Scots Cheer Highlanders' Marching, Not Bagpiping

ABERDEEN, SCOTLAND (AP)—The all-girl bagpipe band from SUI won the hearts of 20,000 cheering Scots here Thursday night—but not with their bagpiping.

The bare-kneed American coeds won the biggest applause with their fancy-step marching and trick drum routines. And the star of the show was freckled Kitty Kelly of Iowa City, who sang an Irish song.

Kitty, an SUI music student, sang Danny Boy, and the big crowd jamming Aberdeen's Pittodrie football stadium yelled five minutes for an encore.

Blushing happily, Kitty told the crowd she was sorry but she had a cold and just couldn't sing any more.

Parents Thankful

Parents Thankful

As for the Iowans' bagpipe playing, well, the Scots who started blowing into the weird-looking instrument hundreds of years ago just weren't very impressed.

The 59 American girls tried out some fancy intricate stuff—Scherzade by Rimsky-Korsakov and Ravel's Bolero. The applause was only polite.

"That music was never meant for the pipes," said George Cruickshank, a Scottish bagpiper for 40 years. "It sounded horrible."

He thought the Iowa girls had "a bit to learn yet."

William Adamson, director of the band, defended the piping of music that is not in the bagpiping traditions of Scotland.

"I believe the pipes are a universal instrument and I believe we can use them to play all kinds of music," he said.

Aberdeen Ladies Aroused

A six-member Aberdeen ladies bagpipe band, hastily recruited when it was learned the Yanks were coming from Iowa, saved the honor of Scottish bagpiping by rendering the traditional Scottish airs in lusty fashion.

But what was forecast as the bagpipe battle of the century between the Aberdeen lassies and the American gals didn't come off—at least not officially.

The Aberdeen ladies just piped the American girls into and out of the big stadium, then remained respectfully silent while the Americans put on their show.

The Aberdeen ladies indignantly threatened to boycott the welcoming party for the Americans Wednesday unless they were permitted to appear Thursday night too. They got their way.

Council Opposed Them

The American girl bagpipe invasion of Scotland kicked up a fullblown row in Aberdeen's city council last June. It voted 20-8 against shelling out the $700 for the American's expenses here and hasn't gone back on its action yet.

However, six Aberdeen businessmen banded together as the "Aberdeen-Iowa Fraternity association" and put up the money. Other volunteers chipped in.

The Americans' arrival here Wednesday touched off an uproarious welcoming demonstration by 20,000 Scots, all anxious to see what the cornbelt invaders looked like.

Councilman Frank Magee, who led the fight in Aberdeen's council against the Iowa invasion, boycotted Wednesday's welcoming but turned up at the stadium Thursday night.

He didn't like the show, he said. "A misrepresentation of Scottish culture," was the way he described the Americans' performance.

A Condensation of Late Developments

PARIS (AP)—An Allied military source said Thursday night the U.S. will lean over backward to avoid offending the Soviet Union during the big air-sea drills beginning in European waters Sept. 13. The joint maneuver is by members of the forces of the North Atlantic treaty organization. A spokesman at Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe said U.S. vessels taking part will steer clear of the southern Baltic off Soviet-occupied East Germany.

FOLKESTON, ENG. (FRIDAY) (AP)—Bob Paysour, 24-year-old fireman from Gastonia, N.C., failed Friday on his attempt to swim the English channel. Paysour was pulled out of the water about six miles short of the English coast. He had to give up in the chilly 21-mile-wide waters after swimming 12 hours and 15 minutes. Paysour's trainers said his left leg became paralyzed as the result of an injury suffered eight weeks ago. He entered the water at Cap Gris Nez on the French coast at noon Thursday.

TOKYO (AP)—North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung declared Thursday night that "we hope to get an armistice agreement wherein there is neither victor nor vanquished." His speech, unusually moderate in tone, was delivered at the North Korean capital of Pyongyang during a rally on the eve of the seventh anniversary of Japan's surrender. Kim said "U.S. insistence on compulsory retention of Communist prisoners is the only obstacle holding up final settlement of the Korean dispute." The speech, broadcast by the Pyongyang radio, was heard in Tokyo. The armistice talks are in recess until next Tuesday.

LONDON (AP)—Another heat wave hit most of continental Europe Thursday, parching badly needed crops and drying up water supplies across the continent. It reached 102 degrees at Nuernberg, Germany, 97.5 in Florence, and 97.3 in Vienna. Vienna's weatherman said it was the hottest day recorded there in 60 years.

CIO Leaders Give Support To Stevenson

WASHINGTON (AP)—The CIO, in a move which had been expected for some time, threw its support Thursday behind the presidential drive of Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic candidate.

In a resolution adopted by its 46-man policy board, the labor organization declared "the entrenched old guard" controls the Republican party and predicted an overwhelming November victory for Stevenson and Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama, his running mate.

The resolution avoided specific mention of Republican candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The Stevenson endorsement, including a statement that the Democratic platform is the "most liberal, forward-looking and realistic ever adopted by any political party," marked the high spot of a three-day political parley of leaders of the CIO and its political action committee.

The American Federation of Labor, meanwhile, postponed for one month a decision on possible endorsement of a presidential candidate. There were reports the AFL was prepared to break a 28-year tradition and publicly come out for Stevenson.

The time and place for such a move would be next month in New York at the AFL's national convention.

15 Ditch B-29 Before Crash

SPOKANE, WASH. (AP)—Fifteen men aboard a faltering B-29, including a young corporal whose parachute popped open inside the plane, jumped to safety through the dark from 6,000 feet near here Thursday.

The abandoned Superfort was smashed to bits moments later as it rammed into the ground on a farm and blew up.

Cpl. Clifford C. McArthey, 22, of New York city had a frightening experience before he left the stricken bomber, two of its engines out and losing altitude.

His rip cord caught on something and his parachute broke open at his feet seconds before he was due ball out. Without saying a word, McArthey calmly gathered the silk in his arms with the aid of 2d Lt. Robert F. Timble of Spokane.

The young radio operator then slipped through the well of the nose wheel, fed the silk to the wind and slowly drifted to earth as the chute opened perfectly.

Red Leader Named Premier of Hungary

BUDAPEST (AP)—Communist boss Matyas Rakosi became premier of this Soviet-orbit nation Thursday. A sudden shift of jobs made the behind-the-scenes leader the legal director of Hungary.

The change was accomplished in a specially called, one-day session of the national assembly which elected him by acclamation. Istvan Dobi, who had been premier, formally resigned. He then was given the job of president—a figurehead position—of the country.

Dobi had been premier since December, 1948. The 54-year-old former landless peasant was a leading member of the now defunct Smallholder party, the country's dominant party until the arrival of the Communists.

The shift in Hungary's government appears to have been dictated by Moscow as part of its new policy for all the satellite countries: elimination of non-Communist elements in the governments and full and open control by the Communist party.

1 Injury Reported As Car Overturns

Mrs. Helen Eleanor Wirt, 32, of Pandora, Ia., was injured Thursday night about 9:20 when the car which she was driving overturned about eight miles west of Iowa City on highway 6.

Her husband, Ralph Wirt, suffered bruises of the right leg. Their daughter, Sherril, 6, was not injured. Both she and Wirt, the other occupants in the car, were released by hospital authorities.

Mrs. Wirt suffered a fracture of the pelvic bone but was reported in good condition by University hospital authorities.

The car was traveling east when it left the highway and overturned, according to officials.

Cedar Rapids Man, Widow Found Shot

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—A 33-year-old widow, mother of two children, and a Cedar Rapids businessman were found shot Thursday in a case described by authorities as murder and suicide.

The woman, Mrs. Etta Young, whose body, clad only in a nightgown was sprawled on a bed in her apartment, had been shot twice with a .32 calibre pistol.

Police theorized that Alvin E. Wilkinson, 36, shot Mrs. Young and then turned the gun on himself. His body, fully clothed, was found near the bed. Young was divorced and the father of three children.

Both worked at the Collins Radio company here and Wilkinson also operated a business called the Drive-in Bill Paying service. Because of large amounts of money he handled he had a permit to carry a gun.

Jack Comstock, also an employe of the Collins company and a suitor of Mrs. Young, told sheriff's officers that Wilkinson sought to keep company with her and on one occasion entered her apartment and refused to leave.

Comstock said that he and Mrs. Young recently went to Sheriff Jim Smith and complained of Wilkinson's attentions to the widow. The bodies were found by Mrs. Young's 13-year-old son, David.

Mrs. Young's other child, Nancy, 11, was staying with relatives in West Liberty.

Staff Editor of Asia's Top Paper to Enter School of Journalism

Nobukazu Mori, a staff editor of Japan's largest newspaper, will enter the SUI school of journalism as a graduate student this fall.

Mori covered the San Francisco peace conference and discussion of the Japanese peace treaty for his newspaper, Mainichi, which has the largest newspaper circulation in Asia, and since covering the conference has remained in the United States on a two-year leave of absence from his newspaper.

During this time he has been enrolled in the San Diego State college school of journalism under Prof. Arthur Wimer, a former member of the SUI journalism faculty.

Mori has been in the field of economics since receiving his M.A. degree in economy from Tsumu-eikan university in Kyoto. He began working on the Mainichi in September of 1943, as a reporter in the political and economic field, and since July, 1947, on the editorial staff.

Welfare Director To Visit Michigan

Boyd R. McCandless, director of the Iowa child welfare research station, will speak at conferences for teachers in the public schools of three Michigan cities Sept. 2. Speaking at meetings preceding the opening of school, McCandless will speak in Wyandotte, Ferndale and Dearborn.

The implications which research with children has for high school students will be McCandless' subject. He will include discussion of how facts concerning the growth of children affect the school curriculum.

Safety Expert Praises Back Seat Driving

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Back seat driving, scourge of the American motorist, now comes in for some compliments.

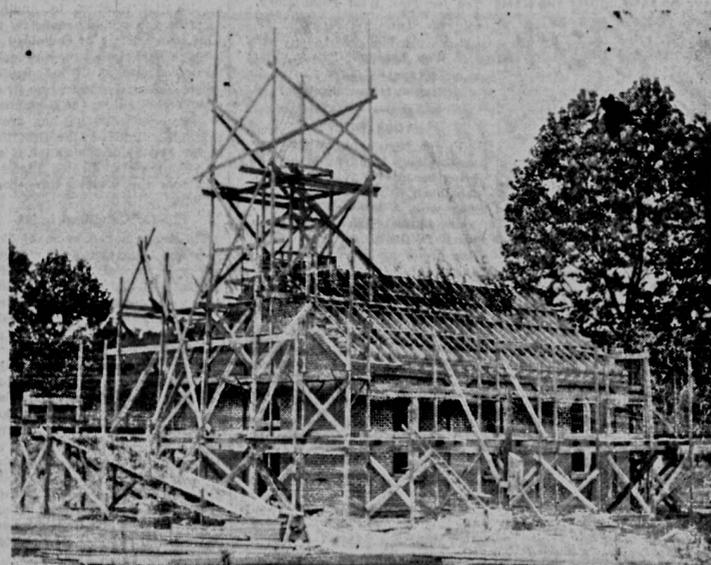

P. F. Drury, director of safety education for the Automobile Club of Missouri, describes the back seat as a possible safety asset—if only he, or she, refrains from constant nagging.

Here are Drury's rules for a successful BSD:

1. Keep talking to the driver. If his answers are vague, he's probably tired and unfit to drive safely.
2. Misread a road sign to the driver. If he doesn't correct you he wasn't alert to the sign and shouldn't be driving.
3. Insult him. If he doesn't react quickly, he's unfit to continue behind the wheel.

Ike Turns Down Truman Offer On Briefing Of World Affairs

Construction on Student Chapel Continues

CONSTRUCTION IS PROCEEDING on the new SUI student chapel on the northwest corner of the women's athletic field south of the Iowa Memorial Union. The chapel, under construction since April, is a replica of the old St. John's Methodist Episcopal church of Graham township in Johnson county. The building has the same dimensions as the original church, 36 feet long and 26 feet wide. It will serve as a place for student meditation. The chapel will be non-denominational and no formal services will be held.

Commission Undecided On Iowa Duck Marsh

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa conservation commission Thursday heard arguments by both sides on advisability of establishing a duck nesting and hunting area in Appanoose county.

The hearing grew out of a commission plan to buy 1,220 acres of Charlton river bottom land between Mystic and Moravia and develop it as a duck marsh.

The commission made no decision whether to go ahead with development of the preserve, which is only in the planning stage. No land has been purchased; no options have been taken.

All the commission did Thursday, after hearing advocates of the project and protests against it by owners of adjacent land, was to inform the objectors it would pay no damages to remotely affected land owners, if it established the preserve.

The commission notified the objectors that it would accept the finding of a three-man board of appraisers appointed by the supreme court.

Marines Push Back 5th Chinese Assault To Get Bunker Hill

SEOUL (AP)—Fighting U.S. marines Friday turned back a fifth Chinese Red attempt to recapture strategic Bunker Hill on the western Korean front.

Two Chinese companies—about 500 men—struck in the dark before dawn.

In two hours the Chinese were beaten off.

The attack was the first in about 24 hours. Early Thursday morning the Reds launched a half-hearted assault that sputtered out in four minutes.

The marines flung the Chinese of the hill near Panmunjom in a surprise stroke early Tuesday.

The Communists threw in four attacks in about 48 hours before a lull came Thursday.

There were early morning raids and patrol clashes along the remainder of the front.

Martin Invited to Attend Conference with Ike

Congressman Thomas Martin of Iowa City has received an invitation to meet with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican presidential nominee, at a regional GOP conference at Kansas City, Thursday.

The meeting, which will be attended by other Iowa Republican party officials is being held to discuss midwestern campaign plans. It will take place at the Town House, a new Kansas City hotel. Martin indicated that he plans to attend the conference.

President Says Ike 'Garbled' Information

DENVER (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower Thursday rejected an invitation from President Truman for a White House briefing and immediately was accused by Truman of garbling some things the President has told him.

The Republican presidential nominee said it would be unwise for him to accept the invitation. He added that to do so would only create confusion in the public mind.

"It is my duty," Eisenhower said, "to remain free to analyze publicly the policies and acts of the present administration."

Criticism Brings Invitation

Republicans have contended the invitation to Eisenhower followed GOP criticism of the White House visit Tuesday of his Democratic opponent, Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois.

Not so, said Truman at his press conference Thursday afternoon. The President said the idea of briefing both Eisenhower and Stevenson on the international situation originated about 10 days ago. He added that the defense department told Eisenhower a week ago that whatever information the general wanted would be made available.

Eisenhower's executive assistant Arthur H. Vandenberg Jr., countered with this statement: "Neither the general nor anyone in this office has any memory of any such message and there is nothing in our files."

Truman Denies Secrets

As to any implication there might be secrets between the Democratic President and the Republican nominee, Truman said Eisenhower was free to make public anything said to him.

It was here that Truman said Eisenhower has "quoted many things told him by the President. Some of them, Truman added, had been garbled. Reporters did not obtain from the President just what it was he thought Eisenhower had garbled."

Bradley Admits Delay In Giving Ike Word

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman said Thursday the defense department had notified Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower a week or more ago he would receive a regular summary of government intelligence reports, but Gen. Omar Bradley said Thursday night Eisenhower had not been so notified.

Bradley said he had been assigned to tell Eisenhower he could get the reports, but believing there was no hurry, he had planned to take the matter up with Eisenhower on Eisenhower's forthcoming trip to the east.

Eden's Bride Talks with Cousin

LICQ-ATHERY, FRANCE (AP)—Death came Thursday night to underground explorer Marcel Loubens, a thousand feet down in the Pyrenees, just before the midnight hour when rescuers hoped to bring him out. His back was broken Wednesday in a fall down a fissure, one of the world's deepest.

The 33-year-old Paris industrialist and underground enthusiast got his injuries when a steel cable hauling him to the surface of the 153-foot Pierre St. Martin fissure snapped after he had been lifted 120 feet.

A daring doctor and three companions worked in the dank cold and darkness in the vain effort to bring him out. The doctor was lowered a fifth of a mile to the side of the unconscious man with blood plasma and a stretcher.

Dr. Andrey Mairey, himself an amateur cave explorer, made the desperate rescue attempt.

It took two and a half hours to lower him by cable and winch.

Working with the doctor were three other cave explorers who had been with Loubens on the discovery of a cavern they estimated as 1,500 feet long, 1,000 feet wide and 300 feet high.

4 NEW POLIO CASES

Four new polio cases were admitted to University hospitals Thursday. One patient was discharged. There are now 28 cases of active polio at the hospitals.

CLARISSA SPENCER-CHURCHILL, 32-year-old vivacious blonde and niece of British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, leaves 10 Downing st., with her cousin Randolph Churchill earlier this week. Thursday she married British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in a short civil ceremony in London's Caxton Hall. The prime minister was a chief witness at the ceremony. (Story on page 3.)

Chances of U.S. Political Parties Lie in Hands of Independent Voters

WASHINGTON (CP) — The 1952 presidential election will be unique in the history of the nation. Experienced politicians and newspapermen agree that our next president will be elected, not because he is nominated by either the Republican or Democratic party, but because he is the choice of what is possibly the most powerful political organization in the country—the party of independent voters.

The trend toward independent voting has been steadily increasing in the United States since the beginning of this century. Between 1900 and 1935 the number of independent voters increased by an average of 1.5 per cent from one presidential election to another, according to a study made by the American Society of Sociology.

Since 1936 studies have revealed that the number of independent voters—citizens who feel no strong allegiance to either the Republican or Democratic party—has grown so rapidly that for the first time in the history of the nation it can be said that the United States is now operating under a three-party system.

Change Unnoticed in '48
The surprising election of Truman and defeat of Dewey in the last presidential election, after virtually all polls had indicated a different result, puzzled the nation simply because this revolution in our political life had not been appreciated.

That a political revolution has occurred is now fully understood and appreciated by the politicians of the two parties which have long controlled the destiny of this nation.

There are not enough Republicans or Democrats in the United States to elect a president without additional support, said Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., at a recent meeting of the Republican national committee.

Independent Votes Needed
If every Republican voted for the Republican candidate, said Lodge, he would get only 31 per cent of the vote. For either party to elect its candidate it must select one who will appeal to the great strength of the independent voters.

On the basis of a voting population of about 55 million the most recent survey indicates that there are about 22 million Democrats, about 18 million Republicans, and about 16 million independents. It is conceded, however, that these figures do not fully reveal the strength of the party of independent voters.

The fact is that American voters are much more independent than they think they are. Whenever a sampling of party strength has been taken, and voters are asked what party they consider themselves a member, about 20 per cent of the voters describe themselves as independents.

Voters Often Change
However, when a study is made of the results of presidential elections, it has been found that there is a considerable percentage who reported themselves members of one party, but who on election day when casting their votes in secret affiliate themselves with another party.

In addition there is the momentous fact that the United States which leads the world in so many ways, also leads the world in the failure of its citizens to vote at elections. Here is the shameful showing made by the United States in comparison with the showing made by other nations:

The percentage of eligible voters who went to the polls in recent elections was 90 per cent in Belgium, 89 per cent in Italy, 82 per cent in Britain, and 75 per cent in France.

Jap Percentage Higher
In the first democratic election in its history Japan showed a percentage of 70 per cent.

In the United States in the Truman-Dewey election of 1948 the percentage was only 51 per cent. The result was that a president was elected by a majority of what was almost a minority of the citizens of the United States eligible to vote.

According to census figures there are between 30 and 35 million American citizens, a much larger number than belongs to any political party, who are eligible to vote but who regularly disenfranchise themselves by failure to vote at each presidential election.

Agree on 1 Point
Experienced politicians and learned sociologists who have studied this problem of these voluntarily disenfranchised voters, while differing on many points do agree on one point.

They do agree that if through some miracle this great mass of American citizens should become aroused over the destiny of this nation and went to the polls to vote, like some atomic explosion, the result might be the smashing of one or even both of the two great political parties that have run the United States.

15th Wife of Bigamist Fumes after Finding He Isn't a Bachelor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Ding Dong Daddy of the D Line has married again, for the 15th time.

But his wife said Wednesday night she had locked him out of their apartment because he had led her to believe he was a bachelor. She said "I knew nothing about his past life."

Francis H. Van Wie, 66, was wed Aug. 5 in Las Vegas, Nev., to Amelia Pritchard, 73-year-old Los Angeles widow, they disclosed Wednesday.

Van Wie served a San Quentin prison term for bigamy. He wooed his brides while he was a conductor on San Francisco's "D" street-car line, but neglected the court formalities in divorcing himself from them.

When he testified for himself in his trial, he estimated that he had been wed 12 or 13 times. He was given three 10-year prison terms but was paroled two years after his conviction in 1945.

Van Wie, one time boxer and lion tamer, said in his Las Vegas application that he was divorced in Los Angeles in 1945, but records in San Francisco show his last marriage was in 1949 to a Mrs. Mary Abba, now living in Oakland.

Find Missing Man Through Picture
SIDNEY, IA. (AP) — Freemont county Sheriff A. S. Christopher said Wednesday that a man found ill in a Richmond, Va., hotel has been identified from a picture as William Cary, 77, of Hamburg, Ia.

Christopher said employees at the hotel where the man was staying said they were certain he is Cary, but hospital attendants merely said the picture looked like him.

He said Mrs. Cary and a daughter, Mrs. Frank Lusby of Hamburg, planned to leave for Richmond Thursday.

Cary disappeared after he left on a trip to Omaha July 8.

Ike Undecided on Policy Toward Red Satellites

By J. M. ROBERTS JR. Associated Press News Analyst

There is some maneuvering in the Republican campaign camp over how the policy of containing Russia should be supplemented by a campaign for liberation of the satellite nations.

Rep. Charles Kersten of Wisconsin wanted Gen. Eisenhower to proclaim the liberation program, but the candidate's subsequent statement merely endorsed the Wilsonian policy of self-determination of peoples and promised to encourage the hope of freedom among them.

Kersten would begin with propaganda and organization of volunteer military units among political refugees to serve with the Western Allies. But he is obviously looking also toward the encouragement of revolt and supply of anti-Communist forces within the countries.

And it would confuse liberation with the most immediate demand, which is the defense of what remains, unconquered. Britain and Africa had to be saved before France could be liberated.

Nevertheless, the day is approaching when the problem of what to do after containment will be uppermost. Co-existence between two heavily armed camps, with its constant drainage from the national economies for military replacements, is a pipe dream. All such arms races as the present one have ended in war, and the odds are that this one will.

The Allies are taking the short end of the odds because, by their Democratic natures, they must. And because of the terrible consequences if history should repeat.

Lightning Bolt Kills Mountain Climber
ELLENBURG, WASH. (AP) — An injured mountain climber, who was hit by the same lightning bolts that killed his companion, said Wednesday "the heat was so great it melted the cans in my pack." The pack was on his back.

Alan Robert Grant, 19, told of the ordeal with death on his arrival here on the coast guard helicopter that snatched him from Mt. Stuart, in the Cascades, Wednesday after being turned back by tough weather twice Tuesday.

Fruit juice cans in Grant's haversack were fused together by the lightning that burned him and killed Paul Brikkoff, 20, both of Seattle.

Grant is suffering from burned feet after three harrowing days on the mountain.

FCC Head to Attend Ames TV Workshop
AMES (AP) — Paul A. Walker, chairman of the federal communications commission, heads a list of 10 consultants for the nation's first educational television workshop beginning at station WOI-TV Aug. 17.

The week-long workshop is sponsored by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters in cooperation with the joint committee on educational television, and the Iowa State College station. Those attending will consider problems of a beginning educational television station.

Work Progresses on Airport Headquarters
The new $100,000 administration building being constructed at the Iowa City airport is scheduled to be completed by the first of the year. The 32 by 110 foot structure will be one story high except for the main lobby which will have a meeting room on the second floor. Quarters for the United Airlines will be located to the right of the lobby. Lobby entrance will be from the east where the passenger unloading platform will be covered. Construction of the administration building is the first step in a long range plan for improvement at the airport.

Mystery Surrounds Virginia's 'Lost Colony'

WASHINGTON (CP) — American history has no more intriguing mystery than what happened to the Lost Colony that disappeared between 1587 and 1591 from Roanoke Island off the coast of North Carolina.

Among the 150 men, women and children of this Lost Colony was a baby girl named Virginia Dare. She was the first child of English parentage born in America.

The happy event of her birth took place 365 years ago, on Aug. 18, 1587. This was less than a month after Sir Walter Raleigh's second colony arrived on Roanoke Island.

Governor's Granddaughter
Virginia Dare was granddaughter of the colony's governor, John White. Her father was Ananias Dare, one of White's 12 assistants in the "Cite of Raleigh in Virginia."

Shortly after Virginia Dare was born her grandfather left for England with two small ships to get supplies. War with Spain delayed White's return, and when he did get back to Roanoke Island in August, 1591, the colony had disappeared. No one has ever found out what happened to the Lost Colony.

Easternmost County
Look at your map of North Carolina today and you'll see that the easternmost county is named Dare. Between the mainland and Roanoke Island is Croatan sound. On Roanoke Island are two towns and, at the northern tip, the Fort Raleigh National Historic Site. Manteo is the seat of Dare county. Wanchese is a town near the island's southern tip.

Behind these names is an intriguing story. The county is named after Virginia Dare. Manteo and Wanchese are named after two Indians whom leaders of Raleigh's first expedition in 1584 took back to England, where they were showered with honors before being returned to their native Roanoke Island laden with gifts.

Manteo Friendly
Manteo remained friendly to the white men; Wanchese became their enemy. Croatan sound was named after one word, "CROATAN," which the Lost Colony left on a tree to indicate their destination.

Two theories about the Lost Colony's fate have given rise to legends in the folk lore of North Carolina. One theory is that all members of the Lost Colony were murdered. The other is that they went to live among the Croatan Indians, who since have claimed that they have white blood in their veins from the Lost Colony of Roanoke Island.

Among the oldest legends of America are those surrounding the mysterious disappearance and fate of Virginia Dare. One legend is that when she grew to maidenhood a rejected lover, an Indian, changed her by sorcery into a white doe. She lived a charmed life, until one day a cruel chief's love overcame magic and he shot her with a silver arrow.

Superstition Spreads
Superstition spread throughout the south that it was bad luck to see a white doe, and that you could kill one only with a silver arrow.

A related legend is that when Scuppernon vines were discovered in 1581 in the Carolinas they bore white grapes with white skins, and their juice made white wine. After the Indian chief killed Virginia Dare with the silver arrow, however, her blood changed the Scuppernon so its grapes were dark purple, yielding reddish juice that produced red wine.

While most people today, naturally, do not believe such legends, the fact remains that no one knows what happened to Virginia Dare and the men and women of the Lost Colony.

Fort Raleigh Historic Site today covers part of the settlement sites of Raleigh's first colony in 1585 and of the Lost Colony in 1587. A fort has been restored, but the village site still has not been found.

Glaciologist Says Earth Is Gradually Growing Warmer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A famed glacier expert Wednesday night pictured the earth as gradually growing warmer for the past 100 years — with shorter winters and longer summers.

Dr. Hans W. Ahlmann, the Swedish ambassador to Norway and world-famous glaciologist, spoke at the main banquet of the International Geographical Union.

This warmup movement started at the end of the 18th century and has accelerated since 1900, Ahlmann said.

Ike to Conduct 'Hard' Drive For Farm Vote, Goodwin Says

DES MOINES (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower will make a "hard hitting" drive for the farm vote, Robert K. Goodwin, Iowa Republican national committee chairman, said Wednesday.

Goodwin, who was appointed director of the Republican farm division of the presidential campaign Saturday, returned from Denver where he sat in on Eisenhower's conference with the Republican members of the congressional agriculture committees.

Goodwin is leaving Thursday morning for Chicago where he will set up farm division offices in Republican campaign headquarters in Hotel Hilton.

To Hold Conference
He will go on to Washington Friday to confer with Arthur Summerfield, Republican national chairman, and then return to Chicago, where he will direct the farm campaign until election day.

Goodwin said he was happy to be assigned to the direction of the farm campaign, and was pleased with the plans for it as they were sketched in the meeting with Eisenhower and the congressional farm leaders.

Iowa Republican party and state officials will confer with Dwight D. Eisenhower in Kansas City, Kan., Aug. 21 James S. Schramm, state chairman, said Wednesday.

Will Discuss Campaign
The Republican presidential candidate is coming to Kansas, Schramm said, to discuss campaign plans with midwestern state officials and candidates.

Schramm, who is going to the conference, said about a dozen Iowans will attend. Robert K. Goodwin, Iowa national committee chairman, said he did not plan to attend, because he'll be setting up farm campaign division headquarters in Chicago.

Gov. William S. Beardsley, one of the early Eisenhower supporters, received a special invitation to the conference. He wasn't sure Wednesday whether he could go.

Highlanders Take Timeout

WITH THE THAMES RIVER in the background, three SUI Scottish Highlanders pause between London performances earlier this week. Thursday the group performed at Aberdeen, Scotland, before 20,000 cheering Scots. Enjoying the short rest period are (left to right): Vionne Longstreth, Elma; Mariana Heriotti, 216 Melrose court, and Ruth Ashton, 820 Park road, both of Iowa City.

Hancher Gets Thanks For Highlanders' Visit

A letter from a citizen of Plymouth, England, written following the performance of the Scottish Highlanders in the English coastal city, has been received by SUI President Virgil M. Hancher. Following is the complete letter from William A. Wanless of Plymouth: "May an ordinary English citizen express to you his thanks for a thoroughly enjoyable experience? "This week we have been honored by a visit from your University's Scottish Highlanders for one day and the spectacle of their marching on our Plymouth Hoe with the harbour as a background, in the morning sun, will be difficult to forget. "I felt tempted to speculate that had such a visit taken place some few hundreds of years ago, when Drake was engaged in his famous game of bowls, he may well have not noticed the Spanish Armada, with grave risks to England. "Again, that evening, at a ball given in their honour, when I was fortunate enough to meet the girls personally, I was most impressed by their gaiety, their charming manners, their refreshing good looks, and their modest bearing. "Indeed, they stood out as a credit to the University, to America, and to their own fair sex. While you can send us ambassa-

Test Pilot Killed In Forced Jump

BURROWSVILLE, VA. (AP) — One of the pioneers of faster-than-sound flight plummeted to his death Thursday from an exploding B-45 jet bomber. He was test pilot Herbert H. Hoover, a native of Knoxville, Tenn., the first man to fly the Bell X-1, an experimental prototype of present-day supersonic aircraft.

Independent Japan to Ignore Fateful Surrender Anniversary

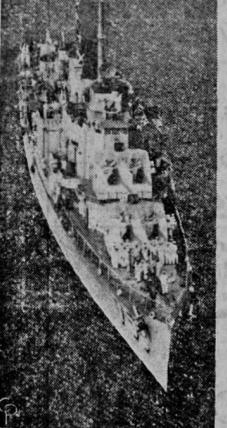

TOKYO (AP) — The dream of empire blew up seven years ago today but a rebuilt, independent Japan will ignore this fateful surrender anniversary. Japanese will leave any celebrating to the Koreans among them. About 6,000 Koreans scheduled a rally in Tokyo to celebrate this day, which meant an end of 40 years of bondage under the Japanese. The Japanese themselves are preoccupied with the problems of foreign trade, rearming in a dangerous world, and the bid for political power which some wartime leaders will make this fall.

She'll Be Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Cooley (D-N.C.) said Wednesday 16 members of congress are planning to attend the meeting of the interparliamentary union at Bern, Switzerland, Aug. 20-Sept. 2. Those planning to attend include Rep. Talle (R-Ia.).

SUI Law Graduate Gets Guard Promotion

The 103d infantry division of Iowa City will be commanded by Capt. Evan L. Hultman, a graduate of the SUI college of law, beginning Sunday. Capt. Hultman has been appointed commander of headquarters company of the 103d infantry division for the two-week training period at Camp McCoy, Wis.

BADLY DAMAGED by Communist shore batteries off the east coast of Korea, the U.S. destroyer John R. Pierce goes to Japan for repairs. She sustained no casualties but received 24 four-to-five-inch holes in her superstructure and 20-foot-square holes in both smokestacks.

Stevenson Hits at GOP Command, Demands Greater States' Powers

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson appealed to the states Thursday to stop a "tidal drift" of power toward Washington. Then he ripped into the Republican call for a change in administration as a novelty cigar that might explode in the people's face. The free-swinging address hit at centralized power in federal government, raked the GOP high command including former President Herbert Hoover, and ranged into a proud display of the governor's own record as a civil administrator. This was Stevenson's first major address since his nomination.

Deplores Central Powers On centralized federal power, Stevenson told an audience at the Illinois state fairgrounds: "We talk about and deplore incessantly the increasing centralization of power over our lives in Washington. But that tidal drift toward the capital will go on and on unless those necessary functions of government which don't have to be performed in Washington are performed, and properly performed, at the state or local level. "The states are the dikes which we can build more strongly against the flood waters sweeping toward the District of Columbia. "On the Republican plea for a change, he said: "I have been hearing a great deal about the need for a change. I had always thought that Americans liked a change for the better and disliked change for the worse. But a new doctrine is abroad in the land—a doctrine of change for the sake of change. "Cigar Will Explode "It is like buying a surprise package at a novelty store. Maybe the cigar they are offering us is a good one, or maybe it will explode in your face. Stevenson spoke from the same platform from which GOP vice-presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon spoke Wednesday before a Republican rally. Nixon accused Stevenson of being the "captive" candidate of the city bosses. The occasion for Stevenson's speech was to introduce the main speaker of the day, Vice-President Alben Barkley, to a Democratic gathering. Barkley stoutly defended the Democratic party's record for the past 20 years; then he tore into the Republicans by saying in part: "The Republican convention in Chicago was controlled by three five-star generals. There was Gen. MacArthur, Gen. Eisenhower and General Motors. "Remington Rand took care of MacArthur naming him a firm official. General Motors should take care of Gen. Eisenhower after the November election. And the Democratic party will just go along as usual taking care of the general public. Stevenson contrasted 74-year-old Barkley with 77-year-old Hoover as another example of the difference he saw in the two parties. He said: "At the Republican convention, an eminent party leader, a former president of this country, aged 77 years, made one of the main addresses. His speech was deeply and melancholy in tone. This would probably be his last Republican convention, he kept saying—a note of pessimism which we all sincerely hope will turn out to be wholly unjustified. He described the state of the nation in equally funeral language. The whole effect was one of black, unrelieved gloom. "At another point, Stevenson appeared to be comparing his own experience as a civil administrator with that of GOP presidential nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower when he said: "Experience Helps "I have learned more than I can say in these short years as governor. It is easy enough to have bright ideas about the art of civil government in the abstract; but you never really can understand government until you are confronted with the concrete pressures and the day to day operating responsibilities. "The experience and training of four years in Springfield has given me a unique opportunity to explore and, I hope, to master in some measure the means by which competing parties, competing branches of government, competing groups in the opportunity can be brought to common action for the common good."

Former City Resident Dies in Santa Monica A former resident of Iowa City, Mrs. John J. Lambert, died Wednesday morning at her home in Santa Monica, Calif., following a heart attack. Hvasta was under a 10-year sentence, accused of "espionage" by the Communists.

Iowa Plowing Contest Produces New Champ

MARTENSDALE (AP) — Bob Bane of Ankeny won the state level land plowing championship Thursday on the Joe Seymour farm near this Warren county community. He defeated Lloyd Goode of Albia, last year's titlist, to win the event sponsored by radio station WHO, Des Moines. Bane will represent Iowa in the national contest Sept. 5-6 near Rochester, Minn. About 6,000 persons were present for the championship tourney and other events of the 50th anniversary Wick association celebration. Bane was presented the championship trophy and a $100 check from WHO.

London Crowd Cheers While Churchill, Eden Say Marriage Vows

LONDON (AP) — Debonair Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, 55, married blue-eyed Clarissa Churchill, 32, orphaned niece of Britain's prime minister, in a brief civil ceremony Thursday at a London registry office. The bride's uncle, Winston Churchill, signed the registry as chief witness, bringing into his family the man who some day may become his successor as leader of the Conservative party. Thousands of cheering well-wishers milled around in the bright noon sun outside Caxton Hall, where civil marriages are performed daily in assembly line fashion, as the bridal party entered and as it departed five minutes later for a private wedding breakfast at Churchill's official residence, No. 10 Downing st. Since Eden is a divorced man, the wedding was a civil one pared to the more essentials of identification and signing the register. The Church of England refuses to marry divorced persons. Eden previously was married to the former Beatrice Beckett.

Rams, All-Stars Clash Tonight

CHICAGO (AP) — The favored Los Angeles Rams, champions of the National Football League, catapult against one of the best-balanced collegiate squads ever assembled in the 19th annual All-Star football game at Soldier Field tonight.

REICHERDT

A throng of 90,000 will pack the huge arena on the fringe of Lake Michigan, but millions more will be tuned in on a national telecast and broadcast of the colorful classic which traditionally kicks off the grid season.

Dumont's network of 53 television stations, and 400 stations of the Mutual Broadcasting System will handle the game which starts at 7:30 p.m., central standard time.

Well-Balanced Offense
With a superb aerial attack and a crunching ground offensive, the Rams are favored from one to two touchdowns to achieve the 11th pro win against six All-Star victories. Two games ended in ties.

Coach Bobby Dodd, head All-Star boss, has mustered a 54-player collegiate squad that includes not only a horde of glittering offensive performers, but the defensive talent to slug it out in that part of the game in which the pros usually are far superior, the play-bustler department.

The Rams have a score to settle, having been whipped by the All-Stars, 16-0, in their only previous start against the college lads in 1946.

'51 Stars Outclassed
Last year's game resulted in the Cleveland Browns, dethroned last season by the Rams as the NFL champions, administering a 33-0 drubbing to a badly outclassed All-Star team.

The Collegians defensively know pretty much what their task will be tonight — stopping the sharpshooting of Norm Van Brocklin and Bob Waterfield to Elroy Hirsch and Tom Fears, and the explosive line thrusters of Dan Towler.

Coach Joe Stydahar of the Rams, on the other hand, professes to be in the dark over what to expect from Dodd's T-formation attack which has the versatile Vic Janowicz of Ohio State as a key left half, and Ed Modzelewski of Maryland operating as No. 1 fullback.

McElhenry at Halfback
At right half, Dodd probably will start 200-pound Hugh McElhenry of Washington. Vito Parrilli of Kentucky is tabbed to open at quarterback for the All-Stars. Parrilli's pitching, along with that by two other ace signal-callers, Bill Wade of Vanderbilt and Darrell Crawford of Georgia Tech, could provide aerial fireworks to match the snipping of Waterfield and Van Brocklin.

Billie Mattson, great Negro fullback from San Francisco, arrived too late for his 400-meter galloping in the Olympics to assimilate much offense, but he's a key defensive man in Dodd's plans. The Rams will get more than a passing look at such other offensive backs as Al Dorow of Michigan State, Frank Gifford of Southern California, Johnny Karas of Illinois, Hank Lauricella of Tennessee and Bill Reichardt of Iowa.

Entire Squad to Play
In fact, Dodd has pledged to keep his entire squad moving on and off the bench.

"I'm going to see that everybody gets to play, and I don't mean just a minute or two at the end of the game," said the Georgia Tech mentor.

Collegiate football rules generally will prevail for the game. A few differences have been agreed upon.

Goal posts will be on the goal line, as the pros play. Also while a ball-carrier is in the open, with no opposing player within 10 yards, can recover from touching the ground and continue running.

Ignore Mathews — Rex Lane Hot Prospect

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP) — Sometimes we are a little confused by the mental gymnastics of boxing promoters, a predicament we have discovered is not unusual. In fact, it is as common as the common cold.

The recent Ezzard Charles-Rex Layne battle of indecision is a case in point, in that the winner of record, Layne, is being polished and groomed as an opponent for the winner of the proposed Jersey Joe Walcott - Rocky Marciano heavyweight title bout.

We don't begrudge Layne a chance to cash in on a big gate, but we are a little puzzled that on the strength of a very, very close decision over Ezzard he suddenly becomes a hot prospect for a championship fight.

He has a pretty fair talking point in that he has defeated Walcott, the champion, and Charles, an ex-champion. But somehow you can't forget that he was thoroughly knocked out by Marciano, given a good going over by Harry Mathews, and knocked out by Charles in a previous meeting.

Mathews, on the other hand, had a long string of victories before being knocked out by Marciano, but Harry the Kid is dropped like a hot rivet as a result of what one defeat. We don't get it.

One man is back as a contender as a result of one big victory after a string of defeats, and the other is given a ticket to oblivion as a result of one defeat after a string of victories.

Perhaps the sudden upsurge of Layne's stock is just another indication of the dearth of heavyweight contenders at the moment, as the promoters pounce gleefully on any prospect who might be a gate attraction.

Anyway, the outlook for Charles now is very bleak indeed. It looks like he and Mathews will have to fight for the consolation prize. Or for the frustration championship.

Willie Once Rooted For His Teammates Not to Get on Base

BROOKLYN N.Y. (AP) — Maybe they called him "Willie the Knuck" because his Sunday pitch was a knuckle ball. Then again, maybe he came by his nickname because that's all he had.

As Bill Roeder, a writer who travels with the Dodgers said: "Everything but his knuckler was class D."

At any rate, Willie Ramsdell recently was sent by the Chicago Cubs to the Los Angeles Angels. It may be the end of the trail for the native of Williamsburg, Kan., who admits to 34 years.

A story making the rounds concerns the no-hit, no-run game Carl Erskine tossed against the Chicago Cubs this year. Ramsdell, working in relief that day, was the only Cub to reach base. He drew a base on balls.

When Willie was making his way to the club house in the ninth inning after being taken out for a pinch hitter, an agent for Happy Felton's television show collared Ramsdell.

"We're in a predicament," the agent informed Willie. "So far, you're the star for the Cubs, because you pitched pretty good and got on base. We want you to go on TV after the game, and there'll be $50 in it for you."

"Wonderful!" exclaimed Ramsdell. "There's one hitch," explained the agent. "It's only two out and Eddie Miksis is at bat in the last of the ninth. If Miksis should get a hit we'd have to make him the offer. Let's take a look. We've got a monitor set in our studio right under the stands."

They walked into the studio and watched Erskine make a pitch to Miksis when suddenly, Ramsdell yelled.

"Come on Carl, said Willie the Knuck. "Strike the bum out."

Boros Plays Like Sarazen

NEW YORK (AP) — Julius Boros, unlike many an overnight success which definitely is here to go, definitely is here to stay as a top-flight in pro golf.

No flash in the pan is the burly national open champion who has added the "world" title to his still scant collection. He's solid, and that doesn't refer to his head.

Fred Corcoran, PGA promotion man who has handled the business affairs of such sports celebrities as Ted Williams and Stan Musial and Babe Didrikson Zaharias and consequently is fairly immune to the dazzle of fame, goes all out in lauding the play of the ex-accountant out of Connecticut.

"Another Sarazen," Corcoran sputtered with enthusiasm on his return from the Tam O'Shanter event in Chicago. "Plays the same type of game. Hits the low ball, and wastes no time. Hits the ball and starts walking. He and Gene could play a round in two hours and have fun."

"He was overlooked in the open because everyone was talking about Ben Hogan's failure. Hogan didn't lose it; this guy won it. He's a machine — boom, boom right down the middle."

"Last year he won $4,697.97," said Corcoran. "That made him

Garver, Wertz Trade Uniforms In Waiver Deal

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ned Garver, the first 20-game winner for a last place major league club in 23 years, was swapped Thursday by the St. Louis Browns to the Detroit Tigers for outfielder Vic Wertz in an eight-player waiver deal.

In on the deal, bound for Detroit are outfielder Jim Delensing and relief pitcher Dave Madison. Earlier this week outfielder Don Lenhardt and pitcher Marlin Stutzart and Dick Littlefield traded from the Tigers to the Browns, also on waivers.

A rookie Brownie pitcher, Bud Black, was handed Detroit in the deal from San Antonio, Brownie farm.

Waiver Deal
Announcement of the Garver-Wertz shift completed the waiver deal—a strange transaction which enables clubs to shift personnel after the June 15 trading deadline. The Browns called Thursday's deal the largest waiver negotiations in baseball history.

Detroit, eighth in the league, and the Browns, seventh, have clear shots at players placed on the waiver lists. As the low teams in the standings they have first choice and the other clubs just give their formal blessing.

The back door "trade" of the 26-year-old Garver climaxes a host of trade rumors about the young righthander since Bill Vecek took over the Browns last year.

Garver then was at his best, winning 20 while losing 12 games and making his way to a starting spot on the mound for the American league in the 1951 all star game. It was the first time a cellular club pitcher had won 20 since Hollis Thurston did for the Chicago White Sox in 1924.

He opened the 1952 season fast, but he never kept the early pace. For Garver, the Browns pick up a player they hope will give them the long ball, the winning punch. Wertz has 104 home runs for the Tigers since joining the club in 1947. His best production years were 1950-51 when he slammed 27 home runs in each season. In the last 3 1/2 seasons he's batted in 401 runs.

The 27-year-old Wertz has been on Vecek's "wanted" list for a year.

U.S. Holds Edge After 9 Holes Of America Cup
SEATTLE (AP) — The United States had a bare edge over Canada and Mexico Thursday after the first nine holes in the opening matches of the America Cup international golf competition.

At the first turn of the 36-hole six-some matches, two of three U.S. pairs led their Mexican rivals and one was trailing. Against Canada, one U.S. team, Harvie Ward of Tarboro, N.C., and Ken Venturi of San Francisco, had the lead. The other two matches were even.

Mexico was leading Canada in two of three matches at the same stage.

REDS 4, CUBS 1
CHICAGO (AP) — Kenny Raffensberger, 35-year-old southpaw hurler, allowed just five hits as he continued his mastery of the Chicago Cubs in pitching the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-1 victory Thursday.

The victory was Raffensberger's fourth of the season against a single setback to the Cubs, and gave him a 24-10 lifetime record over Chicago since being traded away from the Bruins in 1943.

Raffy missed his third shoutout over the fifth placers this season when Randy Jackson sailed a second inning pitch over the left field screen for a leadoff home run, his eighth of the season.

Altogether the Cincinnati ace struck out five Cubs and walked none to gain his 13th triumph against 10 losses.

2 KINER HOMERS
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two booming home runs by Ralph Kiner, his 23rd and 24th of the season, gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5 to 3 victory in 10 innings over the St. Louis Cardinals here Thursday night. Murry Dickson went all the way for the Pirates in defeating Joe Presko.

The Pirates were losing, 3 to 1, in the eighth inning and two men were out with Dick Groat on first base when the Pittsburgh slugger blasted the ball into the left field bleachers for two runs, tying the score.

Then, in the 10th, Groat again was on first base with two out when Kiner duplicated his feat.

SCHMITZ WINNER
NEW YORK (AP) — Yankee left-hander Johnny Schmitz breezed to an easy 7-2 victory over the Washington Senators in his first American league start Thursday.

The Brooklyn Dodger castoff held the Nats to six safeties and was supported by a 16-hit attack on three Washington hurlers. The victory earned the Yanks the series, two games to one, and raised their league lead over the idle Cleveland Indians to three games.

The Yanks kayoed started Joe Haynes in the second inning as they built up a 5-0 lead.

Bums Fall, 4-3, Maglie Winner But Al Corwin Saves Game

BROOKLYN (AP) — Al Corwin, the New York Giants' new everyday pitcher, stopped Brooklyn with a fine job in relief of Sal Maglie Thursday as the Giants cut the Dodgers' league lead to eight games with a 4-3 win.

Wes Westrum doubled home three runs in the sixth inning to provide the Giants' winning margin.

Victory in this important series, two games to one, gave the Giants 10 wins in 15 starts against the club they beat for the pennant last year.

Corwin, who started Wednesday night's winning game against the Brooks, came to the rescue in the sixth inning when Maglie and Hoyt Wilhelm faltered.

With three Dodger runs in, narrowing the Giant lead to 4-3, two men on and nobody out, the 25-year-old righthander shut the door. He made Gil Hodges rap into a double play and forced pinch hitter Rocky Nelson to fly out.

Corwin's stout work saved a 12th win for Maglie, making his first appearance since he walked off the mound in St. Louis, July 16, with an aching back. Sal aggravated his old back injury.

Red Sox Sweep 2

BOSTON (AP) — Effective relief pitching Thursday enabled the Boston Red Sox to sweep a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Athletics by topping a 5-4 win in the 13-inning opener with a 4-2 decision.

Lefty Maury McDermott pitched four-hit ball over the last nine and two-thirds innings of the first game after relieving rookie Dick Brodowski with the bases loaded.

In the nightcap, Ellis Kinder, in American league action for the first time since June 7, slammed the doors on the rallying Athletics in the eighth inning to save the game for Willard Nixon.
