Cast Rehearses 'Roughshod Up the Mountain'

"JOSHUA," JOHN WINSTON SMITH, DES MOINES, (center), points a threatening finger at Robert Ellis, G., Kansas City, as he orders Ellis and "Cash" Moore, John Barr, G., Cades, S.C., from his home. "Roughshod Up the Mountain," where this action takes place, a new play by Arthur Clifton Lamb, G., Baltimore, Md., is the first all Negro university theater production in several years. It will be presented Nov. 21 and 22.

St. Luke's Nurse Director Named Head of Practical Nursing School

Ella H. Rasmussen, for nine years director of nurses at St. Luke's hospital, Cedar Rapids, has been named director of the Iowa school for practical nursing in the SUI college of nursing, according to Dean Myrtle E. Kitchell.

Dean Kitchell said the faculty for the practical nursing school is now complete. Applications are being accepted for admission to the first class which begins on Jan. 5, 1953.

The new director is a native of Delmar and a graduate of Cornell college, Mt. Vernon. She is a graduate of the St. Mary's school of nursing in Rochester, Minn.

Nurses Needed

Both Dean Kitchell and Miss Rasmussen pointed out that there is unlimited opportunity and need for practical nurses in Iowa and throughout the country. They said the Iowa school is one of 200 state-approved schools in the country, two of which are now located in Iowa. Besides the university's new school, there is a school for practical nurses in Marshalltown.

Miss Rasmussen said the Iowa school is designed to prepare men and women to work in hospitals, homes, visiting nurses associations, doctors' offices and industries, and to be an integral part of the nursing team assisting the professional registered nurse in caring for the acute and the chronically ill.

Must Be 18 Years Old

Requirements for admission to the Iowa school for practical nursing are that men and women be at least 18 years of age, be in a good state of physical and mental health and have a distinct liking for and a desire to help people.

If applicants are between the ages of 18 and 25, Miss Rasmussen said, they must present certification of high school graduation. For those above 25 years of age, she said a tenth grade education is sufficient. She pointed out that there is no restriction on age, but that the applicant must be physically and mentally able to do the required work.

Other members of the faculty include Elizabeth E. Kerr and Mrs. Marjorie Leonard, full-time instructors, and Mrs. Kathryn Murphy Gay, half-time instructor.

Miss Kerr, a native of Galena, Ill., attended SUI from 1936 to 1939, and graduated from the St. Luke's hospital school of nursing in Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Leonard, whose home is in Iowa City, is a graduate of the university's college of nursing and is currently a staff nurse at University hospitals.

Guards Break Up 2,000-Convict Riot At Michigan Prison

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Shotgun-firing guards Tuesday night broke up the third major riot this year at Southern Michigan prison, the world's largest walled penitentiary.

More than 2,000 convicts, some wielding butcher knives and clubs, clashed in the wild melee that lasted two hours before it was quelled. Even then the situation was described as "so tense, anything could happen."

Despite 20 shotgun and machine gun blasts into the air, no one was shot, and no guards were grabbed as hostages as they were in a bloody and costly mutiny in April and a less violent one in July.

One convict suffered a scalp wound, apparently from a flying plate or other missile, as Tuesday night's riot flared up in the prison dining hall and spread into the yards and cellblocks.

One convict was killed, several wounded and $1 million worth of damage done in the April rioting. Damage was confined to two cell-blocks in July.

A Condensation of Late Developments

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill's government Tuesday night won the decisive phase of its battle to return Britain's nationalized trucking industry to private ownership. The Conservative government's measure advanced through second reading—the key step—in the house of commons. The Conservatives have said they also will de-nationalize the iron and steel industry, but the fight on that will come later.

HANOI, INDO-CHINA (AP) — French union troops finally have drawn a Communist-led Vietminh division of possibly 15,000 men into pitched battle on a field chosen by the French and had it a severe beating, the French announced Tuesday. The French said they had killed at least 400 and wounded many more. A French high command spokesman said the knockout battle took place at Chan Mong, 60 miles northwest of Hanoi.

BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA (AP) — Argentina's federal police said Tuesday they had broken up a gang of smugglers who used airplanes to transport 10 million pesos ($725,000) worth of goods between Argentina and Uruguay. The gang smuggled in from Uruguay such articles as automobiles, refrigerator parts and medicines, officers said.

ROME (AP) — An eight-nation emergency committee was set up by FAO Tuesday to rush food aid to Yugoslavia where drought, frost and bad weather have ruined crops and brought serious hunger. The Food and Agriculture organization reported. Marshal Tito's country urgently needs $85 million worth of food and seed—before winter closes the mountain roads if possible.

Taft Disfavors Any Outlawing Of Bargaining

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Taft said Tuesday there undoubtedly will be a move in the next congress to outlaw industry-wide bargaining but that as of now, at least, he is against the proposal.

Such a plan would require unions to bargain on a local or regional basis, so as to decrease their power to shut down entire industries of multi-plant companies by means of strikes.

Taft told a news conference that another move toward amending the Taft-Hartley act in the new congress probably will relate to union welfare funds.

Supervise Employee Benefits

There have been many suggestions that the government should have some supervision over employer-financed funds for employee benefits. The largest such fund is the $100 million one operated by John L. Lewis for soft coal miners.

Taft said he felt the national emergency provisions of the T-H act should be retained substantially as now written. He said it was his idea to leave them alone for two or three years to see how they work "under a sympathetic administration."

Truman Is Criticized

President Truman has been widely criticized by Taft and others for failure to invoke the T-H law's emergency provisions in major strikes, such as last summer's two-month steel strike.

The law allows appointment of a fact-finding board to report on issues involved in such labor disputes, but prohibits any settlement recommendations.

The president, on receiving the report, seek a court injunction to stop a strike for as long as 80 days. After that, congress may pass special legislation to deal with the situation.

Still Favors Congress Power

Taft said Tuesday he still favors leaving the final step to congress if an emergency labor dispute still exists after the 80-day no-strike injunction expires.

Government seizure of the industry or a longer-than-80-day injunction are other final steps which have been considered in the past.

The senator said he doesn't plan any moves to legislate present Truman appointees off the national labor relations board, which administers the T-H act.

Favors NLRB Revision

Taft said he favored revising some of the functions of the NLRB and its general counsel. Another change he is known to favor is requiring non-Communist oaths from employers as well as union leaders, before they can avail themselves of the T-H act's provisions. The loyalty pledges are required now only from union officers.

Women Cherish Integrity, Peace and Order

500,000 Greet General In Capital

Parade Route Packed With Well-Wishers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Half a million people packed along a parade route Tuesday to give Dwight D. Eisenhower a hearty roar of welcome to the national capital.

The surge of cheers and hand-claps rolled for miles along the flag-decked streets, pacing the appearance of the light brown open car in which rode the No. 1 citizen of this city and of the nation, the next president.

He started out from National airport by sitting more or less sedately in the right-hand corner of the rear seat, waving occasionally.

Ike Spreads Enthusiasm

Then the crowds grew denser as the procession rolled across the Potomac river past the Lincoln Memorial and into city streets, and the enthusiasm infected him. Eisenhower grinned broadly, climbed up onto the back seat of his car, waved first with one hand, then the other, and finally with both. Then he flashed the old prizefighter's signal of victory, the clasped hands shaken overhead.

The crowd was a cross section of the capital's population. Everyone seemed to have turned out. Government workers had been released from work to join the welcome.

Blind Woman Comes

Standing along the curb on Constitution avenue was one who came to greet the President-elect, but not to see him — a blind woman, her seeing eye dog at her side, her face turning in the direction of the passing motorcade as she waved and smiled.

As the motorcade headed down Constitution avenue, employees in government buildings jammed all available windows and stood packed along steps and on the roofs.

Then the motorcade passed through cordon of army, navy, marine and air force units, flanking Pennsylvania avenue at the White House.

And the conferences on momentous problems began in the protected quiet of the White House, in sudden and striking contrast with the unbridled uproar of the White House.

Members of the British Commonwealth were reported to have given support to the proposal of V. K. Krishna Menon, India, who was said to be extremely irritated that the United States reacted so quickly in opposition to key points of his resolution.

In London, a well qualified diplomat expressed the belief that the New Delhi government would not have come forward with its proposal unless it was satisfied Red China would accept the main objectives could be met.

All aboard the ill-fated ship were military personnel. These included two English soldiers, who — according to one report — walked away from the scattered and flaming wreckage to nearby U. S. highway 10 minutes after the fatal crash at 2:30 p.m.

The plane was the fourth C-119 Flying Boxcar to crash in 11 days.

Civil aeronautics administration investigators said "propeller trouble" apparently caused one motor of the transport to shake loose. The plane crashed as it tried to circle for an emergency landing at the Billings airport.

Motor Drops from Ship

The faulty motor dropped from the ship as it crossed over highway 10 several miles north of the crash scene.

Investigators said they learned the twin-engined plane was flying at 9,000 feet when the engine trouble developed.

The plane was bound from Edmonton, Alberta, to Denver.

Police Sgt. V. L. Malone of Billings, one of the first to reach the scene, said all of the survivors were "so dazed none could talk."

He said it "seemed that the only ones who survived were thrown clear" by explosions that ripped through the flaming wreckage.

Made Refueling Stop

The plane had stopped shortly before the crash at the Great Falls air base, 225 miles northeast of Billings, to refuel.

In Washington, the air force said that there was no intention to ground C-119's "unless a pattern of mechanical failure is established by the accident investigations which are now in progress."

Ike to Confer With Party Chiefs Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio said President-elect Eisenhower will be asked at a conference in New York today to "point the way" on a half-dozen pressing legislative issues in the new congress.

Taft told reporters he and Rep. Joseph Martin of Massachusetts, scheduled to become speaker of the new house, will lay before Eisenhower a report on problems that will need early attention of congress.

The Ohio senator said Eisenhowers views would be asked on taxes, budget reduction, economic controls, revision of the Taft-Hartley act, proposed social security expansion and the reciprocal trade agreements program.

"There are half-a-dozen things that ought to be started in one way or another," Taft said. "It will be up to Gen. Eisenhower to point the way for either action on these matters or some sort of study of the questions involved."

Taft also disclosed that he had made some cabinet recommendations to Eisenhower, but the Ohio senator declined to mention any names.

Twelve days ago, a section of Smith's aorta, one of the main arteries, was removed from his abdomen because it was about to burst. The section was replaced with a 5-inch segment of the same artery taken from a 26-year-old traffic victim.

A surgeon said he knows of no other case in which replacements of an artery in the abdomen has been successful. Doctors said that aorta grafts in the chest have been successful. The operation is always dangerous.

Smith was in more danger than most patients because of his age and because he has a weak heart.

Surgeons said they had to perform the operation because Smith would have died if they hadn't.

The replaced section of aorta had an aneurism. This is something like a "blister" on a tire inner tube. If the "blister" burst, Smith would have died.

Sunday, Smith took his first steps since the operation.

Revenue Head Switches Job In Shakeup

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. internal revenue commissioner John B. Dunlap, who figured recently as a target of Republican congressional fire, was appointed to a new post Monday as chief of the tax bureau's Texas-Oklahoma district.

John S. Graham, 47, assistant secretary of the treasury, was named acting commissioner to succeed Dunlap. Graham will take office today.

Both appointments were announced by Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder.

$1,500-a-Year Salary Cut

In stepping down from the nation's No. 1 tax-collecting post Dunlap suffers a $1,500-a-year salary cut, but acquires civil service protection against possible dismissal under the incoming Republican administration which takes over on Jan. 20.

Dunlap's new job pays $13,500 a year.

Graham, a native of Reading, Mass., was raised in Winston-Salem, N.C., where his father was an executive and director of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company.

Snyder and Dunlap Charged
Both Snyder and Dunlap were singled out for criticism by Rep. John W. Byrnes (R-Wis.) in a statement on Oct. 1 accusing them of attempting to engineer a "gross cover-up" in connection with multi-million-dollar federal tax cases involving the movie industry.

Snyder denounced the Wisconsin legislator's charges as "politically inspired" and "false." Dunlap called it a last-minute political "dirty deal" on the eve of the Nov. 4 presidential election.

Baptists Take Issue With Catholic Church On Church-School Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Baptist church official Monday took issue with the stand of the Roman Catholic bishops of America that the government should give financial aid to church-supported schools.

Joseph W. Dawson, executive director of the Baptist joint committee on public affairs, issued a statement saying denial of federal funds to church schools did not mean the government "is or should be hostile to religion."

"It is not the function of government to aid religious financial needs or to participate in the affairs of church," he asserted.

Dawson's statement was a response to a 3,000-word statement issued by the Catholic bishops after the annual meeting here last week.

Mrs. Turnbull found that her sex was the greatest obstacle in her career as a woman editor but not an obstacle that could not be overcome.

"At first, the Cedar Falls community didn't take too kindly or too seriously to me," she said. After 10 years as the Daily Record's editor, however, she feels that she has gained the confidence and respect of her community.

Good to Get Experience

Mrs. Turnbull pointed out the small community paper as an ideal place for a beginning reporter to gain experience.

"It is on a small town daily that a reporter gets to know human relations so much easier than on a larger paper," she said. "News from a small community comes from word of mouth."

"Accuracy, correct spelling and a well-rounded education are important characteristics of a good community reporter," Mrs. Turnbull continued, "as many small town papers don't have copyreaders to correct the reporter's mistakes."

Stresses Experience Value

She also stressed the value of experience with, "Experience is wonderful. It enables you to make a mistake so you'll never do it again."

This Week We Pick Iowa—

This is the next-to-last week of trying to pick winners in this upset-filled season.

It seems the only way to pick games this year is to pick a slight underdog to win the tilt and then cross your fingers to the final gun.

As you've undoubtedly noticed we've picked Iowa to lose week after week despite what our heart told us.

But we're getting tired of now and then missing the outcome of games involving our own school.

The two upset wins in the conference by Iowa have left a "successor season" taste in the mouths of most Hawkeyes. If Iowa had made a better showing against Illinois, even the most sour Hawk follower would have believed that Iowa is on the upgrade.

We're satisfied with the season. The spirit and determination shown, especially in games of the second half of the season, is a tribute to the varsity coaching staff of Evey, Flora, Elliott, Piro and Kodros.

The young players, most of them up from a so-so 1951 junior varsity team, have used the fundamentals and amazing determination to play a never-say-die brand of ball not seen here in years.

The team this week should be at a high peak mentally and will be more physically set than it was against Northwestern last Saturday.

So we're going to pick our Hawks to upset a good Notre Dame team Saturday.

The Irish have faced the two top teams in the nation—Oklahoma and Michigan State—on successive weekends and naturally took the physical beating that strong teams hand each other.

They can't possibly be at a physical peak now.

Mentally they face the let-down that follows playing two such teams. They are scheduled to play a second-division Big Ten team, and, although they certainly aren't going to underrate our Hawks, they won't be able to do as mentally set as they were the past two weeks.

The Irish are a traditional rival and the Hawks must play their best.

In the top game in the nation, the UCLA-Southern Cal clash, we're picking a slight upset and going along with Paul Cameron and his Uclan mates by a point.

Here are this week's picks by staffer Dick Mau and myself—

BENDER

Iowa over Notre Dame by 7	Florida over Miami (Fla.) by 9
Michigan over Ohio State by 3	Kansas over Missouri by 6
Illinois over Northwestern by 14	California over Stanford by 14
Wisconsin over Minnesota by 9	Holy Cross over Temple by 13
Purdue over Indiana by 20	Tennessee over Kentucky by 13
Michigan St. over Marquette by 21	Oregon State over Oregon by 9
Kansas State over Iowa State by 3	Villanova over Boston U. by 14
Okl. A&M over Wash. St. by 3	Princeton over Dartmouth by 21
UCLA over USC by 1	Columbia over Brown by 14
Pitt over Penn State by 6	MAU
Iowa	Mich. State	Florida	Oregon State
Michigan	Kansas State	Kansas	Villanova
Illinois	Oklahoma A&G	California	Maryland
Wisconsin	UCLA	Holy Cross	Princeton
Purdue	Pitt	Tennessee	Columbia

The running of Binkey Broeder and Bobby Stearnes against Northwestern moved them into the first and second spots among Iowa rushers. Broeder has 290 yards and an average of 3.7 and Stearnes—who made 123 vs. Northwestern—is second with 226 and 2.6. Stearnes, who has 86 carries to rank as the busiest rusher, moved up from sixth place. Third is Dusty Rice, 211 and 2.8.

Injured Paul Kemp leads the team on percentage of passes completed with 12 of 25 tries for 142 yards and one touchdown. Burt Britzmann has completed 31 of 79 for 397 yards, two touchdowns and a .380 percentage.

Jack Hess is second in passing yardage with 179 yards on seven completions.

Dan McBride has caught 24 passes, an all-time Iowa mark, for 358 yards and three scores. Rice and Bill Fenton each have caught seven, for 108 and 82 yards, respectively. Stearnes has caught only five passes but his 111 yards puts him second in that department.

Badgers Need Win For Bowl Bid

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Ivy Williamson gets his fourth crack in four years at the Big Ten title Saturday—and this time the chips are all his for the playing.

A victory for his Wisconsin Badgers over Minnesota in the 1952 windup will assure the school of at least a share of the championship, its first in 40 years, and likely the Western Conference Rose Bowl bid.

A lot of other things could happen as the scrambled race ends. But if Wisconsin wins, it makes no difference how Michigan and Ohio State fare at Columbus or how Purdue and Indiana do at Lafayette. The Badgers are in for a slice of the crown. It's the first time in Williamson's tenure that it's been that clear cut.

Down to the Wire

In each of the three preceding years, since Williamson replaced Harry Stuhldreher as head coach here, the Badgers have come down to the wire with a chance for the championship. But each time they needed help—and didn't get it.

The first year, 1949, a victory combination of Wisconsin over Minnesota and Michigan over Ohio State would have turned the trick. Wisconsin lost, though, 14-6, and Ohio State tied. So the Buckeyes went to the Rose Bowl and the Badgers finished fourth.

The 1950 Wisconsin needed—and got—a 14-0 victory over Minnesota. But Michigan upset Ohio State in snowstorm and went to Pasadena on New Year's day. Wisconsin tied for second.

More Complicated

Last year it was a bit more complicated. Wisconsin had to beat Minnesota, of course, but required also a Northwestern triumph over Illinois and an Indiana win over Purdue. The Badgers won, 30-6, but Illinois tripped Northwestern and Purdue knocked over Indiana. The Illini went west and the Badgers settled for third.

Williamson's won-lost record since he took over here is one of the best in the Big Ten at 17-6-2, but Wisconsin's last taste of the title was way back in 1912.

Illini Cage Coach Regards More Than 5 As Regulars for Him

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The University of Illinois, ranked No. 1 nationally in many pre-season basketball polls, will not have a five-man team this season, says Coach Harry Combes.

Combes is a 38-year-old quiet-spoken mentor who has guided the Illini to three Big Ten titles—two in a row—since taking over the basketball job six winters ago. He doesn't mean to imply that he has so much talent he just can't pick five men.

"We have the talent, all right," he said, "but right now I don't know who will be in our starting five. And probably throughout the season we'll do so much substituting with several boys that we won't be regarded as a five-man club."

On Top of Heap

As for being picked on top of the heap, Combes greets the predictions with shudders.

"What can a coach do about such a thing?" he said. "Such pre-season rating puts the players and coach under terrific pressure."

Combes said he thought UCLA, LaSalle, Kansas State, Minnesota and Indiana should rate right up on top nationally.

Maybe Illinois'

"Maybe Illinois should be with them," he conceded. "We have a senior squad and all that. But I think that the winner of the Big Ten title this year will lose four games and a loss of five may be

Takes Title

By JACK STERN

Alpha Tau Omega surprised Sigma Chi, 20-6, and Phi Kappa Psi ground out a 12-0 victory over Phi Kappa, Tuesday, to move into Thursday's semi-final round of the Social fraternity league play-offs.

Alpha Kappa Kappa won the Professional fraternity league title Saturday, by whipping Phi Beta Pi, 20-12. It was the second time this season the Phi Betas fell before an AKK team. In regular season play AKK triumphed, 19-13.

In the Quadrangle league play-offs East Tower advanced to the finals by nipping Lower D, 15-12. East Tower faces Upper A for the championship Saturday morning.

Alpha Tau Omega, the most improved team in the Social league, passed their way over Sigma Chi, 20-6. Frank Tucker's three scoring pitches paved the way for AKK.

Trailing by 7-6 at halftime, Sigma Chi's defense fell apart in the last half when Tucker hit Dave Christiansen with a 40 yard pay-off pass and then connected with Gordie Felper for eight yards and a third score. Felper flipped to Neil Adams for the 20th ATOT point.

In the first half Tucker's pitches moved Alpha Tau Omega to the Sigma Chi 25 yard line. A Tucker to Christiansen pass produced the opening score. Sigma Chi battled back when Dick Thompson hit John Hoskins with a scoring pass.

After a scoreless first half, Phi Kappa Psi unleashed a potent last period scoring attack to smother Phi Kappa, 12-0.

Heinie Taylor pegged a 15 yard pass to Jim Minor for the first Phi Psi score. The touchdown ended a 40 yard sustained drive.

A few minutes later Taylor found Al Hass alone in the end zone with a 10 yard throw good for six more Phi Psi points.

Thursday's semi's pit Phi Delta Theta against Alpha Tau Omega and Phi Kappa Psi against Phi Gamma Delta.

Don't Stress Fundamentals

"But mainly I think the trouble may be attributed to failure of today's coaches to stress such fundamentals as ball-holding. Coaches are so busy with these modern offenses they don't have time for such things."

SC mentor Jess Hill put it this way: "I am confident these are the two best defensive teams in the United States."

The rival tailbacks in the single wing teams, Paul Cameron of UCLA and Jim Sears of the Trojans, may likely dominate the offensive details in the nationally televised game.

But it could be either or both will do it in reverse fashion, if the respective defensive units perform as they have most of the season in helping each team to eight straight victories.

Consider the linebackers, all-American candidate Donn Moomaw, a 6-foot-4, 220 pounder, and his teammate, 178-pound Terry Debay, who backs up the UCLA line.

Their opposite numbers of USC are George Timberlake, 6-2, 200 pounds, and his able assistant, Marvin Goux, 5-10 and 179 pounds.

In almost all the early games for both teams, victory—and the touchdowns—were set up or scored by the defensive platoons.

Mutual foes for the most part give SC an edge—a slight one—good enough to tie."

Four players on the Illini squad are just about set as starters. They are John Kerr, junior center who towers 6-10; forwards Irv Bemoras, 6-3½ senior, and Clive Follmer, 6-4 senior; and guard Jim Bredar, 5-11, senior.

Bob Peterson, 6-8, 235-pound senior center, is ready to divide duty with Kerr as he did in the Illini's Big Ten title drive last season.

Ed Macauley, 6-2, 200 pounds, and his mate, 6-4 senior, had 162 points. Cousy and Macauley, playing in seven games, had 155 points and 145 points, respectively.

Coaches Concerned Over 'Fumbleitis'

NEW YORK (AP)—Several prominent coaches expressed concern Tuesday over the unusual number of costly fumbles in college football this year, but there was no general agreement on the cause or cure of the malady.

The siege of "fumbleitis"—which has decided many of the season's most important games—was attributed variously to rise of the T-formation, the streamlined shape of modern football and simply to hard, high tackling.

It was the third big game in which fumbles had played an important part for Notre Dame. There were 21 fumbles in the Notre Dame-Purdue game, won by Notre Dame 26-14. The Boilermakers fumbled 11 times and lost the ball eight times to the Irish. Notre Dame fumbled 10 times and lost three.

There were 19 fumbles in the Notre Dame-Oklahoma game a week ago, with the Irish recovering five of the Sooners' nine bobbles and all but two of their own 10 misfires. Fumbles were mainly responsible for Notre Dame's 27-21 upset victory.

Two old hands at professional coaching also took note of the outbreak of fumbles in college football.

"The boys just aren't taught to hold the ball today the way they were in the old days," said Earl (Greasy) Neale, former coach of the Philadelphia Eagles. "Most of the ball-carrying today is out in the open and the boys are always ready to hand off or lateral," said the New York Giants' Steve Owen. "As a result, they hold the ball too loose. It's bound to get away in a hard tackle."

Taft Heeds Eisenhower's Request for Advice On New Top-Level Government Appointments

WASHINGTON (P) — Sen. Robert A. Taft disclosed Tuesday that President-elect Eisenhower has asked him for suggestions on top-level government appointments, including cabinet posts, when the new Republican administration takes over Jan. 20.

Taft said he had made several suggestions, but declined to name those he supported.

The Ohio senator told a news conference he will confer with Eisenhower in New York Wednesday and will ask the President-elect to set a timetable for pressing foreign and domestic legislation confronting the new Republican-controlled 83d congress.

Comments on Key Posts

Taft also commented that he does not believe it will be necessary for Eisenhower to intervene in the selection of GOP senators for key senate posts.

Collaboration between Eisenhower and the senator he defeated for the Republican nomination seemed in line with statements issued after their campaign conference in New York city. Taft said then Eisenhower had assured him there would be no discrimination against Taft supporters in passing out federal appointments.

Discounting talk of friction over the job of GOP floor leader, Taft said he thinks his colleagues will fill major posts "without any battle."

Declines Preference

He withheld comment, however, on whether he wants the floor leadership for himself or would prefer to continue in his old role as chairman of the GOP policy committee.

In the past, floor leaders have worked in close liaison with the White House, generally being summoned to weekly conferences with the president, while policy chairmen haven't always received such invitations.

After his news conference, Taft conferred with house Republican leader Joe Martin of Massachusetts, who is scheduled to become speaker. Martin said he agreed with Taft that Eisenhower should be asked to set priorities on the following pressing items of legislation:

Taft Gives List

1. The budget, including possible creation of a congressional budget commission to keep closer tabs on spending.

2. Taxes, including reductions of more than eight billion dollars in annual revenue scheduled under present laws to take effect in 1953 and 1954.

3. The question of whether the president's power to reorganize government agencies, scheduled to expire in April, should be renewed.

4. Possible extension of price, wage and rent controls, as well as allocation power, which expire in the period between April 30 and June 30. Taft said he had heard that President Truman might act to end all such powers before he goes out of office on Jan. 20.

Works on Amendments

5. Action on proposed amendments to the Taft-Hartley labor law. Taft said he was working on some amendments.

6. Possible creation of a commission to study the federal government's place in handling social welfare, health, housing and social security problems.

7. Possible extension of a reciprocal trade agreements program, which expires next year under present laws.

8. New authorizations for foreign aid.

Community Chest Short of '52 Quota

The Iowa City Community Chest had received a total of $29,544.77 by noon Tuesday. The amount is still short of the $35,240 quota for 1952. However, contributions are still being collected.

The public service units and the residential division have exceeded their quotas with receipts of $1,982.55 and $5,269.35 respectively. This gives the public service units 120% of their quota and the residential division 105% of theirs.

Following these two divisions are: the university, including faculty and staff members, 93% of its quota; business firms and employees, 86%; special contributions from professional people, clubs and organizations, 36%; and the United Defense Fund which gathers contributions from Johnson county outside of the chest area, 4%.

Panel Discusses Problems of Aged People

FOUR CONTRIBUTORS OF INFORMATION about our aging population exchange facts and ideas during a brief recess at the first Iowa Conference on Gerontology held this week at SUI. The four, who appeared together in a panel discussion, are (from left) Steven Horvath, professor of physiology in the university college of medicine; Wilma Donahue, chairman of the institute for human adjustment at the University of Michigan; Hew Roberts, Iowa professor of adult education, and Helen Ringe of the bureau of labor statistics, Washington, D.C.

Symposiums to End Gerontology Conference

Final sessions of the first Iowa Conference on Gerontology today will feature both a morning and an afternoon symposium in which SUI faculty and visiting speakers will participate.

"Adding Life to Years" will be the theme of the symposium which begins at 9 a.m. in the lounge of the Iowa Center for Continuation Study, former Law commons, with Dean Dewey B. Stuit, of the college of liberal arts presiding.

Other participants will include Ralph Shannon, publisher of the Washington Evening Journal, Edward Wieland, Iowa State department of welfare; Prof. Steven M. Horvath of the college of medicine and Prof. James B. Stroud, of the college of education.

Following the morning symposium all participants will adjourn to the Iowa Memorial Union, where group conferences will be held in the foyer and in conference rooms, followed by a cafeteria luncheon.

The symposium on "Your University at Work for the Aging" will get under way at 1:30 p.m. in the union, presided over by Provost Harvey H. Davis. Participants include Dean Myrtle E. Kitchell, of the college of nursing; Dean Bruce E. Mahan, extension division; Dr. Willis M. Fowler, college of medicine, and Horvath.

Following the afternoon symposium, an address at 2:30 p.m. by SUI Professor Virgil M. Hancher on "Accepting the Challenge" will conclude the first Iowa conference on gerontology. He will speak in the Iowa Memorial Union's river room.

Tuesday conferees heard discussions of current problems in gerontology, both in Iowa and in the nation as a whole. Last night they heard Wilma Donahue of the University of Michigan's institute for human adjustment speak on "Action for the Aging", at a banquet in the River room.

Wednesday conferees heard discussions of current problems in gerontology, both in Iowa and in the nation as a whole. Last night they heard Wilma Donahue of the University of Michigan's institute for human adjustment speak on "Action for the Aging", at a banquet in the River room.

through the microphones and through both the WSU (amplitude modulation) and KSU (frequency modulation) transmitters operated by the university. Likewise, in the home of the listener, two radio receivers must be used to get the binaural effect — a regular (AM) set, tuned to WSU at 910 kilocycles, and an FM set, tuned to 91.7 megacycles. The sets should be spaced about 10 feet apart in the room, with the listener seated at an equal distance from each receiver.

Menzer Explains Process

He explains the process as follows:

Binaural broadcasting creates a three-dimensional effect comparable to that obtained with the stereoscope in vision, when pictures are taken of the same object with two cameras located at slightly different angles from the subject. Program sounds appear to come from the actual location of the sound source, and if the source moves during the program the listener is aware of it.

To create this effect, the station will use two microphones in the studio, spaced about the same distance apart as the human ears. The ears, in effect, are transferred to the location of the microphones and the slight differences in time of arrival of the sounds at the two ears is maintained.

British Oppose Major Korean Offensive

Tokyo AP Chief
Gives Ally's Views

What to do about Korea is a momentous question. President-elect Eisenhower will fly to Korea to try to find some of the answers. Any major decisions presumably will be made in full consultation with other United Nations which have sent forces to Korea. What does Britain, a major ally in Korea, think of the view often expressed in U.S. circles of increasing the military pressure on the Communists? Robert Eunson, chief of the Associated Press bureau in Tokyo, has gone to the best British sources in Tokyo. He here presents their thinking.

By ROBERT EUNSON

TOKYO (AP) — High British sources here believe President-elect Eisenhower will find Britain reluctant to go along if he decides to heat up the Korean war.

Some U.S. military leaders in the Far East are hoping Eisenhower will decide after his trip out here to recommend that the United Nations build up their forces and drive the Chinese back to Manchuria.

The sentiment along well-informed British circles in Tokyo is that Britain would oppose a major offensive at this time.

British Oppose Offensive

Here are some of the reasons why they believe Britain would oppose any such move now:

1. They say Communist aggression in Korea has been stopped. At Attacking now would mean lengthening supply lines and any new line farther north or on the Yalu would be no better than the present front.

2. An offensive large enough to bring a military settlement would require transferring troops to Korea from other trouble spots of the world, weakening the West's position elsewhere.

3. They say Russia is charging Red China huge amounts for arms and supplies. If opposing forces continue the present large-scale artillery bombardments, China will be the first to run out of money.

Believe China Will Tire

4. They say China one day will get tired of fighting Russia's war for her and withdraw from Korea.

All this does not square with the thinking of some U.S. military leaders here who want action if they cannot get an armistice.

Their argument is that the war is tying down too many men and using up too many supplies, and that a push now is in order to force the Chinese to accept an armistice or get out of Korea.

Churchill Concurs

While Prime Minister Winston Churchill recently expressed similar views, British sources here still feel Britain would not favor a new offensive of the kind necessary to force a decision.

Of course, these circles realize that if the U.S. joint chiefs of staff want to pull an end run or try a smash through center, it would be largely a U.S. affair anyway.

The British commonwealth division in Korea, which made some heroic stands early in the war, has not been engaged in any sizable action for several months. The Reds just haven't cared to attack positions which the British hold.

British Lose 822

The war office in London said earlier this month that the war in Korea so far had cost Britain 505 dead, 192 missing, another 195 as prisoners and 1,771 wounded. This is but a fraction of U.S. casualties.

In any case, informed British sources say there will be no discussions in Tokyo between Britain and the U.S. on the pros and cons of seeking a military decision in Korea.

Such discussions will take place either in London or Washington.

SUI Attracts Veterans Under Korean GI Bill

Veterans are enrolling at SUI again, but it won't be anything like last time. About 150 veterans are now attending under the provisions of public law 550, the Korean GI bill, and some 300 are expected next semester, according to William D. Coder, head of veterans service.

These figures are small, compared with the 5,665 World War II veterans who enrolled in September, 1947, the peak semester for veterans enrollment. Authority then was public law 346, the first GI bill, which is still in effect in some cases. About 630 persons still attend SUI under its provisions, he said.

New Law Differs

The new law provides $110 per month subsistence allowance to unmarried veterans, as against the old one's $75. However, the new law is different. The old law also provided for fees (tuition, etc.) and supplies up to $500 per school year, while the new bill has no such provision.

This provision would influence the veteran enrollee to favor a state school, such as SUI and Iowa State college, over private schools where tuition is higher, Coder said.

Persons in the service June 27, 1950, or who entered thereafter, are eligible for training under public law 550. It was approved Aug. 20, 1952 for a period of four years. Veterans attending SUI under its provisions have not yet
