Eisenhower Wins By Landslide!

Loveless Concedes Victory To Beardsley In Tight Iowa Race

Only Contest As GOP Wins All State Posts

Boston, Mass. — The United States turned Republican today when the fate of the presidential race was decided. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican, won a landslide victory over Adlai E. Stevenson, Democrat, in the presidential contest, as the returns poured in from every state.

The vote count showed that Eisenhower had carried all but a few states, including Illinois, where Stevenson was expected to win. The final tally showed Eisenhower with 442 electoral votes to Stevenson's 8,083.

Eisenhower was declared the winner by the Supreme Court of the United States, which had been called into session to hear arguments on the disputed cases.

Iron Lung Maker Dies in Michigan

WANZUETE, Mich. — M. K. Davis, the manufacturer of the iron lung, died in a car accident in Michigan.

The first description of the iron lung was in a paper delivered to the American Physical Society in 1895.

The iron lung was used as a temporary resuscitation aid in the treatment of polio patients.

These iron lungs were exhibited at the 1900 World’s Fair in Chicago.

The iron lung was found to be effective in the treatment of polio patients.

The iron lungs were used in the treatment of polio patients before the

Mailman's Hobby Becomes Profitable Business

MAILMAN, Ill.—Changes are being called for in a many-month-long activity by a mailman in this community. The change, a modest one, is to make his hobby a business. Frank Washington, 54, mailman and his woodworking- and embroidery-including partner, will soon open for business a shop which he plans to operate on part-time basis.

The shop will be in a small building behind the home of the Washingtons, and will be designated "Frank's Business and Tailor Shop." It will be a modest place, but Frank Washington plans to have a good selection of antiques, old clothes, and other unique items for sale.

He has already begun selling his wares at small local fairs and other events, and has had a steady stream of customers.

One of the most unique items he has sold so far is a small antique clock, which he purchased for $25 and sold for $50. He also sells a variety of antique furniture, including a small table for $50 and a large chair for $100.

The Washingtons plan to open their business on a full-time basis in the near future, and hope to expand their selection of antiques and other unique items.

First Student-Faculty Coffee Hour in Union

"This is a great opportunity for students and faculty to connect and build relationships," said President Johnson. "It's a chance to break bread and catch up on the latest happenings in the college community."

At the event, attendees were served coffee, pastries, and a variety of other refreshments. The atmosphere was warm and inviting, with music playing in the background.

Acquiring Acting and Technical Class gives Experience to D.A. Students

"This class is not only a chance for students to learn about acting and technical theatre, but also to build important skills that will be valuable in any career," said Professor Smith.

The class, titled "Acting and Technical Class," is taught by Professor Smith and focuses on various aspects of acting, including voice, movement, and stage presence.

The students are divided into groups of four, and each group is assigned a specific task to work on for the duration of the class. They will be given a script to practice, and will have the opportunity to perform in front of their peers.

"We hope this class will help students develop their skills and build their confidence," said Professor Smith.

Additionally, the class will also cover technical theatre, including lighting, sound, and stage design, to give students a well-rounded education.

"I look forward to seeing what the students will create," said Professor Smith.

SUI Doctor Proposes Theory on Polarimetry

"The theory I propose is based on the idea that there is a relationship between the polarization of light and the rotation of a plane," said Dr. Smith.

The theory is based on the idea that when light passes through a polarimeter, it rotates a plane by a certain amount. This rotation is caused by the interaction of the light with the material the light passes through.

"I believe this theory has important implications for the field of polarimetry," said Dr. Smith.

Research Methods Manual Prepared

"This manual is designed to be a comprehensive guide for students and researchers in the field of research methods," said Dr. Smith.

The manual covers a wide range of topics, including research design, data collection, and statistical analysis.

"I hope this manual will be a valuable resource for anyone involved in research," said Dr. Smith.

Eisenhower—

A New York Times poll indicated that President Eisenhower was leading the Democratic candidates for governor in four of the six states in which the polls were made. These states were New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, and Rhode Island. In the other two states, New Hampshire and Maine, the candidates were running even.

The New York Times poll, conducted by the Times and the Associated Press, showed that Eisenhower was leading in New York by 46.4 per cent to 40.5 per cent. In New Jersey, he was ahead by 53 per cent to 40.5 per cent. In Connecticut, he was leading by 50.5 per cent to 40.5 per cent. In Rhode Island, he was in the lead by 39.5 per cent to 37 per cent. In New Hampshire, the candidates were tied, each with 38 per cent. In Maine, Eisenhower was leading by 38.5 per cent to 35 per cent.

The poll was conducted by telephone interviews of a representative sample of registered voters in each state. The sample size was 1,000 in each state. The margin of error was plus or minus 3.1 per cent in each state.

The poll was conducted between October 25 and November 1, 1952.

IU Psychology Professor Scores With Vote Prediction

Paul Newman, C. Meiser of the Indiana University Psychology Department, correctly predicted that President Eisenhower would win in all but two states—Pennsylvania and Ohio—on Tuesday night.

The professor, who has been making accurate predictions in presidential elections for the past several years, said that Eisenhower would win in all other states. He also said that the Illinois race would be close, but that the Illinois voters would be decisive.

While the professor predicted that the Republican ticket would win, he also predicted that the Democratic ticket would lose in both Pennsylvania and Ohio.
