Bravo," cried an Academie member. Swish of Petticoat New Spring Sound For Every Woman

Any woman can pull a Scarlett O'Hara act these days. All she needs is a couple of swishy new cotton petticoats.

And, now they're in colors — stripes, plaids or prints — for every figure type.

For the young in years are wide skirts billowed out with crinolines. Ladies who are not so young and have to watch their silhouettes, probably would take to the classic style.

Regardless of fashion likes, the new cotton lingerie underlies both silhouettes appropriately.

Slim-silhouetted slips cut on the straight plus bias are classic in line and becoming to all figure types, they suggested. The strapless cotton batiste slip with elasticized sections for form-fit bodies alternating with eyelet-embroidered panels and slim skirt is recommended for most figures. Camisole and petticoat sets trimmed with eyelet embroidery make slim underpinnings for classic styles. Many slim skirts with deep flounces are ideal under moderately flared hemlines.

Wonderful cottons to interpret the full skirt trend are crisp and taffetized. Chintz, moire, embossed and waffle piques and organdies are included in this group. Since the wide-skirted vogue depends upon its crinoline, designers are featuring petticoats with crinoline ruffles as well as crinolines cut in a variety of ways. Some of the new crinolines feature a deep hem ruffle; others are made with a long torso line. New and fashionable are the pastel crinolines in pink, blue and yellow.

Coleman's Works Accepted for Show At Chicago Library

Professor Carroll Coleman, of the SUI school of journalism, has had five publications accepted for display in the current Chicago and Midwestern Bookmaking Show at the Chicago Public Library.

Coleman, who teaches typography at SUI, produced these works at the Prairie Press, which he operates as a personal enterprise in Iowa City.

Other non-commercial presses represented by one or more books and pamphlets are: University of Illinois Press, 4; University of Oklahoma Press, 4; presses of the universities of Wisconsin, Nebraska, and Loyola, two each; and presses of the universities of Chicago, Texas and Louisiana, one each.

Judges for the contest were Walter Yust, editor-in-chief, Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc.; Paul Perles, designer for Year Book Publishers, Inc.; William Bold, Rand McNally & Co., and William Picher, Main Street Book Store.

Glorified Burger Has New Version

Hamburger Crumble is a delightful new version of this country's glorified hamburger. This sure-fire favorite has two new companions — cooked spaghetti and green beans.

To serve four people, lightly brown one pound of hamburger and 1/4 cup chopped onion in melted fat. Then stir in two tablespoons enriched flour and 3/4 teaspoon salt. Gradually add one No. 2 can of tomatoes (2 1/2 cups), stirring occasionally until thickened. Add two cups cooked green beans and six ounces of cooked spaghetti. Mix well and heat thoroughly.

If you like, sprinkle with minced chives. Serve Hamburger Crumble with a citrus fruit-curry endive salad and enriched hard rolls with butter for a hearty dinner.

Bird Lovers Win Over Squawkers

ARCADIA, CALIF. (AP) — After two weeks of pondering, the city council decided Thursday that peacocks can — and will — be peacocks, without any municipal meddling.

Ancestors of the birds in question roamed at will years ago across the sprawling E. J. Baldwin ranch, much of which has since been subdivided. Some residents now complain the birds are noisy at night, particularly during mating season.

But bird lovers insist it's a peacock's nature to be noisy now and then, and not a matter warranting city interference. The council concurs.

Miss Betty Houghton and Robert Hauser were married Sunday afternoon in the Central Christian church in Marshalltown.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clement T. Houghton of Marshalltown and Mr. Hauser is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Hauser of Whitten.

The bride's sister, Miss Delores Houghton of Marshalltown, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Marcelle Baxter of Niota, Ill., Marilyn Brown and Patricia Marsolek, both of Marshalltown.

Donald Hauser, cousin of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Harley Shine of Traer, Dwight Long of Whitten and Bernard Weaver of Marshalltown.

Mrs. Hauser was graduated from SUI in 1951. Mr. Hauser attended Capitol City Commercial college. At present, he is an auditor for the state of Iowa and is working in Iowa City after July 6.

Paint Remover Contains Cotton

There's cotton everywhere, and if you don't believe it look around. Why there's even cotton in paint remover, or at least in one paint remover, Klean-Strip. Cellulose-acetate, a derivative of the cotton plant, is used in Klean-Strip as a bodying agent, instead of the wax used in old-fashioned paint removers.

This new development makes it unnecessary to do the mean, messy job of "washing-up" before a new finish can be applied to a surface which has been stripped, its manufacturer claims.

Musicians Go 'Off Beam' At Recording Sessions

NEW YORK (CP) — All musicians are, of course, mad. It is not until you see them making their demented way through a recording session, however, that you understand exactly how off-beam they are.

Most of America's large recording studios are here in Manhattan—and a little time spent drifting through them, watching everyone from a jazz pianist to a coloratura soprano performing for the microphone, can be enormously educational.

When Metropolitan Opera singer Rise Stevens steps up to wax a disc, as the trade papers put it—laymen in the studio are bowled over to see her husband expectorate on her neck.

The explanation is — well, explanatory, if not simple. The husband, Walter Surovy, tells you politely that it's an old Czechoslovakian ceremony to bring good luck. It seems to work; Miss Stevens hasn't turned out a bad record yet.

One of the top two-piano teams in the land is that of Jack Lowe and Buck Whittemore. If you are around when they're recording, you will discover that they will not allow proceedings to begin until they are sure they have in their pockets the cigarette lighters they received years ago at a ship's concert, when they made one of their first public appearances.

However, the piano players go further than good-luck pieces. The talented Amparo Iturbi, sister of Jose (Boogie Beat), often can be found stretched out on the studio floor while listening to playbacks of records she just has made. Claims it relaxes her.

Dick Liebent, who plays the organ in Radio City Music hall, actually has been known to stand on his head on a piano top during a session. He says it increases his circulation, but we, of course, know it to be musicians' mania.

If you watch Mario Lanza record, you will see that glass-shattering tenor spend the minutes before his performance whimpering like a puppy. To relax his larynx, he comments, Perry Como is almost normal, except he won't record in a starched shirt; has to be swathed in sport shirt and slacks.

MR. VINCE MORAVEC HAS CONSTRUCTED and designed this flower arrangement outside his home sign "I Look Up At Flowers" hangs between the arrangement. Morning glories climb the roof where there are sets of Dutch figures displayed spraying flowers.

Petunia Fancier Does His Share To Beautify City

By JO PACKEY

Vince Moravec is one Iowa Citian who has gone all out to do his share in the campaign to beautify Iowa City.

He has constructed and designed a flower arrangement outside his home at 605 1/2 S. Gilbert, that has cost him approximately $300 already. "And there's more to come," he says.

He has planted red, white and blue morning glories and many colors of petunias in grey sheet metal boxes with bronze flower decorations. The arrangement of three neon lighted flower boxes, which increase in size, clings to the wall in front of his second story living room window. A lighted decoration hangs between the arrangement. A sign made of bronze sheet metal spells out "I Look Up At Flowers."

Morning glories climb to the roof where three sets of Dutch figures, a man and a woman, made of sheet metal, are displayed spraying flowers.

Moravec, who lives alone with his two dogs, is the owner of the Hawkeye Sheet Metal Works next door to the home that he designed and built.

"I was the original petunia man in Iowa City," he said. "Four years ago, I had petunia plants for 18 months growing inside the house. They grew clear up to the ceiling along my front windows."

Although the flower arrangement has not been completed, people have already slowed down in front of the second story display to notice it.

He has between 280 and 300 petunias that he has set out. "With the artificial night illumination from the neon lights in the flower boxes and along the top and bottom ledges, I hope to lengthen the morning glories I've planted into evening glories," Mr. Moravec said.

To solve the problem of the sun's hot rays drying out the plants, he has lined the boxes with 1/2-inch thick paper and lined and wrapped heavy paper around each can to insulate the plants.

He gets up as early as 5 a.m. each morning to put on the finishing details of this unique floral display. He still plans to include vines running from the flower boxes on the ground floor up to the second floor window boxes.

Flowers always grow for Mr. Moravec, who bathes and cares for them in his free time. He gives the 30 or 40 feet of climber vines that grow on the vine rack in his living room a both every two weeks, using the water spraying attachment of his vacuum cleaner.

For a man who started a flower hobby years ago when a lady gave him a slip of a plant, he has this to say: "Plants smile at you. People don't realize the full beauty of life they can have by growing flowers around them to smile at them and make life seem worth living."

Mr. Moravec, active in the campaign to beautify Iowa City, is one Iowa Citian who just loves flowers.

Students Invited To Union Party

There will be a record dance in the River room of the Iowa Memorial Union tonight from 8 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. for all SUI students.

This will be another in the series of "Friday Frolics" sponsored by the summer Union board. Entertainment has been planned for the evening. There also will be movies and bridge. No admission will be charged.

Women Play Large Role In India's Development

Taffetized Finish Applied to Fabrics

"Never underestimate the power of a woman." The tiny person of Mrs. Hansa Mehta, India's representative on the U.S. Human Rights Commission, believes the familiar phrase, but her soft-spoken words carry its full impact.

One of the three women on the Commission, on which she has served since 1947, Mrs. Mehta believes that the work of the body, the completed Declaration of Human Rights and the present drafting of the Covenants to implement it, will serve as an inspiration and a message of hope to peace-loving peoples everywhere.

Mrs. Mehta explained that Indian women "are not working on the lines of some feminist movements prevalent abroad. Perhaps it is because the fight for suffrage has not been necessary in our country. (The Constitution gives all citizens over 21 years the right to vote, regardless of sex, caste or religion). And perhaps, too, because all of us, men and women, had to start from scratch together to fulfill the democratic ideals on which our freedom struggle was based, that we are 'humanists' and not 'feminists.'"

Mrs. Mehta does not regard her position as unusual. She pointed out that she is just one of the many Indian women in responsible positions today and that the new Republic is depending on all its citizens, regardless of sex. "Our Constitution," she continued, "has lifted women out of the minority category, endorsing a position which they have actually held since Mahatma Gandhi first called on them to participate in the fight for independence.

"We responded, including those who had never been out of their homes before. And it was through this struggle that we learned that we, too, had a very positive responsibility in building the country that we had fought for. Our men learned it too for there hasn't been the slightest hesitation in placing capable women in the central cabinet, in state governments, in embassies abroad and in international organizations.

Mrs. Mehta has been in the forefront of the freedom movement since 1930. She is also very prominent in educational work, and at present is one of the representatives of the Government of India on the American Education Foundation Board for the Indo-U.S. Fulbright Scholarship Exchange Student program, as well as being Vice-Chancellor of Baroda University, one of India's 28 universities. She has also written several books in Gujarati and English, including translations of "Hamlet" and "The Merchant of Venice."

Mrs. Mehta is not the only active member of the family. Her husband, Dr. Jivraj N. Mehta, was India's Director-General of Health Services (1947-48) and is at present Minister of Finance for Bombay State. Their daughter, Anjali, took her M.A. at Columbia University (1949) and is now in Delhi in one of the government's three tourist information offices.

Fashion accent is on crisp fabrics. One is called the "taffetized" finish. The finish is not new, but its application has been expanded to a variety of fabrics. It may be applied to crepes, shantung, tafetas, Japanese silk habutates, Hono, and tissue failles.

The "taffetized" finish is made by applying a lacquer to the fabric surface. The fiber content and the weave or fabric construction determine the viscosity of the lacquer to be applied in order to achieve the best adherence to the fabric and impart the desired hand or crispness. For example, the lacquer applied very lightly gives a crisp, flexible but soft hand; if applied heavily, a stiffer fabric with more body, more rustle, is achieved.

The national institute of cleaning and dyeing recommends that you take care in selecting the taffetized finished fabrics you may want in your wardrobe. Some of them are serviceable; others require special handling; still others are unserviceable.

Brooks' Erskine Pitches No-Hit Game

Cubs Get Only 1 Baserunner

BROOKLYN (AP)—Carl Erskine, 25-year-old Brooklyn righthander, pitched a near-perfect game Thursday, turning in a no-hit, no-run game as the Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs for the third straight time, 5-0.

Erskine allowed only one Chicago batter to reach base as he became the first National leaguer to turn the trick this year. Virgil Trucks of the Detroit Tigers, against the Washington Senators on May 15, is the only American leaguer to turn in a no-hitter this season.

Willard Ramsdell, Chicago's second pitcher, was the batter to reach base. He walked on four straight pitches in the third inning to ruin Erskine's bid for the first perfect game since Charley Robertson of the Chicago White Sox retired 27 Tigers in succession on April 30, 1922.

First This Year
It was the first National league no-hitter since Cliff Chambers of Pittsburgh checked the Boston Braves May 6, 1951.

The last time Chicago was held hitless was on May 2, 1917, by Fred Toney of the Cincinnati Reds.

The victory was Erskine's sixth against one defeat and his first against Chicago since he conquered the Cubs in his major league debut, Aug. 5, 1948.

Brooklyn President Walter F. O'Malley, happy beyond words, presented Erskine with a $500 check immediately after the game and ordered a case of champagne to be sent down to the clubhouse where the Dodgers celebrated as if they had just won the pennant.

Claims It Was Control
"My control did it," beamed Erskine in the clubhouse as he was being besieged by photographers from all sides.

"I threw a lot of curves and some fast balls. I had them hitting the pitch I wanted them to. My control was good, I didn't have to resort to my change of pace, which is my best pitch."

Although only five balls were hit to the outfield, Erskine needed and received some fine defensive help from his mates. Twice third baseman Bobby Morgan made well stops and throws to take away hits from the Cub batters. Erskine also chipped in with fine fielding plays. He figured in six of the putouts.

Furillo Aids Erskine
In the fifth inning Carl Furillo backed up against the right field fence to gather in Ransom Jackson's deep fly. Furillo had to do the same thing to haul in Hank Sauer's deep smash in the seventh.

The Dodgers wasted little time giving the "knot hole day" gathering of 14,000, including 7,732 cash customers, a demonstration teed off on starter Warren Hack of their hitting prowess. They er for three runs in the first inning as Roy Campanella and Furillo smashed home runs. Andy Parko followed with another four-bagger in the second to send Hacker to the showers.

Ramsdell then baffled the Dodgers until the eighth when the Brooks got their fifth run.

Pirates 8, Giants 1

NEW YORK (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates scored five times in a hectic third inning to defeat the New York Giants, 8 to 1, and drop the National league champions five games behind the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers.

During the third inning rally, a rhubarb developed when plate umpire Babe Pinelli first called Pittsburgh outfielder George Metkovich out, then safe. When play was resumed after a heated argument, Leo Durocher announced that the Giants were playing the game under protest because of Pinelli's reversed decision.

Veteran righthander Murry Dickson went the distance for the Pirates, posting his fifth triumph as he checked the Giants with five hits.

The Pirates made 12 hits, including two singles by Dick Groat, 21-year-old Duke university athlete who signed his professional contract only two days ago and played his first game at shortstop Thursday.

Cards 6, Phillies 4

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals pulled their favored "big inning act" Thursday night with five tallies in the sixth to whip the Philadelphia Phillies, 6 to 4. Doubles by Hal Rice and Red Schoendienst plus a triple by Cloyd Boyer added to the Phillies' downfall.

'Dutch' Harrison Cards 3 Under Par

Ozark Golfer Is PGA Medalist

LOUISVILLE (AP)—E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, 42-year-old barnstormer from the foot of the Ozarks, won the low medal in the PGA golf tournament Thursday with a 36-hole score of 136, eight under par.

The tall, stoop-shouldered Arkansas traveler riveted a three-under-par 59 to a first round 67 over the wide-open big spring course to clinch the $250 qualifying prize by a stroke over Harry Todd of Dallas.

Todd, playing in his first PGA, fired the day's best round — a sparkling 66 — while others, Cary Middlecoff, Lloyd Mangrum and Lew Worsham, went boldly for the course record of 64 but wilted under a sweltering sun.

The low 64 qualifiers begin the sudden death match-play today, with the field to be reduced to 16 with two rounds of eliminations.

From then on, it's 36-hole matches every day until the championship is decided next Tuesday in golf's most rugged test.

Defending champion Sam Snead heads the bracket. Exempt from qualifying, the aching back West Virginian changed his mind and finally decided to shoot for the medal. Troubled by a pulled muscle in his back, he shot two even-par 72's for 144.

Golfers who suffer gallery jitters go home early in the PGA. Take the throng that thrilled to Lloyd Mangrum's 4-under-par 62 on the front nine during Thursday's qualifying. And died for the brutally bad breaks that hounded Porky Oliver like an incurable disease.

Oliver's tough luck saddened the same 300 to 400 hearts that did some extra beats for the masterful exhibition of Mangrum.

After Oliver had been in the tangled bluegrass rough five times and in two traps on six holes, a galleryite suggested:

"Ol' Satan's sure following you today."

"Aw, I'm not a very good golfer anyway," Porky growled with his gravel voice.

Oliver hit the middle of the fairway with his drive on one rare occasion. His caddy walked automatically to the rough anyway, about 40 yards beyond Oliver's ball. Porky called him back and good-naturedly asked him:

"Who d'ya think I am, Tarzan?"

Shantz Wins 11th Straight, 4-1

CHICAGO (AP)—Philadelphia's miraculous lefthander, pint-sized Bobby Shantz, Thursday achieved his 11th consecutive victory of the season as the "A's" divided a doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox.

Shantz pitched Philadelphia to a stirring 4-1 victory in the opening with a brilliant five-hit performance to register his 12th triumph against one defeat. The White Sox barely won the second, 5-4. As a result, the Sox remained in third place, four games behind the league leading Yankees, despite the Sox' 10 victories in their last 13 games.

The Latins, Minnie Minoso and Hector Rodriguez took charge in the second game but the Sox were within a hair's breath of blowing it in the ninth.

Minoso contributed his season's eighth home run and Rodriguez drove home the Chicago team's second and third runs with a double in the fourth.

Joe Dobson, starting pitcher, retired in the eighth and in the ninth it required both Bill Kennedy and Harry Dorish to stop the A's one run short of tying the score.

In the first game, Philadelphia triumphed with a three run blast in the ninth, after the Sox had tied the score, 1-1, in the seventh.

Bosox Blank St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A young righthander pitcher who previously had started only one game this season and failed to last five innings then, completely baffled the St. Louis Browns Thursday as the Boston Red Sox won the series final, 2 to 0.

Ivan Delock, whose regular chore with the Red Sox is relief pitching, held the Browns to five scattered hits as he recorded his third victory.

The Browns took the series, two games to one.

Boston's first-inning run, scored off Ken Holcombe, started with a walk to the first batter of the game, Dom DiMaggio. Billy Goodman's single to right advanced Dell and he scored on George Kell's infield hit.

The Browns, in turn, loaded the bases with two out of their hits and a walk in this busy first inning, but Delock pulled out unharmed when left fielder Archie Wilson turned Dick Kryhoski's fly in to a double play by picking Jim Delsing off second base.

The Red Sox drove Holcombe out in the third inning and were then handcuffed by relief Dave Madison. But the Sox added their second run off Satchel Paige in the ninth when Kell doubled and was driven home by Del Wilber.

Reds 7, Braves 4

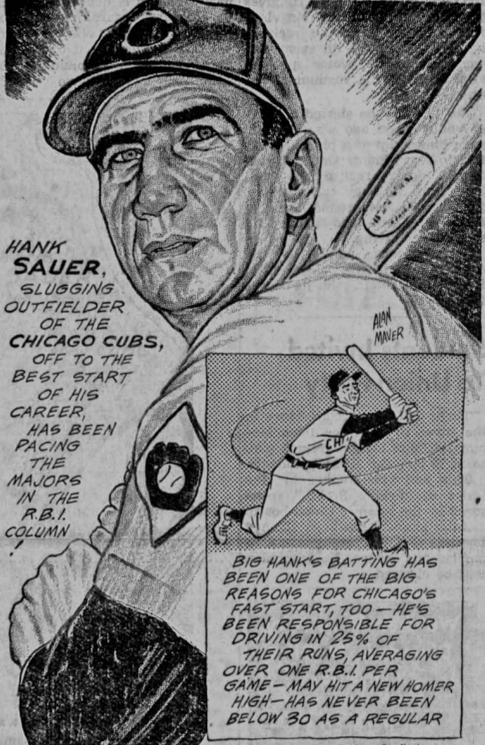

BOSTON (AP)—Hank Edwards blasted relief pitcher Sheldon Jones for a three-run homer in the ninth inning Thursday night to give the Cincinnati Reds a 7-4 victory over the Boston Braves. The Reds pulled into an eighth inning tie by driving starter Ernie Johnson out of action with a two-run uprising.

Jones set the stage for his downfall by passing Grady Hatton. After the latter was sacrificed by Willard Marshall, Ted Kluszewski was walked intentionally. Eddie Pellagrini went in to run for Kluszewski before Edwards lashed his fourth homer of the season into the Reds' bullpen in right field.

The Reds bunched four of their 11 hits against Johnson in the eighth to deadlock matters. During that rally, Bubba Church, the Cincinnati starter, gave way to pinch-hitter Cal Abrams, who singled home both Andy Seminick and Wally Westlake.

Reynolds Hurls Yanks To 8-0 Win Over Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—Hulking Allie Reynolds, the New York Yankee righthander who shuns help from relief pitchers, hurled his third 1952 shutout and his 15th straight complete game Thursday as the first place Yankees battered the Detroit Tigers, 8 to 0, with the help of two home runs by Yogi Berra and one by Hank Bauer.

The Yankees grabbed their 11th victory in the last 13 games by shelling loser Ted Gray and two relief hurlers for 12 hits. Gray now has a 7-6 record and Reynolds, who gave up seven hits and struck out eight, an 8-4 mark.

Berra smashed a one-run homer in the third inning and a two-run homer in the sixth into the upper right field stands. Six of his 12 home runs have been hit off Tiger pitching.

Bauer homered into the upper left field stands in the fourth inning after Joe Collins singled. It was Bauer's eighth home run.

Reynolds, who pitched three complete games at the end of the 1951 season and 12 this year, struck out the last two batters in the second inning with the bases loaded and two other times with two runners on he struck out batters.

SUI's Wheeler Qualifies For Olympic Tryouts

Ted Wheeler, SUI sophomore, qualified for the final Olympic trials by placing fifth in the NCAA 800-meter race at Berkeley, Calif., June 14. The first six American citizens in each event became eligible.

Wheeler won his preliminary heat in 1:53.8 and ran 1:51.1 in the final for the fastest time of his career.

Gary Scott also turned in his best performance in the 400-meter race, :47.7, but finished sixth in the semi-final heat won in :47.1. Four men qualified for the final.

Had Scott finished fifth instead of sixth, he would have been eligible for the final Olympic trials as three of the eight finalists were not U.S. citizens. The committee named the two fifth-place men in the semi-final heats to complete the Olympic qualifiers. Gary ran :48.1 in his preliminary heat.

Rich Ferguson, Iowa distance runner, dropped out of the 5,000-meter race when he developed leg muscle trouble. He had been running with the first three men for half the race.

Coach Francis Cretzmeyer has taken three Iowa runners to Long Beach, Calif., for the National AAU championships June 20 and 21.

Wheeler will enter the 1500-

CHARLES HARTER of Logansport, Ind., strained hard for a birdie on the first hole as the Professional Golfers Association tournament opened in Louisville, Ky. But he missed the putt, as you can see, and took a par 5.

Straining for a Birdie

Atlanta's Louise Suggs, a three-time Western champion, eliminated amateur Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville in an all-Georgia scrap, 5 and 4, to move against Miss Rawls in today's semi-final.

Barbara Romack, sure-shooting 19-year-old amateur from Sacramento, Calif., won the day's "bird match," eliminating Barbara McIntire, 17-year-old Toledo high school girl, 4 and 3.

SCOT LASS WINS
TROON, Scotland (AP)—Moira Paterson brought the Women's British Golf title to Scotland for the first time in 14 years Thursday by defeating Frances Stephens of England, 1 up on the 38th hole, with one of the most amazing comebacks in sports.

Art Andrews of Iowa City advanced to the finals of the boys' singles in the Heart of America tennis tournament in Kansas City Thursday.

He defeated Ronald Debus, Kansas City, 6-3, 6-1.
Andrews teamed up with Ed Hoffman of Omaha in the boys' doubles competition to defeat a Kansas City duo, 6-2, 6-2. They will play in the semifinals today.

Suzy Hamilton, Iowa City's other contestant, won her third round matches, 6-2, 6-2, but bowed out of the girls competition in the semifinals before Beverly Siebert of Kansas City, 8-6, 6-1.

3 SUI Tennis Men To Play in NCAA

Three SUI tennis men will participate in the NCAA championship meet June 23 to 28 at Evanston, Ill. Included will be Norman Barnes, Roger Kroth and Bruce Higley.

Barnes, a sophomore from Cedar Rapids, is the Big Ten singles champion. He upset Stan Drobac, Michigan State, 6-3 and 6-4. For the season he won eight and lost four dual singles matches.

Higley, Iowa City senior, had a season's record of nine wins and three losses in dual meets, while Kroth, Winfield, Kans. senior, had a six won and two lost record.

Berg Defeated In Western Open Tourney

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Patty Berg, putting sadly, was upset, 5 and 3, by Betty Jameson, 1942 meet winner, in the quarterfinals of the Women's Western Open golf tourney Thursday.

This ended Patty's quest for an unprecedented fifth Western title which she had won in 1941, 1943, and 1948 prior to last year.

Other quarterfinal winners over chill, wind-swept Skokie country club followed form.

Medalist Besty Rawls, 1952 leading golf money-winner from Austin, Tex., conquered another pro, Peggy Kirk, 2 up, when the Findlay, O., lass dumped her second shot on the 18th into a pond and conceded.

Atlanta's Louise Suggs, a three-time Western champion, eliminated amateur Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville in an all-Georgia scrap, 5 and 4, to move against Miss Rawls in today's semi-final.

57 Law Graduates Admitted to Iowa Bar

Fifty-seven recent law graduates passed their state examinations and were admitted to practice before the Iowa bar Thursday at the SUI college of law.

C.K. Thompson, Iowa supreme court justice from Cedar Rapids, swore in the new lawyers, after which they were extended complimentary one-year memberships in the Iowa Bar association by Ingalls Swisher, Iowa City attorney and immediate past president of the association.

All but six of those passing the bar examinations were graduates of the SUI college of law. Craig Cook, Davenport, and Dorothy C. Sauer, Dubuque, "read" (studied) law for several years under the direction of practicing attorneys to qualify for the bar exams.

SUI graduates who passed the examinations include Marvin S. Andich, Davenport; Wells Burton Bryan, Montezuma; Charles David Campbell, Cedar Rapids; William S. Charlton, Manchester; Robert L. Claypool, Williamsburg; Thomas M.W. Collins, Rock Island, Ill.; Richard H. Crandall, Lake City; Thomas W. Curry, Creston; Robert B. Dickey, Keokuk; John E. Ducharme, Spencer; John L. SUI Educators Discuss Plan Of Family Life

If experience is the best teacher, the parent education leaders attending their third annual workshop at the State University of Iowa this week should be well-trained to organize education programs in their own Iowa communities.

Organized as a "dynamic group," the workshop members have planned and evaluated their work from day to day, each organizing and conducting some of the sessions. Each person presented programs in the form of skits, discussion periods and lectures on specific phases of parents and family life education.

"Actual leadership practice" utilized during the workshop, was described by Mrs. Lloyd Mumford, Council Bluffs, parent education chairman of the Iowa PTA, as the best method for developing leaders for developing leaders for local study groups.

Delegates representing their local organizations concluded that to be effective leaders they must understand the dynamic group processes and the various techniques of group discussion.

To gain a fundamental knowledge of child growth and development, leaders should become acquainted with the major sources of books, pamphlets and films available in this field, the group concluded.

Mrs. Mumford expressed the belief that the workshop sessions will help the participants utilize the resources of their own communities in stimulating an interest in parent education.

In a typical session Wednesday afternoon Mrs. James Berkeley and Mrs. Don R. LeCroy, both of Des Moines, stressed the increased responsibilities of parents in promoting emotional maturity for youth today.

Members of the workshop planning committee included Mrs. O. S. Fatland, Colfax, president of the Iowa parents and teachers; Mrs. James Shannahan, Des Moines, director of the department of home service; and Mrs. Mumford.

The SUI directory for the summer session is now on sale at Iowa City book stores and at the department of publications in the basement of East Hall.

The directory costs 25 cents a copy and contains students' names, Iowa City address, college, hometown and telephone numbers, along with a listing of the SUI faculty and staff.

Moeller, Morrison Will Discuss Newspaper Jobs

Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI school of journalism, and James Morrison, head of the SUI newspaper production laboratory, will discuss means of remedying the problem of the shortage of workers in the printing field at a meeting of the Hawkeye Press club Saturday evening, June 21.

The meeting of this north-central Iowa newspaper group will be held in the Clear Lake shelter house.

The great number of jobs now open to persons trained in the various phases of newspaper work will be discussed by Professor Moeller. He will suggest ways in which publishers may call the attention of young people to the opportunities for employment and advancement in the newspaper field.

Morrison will discuss current needs for operator-printers on Iowa weekly newspapers and describe the program of the newspaper production laboratory.

Paul Bumbarger, publisher of the Charles City Press, is in charge of arrangements for the press club meeting. It is expected to draw newspapermen from nine northern Iowa counties, including Cerro Gordo, Worth, Winnebago, Hancock, Wright, Franklin, Butler, Floyd and Mitchell.

Election Results Given by Board

DES MOINES (AP) — The state canvassing board reported Thursday the official totals by which Lester S. Gillette won the Democratic nomination for secretary of agriculture and John F. Heimes became the Democratic nominee for state treasurer.

Neither had opposition in the June 2 primary election. Gillette, a Fostoria farmer, got 74,723 votes and there was a scattering of three votes cast against the nomination.

Heimes, a Centerville farmer, had 65,572 votes, with one opposing vote. Errors in the reports from some of the county auditors were holding up announcement of the official results. Republican nominations for secretary of agriculture and state treasurer.

Mountaineers Change Trip

To enable members of the 1952 summer expedition to miss some hot weather, the Iowa Mountaineers have revised their plans for the club's annual trip to the west. Expedition leaders say that the change also will allow more persons to join the group. The trip will be made in cars.

According to officials of the climbing and hiking club at SUI, the Mountaineers still plan to leave Iowa City on the evening of August 8. They will first go to the Teton mountains of Wyoming for one week, however, instead of going directly to the Sierras as originally planned.

It is expected that some expedition members will find it necessary to return following the week in Wyoming, rather than continue to California.

In the Sierras, the group will climb in the North Palisades and Mt. Whitney areas from Aug. 21-

28, and then will return directly to Iowa City. John Ebert, expedition leader and veteran of many mountain climbing and hiking trips, invited all persons interested in the trip to contact him at WSUI. He declared that mountain climbing skill is not necessary. Costs of the expedition can be obtained on request.

This will be the 13th year the club has conducted the summer activity.

Classics Recommended To Educators

If more adults could lose their "reading prejudices," they would enjoy many of the classics. Adult educators were shown evidence to bear this out in an evening session of the SUI adult education leadership workshop Thursday by Hew Roberts, associate professor of education at SUI.

From his experiences in adult education in this country and his native Australia, Roberts cited a number of personal experiences with adult groups who, when unaware of the nature of a book, become deeply interested in quoted passages and proceed to read the entire book. In a similar fashion, he said, parents can help a high school student with a reading assignment in Shakespeare — and thoroughly enjoy it, if they can overcome their "prejudice" toward the classics.

Experts Not Needed
Margaret Lee Keyser, director of the SUI reading clinic, told the group that adult reading habits can be improved without the guidance of reading experts. "Self-helps" such as setting up standards of reading speed and memory enable the reader to strive continually to improve his reading habits, she said. Persons from dramatic arts and other fields can also help the adult reader with expression in reading, vocabulary and the concepts necessary for understanding, she added.

Miss Keyser advised the educators to bring persons from all fields into their community groups so that they may increase their fields of "reading interests."

Adults Can Be Interested
In earlier demonstrations this week in the workshop "sample room," the adult educators were shown "by doing" that adults interested in craft work can become interested in art appreciation.

A folk and square dancing demonstration, led by Dudley Ashton, associate professor for women's physical education, stressed the promotion of international understanding as well as the health and entertainment values of the folk-dance.

According to Roberts, the workshop demonstrations were based on projects which have "worked" in a number of Iowa communities and require a minimum of technical knowledge and skill.

Church Role Described
At a general meeting Thursday morning the Rev. Lee Jacobs, pastor of the Ft. Dodge Congregational church, described the role of the church in adult education. A member of the Webster county community council, Rev. Jacobs also related the community and school functions of the proposed civic center being planned for that community.

Staff members of the one-week workshop which ends today included Professors Roberts; Glenn E. Holmes, extension service, Iowa State college; Wayne L. Pratt, state department of public instruction; Prof. Joe M. Bohlen, Iowa State college; and Miss Ashton.

Pigs to Be Shipped To Korea by Plane

DES MOINES (AP) — A load of 200 pigs will leave on an air flight from Des Moines Saturday to help war-devastated Korean farmers resume their farming operations.

The shipment, believed to be the first pig airlift ever attempted, is slated to leave Des Moines at 4 p.m. (Iowa time) Saturday on a chartered Northwest airlines plane.

J. Donald Kingsley, agent general of the United Nations Korean reconstruction agency, said the project was being undertaken jointly by the agency and the Heifer project committee, an inter-denominational voluntary church society.

The shipment is the first load out of 370 pigs and goats being flown to Korea to help in the reconstruction of that country.

The animals were paid for by the Evangelical and Reformed church, the Christian rural overseas program, and other organizations.

The second shipment of approximately 70 pigs and 100 goats is expected to leave San Francisco June 26.

The pigs will go to the Republic of Korea's government breeding farms, and the resultant purebred offspring then will be distributed within the country to cross with native swine.

Revaluation Crew Enters City Homes

Homes of Iowa City residents are being entered for the first time for purposes of revaluation by the J.M. Clemmings Co., real estate revaluation experts.

The company's two men who are doing the "listing" began this week and are expected to continue that phase, in the fifth ward, for about a month.

Homes will be checked from basement to attic by the listers, who will visit about 25 homes a day.

They will carry identification papers from City Assessor Victor Belger.

Koje Island POWs Stage Russian Dances

SHORTLY AFTER OFFICER PRISONERS were moved from compound 66 to their new compound, near compound 85, on Koje Island, the prisoners in 85 put on a performance (above) on an improvised stage. Some of the POWs dressed as women, others as Russian men, supposedly in typical Russian costumes, did Russian dances. This picture was made through barbed wire fencing.

SUI Professor Returns, Compliments Pakistanis

Friendliness and warmth are major characteristics of the people of Pakistan, according to Dean F. M. Dawson of the SUI college of engineering. The Dawsons have just returned from four months in Pakistan, where he was a Fulbright professor at Punjab College of Engineering and Technology in Lahore.

Dawson suggests that this friendship shown by the people of Pakistan is extremely valuable in the world struggle against communism, but he cautions that Americans must not think that these people want merely to imitate us, for their own country and customs require solutions different from ours.

Taught Hydraulics
As Fulbright lecturer at Punjab, Dawson taught classes in hydraulic engineering to students in their last two years of study. The shortage of textbooks was one of the major handicaps, he says. While students depend upon their excellent memories, college officials continually encourage them to work beyond mere memory study.

In addition to his regular teaching, Dawson gave several lectures to special groups. He spoke to 800 students and faculty members of Islamic college, Lahore, gave three special lectures to engineers of the irrigation department, and spoke at a dinner meeting of the Engineer Killed In Bronx Collision

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur V. Sheridan, 64, a top American engineer who once wrote a book on "Traffic in the Bronx," was killed Thursday in a Bronx traffic accident.

His car collided with a sun oil truck.

Palice said he was en route home from his office as commissioner of borough works in the Bronx, when his car, northbound on Broadway, apparently skidded on wet trolley tracks into the southbound lane. Sheridan, thrown from his car, was killed.

Sheridan twice has received presidential commendations — from Presidents Hoover and Roosevelt — for engineering work he did for the government.

His wife and son survive him.

Workshop Students to Perform Play in Remodelled Barracks

"You can take any available space and convert it into a theater," says Paul Davee, SUI drama professor and director of the All State Speech and Dramatic Art high school workshop which will open Monday on the Iowa campus.

To prove his point, Davee will have 25 students convert a wooden barracks building on the campus into a theater. Furthermore, the students will present a full-length play in this barracks-turned-theater as the climax to their four-week workshop program.

Under the supervision of Davee and his workshop staff the students will take the building as it exists and do a complete reconstruction job on it.

Student workshopers will also remodel a second barracks building for use as a storage room for Pakistan Science conference at Peshewar. He also judged two debates and had more than ten conferences with small groups of teachers.

In addition to his duties as a teacher, Dawson spent some time observing the Pakistan irrigation system, the largest in the world. The irrigated area is flat, so soil erosion is no great problem, but the land has been irrigated and farmed for so many centuries that soil fertility is a problem.

Don't Use Fertilizer
Despite long use of the land, crops to support the large population can still be grown. Fertilizer is rarely used, Dawson says, because natural fertilizer is usually needed for fuel and artificial fertilizers are too costly to import.

He says the problem requiring more attention is the result of continued irrigation, for through the centuries irrigation and resultant evaporation have brought to the surface many earth salts. These salts must be washed out of the soil in order to allow the growing of crops, he explains.

Dawson has been dean of the college of engineering at SUI since 1936. Before coming to Iowa he taught at Cornell university, the University of Kansas and the University of Wisconsin.

Senate Approves Bill For Army Functions In Flood Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — After beating back all attempts to reduce the totals, the senate Thursday approved a bill carrying $667,474,699 for army civil functions in the year starting July 1.

The bulk of the money is for flood control and rivers and harbors projects in many states.

Since the senate bill is approximately 35 per cent above the amount voted by the house earlier in the session, it will go to a conference committee for adjustment of figures.

As passed the bill includes $303,777,200 for flood control projects, $277,135,600 for rivers and harbors projects, $62,520,000 for flood control work on the lower Mississippi and tributaries, and $900,000 for a Niagara river power survey.

Although the bill is $174 million above the house figure, it is $45 million less than President Truman requested.

KANSAS ATTORNEY REMOVED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General McGranery Thursday announced the removal of the U.S. district attorney for Kansas and said a federal grand jury will be asked to review some of his acts.

Man Happy, Wife Tired After Quads Are Born

WEYMOUTH, MASS. (AP) — A 39-year-old ex-marine walked jauntily out of South Shore hospital Thursday carrying four carnations in honor of his newborn quadruplets.

Three of the flowers were red for the boys. A white one was for the girl, who as the first-born of the quads.

John J. Manning said his wife insisted he take the flowers from a bouquet at her bedside.

He saw her briefly earlier, while she was still in the delivery room. "How are the babies, John?" she asked. "Are they all well?" "They're lovely, they're marvelous," the father expounded. "They're beautiful, and they're all healthy."

The weary 27-year-old mother had dozed off by then. "Now I've got three bus drivers," chuckled Manning, who is president of South Shore coach lines, Inc.

The three prospective drivers and their sister are reported in "pretty good" condition. All four are in humidity cribs — incubators with the temperature around 80 degrees.

The quads will get their first meal today. It probably will be glucose from a medicine dropper.

Newborn infants are rarely fed for 24 hours, reported Dr. Robert R. Ryan, Weymouth general practitioner who delivered them.

Many times, he said, "They don't tolerate anything. There's a tendency for fluid in the lungs." Concerning the future of the quads — currently new England's only set — he said, "Every day is a day to the good for the babies. It will take a few more days before any prediction can be made."

The quads have a brother and two sisters: Dennis, 4, Mary 3, and 2-year-old Anne Marie.

The family home is a seven-room white frame house on Pleasant st., South Weymouth.

Persons well acquainted with the family said they knew of no financial offers of help.

"There was a small television deal," one recalled, "but Manning turned it down."

Television Show To Feature Student

An SUI graduate student from Canton, China, his wife, and their three-year-old son will be featured on the University hour television program to be presented Sunday at noon over Station WOC-TV, Davenport.

The student, Chu Tsing Li, and his family will be introduced at the beginning of the regular half-hour show. Later he will comment on a movie, "Peiping Family," which will be shown on the program. The movie depicts the life of an average family in Peiping prior to the fall of the Nationalist government.

Li is working on his doctor's degree in art history at the university. His wife, who took her college work at Nanking University in China, is employed at University hospitals.

'Flying Pop' Arrives At Norwegian Base

SOLA, Norway (AP) — Max Conrad, "the flying pop," arrived at this large air base in southern Norway Thursday after a 4,000-mile flight from Washington, D.C., in a tiny Piper Cub, and said he would do it again.

Conrad was welcomed by a reception committee from the nearby city of Stavanger, headed by Mayor Karlson and Deputy Mayor Ragnvald Rippskog.

Conrad is on a good-will mission, carrying 20,000 messages from Scandinavian-born people in Minnesota to friends and relations in the old countries.

The 48-year-old flier made stops at Washington, Goose Bay, Greenland, Iceland, and Stornorway.

Conrad said the last part of the journey was the worst. "The skies were overcast, and to top it all I lost my watch in Stornorway. On the last lap I never knew what time it was."

Today he will hop the inland Norwegian mountains to Oslo.

Gas Main Added To Downtown Area

An additional gas main is being installed in the Iowa City downtown area to relieve pressure on the other conducts.

The reason given by the Iowa-Indiana Gas and Electric company was the increase in the use of gas for heating and appliances. The new main is being installed between the curb and the sidewalk on the north side of Washington st. from Gilbert to Johnson sts.

The new main is a four inch pipe. It is expected to be completed within two weeks.

Traffic Lines are LIFE LINES!

Throw a line to a drowning person and with all his remaining strength he reaches for it—to save his life. Throw one or two solid lines down the length of a highway, and too many drivers ignore it in their hapless hurry to get somewhere fast.

But those, too, are life lines. Road markings at danger points are put there to save lives. Passing on the wrong side of the road, violating right-of-way, cutting in, passing on curves or on the right, failing to signal a turn or intention to pass and other reckless acts are utter disregard for life. Traffic gamblers guilty of these violations cost the lives of 11,000 persons and injured more than half a million others in 1950—and the toll increased last year.

Have you ever been guilty of crossing a traffic line when it wasn't necessary? Have you taken the right-of-way when it wasn't yours to take? How often have you seen a squeeze coming and breathed a sigh of relief when Lady Luck gave you one more chance?

The life line in the palm of your hand doesn't contemplate violent death on the highway. Your future may be written—or written off—in the way you drive. You—and only you—can make your driving life line longer.

Drive As Though Your Life Depends On It — IT DOES!
