Rejection of Book by Physicists Infuriated Columbia U. Killer

NEW YORK (AP) — A frustrated electronics student, claiming the key to eternal life, said Thursday he killed a blonde stenographer at Columbia university just because his weird theories were ignored.

The man, 29-year-old Bayard P. Peakes, was gunning for the physicists who had scorned his book "How To Live Forever." When he didn't find them, he settled for winsome Eileen Fahey, whom fate placed in his path.

"I just wanted to kill somebody," police quoted Peakes as saying after his arrest early Thursday at his Boston rooming house, where he was trapped by the slimmest of clues. He was brought back to New York.

Didn't Know Victim

He didn't even know Miss Fahey, pretty 18-year-old employee of the American Physical society, to which he once belonged. It sponsors research and papers on physics and electronics.

The society has offices on Columbia's campus although it is not a part of the university.

Assistant District Attorney Carl Grebow claimed a complete confession from Peakes and added: "He felt if he killed a few physicists in New York, he would get publicity and an opportunity to develop his theories."

1st Person He Saw

Miss Fahey fell screaming Monday beneath a hail of bullets at the hands of a "thin man" who invaded the campus for what looked like an aimless slaying.

"She just happened to be the first one I met in the office," police said Peakes told them.

Peakes' capture was a masterful bit of police work by detectives Louis J. Behrens, Herman J. Linde, James A. Walsh and James A. Corcoran.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan called their "an exceptionally fine job."

Police Check Files

Without clues, they checked the files of the American Physical society on the suggestion that some disgruntled member might be the killer. Peakes' testy correspondence with the society made him suspect, and the detectives trailed him to Boston.

The young man himself told of suffering from dementia praecox, which won him a mental discharge from the air force and a 50 per cent disability pension. Dementia praecox is a form of insanity, marked by a person's withdrawal from normalcy to his inner self.

Miss Fahey's mother, Mrs. Josephine Fahey, 49, her hair iron gray, said of Peakes: "If he's insane, I forgive him. If he's sane, I hope they give him the limit of the law."

Take Christian Attitude

The girl's father, Francis Fahey, added: "We're trying to take a Christian attitude toward him."

Miss Fahey was the second child in the family to die of gun-shot wounds. Her younger brother was shot to death five years ago in a teen-age street fight.

The girl was to have married a 20-year-old marine when he got back from Korea. The soldier, Roland Leo, was her first and only boy friend. He is lying home for her funeral Saturday.

Workshop Play Opens in Barracks

GORDON PSCHIRRE, Canton, Ill., holds hands with Donna First, Anamosa, Ia., in the three-act comedy "Time and the Conways," staged Thursday night by members of the 21st annual all-state speech and dramatic art high school workshop. The play was presented for a small, invited audience Thursday night and will be presented again tonight with a different cast. In four weeks the workshop members have studied drama, presented three radio shows and a television production, and converted an empty campus barracks behind Currier hall into a small theater.

16,500 Children to Participate in Paralysis-Prevention Tests

SIoux CITY, IA. (AP) — Plans to inoculate 16,500 children between the ages of 1 and 11 to determine if gamma globulin will prevent paralysis in human beings naturally infected with the virus poliomyelitis were drawn here Thursday.

Dr. William M. Hammon of the University of Pittsburgh outlined the study, scheduled to get underway next Monday, at a press conference here Thursday.

The trial is the continuation of studies launched at Provo, Utah, last September and conducted at Houston, Tex., earlier this month. Both cities were the scene of polio epidemics similar to that in Sioux City, which has recorded 12 polio deaths this year.

The study carries the approval of state, county and local medical societies. It is being financed by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The blood is being supplied by the American Red Cross.

Dr. Hammon said the tests are not a cure or a preventive for polio, but seek to determine if the inoculation of human beings with a gamma globulin has the same protective effect against paralytic polio that it has when administered to animals.

During the tests, half of the children will be inoculated with the blood derivative and the other half with a harmless gelatin substance.

The inoculations will begin in five clinics here Monday. The study will take six days with the five clinics operating every day. During two of these days, one of the clinics will be moved to South Sioux City, Neb.

The presence here of Dr. Hammon and his staff indicates the current epidemic in Sioux City has not begun to taper off.

Dr. Hammon said the 1 to 11 age group has been selected to participate in the study because the incidence of polio in that group is the highest. He said the rate of polio in that group is 236 out of every 100,000 during an epidemic.

The board has made no recommendations in the dispute which President Truman certified to it more than six months ago. The President referred the dispute to the board to head off a threatened strike in 10 Alcoa plants employing about 16,000 workers.

Explaining Thursday's action calling for more negotiations between the union and Alcoa, Nathan Feinsinger, WSB chairman, said he did not believe it would be "healthful or constructive to attempt to make recommendations in the aluminum dispute by the July 29 deadline."

The workers belong to the same union which has been on strike against the nation's steel industry since June 2.

Wage Board Says Alcoa, Union Agree To New Negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wage stabilization board (WSB) Thursday said the Aluminum company of America and the CIO Steelworkers have accepted an invitation to renew negotiations next Tuesday looking toward a settlement of their long contract dispute.

The agency outlined in a detailed statement its over-all plans to release 6,150 of its approximately 12,000 employees by Sept. 1. Dismissal slips giving the affected employees 30 days notice already are being issued in OPS national headquarters in Washington and in its field offices across the country.

A tabulation shows that in the field offices the staff will be whacked from a July 1 total of 9,500 to 4,050 by Sept. 1, a reduction of 5,450 jobs.

The Little Foxes' Tickets Available

Tickets are still available for the University theater presentation of "The Little Foxes." The final performance of the play will be given tonight at 8 p.m. in the dramatic arts building auditorium. Tickets may be obtained by students by presentation of their ID cards at room 8A Schaeffer hall. Tickets are available to the general public for $1.25.

Russell's Bid For Union OK Is Backfiring

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell's bid for union labor support with his promise to overhaul the Taft-Hartley law began to backfire Thursday among Dixie delegates to next week's Democratic national convention.

Signs appeared that Russell's strategic flip-flop — he voted originally for Taft-Hartley and against a presidential veto — might react in favor of a major rival, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

But Russell was sticking to predictions that he will capture the Democratic nomination with the help of hard core southern support. Kefauver wasn't budging from his stand that the party will tap him.

Harriman In Race

And a third entrant in the race, Mutual Security Director Averell Harriman, hopped into town with his own victory prediction. More are on the way. Vice president Alben W. Barkley and Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma are due today.

Bitterness over labor questions, civil rights and delegate contests bubbled just beneath the surface display of calm and harmony — in Chicago and as far away as Roanoke, Va.

Here in this convention city, various organized labor leaders were passing word to reporters that they still are afraid of Russell, despite his announcement Wednesday night that he favors supplanting the Taft-Hartley law with new legislation on which labor and management might agree.

Union Would Switch

Union spokesmen let it be known that they would be inclined to accept Kefauver in preference to Russell — if "fair dealer" Harriman can't make the grade.

In Roanoke, 2,000 Virginia Democrats met to pick delegates to the party's national convention and hesitated at going through with plans to endorse Russell.

After that, the Virginians voted to send to Chicago an uninstruced 28-vote delegation that will be free to bolt if platform and nominee are not to its liking.

Mrs. Truman Travels To President's Bedside

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Bess Truman hurried back to Washington to the hospital bedside of her mildly ailing husband Thursday because she thought "Harry might be lonesome."

Arriving by train from Independence, Mo., Mrs. Truman was driven directly to the army's Walter Reed hospital. There, in the plush presidential suite, her husband was patiently undergoing a series of tests that might show, among other things, whether his strength has been sapped by seven gruelling years in the White House.

Aides said Truman, recovering from a mild virus infection, spent a "very good night," and presidential secretary Joseph Short told newsmen: "The President expects to be back in the White House by Saturday."

The 68-year-old chief executive entered the hospital Wednesday. White House officials emphasized that the President was suffering little or no discomfort and appeared to be enjoying himself.

Aides said Truman only consented to enter the hospital at the request of his personal physician, Maj. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, to

OPS Enforcement Unit To Be Cut 60 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The office of price stabilization disclosed Thursday that its enforcement staff will be slashed about 60 per cent in personnel dismissals made necessary by congressional cuts of the agency's operating funds.

The agency outlined in a detailed statement its over-all plans to release 6,150 of its approximately 12,000 employees by Sept. 1. Dismissal slips giving the affected employees 30 days notice already are being issued in OPS national headquarters in Washington and in its field offices across the country.

A tabulation shows that in the field offices the staff will be whacked from a July 1 total of 9,500 to 4,050 by Sept. 1, a reduction of 5,450 jobs.

Dixiecrats Blame Northerners For Party's Civil Rights Trouble

Conservative Is Successor To Mossadegh

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ex-Premier Ahmed Qavam, a rightist who led Iran safely through perilous disputes with Soviet Russia in the wake of World War II, succeeded Mohammed Mossadegh as premier Thursday.

The change in leadership possibly may bring a settlement of the long quarrel between Iran and Britain over Mossadegh's nationalization last year of the billion-dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil company's Irania properties.

Mossadegh resigned the premiership after the Shah, Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, rejected a bid of the frail but iron-willed Nationalist leader to become his own war minister in a new cabinet.

The lower house of parliament, the majlis, nominated Qavam in a secret meeting boycotted by 25 or more pro-Mossadegh deputies.

The major problem Qavam inherits is Iran's near-bankruptcy, brought about by the oil nationalization policies that Mossadegh once forecast would lead to general prosperity.

(Mossadegh presumably wanted to hold the war ministry reins to see that Iran's 130,000-man army and her little navy and air force, recipients of American aid, go down the line for nationalist aims.

Qavam, 77, was premier in 1948 and 1947. He pressed the security council fight that led to the ouster of Russian troops from the border province of Azerbaijan and rejected subsequent Russian demands for the right to exploit oil resources in northern Iran.

(Qavam is regarded as pro-Western and long dimmed hopes of an Iranian oil settlement flickered to life again in London.)

Allies Hurl Back Tank-Supported Communist Attack

SEOUL, FRIDAY (AP) — Allied troops battling through drenching rains hurled back a tank-supported Communist attack against Old Baldy hill early today in western Korea.

The fight raged for almost six hours as the Reds mounted a powerful assault to retake the strategic peak west of Chorwon.

They lost it five weeks ago. Fighting has swirled for weeks around its bare slopes.

A beefed-up Communist battalion of more than 700 men attacked after Red guns laid down an intense artillery and mortar barrage.

Old Baldy was drenched with rain throughout the fight. Allied reinforcements, which came up when the fight was less than an hour old, had to scramble up slippery trails to get into position.

The weather cut down Allied air strikes to the minimum. Weather reconnaissance planes roamed far to the north but most of the war planes that went out were aimed at the battle front.

Last night 35 B-26s roamed across the entire front with bomb drops but no results could be observed.

Former DI News Editor Starts Army Training

Gene Raffensperger, June SUI graduate and ex-news editor of The Daily Iowan has enlisted in the counter-intelligence corps of the U. S. army.

Raffensperger was on The Daily Iowan from 1950-52 until his graduation. He held the positions of assistant city editor, assistant news editor and news editor.

Young Rooter Gets Ike's Autograph

ONE OF EISENHOWER'S YOUNGER Denver, Colo., supporters takes a look at his matchbook cover after the Republican nominee autographed it for him. The general and Mrs. Eisenhower bid farewell to their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, en route to Korea, at the Denver municipal airport Thursday before leaving the city to spend a week on a Fraser, Colo. ranch.

Ike's Son, Korea Bound, Says Goodbye to Father

FRASER, COLO. (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower settled down here Thursday night in the restful quiet of a mountain-rimmed cattle ranch for a week's respite from the political wars.

But before leaving Denver the General and Mrs. Eisenhower drove to the municipal airport to bid farewell to their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, who stopped over for 30 minutes enroute from Chicago to Seattle and duty in Korea.

After a private chat with John, the General and Mrs. Eisenhower accompanied the Major back to his plane.

The farewell came at the end of a 30-minute private meeting of the Eisenhower family at the Denver airport.

Major Eisenhower had said what he thought was his final farewell a week ago in Chicago. But the airliner carrying him to the port of embarkation was scheduled for a brief stop in Denver.

A crowd of several hundred gathered around the entrance to the airfield, clapped and cheered for the Eisenhowers as they passed. Shouts of "Texas is for you," "Indiana is for you," brought a cheery grin and a wave of acknowledgment from the General as the party went into the airport for their farewell in privacy.

The General's political staff stayed in Denver to continue the work of charting campaign plans.

Truce Teams Resume Off-the-Record Talks After 4-Day Recess

MUNSAN (FRIDAY) (AP) — Allied and Red truce teams resumed their off-the-record negotiations for a Korean armistice Thursday after a four-day recess, called by the Communists.

They returned to the conference tent at Panmunjom amid expectations that the Communists might make a new move to break the deadlock of exchanging prisoners of war.

The meeting lasted 41 minutes. There was no announcement of what took place in the secret talks but both sides agreed to meet again at 11 a.m. Saturday (9 p.m., CST, Friday).

The prisoner exchange dispute alone blocks a cease-fire. The Communists obtained a two-day recess in the secret sessions Monday, and on Wednesday got it extended another two days.

The four-day break touched off speculation that North Korean Gen. Nam Il and his fellow Red delegates would return to the conference tent with fresh instructions from the Communist capitals that could break the deadlock.

Blast Demands For Assistance In Race Issue

CHICAGO (AP) — Seething Dixie anger at northern demands for federal action to outlaw racial discrimination bubbled to the surface before Democratic platform drafters.

A gray-haired woman delegate from Florida, Mrs. J. V. Alderman, insisted the south would never have had a Negro problem had it not been for "northern carpet-baggers" who she said poured into Dixie after the Civil War.

That same "interference" Thursday is the only thing keeping the issue alive, she declared.

She Spoke First

Mrs. Alderman, who came here from Jacksonville and who will help write the last platform draft before it is submitted to the convention floor next week, was the first southerner who spoke up at day-long hearings on the explosive Civil Rights plank.

Her outburst came after a parade of witnesses roared out demands for strong federal action to stamp out discriminatory practices. Until then, southern delegations had remained ominously quiet.

Pleader after pleader from the north had asked for a party pledge to take "effective" federal action.

Boycott Might Occur

Some insisted in emotion-charged voices that a weak or compromise plank would provoke a Negro boycott of the polls next November — and eventually they said would surely cause defeat of the party nationally.

Mrs. Alderman spoke up after a one-time New Deal stalwart, Aubrey Williams, said the way the south treats its Negroes is "a disgrace."

Williams said he could speak from experience since he publishes a farm magazine at Montgomery, Ala. At one time he was works progress administrator in the Roosevelt administration.

He said he dares not hire Negro printers or pressmen in his Montgomery plant because his workers would strike.

Only 1 Southerner

Actually the south was represented by only one witness who spoke its views on the Civil Rights issue.

Neville G. Penrose, member of the Texas Good Neighbor commission, advanced a "compromise" plank calling upon the 48 states to set up community councils to study racial problems and to report on whether they thought federal action is needed.

There was a possibility, too, that Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama, a member of the drafting committee, might outline the southern stand that the problem of race relationships is one for local and state agencies — not for the federal government. Sparkman is scheduled for testimony Saturday.

World News Briefs

A Condensation of Late Developments

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia is fed up exchanging notes from Sweden over the Baltic plane incidents and, diplomatic circles believe, there is a good chance the Kremlin will refuse to accept another should Sweden send it. Russia Wednesday rejected Sweden's latest contention that Soviet fighters shot down two unarmed Swedish planes last month. The note refused to carry the matter further. If Sweden should take the issue to the International Court of Justice or the United Nations, Russia would regard this as an unfriendly act or even worse.

GOOSE BAY, Labrador (AP) — Two military air transport service (MATS) Sikorsky H-19 helicopters Thursday completed the second leg of a precedent-making flight from the United States to England and Germany. The two big craft landed at this air base at 2:05 p.m. (EST) after a flight from Presque Isle, Me. Flying smoothly, they completed the 570-mile hop in 7 hours and 55 minutes, averaging about 71 miles an hour.

CHICAGO (AP) — Postal inspectors were investigating Thursday the suspected switch of 450,000 one-cent postage stamps for 450,000 rare stamps considered collectors' items. The missing stamps, printed 30 years ago, bear the picture of President Monroe. The are of 10-cent denomination, but because of their age are worth several times their $45,000 face value. The suspected switch occurred sometime during the past 10 days when the stamps were forwarded from the new post-office in Chicago to the philatelic section of the postoffice department in Washington.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman has signed a bill under which the government will share the cost of altering highway bridges to meet navigation requirements. A 1940 act provides that the government pay part of the cost of altering railway bridges, but makes no provision regarding highway bridges. A committee report said railroads and highways should receive equal treatment in meeting costs of such changes.

American, Australian Pianists to Play at SUI

Allison Nelson and Harry Neal To Perform Here Monday

Allison Nelson and Harry Neal, a piano duo, will give a recital on the south Union campus Monday, July 21 at 8 p.m. The recital will be in Macbride hall in case of rain.

Allison Nelson, an Australian prodigy, and Harry Neal, a versatile American pianist, were trained at the Curtis institute by Rudolf Serkin and Isabelle Vengerova. They met and were married in Philadelphia, where for 18 months they presented the only television program (at that time) devoted entirely to classical music. Since then Nelson and Neal have presented more than 200 concerts in Australia, New Zealand and North America, introducing many new works and specializing in original literature.

Individually or together they have had more than 30 engagements with major symphony orchestras from Sydney to Philadelphia.

editorial Another Blow to the Consumer

Congress has just finished delivering what might be called a one-two punch at the American consumer by passing another "fair trade" law, shortly after virtually lifting all price controls.

The new law will permit manufacturers to fix retail prices on trade-marked or brand name merchandise.

In some respects it is even stronger than the ones which were declared unconstitutional by the supreme court last year. All merchants, whether they have signed agreements with the manufacturer or not, must abide by the set prices under penalty of law.

Previously they could sell below the agreed price if they didn't advertise it.

The new law, passed under the guise of protecting the small businessman from "cut-throat" prices, has been estimated to cost the American public two billion dollars a year by preventing price-cutting bargain sales.

But more important than all this is the fact the congress disregarded the advice of both the justice department and the federal trade commission. It also reversed the decision of the supreme court which ruled that this type of law is unconstitutional.

The law will no doubt be challenged again, and eventually come before the supreme court for another decision. But in the meantime the big businessmen will continue to gather in larger profits, because it is he, rather than the smaller businessman who will be making the real gains from the new law.

At the same time the American consumer, already hard hit by inflation, will be even harder pressed because congress has disregarded him.

GENERAL NOTICES

GENERAL NOTICES should be deposited with the city editor of The Daily Iowan in the newsroom in East hall. Notices must be submitted by 2 p.m. the day preceding first publication; they will NOT be accepted by phone, and must be TYPED OR LEGIBLY WRITTEN and SIGNED by a responsible person.

GERMAN PH.D GERMAN EXAMINATION will be given Friday, Aug. 1, at 1 p.m., in room 104, Schaeffer hall. Register in Room 101, Schaeffer hall by noon, Thursday, July 31, if you wish to take examination.

EDUCATION WIVES CLUB invites all members of the faculty of the College of Education and their families and all graduate students in education and their families to a picnic Monday, July 21, at 5:00 p.m., in the lower pavilion, City Park. Each family is to bring a salad or a hot dish, their own sandwiches, and their table service. Dessert and beverage will be furnished.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS — don't forget the Newman picnic Sunday, July 20, at Lake McBride. Fun for all with swimming, boating, and softball. If you haven't signed up yet, be sure to do so. Contact Jean McNamara, Phone 6954, or Mary Beth Hogan 80257.

Miss Jonker may ask — have not the British in Malaya done exactly those same things? To that I reply — why haven't we seen a revolution in Malaya by the people when they had the opportunity to do so at the close of the last war? The British — is the "lesser of two evils."

The Dutch did not voluntarily give the Indonesians their independence, they never liked the idea of losing their richest colonial possessions. World opinion, the ideals that the free-nations in the world fought for in World War II, etc., were all against them, their "arm was twisted" as one might say; they had to give in or else bear the brunt of world criticisms.

I can go on and give more reasons why the Dutch are not the "illy-white" picture Miss Jonker or Mr. Barnom have painted them to be. I have one question to ask Miss Jonker — has she lived for quite a while in Indonesia? — I have.

TO THE EDITOR:

Leona Jonker's quotation of Adrian J. Barnom in her letter of Friday's Iowan contains only one person's opinion of Dutch "misrule" in the East Indies.

How about the views of a native from that part of the country? I come from that area — Singapore, Malaya — and have a number of Indonesians amongst my friends, and if they had read Miss Jonker's letter they would have been extremely critical at her attempt to justify the past colonial policies of the Dutch.

The Indonesians and the peoples around that particular area have had no "love" for the Dutch — in the past — nor will they "embrace" the Dutch in the future, when the Indonesians took up arms against the Dutch after World War II, they saw an opportunity to "knock off the leech which had been sucking them dry." They had the sympathies of the peoples around that area — even the Australians. We have watched in the past, previous to World War II, the machinery of Dutch exploitation — of high taxes, low wages, extraction of raw materials with no compensatory returns, limited education — for only a few, etc. — all with one aim — to increase the "treasury" at the Hague, and to keep those "illiterate" natives permanently subdued.

Miss Jonker may ask — have not the British in Malaya done exactly those same things? To that I reply — why haven't we seen a revolution in Malaya by the people when they had the opportunity to do so at the close of the last war? The British — is the "lesser of two evils."

The Dutch did not voluntarily give the Indonesians their independence, they never liked the idea of losing their richest colonial possessions. World opinion, the ideals that the free-nations in the world fought for in World War II, etc., were all against them, their "arm was twisted" as one might say; they had to give in or else bear the brunt of world criticisms.

Democrats Scout GOP Convention To Detect Flaws In Rivals' Show

CHICAGO (CP) — The Democrats think they can put on a better show than the GOP did.

They had scouts on the job throughout the Republican conclave trying to spot improvements which could be made. The result is a report for the party's chiefs which reads like a Broadway drama critic's review of a first nighter.

Efforts of the Demos to profit from Republican experience will be along these lines:

1. Attempt will be made to schedule nominating speeches so that demonstrators and audience will not have to wait 11 hours, as Gen. Douglas MacArthur's did. Stassen routers grew tired and simply went home.

2. TV cameras trained on the rostrum are to be relocated perhaps at the cost of 300 seats in the center of the hall where a platform will be erected to give a less distorted view.

3. Distracting movements of messengers and aides behind the speakers will be eliminated, and a background screen may be installed.

4. The anti-climatic effect of many empty seats at the closing session when the successful nominee gives his acceptance speech may be eliminated by a special ticket distribution for that session alone.

5. Demonstrations after the nominating speeches will be given back to the delegates. Democratic observers maintained that during Eisenhower and Taft ovations aisles were jammed with outsiders so that delegates had to stay put. They maintain that the original idea of the parades was to draw in the actual delegates with their standards.

6. Efforts will be made to trim speeches, and cut the length of demonstrations because both tend to tire the TV audience.

Crew of Scouts
The scouting job was done by W. Neal Roach, executive assistant to Democratic Chairman Frank McKinney, Matthew Connelly, President Truman's appointment secretary, and their aides, including a photographer.

Another "aide" was Harry S. Truman himself, who stuck by his TV set throughout and is reported to have passed on ideas for improvement of the show.

They attended with the full cooperation of Republican leaders, the way football scouts are given every courtesy in gathering data to use in preparing for the big game.

This is not news because, at Philadelphia in 1948, the Democrats profited from many rough spots in GOP arrangements and did considerable rearranging of seats and ramps during the intermission between the two jamborees.

However, more sweeping changes are envisaged this time, including an attempt, according to Democratic leaders, to change the "tone" somewhat.

McKinney is said to feel that he is in a better position to do a good job than were GOP Chairman Guy Gabrielson or Walter S. Hallanan, because those two were so closely identified with the Taft forces in the big battle for delegates' votes.

Leaving any accusations of unfairness to Republicans, McKinney believes that the job of or-

THE WISCONSIN DELEGATE found Republican proceedings at last week's convention a cure for insomnia. As the wild and woolly struggle surged about him, he put his shoes in his lap to ease his tired dogs and then calmly dropped off to sleep. Democrats, streaming toward Chicago this weekend have indicated they will do their utmost to outdo the Republicans in convention drum-beating.

ganizing the convention as a spectacle is a big enough job for any chairman's staff, and if they are in the thick of the fight also it overwhelms them.

Big Order

Barkley's Grandson Questioned On Possession of Loaded Gun

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A youth who identified himself as Alben William Barkley Tritt, 18-year-old grandson of Vice-President Alben W. Barkley, was released Wednesday after police held him overnight for questioning.

The youth was picked up in downtown St. Louis Tuesday by officers who found him in possession of a loaded pistol, police Cpl. Thomas Ryan said. Ryan said the boy was carrying the weapon in a paper bag when he was taken into custody.

Drew Lutten Jr., an assistant circuit attorney, declined to issue a warrant. He said Missouri law permits a traveler to carry a firearm "while moving peacefully through the state."

The boy said he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max O'Rell Tritt of Washington.

He told police he found the weapon, a .32 caliber automatic of foreign make and was looking for a place to sell it when he was picked up.

The youth said he was employed on a construction project at Valdez, Alaska, until June 30, and had been hitch-hiking to the home of an uncle in Paducah, Ky.

Police said he told them he found the pistol Tuesday in an empty, unlocked roller skating rink in Roodhouse, Ill., after he had entered the place for food.

Police picked him up after receiving a tip from a store employee here who saw the boy transfer the pistol to the paper sack, Ryan said.

Mrs. Tritt is a daughter of the vice-president.

West Europe Resources Could Strengthen USSR

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

If you still don't know why the United States cannot sit back and take chances on the conquest of Western Europe by a Russia which intends ultimate world conquest, all you need to do is take a look at a recent United Nations report on industrial patterns.

The United States and Western Europe together produce 150 million metric tons of steel annually. The U. S. share is 95 million.

The Iron Curtain countries and Western Europe produce 95 million tons. The Russian-controlled share is 40 million.

Without Europe, Russia cannot compete with the U.S. in this industry vital to war. With Europe she is an equal.

The U. S. produces 519 million metric tons of coal, Western Europeans 502 million, the Soviets 281 million plus large quantities in Poland and some in other satellites. A combined continental production would have all the edge.

The oil situation is different. The U. S. produces seven or eight times as much oil as the European continent.

There are adjacent to Russia, however, vast oil reserves subject to possible conquest, and it is quite possible that she still has vast untapped resources of her own.

The manpower situation is well known. Thus, in a world where continental Europe was mobilized for Russian purposes, the United States would cut a small figure.

And it must be remembered that the figures are subject to constant change. Russia contains all and perhaps more of the natural resources which made the U. S. great.

The necessity of preventing an imbalance of power through Russian mobilization of Europe can hardly be overestimated.

THE CONCEPTION OF the traditional high school "June class play," which experienced thespians of the theater look down upon and cynically cough at as being "nothing more than a bunch of untalented youngsters limping through a three-act farce called 'Moon Over Podunk' or something" has been abolished by the accomplishments of a bunch of high school youngsters who have proven that they have the talent to accomplish what many so-called "experienced thespians" would find quite impossible.

The 18 high-schoolites invaded this campus four weeks ago and, during that time, studied drama, presented three radio shows, a television production, and completely refurbished and converted an empty campus barracks into what is now a small theater that would make any group of summer stock players turn chartrouse with envy.

I was fortunate in being able to see the dress rehearsal of the students' production of J. B. Priestley's "Time and the Conways," and to say that I was amazed and mystified in viewing their accomplishments is (if I may employ a cliché) a "masterpiece of understatement."

The 18 students, all members of the annual speech and dramatic arts workshop, moved into the quonset hut, located in back of Currier hall, and welded hammers and crowbars to produce a miniature, compact theater. Under their hands and the skilled direction of John Paul, staff technical director, they constructed a stage and setting for the play which could not be improved upon by the University theater's most efficient scene-builders.

The setting for the three-act comedy is a modern living room, designed with mauve-colored walls, attractive furniture, and a cleverly-disguised brick fireplace and bookcase.

It was obvious, as soon as the curtain had been drawn, that these were no typical "high school actors." Their home town drama instructors, who sent them to the workshop, must have chosen the students on a "pick and choose" basis, selecting only those with the most evident flair for dramatics and hard work.

The students, handling the very witty and sometimes not-so-subtle dialogue ("A book's gotta have guts in it!") in a mature production, are the most precocious bunch of teen-agers ever witnessed by this reviewer. The cast was not limited to types easily portrayed by adolescents, i.e., the "Date with Judy" or "Kiss and Tell" type of thing.

Some of the personalities included in the course of three acts were an austere-bred British gentleman, a female novelist with a habit for choosing sophisticated fare as the basis for her discourses, and a British air corps officer.

Particularly excellent were a young boy who did a magnificent job of feigning the dignified speech of the Englishman and a young tomboyish girl who donned a false red beard and came to do a riotous take-off on an elderly man.

From the opening act until the final curtain, the 18 members demonstrated what can be accomplished when one has a genuine love for and interest in a certain field, combined with the capacity for good, hard work.

Only a selected private audience, consisting mostly of dramatic arts personnel, was invited to the showings of the play on Thursday and Friday nights. This was the most important reason for this, most that the number of chairs which can be comfortably situated in a quonset hut is, of necessity, quite limited.

Due for "blue ribbons" and a hearty round of congratulations are Paul Davey, SUI professor of speech and drama and workshop director, John Paul, Phoenix junior college drama head, Caroline Silverthorn, instructor in dramatic arts, and the entire group of 18 who climaxed four weeks of accomplishment with a round of curtain calls.

Attorneys Reject Lincoln's Method Of Studying Law

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Abraham Lincoln's method for becoming a lawyer was all right for his time, but it was frowned on for today's legal aspirants in a major report of the American Bar association's survey of the legal profession.

The report, released here and put into book form, came out against accepting private study—Lincoln's method—and correspondence school training as preparation for admission to the bar.

"We keep hearing the Lincoln argument," said Herbert W. Clark, of San Francisco, vice chairman of an advisory and editorial committee on bar examinations and admissions.

Clark helped prepare the book and spoke about its viewpoints at a press conference.

"It was a relatively simple matter a hundred years ago to gain the education needed to practice law," he said.

"Now the whole field is too complex."

The report advocated at least three or more years of college pre-legal study before even allowing students to start studying law.

The book embodying the report was the work of more than 200 experts, including at least one representative of each state.

More Speed Asked On Flood Control

HELENA, MONT. (AP) — Brig. Gen. D. C. Shingler urged a speedup of flood control on tributaries Wednesday in a farewell talk as chairman of the Missouri Basin Inter-Agency committee.

Shingler was replaced as head of the policy making group for basin development and also as Missouri River division engineer by Brig. Gen. W. E. (Joe) Potter at Omaha, Neb. General Shingler has been transferred to Ft. Belvoir, Va.

"Progress on the tributary reservoir requirements is disappointingly slow," Shingler told the MBIAC. He said he was speaking not from the standpoint of a corps of engineers but as an engineer concerned with protection of life and property.

He said satisfactory progress is being made on mainstem reservoir construction.

McGranery Seeking Indictments Against 7 Largest Oil Companies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General James P. McGranery announced Thursday night a federal grand jury will investigate a reputed international oil cartel involving seven of the world's largest oil companies.

McGranery told a news conference he proposed to seek criminal indictments and at the same time will file a civil anti-trust action designed to end alleged monopolistic practices and restraints of trade.

McGranery named the companies whose activities will be investigated by a grand jury sitting here as:

5 U.S. Firms

Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, the Texas company, Socony-Vacuum, and Gulf Oil, all U.S. concerns, and two foreign groups — Royal Dutch Shell and Anglo-Iranian Oil company.

McGranery's announcement came on the heels of a demand by Sen. Thomas Hennings (D-Mo.) for a congressional investigation of what he termed an international oil combine involving five American and two British concerns.

Hennings said the combine dominates U.S. foreign policy in the Middle East, Indonesia and Venezuela.

Charges World Domination

The Missouri senator said the seven companies "own and control, lock, stock and barrel, practically the entire world oil industry outside the United States." He said six of them dominate the U.S. oil industry.

Hennings further declared that the combine "operates as an independent world government dictating its own terms for petroleum without which the industry and the army of the free world could not run."

OPS Authorizes Higher Wholesale Meat Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government Thursday night authorized higher wholesale ceilings on veal steaks, cutlets and roasts and lower ceilings on rib chops, shoulder cuts and breast of veal.

The office of price stabilization said the adjustments translated into changes at retail probably would mean a boost of around 4 1/2 cents a pound in the ceiling on cutlets and steaks. Veal will go down around 6 cents a pound.

David, 6, Is Party Worker

Promise of Life Guard Job at White House Gets Young Kefauver in Campaign

CHICAGO (AP) — The Kefauver-president campaign has a devoted worker in the Senator's 6-year-old son, David, whose little fists have taken at least one "I like Ike" button out of circulation. It wasn't easy getting David into the campaign, his mother said Thursday. The promise of a big patronage job won him over.

If the Tennessee senator goes to the White House, David gets the job of life guard in the mansion swimming pool.

Mrs. Nancy Kefauver, 41-year-old attractive red-haired wife of the candidate, who has been touring with him, told a news conference of the winning over of little David.

He wasn't keen about the idea of moving to the White House, she recalled. He wondered if it had a big back yard where he could play. Then Mrs. Kefauver proposed the life guard job.

The idea caught on. David got a supply of "Kefauver" buttons and began passing them out among his schoolmates in Washington and likely is doing the same in McMinnville, Tenn. Since early this month David and his three sisters, Linda, 10, Diane, 4, and Gail Ester, 20 months, have been at the McMinnville farm of Mr. and Mrs. Cowan Oldham where the Kefauvers usually spend the summer.

A reporter remarked that she had heard something about David getting into fights with children wearing other candidates' buttons.

"Yes, I'm afraid I'm hearing too that David has been talking pokes at children wearing other kinds of buttons, Mrs. Kefauver replied.

"I asked one mother why her son wasn't wearing his 'I like Ike' button anymore and she told me he has tired of being knocked down by David."

She said they had no present plans to bring the youngsters to Chicago, come what may. The Kefauvers talk with the three older children by phone almost daily. "They don't ask us what we are doing" Mrs. Kefauver said.

"They tell us what is going on down on the farm."

Typing Champ Shows How

GEORGE HOSSFELD, 10-time winner of the world's professional typewriting championship hesitates for a minute while knocking out a page during a typing demonstration in Old Capitol, Thursday morning. Hossfeld's highest official typing record, using the five stroke count, is 139 net words a minute for one hour's typing from unfamiliar material. He demonstrated manual and electric typewriters for those attending the SUI business education conference.

Violin Recital by 2 SUI Students Set for July 27

A violin recital will be presented Sunday, July 27, at 3:30 p.m. in the SUI north music hall by Celia Eckey, Newton, and Caryl Wamsley, Freeport, Ill. They will be accompanied by Abram Plum, Oskaloosa.

The recital will begin with both artists performing Bach's "Concerto in D minor for two violins," in three parts: "Vivace," "Largo, ma non tanto," and "Allegro." Miss Eckey will then offer "Concerto in A major" by Mozart, also in three parts: "Allegro operto, adagio, allegro operto," "Adagio"; and "Tempo di minueto, allegro."

For her first solo appearance of the recital, Miss Wamsley will play "Andante tubata alla zingaresca" (from Ruralla Hungaria) by Dohnanyi. Miss Eckey will then return to perform Partok's "Rhapsody No. 1" and the recital will conclude with Miss Wamsley's playing of "Sonata No. 2" by Dedius.

Malik Cancels Plans To Sail for Russia

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik has canceled plans to sail for home leave next week as UN delegates watched hopefully for a major break soon in the Korean armistice talks.

Malik had reservations to depart July 22. UN sources, keeping a close watch on the truce negotiations in Panmunjom, speculated he has been instructed to stand by for orders.

IC Attorney Nominee for State Court

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa Democrats Thursday nominated E. L. O'Connor of Iowa City, Leroy Rader of Storm Lake and Allan R. Shepherd of Des Moines as candidates for three places on the Iowa supreme court bench.

The nominations were made at a sparsely-attended state judicial convention here. O'Connor, who was Iowa attorney general from 1933 to 1936, received the most votes on the roll call. He got 856 1/2, Shepherd 766 and Rader, 745 1/2.

All nine places on the state supreme court now are held by Republicans. Three are subject to election this year. The three holding those positions are C. F. Wernstrum of Chariton, Ralph A. Oliver of Sioux City and T. G. Garfield of Ames. Republicans will make their nominations for the positions Aug. 1 at Waterloo.

10 Firms File Bids for SUI Repair Projects

Bids for repair projects at SUI from six Iowa firms and four out-of-state companies were opened at a public hearing Thursday, according to George L. Horner, university architect.

Bids on the repairs to the river tunnel in the heat distribution system were made by Boyd and Rummelhart, Iowa City, $77,000; Carsten Brothers, Ackley, $68,148; V. J. Hagan company, Sioux City, $58,075, and Puth-Schultz company, Cedar Rapids, $44,800.

Firms which made bids on stadium waterproofing, pointing, and caulking jobs included: Chris Paschen Maintenance company, Chicago, $110,216; C. R. Jeffries & Sen, Des Moines, $79,900; General Building Service, Iowa City, $40,636; Heineman, Lovett company, Detroit, $110,326 (bid one), and $80,931 (bid two); Western Waterproofing company, St. Louis, $118,299, and White Building and Maintenance company, Chicago, $80,798.

Horner said the bids would be reviewed during the next few days.

SUI Grad Appointed To Legal Post in Jordan

Leland O. Graham, a 1932 graduate of the SUI college of law, has accepted a Point Four detail to the Hashemite kingdom of the Jordan where he will serve as legal advisor to that government in the enactment of additional water laws. Secretary of the Interior Oscar L. Chapman announced this week.

Graham is the first interior department attorney to be assigned to a Point Four mission. Born in Marion, Iowa, in 1908, he received a B.A. degree from SUI in 1930 and a J. D. in 1932.

Collins' Homer Helps Yanks Gain Split

Reynolds Kayoed For 1st Time in '52

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Collins lofted a towering home run barely inside the right field foul line with two out in the last half of the ninth inning to give the New York Yankees a 5-4 second game victory and a split in their doubleheader with the Cleveland Indians Thursday night. Cleveland handed Allie Reynolds his first kyo of the season, rolling up an 11-6 first game triumph.

Collins' homer his second of the evening, came with Bob Lemon on the mound. The Cleveland right-hander had replaced starter Mike Garcia after the Indians had tied the score in their half of the ninth on pinch hitter Barney McCosky's home run into the Yankee bullpen in right.

Lemon retired the first two batters easily and had a 1-1 count on Collins when the Yankee first baseman lifted a skyscraper that seemed about to curve foul but fell into the stands just inside the white pole.

The victory, New York's third in the vital five-game series, enabled the league leading Yankees to retain their four-and-a-half game lead over the Indians who dropped into third place behind the Boston Red Sox.

Vic Raschi went all the way to be credited with his 10th victory against two defeats, his eighth triumph in succession.

Lemon was charged with the defeat, his eighth against as many wins.

Indian Pickoff Play Fails

Too Many No-Hitters —

Vander Meer's In A Rut

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Vander Meer said last spring he figured this would be his last season as a baseball pitcher, and he's probably convinced of it now. He's in a rut.

No hitters, no hitters. Just where he was 14 years ago. No future in it. And not much room for improvement, either.

We can see him yet standing in the Tampa terrace lobby, looking like a matinee idol with his brown hair rippling back from his high forehead and regular features tilted at the right angle to give that aloof, out-of-this-world look.

Johnny's No Poser

Not that the personable guy is a poser. It's his natural manner, and he can help it if he's handsome?

He was digging deep into a bag of philosophy as he discussed Johnny Vander Meer, his past, present and future. He had been working out with the Cincinnati Reds preparatory to a season with the Tulsa Oilers, his 20th season in pro baseball.

"When I started out," he said, "I hoped to play 20 years. This is the 20th year. It's been a great 20 years, and I'd do it all over again."

As a guess, that's just what he's starting out to do. Against Beaumont Tuesday night he pitched a no-hit, no-run game, and that's the Vander Meer of 14 years ago, when he first came up to the Reds.

Don't Know of Change

We don't know whether his sudden success will change his mind about retiring after this year, but if it does he'll have plenty of company in the old folks' department, a select clique of life-

Dodgers Nip Cincinnati After Wild 11 Innings

CINCINNATI (AP) — It took Brooklyn 11 innings to beat Cincinnati, 2-1, Thursday in about as wild a game as has been played this season in the National League.

Neither starting pitcher Preacher Roe nor Herman Wehmeier was around at the finish. And neither was Jackie Robinson, Dodger second baseman, nor his successor, Billy Cox.

Carl Furillo drove in both of the Dodger runs.

Brooklyn finally scored in the seventh when Roy Campanella walked, advanced to second when Roy McMillan muffed Andy Parko's liner, and scored when Furillo singled to left.

Cincinnati tied it in the ninth. Ted Kluszewski led off with a single and Eddie Pellagrini was sent in to run for him. Pellagrini promptly worked a delayed steal.

Then came the fireworks. Second Baseman Robinson, enraged at the decision, ran toward the pitcher's mound, then back toward second, stopped and kicked his glove high in the air. He was promptly ejected.

Billy Cox replaced him. Andy Semnick singled and Pellagrini stopped at third. Willard Marshall batted for Grady Hatton and fled to Dick Williams, Pellagrini scoring after the catch.

Minutes later Cox was kicked out of the game for arguing with an umpire. Bobby Morgan went to second and Williams came in from

Braves Shutout Chicago, 1-0

CHICAGO (AP) — Pitcher Vern Bickford supplied his own offensive power in pitching the Boston Braves to a 1-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs and Paul Minner this wind-blown cloudy day.

Rookie Ed Mathews was parked on third base with two out in the seventh when Bickford blasted a sharp single to center for the game's only run and Boston's 2-1 edge for the three-game series.

Thus Bickford posted his No. 5 payoff against nine losses. For Minner the result supplied the same figures only in reverse—nine victories, and five setbacks.

In deciding the second straight one-run match between the two teams, Boston held a 9-7 hitting edge.

Chicago's leadoff batter reached base in each one of the first three innings. Bob Addis doubled in the first; Toby Atwell singled in the second, and Roy Smalley opened the third with a walk.

Each time Bickford pitched out of trouble.

Minner registered the game's only strikeout, fanning leadoff batter Sam Jethroe for the first out.

White Sox Beaten

BOSTON (AP) — An effective ninth inning relief performance by Ray Scarborough plus Sammy White's seventh homer and George Kell's run producing two-bagger Thursday enabled the Boston Red Sox to sweep a three-game series from the Chicago White Sox, 2-1.

White and Kell collaborated, the latter after Faye Throneberry walked and stole second, for the Boston markers in the third inning. The veteran Dizzy Trout projected that slim margin until the ninth, which Ray Coleman opened with a single to left.

Al Benton then took over for Trout and the White Sox jammed the bases with none out when Sherman Lollar singled off Kell's glove in short left field and Guillermo Miranda beat out a bunt.

That brought Scarborough into action. Pinch-hitter Sam Dente forced Miranda, Coleman scoring on the play. Scarborough then slammed the door on the White Sox' victory hopes.

Water Pistol

Ex-BoSox Player In Dutch Again

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. (AP) — Jim Piersall, Birmingham's erratic centerfielder, was suspended Thursday for three days because of his latest diamond antics. Bar- on General Manager Eddie Glendon said he had been notified of the action by Southern association proxy Charlie Hurth.

Piersall was thrown out of the Atlanta-Birmingham game Wednesday night for protesting too vigorously umpire Neil Strocchia's ruling that he struck out in the second inning.

The 22-year-old outfield star then went up on the Rockwood field grandstand roof, and from that point continued to heckle Strocchia.

Earlier in the same inning he sprayed home plate with a water pistol as a way of greeting the Barons' Milt Bolling on a home run.

It was the fourth ejection for the temperamental Piersall since he joined the Barons June 28. He was optioned here from the Boston Red Sox. Boston Manager Lou Bourdreau said he could stand no more of Jim's performances.

Browns, A's Split

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Little Bobby Shantz of the Philadelphia Athletics turned in a six-hit 3-1 win over the St. Louis Browns in the nightcap of a two-night twin bill Thursday night to chalk up his 16th victory of the season against three losses. The Browns won the first game 9-5, with left-hander Tommy Byrne pounding out two singles, a double and a homer to lead the St. Louis 16-hit attack.

Nats Edge Tigers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jim Busby's single with one out in the ninth inning scored Frank Shea from second base to give Washington a 1-0 victory over Detroit Thursday night. Shea and Hal Newhouser each yielded five hits as Shea won his sixth straight decision and his ninth of the year.

Russian Olympic Cage Team Fails to Impress Newsmen

HELSENKI (AP) — The Russians took the wraps off their vaunted Olympic basketball team Thursday, and scared nobody.

This was the impression of two Associated Press men, the only outsiders to attend the Reds' hour and a half opening workout Thursday. The Russians brought their own ball—a red one.

Their biggest man is Anatoly Knoeff, 6 feet 6, and he's a poor shot. Most of the players are 6 feet and under. They drive hard, pass wildly and hit consistently only on layups.

Apparently they've copied their technique from the Harlem Globe Trotters, who have been touring Europe. They try all sorts of fancy ball-handling, click with it only a small percentage of times.

The Reds are European champions and they're rated the strongest threat to America's unbroken Olympic cage supremacy. But they haven't the size or finesse to challenge Uncle Sam's giants seriously.

Vasileff said the team doesn't represent one club or organization.

Pirates Win Twice

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Big Ralph Kiner smashed his 17th home run with one aboard in the ninth inning to give the last-place Pittsburgh Pirates a hard-fought 4-2 victory over Philadelphia in the nightcap of a doubleheader Thursday after rookie Cal Hogue had pitched four-hit ball to whip the Phillies 2-1 in the first game.

Ted Wilks, who relieved Forrest Main in the ninth inning, got credit for his fifth triumph against four losses. Righthander Karl Drews lost his 10th game. He's won five.

Stanky Suspended After 'Gestures'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinal Manager Eddie Stanky Thursday was suspended for three days for "offensive gestures" to umpire "Babe" Pinelli in Wednesday night's game with the New York Giants.

Cardinal shortstop Solly Hemus was fined $50 for his "conduct" in the game.

Both were notified of the action in telegrams from National League President Warren C. Giles. Stanky's suspension was effective Thursday.
