Pick Defends Actions in AF Base Scandals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of army engineers, came under new congressional fire Monday even as he defended himself against a blistering senate report citing alleged waste, fraud, kickbacks and theft on a huge scale in the construction of U. S. air bases in North Africa. Pick issued a statement describing the report by a senate watchdog subcommittee as "over critical."

He also disowned any responsibility for the decision to construct the multi-million-dollar projects on a "crash" or rush basis. The senate group, headed by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), recommended Sunday that Army Secretary Frank Pace Jr., "take appropriate action" against Pick — without specifying what action should be taken. Pace is due back in Washington Tuesday from an inspection tour of overseas bases.

Denies Responsibility
Countering the senate subcommittee's blast, Pick indicated that he merely obeyed orders and that the air force was responsible for the decision to rush the construction of bases in French Morocco. Describing it as "one of the most difficult construction projects with which I have been confronted as chief of engineers," Pick said in a statement: "Of course, as chief of engineers I had no responsibility in the determination of the air force requirements in North Africa. It was not my responsibility to direct that the construction be placed on a crash program basis."

Deficiencies Expected
"It is not unusual for construction to experience some deficiencies in accomplishing large military construction projects under extreme limits of time. That is what happened in Morocco." Pick went on to say that judging by newspaper accounts, "it would appear that the senate subcommittee has submitted a generalized report which... appears to be over critical."

Charges Confusion
The senate report charged that "confusion, delay, indecision and waste" have marked the rush job in North Africa with the result that the entire project, when completed, will cost more than $420 million, compared with an original estimate of 300 million. The report said $220 million have already been spent on the five bases. So far, it said, only two of the bases are partly in operation, work has been started on a third, and the sites have been surveyed for the other two.

Ex-Faculty Member To Visit Iowa City

Col. Jack J. Hinman Jr., former SUI faculty member, will arrive in Iowa City soon from Rio de Janeiro, Argentina, for several days stay before continuing to his new post at Chapel Hill, N. C. From the mid-1930's until 1942, he was associate professor of sanitation and chief of the water laboratories division of the State Hygienic laboratory here.

World News Briefs

A Condensation of Late Developments
ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND (AP) — An unidentified "mystery vessel" sank in a cloud of smoke and steam off Newfoundland's East Coast Monday. A coastal freighter reported from the scene that there was no sign of the crew. The freighter radioed that the burning hulk had no distinguishing marks and was "about 70 tons." The vessel apparently caught fire during the night. A plane sighted the wreckage at dawn and dispatched surface craft to the scene.
SHANNON, IRELAND (AP) — A Flying Tiger Airline Skymaster passenger plane carrying 59 wives and children of U.S. servicemen from New York to Frankfurt, Germany, ran into a bird Monday night. The bird, a woodcock, was killed, and the plane was forced to land for repairs. No one was hurt. The plane was flying 200 miles an hour at 4,500 feet.
BERLIN (AP) — Soviet-dominated East German Communists Monday were reported purging the ranks of the police who guard the border along the Iron Curtain. According to information from the East Zone, a wide-scale house-cleaning was ordered because some of the border police were reported falling down on their jobs.
TOKYO (AP) — The Communist Peiping radio Tuesday claimed without confirmation that 15 Korean war prisoners were killed and more than 40 wounded at an Allied prisoner of war camp Aug. 15. There was no immediate comment from United Nations Command headquarters. The Peiping broadcast said the incident occurred on the night of Aug. 15 when the prisoners were celebrating their liberation from Japanese rule.

Boy King Visits Colorado

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD KING FAISAL II (left), youthful ruler of Iraq, and Denver Police Captain Ross Shaffer, swing down a mountainside after a ride to the 12,000 foot apex of the ski lift at Berthoud Pass, on the continental divide, 60 miles west of Denver. Shaffer served as personal bodyguard to the king during his two-day visit. "I liked the ride very well," said Faisal. The king and his party were the guests of the federal reclamation bureau for a study of water resources conservation.

Borg-Warner Strike Spreads As Labor Picture Darkens

By The Associated Press
A strike spread Monday in the 12-plant Borg-Warner Corp. System, and the nation's 400,000 coal miners missed their first normal work day's pay in the 10-day memorial holiday ordered by John L. Lewis.
Other labor developments included an agreement granting a 10-cent pay hike and the union shop to the United Rubber Workers at Firestone Tire and Rubber Company. The accord sets an average wage of $2 an hour for 24,000 Firestone workers.
Westinghouse Electric Corp. offered pay raises to 78,500 employees in four unions Oct. 1, proposing a total payroll boost of 25 million dollars this year. The hourly hike proposals range from 7 1/2 to 13 cents an hour for employees now making from $1.27 to $2.57 or more.
The memorial holiday of the United Mine Workers actually began Saturday, but they wouldn't have worked anyway over the week end. Lewis is getting ready to negotiate with mine operators for new wage agreements.

British Jet Bomber Seeks Speed Record In Atlantic Crossing

ALDERGROVE AIR FIELD, NORTHERN IRELAND — A British jet bomber which will attempt the first two-day crossing of the Atlantic in a single day was poised here Monday night for a takeoff at dawn.
The twin jet Canberra already holds the official east-to-west record of 4 hours 18 minutes 24.4 seconds — an average speed of 483.91 miles an hour — set last Aug. 31 in a dash from here to Gander, Newfoundland.
The pilot on the proposed eight-mile-high double crossing will be Wing Commander Roland Beaumont, who was at the controls on last year's record-smashing flight. Beaumont will be accompanied by Squadron Leader D. A. Watson, his navigator last year, and Flight Lt. P. J. Hillwood, who will act as co-pilot.
The plane will refuel at Gander before setting off on its return journey to this airfield near Belfast.
Because of the prevailing westerly winds it is considered certain that the bomber, given fair weather, will average well over 500 miles an hour on the way home.
Flight plans call for the bomber to cover just under 2,100 miles in each direction.
Maximum speed of the Canberra is still an official secret, but it is believed capable of approaching the speed of sound — about 680 miles an hour at sea level.

Meteor Information Sought by Wylie

Prof. C. C. Wylie, of the SUI astronomy department, is asking for information concerning four meteors that were observed in eastern Iowa during August.
The first fell Aug. 3 about 8:45 p.m., the second on Aug. 6 about 9:10 p.m., the third on Aug. 10 about 10:45 p.m. and the last one on Aug. 18 about 10:40 p.m.
In addition two others were observed in western and northern Iowa, one on Aug. 5 about 10:05 p.m. and the other on Aug. 9 about 10 p.m.
Information concerning these meteors should be addressed to the department of astronomy, University of Iowa.

2d Threat Against Life of Ball Player Disclosed by Police

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Police disclosed Monday a second threat against the life of Ralph Kiner, home run hitter for the Pittsburgh Pirates.
The threat came during the Pirates-Boston Braves double header Sunday.
A man called the Pirate front office in mid-afternoon and said: "I'm going to shoot Kiner at 6 o'clock."
Extra police rushed to Forbes field and kept a careful lookout for any possible danger to the star. Nothing happened.
The first threat came in a letter last Thursday telling the ball player he would be killed unless he put $6,200 in small bills under the front seat of a taxi and abandoned the cab in front of nearby Ambridge high school. Kiner was told when he got into the cab to ask "What's the fare to Ambridge?"
An FBI agent, posing as Kiner, went through the act but no one showed up to claim the money.

U.S. Jet Downs B-17 By Mistake

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, FLA. (AP) — An advanced type jet fighter that seeks out its targets by radar, shot down a B-17 bomber over the Gulf of Mexico by mistake Monday, the air force announced.
The fate of the eight crewmen aboard the bomber was obscured by heavy rain which swept over the rescue scene, about 50 miles south of Panama City.
The pilot of the 650-mile an hour F-86D fighter plane apparently mistook the B-17 for a radio-controlled drone plane which was following about a mile and a half behind the director bomber.
Scores Direct Hit
One of the fighter's rockets hit the Flying Fortress and sent it plunging into the gulf in flames.
Col. Arthur R. Debolt of Columbus, O., 39-year-old pilot of the fighter, told military interviewers "I just can't believe I hit the wrong plane."
Weeping as he was interviewed, Debolt said, "I don't know how it happened. I thought I was hitting the right plane."
World War II Vet
A World War II veteran of fighting in China, Debolt had been out on training missions with the new-type all weather jet several times. He had made successful passes at the drone plane this morning before the B-17 was hit. The time of the accident was placed at about 11:11 a.m. (Iowa time).
Small crash boats sent to the scene found rough going in the heavy seas.
PBV patrol planes, a destroyer and a Coast Guard cutter joined the search for survivors.
Man Sighted
Lt. L. J. Wickens, pilot of a PBV dispatched from Cory Field, Pensacola, said he flew just above the water, and could see a lone survivor smiling up at him while swimming among the debris-filled water. A life raft was dropped to the man.
"It was already raining, and a heavy squall line 30 miles wide came roaring down upon us then. When it passed, we couldn't find him," Wickens said.
"I don't know whether he got the raft or not," Wickens said.
Members of the Flying Fortress crew were not identified pending notification of their next of kin.

Playboy Jelke Indicted By Vice-Probing Jury

NEW YORK (AP) — Minot F. "Mickey" Jelke, 22-year-old magazine heir and society playboy, was indicted Monday on charges that he forced a pretty girl friend to become a prostitute.
A vice-probing grand jury returned eight indictments against the handsome bachelor. He pleaded innocent.
Three others held in the sensational vice case — in which there have been reports of lovely, $500 a night call girls — also were indicted. One pleaded guilty.
Indictments against young Jelke centered on his relations with Miss Patricia Ward, a 19-year-old model whom New York newspapers have called the girl who broke the vice case after Jelke jilted her.

Brink's Truck Robbed By Thieves Who Take $65,000 as Guards Eat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police said thieves stole $65,000 and missed another $104,000 in a Brink's armored car Monday while the four guards were at lunch. The car was locked but unguarded.
FBI agents joined police in a search for clues, but hours after the guards reported the incident, Police Inspector Jeremiah Flaherty could only tell newsmen: "We don't know whether the persons who took the money are white, colored, male, or female."
Flaherty said there was also a chance it might be an "inside job" executed by people connected with Brink's. He emphasized, however, that he had no evidence that that was the case.
Flaherty and Police Lt. Albert E. Hitt said they got this information from questioning guards of the Brink's truck.
The four guards parked the truck outside the swank Wardman Park hotel and left it unattended while they went out for lunch about noon.
Richard V. Simkins, 38, in charge of the Brink's crew, said the truck door was locked when the men went to lunch and locked when they came back.

Ike Tells Legislature He Will End Corruption in Government

NEW YORK (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told cheering delegates to the American Legion convention Monday he aims to "end corruption in public office, at every level of government."
The Republican presidential nominee struck out vigorously at the "climate of fear" he said overhangs the American preparedness program as it has been directed by the Truman administration.
"Those afraid seek security in a heedless extravagance that breeds waste of substance and corruption of men," he declared.
He drew his biggest applause from a crowd of about 16,000 persons, which failed to fill Madison Square Garden, with the assertion: "Let us bend ourselves to end corruption in public office at every level of government. The United States is no better... than its public officials. Preoccupation with their own profit, with selfish schemes for personal or partisan advantages undermines America's strength."
On a platform to be occupied two days hence by his Democratic rival, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, Eisenhower linked the corruption-in-government issue with a call for vigorous new foreign policy moves.
He said this country must tell

Ike's Speech Not Aired Because of FCC Ruling

NEW YORK (AP) — Major radio and television networks says they didn't carry Dwight Eisenhower's speech to the American Legion convention Monday because they didn't want to obligate themselves to give free air time to candidates of various small political parties.
For the same reason, they don't plan to carry the convention speech Wednesday by Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate.
Network spokesmen explained that under federal communication commission regulations, if free time is provided either for Stevenson or Republican candidate Eisenhower as has happened several times, all minor-party presidential candidates are entitled to equal time at a corresponding hour.
Only if the GOP or the Democratic party paid for the broadcast time could the speeches be carried without creating the obligation to other candidates. Neither major party chose to buy the time.
"If we carry the major contenders free," said one network spokesman, "we have to do the same for the Vegetarians, the Socialists, the Progressive party and a lot of others. It would clutter up our air time."
The networks said films and tape recordings of portions of the speeches by Eisenhower and Stevenson would be carried on various news shows.

Ruppert Leaves for FBI School

WAVING GOODBYE BEFORE LEAVING for Washington, D.C., Sunday, for 12 weeks to attend the annual federal bureau of investigation crime school is Iowa City Police Chief Edwin J. Ruppert. He is being sent to the school as part of the police training program. The FBI school will cover such topics as police organization, the keeping of records, investigations and firearms on an advanced level.

Denver Bids Farewell to Ike

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER REACHES through an airport fence to say goodbye to well-wishers just before leaving Denver by plane for New York, where he will establish new headquarters in his bid for the presidency. Shaking the general's hand is Mrs. Pat O'Neill of Dayton, Wash., one of the several hundred persons who were at the airport for the departure. Ike addressed the American Legion national convention in Madison Square Garden in New York Monday.

Taft's Reservations On Support of Ike Outlined by Editor

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland News said Monday that Senator Robert A. Taft will campaign for Dwight D. Eisenhower for President only if the general supports certain "major issues."
The newspaper's political editor, Jack Kennon, said he had learned: "Senator Taft, who is vacationing in Murray Bay, Canada, does not want to take the stump for Eisenhower and risk reputation by the candidate on any of the major issues which Taft has advocated outspokenly."
Kennon said Taft wants to know:
1. Where Eisenhower stands on the Taft-Hartley labor law, which Taft co-sponsored.
2. Whether Eisenhower is sincere regarding a $60 billion budget ceiling for the federal government by 1954.
3. "Most important," where Gov. Thomas E. Dewey — Taft's three-time rival for the Republican Presidential nomination fits into the Eisenhower campaign.

Bulletin

SHREVEPORT, LA. (AP) — Seven members of a B-29 crew were killed Monday when their plane crashed and burned at Barksdale air force base across the Red river from here.
The plane had been on a routine training mission and was attempting to land with one dead engine. The only survivor of the crash was in a state of shock. The extent of his injuries had not been determined.
The air force withheld names of the airmen, pending notification of the next of kin.

Iowa Polio Death Toll Rises To 65; Labor Head Stricken

By The Associated Press
Iowa's 1952 polio death toll rose to 65 Monday with the announcement that an Emerson, Neb. child died of polio Saturday night at a Sioux City hospital.
Rex A. Waitman, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Waitman of Emerson, was the 28th polio fatality in Sioux City hospitals this year. He was hospitalized Aug. 4 and had been in serious condition since that time, the hospital reported.
Five new cases were admitted to Sioux City polio wards Monday. The total number of polio cases treated so far this year now stands at 602, the Sioux City health department reported.
Total number of cases under treatment at Sioux City Monday was 226. Six persons were in respirators.
Ray Mills, 50, president of the Iowa State Federation of Labor and a member of the Des Moines city council, was in "fairly good" condition Monday night as a polio patient at Iowa Lutheran hospital, Des Moines.
Mills, became ill in Denver, Colo., last Friday where he had gone to confer with Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican presidential nominee. He returned to Des Moines Saturday and was hospitalized Monday morning.

Iowa Driver's Test Tougher Now

DES MOINES (AP) — It's a lot tougher now to pass a written test for an Iowa driver's license than it was a year ago. If you don't think so, try it.

Lt. Harry O. Brown, assistant chief examiner for the Iowa highway patrol, summed up results from the first year's operation under a new test by which he wrote the questions.

His verdict was that there has been a substantially larger number of license applicants who failed to pass on their first try since requirements on knowledge of the laws-of-the-road were stiffened.

Formerly Checked Answers

Until a year ago the written test included specific questions about the traffic laws but all you had to do after each question was check a "yes" or "no" answer.

With a fair amount of guessing you could attain a passing grade even if you weren't sure about the answers.

Then Lt. Brown designed the new test which was intended to catch the guessers. It still contains all the fundamental questions about traffic rules. But instead of presenting one answer to each question and asking whether it is true or false the test includes a multiple choice of answers on each subject.

Miss Only 5

One of these is the correct answer. The others might seem plausible to a person who wasn't sure. Five bad guesses are enough to flunk.

There are 25 sets of questions in the test and if the applicant is not right on 20 of them he doesn't pass.

Iowa Officials Begin Budget Shaping Task

DES MOINES (AP) — State government officials have started work on the big job of whipping a multi-million dollar state budget into shape for presentation to the Iowa legislature after it convenes in January.

This is a task that takes all of six months before a printed draft can be turned out and requires a tremendous amount of bookkeeping work.

At this stage of the planning no one ventures to say what the tentative budget figure will be. The last one was $222 million.

Budget for '53-'54

That was the amount appropriated by the legislature for the 2-year fiscal period that began July 1, 1951. The next budget will be for the two years starting July 1, 1953.

Before the level of expenditures is finally determined, state departments and agencies will say how much money they want, the next governor will make recommendations on what they should get and the lawmakers will do the deciding. Requests by the departments which spend the appropriations are always considerably higher than the amounts contained in the governor's budget recommendations. Then it becomes a matter of discussion and negotiation among the legislators.

Rise Every 2 Years

The state budget figure has been rising every two years since the end of World War II, reaching a peak during the current fiscal biennium.

There is no present indication that the 1953 legislature will be able to hold down expenses or keep them from rising above the total voted two years ago. General increases caused by inflation, demands for more state school aid and prospects of other higher costs will figure in the budget deliberations.

But there is one large item members of the new legislature will not have to worry about. In 1951 the fund for paying the Iowa soldiers' bonus was $8 million in the red and that amount had to be taken from the state general fund. The special property tax levied for a share of the bonus payments will take care of all needs next year.

The state budget book, when completed, will become a document of about 400 pages containing about 100,000 financial entries.

get a license. His next step is to bone up the right answers from a pamphlet the patrol provides, then return in a month and try again.

In addition to passing the written examination every motorist applying for his first driver's license in Iowa, or for renewal of one that has lapsed must pass a vision test.

Eye Test Required

The eye test also is required of drivers when they obtain renewal of their licenses every two years. They can escape the written exam only if they apply for renewal within 30 days of the expiration date.

Many motorists get their driving permits only on a restricted basis. For example, they may be required to wear eyeglasses whenever they are behind the wheel. Because of vision they may be prohibited from driving at night or in excess of an authorized speed.

The Iowa department of public safety, of which the highway patrol is a part, has been cracking down on holders of restricted permits within the last few months. This is part of the department's program to get incompetent drivers off the road.

Former Communist Prisoners See Long Red Rule in China

HONG KONG (AP) — Two Jesuit priests who were expelled from Red China after 10 months in prison say the Communists will maintain their power for a long time and the church must have the humility of the poor if it expects ever to get back there.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Eugene Fahy, 41, and Irish-born Rev. James Thornton, 43, swapped stories from eds in a Hong Kong hospital where they were recovering from their long prison ordeal.

"Chinese communism has two dynamic elements which are hard to beat," Father Thornton said. "For the first time in history the Chinese people have developed a sense of patriotism and a sense of power. The man with the big stick has face."

Don't Think of Souls

"The average Chinese doesn't even dream of a soul. To him communism means that every pig is as good as every other pig. That's all right if you want to be an intelligent pig."

"But from the Catholic point of view you'll never stop communism until the Chinese learn from the American constitution that every individual has inalienable rights. Until they learn that, China will be just one tyranny after another."

Msgr. Fahy, former prefect apostolic of Yangchow, Kiangsu province, said "the people are absolutely helpless. Children listen in the streets and report everyone to the police, even their own parents."

No Chance for Church

Msgr. Fahy said "there's no chance for the church in China."

"That's right," Father Thornton interjected. "The church is going to need a different psychological approach. The idea of the deity and the collar-and-tie is gone."

"When the church goes back to China we'll have to live exactly like the Chinese — no more big colleges, big hospitals and big institutions. It will have to be: Live the poverty of Christ."

"The Chinese people are changing. They don't want anyone to be above them any more. Everyone is going to heaven and be equal."

The two were jailed in the same prison in Shanghai. Father Thornton spent most of the 10 months in a bare, 14 by 7 foot room with 17 Chinese prisoners. Msgr. Fahy was given an 8 by 4 foot cell by himself. They were accused of covering up for counter-revolutionaries.

Msgr. Fahy said the Reds chained his fists to the cell bars and he dropped from 165 to 125 pounds.

Hoover Flees Fire As Vacation Lodge Burns to Ground

BISHOP, CALIF. (AP) — Ex-President Herbert Hoover had to flee for his life — by boat — Sunday night when the mountain lodge where he was vacationing caught fire and burned to the ground.

The 78-year-old Hoover and Bert Mattie, president of the Honolulu Oil company, San Francisco, were guests at the luxury mountain home of Nate Milnor of Silver Lake in the Sierra Nevadas, 60 miles north of here. Milnor is a wealthy importer.

Awakened from their sleep by a neighbor, the party found that the only exit not blocked by flames was the door to the boat landing. They fled through it in their night clothes and boarded a motor launch which took them to the safety of the lake.

No one was injured.

Submarine Rescues Blimp

A DISABLED NAVY BLIMP, its propellers and power plant damaged when it accidentally hit the water in a simulated attack on the submarine USS Sea Poacher, hovers near the water as it is taken in tow by the undersea craft recently. The submarine managed to haul the blimp safely to Florida's Boca Chica naval air station despite high winds and rough seas, completing a 22-hour rescue maneuver unique in naval annals.

Besides the disaster-struck ruins on Rescue Street, with their twisted beams and girders, great piles of rubble and broken concrete upheaved to increase perils and difficulties of rescue, trainees get practice in air-raid shelters and an outdoor demonstration area.

I talked at some length with Eugene W. Fields, dean of the FCDA staff college. Training given at this first rescue college in America, he explained, will be valuable for all types of disasters;

Civil Defense Builds 'Ruins' For Trainees at Staff College

WASHINGTON (CP) — America's first atomic-age rescue training center, at nearby Olney, Md., has opened with its first class of selected trainees now that "Rescue Street," with its realistic bombed-out "ruins" has been completed as the rescue training laboratory.

Erecting five "bomb-ruined" buildings that look as if they're about to fall down amid their tons of debris, but which conform to specifications to afford safe rescue laboratories for training future rescue-work instructors for the nation's civil defense, is a contrast from the construction engineer's last job — rebuilding and renovating the White House.

Rescue Street is probably the strangest street in America. Its "ruins" include a two-story and basement wood-frame house shattered by the simulated bomb. Near it is a two-story and basement row house. Next is a three-story office and apartment building reinforced concrete building. And not far from it stands a two-story office, store and theater building.

Different Construction

Each of these buildings typifies a different kind of construction found all over America: wooden frame, steel frame, reinforced concrete, and brick-wall structures with the walls bearing the weight of upper floors.

Effects on buildings of high-explosive bombings of Great Britain and Germany and of atomic bombings of Nagasaki and Hiroshima were carefully studied so that Rescue Street buildings might demonstrate realistically the effects of bombings on various types of construction.

On the 75-acre tract where the Federal Civil Defense staff college — first of its kind in the United States — has started its rigorous two-week training periods are also administration and classroom buildings and a dormitory.

Allies Make Strong Bid To Clarify Tito's Stand

By J. M. ROBERTS JR., Associated Press News Analyst

A concentrated effort is now being made to clarify Yugoslavia's relationship with the rest of European countries which are pledged to mutual defense.

Allied military authorities have testified to Tito's ability to use well the aid which he is receiving from the Allies in that field. Diplomatic observers express confidence in his intentions.

There are two primary objectives at the moment. One is to settle the breach between Yugoslavia and Italy over Trieste. The other, to create an informal mutual defense arrangement between Greece, Yugoslavia and Turkey.

Tito Removed Fear

Tito's defection from the Russian Communist circle removed the fear of several years ago that he might try to take Trieste by force. But lacking any settlement, it has remained a thorn, divided into two zones of Yugoslav and Anglo-American military occupation, the latter controlling the city, but yielding 99 per cent of its operation to Italian civilian authority.

The Allies have continually urged Italy and Yugoslavia to negotiate an agreement. They have been unable to make even a start.

There are indications now that France, Britain and the United States have decided to take a more direct hand with presentation of a compromise proposal of their own.

Made Secret Representations

They have just made secret representations to Tito and probably are following through in Italy at this moment.

Anything that develops may take some time. That is evident from the announcement that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will spend nearly a week in Belgrade beginning Sept. 7. He will be following through on last week's conference between Tito and the tri-power ambassadors, or else some sort of full dress meeting will be held at that time.

With regard to eastern Mediterranean defense, the United States has disavowed any pressure on Yugoslavia, and Tito is represented as having taken the initiative himself. His recent statement expressing hope for co-operation, however, followed numerous feelers on the subject from all sides over a period of months.

Has More Divisions

Tito has more divisions ready to move and fight than any other country in Europe outside the Iron Curtain. He has stated flatly that they will be on the western side in case of Russian aggression.

Nevertheless, Yugoslavia operates in something of a vacuum when it comes to general defense arrangements. Not long ago she was virtually at war with Greece, and not too far from it with the Allies because of her belligerence in more ways than just shooting down off-course planes.

Now the means of co-operation have to be set up, and it's not proving an easy job.

March of Science — Men Progress In Paralysis, Heart Studies

MADISON, WIS. (AP) — Prospect of foods or pills to prevent paralysis from polio and some other virus disease is raised by discoveries here.

The findings are reported by Dr. Conrad A. Elvehjem, well-known biochemist, and associate of the University of Wisconsin.

In a first step, they found that mice have better resistance to paralysis from the viruses if they eat diets lacking in some vitamins or amino acids, the building bricks of proteins.

Vitamin Lack Protects

Lack of thiamine, vitamin B1, almost completely protected them from the paralysis of polio or encephalomyelitis. Lack of riboflavin, vitamin B2, also had some effect.

Lack of tryptophan, an amino acid, gave excellent protection, the researchers found.

Apparently, the viruses have bigger need for these nutrients than body tissues do. If they don't get enough of the vitamin or amino acid, the viruses can't reproduce and grow effectively.

Dangerous To Humans

The rub, of course, is that it would be dangerous to let humans develop severe vitamin or amino acid deficiencies as a protection against paralysis. The deficiencies would cause other, serious trouble. But another approach can be tried.

This is to give the mice a chemical antagonist to the vitamin or amino acid that the viruses need so badly. This chemical, in food or pill form, might destroy enough of the nutrient to keep the virus from growing.

This research still is far from human applications. But it may bring chemicals which could delay the growth of viruses while the human body built up antibodies and fought off the infection before it caused paralysis.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The electrocardiogram may be able to show early signs of rheumatic fever by peculiar changes in its electrical record of the heart. This possibility is being studied here by Dr. Franklin D. Johnston, University of Michigan medical school, in research sponsored by the Michigan medical school, in research sponsored by the Michigan Heart association.

GARY, Ind. (AP) — Trees sometimes blow off steam, too. Elms can get wetwood disease, a bacterial infection producing poisonous sap and gases that builds up pressure powerful enough to split the tree inside.

Padlock Removed From Cargill Hotel

DES MOINES (AP) — Sheriff Thomas L. Reilly, Monday removed padlocks from the Cargill hotel, Seventh st. and Grand ave., following the posting of a $7,500 abatement bond.

The bond was posted in district court by the Milner Hotels Co., which will take over operation of the hotel.

The hotel property has been under county padlock since Dec. 31 in an injunction which grew out of the conviction on prostitution charges of Mrs. Lavonne Gillespie and eight other women arrested in a mass police raid Oct. 14.

Gillette Asks Brannan To Cancel Hog Ban In Woodbury County

CHEROKEE (AP) — U. S. Senator Guy M. Gillette (D-Ia.) strongly urged U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan by Telegram Monday to lift a quarantine on hogs in Woodbury county immediately.

"Every hour of delay is costing thousands of dollars," the message said. "I strongly urge that an order be issued to lift the quarantine so that it will reach Iowa markets by 11 a.m. tomorrow, the 26th. This is very, very urgent."

Gillette said the quarantine imposed on Woodbury county has been in effect six weeks. The federal government placed quarantines against Woodbury and Pocahontas counties and parts of several other states in an effort to stamp out vesicular exanthema, VE, a swine disease. The quarantine on Pocahontas county was lifted nearly two weeks ago.

The senator told Brannan the quarantine on Woodbury county "is working tremendous damage to Iowa producers." Gillette said further that "Every hog in Iowa which has been infected or exposed to VE has been killed."

He added that he has been informed quarantines have been lifted at Omaha and elsewhere.

Gillette said also Iowa's state veterinarian has assured him state quarantines and supervision will be continued as a protection. The senator had discussed the situation also with Sioux City stock yards officials before sending the telegram.

New Jet Fighter Called 'Brainier'

AMERICA'S NEWEST JET FIGHTER, the Lockheed F-94D Starfire (foreground), is a lot "brainier" than its predecessor, the F-80 Shooting Star shown in the background. The new jet has no guns, but packs 24 rockets in its nose that are fired by the 1,200 pounds of electronic equipment carried by the Starfire. Other new features are the automatic control and a two-man crew, rather than the one-man team that piloted the smaller "old fashioned" Shooting Star. The F-94D also seeks out its foe, figures course and speed and aims itself electronically. The larger tail section is the new afterburner giving added thrust and horsepower.

Labor Chief Praises Stevenson, Raps Ike

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP) — Labor leader Walter Reuther warmly praised Gov. Adlai Stevenson Monday as a potentially great President, then rapped Dwight D. Eisenhower as a military specialist who isn't fitted for training for the White House job.

Reuther gave his estimate of the Automobile Workers whose executive board has endorsed Stevenson's candidacy.

Reuther gave his estimate of the Democratic and Republican presidential nominees after James Patton, president of the American Farmers Union, predicted Stevenson will run as well in the farm belt as President Truman did in 1948. Four years ago the farm vote was credited with playing an important part in Truman's victory.

"Ike A Good General" Reuther told reporters: "He's a good general and an honorable man — but he's working out of his job classification."

Then comparing Eisenhower's background with that of Stevenson as a civil administrator, Reuther said, "We can't afford to have a four-year training period for Eisenhower... if you need a doctor you don't call a plumber."

Reuther came here to discuss plans for Stevenson's Labor day appearance in Michigan and his speech in Detroit which will formally launch the Democratic campaign.

To Discuss Taft-Hartley Reuther said "obviously" Stevenson will use the Labor day speech as the sounding board of his views on the Taft-Hartley act and what he thinks should be done in the labor-management field.

The Democratic platform calls for repeal of the Taft-Hartley act. Reuther said Stevenson made it clear he has accepted the platform and the Democratic program.

Reuther said he wouldn't tell any worker how he should vote. But he added: "When they analyze the Republican and Democratic platforms the great bulk of American people will find the Democratic platform offers greater hope for a solution to the basic economic and social problems than the Republican platform."

Independent Thinker He said Stevenson had a sense of social responsibility, courage and integrity which makes him an independent thinker who cannot be controlled by any person or group.

Patton said he talked with Stevenson about farm supports at 100 per cent parity. Parity is what farmers would receive for their crops to give them a fair return in relation to the things they must buy.

Tuesday Stevenson will clean his desk in readiness for his trip Wednesday to New York City to address the American Legion Convention.

2 SUI Students Named to Faculty Of Coe College Two men who are working toward their doctor's degrees at SUI have been appointed English instructors at Coe College in Cedar Rapids.

They are William Belvin and Richard Stern. Belvin's poems have been published by the Iowa Poetry Society and such magazines as The Kenyon Review and Gambit. He has taught English at SUI, Northwestern University and the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Belvin graduated from Eastern Tennessee State college and received his master's degree from Northwestern university.

Stern, who will be a part-time instructor at Coe, taught three years in France and Germany. He graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1950 and received his master's degree from Harvard university.

SUI Graduate Heads 'Conference'

Scottish Highlanders Showered With Gifts, Service by Hosts

EDINBURGH, SCOTLAND Jokes about thirty Scots will get a cool reception, if not a vehement denial, from at least 59 Iowa girls henceforth.

For the Scottish Highlanders from SUI who have just spent two weeks in five Scottish cities, have found their hosts opening their homes and hearts to an extent the girls find hard to believe and insist that they don't deserve.

In fact, from now on it's going to be extremely difficult to sell the traveling Highlanders on any "cold characteristics." The "cold, reserved" British won't be the unanimous praise of the coeds for friendliness that far exceeded courtesy. And the Scots, whose alleged spendthrift habits have been the butt of many jokes, have made the girls feel like visiting royalty with their lavish outlays of gifts and hospitality.

Use Ration Stamps Scots in Edinburgh, Aberdeen, Inverness, Dundee and Glasgow have "knocked themselves and their ration books out" in entertaining the Iowa visitors. They "queued" for hours to buy hard-to-get foods which they thought the Iowans would relish, such as fruit juice and coffee. Others cashed precious ration stamps to provide sugar, meat and candy for the Highlanders who were living in their homes.

When the girls return to the United States, they will be wearing and carrying prized gifts that were presented as tokens of friendship by their hosts throughout Scotland.

Nancy Sweitzer, Waterloo, and Jean Anundsen, Decorah, were presented silver insignias of the famed Gordon Highlander regiment by their Aberdeen host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. A. Christensen. The Christensens later sent a telegram to the Iowa girls in Dundee wishing them success in their performance there.

Given Cigarette Case During their visit to Inverness, Nancy, Jane and Jeanette Noble, Fort Madison, stepped into a small shop to see a display of jewelry. The proprietor presented each girl with a silver cigarette case bearing a map of Scotland on the cover. Jeanette's hostess in Aberdeen, Mrs. J. D. Mitchell, hired a photographer to take a color motion picture of the Highlander visit which will be presented to the girls after processing.

Sally Sackett, Spencer, and Carolyn Cooper, Waterloo, carried special silver horseshoe charms for their performances throughout Scotland, gifts of their Aberdeen hostess, Mrs. A. Kidd.

Will Display Authenticity Several Highlanders will display extra touches of authenticity when they march before Iowa football crowds this fall. They will be wearing decorations from many of Scotland's renowned Highlander regiments, given directly from private collections.

Barbara Bacon, Dubuque, Jean Weems, Waterloo, and Bonnie McKittrick, Harrisonville, Mo., were shown a collection of military medals and weapons dating back to Roman times by a retired Inverness army major. Jean was presented a dress buckle for her Highlander belt. Joyce Palmer of Ft. Wayne, Ind., formerly of Estherville, Kathleen McNamara, Anamosa, Margery Martin, Hamburg, and Juanita Bethke, Cherokee, were given silver brooches in Aberdeen.

Received Hat Badge Jayne Stewart, Fairfield, and Jean Ewers, Iowa City, also received enviable accessories to their costumes while visiting Inverness. Jayne received a hat badge from a member of the Gordon Highlanders regiment. The pipe-major of the British Legion band, piping champions of north Scotland, presented Jean with a badge taken from his hat. Virginia Wise, Cherokee, also received a badge from a member of the Inverness band.

Marianna Herriot, Iowa City, was given sash and silver brooch off the uniform of an Aberdeen lady piper, while Mardelle Halverson, West Union, and Bonnie McKittrick were given Balmoral hats and brooches by a major in the Cameron Highlanders regiment.

Legion Commander Says U.S. Playing Role of World Chump

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of American Legionnaires were told by their national commander Monday that the United States has fallen into the role of an international chump that is afraid to speak the blunt truth.

Commander Donald R. Wilson said the nation has lost its old simple honesty and developed a "sophisticated, super-modern approach" that has gained us "scorn at the conference table."

Speeches by Wilson and other notables — including Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower — highlighted the opening day of the Legion's 34th annual convention.

30,000 Delegates The convention, meeting in giant Madison Square Garden, lists 30,000 official delegates.

The veterans heard Eisenhower declare that the United States must bluntly tell Moscow that we will not rest until "the tidal mud of aggressive communism" has been pushed back within Russia's borders.

Calling for a bold foreign policy, the GOP presidential candidate said this country must "never recognize the slightest permanence" of Russia's position in eastern Europe and Asia.

Wilson Critical Commander Wilson's criticism of national policies came shortly after he read a message from President Truman urging the Legion to "put all the facts before the people" in the current political campaign.

Wilson did not mention the President directly, but he said Truman's labeling of the Korean War as a police action is "an un-American approach to the facts."

He said this was in line with the country's new approach "to honesty, diplomacy and world affairs" that has stripped it of simple truthfulness, baffled the people, and made us avoid blunt declarations of fact for fear of offending someone.

Rumors of Coal Strike Heard As 10-Day Shutdown Begins

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Another of John L. Lewis' memorial holidays shut down most of the nation's coal mines Monday and idled his nearly 400,000 diggers — some of them in a grumbling mood.

Actually the 10-day United Mine Workers holiday started during the week end. It extends through Labor day but the miners will lose only five days of work due to the two week ends and Labor day.

Lewis said he ordered the idleness to call attention to safety conditions of the mines. His welfare and retirement fund reported 41 miners killed in soft coal (bituminous) pits since early July.

Accustomed to memorial periods and strikes, the miners themselves had little to say. But one in a western Pennsylvania section, where steel companies operate the underground workings, had this comment: "Rumors — just rumors — are they might not go back. I think if it is up to the men they will go back."

The steel companies closed their mines during the 55-day walkout of the CIO United Steelworkers. Steel is not expected to be hurt by the mine holiday. Estimates place

Iowa Citian Assigned To Austrian Duty Tour SALZBURG, AUSTRIA — Lt. Col. Martin C. Fertl, 705 S. Clinton st., Iowa City, Iowa, recently arrived in Europe from the U.S. for duty with U.S. forces in Austria.

Now assigned to the adjutant general's section of headquarters of U.S. forces in Austria, he previously was stationed with the 1st armored division at Fort Hood, Texas.

United States military personnel are stationed in Austria under a four-power agreement with Russia, France, and England.

U.S. Airmen Fly Moslems To Holy Cities

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The U.S. Air Force spread its magic carpet Monday to help fly 9,000 stranded Moslem pilgrims to the holy cities of Mecca and Medina.

Thirteen four-engined C-54 transports began the religious airlift from Beirut to Jidda, Saudi Arabian seaport only 40 miles from Mecca where the prophet Mohammed was born. The planes carrying 50 passengers each, will take off every hour until all pilgrims have been flown on their way.

The American Air Force responded to a plea for help from the Lebanese government.

The congestion of pilgrims from all parts of the Moslem world at this Middle East air center swamped the regular airlines. Chief cause of the unusually heavy influx was the removal by the Saudi Arabian government of the $100 head tax previously levied on pilgrims.

Removal of the tax was made possible because of revenues received from the Arabian-American Oil Company.

The situation has become critical because the pilgrims must reach Mecca by Wednesday if their journey is to be a success. This is the day of the Id Al Idha Festival, commemorating Abraham's attempt to sacrifice his son Isaac to the Lord. On that day thousands of sheep are sacrificed in the Mecca area.

Yankees 1-0 Victims Of Trucks' 2d No-Hitter Of Year

Scorer Changes Mind On Grounder to Pesky

NEW YORK (AP) — A reversed decision by the official scorer helped erratic Virgil Trucks pitch his second no-hit, no-run game of the season Monday as the last place Detroit Tigers nosed out the league-leading New York Yankees, 1-0.

The husky, 33-year-old Tiger fastballer thus became the third major leaguer to hurl two no-hitters in the same season. The righthander hurled the first no-hitter of his career May 15 when he handcuffed Washington by the same 1-0 score.

The change by the official scorer made this one of the most unique masterpieces in baseball history. Phil Rizzuto of the Yankees hit a bounding ball to Shortstop Johnny Pesky. Pesky appeared to field it cleanly, but juggled the ball while pulling it from his mitt to make the throw. When he did get the peg off, it bounced late and low to first base.

Since Trucks still was four innings away from the no-hitter when the scoring change was made, the action wasn't predicated entirely on the possibility that this fluke would be the only hit.

The Tigers put together a double by Lou Brock and a single by Steve Souchock in the seventh for the only run off Bill Miller, rookie left hander.

Trucks, visibly affected after the change was made, began to press for his no-hitter.

Trucks, in and out all year, went all the way for the fifth time in 23 games. It was his fifth victory against 15 defeats.

The 5-11, 198-pound Trucks stopped the Yanks dead midway in the third inning, retiring 20 men in succession.

Lemon Wins 16th

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland sliced the New York Yankees' American league lead to one game Monday night by defeating Washington, 7-2, behind the eight-hit pitching of Bob Lemon, who won his 16th game.

Lemon, who has won 11 of his last 13 decisions, was aided by three double-plays as Manager Al Lopez of the Indians benched Ray Boone and inserted George Strickland, recent acquisition from Pittsburgh, at shortstop. Strickland figured in all three double-plays.

Miss Kirby Takes Medal in Women's Golf Tournament

PORTLAND, ORE. (AP) — Grim-faced Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, who established herself as the ruler in American Women's golf last year, returned to reaffirm her mastery Monday by winning the qualifying medal in the 1952 National Women's Amateur Golf championship.

Miss Kirby avoided the wind-strengthened hazards of the 6,323-yard Waverley Country Club course to show a score of 37-39-76, only three over par.

Pat Garner, a 23-year-old from Midland, Texas, shot 42-36-78 for second place. Her 36 on the back nine was the day's only par-breaking performance.

Pat Lesser, 19-year-old pigtail-college girl from Seattle, played through the windiest part of the day to score 40-39-79 and lead the field for a long time.

Great Potential

A strong candidate for the full-back spot in Iowa Coach Forest Evashevski's single wing offense is Binkey Broeder, the fourth in the series of outstanding football prospects to be carried by The Daily Iowan.

He played enough to win a major "I" as a freshman last year, coming into his own against Notre Dame in the final game of the season. He scored two touchdowns against the Irish, one on a 65-yard pass play.

Uninformed A's Hit Out-of-Turn

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The biggest mixup of its kind in recent baseball annals had Philadelphia fans frantically thumbing through the rule book Monday.

It all stemmed from the second game of Sunday's Athletics-Chicago White Sox game. Eventually the A's won it, 5-1, but the first inning had a lot of people going 'round and 'round.

That's when Chicago Manager Paul Richards came striding from the dugout, and the rharubab began. He told Umpire Bill Summers that the A's had batted that way in the first game, but before the second game started Manager Jimmy Dykes had revised the batting order, switching Allie Clark to No. 3 from fifth and dropping Philley to fifth from third.

Dykes acknowledged that was correct, and said privately later that he had forgotten to tell the players.

After 20 minutes of discussion, the umpires ruled: Philley, who batted out of turn, became a legal base runner when no protest was made before the first pitch to the batter following him.

Zernial was an improper batter because he followed the wrong man. He was deprived of his double, Fain was returned to second base and Zernial to the bench, to await his next turn in the proper order.

And Cass Michaels, the batter following Philley on the official list, was out because he didn't appear at the plate in his proper turn.

Dykes chipped in with this switch on the same problem: Suppose, Philley, instead of having been dropped to fifth, had been dropped to eighth. The next batter then should be the pitcher, and he'd be out for not appearing in the proper order. Then Joost would be up again, and unless he hit into a double play or batted in a run the next batter should be Fain.

And Fain, perched on second base, couldn't possibly come to bat in his proper turn and would have to be called out.

Hawkeye Guard, Center Material Thin

(NOTE: This is the fourth of six stories about Iowa football candidates by positions.)

Material at guards and center is thin as SUU coaches take stock of prospects at those positions before drill opens Sept. 3.

Not that the players are of puny physical characteristics but in the experience department they are practically novices and in numbers they are scanty, only seven guards and seven centers.

The only returning guard who lettered last fall is Dick Frymire, who has been shifted to left tackle. None of the other candidates even has played in a college game at a guard post.

Andy Houg of St. Ansgar, a 195-pounder, has been placed at guard after winning a letter as a defensive end in 1951. He also may be used part-time at end but his only guard experience was in spring drill.

The sole letterman center is Jerry Hilgenberg of Wilton Junction, a 195-pound senior who was a pivot replacement a year ago. Jerry was a baseball regular so missed spring drill.

Charles Boothe, Galesburg, Ill., and Jerry Clark, Independence, were squadmen last year but played little. Boothe formerly was a tackle. Clark improved in the spring and has the speed and desire to be valuable. After a season as junior varsity players, Phil Hayman Jr., St. Louis, Mo., Tom Ellis, Dubuque, and Tom Fleckenstein, Cedar Rapids, now are varsity prospects.

Coaches were pleased with the spring development of Warren Lawson, Fairfield, at center. The 195-pounder won the first annual Iowa coaches award of a watch as

Hawkeye Guard, Center Material Thin

(NOTE: This is the fourth of six stories about Iowa football candidates by positions.)

Material at guards and center is thin as SUU coaches take stock of prospects at those positions before drill opens Sept. 3.

Not that the players are of puny physical characteristics but in the experience department they are practically novices and in numbers they are scanty, only seven guards and seven centers.

The only returning guard who lettered last fall is Dick Frymire, who has been shifted to left tackle. None of the other candidates even has played in a college game at a guard post.

Andy Houg of St. Ansgar, a 195-pounder, has been placed at guard after winning a letter as a defensive end in 1951. He also may be used part-time at end but his only guard experience was in spring drill.

The sole letterman center is Jerry Hilgenberg of Wilton Junction, a 195-pound senior who was a pivot replacement a year ago. Jerry was a baseball regular so missed spring drill.

Charles Boothe, Galesburg, Ill., and Jerry Clark, Independence, were squadmen last year but played little. Boothe formerly was a tackle. Clark improved in the spring and has the speed and desire to be valuable. After a season as junior varsity players, Phil Hayman Jr., St. Louis, Mo., Tom Ellis, Dubuque, and Tom Fleckenstein, Cedar Rapids, now are varsity prospects.

Coaches were pleased with the spring development of Warren Lawson, Fairfield, at center. The 195-pounder won the first annual Iowa coaches award of a watch as

COLLINS OVER FLANAGAN

BOSTON (AP) — Tireless Tommy Collins, Boston's featherweight title contender, chased Glen Flanagan of St. Paul, Minn., almost every minute of the way while pounding out a unanimous decision in their 15-round elimination boxing bout Monday night at the Boston Garden.
