Ex-Law Dean To Talk At 1st Legal Institute

Questions concerning law, and the men who practice it, will be discussed for the benefit of Iowans who hear an address Thursday by a former SUI law professor and dean now serving as a federal judge.

Judge Herbert F. Goodrich of the United States court of appeals, Philadelphia, is expected to explain some of the problems surrounding law and the courts in his address climaxing the first one-day legal institute to be conducted by SUI's college of law.

A former member and acting dean of the college, Judge Goodrich will deliver the second John F. Murray Memorial lecture on "Law Has Its Growing Pains, Too" at an evening session of the institute at 8 p.m. Funds for the public lectures were established by the will of Bessie Dutton Murray, widow of the late Iowa-born industrialist.

Law, Constitution Included
The noted jurist is expected to discuss the responsibilities of judges, the limitations of the judiciary, law and the constitution, and the importance of the judiciary in the governmental structure, according to Prof. Allan D. Vestal, college of law, who is in charge of the program.

The public has been invited to hear the legal authority and noted speaker, who founded the Iowa Law Review and has written several widely-used books on law, according to Vestal.

A panel discussion on the ideas and mechanics of estate planning will open the institute at 1:30 p.m. in the Shambaugh lecture room of the university library. Participants will include attorney David Bleakley, Cedar Rapids; bank officer

Retailers Feature Buying Discussion

Eight reasons why people buy are on the agenda for today, the halfway point of the Hardware Retailers short course at SUI's new Continuation Study center.

Presenting the psychology of selling to the nearly fifty Iowa participants, Prof. James Moyer, college of commerce, will discuss the eight motives for buying. He will report to hardware men that most buying is done for wealth and profit, to gain other advantages, to relieve fear, for social approval, to imitate others, to dominate, for general happiness and pleasure, for love and romance.

After the hardware men complete 26 study sessions, they will be eligible for a diploma of graduation, to be conferred Friday evening at a graduation dinner. Feature speakers then will be SUI President Virgil M. Hancher and Len Howe, hardware news editor.

A Condensation of Late Developments

ATHENS, GREECE (AP)— King Paul I decided Tuesday to call a general parliamentary election next month and give Greek voters a chance to seat a majority government strong enough to meet the nation's economic troubles. He approved publication next Friday of a royal decree dissolving the present parliament and fixing a date for the election. The date probably will be Nov. 9 or Nov. 10.

GUATEMALA (AP)— Seven Communist candidates have been accepted as members of a leftist and pro-government political bloc seeking endorsement in next month's congressional election, a spokesman for the bloc said Tuesday. The allied group supports the government of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman and will contest every one of the 50 congressional seats.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)— The United States said Tuesday the Mexican proposal on Korean prisoners of war might prove useful if the Communists would agree to the basic principles advanced by the United Nations at Panmunjom. The Mexican proposal, submitted by President Miguel Aleman, provides that prisoners taken by the UN might be admitted to UN countries if they did not want to go back to their own homes.

CINCINNATI (AP)— John L. Lewis thundered disapproval of Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) Tuesday and said he couldn't see how anyone could vote for a man "whom Taft may lead around by the collar." The nearly 3,000 delegates attending the opening session of the 41st union convention of the United Mine Workers took this as an expression from the veteran union leader against Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee whom Taft is supporting.

LA PAZ, BOLIVIA (AP)— The Bolivian government Tuesday seized control of the big Aramayo, Patino and Hochschild tin mines. It was the first step in their nationalization by the Victor Paz Estenssoro government which rose to power in a bloody three-day revolution last April. Details of the nationalization plan, and whether the companies will be reimbursed will be contained in a special commission report to be handed President Paz Estenssoro Thursday.

The Campaign Parade —

Ike Defends Private Business; Stevenson Doubts GOP's Aims

ABOARD THE EISENHOWER SPECIAL (AP)— Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said Tuesday "we must keep the long nose of government out of private business." Speaking before a packed house of 5,500 people in the Portland, Ore., Civil Auditorium, Eisenhower called for a decentralization of control over business and the economic life of the country.

He said it is a Communist idea that a highly centralized government alone can handle the economic functions of a nation. "They call it a dictatorship of the proletariat," the GOP presidential candidate told his audience.

Harms on Dictatorship

"But to most Americans, a dictatorship is a dictatorship no matter what four-dollar word you put behind it."

"Isn't that something," Eisenhower exclaimed when told that President Truman has said the general "betrayed every principle about our foreign policy and national defense that I thought he believed in."

Corruption in the government of the United States, he said, has become an international issue, loaded with dynamite.

Wants Influence Abroad

He called for a change of administration to restore America's influence abroad, and told his audience it will take 30 million votes to unseat the Democrats. This is eight million more than the Republicans received four years ago, when President Truman defeated Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for the presidency.

Both parties are expecting a heavy vote in November, but this was the first time Eisenhower has said the Republicans need 30 million to win. He bid for support from independents and disgruntled Democrats in citing this figure.

DETROIT (AP)— Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson questioned Tuesday night whether Dwight D. Eisenhower is seriously interested in rooting the Reds out of government — or only in "scaring the American people to get votes."

The Democratic presidential nominee said in an address prepared for delivery at a rally in Masonic Temple that his GOP rival "has offered only thundering silence about a cure" for the disease of Communism. The Democrats, he said, have a record of fighting Communism for 20 years with programs that were "ridiculed and sabotaged" by the Republican Old Guard.

Stevenson Scolds McCarthy
In a prelude to a campaign swing into Wisconsin Wednesday Stevenson also bitterly scolded Wisconsin's GOP Sen. Joseph McCarthy as a noisy child who has produced little but loud talk in a controversial campaign against Red penetration of government.

But it was mainly at Eisenhower that the Illinois governor threw a stepped-up, day-long attack. He started in at Saginaw shortly after noon, accusing the general of giving comfort to the Soviets by calling American prosperity a war prosperity.

Talk that U.S. economic strength is founded on war prosperity, Stevenson said, is a great "diservice" to the country, dismaying to our Allies, and not to be expected of a former world leader.

Bids in Industrial Belt
Saginaw was the first stop in a one-day campaign drive into Michigan's industrial belt. From Saginaw, Stevenson moved in on Detroit by way of Ypsilanti, Wayne, Wyandotte, Ecorse and River Rouge.

Then, in the motor car capital, the Democratic candidate tackled again what he has labeled one of the top issues of the whole campaign.

"I think we are entitled to ask," he said, "is the Republican candidate seriously interested in trying to root Communists out of the government, or is he only interested in scaring the American people to get votes?"

Truman Claims Ike Betraying Principles By Backing 'Pigmies'

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN (AP)— President Truman accused Gen. Dwight Eisenhower Tuesday of betraying his life-long principles and his best friend by embracing "moral pigmies" such as Republican Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and Sen. William E. Jenner.

Tearing up completely his "I like Ike, but—" approach, Truman voiced open contempt for Eisenhower's support of the Wisconsin and Indiana senators who have bitterly assailed former Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

Specifically Truman charged that Eisenhower has betrayed his principles and his supporters by adopting "reactionary" views on foreign policy and national defense.

"But worst of all," Truman said in a speech prepared for a train-side crowd at Colorado Springs, is the general's declared support for every Republican candidate.

"Whether that man is the blackest of reactionaries, a die-hard isolationist or even a moral scoundrel."

Council to Discuss Group Affiliation

The SUI student council will discuss possible re-affiliation with the National Student association at a meeting tonight at 7:30 in Old Capitol.

Council president Peter Van Metre, L3, Waterloo, announced Tuesday that the council will hear reports from three members who attended the National Student Congress in Bloomington, Ind., this summer.

Also on the agenda is a discussion of the proposed Big Ten student government association, Van Metre said.

Students Begin Ordeal of Paying Tuition

TUESDAY WAS THE FIRST DAY for the payment of first semester tuition fees. Fees will be accepted the remainder of the week at the treasurer's office in University hall. Today students whose last names begin with the letters G to L are scheduled to pay. Student identification cards will be issued upon payment of fees. All payments must be made between 8 a.m. and noon, and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Mrs. Ted Rehder, Iowa City, treasurer's office employe, is shown above receiving tuition checks from, (left to right), Sammie Anderson, A1, Worthington, Minn.; Bob Kalina, M3, Iowa City, and Charles Frandsen, A1, Story City. Greek Week Agenda Includes Civic Project

Several civic and campus improvement projects will highlight the "good will" agenda when sororities and fraternities at SUI swing into action Thursday for their annual Greek Week.

During the observance, which will continue until Tuesday, some 1,000 members of the 32 sororities and fraternities will participate in work projects in the city and on the campus, according to Jim Sherman, C4, Sioux City, publicity chairman for the Inter-Fraternity council.

Social events will play an important part in the program. Features will be the combined Panhellenic-IFC ball Friday night in Iowa Memorial Union, exchange dinners between sororities and fraternities, and sorority open houses on Sunday.

The activities will get underway Thursday night with a playnight at the field house at 7:30, when the organizations will participate in athletic events.

Constructive projects scheduled include work on the Boy Scout camp north of the city, work on the university campus and buildings, and at Oakdale sanitarium. The groups also will assist in cleaning the ravine near Riverside drive in Iowa City.

Greek Week assembly will conclude the observance Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Macbride hall. The outstanding fraternity and sorority members will be presented, sports trophies will be awarded and the Inter-Fraternity scholarship improvement trophy will be presented.

George Walters, dean of students at Lawrence college, Appleton, Wis., will be the principal speaker at the assembly.

125 Persons Routed In Des Moines Fire; 2 Firemen Overcome

DES MOINES (AP)—Fire routed 125 persons Tuesday night at the Jefferson apartment building in downtown Des Moines. No one was reported injured.

An hour after the blaze began, flames had broken through the roof of the four-story apartment dwelling. Fire Chief Charles Slade was doubtful whether the building could be saved.

Residents carried television sets, clothing and other personal and household effects as they left the smoke-filled building which contains 76 apartments.

Several elderly people and one resident who had been confined to his apartment because of illness were evacuated by firemen.

Two firemen were overcome by smoke inside the building and had to be revived with the department's inhalator. The dense smoke hampered the work of the firemen who were attempting to get at the source of the blaze from inside the building and from the roof.

Warned of Attack
Intelligence officers had three days prior warning of the Communist assault in the Chorwon Valley and Red columns were cut to ribbons when they stormed through carefully prepared Allied positions.

A desperate Chinese maneuver to flood the Yokkok River, which flows south of Arrowhead and White Horse, failed. The Reds opened the Pongnae dam on their side, but the river rose only three feet. Allied troops crossed the Yokkok on previously prepared rock fords and cables.

Health Plan Prompts Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The controversial subject of compulsory health insurance touched off new debate Tuesday night between medical representatives who oppose it and government spokesmen who are for it.

George W. Cooley of the American Medical association, which has contended the compulsory plan would result in "socialized medicine," said voluntary plans have been hampered by the government. He referred to such programs as Blue Cross and White Cross which offer pre-payment plans for hospital or surgical benefits.

He said voluntary health insurance "is in keeping with American tradition — it allows free choice on the part of our people." Such programs, he added, are entitled to opportunities to work "unhampered by disruptive activi-

15,000 Chinese Break Through On Seoul Road

SEOUL (AP)— Chinese Red infantrymen, assaulting UN positions for the second straight night, broke through Allied hill defenses guarding Chorwon on the Korean western front early Wednesday.

Seven outlying hill positions along the 100 miles of blazing battle line fell at the first onslaught by 15,000 Chinese in the biggest Red attacks in more than a year, according to reports at Eighth Army headquarters.

Allied infantrymen counter-attacked in an effort to seal off the Chinese penetration into Allied positions on White Horse mountain. This height, northwest of Chorwon, is one of two commanding the approaches to the main road to Seoul.

Aimed at 2 Ridges
The Reds directed the main weight of their limited offensive at White Horse and nearby Arrowhead Ridges, which anchor the Chorwon pivot of the main Allied lines. Tanks and roaring artillery barrages supported the surging Reds.

The hill positions dominate the western edge of the old Communist Iron Triangle, some 20 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

Allied planes throughout the battle were stacked up waiting their turn to blast the enemy in the west.

Dead Litter Battlefield
Hundreds of dead Chinese littered the battlefields.

Preliminary estimates placed Red losses at 1,300 dead on White Horse and neighboring Arrowhead Ridge, and hundreds more elsewhere along the front. Allied casualties were not given.

Throughout the night fighting, Allied flare planes circled the battlefield, lighting up the area with an eerie glow. B-26 light bombers hit hard just behind the Red lines.

Fighting at times closed to hand-to-hand range with Allied troops battling off the enemy with rifle butts and even fists.

Red Artillery Busy
Communist artillery fire thundered along the entire front. It reached a crescendo when more than 11,000 rounds fell on a single Allied division west of Chorwon, which is 45 miles north of Seoul.

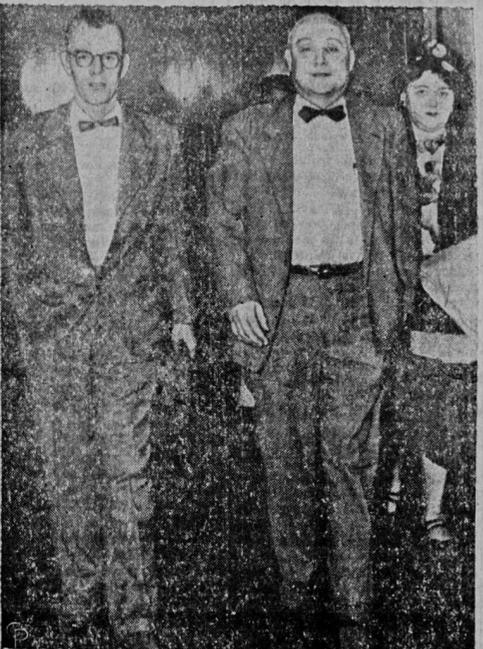

The Chinese — many wearing gas masks — were supported by Russian built tanks, rockets and the thunderous artillery barrages.

Fighting tapered during daylight Tuesday as Allied fighter-bombers raked the Reds with napalm and bombs. But in midafternoon the big Red guns were firing again at the rate of 1,200 rounds an hour on Arrowhead Ridge. White Horse was getting a similar pounding.

Warned of Attack
Intelligence officers had three days prior warning of the Communist assault in the Chorwon Valley and Red columns were cut to ribbons when they stormed through carefully prepared Allied positions.

A desperate Chinese maneuver to flood the Yokkok River, which flows south of Arrowhead and White Horse, failed. The Reds opened the Pongnae dam on their side, but the river rose only three feet. Allied troops crossed the Yokkok on previously prepared rock fords and cables.

Intelligence Agents Jailed

CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY agents Wayne Richardson and Miller Holland leave federal court in Seattle, Wash., after being sentenced to 15 days in jail on contempt of court charges — as government witnesses in the trial of Harry Jarvinen, they refused to testify. Jarvinen, on trial for giving a false report that Owen Lattimore was going to leave the country, was acquitted.

Reds Hunting New Tactics, Acheson Says

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson said Monday that Communist tactics of violence have failed and that the Reds are searching "for new ways of gaining their ends."

Acheson told 700 delegates attending the CIO International Electrical Workers' fourth annual convention that President Truman is "the man who has done most to stiffen the backbone of the free world against communism."

The secretary said Truman "has been unmoved by those who were ready to throw off restraint and plunge into ever-widening warfare" and "by others who would have held back the building of strength of collective security against the Communist challenge."

Suffering from Virus
Acheson, suffering from a virus infection, flew here to talk to the IUE before a doctor's orders.

"I decided I wasn't going to let any little bug get me down," he quipped.

His address, delivered in a husky voice, drew loud applause at two points — once, when he paid tribute to President Truman, and again when he declared that in our peace talks in Korea —

"We will not compromise with the basic principle that no prisoner shall be forced against his will to return to the Communists."

Reviews Red Setbacks
Reviewing Communist setbacks in France, Japan and Western Germany, Acheson said:

"The failure of previous Communist tactics in several parts of the world is leading the Communists to search for new ways of gaining their ends."

Acheson warned that "we must not confuse a shift in method with a change in underlying purpose" and explained:

Red Purpose is Hostile
"The international Communist movement has been through many shifts in method, without the slightest change in its fundamentally hostile purpose against the rest of the world."

America, said the secretary, "would welcome any step by the Soviets — even a tactical one — that reduced the danger of hostilities," but added that "we must not delude ourselves that our task will be any easier than it has been."

Acheson declared, "The steady increase of Soviet military strength will continue, even though it moves on carpet slippers instead of hob-nailed boots."

DISCUSSES MINE FATALITIES
WASHINGTON (AP) — Director John J. Forbes of the bureau of mines said Tuesday that the 12 fatal haulage accidents in coal mines during July could have been avoided "if safety principles had been observed."

NEWMAN CLUB WILL HOLD
the first of its weekly Wednesday afternoon discussion hours at 4 p.m. today, Oct. 8, at the Catholic Student Center. Father Welch will lead the discussion on Samuel Eliot Morrison's biography of Christopher Columbus—Admiral of the Ocean Sea. Coffee will be served.

Interlude

"I've got an idea — let's cut psychology this afternoon and go study human behaviour at the Airliner!"

No Financial Scandal in Sioux City

DES MOINES (AP)—The city government of Sioux City won praise from the state auditor's office Tuesday. The comment was included in a report on an audit of the city's affairs from April 1 to Dec. 31, 1951.

"We want to commend those officials who were responsible for establishing the office machine accounting system," the report said. "While it still is comparatively new, it is nevertheless working out very well and the type of records thus provided are complete, accurate and highly efficient."

C. W. Ward, supervisor of municipal audits, said "The last previous report reflected some criticism which has been corrected in the course of this examination." There was no criticism of any kind in the current report.

The city started the period under audit with a balance of $2,412,990, and with receipts during the period it had a total of $9,641,312 available.

Lewis Blasts Ike In Apparent Switch To Democratic Party

CINCINNATI (AP) — John L. Lewis, fresh from victory in his periodic wars with the coal industry, appeared close Monday night to switching allegiance from the Republican to the Democratic party.

Lewis, 72-year-old president of the United Mine Workers, with powerful political support in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, held his own counsel on the eve of his United Mine Workers convention.

But Lewis, an avowed Republican, already has labeled Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee, as a leader of the "especially privileged group of oppressive exploiters."

Lewis keynoted his quadrennial convention Tuesday and it seemed likely, in view of his expressed opposition to Eisenhower, that he will either endorse Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, or declare a neutral position in the presidential campaign.

Both the AFL and CIO have come out for Stevenson, and the guessing has been that Lewis will go along.

STOP SURPLUS SALES
Such things as the sale by farmers of their "surplus" on the open market — the things they produce outside their fixed quotas for the state — will be stopped. So will all other handovers of private enterprise either in city or village.

The collective farmer is going to be turned completely into an agricultural laborer under the new Soviet plan. The state will take all and distribute the take as it sees fit.

The Kremlin's fingers have been burned before on peasant resistance. The peasant may once again get his back up.

TO THE EDITOR:
In the Daily Iowan's report of the Marquis Childs' speech, the writer paraphrased one of Mr. Childs' statements in a manner which I believe has unintentionally distorted the original meaning. I refer to this passage:

"Speaking on the Communist threat, Childs said that the main criticism he has against many people in Washington is their inclination to still not realize the seriousness of communism in the world today."

I believe many of your readers misunderstood Childs' meaning because the phrase "people in Washington" is often used as a synonym for the administration, or at least connotes that to most people, and Childs was referring neither to the administration nor to any mysterious group of men, but to Senator McCarthy and others like him who by their irresponsible and reckless charges create an atmosphere of fear and suspicion at a time when unity is of vital concern to our country.

Because I feel sure Mr. Childs would want his view on this subject made clear, I call this to your attention.

To Start St. Lawrence Project Soon—

Canadians Anxious to Build Seaway Alone

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of six articles.)

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians are prepared to build the St. Lawrence Seaway alone just as soon as the International Joint Commission approves applications of the Canadian and United States governments for joint construction of hydro-electric power facilities along the International Rapids.

I recently talked with some of the top authorities on the seaway in Canada, and to various other Canadians familiar with the long-pending navigation and power projects in Ottawa, Toronto and Niagara. I discerned no resentment at the refusal of the United States Senate to make the seaway a joint project. Instead, I found three types of reactions:

1—Amazement that a small group of selfish-interest lobbies representing railroads, private power interests, and eastern and southern ports in the United States could wield such power to defeat legislation on a project that so obviously would benefit the long-term interests of the American people.

2—Disappointment that two good neighbors with so many mutual interests could not co-operate jointly in developing one of the world's great waterways.

3—Relief among nearly all Canadians with whom I talked that the United States was not committing itself to the seaway phase of the project, thereby giving Canadians an opportunity to perform this great engineering feat themselves — as they have in the past constructed the Welland ship canal and the system of 14-foot St. Lawrence canals.

Canada's official government position remains, however, that it would prefer to see the United States approve the 1941 agreement and help construct the seaway jointly.

Public Relief Explained
Canadian public belief that the United States apparently is not going to help build the seaway was explained to me like this by one Canadian authority:

"The St. Lawrence is a Canadian river. It is a mere geographical coincidence that the United States for a distance of 100 miles or so has a mutual borderline on the St. Lawrence. Canadians feel a deep pride that at least Canada is going ahead to make the seaway a Canadian river project on the Canadian side of the St. Lawrence."

Canadians believe deeply in the long-term benefits of St. Lawrence navigation and power. They believe they can do more competent job of construction and administration of the seaway than it were a joint undertaking.

Never was Canada in a better financial position to take on this kind of project. Besides, Canadians expect to get their money back, with interest, through seaway tolls. They never have charged tolls on the Welland canal.

Expect Sounder Project
One of Canada's top engineering

authorities on the seaway told me that the 27-foot canals will be a sounder engineering project built on the Canadian side of the St. Lawrence. The only reason the joint plan placed them on the American side, he said, was to save some construction money.

Canadians estimate that the seaway will cost the federal government not more than $300 million. Although canals on the Canadian side will cost about $34 million more than on the American side, Canadians are not committed to the $90 million dredging job in channels of the upper Great Lakes. The power project will cost about $400 million, but this will be paid by Ontario and whatever authority may be named by the United States — probably New York state.

Canadians believe the seaway soon after its completion may handle about 40 million tons of cargo annually: up to 20 million tons of iron ore from Quebec and Labrador, up to 10 million tons of grain and grain products, 4 million tons of coal, 1½ million tons of paper, pulp and pulpwood, and probably 8 million tons of miscellaneous cargo.

U.S. to Store Power
Ontario and New York state will share equally in the 2,200,000-horsepower of electric energy expected from the International Rapids dams.

Various International Joint commission hearings have been held, and others are scheduled in the near future. No one knows quite how long it will be before the IJC can take final action regarding the joint power applications. Canadians are hoping, however, that all the legal obstructions will be cleared away during the coming winter, so that next spring they can start heavy equipment to work on the five-or-six-year job of digging the all-Canadian St. Lawrence seaway.

Series Then and Now —

After giving the World Series what we felt was its deserved "play" for the past few days, we were rather amused to find the following article in the current issue of the Baseball Digest.

It seems that a Los Angeles sports writer, accustomed to the pomp and circumstance attending baseball's big show nowadays, including vast coverage by newspapers, radio and TV, received somewhat of a shock when he discovered the humble and almost overlooked beginnings of the annual championship while browsing through his newspaper's file.

PITTSBURGH'S PHILIPPI DOWNFALL OF BOSTONIANS

(By The Associated Press)

BOSTON, Oct. 1 — The masterly pitching of Philippi brought about the downfall of the Boston Americans today in the first game of the world's championship series with Pittsburgh, the National league pennant winners. Attendance 16,300.

Score: — Pittsburgh, 7; hits, 12; errors, 2. Boston, 1; hits, 6; errors, 4.

Batteries — Philippi and Phelps; Young and Criger.

Umpires — O'Day and Connolly. He adds that most of the other major league teams were still active, too, in various exhibition games.

Succeeding days likewise found the Series relegated to obscure corners of the sports section.

Boston finally won the championship by taking the eighth game, Oct. 13. The Associated Press chronicled that "while the attendance at all the previous games has been larger than today (7,000), the demonstration which followed Dineen's striking out of Hans Wagner in the ninth equaled any college football game. The world champions were borne to their dressing rooms on the shoulders of thousands, and the cheering lasted for many minutes."

And thus was launched what today is easily the sport's greatest spectacle.

Yankees Take Title Again, 4-2

BROOKLYN (AP)—Young Mickey Mantle, capably filling the shoes of the great Joe DiMaggio, and stout hearted Bob Kuzava led Casey Stengel's New York Yankees to a record-tying fourth straight world championship Tuesday in a 4-2 seventh game triumph over the stubborn Brooklyn Dodgers.

HERE ARE THE YANKEES' HEROES—(left to right) Mickey Mantle, whose homer in the sixth gave the New Yorkers their victory margin in Tuesday's final game of the World Series and who batted .348 for the seven games; Allie Reynolds, the winning pitcher in the final contest who appeared in 20 innings of four games, winning two and losing one and striking out 18 Brooklyn players, and Johnny Mize, who batted .400 to pace the Yanks' efforts and hit three homers.

Lefty Kuzava, supposedly a choice morsel for the Dodgers' right hand hitters, blazed his fast ball down the groove in a 2 2/3 innings relief job to make the lead stand up.

It was Mantle who gave the Yankees their victory margin. He homered in the sixth to break a 2-2 tie and send the New Yorkers ahead for the third time in the up and down game. In the seventh he scored Gil McDougal from second with a sizzling single over Pee Wee Reese's head.

Club Descends on Kuzava
When Gene Woodling clutched Reese's fly for the final out this chilly, sunny afternoon, the entire Yank club descended on Kuzava, whooping and yelling with the joy of men who suddenly found themselves some $6,000 richer.

It was Kuzava who applied the final, killing blow to Brooklyn's dreams of its first World Series win with his brilliant job after Eddie Lopat and the dead tired Allie Reynolds and Vic Raschi had given their all.

Called into face Duke Snider, the bases loaded and one out in the seventh, Kuzava calmly drew the count to 3-2 before making the Duke pop to Gil McDougal.

Robinson Bats
Still in grave danger of a Dodger eruption, the blond southpaw worked on Jackie Robinson while 33,195 spectators held their breaths.

Robby fouled one, took two balls and fouled two more. Finally he lofted a sky high pop over the infield. With a stiff crosswind blowing from left field, second baseman Billy Martin barely made a running catch while his hat went flying just past the pitcher's box.

Although big Bob still had two innings to go, that was the end game. In those brief moments he wrung the neck of the Dodgers with a gritty job of clutch pitching.

Brooks Fall Again
Thus the Brooks, never a Series winner, failed for the sixth time and the Yanks rode to their 15th championship in 19 tries. It was the American league's sixth straight series win, a record topping the old high run of the 1935-39 era.

Stengel's feat of winning four in a row shot him into the record books with Joe McCarthy who led the Yanks past the National leaguers in 1936, 1937, 1938, and 1939. Nobody else ever did it.

Mantle, a 20-year-old Oklahoma lad playing his second year in the majors and fourth in organized ball, smashed a Joe Black pitch high and away over the right field wall in the sixth.

The booming drive hopped crazily among the cars in a parking lot across the street from Ebbets Field before it disappeared from sight for good as the 16th home run of this record-breaking series.

'We Can Always Win on Road,' Shouts Casey — Bums Say, 'Mantle Killed Us'

BROOKLYN (AP)—"They didn't miss Joe DiMaggio," said Jackie Robinson. "It was that Mantle, that Mickey Mantle killed us."

"If it hadn't been for him I think this would have been a very different series."

The Brooklyn second baseman sat in a deserted corner of the funeral Brooklyn dressing room, a picture of frustration that seemed to envelop all of these athletes who had knocked on the door of baseball's world championship and had seen it rudely shut in their faces.

"That Kuzava was burning his fast ball in there," Manager Chuck Dressen said.

"He was very quick. But both Reynolds and Raschi were far below their effectiveness of previous games."

BROOKLYN (AP)—"We can always win on the road," shouted Casey Stengel and a roar of cheers and laughter swept through the jam-packed, hilarious Yankee dressing room.

"That boy hadn't been pitching hardly any all season, but he really went in there and threw hard."

Casey referred to Bob Kuzava, whose superb relief pitching from the seventh inning on saved the day against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"This change your mind about retiring," someone yelled in Casey's ear.

"I'm not thinking about retiring," he bellowed back.

"I'm glad for you to get what you got," said the Dodger manager, Chuck Dressen.

"I want you to hear what I just been saying about you and your team," Stengel barked hoarsely.

"I can't say anything against the club we beat. You could execute your plays and you mixed 'em up. We won by just that," said Casey and held his forefinger and thumb up a half inch apart.

Joe Black, the big Dodger rookie, shoved up and shook Stengel's hand solemnly.

"I see you talk on television and I see you pitch out there," said Stengel. "You're wonderful."

Bob Kuzava, whose relief pitching staved off the late threat of the Dodgers, slipped into the jammed dressing room almost unnoticed but he wasn't here 30 seconds before the photographers and reporters gathered about him yelling for pictures and asking questions.

Kuzava relied chiefly on his fast ball and "it was really hopping," catcher Yogi Berra chimed in.

Evy Hopes to Cut Mental Muffs

Those mental errors which cost scoring chances and give life to opponents must be eliminated as much as possible in Iowa's football games, starting with Purdue at Lafayette Saturday.

Coach Forest Evashevski said that he can forgive mechanical errors and expects a number of them but the mental miscues really hurt.

"We have been stopped in two games by our own mistakes for the most part and have missed scoring chances which might have put the pressure on the other team," Coach Evy said.

He said that Iowa has been put in the unlucky position of having to gamble in the fourth quarter and often has found it tough to get the ball. For example, Indiana had 23 plays to Iowa's 12 in the fourth quarter when Hoosiers made two touchdowns to win the game after Iowa had led, 13-12 with 12 minutes to play.

Another item in this week's work is development of a sustained running game. At times the Iowa ground attack has moved well but it has not been consistent.

Hawkeyes will leave Iowa City Friday at 9:15 a.m. by train. After a three-hour layover in Chicago, they will arrive in Lafayette about 7 p.m. and will establish headquarters at the Purdue Union.

Cedar Rapids Trial on Baby's Death Begins

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — Mrs. Virgil Schmickle, the first witness in the manslaughter trial of Wesley Rodin, charged in connection with the auto death of Mrs. Schmickle's 2½-month-old daughter, told the court Monday she did not think Rodin was intoxicated at the time of the accident.

Five Cedar Rapids policemen later testified that in their opinion Rodin was intoxicated when questioned following the accident.

The mother and infant were passengers in a car driven by Rodin which sheared off a light pole in Cedar Rapids early the morning of Aug. 9.

Worked as a Chef

Rodin, 24, at one time chief of police at Eldora, was working as a chef in a Cedar Rapids hotel at the time of the accident. Mrs. Schmickle, estranged from her husband, was dating Rodin.

The prosecution has indicated the state would attempt to show that Rodin was intoxicated at the time his car hit the pole.

The seventh and final witness for the prosecution Monday was Dr. R. E. Weland, Cedar Rapids pathologist, who performed the post mortem on the little girl. He told the court that she died of severe head injuries.

Said He Was Drinking

Mrs. Schmickle told the jury of seven men and five women that Rodin had been drinking prior to the accident but she did not believe he was drunk.

Cedar Rapids policemen Capt. L. W. Remington, Sgt. Vaude Sellwood and Patrolmen Donald Hollister, Robert Kraft and Ralph Mikesell all testified that Rodin appeared to be intoxicated following the accident.

Real Estate Men Hear New Plan

DES MOINES (AP) — "We're spending too much money trying to get people downtown in their own cars when we should be developing good public transportation systems."

That was the advice given to delegates at the Iowa Real Estate association convention here Tuesday by Joseph W. Lund, of Boston, Mass., in outlining a five-point plan for improving American cities.

Lund, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, listed as the other four steps:

- Rehabilitation of rundown properties.
- Redevelopment of slum areas.
- Wider use of "up-to-date" zoning regulations.
- Developing a better-balance tax load.

"We must pay more attention to the economics of transportation," Lund told the realtors. "For example, the space ratio for public transportation to handle a load in a downtown area is 20 to 1 against private transportation.

"The public will favor the civic efficiency of public transportation over the relative inefficiency of the private car when public transportation is made easier to use, more convenient, and more pleasant than use of a private car."

Taft Criticizes Truman On Illinois Tour

Rips 'Low Standard Of Morality' in Capitol

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft Tuesday night climaxed a day-long Illinois campaign swing by describing President Truman as a man whose "whole standard of morality is pretty low."

The Ohio senator hit at Truman in his major speech of the day—a review of what he called "the low standard of public morality in Washington."

In an address prepared for delivery at Zion, Ill., some 45 miles north of Chicago, Taft said: "Mr. Truman himself has said that he knows of no mess in Washington. Such a statement only shows that his whole standard of morality is pretty low and is in line with his condoning of the revelations so frequently brought to his attention."

Can't 'Clean House'
Taft, campaigning for Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential candidate, said Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Eisenhower's Democratic opponent, cannot "clean house" because he would be a "prisoner" of the present administration.

"It is an impossible political maneuver for a man of the same party to come into office and do any drastic housecleaning as General Eisenhower would attempt," he asserted.

He said the job "cannot be done by an administration with any obligations or connections with present office holders."

The Ohioan said, "people have come too much to feel that government must inevitably be corrupt and revelations merely a matter of course." He added, "I do not believe that this means that they approve of it."

Urges Swing to GOP
Taft urged his listeners to regard the Republican ticket as "your mop and bottle of disinfectant in this nation-wide clean-up program."

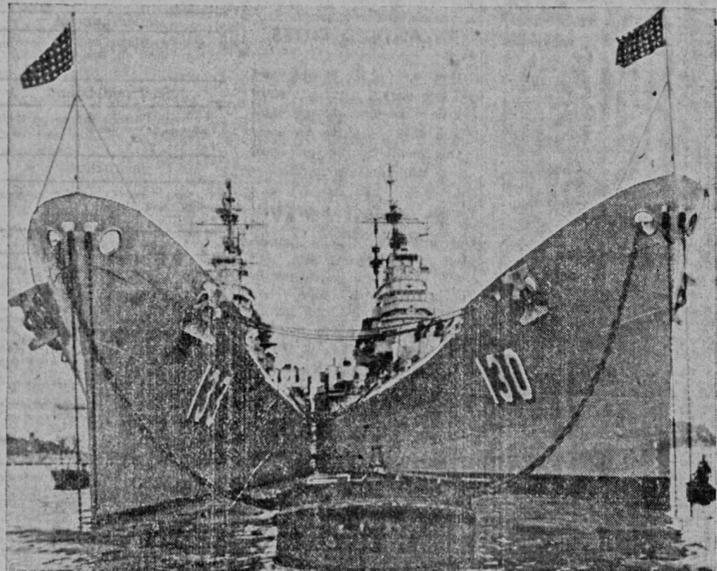

In an earlier talk, Taft described his New York meeting with Eisenhower last month as a move to dispel any fears that the Republican candidate might have New Deal leanings.

The Ohioan said he met with his GOP convention rival to be reassured that the party's nominee would conduct a "real Republican administration." The meeting, he added, enabled Taft to reassure those who supported Taft's unsuccessful campaign for the nomination.

Some Were Doubtful
"Some of my followers were doubtful," Taft said, "because a good many New Deal newspapers had supported General Eisenhower, and so I thought it desirable to meet with him so I could reaffirm to my own friends the views I knew he held and had previously expressed."

The senator reported on the New York breakfast meeting with the Republican nominee in a speech from the steps of the Kane County Court House in Geneva, some 35 miles west of Chicago.

Psychiatric Nursing Is New Course; 8 Enroll

Eight graduate nurses became the first to enroll in the psychiatric nursing program begun at SUI college of nursing this fall.

The program in psychiatric nursing is designed to prepare registered nurses to work with Iowa's mentally-ill patients. According to Myrtle E. Kitchell, dean of the college, Iowa's approximately 9,000 hospitalized mental patients are currently being cared for by some 100 registered nurses—an average of one nurse for every 90 psychiatric patients.

Trains Experienced Nurses
Nurses enrolled in this first course have had previous experience as psychiatric nurses, VA hospital nurses, nurses in private physician's offices and as general nurses. Upon completion of their course work—which will vary in length depending upon the individual's previous college education and nursing experience—they will be awarded the bachelor of science degree.

The program is organized around "learning experiences," according to Mary Lohr, assistant professor of psychiatric nursing and course director, who points out that such experiences will help the student develop and deepen the ability to work with emotionally disturbed people. Students will carry out field

Quad Grade Average Headed '52 Men's List

The Quadrangle accumulative grade point average for the second semester of 1951-52 was the highest among men's dormitories, M. L. Huit, counselor to men, revealed this week in a letter to Ralph Fretty, president of the Quadrangle association.

The Quad average, 2.5, was above the all-dormitory average of 2.46, the all-fraternity average of 2.34 and the all-men's average of 2.24.

Huit, in congratulating the Quad men on their achievement, also commended the Quad orientation program. Residents met newcomers at the trains and buses and served coffee in the Quad lounge at the beginning of the semester.

Students enrolled in the new psychiatric course are: Petronilla Birkenfeld, Knoxville; Loretta Dusatko, Iowa City; Patricia Ford, Albia; Gretchen Johnson, Boone; Jo Ann Neal, Des Moines; Rebecca White, Des Moines; Joan Price, Chicago, Ill.; and Willis R. Harrah, Linton, Indiana.

2 Military Officials Of Iowa City Units To Attend Meeting

Dr. William D. Coder, coordinator of veterans service, and Col. George A. Bosch, professor of air science and tactics at SUI will attend an air force ROTC orientation conference at the Air University, Maxwell air force base, at Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 15 and 22.

More than 115 presidents, vice-presidents and 60 deans representing colleges and universities throughout the United States, Hawaii and Puerto Rico, having air force ROTC units will attend the conference along with air force personnel.

Brig. Gen. M. K. Deichelmann, commandant of the AFROTC program, explained the purpose of the conference is three-fold:

1. To acquaint educational executives with proposed changes and improvements in future operation and administration of the AFROTC program.
2. To review the new AFROTC course of instruction to be inaugurated in the 1953-54 school year, and
3. To emphasize plans of AFROTC headquarters to conduct a carefully developed ROTC program which will be mutually beneficial to the supporting institutions and to the air force.

Moeller Explains Newspapers' Aims To Cornell Audience

Newspapers must always be mindful of the interests and needs of their audiences, Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI school of journalism, told his audience at Cornell college Tuesday morning.

Speaking in the college chapel at Mt. Vernon, he said that mass media must play to the desires of readers and listeners, because circulation is the basis for advertising which is necessary for successful operation.

He pointed out that taste and interest vary widely and there is also much variation in willingness to support publications.

Moeller used the New York Times as an example, which is widely praised as a newspaper, but sells less than 5 per cent of the newspaper circulation of its city because the other newspapers appear to a greater variety of readers.

Students may help greatly in raising the standards of public interest in newspaper content, and should carry on this activity as a part of their citizenship responsibility, Moeller concluded.

Moeller will speak on "The Citizen's Stake in the Newspaper" at the Des Moines Rotary club Thursday noon, Oct. 9.

His appearance will be a part of the club's observance of National Newspaper week.

Geographers Plan Meeting at SUI

Geographers from five states will consider "Geographic Research in the Middle West" at a meeting of the West Lakes division of the Association of American Geographers, Friday and Saturday at SUI.

About 50 persons, representing Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota, eastern Missouri and Iowa, are expected to register Friday at 1:15 p.m. for the session, according to Professor Harold H. McCarty, chairman of the SUI geography department.

The group will survey the present status of both individual and institutional research and inquire into prospects for future research development at the 2 p.m. opening session.

Prof. Glenn Trewartha of the University of Wisconsin, president of the association, will lead a discussion of "the role of the regional division in the national organization" at a meeting at 6:30 p.m. Friday.
