Military Men Decry Reliance on Air Power

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the man responsible for Allied military defense preparations in Europe, has raised his voice against the Taft-Hoover-MacArthur argument for a reduction in preparedness expenses through reliance upon air power.

"Any one who advocates the achievement of a major military objective by a single arm of services is, in my opinion, basically and essentially unsound," said the supreme Allied commander in Europe.

This, too, was the belief adopted by General Eisenhower when he held the same job. Congress and the joint chiefs of staff, by their actions, have been following

ROBERTS
But the idea that the United States could lay back with nothing besides air power and do the same job of war deterrence that it hopes to do with the present mobilization program is not easily overcome.

Yet air power in the hands of a peace-loving democracy can never be anything more than a retaliatory weapon. Reliance upon it would mean the renunciation of other alternatives, such as meeting limited aggression with limited means as in Korea. Without ground force to meet ground force, for instance, the U.S. would have to choose between total atomic war or complete inaction.

CHILDREN DROWN
ELISNORE, CALIF. (P) — A family vacation at Lake Elsinore ended in tragedy Monday when three children fell off a raft and drowned. The dead were Hassen Said Cor-Dova, 12, and his two sisters, Marcella, 11, and Marquita, 9. They were the children of Cecilio and Lucille Cor-Dova of Compton, Calif. Three other Cor-Dova children were rescued by one-armed Joe Kuperwitz, 50, who sped to the scene in his motorboat.

For the first time since 1924, the Socialists enter the arena without Norman Thomas as their champion, and his perennial running mate, Prof. Maynard C. Krueger, University of Chicago economist, has left the party.

8 'Third Parties' to Give Voters Wide Choice in November Election

CHICAGO (CP) — A voter who is disgruntled with the work of both the Republicans and Democrats here this month may have a wider choice if he looks around. At least eight other parties already have posted entrants in the Presidential sweepstakes.

Planes said he plans to do a series of several card boxes on each language, the first containing the 4,000 most-used everyday words, and the others growing progressively more scholarly. For correct pronunciation, a set of records will accompany them.

The inventor also has worked out card games to teach geography, history, science, literature, grammar and arithmetic to children six to 18.

Planes said he "wouldn't take on the scholars without being sure my system will work," but added he will have to get financial help to manufacture his games. He hopes some government will buy them.

Left-Wing Repeating
Two ultra-leftwing parties, the Socialists and the Socialist Labor party, are repeating the same ticket which in 1948 ran in numerous states.

Farrell Dobs, a labor organizer, heads the first, a Trotskyite party. He polled 9,005 votes in nine states the last time.

Edward A. Teichert, a steel-worker, leads the syndicalist Socialist Laborites and hopes to improve upon the 24,655 he garnered in 21 states while New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and President Truman battled in the main arena.

If anything, there are more parties in the running this year than usual, but the third party bid is much less prominent than in many past Presidential campaigns, in the opinion of seasoned observers.

Convention Unnoticed
The Progressives, with Vito Marcantonio, New York ex-congressman, as national manager, held their national convention here on July 4-5 at the Ashland auditorium, and went virtually unnoticed in the hubbub preceding the Republican conclave that opened two days later.

Four years ago, Henry A. Wallace and the Progressives made quite a splash. Vincent Hallinan, California attorney, is the current nominee, with Mrs. Carlotta Bass as vice presidential nominee.

Gavin was the man. A veteran of give-and-take ward politics, Gavin was overwhelmed by his selection.

To him it was a much bigger thrill than his elections to the state assembly or the city council "because I ran for those offices and expected to win."

Says Chlorophyll Pays Off For Owner of Patent

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. (P) — The wildly beating heart of America's new darling — chlorophyll — lies within the portals of a small, three-story building in this semi-suburban community. A chaste and discreetly non-committal sign, merely states "The Rystan Company."

Chlorophyll, as practically everyone knows, is the magic substance that makes plants green and, everyone who buys it hopes, people smell nicer. Today it is being injected into all manner of commodities from shampoos to foot pads, from dog soap to moth balls, from cigarettes to socks. In tablet form, toothpaste, mouthwash, candy, textiles and even in Cologne, chlorophyll is held out as the ultimate weapon in a peculiarly American warfare against personal, unpleasant odor.

Owens Patent

The Rystan company finds itself in the center of the whirlwind, largely through a series of circumstances over which it had little control and never anticipated. It owns a patent which gives it the right until 1955 (unless a court rules otherwise) to license the use of chlorophyll derivatives in a base containing water. Because chlorophyll in such solution form is required for toothpaste and mouthwashes, to mention just two, the company at the moment is a potential midas in a green gold story.

Chlorophyll as a deodorant was something of a sleeping princess. Dr. Benjamin Gruskin of Temple University, Philadelphia, was the Prince Charming. During 10 years of research and experiments with chlorophyll during the 1930's, he found that derivatives had the ability to speed healing of wounds, reduce burns and cure trench mouth. He used it with dramatic results on cases ranging from brain abscess to varicose veins. A "pure scientist," he made almost after-thought observations of its odor-killing qualities.

Experiment Underwritten

His experimentation during this long period was underwritten by the Lakeland foundation of Chicago, a non-profit organization, under a routine agreement whereby rights to any patentable aspects of the research would belong to the foundation. In 1937, a "use" patent was issued, giving Lakeland foundation licensing rights on chlorophyll derivatives in aqueous solution. The foundation, more interested in stimulating other research than promoting a patent, placed the whole matter quietly on the shelf.

The Gruskin patent, as it is called, gathered dust until 1940.

Miss Wood sparked life into two of last year's seven plays. In "Mary Stuart," she donned a flaming-red wig and out-did Betta Davis with her interpretation of Queen Elizabeth. In "The Beggar's Opera," she retreated to her natural blonde hair-color, but still brought the house down, ceiling and all, with a third-act rendition of a raucous ballad that might be vulgarly, but literally, termed "barrel-house."

The current crop of University theater aspirants have only had chance to witness her in these two roles — from Queen "Holier-than-Thou" to 1800 tavern wench — but her past skill shows the talent for Lillian Hellman's scheming "Regina." Anyway, that 8:10 curtain will give Miss Wood a chance to "show her stuff."

Gerald Tippit and Sherwood Collins will portray the two Hubbard brothers — one weak and the other strong. Richard Gillespie will portray a dishonest third-generation member of the family. They're all "evil as sin," being members of the "decadent South" during its Reconstruction period.

Helen Baird will handle the part of "Birdie Hubbard." Miss Baird had theater-goers sobbing in their lace handkerchiefs during "Mary Stuart" and "Death of Salesman," and her interpretation of a promiscuous tavern-dweller in "The Beggar's Opera" was the most uproariously-funny characterization ever witnessed by this reviewer. The role of "Birdie" should give Miss Baird plenty of room to sink her teeth in.

A new-comer, Jo Simmons, will play "Alexandra," Regina's daughter. Although the part is small, its depths are demanding. (Incidentally, the part brought fame to Teresa Wright on Broadway.)

Regardless of the outcome of this newest University theater venture, it's highly gratifying to see the department attempt a play so fine as "The Little Foxes." Both the historical elements and characterizations contained in the play mark it as being among "the best in American drama."

Take your mind off politics and join the opening night circle!

Railway Company To Ask Deferment Of Restoration Order

DES MOINES (P) — The Des Moines Railway Company Monday advised the city council it will seek court permission to stay execution of last week's decision ordering it to restore service by Aug. 11 on five abandoned and two curtailed local bus lines.

The transit firm said it would ask that the district court order be stayed pending outcome of an appeal to the Iowa supreme court.

C. W. Gifford, President of the transit company, has said it would be "impossible" to restore service as ordered and maintain service now being given.

The council placed the information on file. At Monday's meeting the council also informally postponed any further move toward installation of parking meters in East Des Moines where business firms have strongly objected to the proposed installation. The council decided to defer action on the meters until the East-West phase of a contemplated one-way streets plan is in effect in Des Moines.

Says America Wants 'Fair Play'—

Kefauver Expects T-V To Help

By The Associated Press

Sen. Estes Kefauver's camp said Monday that millions of Americans watching on television will bar any move to "gang up" on Kefauver and draft a dark-horse candidate at the Democratic national convention in Chicago next week.

Apparently fearing a drive to draft Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Gael Sullivan, campaign manager for Kefauver, said the Republican national convention proved that the American people insist on "fair play."

Sullivan said television will make it impossible for party bosses to engineer a "synthetic draft" because millions of people across the nation have "living room rights" to this convention.

Hint 3-Way Deadlock

Sullivan had previously charged there was a move afoot to stop Kefauver by developing a three-way convention deadlock among Kefauver, Sen. Richard B. Russell and Averell Harriman — then inducing Harriman and Russell to throw their support to Stevenson on a "draft."

Kefauver, the front-running Democratic candidate, has won every state primary election in which he was entered except Florida where he lost to Russell.

By dint of hard campaigning, he has rolled up far more popular votes than any of the other aspirants in the field.

However, President Truman and some other Democratic sachems have seemed cool to Kefauver's bid for the nomination. With the convention less than a week away, uneasiness over Truman's intentions mounted sharply.

Missouri Governor Shifts

A development that could mean much or little came from Missouri's Gov. Forest Smith who changed signals to announce that he is now for Sen. Russell. Smith had previously indicated he leaned toward Stevenson.

The Missouri governor emphasized that Russell is his personal choice.

Many of the Missouri delegates have said they want to wait until they find out Truman's choice. They will find that out when Truman's vote as a Missouri delegate-at-large is cast by his alternate, Thomas J. Gavins.

Truman has said repeatedly he doesn't plan to attend the convention until after a nominee has been chosen.

Must Beat Barkley

Meanwhile Russell's campaign manager, Sen. Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, tabbed vice-president Alben Barkley as "the man to beat" for the Democratic presidential nomination. He said his man could do it.

Johnson conceded that Kefauver

SUI's New Danforth Chapel Takes Shape

(Daily Iowan photo)
CONSTRUCTION IS PROGRESSING rapidly on the new SUI chapel (above) located on the corner of Iowa ave. and Madison st., near the Iowa Memorial Union. Work on the building, to be known as the Danforth chapel, began this spring and is expected to be completed some time late this fall. The construction of the new chapel was made possible by two $5,000 contributions from the Danforth foundation and William E. Danforth, both of St. Louis, Mo. Additional finances for the building has been obtained from contributions made to SUI over the past several years.

Controls Lifting Affects Most Processed Foods

WASHINGTON (AP) — Price ceilings were lifted from 90 per cent of all processed fruits and vegetables Monday.

The office of price stabilization (OPS) issued the decontrol order in conformity with an amendment congress nailed on to its bill extending the nation's economic controls.

OPS director Ellis Arnall said it would mean higher prices on a number of items.

A price stabilization spokesman estimated that the items decontrolled cover about 20 per cent of the total food budget for an average family and about 7 per cent of a family's total expenditures.

The decontrol amendment specifically exempted "fruits and vegetables in fresh or processed form from price control." Controls have never been imposed on fresh vegetables and fruit, except potatoes, and controls on potatoes were removed some time ago.

The OPS is still analyzing the law to determine how far the decontrol should be extended.

There is no doubt that the law applies to "fruit and vegetable juices, canned and frozen fruits

Korean Truce Team Granted Short Recess

MUNSAN, Korea (TUESDAY) (AP) — Secret Korean truce talks today were in the second day of a Communist-requested recess which may mean a new turn-in the year-old deadlocked negotiations.

The Communists Monday suddenly asked a two-day recess in the closed-door sessions on the critical issue of prisoners of war exchange. United Nations negotiators readily agreed.

The Reds gave no reason. But in the past the Communist delegates have asked such delays to give them time to study a UN proposal. Presumably, they then refer it to a higher authority.

The delegates are scheduled to reconvene at Panmunjom at 11 a.m. Wednesday (8 p.m., CST Tuesday).

The UN command had no comment on the recess.

Iowa City Student To Give Recital

An Iowa City resident, Arthur Lambert, will present a piano recital Sunday, July 20, at 7:30 p.m. in North music hall.

Lambert, a graduate student, will open his recital with Mozart's "Fantasie in C Minor, K. 396," followed by "Seven Fantasies, Op. 116" by Brahms, three titled "Capriccio," four titled "Intermezzo".

Concluding the recital, Lambert will play "Douze Preludes, Book I," by Debussy, a 12-part work.

U.S. Planning Global Chain Of Air Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman Monday signed a bill authorizing $2,398,282,800 for military construction, mostly earmarked for setting up a vast chain of secret U.S. air bases spanning three quarters of the globe.

The inter-continental network of secret air fields, designed as a shield against Soviet aggression, will range from Japan to Europe. Details of the huge program are high on the hush-hush list, but it is known to include bases in Greenland and North Africa as well as in the Far East and Europe.

Because of the necessary secrecy and the huge sum involved, the law requires that both the Senate and House Armed Services Committees must sign off before military chiefs can go ahead with such projects.

Mostly for Air Force

The act authorizes $1,813,316,000 for the air force, $228,047,800 for the army and $256,875,000 for the navy. Most of the air force money is tabbed for air bases. They are restricted to use by U.S. forces and are separate from fields to be used by America's allies under the North Atlantic treaty.

The law directs the defense department to create a new office of director of installations, with a civilian chief to keep a close eye on military building.

Despite a virus infection which kept him in bed much of the day, Truman worked hard to clear away a logjam of bills sent to the White House after Congress closed shop a week ago Monday. In the last few days of the 82nd Congress, the lawmakers okayed more than 400 bills requiring Truman's signature before they become law.

Must Sign Soon

The President has 10 days in which to sign the bills after they reach his desk. Otherwise, the measures automatically die under the so-called "pocket veto" system.

The 10-day period does not begin, however, until the bills are actually on the President's desk. In some cases, bills are delayed in being transmitted from Capitol Hill to the White House.

Among other measures, Truman also signed a bill permitting the government to expand its operations in financing home mortgages.

The new law provides $1,395,000,000 for the purpose of government-guaranteed home mortgages, and puts up additional funds for mortgage insurance under the federal housing administration and veterans housing programs.

Dodgers Blank Cardinals, 6-0

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Carl Erskine, little Brooklyn righthander, pitched a three-hit shutout Monday night as the league-leading Dodgers turned back the fast-moving St. Louis Cardinals, 6-0.

Playing without second base star Jackie Robinson, who was called to New York by the illness of his wife, the Dodgers handed the Redbirds their second defeat in the last 13 starts and squared the season's series at six victories apiece.

Erskine, gaining his ninth triumph against only two defeats, was a brilliant pitcher in his sixth straight victory over St. Louis since 1950.

Between the time Stan Musial singled in the first inning and Billy Johnson delivered a two-out base hit in the eighth, the Cardinals had only one base-runner, Enos Slaughter, who drew Erskine's only walk. Solly Hemus singled in the ninth for the final home-team hit.

Erskine and Lloyd Boyer, St. Louis righthander, had a scoreless tie until the fifth when the Dodgers scored five times.

Andy Pafko, first up, singled and Gil Hodges walked. Bobby Morgan, unable to sacrifice, advanced Pafko to third with a long outfield fly. Erskine then was credited with a scratch hit when he bunted in front of the plate and second baseman Red Schoendienst failed to cover first base in time to handle catcher Del Rice's throw.

With the bases loaded, Fox drilled a two-run single. Pee Wee Reese, whose string of seven consecutive hits had been stopped earlier, struck out, but Shuba singled Erskine across and routed Boyer.

Eddie Yuhas, taking over, gave up a run-scoring single to Roy Campanella, who was behind the bat despite bone chips in his right hand.

Giants Defeat Cincinnati, 6-2 Behind Hearn

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim Hearn joined the National league's 10-game winner ranks Monday as he hurled the New York Giants to a 6 to 2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds behind a barrage of 11 singles and four doubles.

The Giant righthander needed the consistent hitting and some sharp fielding. However, because he gave up at least one hit to the Reds in seven of the nine innings.

Bob Thomson led the New York attack with four hits in five times at bat, three of them doubles.

Hearn's mates throttled possible Cincinnati outbreaks with double plays in each of the first and second innings.

Ken Raffensberger, who started for the Reds, bowed out in the fifth inning after the Giants had clipped him for five runs.

Cincinnati's first run came in the sixth. That was all for the Redlegs until the ninth when they got their final tally.

Browns Stop Bosox Winning Streak at 5 With 7-5 Triumph

BOSTON (AP) — The St. Louis Browns snapped the Boston Red Sox' five-game winning streak Monday, 7-5, but rookie righthander Dave Madison—tiring in the 90-plus degree heat—lost his shutout in the ninth as Dick Gernert walloped a two-out three-run homer.

The Sockers got all their runs in the ninth as Del Wilber followed Gernert's fourth homer with a single that sent Madison to the showers in favor of Earl Harriet. That reliever was greeted by Dom DiMaggio's third homer but Harrist got pinch-hitter Clyde Vollmer on a game-ending out-field fly.

St. Louis got off to a whirlwind start with a five-run barrage in the first inning that chased starter Ray Scarborough. Les Moss blasted his third homer in the third and the Brownies' other tally came in the fifth on Jim Delsing's leadoff double, an infield out and Moss' out-field fly.

Evashevski Is Named To IHSSA Clinic Staff

Forest Evashevski, SUI head football coach, has been named to the coaching staff of the annual coaching school sponsored by the Iowa State High School Athletic association.

COURTNEY FINED $100
BOSTON (AP) — St. Louis Browns catcher Clint Courtney was notified Monday he has drawn a $100 fine plus a three-day suspension for his fight with Billy Martin of the New York Yankees in New York last Saturday. The backstop will miss five games, since the Browns have two doubleheaders and a single game scheduled. No action was taken against Martin since he wasn't put out of the game.

It Used to Be Basketball, Now—

Dittmer Likes Baseball Best

By The Associated Press

Jack Dittmer, the rookie second baseman of the Boston Braves, was asked in spring training at Bradenton, Fla., which sport he preferred.

"If I had my choice I'd play basketball," said the 24-year-old native of Elkader, Iowa.

Dittmer's longing for basketball stems from his college days at SUI. He was one of the Hawkeyes' greatest athletes. He won four letters in baseball, four in football but only one in basketball.

Dittmer is the type of athlete who strives for perfection in each sport. At Elkader High he earned 12 letters. He was an all-state basketball player but played the sport in college only as a senior. Football and baseball occupied his attention before he received his physical education degree.

Classified 4F due to asthma and hay fever, the six-one athlete made his mark in football as an end. He scored in eight straight games between 1948 and 1949. He led Iowa in scoring with 30 points as a junior and in 1949 led the team in touchdowns with six to become all-Big Ten Conference end.

He went to Iowa on a football scholarship and eventually became one of the school's six athletes to earn five letters. In 1948 he caught the pass that beat Northwestern, 27-21.

Had the football scouts grabbed him he might have been a professional rather than a potential major leaguer. But Braves' scout

Jack Dittmer

Eddie Dancisak of Chicago liked the way he swung a bat.

"Dittmer is the best rookie of the lot," said Tommy Holmes when he had the Braves in Florida last spring. "But he may not be ready as a second baseman because he has had only one full season in organized ball."

It was a bold statement by Holmes, considering he had 19 rookies in camp, rookies who were either on the roster or who were to be brought up.

In 1950, after being graduated that June from Iowa, Dittmer went to the Class A Western League. In 72 games he batted .373 and drove home 59 runs.

In Dittmer's first 37 big league trips to the plate after being recalled on June 17 by Manager Charley Grimm, the Iowan made only three hits.

However, Dittmer recently matched his entire hit production when he lashed out a double and two singles against Sal Maglie. A few days later his first big league home run with a man on beat the Cubs, 2-1.

Dittmer now has changed his mind. It's baseball over basketball.

Braves' Spahn Put Under Police Guard

CHICAGO — A letter threatening pitcher Warren Spahn of the Boston Braves prompted the police department Monday to assign a detail to guard the star hurler during his stay in Chicago.

The Braves arrive today for a three-game series with the Chicago Cubs.

Police said the letter apparently was inspired by the June 8 injury of Frank Baumholtz, Cub outfielder. Baumholtz suffered a broken right hand when hit by one of Spahn's pitches.

The letter was sent to Spahn in Pittsburgh, Pa., during the recent Braves series there, contained a newspaper clipping of the Baumholtz injury, and was unsigned, police said.

It read: "How do you like this you . . . When you come back to Chicago I'll see you and make good. I know what hotel you stay at you . . . This is not a crank letter but a sore head like you will get it from me. I'll get you somehow, you can be handled."

Philadelphia A's Edge White Sox, 2-1, in 10th

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dave Philley's fourth hit, a clutch 10th inning single to center, scored Eddie Joost to give the Philadelphia Athletics a 2-1 triumph Monday night over the Chicago White Sox. Philley also batted in the A's first run with a booming triple in the first frame.

A's starter Harry Byrd went all the way and was one out from a regulation, nine-inning shutout when the Sox combined a walk and two singles to tip the contest. A small Shibe park crowd of 3,216 watched the mound duel.

Reliever Harry Dorish, who took over the Pale Hose pitching chores in the ninth after starter Bill Pierce gave way to a pinch-hitter, was charged with the loss, his second against five wins.

Byrd, who chalked up his sixth triumph against seven losses, gave up 10 hits while his teammates could collect only nine.
