Democrats Choose Adlai Stevenson

SUI Receives $23,000
In Gifts And Grants

The World News Briefs

A Condensation of Late Developments

In this city the largest gift in more than 10 years has been accepted by SUI for a new science building, on the site of the old building of education. The gift, of 50,000 dollars, has been made by the university's endowment fund.

The largest single grant was 50,000 for the new science building, which will be completed in time for the fall term. The fund will be used to make improvements in the existing buildings, and to provide additional space for the science departments.

Truman Introduces Stevenson
As Right Man To Get Elected

Chicago (AP) — President Truman today said that the right man to get elected was Adlai E. Stevenson. He added that he would support Stevenson if he were nominated.

The president made the statement at a press conference in the White House.

Truman said that Stevenson was the right man to get elected because he was a man of integrity and a fighter. He added that Stevenson had the qualities necessary to lead the country.

The Democratic convention is scheduled to meet in Chicago in July, and the president is expected to support Stevenson if he is nominated.

A Iowa Photograpners Receive Awards in Short Course Contest

The Daily Iowan

Democrats Choose Adlai Stevenson

Kefauver, Russell Bow After 3-Ballot Struggle

Chicago (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson, the man who led the Democratic ticket in the Illinois elections, was elected governor on the first ballot.

Murray Delays Back to Work For Steelmen

Washington (AP) — The steelworkers' convention in the United States was postponed indefinitely, it was announced today.

The steelworkers' convention was scheduled to meet in New York City on June 1st. However, it was announced today that the convention would be postponed until further notice.

The steelworkers' convention was called to discuss the situation in the steel industry and to consider the possibility of a strike.

New Ideas Discussed at Photo Short Course

The Daily Iowan
The Daily Iowan
SATURDAY, JULY 15, 1911

editorial

Scared Of Our Witts

Maybe it's all a matter of five: when conservos local governments insist on controlling the public schools books on disputed topics.

When, however, prominent groups insist on the Los Angeles school board to use UNISEC material,

Because, however, the American Legisticians state that the books and high school students preparing for the examinations of aptitude,

And to say that knowledge concerning social and civic topics is designed to be

Now it is true that some Americans do not always use freedom of the press well. And it is within the rights of parents to insist that their children be taught facts that are teachers are in possession of, debatable social theories to immature minds.

But it is just a case that knowledge and learning generally diffused through a community (are) essential to preservation of a free government.

As the executive a conservative local government in the US, will agree to this. But they say that the present educational system is held by the students preparing for the

TEN

GENERAL NOTICES

Gould be deposited with the club editor

TEN

...aU ".... to c11111v el1

Monda " ADd I.P) bo1lcl&n by Student

PUBLI": /N

31

In

library will posted

D o ll's

Ted's Ma nager

of

the tact

the tact

That knowledge concerning social and civic topics is designed to be

TEN

THE SUMMER HOURS FOR the Main Library will be

Monday-Friday 8:00 a.m.-6:00 p.m.

Saturday 10 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

The students will have their libran posted in their Library.

GRADUATE STUDENTS: please note. Books on these loans must be renewed or returned to the Main Library by July 30. Failure to do so will result in the loss of all books which are not returned in time.

CONCERT, UNIVERSITY SUM-mer Chorus and Orchestra. Memorial Union. July 30. 8:00 p.m.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR:

TO THE EDITOR:

This letter was written by a family member of one of the sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Cruslinberry, who lives in one of the moves which many people are familiar with. . . .

TO THE EDITOR:

This letter was written by a family member of one of the sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Cruslinberry, who lives in one of the moves which many people are familiar with. . . .

U.S. NEWS

Governer Stevenson's Sister May Take Role of Nation's First Lady

BY MARY MERRIFIELD

Chicago Tech. Interlandi

The daily Iowan

SPECTATORS PROMISED

Governor Stevenson's Sister May Take Role of Nation's First Lady

BY MARY MERRIFIELD

Chicago Tech. Interlandi

6 Egyptian Aides Quit As New Rule Threatens

CAIRO, Egypt—Six Egyptian aides of President Gamal Abdel Nasser have resigned in protest against new laws passed this week, which the government says are intended to strengthen the drive against counter-revolutionary activities.

The aides resigned after Nasser ordered in new laws which are believed to make it easier for the government to continue the drive against political prisoners and opponents of the government.

The six aides, who are close friends of Nasser and hold influential posts in government and military circles, have quit their jobs and left Egypt, it was reported yesterday.

The government has also ordered the arrest of several leading opposition figures, including the former Premier of Egypt, and the leader of the opposition party, the Egyptian Party, which is accused of plotting against the government.

The government is believed to be particularly worried about the potential for unrest in Cairo, the capital, and the surrounding region, where the opposition is strongest.

The six aides are believed to have been given the option of leaving Egypt or being arrested, and they have chosen to leave rather than face arrest.

The government's new laws are believed to be aimed at tightening its grip on political opposition and preventing any further challenges to its authority.

The government's decision to arrest several leading opposition figures is believed to be a move to prevent any further challenges to its authority.

The six aides are believed to have been given the option of leaving Egypt or being arrested, and they have chosen to leave rather than face arrest.

The government's new laws are believed to be aimed at tightening its grip on political opposition and preventing any further challenges to its authority.

The government's decision to arrest several leading opposition figures is believed to be a move to prevent any further challenges to its authority.

The six aides are believed to have been given the option of leaving Egypt or being arrested, and they have chosen to leave rather than face arrest.

The government's new laws are believed to be aimed at tightening its grip on political opposition and preventing any further challenges to its authority.

The government's decision to arrest several leading opposition figures is believed to be a move to prevent any further challenges to its authority.

The six aides are believed to have been given the option of leaving Egypt or being arrested, and they have chosen to leave rather than face arrest.

The government's new laws are believed to be aimed at tightening its grip on political opposition and preventing any further challenges to its authority.

The government's decision to arrest several leading opposition figures is believed to be a move to prevent any further challenges to its authority.

The six aides are believed to have been given the option of leaving Egypt or being arrested, and they have chosen to leave rather than face arrest.

The government's new laws are believed to be aimed at tightening its grip on political opposition and preventing any further challenges to its authority.

The government's decision to arrest several leading opposition figures is believed to be a move to prevent any further challenges to its authority.

The six aides are believed to have been given the option of leaving Egypt or being arrested, and they have chosen to leave rather than face arrest.

The government's new laws are believed to be aimed at tightening its grip on political opposition and preventing any further challenges to its authority.

The government's decision to arrest several leading opposition figures is believed to be a move to prevent any further challenges to its authority.

The six aides are believed to have been given the option of leaving Egypt or being arrested, and they have chosen to leave rather than face arrest.

The government's new laws are believed to be aimed at tightening its grip on political opposition and preventing any further challenges to its authority.

The government's decision to arrest several leading opposition figures is believed to be a move to prevent any further challenges to its authority.

The six aides are believed to have been given the option of leaving Egypt or being arrested, and they have chosen to leave rather than face arrest.

The government's new laws are believed to be aimed at tightening its grip on political opposition and preventing any further challenges to its authority.

The government's decision to arrest several leading opposition figures is believed to be a move to prevent any further challenges to its authority.

The six aides are believed to have been given the option of leaving Egypt or being arrested, and they have chosen to leave rather than face arrest.

The government's new laws are believed to be aimed at tightening its grip on political opposition and preventing any further challenges to its authority.

The government's decision to arrest several leading opposition figures is believed to be a move to prevent any further challenges to its authority.
FSA Amends Regulations on Food, Drug Act

WASHINGTON — The Department of Agriculture Friday issued new regulations that would change the way food and drug stores are licensed and regulated. The new rules were designed to make it easier for farmers and contractors to obtain licenses and to simplify the inspection process.

The new law went into effect immediately, and it will be used to license new food and drug stores as well as to inspect existing ones.

"This is a landmark day in the history of food and drug regulation," said Agriculture Secretary Mark Hickenlooper. "It is a wake-up call for all those who have been negligent in their duties to our nation's consumers.

The new law requires that all food and drug stores be licensed by the Federal Food and Drug Administration. The FDA will conduct annual inspections to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards.

One of the more significant changes is the elimination of the drug testing requirement for employees. Instead, the FDA will require that all employees be trained in handling and dispensing prescription drugs.

The new regulations also require that all stores have a designated pharmacist on duty at all times. This will ensure that customers can receive proper treatment in case of emergencies.

The regulations also include new requirements for the handling of hazardous materials, such as cleaning chemicals and disinfectants.

The new rules will be enforced by the FDA, which will be empowered to issue fines and orders for non-compliance.

The new law is expected to save hundreds of millions of dollars in regulatory costs for the food and drug industry. It is also expected to result in a significant increase in the number of licensed stores.

The new regulations are the result of a long process of debate and negotiation between the industry and the FDA. They are the result of a comprehensive review of the existing regulations and a desire to modernize them.

The new regulations are expected to go into effect immediately. They will be followed by a period of public comment and review before they are finalized.

FSA Amends Regulations on Food, Drug Act

WASHINGTON — The Department of Agriculture Friday issued new regulations that would change the way food and drug stores are licensed and regulated. The new rules were designed to make it easier for farmers and contractors to obtain licenses and to simplify the inspection process.

The new law went into effect immediately, and it will be used to license new food and drug stores as well as to inspect existing ones.

"This is a landmark day in the history of food and drug regulation," said Agriculture Secretary Mark Hickenlooper. "It is a wake-up call for all those who have been negligent in their duties to our nation's consumers.

The new law requires that all food and drug stores be licensed by the Federal Food and Drug Administration. The FDA will conduct annual inspections to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards.

One of the more significant changes is the elimination of the drug testing requirement for employees. Instead, the FDA will require that all employees be trained in handling and dispensing prescription drugs.

The new regulations also require that all stores have a designated pharmacist on duty at all times. This will ensure that customers can receive proper treatment in case of emergencies.

The regulations also include new requirements for the handling of hazardous materials, such as cleaning chemicals and disinfectants.

The new rules will be enforced by the FDA, which will be empowered to issue fines and orders for non-compliance.

The new law is expected to save hundreds of millions of dollars in regulatory costs for the food and drug industry. It is also expected to result in a significant increase in the number of licensed stores.

The new regulations are the result of a long process of debate and negotiation between the industry and the FDA. They are the result of a comprehensive review of the existing regulations and a desire to modernize them.

The new regulations are expected to go into effect immediately. They will be followed by a period of public comment and review before they are finalized.

The new regulations are designed to make it easier for farmers and contractors to obtain licenses and to simplify the inspection process. The new rules were issued after a long period of debate and negotiation between the industry and the FDA. They are intended to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards and that customers can receive proper treatment in case of emergencies.

The regulations include new requirements for the handling of hazardous materials and for the training of employees. The regulations also include new fines and penalties for non-compliance.

The new rules will be enforced by the FDA, which will conduct annual inspections to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards. The regulations are expected to go into effect immediately, and they will be followed by a period of public comment and review before they are finalized.

The new regulations are intended to modernize the existing regulations and to make it easier for farmers and contractors to obtain licenses. They are the result of a comprehensive review of the existing regulations and a desire to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards and that customers can receive proper treatment in case of emergencies.

The new regulations are expected to save hundreds of millions of dollars in regulatory costs for the food and drug industry. They are also expected to result in a significant increase in the number of licensed stores.

The new regulations are intended to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards and that customers can receive proper treatment in case of emergencies. They are the result of a comprehensive review of the existing regulations and a desire to modernize them. They are expected to go into effect immediately, and they will be followed by a period of public comment and review before they are finalized.

The new regulations are expected to save hundreds of millions of dollars in regulatory costs for the food and drug industry. They are also expected to result in a significant increase in the number of licensed stores.

The new regulations are intended to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards and that customers can receive proper treatment in case of emergencies. They are the result of a comprehensive review of the existing regulations and a desire to modernize them. They are expected to go into effect immediately, and they will be followed by a period of public comment and review before they are finalized.

The new regulations are expected to save hundreds of millions of dollars in regulatory costs for the food and drug industry. They are also expected to result in a significant increase in the number of licensed stores.

The new regulations are intended to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards and that customers can receive proper treatment in case of emergencies. They are the result of a comprehensive review of the existing regulations and a desire to modernize them. They are expected to go into effect immediately, and they will be followed by a period of public comment and review before they are finalized.

The new regulations are expected to save hundreds of millions of dollars in regulatory costs for the food and drug industry. They are also expected to result in a significant increase in the number of licensed stores.

The new regulations are intended to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards and that customers can receive proper treatment in case of emergencies. They are the result of a comprehensive review of the existing regulations and a desire to modernize them. They are expected to go into effect immediately, and they will be followed by a period of public comment and review before they are finalized.

The new regulations are expected to save hundreds of millions of dollars in regulatory costs for the food and drug industry. They are also expected to result in a significant increase in the number of licensed stores.

The new regulations are intended to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards and that customers can receive proper treatment in case of emergencies. They are the result of a comprehensive review of the existing regulations and a desire to modernize them. They are expected to go into effect immediately, and they will be followed by a period of public comment and review before they are finalized.

The new regulations are expected to save hundreds of millions of dollars in regulatory costs for the food and drug industry. They are also expected to result in a significant increase in the number of licensed stores.

The new regulations are intended to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards and that customers can receive proper treatment in case of emergencies. They are the result of a comprehensive review of the existing regulations and a desire to modernize them. They are expected to go into effect immediately, and they will be followed by a period of public comment and review before they are finalized.

The new regulations are expected to save hundreds of millions of dollars in regulatory costs for the food and drug industry. They are also expected to result in a significant increase in the number of licensed stores.

The new regulations are intended to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards and that customers can receive proper treatment in case of emergencies. They are the result of a comprehensive review of the existing regulations and a desire to modernize them. They are expected to go into effect immediately, and they will be followed by a period of public comment and review before they are finalized.

The new regulations are expected to save hundreds of millions of dollars in regulatory costs for the food and drug industry. They are also expected to result in a significant increase in the number of licensed stores.

The new regulations are intended to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards and that customers can receive proper treatment in case of emergencies. They are the result of a comprehensive review of the existing regulations and a desire to modernize them. They are expected to go into effect immediately, and they will be followed by a period of public comment and review before they are finalized.

The new regulations are expected to save hundreds of millions of dollars in regulatory costs for the food and drug industry. They are also expected to result in a significant increase in the number of licensed stores.

The new regulations are intended to ensure that stores are meeting safety standards and that customers can receive proper treatment in case of emergencies. They are the result of a comprehensive review of the existing regulations and a desire to modernize them. They are expected to go into effect immediately, and they will be followed by a period of public comment and review before they are finalized. Positively, they are also expected to result in a significant increase in the number of licensed stores.
Counselin Takes Post In East

By Jack Norden

JIM COUNSELIN, Howard varsity assistant swimming coach since 1946, has been named to the position of Howard Swimming coach.

Counselin, a Howard alumnus, has been a member of the Ohio State coaching staff for the past six seasons. He is a native of Upland, Calif., and took up swimming in his early years.

"It's a great opportunity for him," said W. L. Wisdom, Howard athletic director. "He is a good coach and I'm sure he will do a fine job of coaching."